ABC was the first to get going, but the other nets have caught up and as of last weekend were nearly ready for the deluge of talent, and extra equipment technicians expected to descend as soon as the Democrats wind up their Chicago clambake.

Breakdown of Coverage

The three tv nets account for the great majority. Roughly, here's the way they're figured to swarm into Frisco:

ABC—Bringing about 150 technicians and 75 to 100 editorial and executive personnel in from Chicago, New York and Hollywood. This is the smallest influx of the majors, because ABC has its owned - and-operated KGO in Frisco, from which it will draw considerable help. Heading up the ABC operation will be John Daly, Tom Velotta, Don Coe and Fritz Littlejohn on the news side; Frank Marx and Bill Trevarthen will oversee the engineering.

NBC—Bringing in 340 persons from Chicago, New York and Hollywood, with William R. McAndrew heading up the news operation and Tom Phelan the engineering. The net figures on originating seven tv shows from Frisco, more than either CBS or ABC. These will be the John Cameron Swayze "Caravan," inserts for "Home," "Youth Wants to Know," "Outlook," "Today," "American Forum of the Air" and "Meet the Press."

CBS— Bringing in 320 persons from Chicago, New York and Hollywood, with Sig Mickelson having overall control and Don Hewitt director in charge of the pool cameras. Shows originating from Frisco will include "Face the Nation," "Good Morning" and the news shows of Walter Cronkite, Doug Edwards and Charles Collingwood.

The three nets have built the equivalent of 15-room houses in the north wing of the Cow Palace, each with its own VIP room, switchboards, commercial rooms and dressing rooms. Cost of these 15-room houses is figured at upwards of $50,000 apiece: this includes for instance, ABC's $15,000 for air-conditioning, a very dubious necessity in fog-cooled Frisco.

In addition, the north wing houses MBS, several independents, some phone company installations and the Ampex tape recorder studio. Ampex, which manufactures its tv recorder in suburban Redwood City, has offered to tape parts of the convention for smaller television stations free, and is sending a half-dozen recorders to the Cow Palace to do the job.

Some 90 feet above the main auditorium, at the east end, are more tv and radio booths, again mostly tv. Here the directors will sit, calling the shots on the six fixed floor cameras, on the cameras alongside them and on any available mobile cameras— ABC claims a "victory" in this latter category, with a 10-ounce hand model.

Also roosting in this aerie will be top newsmen for the nets, monitoring information from their floormen and directing the floor operation.

Most of the 49,000 square feet of the Cow Palace's south wing is devoted to the press, with the wire services preempting the biggest chunks of space.

Betty Furness' 60 Commercials

The auditorium itself is being fitted out to seat just under 15,000 persons, about 2800 less than it usually accommodates. This figure includes seats for 950 working press around the rostum at the hall's eastern end, and main-floor seats for 1323 delegates.

It is almost impossible to make any kind of accurate accounting on who is spending what for the radio-tv coverage.

CBS, for instance, has installed some special facilities for the 60-odd commercials Betty Furness is expected to do in the convention's four days at the Cow Palace. But the sponsor, Westinghouse, and Westinghouse's ad agency, Ketchum, Macleod & Grove, are sending 30 persons out from the east to make sure everything goes smoothly with the commercials—so who hoists the bill on that?

How does ABC count the cost of its 10-ounce camera? NBC has had John Thompson, its Coast news chief headquartered at Hollywood, up here for weeks preparing for the convention, but he comes up regularly anyway. The editorial crew on which CBS' Walter Cronkite is anchor man consists of nine news executives, 20 editors, 10 writers and four desk assistants (that's Madison Avenue jargon for copyboy), but how many of these people would have been employed anyway?

BIG BRASS ON TAP

Sarnoffs, Stanton, Kintner, Etc., 'Casing' the Conventions

Chicago, Aug. 14.

The topline network executives out to observe the troops in action at the Democratic rally here this week are all slated to adhere to the "equal time" political protocal and will move on out to the Coast next week to be on hand for the Republican affair.

General David Sarnoff tops the RCA-NBC delegation, arriving yesterday (Mon.). NBC prez Robert Sarnoff planed in Sunday (12) and board chairman Sylvester (Pat) Weaver is due in today (Tues.). Trio will make the GOP circuit next week.

CBS prexy Frank Stanton heads the Columbia contingent which includes CBS-TV prez J. L. (Jack) Van Volkenburg; exec veepee Merle Jones; CBS Radio ad-promotion veep Jules Dundes; operations chief Ed Saxe, and sales management administrator William Fagan.

Prez Robert Kintner is here keeping his eye on his ABC platoons and will ditto next week in Frisco. Repping Mutual at both shows is Jack Poor.

KMOX TUNES UP FOR SYMINGTON'S FANS

St. Louis, Aug. 14.

With Missouri's U. S. Senator, W. Stuart Symington, St. Louis, a dark horse for the Democratic presidential nomination, KMOX, the local CBS outlet is covering this shindig for local consumption and in addition will also air the doings of the Republican delegates at their San Francisco powwow. Rex Davis, the station's news editor, has been given the assignment to ferret out the back room confabs as they affect Missouri and Illinois political figures.

In addition Davis is expected to grab big names of both political parties for interviews on their opinions on the result of the selections of the delegates and the outcome of the November election. Davis has been with KMOX for 10 years. The broadcasts are being jointly bankrolled by the Frisco Railroad, Independent Grocers of America and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Dems Run Over?

Continued from page 27

ing up in the Democratic delegation ranks now that former President Harry Truman has thrown his weight behind New York Governor Averell Harriman's bid for the top slot, the web factotums aren't ignoring the possibility they may have two big shows on their hands at the same time.

Even if the Dems complete their business sometime this weekend, as most observers expect, any extension of their conclave beyond Friday night would mess up the network's carefully laid plans to make the shift to Frisco to set up for the GOP.

Among the many rumors winging around the Conrad Hilton and International Amphitheatre convention focal points is the flyer that should the Dems still be in session next Monday, the Republicans may go into an immediate recess until they can take over the spotlight solo.

But whatever transpires here the balance of the week, the radio-tv boys feel they're ready to cope with the situation. All three video networks have skeleton news operations working the Frisco front this week for the Republican's pre-convention activities. These task forces will be augmented if need be by reserves dispatched from Chicago to pick up the GOP political ball.

Daly: 'Don't Forget ABC'

Chicago, Aug. 15.

As host of CBS-TV's "What's My Line," ABC veepee and convention anchor man John Daly played straightman to a quartet of CBS radio-tv correspondents who popped up on the paneler as "mystery guests" Sunday night (12). They were Walter Cronkite, Eric Sevareid, Charles Collingwood and Robert Trout.

During the byplay with his colleagues, Daly got in a "loud and clear" plug that his network also will be covering the Democrat's clambake.

Clients Welcome Politico Breather

Far from being miffed over political convention preemptions, sponsors in prime network time periods are actually pleased with the turn of events which will permit for a "balancing of the budgets" this week and next week.

There's hardly a major program entry riding the tv networks in the evening that hasn't exceeded its total production budget for the season by at least $50,000, and in many instances reaching $100,000 and more. Under the preemption rebate provided by the networks as shows get knocked off during the two-week convention period, the readjustment will permit them to bring their budgets in line with original schedules. In fact, nobody gets hurt much since the networks salvage the coin from the convention sponsorships.

Chi's 'Aching Back' Conclave

Continued from page 27

basic elasticity of the tv news operations were brought into play even before the convention proper got under way. The combined forces of the tv trio went into fast action over the weekend touched off by Truman's bombshell announcement at his Saturday (11) press session that he was supporting Harriman. What was expected to be a rather leisurely day devoted to rehearsals out at the Amphitheatre and last minute staff briefings at the Hilton studio developed into the hottest news day of a routine week of pre-convention jockeying.

But the networks were set up and ready to go so that the rapid-fire round of switches to get the reactions to the former chief executive's surprise statement from all political camps was carried off without a hitch.

Sharpened Techniques

Perhaps more than anything else, the fact that network newsmen and technicians have had four years of handling rugged chores in the course of their regular day-to-day programming activities has sharpened their techniques and bolstered their poise. In short, they have been "learning by doing" with such regular entries as CBS-TV's nightly Doug Edwards newscasts, John Daly's ditto ABC-TV strip, NBC-TV's News Caravan and its "Wide Wide World" all of which routinely have put the mettle of men and equipment to the test.

Many of the wrinkles evolved over the past four years are being put to use here this week. The "electronic window" devised for Ed Murrow's "Person to Person" is a feature of CBS-TV's anchor studio, permitting commentator Walter Cronkite and the viewers a gander at the convention floor or a remote pickup while he's on camera. NBC-TV is using its "WWW" pattern for those cross-country caucus inserts for the hometown sidelights from newspaper offices around the nation.

There'll undoubtedly be a lot of battle scars before the curtain falls later this week. If four years ago was any indication there'll also be some outcroppings of competitive bitterness between the news hustlers in the wild scramble for beats. But overall, all hands are so much better briefed, better equipped and better prepared this year that the veterans of '52 are looking back to those hectic couple of weeks with a touch of nostalgia.

$17,000,000 Price Tag

In '52, all the excitements of pioneering and the pre-curtain jitters of a colossal premiere attended the convention coverage which marked the first time television lensed the political roundelays with the whole nation looking in. While there's no belittling the blood, sweat and fears that go into an operation of this magnitude bearing a $17,000,000 price tag, such is the managerial and technical maturity of the networks that this time they are working the mammoth task almost as if it were a routine assignment.

The "let's take this in stride" atmosphere is evident even though due to the vagaries of party politics the danger signals have been posted that the Dems may still be wrangling over their standard-bearers past the Friday night deadline thus causing an overlap with the Republican convention due to start Monday (20) in San Francisco. Now that Truman has given his blessings to New York's Governor Averell Harriman's bid for the nomination no one is sure just what course the Dems will pursue or how long it will take them to get there. What last week had looked to be a harmonious and dull rally with Adlai Stevenson rated as the odds-on favorite for an early ballot nomination, has now taken on the complexion of a real brawl.

And even if the Democrats finish roughly on schedule, the webs still have to make one of the most stupendous "jumps" in the annals of show business. The big show has to be struck here in Chi and re-set half way across the continent when the GOP takes over the spotlight next week in Frisco.

Four years ago there were few guide-rules and it was largely a matter of playing it by ear and hoping for the best. With the first one under their belts, the Sig Mickelsens, the Bill McAndrews and the Tommy Velottas started plotting their strategies for the '56 political outings almost before they broke camp in Chicago four summers ago. For each of the three webs, the specific physical layouts and staff assignments at the Amphitheatre and the Cow Palace on the Coast represent at least 18 months of concentrated blueprinting and planning.

NBC has built its tv control room around the "flow of information" principle so that all the dope from the legmen and the remote units spotted at key points along the convention beat are being funneled into a filter centre where they'll be screened before being passed on to director Ralph Peterson. CBS this year is using a central radio-tv news desk helmed by John Day which is serving as a clearinghouse and routing point for both media for the stuff dug up by the news staffers covering their respective aspects of the big show. ABC likewise has tightened up its operation for a more efficient channelling of news and assignments in and out of the Amphitheatre and Conrad Hilton convention headquarters.

Freeloaders

Continued from page 27

ls Vaughn (voice of RCA) Monroe as official greeter.

The Railroad press lounge, an innovation of the '48 conventions in Philadelphia, is also in business, serving cold and hot drinks, beer, snacks, and tv. Admission to this is by cards which accompany each set of press credentials.

Finally, of course, there are soft drinks at elbow's reach in every corner of the Amphitheatre and hotel h.q. In addition to the traditional Coca-Colas and Pepsi-Colas, the trade exhibit area, which netted the Democratic coffers $25,000, offers at least a dozen varieties of soft drinks.

And to get to this center of hospitality General Tires is again providing press buses from a number of hotels.

For those with champagne tastes and no deadlines, there are a record-breaking number of parties, many of them covered by tv, most of them available to bearers of a card marked "News."

Fanciest and smartest party of them all, however, tonight's late fete tossed by Perle "hostess with the mostest" Mesta, is limited to a lucky 350-400. CBS will cover this for the forthcoming Mesta televised biography on "Playhouse 90" on Dec. 6, but otherwise only a lucky few newsmen have received the coveted bids. The famous party-giver has been having a field day of tv appearances, including Sunday's (12) "What's My Line" stint. A show biz entry in her own right, Mme. Mesta promises to produce a dazzling array of Broadway and Hollywood names.

The top three are on 2

All three of New York's top three feature film programs are carried on WCBS-TV, channel 2.

THE LATE SHOW is number one...
THE EARLY SHOW is number two...
THE LATE MATINEE is number three.

Chances are this record will stand unbroken for a long, long time... because WCBS-TV has signed up two hundred and eighty more big films from the studios of Warner Brothers, Republic, and Columbia Pictures. The list of titles includes:

The Maltese Falcon
The Life of Emile Zola
Arsenic and Old Lace
The Inspector General
Watch on the Rhine
You'll Never Get Rich
Little Caesar
Christmas in Connecticut
Pennies from Heaven
George Washington Slept Here
Flamingo Road
Penny Serenade

These hits and many more will soon have their first New York telecasts on WCBS-TV—the station which (with good reason) wins the largest average audience in New York day and night.

Source: Nielsen, June 1956, Mon.-Fri. average rating

New York • CBS Owned • Represented by CBS Television Spot Sales

NOONTIME PULSE
With Ken Banghart, Ray Owen, Gabe Pressman, others
Producer-Writer: Len Weinles
Director: Howard Bayha
55 Mins.; Mon.-Fri., 12:05 p.m.
Participating
WRCA, New York

Firm in the belief that what's good for the goose is good for the gander, WRCA, N.Y., some months ago began its own "busy busy" early ayem version of NBC's "Monitor." Now, the network key, borrowing from itself, has gone and inserted a "Noontime Pulse," which kicked off a week ago Monday (6). It's very much like the original "plagiarist," which means it's snappy radio.

To judge by the segment caught last Thursday (9), however, the 12:05 to 1 p.m. doings play the straight music angle a little heavier than the wakeup WRCA'er. Ken Banghart, one of the station's sharpest newscasters, does the emceeing. He's part deejay, part interviewer and part reporter.

Maybe it was intentional, but Banghart gives off a sound like that of Bill Cullen, who fronts the first of the "Pulses." Quick chatter, cheery aspect are the motif, except for an inescapable dignity, which Cullen doesn't read into his act.

Banghart gets in that "getting around" aspect of "Pulse" by interviewing from his studio people on remote pickups from all parts of town. Fr'instance, he got over by mike to the Journal-American where he pumped a linotyper and a fashion editor. "Noontime Pulse" had begun browsing around the daily on Wednesday, object—as it always is with this format—to afford an insight into the machinations of the everyday folks. WRCA roving reporter Gabe Pressman and "Pulse" reporter Ray Owen are on-the-spot for both "Pulses" —another way to keep up the pace.

Banghart was Banghart in the five-minutes of news at 12:30; he was good. Art.

---

EAR ON CHICAGO
With Hugh Hill, others
Producer-narrator: Hill
25 Mins.; Sat., 6:05 p.m.
Sustaining
CBS, from Chicago

CBS previewed the Democratic National Convention Saturday (11) with a special 25-minute documentary whipped up by WBBM, its o.&o. Chicago outlet. Produced and narrated by Hugh Hill, WBBM special events director, the session threw the conclave into sharp focus via remotes from such points as the International Amphitheatre, plus the Conrad Hilton and Sheraton-Blackstone Hotels.

How the windy city prepared for the meet was ably outlined in Hill's roundup via a series of interviews. Leonard Reinsch, general manager of the convention, explained the technical problems his staff had to cope with but emphasized "everything's rolling on schedule." Likewise, the strain faced by large hotels in handling delegates and staffs of a major political convention was touched upon by Robert F. Quain, general manager of the Conrad Hilton and v.p. of the Hilton Hotels Corp.

Myriad of behind-the-scene convention details were graphically brought home to listeners as Hill discussed room allocations with a Sheraton-Blackstone exec, conversed with a Western Union official regarding the communications setup and drew reactions from Chicagoans who were lesser cogs in the overall operation. Doorman of the Sheraton-Blackstone, for example, reminisced that of the hundreds of politicos he had attended in previous conventions the late Vice-President Barkley was the most colorful.

On the whole, "Ear on Chicago" was a crisp presentation that showed the value of radio anew as an information medium. Gilb.

Britain's 'Biggest Yet' Hookup in Suez Crisis

London, Aug. 14.

A nationwide hookup, the biggest ever of its kind, was arranged for Sir Anthony Eden's announcement on the Suez Canal situation on Wed. (8) when home radio services of the BBC including their tv service joined forces for the first time with commercial networks in London, Birmingham and Manchester. It's estimated that the link provided a combined audience of 25,000,000. Transcriptions in 44 languages were relayed worldwide including Egypt.

The Premier's speech, lasting 13½ minutes, came from a BBC-TV studio in London, and no advertising was put out by the commercial outlets immediately preceding and following it.

CONVENTION FEVER
With Robert Trout
Producer-Director: George Vicas
Writer: Walter Wager
55 Mins.; Thurs. (9), 10:05 p.m.
CBS, from New York

That quadrennial madness known as the political conventions was edited into a nostalgic one-shot thriller-diller last week only a few days in advance of the Democratic hoopla in Chicago. CBS Public Affairs with the savvy Robert Trout at the narration helm harked back to the early part of the century to bring the voice of perennial Demo candidate William Jennings Bryan into the fray. In hop-skip-jump razzle-dazzle beamed forth the voices of such standard bearers or stalwarts of their parties as Wendell Willkie, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Senator Barkley, Senator Taft, Tom Dewey, Ike Eisenhower, et al. Here, too, was the "inside stuff" purveyed by the likes of James A. Farley, FDR's two-term frontman who soured on the boss' third term aspirations, and bigwig legislators and party leaders recruited as interviewees.

A good deal of the historical action covered the shenanigans at the convention halls as well as in the smoke-filled rooms. Trout bridged the vignettes with his characteristic wit and wallop. It was a distinguished distillation of the manners and mores of America's political conclaves. Trau.

---

NIGHT BEAT
With Bruce Bradley
165 Mins.: Mon.-thru-Fri., 8 p.m.
Participating
WROW, Albany

Bruce Bradley quietly but effectively patrols a musically-recorded "Night Beat," for about three hours after WROW leaves the CBS web for the day. He spins a wide range of numbers, showing generally good taste in selection and a sound knowledge. Bradley does not feature a dramatic or colorfully personal approach. He is, rather, soft spoken, and conversational of tone. At times, the deejay seems to carry this a shade too far: he sounds slightly weary. Bradley should guard against the latter, and against the occasional dropping of voice to a level of almost indistinctness.

Bradley's characterization of a platter on one origination, as a "dog," with an expression of regret for playing it, might be considered questionable showmanship. He handles spot announcements competently. There are five-minute timeouts, for news, at the half-hour. All-over, "Night Beat" makes pleasant listening. Jaco.

---

Buffalo—WBEN-TV sales staff has been expanded with John L. Hutchinson Jr. added. He has been with the station since its inception in 1948, and is being succeeded as executive producer by James A. Christensen a WBEN-TV producer since 1950.

THE RAWHIDE SHOW
With Max Ferguson
Producer-Writer: Ferguson
15 Mins.; Mon.-Fri., 7 p.m.
CBC, from Halifax

Max Ferguson, whose "Rawhide Show" is the most popular hot potato in Canada, teed off his new 11-month contract with Canadian Broadcasting Corp. in saity fashion. He does satire Mon. and Fri., spins offbeat though not snob-aimed records Wed. and Thurs. Some of his satires have been disked by Folkways.

Marvin Mellowbell, Ferguson's rib of pear-toned announcers, fulsomely rhapsodized on the joy of getting back to work for the CBC, "even if it were only for one devoted listener!" Arnprior, an astringent character (Ferguson plays them all) was instantly burned up at the thought. "One slob somewhere in Canada is makin' us get back to work" he exclaimed. "One slob without brains enough to stay outdoors and enjoy the summer the way any sensible guy would. If our paths should ever cross, that scab had better look out!"

The broadcast, allegedly from a wiener-and-marshmallow roast on the seashore, then ribbed the annual (Lake) Couchiching Conference on Economic and Politics (which CBC co-sponsors and broadcasts) as "The Hootchy - Kootch Conference." Arnprior remarked scornfully, "If those girls want to get together and discuss runway techniques and how to improve their grinds and bumps, okay, but why drag culture into it?"

Finally the "conference" began, on the topic: "The Cultural, Political and Economic Ramifications of the St. Lawrence Seaway." J. Philip Buster, M.P. and Bar, delivered a windy oration which Arnprior then deflated with a well-hurled barb: "If you're gonna make Shakespearean gestures, Buster, put down yer hot dog! You got mustard all over my jacket." At the conclusion, Ol' Rawhide announced he'd undesestimated the audience. They'd received three phone calls—from two cleaning ladies in a spa outside Toronto and a trapper in the Arctic.

Ferguson, who has been attacked in parliament and from the pulpit but has ridden out all storms through being the people's fanmail choice, is still firstclass in scripting production and his amazing characterizations. Latter range from quavering Granny to Winston Churchill to Peter Lorre to a squeaking spider named Harold. The guy is unique. Gard.

---

VERA LYNN'S BBC PACT

London, Aug. 14.

Singing star Vera Lynn has completed a combined radio and tv deal which will give her exclusive services in Britain to the BBC for the next two years.

She will start a fortnightly tv series in the autumn, prior to which she tours British service camps in Germany.

Television Chatter

New York

Henry Howard signed as associate producer of the Perry Como show for next season, while Louis Dapron was inked as the choreographer for the same stanza . . . Kajar the Magician guests on "Captain Kangaroo" Saturday (18) . . . John Cameron Swayze tapped as editor of a new half-hour once-weekly travel feature on the "Home" show on NBC-TV, starting Sept. 6 . . . Rod Alexander set with a hatful of choreographic chores: he does a remote for Steve Allen Sept. 2 and a ballet for Sammy Davis Jr. on the Allen show Sept. 16, guests on "Ding Dong School" Sept. 7, stages the musical numbers for the "Producers' Showcase" original, "Jack and the Beanstalk" Nov. 12, will direct and choreograph the Palmer House, Chi, floorshow Oct. 4 and just wrapped the dance chores on the new "Best Things in Life Are Free" film feature . . . Jay Barney out of active duty with the Signal Corps in time to appear on "Alcoa Hour" in the "Big Vote" Sunday (19) and in "Romance of Helen Trent" on ayem the following day . . . Buddy Piper subs Jack Barry on "Winky Dink & You" next Saturday (18) . . . WRCA-TV assistant director Stan Zabka a songwriter too; his new "Searching Wind" got a sendoff via a Stan Freeman rendition on "Home" last week . . . WCBS-TV bringing in another KNXT (Hollywood) produced Frank Baxter series, this time "Renaissance on TV," set to run Sundays at 4 . . . WRCA-TV director Walt Garrity passing out cigars on the birth of a daughter last week . . . Dick Auerbach, floor manager at WRCA-TV, off on a two-week vacation . . . Chuck McCann into Sandy Becker's WABD ayemer while latter vacations . . . Lenny Strausburg, casting ex-director for Charles Conaway agency, becomes second-in-command of tv to Dorothy Lowman at William Schuller agency . . . Joe Franklin, WABC-TV's "Memory Lane" fronter, is taking selected viewers to a trip of the French and Italian Rivieras in December—Trip of the Month Club jaunt and it's one of his bankrollers . . . Raymond Simms quits NBC Radio to join H-R Television.

Bob Quigley, ex-Benton & Bowles producer ("On Your Account," "Love Story"), now holed up at his Westport, Conn., home and has completed a teleplay, "Dilemma in Donegal" . . . Hal and Candy March off for two-week vacation at the Concord, with "64,000 Question" preempted by the conventions . . . Burton Benjamin, ex RKO, has scripted a couple of hour-live shows for "Robert Montgomery Presents" for fall airing. On Monday (13) he left for South America on two-week writing assignment for U.S. Steel dealing with iron-ore mining there.

Fran Carlon doing lead on "Modern Romances," NBC-TV, this week . . . Casey Allen announces the Kaiser Aluminum Hour on same web . . . Bud Granoff and Phil Levens become producer and director, respectively of "Treasure Hunt," the Jan Murray giveaway, when it preems on ABC-TV Sept. 7.

From the Production Centres

Continued from page 30

Sundays . . . Carl deSuze, WBZ personality, drinks tea with Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and other colonial ghosts on his "New England Heritage" program Mondays at 8:15 . . . Norm Prescott, WBZ disk jock, offering strands from Elvis Presley's hair in contest beamed to teeners sending in most interesting requests for it. One moppet said she wanted some to glue on her boyfriend's head; another said, "I would plant it in my garden and watch it grow." . . . Disk jock Norm Tulin broadcast from a private plane over WORL in a hop over beaches from Revere to Atlantic City Saturday (11) . . . WHDH skedded two special programs on polio as season approaches peak here. First show preemed Wed. (8) and second is Thurs. (16) at 10 p.m.

IN MINNEAPOLIS . . .

President Stan Hubbard of KSTP-TV promises spot news coverage in full color as his station's standard procedure within a year. KSTP-TV chalked up a local first with a full color sound-on-film coverage of a Minneapolis event, the elaborate day street parade of the Aquatennial, annual summer mardi gras here, on a news show a few hours later. There were four separate color films running a total of eight minutes. Recent purchase of a new type of high speed film processor enabled station's photo department to have the color news film on the air within 20 minutes of the time it went into the processor. Color never before had been used on any local tv newscast . . . Arle Haeberle introduced a new Monday through Friday noon-time strip, "Fashion," on WCCO-TV . . . As a Minneapolis Centennial celebration salute, KEYD-TV presented a discussion of jazz composers featuring two local popular Dixieland band conductors . . . WTCN-TV and seven radio stations covered opening of Cinerama's "Seven Wonders of the World" at the Century theatre here . . . Jada (Jing) Rowland of tv's "Secret Storm" made personal appearance on WCCO-TV . . . WCCO Radio tossed usual big party for its annual stage-air Aquatennial show performers, including Peter Lind Hayes & Mary Healy, Felicia Sanders and Don Cherry, and an army of invited guests . . . Lee L. Whiting, KEYD-TV general manager-vice president before station changed hands, has joined WCCO-TV as an account executive.

IN CLEVELAND . . .

Arthur M. Hopwood, Jr. named KYW facilities engineer, and David L. Miller, national radio sales coordinator. Both hailed from Philadelphia . . . WERE's Louise Winslow holds a "Cook it Cool" show at Kent State U. . . . Joe Finan's SFO at May Co disk show is prompting the WJW disker to do a repeat . . . Ben Wickham, WJW-TV general manager appointed Cleveland Ad Club trustee . . . Tom Haley's KYW-TV "Open Camera" and Omar Raney, Cleveland Press movie editor, both pumping for Cleveland getting a Cinerama . . . Ralph Polson named to WSRS news staff . . . Fred Wolf reportedly buying major stock interests in WDOK . . . KYW's Jack Hanrahan exiting announcing staff. . . . Don Perris, WEWS, to assume sales post following return from hiatus . . . Mexico-bound are Nancy Schattenfield and Dotty Kline . . . Robert Holmes, former WEWS floor manager, portraying Estes Kefauver in Musicarnival's "Call Me Madam."

IN PHILADELPHIA . . .

William J. McCarter, director-producer of WFIL-TV's prize-winning "University of the Air" and "WFIL Schoolhouse," named production manager of WHYT-TV, local educational station skedded to begin telecasting in October . . . Warren Hull to emcee half-hour "Richie Ashburn Night" program between games of the Phillies-Pittsburgh Pirates doubleheader (14) . . . Bob Magee, WHUM (Reading), veepee and general manager who ankled to Florida two years ago, has returned to the upstate station . . . John G. Leitch, v.p. in charge of engineering WCAU stations, on organizing committee to establish local chapter of Radio Pioneers of America . . . Both the Reading and Allentown Fairs (Sept.) to feature special WCAU days co-emceed by Joan and Gene Crane, WCAU-TV's "Mr. and Mrs." . . . Lloyd Yoder, WRCV; Roger Clipp, WFIL; William Caskey, WPEN; Benedict Gimbel, WIP, and Donald Thornburgh, WCAU, appointed as top brass advisory committee to help establish closer relationship between City govt. and local radio-tv . . . Jim Kiss, named advertising and promotion director of WPEN . . . Charles Shaw, news director of the WCAU stations, and George Lord, radio news chief, covering conventions in San Francisco and Chicago.

IN DETROIT . . .

WWJ, The Detroit News, which claims it is the world's first radio station, will mark 36 years of broadcasting Aug. 20 . . . Reps of "Toast of the Town" were here last week to discuss possibility of originating Ed Sullivan's telecast to celebrate opening Oct. 14 of the new Ford Auditorium in the Detroit Civic Center . . . Application for the voluntary relinquishment of control of WJR, The Goodwill Station, Inc., from Mrs. Francis S. Parker, widow of G. A. Richards, to all stockholders has been approved by the FCC. This cleared the way for the purchase of 73,906 shares of stock by a group of WJR directors and Mrs. Rozene Moore from Mrs. Parker. The group consists of John F. Patt, president; Worth Kramer, vice presiednt and general manager; F. Sibley Moore, vice president and operations manager; William G. Siebert, secretary-treasurer; Seldon Dickinson, legal counsel, and Mrs. Rozene Moore, wife of F. Sibley Moore . . . Mickey Shorr joins WXYZ as a disk jockey . . . "Mr. Hope" is a new WWJ-TV entry designed to tell the public about the work of Alcoholics Anonymous and to encourage those individuals with a drinking problem to seek the help of the organization. A weekly half-hour show, it will be seen Sundays with a format simulating AA meeting.

---

THE NEW FRONTIER
With Edward G. Robinson, John Daly, others
Producer: Gohl Obhrai
Director: Eleanor Gardner
Writer: Ken Pittendrigh
25 Mins.; Thurs. (9), 10:30 p.m.
ABC, from New York (transcription)

Sometimes here's what happens to a public service program in network radio: The theme is sound, but the writing smacks of another era in audio—before tv—and it's a bit stale; and the time is 10:30 at night, which makes one wonder whether anybody's listening. "The New Frontier" was part of the "Assignment Peace" series, whipped up by ABC and the United Nations, all of which causes further wonder: Why not more about the UN on video, so that writers have another dimension to play with, and so that the webs can really show their hearts are in the right place?

Ken Pittendrigh's rhetoric was clear on the subject of UN's efforts to convert the "backward" peoples of the world to more modern conditions, without causing too much pain and without destroying important cultural-social patterns. Pittendrigh, with the help of Edward G. Robinson as narrator, got the point across, but he got it across without much punch. Weakness seemed the result of relying excessively on the oldtime radio habit of cutting in and out of the narrative with dramatic insertions, which were generally useless and which sounded kind of phoney. John Daly's intro was brief, and done in the clean Daly manner, but of no special significance either to the program or the listener. Art.

---

Hollywood—William Putney, talent director of KTLA (TV) here, shifted over to Harold Jovien's Premiere Artists and Production agency last week. He'll work in radio, tv and personal appearance fields.

Programs SOLD on WPIX

| SPONSOR | TYPE OF SPONSORSHIP | PROGRAM |
|---|---|---|
| WHITE OWL CIGARS | Half | DICK POWELL* |
| C. F. MUELLER | Half | DR. CHRISTIAN |
| RALSTON-PURINA | Full | I SEARCH FOR ADVENTURE |
| PIELS BEER | Half | MR. DISTRICT ATTORNEY |
| ROBERT BURNS CIGARS | Half | MR. DISTRICT ATTORNEY |
| GENERAL ELECTRIC | Half | CITY DETECTIVE |
| BALLANTINE BEER | Full | HIGHWAY PATROL |
| CON EDISON | Full | CON EDISON REPORTER |
| KRUEGER BEER | Quarter | MADISON SQUARE GARDEN |
| CLAIROL | Full | ROSEMARY CLOONEY SHOW |
| BROMO SELTZER | Half | SCIENCE FICTION THEATRE |
| KRUEGER BEER | Third | TV BOWLING SWEEPSTAKES |
| PIELS BEER | Half | ELLERY QUEEN |
| GENERAL ELECTRIC | Half | INNER SANCTUM |
| OVALTINE | Full | CAPTAIN MIDNIGHT |
| H. J. HEINZ | Full | STUDIO 57 |
| PIELS BEER | Half | SAN FRANCISCO BEAT |
| L-R HEAT TREATMENT CO. | Third | TV BOWLING SWEEPSTAKES |
| O-CEDAR | Half | SAN FRANCISCO BEAT |
| MARS CANDY | Half | BUFFALO BILL JR. |
| BROWN SHOE CO. | Half | BUFFALO BILL JR. |
| ROBERT BURNS CIGARS | Quarter | MADISON SQUARE GARDEN |
| CHEF BOY-AR-DEE | Full | STAGE 7 |
| SEVEN-UP | Full | SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE |
| SOCONY MOBIL OIL | Full | SEVEN O'CLOCK NEWS |
| CHUNKY CHOCOLATE | Full | FOREIGN LEGIONNAIRE (Wed. & Sat.) |
| GENERAL ELECTRIC | Half | CAPTURED |
| GOOD AND PLENTY CANDY | Half | BRAVE EAGLE |
| TAYSTEE BREAD | Full | THE WEATHERMAN |
| GENERAL ELECTRIC | Half | THE TRAP MYSTERIES |
| WILDROOT | Quarter | MADISON SQUARE GARDEN |
| GOOD AND PLENTY CANDY | Half | ABBOTT & COSTELLO (Sat.) |
| PIELS BEER | Half | BADGE 714 |

Programs AVAILABLE on WPIX

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| ABBOTT & COSTELLO | Full or Half | LIFE WITH FATHER | Full or Half |
| BRAVE EAGLE | Half | MADISON SQUARE GARDEN | Quarter |
| CAPTURED | Half | MAN BEHIND THE BADGE | Full or Half |
| CHARLES BOYER* | Full or Half | MAN CALLED X | Full or Half |
| CITY DETECTIVE | Half | PARIS PRECINCT | Full or Half |
| CONFIDENTIAL FILE | Full or Half | POPEYE (Sat. & Sun. Only) | Full or Half |
| CRUNCH & DES | Full or Half | PUBLIC DEFENDER | Full or Half |
| DAVID NIVEN* | Full or Half | RAMAR OF THE JUNGLE | Full or Half |
| DICK POWELL* | Half | RANGE RIDER | Full or Half |
| DR. CHRISTIAN | Half | SECRET MISSION | Full or Half |
| DR. FU MANCHU | Full or Half | SHEENA, Queen of the JUNGLE | Full or Half |
| DR. HUDSON'S SECRET JOURNAL | Full or Half | STORIES of the CENTURY (Jan. 1) | Full or Half |
| ELLERY QUEEN | Half | STRYKER OF SCOTLAND YARD | Full or Half |
| FABIAN OF SCOTLAND YARD | Full or Half | SUSIE (Ann Sothern) | Full or Half |
| FEDERAL MEN | Full or Half | THE TRAP MYSTERIES | Half |
| HALLS OF IVY | Full or Half | TOMORROW'S NEWS | Full or Half |
| IDA LUPINO* | Full or Half | TV BOWLING SWEEPSTAKES | Third |
| I LED 3 LIVES | Full or Half | VICTORY AT SEA | Full or Half |
| INNER SANCTUM | Half | THE WHISTLER | Full or Half |

* Stars in (Episode)

You're in Good Company when you're on... WPIX 11 New York

Represented by Peters, Griffin, Woodward, Inc.

The Daily News Station

Readers Set Forth Views On Use of Negro Talent in TV

New York.

Editor, VARIETY:

The letter from Mrs. Natalie Fuller Shean, published in VARIETY, brings up a problem that I—and I dare say many other people—have given a good deal of thought. That is the sparse and limited use of Negro characters on television.

Mrs. Shean calls it evidence of prejudice or stupidity on the part of producers and directors of television shows. I would say, rather, that it indicates a lack of imagination on their part.

I, too, watch television whenever I can and I could not begin to number the times I have thought the casting people missed the boat and could have used a Negro character or characters quite logically and realistically, but did not. I often wish that someone with a special knowledge of the problem and some good horse sense could have been on the production staff of the show and could— at the very ineeption of that show—have suggested ways to employ Negro characters in the script.

I think it is not so often a case of the producer or directot or casting director having thought of such usage and then rejected it for reasons of bigotry, as never having thought of it in the first place. So many times I have heard the question from those people, "We'd like to use Negro actors, but how can we?"

To that I have answered, "In a million ways—as doctors, nurses, athletes, teachers, storekeepers, secretaries, policemen, gangsters, detectives, dentists, insurance salesmen, waitresses, reporters, friends - next - door, playmates, schoolchildren, clerks, ministers, judges, lawyers and just plain people-in-the-crowd. The important thing is to use them freely and intelligently and as American people who are perfect and imperfect, heroes and villains, good and bad —just as are all other Americans.

Unhappily, if a visitor from Mars were to look at an evening's television entertainment, he would not know that brown-skinned people even exist in our society, and that is the biggest bone I have to pick with the tv industry. It in no way holds the mirror up to nature and shows us the interracial character of American life. It blithely shuts its eyes to one of the salient features—and beauties—of our imperfect but nonetheless marvelous democracy.

Of course, lack of imagination is not the whole story. There must be, as Mrs. Shean's brother-in-law indicates, a tremendous economic fear behind the tv industry's unwillingness to show more Negro characters. For that part of the industry which is afraid, I can only point with pleasure to the dignified and democratic use of Sidney Poitier as the hero's best friend in "A Man Is Ten Feet Tall," by Robert Alan Aurthur. So far as I know, the world did not come to an end as a result of that casting.

Jane White.

New York.

Editor, VARIETY:

In August 1 issue, Miss Natalie F. Shean asked a question that has come up more and more often recently: Where are the Negro tv actors? We should like to attempt an answer.

First of all Miss Shean, you are far from being just a "nobody." Like millions of other viewers across the country who purchase most of the products that make tv possible, you are a "viewer-sponsor." As such you have an important say as to what you see or want to see on your tv screen.

Since July, 1951, we have asked the employers of talent in the field of radio and tv to give us a more realistic picture of the American scene by integration of the many competent Negro artists in the radio and television picture. After the many conferences with these employers of talent, we have always left such meetings with the feeling that there is no conscious or formal ban against the use of Negro talent in these media. However, the fact that certain programs have not seen fit to use Negro actors and others only in occasional guest spots, do give rise to our belief that such bans do exist in a small section of the industry.

For the most part, we believe it is a case of unconscious omission, rather than conscious rejection, all of which is the result of an outmoded, custom-bound, traditional casting pattern set generations ago by the stage and screen. The industry seems to forget that Negro Americans appear in all phases of our social, cultural and economic life. They are students, teachers, policemen, receptionists, clerks, postmen and last but somewhat important, purchasers of the sponsors' products. In short they are no more or less than any other group. Through tv's short life, there has been a lamentable absence of Negroes in integrated roles. A tv script calls for a policeman. The casting director can't seem to remember ever seeing a Negro cop and so follows the time-worn, traditional casting pattern.

The Negro performer does not ask to be cast in a role merely as a gesture of goodwill. What he does ask for is a fair chance—based solely on his ability as a performer—to compete for roles he can play, where such casting does not disturb the artistic integrity of the program. In short, he does not want to be forced into a script. He wants to portray a role he could, and often does play in life itself.

Casting in such a manner will have the additional effect of serving to educate viewers to the fact that there are Negroes other than the caricatures portrayed in old motion pictures. Indeed, Negroes comprise 10% of the population in our American life. Any picture that chooses to ignore this large segment of the American public is simply not a realistic one.

Cards and letters such as yours addressed to the stations and sponsors, calling for more realistic casting, can be of tremendous value and in fact are welcomed by the networks and sponsors. Rarely do they go unanswered.

While stressing the necessity of greater use of Negro talent we stand ready and willing to give whatever information, aid and assistance we can to any employer or the public individually, or as a whole who is intrested in such objectives. We wish to make it clear however, that we are not a talent agency. Competent Negro artists can be furnished by almost any authorized theatrical agent, at a moment's notice.

Our thanks and appreciation to you, Miss Shean and we are sure that the many readers of VARIETY too look forward to the day when frictions resulting from racial, religious and other differences will be minimized and television can be a tremendous help in the process. John D. Silvera, Chairman, Board of Directors Coordinating Council for Negro Performers.

FRED WARING AS ZIV RADIO PACKAGE

Ziv has joined the name band kick in radio by packaging Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians for syndication.

The series, the first fresh syndication airer to hit radio in a long time, is designed as a daytime half-hour weekday strip for radio stations. Ziv's deal with Waring is a 52-week commitment.

With production already underway and selling launched Monday (13), the music series is slated for fall airing. Waring and his group, incidentally, will continue their stint on the NBC net, aired Monday through Friday

Des Moines — Radio station KQUE, Albuquerque, has been bought by a group of Iowa men headed by H. W. Cassill, Sioux City. Cassill manages station KTRI, Sioux City, and is president of station KEOK, Fort Dodge. Robert Dan Williams, sales rep of KVTV, Sioux City, will be v.p. and manager of KQUE. Others in the purchasing group include W. N. Schnepp, manager of KEOK, Fort Dodge, and Eskil M. Nelson, John W. Gleysteen, Glenn M. Foster, Edgar Pechacek, John Albers and Dr. August Nelson, all of Sioux City.

Columbus—Mrs. Rowena Farber has been promoted from film editor to assistant program director at WOSU-TV.

Polaroid Pacts 5-Week Ride on Steve Allen

Polaroid Land Cameras has signed up for one-third of the Sunday night NBC-TV Steve Allen stanza for a five-week spread in the fall, thus posting the SRO sign on the show for at least that length of time. Jergen's Lotion and Viceroy cigs have already renewed their thirds, leaving only the spot preempted by Crosley to be filled, with the cameramaker taking part of the slack starting Oct. 21.

This isn't Polaroid's first tv expenditure. Besides spots on NBC's "Today," Polaroid sponsored John Daly's news show on ABC-TV this past season for several weeks. Agency is Doyle, Dane, Bernbach.

New Set of Network Allegiances for Cleve. Cues Program Shifts

Cleveland, Aug. 14.

Shifting of networks, particularly for convention coverage, following KYW's dropping of NBC affiliation (10) resulted in WHK being pacted by NBC while WSRS signed with Mutual for two weeks of political tieup, although the latter network still is being carried in part by WHK.

The new city lineup see WHK now bringing such major NBC programs as "Monitor" and "Bandstand" into the area, and also continuing to handle Mutual shows such as "Bob and Ray," "Queen for a Day," etc., according to Les Biebl, WHK program manager, whose added station will continue other Mutual offerings until the net finds another fulltime Cleveland outlet. WSRS' pacting with Mutual for Chicago and San Francisco is leading to some possibility the Heights indie may take on more Mutual stints.

KYW-radio, Westinghouse's local operation, "transferred the 'Spirit of '76 into the 'Spirit of '56' for 'Radio Independence Day'" according to radio general manager Gordon Davis who said that "following the trend throughout the country of providing full local coverage on radio, KYW will concentrate on local talent, programming, news and features."

Under the new format, KYW is expanding its news and music coverage along with special events. The station's "Big Four" diskers, Bill Mayer, Specs Howard, Big Wilson and Wes Hopkins, get increased time, while Joe Mulvihill continues with his allnight stint and Gloria Brown gets a six-day "On the Go" half-an-hour femme show.

A series of special features, including "Dimension, a four-hour Sunday music spectacular" a 90-minute daily Hi-Fi stint, and expansion of public service programs including "Press Club Presents" and "Stethescope" also are highlighted in the new KYW programming.

Along with the dropping of NBC, KYW has embarked on a program of promotional activities to upbeat the local flavor.

Middlebrooks Named Pioneer B'casting Exec

Seattle, Aug., 14.

James L. Middlebrooks was made vicepresident and director of engineering for Pioneer Broadcasting Co., owner of KGW and permittee of KGW-TV, in Portland. New appointee also continues as director of engineering for King Broadcasting Co., here, in a job he's held since 1952. (King is principle stockholder in Pioneer.).

Simultaneously, Walter E. Wagstaff, presently veep-part owner and station manager of KIDO-radio-plus-tv, Boise (Idaho), becomes station manager of KGW-TV in September. John Eichhorn continues as station manager of KGW-AM. The tv sister will be on the air by fall, with Middlebrooks in charge of construction.

Bridgeport — Frank Delfino is WICC's new program director, succeeding Bob Crane, who checks in next month as replacement for Ralph Story at KNX, Hollywood. Delfino, who will continue his daytime deejaying on WICC, has been freelaneing at WNEW, N. Y., under the name of Del Campbell. Phil Christie, from WNHC in New Haven, takes over Crane's morning platter chatter on WICC.

Newshens Playing Prominent Role At Conventions for 1st Time

Chicago, Aug. 14.

Newshens, long accepted in the press sections of political conventions, have finally made the grade as "hard news" reporters in big-time broadcasting. Though there were special features and gimmicks with femme angles in '52, the webs, for the first time, are really listing femmecasters in their news staff lineups for convention coverage.

NBC appears to be in the forefront of the latter day women's move with Pauline Frederick playing an important role in its radio coverage, and Esther Van Wagoner Tufty appearing on tv in straight reporting, as well as in her regular "Home" show slot. Mrs. Tufty, incidentally, first broke into tv during the '52 political conclaves, but she went primarily as a newspaper reporter, whom NBC hired on the spot for special work. In addition, NBC inked WDSU Washington correspondent Ann Corrick for regional coverage. She, too, is being used on camera with members of her special delegation, Louisiana and other southern states. Hazel Markel is also in the NBC corner for "Three Star Extra."

In addition, of course, NBC has on its rolls Arlene Francis, who'll be handling the femme angle on "Home" show; Martha Rountree, moderator of "Press Conference," and Lee Meriwether, of "Today."

ABC sports a telecaster, distaff side, for the first time in Ruth Gert Hagy, who is handing straight news stories and women's features, in addition to her regular emcee chores for "College Press Conference."

Though CBS lists no femme newscaster, it has Faye Emerson doing interviews for Gary Moore's "Of All Things" plus guests and regulars on the "Morning Show."

Shirley Lavine, top assistant to CBS anchor man Walter Crankite, appears on camera at her boss's right hand at all times, but does no actual commentary. Alice Weel, another CBS staffer, writes news copy.

This does not include some two dozen femmecasters listed for indie stations, most of whom are sending home taped interviews with members of their home town delegations.

It also does not include a growing number of gals in behind-the-scenes jobs. CBS Public Affairs alone, for example, has four femmes working on production of its news shows. In addition to Helen Sioussat, a convention vet, there are Beryl Denzer and Harriet Culley, of "Face the Nation," and Nancy Hanschman, producer of "The Leading Question." On NBC's public affairs staff there is Ann Gillis, another convention regular, plus Patricia Mulready, Bertha Quinn, Mona McCormick, Anita McCellan and Eleanor Martino.

In the commercial field, Westinghouse's Betty Furness continues to reign alone, following her trail blazing in '52.

BURGER'S LONG-RANGE PACT ON CINCY REDS

Cincinnati, Aug. 14.

A five-year extension of exclusive rights to local broadeasts of all Cincy Redlegs' National League games has been granted the Burger Brewing Co. It boosts the sponsorship to 20 years, longest stretch in pro baseball.

New agreement, signed last week, carries a price tag higher than the $500,000 three-year deal expiring at season's end. Actual figures were not disclosed. From the start Burger's announcer has been Waite Hoyt, former star hurler.

Club management has a separate pact on television with Ford dealers and Hudepohl Brewing Co. as co-taggers. Burger's radio network, first in baseball and now the largest with 45 stations, will be expanded in 1957. Outlets are in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, West Virginia and Tennessee.

TV Pilot & Feature Roll Simultaneously —Total Cost $205,000

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

Tv producer Buck McGowan figures he's found a way to overcome the producer's bugaboo, recoupment of potential loss from a tv pilot. He shot a pilot on a new series" "Snow Fire," as he simultaneously lensed a 90-minute theatrical film under the same title. Latter will be put in release if the pilot doesn't sell.

Pilot cost $80,000 while the feature cost $125,000. Tele footage at beginning and end of pilot is being integrated into the feature film version. McGowan said two firms are dickering for tv sponsorship of the series, one of them considering joint release of both tv and feature film versions. If tv deal doesn't jell, he'll arrange theatrical release of the Eastman Color-Superscope feature to recoup his $205,000 investment.

WABD Revamps Pattern On WB Pic Exposures

The exposure pattern for the 60 Warner Bros. features bought by WABD, N. Y., has been changed. The pix, to begin in approximately a month, were going to be used on Sundays between 8 p.m. and midnight, with each pic getting three continuous exposures. However, the station management has now decided to show each picture at 3 p.m. and again at 9 p.m. on Sundays.

With the change comes a shift in advertising charges. Under the initial plan, WABD was offering each of four bankrollers spots in the three Sunday night showings at a weekly cost of $1,750. But the new breakdown will be $750 a week for each of eight advertisers in the two two-hour exposures.

FUJIWARA REPEATS

Jap Operatics Due In U.S.—Also On Ed Sullivan

Tokyo. Aug. 14.

The Fujiwara Opera Company, headed by tenor Yoshie Fujiwara, left here last week for a three-month tour of the U.S. and Canada. This will be the third visit of the Japanese opera company to the United States. As in previous visits, the repertoire will be limited to two operas, "The Mikado" and "Madame Butterfly."

The 26-member troupe will be heard in more than 80 performances in 45 cities, opening Aug. 22 at Berkely, Calif. They will also appear on Ed Sullivan's tv show from New York Sept. 16. Longest stands will be made in Washington (eight days), and Montreal (five days).

Tour will be sponsored in both countries by Fine Arts Enterprises Inc., of Los Angeles. An orchestra and stage staff of 40 Americans will accompany the troupe from California.

WDSU Purchases 51% Interest in Miss. TV'er

New Orleans, Aug. 14.

WDSU Broadcasting Co. is purchasing a 51% interest in Lion Television Corp., which owns and operates WDAM-TV, in Hattiesburg, Miss.

Since WDAM-TV went on the air in June of this year, the Hattiesburg station, with special microwave facilities as approved by the FCC, has been picking up network programming service from WDSU-TV in this city.

Lion Television prez Dave A. Matison, in commenting on the deal which will go before the FCC for approval, said he plans to make fuller use of existing facilities by taking advantage of locally produced WDSU shows of interest in the Hattiesburg area.

WCAU means PHILADELPHIA showmanship

Some people will always have a warm spot in their hearts for the circus. Like us at WCAU-TV . . . we started our own and called it "Big Top." Today you know it as the "Sealtest Big Top," a network show of 84 stations with a weekly audience of about 10,500,000. That kind of success story can be yours at the local level. Because the same WCAU-TV programming talent that created "Big Top" and made it one of the highest rated network daytime shows is yours to command, too. So when you think of showmanship, think of WCAU.

WCAU, WCAU-TV The Philadelphia Bulletin Radio and TV stations. Represented nationally by CBS Spot Sales. By far Philadelphia's most popular stations. Ask ARB. Ask Pulse. Ask Philadelphians.

Jean Shepherd Talks About Radio

Continued from page 26

represents a segment of the purchasing power, and if somebody wants to sell bubble-gum through a disk show, I'm all for it." It's alright to program for the teenager, Shepherd declares, as long as radio programs for everyone else. But it doesn't, he maintains.

"Hi-fi will be a $2,000,000,000 industry this year; the major volume of record sales is in classical records—Sam Goody sells more records in N. Y. than all the little pop stores put together. How many stations are satisfying these buyers? The station or network that thinks it's reaching a mass audience with pop music is kidding itself; it's just reaching a limited segment, the teenager, which doesn't do much buying anyway. More important, these aren't listeners, they are just tuners-in. The radio goes, but they don't listen to it—it's a glorified Muzak."

Shepherd, a radio vet who doesn't hesitate to state he's been fired off more than one station because of his insistence on his kind of program; points to some statistics to prove his point. Since the war, the nation's colleges have turned out some 14,000,000 graduates, and it's not likely their tastes are restricted to pop music. Also, there's an entire new generation of consumers who don't remember the great days of radio; those days came to an end in 1948, eight years ago, and most people under 25 don't recall them and aren't tied to them—they know the radio "as an alarm clock in the morning." Also the great days of radio took place during a depression, when there was nothing else but the radio—"people couldn't afford a movie, not even a 10c magazine, so they had to listen to radio, there was nothing else." They don't have to listen now and "they won't unless radio gives them something they can't get anywhere else."

Gotta Be Selective

"Look at the magazine industry," Shepherd states. "Take the New Yorker, they know they have a selective readership and they've certainly proved they can do a selling job for an advertiser. Nobody in his right mind would suggest doing a kid space-ranger story in the New Yorker, yet that's just what radio does because it's under the false impression that it's dealing with a mass audience. Radio talks about the housewife audience, but look at the New Yorker's perfume advertising. Housewives buy perfume. The magazine industry started to go selective years ago and it's paid off, but radio still refuses to face up to the fact that there's no longer a mass audience for it."

Anent his views on "thinking" as opposed to believing, Shepherd feels too many radio execs are prone to decide themselves what the audience likes without bothering to look at the audience. Similarly, too many point to their sponsorship lineups and their dollar volume without taking notice of their dwindling audiences. "Sure, they can be doing great sponsorwise, but if that audience continues to tune out, everything is going to collapse one of these days."

Similarly, the stations and networks aren't giving proper thought to selling with programs and by program types. Referring to his own audience, Shepherd states he can sell items like cigarets, men's wear, or Schweppes or White Rock, but give me a detergent or a facial cream and I'm dead and what else could they expect?" Programming to teenagers with the belief that if they are listening they'll force the rest of the family to buy the products advertised is just so much nonsence and it's about time radio realized it, says Shepherd.

He points to the stations already hitting selective audiences to bolster his point—the good music stations, the lingualers, those specializing in Negro programming, are all prospering. Some indies — he specifically mentions WSAI, the Gordon Sherwood operation in Cincinnati, are running away with audience through selective features like the WSAI three-hour Sunday afternoon recreation of Broadway plays and musicals via the LP original cast albums plus commentary. "Sure, it's tough to program for other segments of the audience than the teenagers; it's the easiest thing in the world to let a song-plugger from the Brill Building program your station—just flip a Joni James disk on the turntable and there you are. But the people who are shelling out $2,000,000,000 for hi-fi equipment didn't pay that so they could put a Joni James 45rpm disk on their sets. It's harder to program for the others because it involves dealing with adults. But it's got to be done if radio's to survive."

To top off his WOR departure, the former WLW (Cincinnati) and KYW (Philadelphia) staffer, found himself in front of the burned-out Wanamaker's building last Sunday (12), addressing a "protest" meeting of 400 of his more faithful followers.

tune in nightly...

Joe Kaselow

with the advertising news

7:45-7:50 PM

Monday through Friday

WOR

AM 710 kc | FM 98.7

an on-air first—

Advertising News and features by the Herald Tribune columnist.

PRESENTED BY

EDWARD PETRY & CO., INC.

The Original Station Representative

3 EAST 54TH STREET, NEW YORK

Savage

Continued from page 29

writer who can combine all of these and turn out a good musical book for television. For the hour musical, the writer has to be a unique type, like a short-story writer as opposed to a novelist. He's got to be quick, to be able to lay out the plot and characterization in as little time as possible and make room for the music. It's just a matter of time before we find this kind of writer; in a year or so we may very well have a Chayefsky in the musical field."

To back up his contentions, Savage is offering a package of eight musicals, six of them adaptations of top legiters and two of them originals, to several of the hour drama sponsors and is in serious negotiations with a couple of them. The package, which Theatrical Enterprises would deliver complete with producer, writers, director and star, comprises Jerome Kern's "Sunny," Vincent Youmans' "Hit the Deck," Cole Porter's "50 Million Frenchmen" and "The Gay Divorcee" and Victor Herbert's "The Red Mill" and "Sweethearts." Savage has options on all these properties, along with the two originals, "Night Song," based on a short story by Rex Beach, and "Mr. Rumple," a fantasy by Irving Phillips, with the score for both originals composed by Albert Haymalott (music) and Phillips.

On the talent side, Savage is concerned with bringing veteran Broadway musical producers into television via this and similar package. Paula Stone and Mike Sloan, who among other musicals produced a revival of one of the eight, "Red Mill," are partnered in this package with TE, having helped develop the properties, gotten commitments from top Hollywood stars to play the leads and acting as exec producers for the shows. Harald Bromley is another vet legit producer who's involved, in this case with 90-minute spec packages, but the idea is the same.

TV In Germany

Continued from page 28

least at first, however, inasmuch as there is a good deal of resistance to the concept of sponsor identification with a specific program in the American style, and German sponsors probably will proceed cautiously," Bourgholtzer observed.

Under the rate schedule and program provisions made by the Munich station for its initial venture into commercial tv, sponsors can buy three kinds of programs: 1) spots up to two minutes, with no entertainment beyond the advertiser's message; 2) spots from two to five minutes containing a sales plug and some form of brief entertainment, probably on film; and finally, 3) spots over five minutes and theoretically up to the entire 25-minute allocation, containing predominantly entertainment with only one commercial. It's conceded by Dr. Wittman that if a sponsor did take the whole 25 minutes, an arrangement would be made to permit him two or three commercial plugs in that time.

Rates Set

The rates for the three categories are as follows: 1) sponsor pays 80 marks per second up to 20 seconds. If his spot runs between 21 and 40 seconds and up to two minutes, he pays 70 marks per second; 2), 3,600 marks for the first minute and 1,800 marks for each succeeding minute; 3), by far the cheapest category, only 500 marks per minute except the time taken by his commercial, for which he pays 1,000 marks per minute. All these are strictly time purchase rates inasmuch as the sponsor or his agency supplies the show, ready to go, either filmed or live. Mark runs about 25c. in U.S. coin. There are also discount structures on the rate card.

"It is expected that the Munich development will slow down plans which have been made by some promoters of commercial tv, principally newspaper publishers, for a second network in Germany. Such, at least, has been one of the principal intentions of the men who have stimulated the development in Munich."

Terrytoons

Continued from page 35

cials" a la Bert & Harry commercials for Piel's Beer, on which Deitch worked while at UPA and which in his opinion proved that comedy can sell goods. There are already a number of clients in the house, and Terrytoons has already developed one new character, "P. J. Tootsie," described as a hearty, "Eddie Mayehoff type guy who's dedicated to the making of Tootsie Rolls." Client is Sweets Co. of America.

In work now are nine CinemaScope shorts for theatrical use by 20th-Fox, a continuation of the longtime 20th-Terrytoons relationship. It probably marks the first time a network operation is producing for the theatre in collaboration with a major studio. Deitch said his staff is working on the development of new styles of animation and new characters. One step in the creation of such styles and characters was the hiring this week of Ernie Pintoss as director of research and development, a new post for Terrytoons and possibly for any syndication house. Pintoss had been working with UPA as director of the new UPA series in production for CBS-TV.

TV's Decadence

Continued from page 25

just fallen heir to the two biggest ones to come off the giveaway beltline — Revlon's "Most Beautiful Girl In the World" with its $250,000 prize, which it is throwing against "I Love Lucy," and the rejuvenated "Break the Bank" package, which also flaunts a quarter-million-dollar payoff. To boot, NBC is shoving the $100,000 "Big Surprise" into the opposite-Phil Silvers slot.

Since it's not so much the coin as the inherent showmanship values and human equations that constitute the success of "$64,000 Question," it's problematical just how meaningfully the big payoff craze adds up.

Otherwise the networks have gone adventure crazy. The emergence next season of "Bengal Lancers," "Circus Boy," "Jim Bowie," "Bold Journey," "Sir Launcelot," "Buccaneer," "West Point Story," "Zane Gray Story," etc., to complement such existing as "Robin Hood," "Sergeant Preston," et al., is predicated on the new-found thinking that it's the adventure-in-costum motif that'll wrap up both the juve and adult audiences in one fell swoop.

In contrast, a 15-year-later replay of "Wizard Of Oz" off the Metro backlog shelf sounds dandy.

'War & Peace'

Continued from page 25

thored the libretto, based on the Tolstoi novel.

On Feb. 10, a new English version of Verdi's "La Traviata" is set, to be followed on March 10 by "La Grande Betesche." Season winds April 21 with a new version of Richard Strauss' "Electra." Point of interest is that the preem program will occur while the touring NBC Opera Co. is on the road, which means that the network will have two units in operation at the same time. Production staff will be the same this year, with Samuel Chotzinoff as producer, Peter Herman Adler as musical and artistic director, Charles Polachek as associate producer and Kirk Browning as director.

Bergen

Continued from page 25

fair for a comic who's been a star for years to be killed off by tv.

"TV is good for the individual performer, like Arthur Godfrey, but otherwise you can't do it with a passport photo, and that's what you have on tv," he added.

Bergen commented that he wasn't sure he would go back to radio next season, and pointed out although "I was No. 1 in radio last year, only one-third of my show was sponsored. Radio should hold its own with news, sports mystery and comedy, but the sponsors just aren't buying radio today."

Goldbeck, Rosenberg 'Playhouse' Producers

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

Revue has assigned Willis Goldbeck and Frank Rosenberg to produce various episodes of the new "Playhouse of Stars" vidpix series, and disclosed that still another producer will be added to the roster.

Goldbeck, who was connected with the "Screen Directors Playhouse" series last year, will produce most of the series, while Rosenberg, who recently ankled his job as feature producer at Warners, will have fewer stanzas. Lensing begins on 35 episodes in October, with Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. again bankrolling.

Chrysler Specs

Continued from page 26

ed CBC, film programs will include "The Brothers," starring Gail Gordon and Bob Sweeney; "On Trial," a drama series of unusual court cases, with Joseph Cotten in the lead; and a nautical comedy series, "Oh Susannah," with Gail Storm. Several programs, which were seen last season via kine recording, will now be carried live from their point of origination. These include "Kraft TV Theatre" and "Climax." Seen over CBC network at the same time it is being carried over the American tv scene will be "Disneyland."

Though changed to a new time, American or Canadian programs retained this fall by the CBC, will include "This Is Your Life," "Country Calendar," "You Are There," "Burns and Allen," "Fighting Words," "Junior Magazine," "Lassie," "Perspective," the "Ed Sullivan Show," "Father Knows Best," "Showtime," "The Denny Vaughan Show," "Studio One," "Pick the Stars," "Dragnet," "Holiday Ranch," "Graphic," "The Plouffe Family," "Cavalcade of Sports" and "Mr. Fix-it." Many of these series, popular with American viewers, are CBC-produced from Toronto.

CBC will also concentrate on children's "cultural" programs, this on the 4:30 to 6 p.m. slot, the schedule including Arthur Lismer on art; the popular "Let's Go to the Museum"; Beth Gillanders on her "Hidden Pages," this dealing with children's classics; the "Magic of Music" series; "Maggie Muggins" kid stories, narrated by Margaret Grannan; and "The Adventures of Pierre Radisson," a Canadian explorer series dealing with the founding of the Hudson's Bay Co.

WHTN-TV

CHANNEL 13

IT'S A SELLER'S MARKET, but we can give you the BIGGEST BUY yet!

TIME: Now, while we're still new . . . with rates set to offer low cost per impression . . . choice availabilities are still open.

PLACE: Huntington — Ashland — Charleston and Portsmouth Markets. The rich, prosperous, tri-state area of more than 1,250,000 population conservatively measured from mail responses.

SCENE: WHTN-TV with the largest transmitting antenna in the world . . . 316,000 watts of power for maximum effective coverage . . . a built-in audience of more than 200,000 sets . . . popular basic ABC network programs, outstanding local live shows and top-notch films.

ACTION: Get on our "bandwagon" and g-r-o-w with us! After only one month of maximum power, Channel 13 showed 36.8% audience increase over the first audience report.

CALL US: Huntington, West Virginia, JAckson 5-7661, or our representatives: Edward Petry & Co., Inc.

TV's Channel 13 Basic ABC

HOTEL Algonquin

59 West 44th Street

New York • MU 7-4400

Preferred by people of the Theatre . . .

100% Air Conditioned

"Field & Stream TV FILMS is in!" —VARIETY

"ONE OF THE FINEST SPORTS SHOWS I'VE EVER SEEN ON TV ...I can assure you no comparable deep sea fishing sequences have ever been telecast. Impressive. Sensational." —WIN FANNING, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

"THE MOST ELABORATE OUT-DOORS SERIES YET FILMED." —FRED REMINGTON, The Pittsburgh Press

"A NATURAL... Fascinating... Excitement and Beauty." —HAROLD COHEN, Variety

Field & Stream TV FILMS

Directed by ROBERT McCAHON

Now available for this Fall

B & W or Color • 15- or 30-minute segments
26 or 39 episodes

Phone, Wire or Write
LOUIS DE ROCHEMONT ASSOCIATES
TV Department
380 Madison Ave.
New York 17, N. Y.
OXford 7-0350

Field & Stream—AMERICA'S NUMBER ONE SPORTMAN'S MAGAZINE

Convention Highlights

Continued from page 27

Larry "Meet the Press" Spivak. Spurning the new transceivers, Spivak used an "autocue"—a battery controlled gadget plugged into the ear in the same manner as a hearing aid—to get directions during preconvention coverage. Plug got lodged in his ear, and Spivak had to be speeded to an M.D., for first aid.

* * *

It's a helicopter-happy convention. Each of the three webs are ferrying film and personnel between home base and the Amphitheatre via airlift and there is a sponsored helicopter for use of delegates . . . Most of the conventioneers are still earth-bound, however. NBC sponsor, Oldsmobile, for example, donated a dozen mint green samples of the factory's best, to haul web reps . . . Web brass still use chauffeur-driven limousines . . . And the rank-and-file radio-tv-press make the h.q.-Stock Yards trek via special buses, courtesy of General Tires. It's a 30-minute bus trip, contrasted with the five-minute air jaunt.

* * *

Walt Kelly acquired a 36-animal stuffed zoo at a cost of $1,000 for his daily NBC pre-session show "starring" delegates of the four-legged variety . . . Pitching for the teenage audience, vet NBC commentator H. V. Kaltenborn will interpret the day's news during both political huddles for the future voters.

* * *

Impressive lineup of top drawer politicos who filed into CBS v.p. Sig Michelson's office to o.o. the televised reaction to the Truman bombshell included the following: Vice Presidential hopefuls Sen. John Kennedy and Sen. Hubert Humphrey; New York's Sen. Herbert Lehman; 1952's V.P. candidate Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama—all Stevenson supporters.

* * *

Former FCC Commissioner Frieda Hennock, a convention observer. And mother of FCC Commissioner Robert Bartley here with her brother, Speaker Sam Rayburn, convention chairman.

* * *

First sponsored show to originate from International Amphitheatre, scene of the convention, was "News Caravan." And NBC is sticking to its "no color" decision. "Caravan" will continue to be sole color show to cover convention.

* * *

Eleventh hour temperament on the part of politicos almost wrecked the carefully laid plans for two of Sunday's (12) panel shows. Harriman campaign chairman Carmine DiSapio, lined up weeks in advance for ABC's "College Press Conference," bowed out morning of show, and was replaced by Lloyd Benefield, national director of the Harriman-for-President clubs . . . And Estes Kefauver, whose convention-nerves kept peeping through, cancelled out of his skedded "Face the Nation" stint right before show time, with former Attorney General Howard McGrath pinchhitting . . . Oddly enough, the Tennessee solon did come on NBC's "Outlook" that same afternoon—a highly unpolitic gesture from a seasoned politician.

* * *

That highly touted elevator devised to make all candidates equal in size for tv brought its first headaches to convention officials when the union demanded control of its operation!

* * *

"Convention Searchlight," the Chicago version of "Citizens' Union Searchlight," went commercial for Sunday's show, with Lanvin perfumes picking up the tab for the five-station deal, on which Rep. John McCormack (Mass.) guested. For the GOP version next Sunday (19), KRON, NBC's 'Frisco affiliate, will be added to the o & o stations to accomodate guest Senate Minority Leader William Knowland, of California.

* * *

British newsman Randolph Churchill a last-minute entry to the tv coverage, with several stints on CBS' "Morning Show."

Ed SULLIVAN Sandy (Scampy) DOBRITCH
"For the Youngsters"
Sundays on Ed Sullivan Show

TV PRODUCERS . . . for the BEST in CIRCUS and NOVELTY
ACTS for TELEVISION
contact . . .
AL DOBRITCH ENTERPRISES
200 West 57th St., New York, N. Y.
Phone: COlumbus 5-4682-3
(For more information, see advertisement in Vaudeville section of this issue.)

Ampex

Continued from page 27

features as Ted Malone and Mickey Mouseketters to Ampex. Reporters servicing stations owned by their papers have also been making a beeline for Ampex. Among latter is May ("Meet the Press") Craig, reporter for Maine papers and stations.

Fewer foreign radio correspondents are on hand than in '52. West Germany, Switzerland and Holland have correspondents in the radio gallery, but France, India, Australia and others are using CBC. Latter, with staff of seven for dual language reporting, is sole foreign outfit with direct feed to home web.

BBC has staff of four, sending short wave and, for first time, doing audio ok remotes for home tv. BBC uses NBC film.

WNYC's Seymour Siegel is on hand to follow progress of Gov. Harriman. N. Y. Municipal station is also using BBC and CBS feeds. WINS has Elaine Sheppard, one-time Hollywood starlet, doing features for the N. Y. indie.

Tele Followup

Continued from page 31

lives while listening to hit numbers of Jimmy McHugh.

Format of this excursion into the past of necessity was rather disjointed. But on the whole the half-hour drama emerged as acceptable hot weather entertainment. Mood of the program was established by McHugh himself. Seated at the piano in Hollywood's Mocambo, he said this would be no "—and then I wrote" routine, but "music played to stir your memories."

Of course, when tablesitters Fred MacMurray and Marilyn Erskine heard the strains of "I Can't Believe That You're in Love With Me" (1928) a timely flashback outlined the circumstances when football star MacMurray wooed and won Miss Erskine, a rich man's daughter. Other MeHugh tunes reminded of the birth of their first child, family quarrels, the husband's wartime service, etc.

Performanees of both MacMurray and Miss Erskine were par for the course in light of the material they had to work with. McHugh adeptly presided at the 88, aided by femme vocalists Karen Vonne, Diane Jergens, Jana Lund, Peggy Dietrick and Darla Hood. Okay in bits were Veda Ann Borg as a business woman and William Traylor as the reminiscing couple's 22-year-old son. Binyon's direction had an airy touch in keeping with the script. An apt line at one point was a phrase mouthed by MacMurray: "I'm beginning to feel I'm on 'This Is Your Life.'" Gilb.

Meet The Press

Question-tossers will try and try again, but by this time they must know that they're up against concrete in the matter of getting "something of value" from any politico topper. The public, which should be the gainer, is the loser. The convincer is, or should be, Paul M. Butler, front-runner for the Demo National Committee, in a tete-a-tete with the scribes on Sunday's (12) "Meet the Press" that must have been frustrating to NBC televiewers.

Butler is sharp, handsome, and a lawyer who knows how to fence. It's all too obvious that party chairmen are (1) partisan and (2) don't take sides on candidate-picking, at least not publicly. It's all sweetness and light, strictly in support of the party-line, whatever it may be at a given moment. But this was the eve of the opening gun of the powow in Chi, so that sorta booking is par for the course.

There doesn't figure to be an improvement next Sunday (19) when GOP chairman Leonard W. Hall comes up against the "Press" just before the Frisco quadrennial. Trau.

CBS Spanking

Continued from page 27

tion coverage, the latter issued the following statement:

"At no time did we make any commitment to carry the Democratic National Committee film, 'Pursuit of Happiness'; we did not know the film was considered an official part of the keynote address. We operated under the traditional pattern of news coverage of national politieal conventions by exercising our news judgment in reporting elements of the convention story from Chicago. In application of that judgment we also included part of the film itself."

While the reel was being spun off for delegates, CBS legmen were interviewing news figures around town and Edward R. Murrow and Eric Sevareid were serving up some political analysis.

While Butler's blowoff was a shocker to Columbia and eompletely unexpected, ill-will between party convention masterminders and all three tv networks had been brewing throughout the day. From the opening gavel which launched the Dem's big gabfest this morning, video webs had shown no hesitancy in pulling away from formal proceedings to eover the political jockeyings in downtown hotels.

Also there was obvious unhappiness among the Dems that video didn't start its beamings tonight until a half-hour after Butler called the meeting to order. Thus, such windowdressing as Frank Sinatra's leadoff song didn't get crosscountry exposure.

Brit. Com'l TV

Continued from page 29

reconstruction scheme is under way, a tv theatre equipped and built at a cost of $420,000 puts up its shutters, and apparatus to screen films and a $112,000 mobile unit are to cease operating.

Under an agreement to exchange programs with other commercial tv outlets in the North and Midlands, arrangements have successfully been eoncluded that will enable A-R to put out only 65% of the London Monday to Friday transmissions; this takes effect on Sept. 14.

At a recent meeting, J. Spencer Wills, A-R chairman, said: "A limited security of tenure from the Conservative Government, a threat of extinction from the Labor Opposition, an excessively high annual payment to the ITA, an obligation to put on "minority" programs of small advertising value, a host of restrictions imposed by statute and license, threats of additional competition from the BBC —all these must daunt the wildest optimist; I remain an optimist." He opined that A-R would incur losses in its first two years but would break even in the third. By the fourth year, it should be making a profit.

HST Puts Show

Continued from page 27

dacy of Adlai Stevenson; the buoyant bid of coonskin-capped Estes Kefauver; the log cabin motif of Oklahoma's Sen. Robert Kerr; the "marching through Georgia" approach of that state's Sen. Richard Russell; the feeble try of Gov. Harriman.

By contrast, Stevenson's polished assurance and Harriman's Ivy League approach made pallid televiewing.

Then good old HST called a Saturday press conference. TV directors marshalled their forces like generals preparing for battle. CBS' John Day, for example, called off a Convention Hall dress rehearsal, commandeered one and one-half hours of network time (NBC used 75 minutes, ABC one hour), and spotted his men, mikes and cameras wherever they might best record reaction to the Truman announcement. NBC's Bill McAndrew and ABC's Tom Velotta followed pretty much the same strategy.

Alomts anything the ex Chief Executive might have said or done would have given tv a shot in the arm. But, calm and composed in the midst of televised bedlam, he behaved like the tv pro he is. He built up to his climax with all the skill, suspense, and drama of a political Alfred Hitchcock. And tv was not found wanting. From the crowded ballroom of the Blackstone Hotel, from Harriman and Stevenson h.q., from jampacked lobbies and streets, the story hit the circuits with all the excitement and color of the real thing.

Harry Truman had put the tv show on the road!

'Crash Research'

Continued from page 28

gineering studies in both VHF and UHF to give individuals and government authorities facts on which to base any ehanges in that service. This is definitely not an anti-UHF group. If the extensive engineering studies should indicate that substantial or complete eonversion to UHF would best serve the American publie, then this association would approve that move in a manner best designed to protect the interests of the setowning public," Harris stated.

Other officers eleeted at the meet were: Charles Crutchfield, WBTV, Charlotte, and Ken Carter, WAAM-TV, Baltimore, veepes, and Harold Gross, WJIM-TV, Lansing, see-treasurer.

Board of directors beside the above includes: Howard Lane, KOIN-TV, Portland, Ore.; John Hayes, WTOP-TV, Washington; Payson Hall, WOW-TV, Omaha; Joe Bernard, WGR, Buffalo; Harold Hough, WBAP-TV, Fort Worth; P. A. Sugg, WKY-TV, Oklahoma City; Don Davis, KMBC, Kansas City; Harold Stuart, KVOO-TV, Tulsa; David Baltimore, WBRE-TV, Wilkes-Barre, and Robert Swezey, WDSU-TV, New Orleans.

Conaway

Continued from page 30

unemployed for extended periods.

We expect that our history-making Pension and Welfare program will be extended to even more members, in radio and related fields, as a result of the forthcoming collective bargaining negotiations with the industry.

In its short history the AFTRA Fund has paid substantial benefits to members and their dependents in time of need due to hospitalization, medical care and death. We expect that our Pension program will go a long way toward making retirement a pleasurable and secure reality rather than a bleak prospect.

Though we all recognize that AFTRA was the first union in the entertainment field to establish a National Pension and Welfare program, and that the program has great merit as is, we are not content with these accomplishments alone. We expect to go further in the future, on a sound actuarial basis. The excellent cooperation we have received from the industry in the development of the Plan we now have furnishes a good foundation for what we hope to accomplish in the future.

Donald F. Conaway
(National Executive Secrteary, AFTRA)

'Amahl' a Texas Fave

Corpus Christi, Aug. 14.

Soloists from the Dallas Lyric Theatre will sing "Amahl and the Night Vistors" with Jacques Singer and the Corpus Christi Symphony Orchestra Dec. 3. The chorus will be local.

The role of "Amahl" is yet to be cast and auditions will be held in Dallas for boy sopranos on Oct. 6 by Walter Hendl, conductor of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, and Samuel Adler, musical director of the Lyric Theatre.

"Amahl and the Night Vistors" probably will be staged in Dallas on Dec. 22 and 23; the latter a matinee performance for Dallas County school children.

Industrials

Continued from page 29

of these advertisers. "Omnibus," which up to now has been nearly a single-handed influence in bringing in industrial accounts, is such a format. News programs, opening up for sponsorship, "magazine" concepts like "Today," all offer the opportunity to get into the medium under specialized circumstances befitting the need of the industrial outfit. Some, like U. S. Steel, Kaiser and Alcoa, find adult drama the best format for their message.

A final and somewhat subtle influence has been the socalled "industrial" or publie relations film. The 16m non-theatrieal film field has been in long use by these advertisers as an industry relations tool, but with the eoming of television and the "free" pattern of televising these films as public service sustainers, the advertisers reawakened to the possibilities of these films and then to the strength of television as a medium.

Under the "free film" pattern on tv, the advertiser pays the production and shipping eosts of a public relations film running usually from 15 minutes to a half-hour or even an hour. The producer or a specialized distributor (like Association Films or Modern Talking Picture Service, to name a eouple of the biggest) then ships the films to stations, whieh delete all or nearly all commercial aspects of the film and play it on a sustaining basis at no charge.

Having become aware of the strength of television through this back-door method, the industrial companies are now knocking on the front entrance.

FOR RENT

Most Artistic Modern Home. 15x30 foot Swimming Pool — Flagstone Terrace. Overlooking Delaware River. Five miles this side of New Hope, Pa.

Over $50,000.00 spent in 1953 to make this unusually compact home last word in comfort, charm and inspiration.

Large two story living room, enormous stone fireplace, most modern kitchen-bar, three bedrooms, two new luxurious bathrooms.

Plus a separate apartment on Swimming Pool level, with living room, fireplace, bedroom with another luxurious bathroom and kitchen, with own entrance.

No help required for Perfect Upkeep.

Rent $3600.00 per year on two year lease or will consider lease-sale arrangement.

Immediate Possession.

JAMES SAUTER
Hotel Pierre, New York
TEmpleton 8-8000

Interested in purchasing radio transcriptions with syndication possibilities.

Send particulars to:
Box 6810, VARIETY,
154 West 46th St.,
New York 36, N. Y.

Television Reviews

Continued from page 31

Carle combo drowning her out. She registered best on her "Sweet Georgia Brown" material and with a nod to her father, tunesmith Ray Gilbert, on "Bahia." Carle's best efforts were on "Marie," "Autumn Leaves" and "Stardust."

Web will have to find some better way of presenting Carle than this to take best advantage of what he has to offer. This one doesn't do him justice. Kap.

THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF MR. WIDDGETT
With Fred Hohl, Bill Hindman
Producer-Director: Jack Anthony, Jack Carroll
Writer: Fred Hohl
60 Mins., Mon.-thru-Fri., 4 p.m.
Sustaining
WLW-C, Columbus

"The Wonderful World of Mr. Widdgett" is a fascinating new afternoon children's show which stars Fred Hohl as an elderly Swiss woodcarver who is gentle and kind but not always convincing as an elderly character Although Hohl goes through the physical actions usually attributed to old age, his voice often betrays his real age (29).

The new WLW-C personality brings a wealth of talent to his role, however. He is the type of soft-spoken "old" man whom children often like. He can draw and perform dextrous acts which will appeal to the lollipop set.

Hohl was educated at the U. of Basel in Switzerland and thus knows quite a bit of background about the folklore and mores of that country. His costume for the production was imported from Switzerland. In fact, customs red tape held up its arrival for the first show (6) so the starting of the series was delayed for one day rather than go on without the authentic habiliment.

As the program develops, however, perhaps more emphasis can be placed on active diversions for the children. Those used now — cartoons, conversations and crafts — are pretty much sedentary.

Bill Hindman supplies the voice and animation for a delightful puppet known as Seppi, the mountain goat. Whereas, Mr. Widdgett is always kind and forgiving, Seppi sometimes makes pointed and comical comments which makes for distinction between the two characters. Conn.

LET'S GO STARGAZING
With Ivan Aron
Producer-Writer: Aron
Director: Bill Buccalo
15 Mins., Thurs. (9), 8:30 p.m.
WOSU-TV, Columbus

Although this program has an appealing title which might suggest an interesting show for laymen televiewers, actually it is not.

It is tedious and boring because its "star," Ivan Aron, a graduate student at Ohio State U., approaches his dissertation from the standpoint that he is addressing astronomy students, not tv viewers.

SATURDAY SPORTS MIRROR
With Jack Drees, Bill Hickey; guests, Shirley Boomer, Peewee Reese, Pat McCormick
Producer: James Dolan
Director: Vern Diamond
Writer: Bob Allison
30 Mins., Sat., 7 p.m.
CBS-TV, from New York

CBS-TV got a lot into this one, and without the typical pretentions of a sports omnibus. Producer Jim Dolan kept it modest and comprehensible as he integrated interviews by Jack Drees and Bill Hickey with news and features in last Saturday's (11) performance of "Sports Mirror."

Drees and Hickey were more than up to the task, but Drees was, by dint of his ease and attention to pertinent fact, the better interviewer. He also spieled with Olympic woman diver Pat McCormick, and Hickey, who opened the half-hour, talked to English tennis player Shirley Boomer. Intermittently, there were straight reports on the day's latest news. Dolan wisely limited his show to simple wipes in segueing from one segment to another.

On the nature of the film used: the news clips of the Dodger game that day adequately covered the topic, but the material in the feature story on the football Chicago Cardinals was not commensurate with the time it was given. It was too much a static celluloidal "Who's Who," and it didn't look as though anybody was left out. CBS seemed preoccupied with getting in as immodcrate a plug as it could for the network's upcoming pro grid coverage.

In all, however, program would make a worthy fall insert on the web. Art.

SPOTLIGHT ON TALENT
With Hal Tunis, Bette Chapel, Freddie Montell, Michael Bondon, Allan Jones; Bob Trendler orch
Producer: Allan David
Director: Donald Kane
30 Mins.; Sat., 6 p.m.
DON ROSS' LINCOLN PARK BUICK
WGN-TV, Chicago

Musical stanzas are bursting out all over on WGN-TV's Channel 9. Latest edition, an outside package spawned by Allan David's production shop, has as its peg the showcasing of pro talent from around town that hasn't been initiated to television.

All hands acquitted themselves okay on the curtainraiser (4). Guest Michael Bondon exposed a studious baritone on "Night and Day" and "Old Man River." Regular warblers Bette Chapel and Freddie Montell unspooled a bundle of pleasant ditties. Host Hal Tunis held the half-hour together in a quiet, if somewhat overly formal manner and chinned for a few minutes with Allan Jones, the windowdressing name. The production trappings were adequate, if not particularly imaginative.

In short, one of those beltline jobs with little to distinguish it from countless others of the same idiom that have bloomed for a spell then quietly withered into limbo. Dave.

FARM
With Shirley Anderson, Willard Eichelhart, Martha Logan, Livingston Gilbert
Producers: Burt Blackwell, Shirley Anderson
Director: Bob Brewer
60 Mins., Sat., 12 noon
Participating WAVE-TV, Louisville.

Once-a-week full hour show originating at the 325-acre farm owned and operated by WAVE, located at Worthington, Ky., in Jefferson County, impresses as a commendable effort in public interest, convenience and necessity. Station acquired the farm in latter part of '54, and started telecasting from that location in January, 1955. Shirley Anderson, station's farm director, was Jefferson County Farm Agent, and is handling the farm director chores full time for WAVE. Kentucky is predominantly an agricultural state, hence information is tremendously imoprtant to rural viewers.

At show caught (11), dairy department was highlighted. Anderson and Willard Eichelhart were discovered outside the farm's aluminum dairy barn, where they discussed the 20-cow dairy herd. Matters of feed, housing, feed lot, and a detailed oral and visual explanation of the farm's milking parlor, together with mechanical milkers, and all the processes of cleaning cows' udders, until the milk is finally pumped into a truck, preceding by the weighing of milk from individual cows, until the milk truck takes the milk off, were explained in detail, and all highly instructive.

"Farm" is a pretentious location show, entailing many engineering problems, and no doubt is a costly project for the station. However, with four participating sponsors, and Livingston Gilbert, capable and authoritative on the commercial pitches, show is beginning to pay its way. Reynolds Metals, Ralston Purina, International Harvester, and Louisville Farm Implement Co. all figure in the narrations. Farm equipment commercials are on film. Wied.

TEXACO STAR THEATRE
SATURDAY NIGHT—N.B.C.
Mgt.: William Morris Agency

EVERY DAY ON EVERY CHANNEL TV
BROOKS COSTUMES
3 West 61st St., N.Y.C.-Tel. PL 7-5800

Ask Dismissal of 500G Suit on 'Cowboy G-Men'

A move for dismissal of a $500,000 damage suit against Flamingo Films and others involved in the distribution of "Cowboy G-Men" was made in Federal District Court last week.

The general denial of allegations was made by defendants after Mutual Television Productions, Inc., the producing company of the 39-episode series, filed suit. Mutual Television allegations charge that Flamingo, which took over distribution from United Artists Television Corp., undersold the property and failed to use its best efforts to exploit and sell the series.

Cyanide, Anyone?

Continued from page 10

to farmer Brown's house looking for her long lost daughter. After telling Brown her tale of woe, he just happens to remember where he found baby, and a check of the kid's old duds cinches the make.

Now when mom gets the picture, and finds out who baby is marrying up with, she hits the panic button and blasts off down the pike at 16 frames a second. Meanwhile, baby and dad have reached the church, and the ceremony is in the stretch. A series of cutaways reveal mom setting a new dirt track record . . .

Now here's where the folks at WSAZ goofed: Naturally, the film ends with mom arriving at the church in time to stop the wedding, there's a big reconciliation bit, and you know . . . but before all this transpires, station projectionist Frank Matthews discovers time has run out, fades the film right when baby and dad are up to their armpits in orange blossoms and "oh, promise me," and signals announcer Jerry Tolbert to cut in and wind it up. Tolbert gets the nod, and having long since lost track of the plot, cuts in with rich, pear shaped tones . . . "and they lived happily ever after."

Realizing what has happened, Matthews fights back a coronary long enough to make a valiant try at smoothing over the incestuous insinuation . . . He rings down the NARTB seal of good practice.

Hub Blankets Loop

Boston, Aug. 14.

Boston radio went on a politico kick for the Democratic National in Chicago this week with every major station giving fairly complete coverage. Station WHDH is on the air every half-hour with special reports and a special broadcast direct from the convention city by W. E. Mullins, political editor of the Boston Herald, comes through on the 6 p.m. newscast.

Stations WEEI, WVDA, WNAC, WGBH-FM are giving full coverage. WEEI, the CBS station, has big names. WVDA has the ABC network commentators and reporters. WNAC has Yankee Network and Mutual coverage. WBZ-WBZA, which cut its connections with NBC for afternoon programs, has complete coverage only at night. For special broadcasts during the day and early evening they are relying on a staff headed by WBZ news director Rod MacLeish.

Era of Harder-To-Come-By Pix Originals Blamed on Television

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

Television has eliminated the good original screen story, Budd Lesser, story editor of Bel-Air Productions, complains. Lesser says he has gone through about 4,000 submissions since he took over 10 months ago as Hollywood's most prolific indie which is operating at the rate of 12 features annually.

"Good original screen stories," Lesser moans, "are almost as extinct as the Dinosaur Brontosaurus. Before tv there was a predictable supply of inventively conceived and competently executed originals specifically designed for feature film production. They were turned out by successful film writers between regular screenplay assignments.

"For the most part, these in-betweens no longer exist. The top writing talent shuttles rapidly from one medium to another, filling in feature pictures lulls with television jobs."

Lesser reported that both Bel-Air toppers Aubrey Schenck and H. W. Koch have admitted that a writer would probably have to be crazy to sweat out an original that might or might not sell, in preference to latching onto a guaranteed fee for grinding out tv fodder. "But they can't help wishing for a few mad geniuses with artistic goals."

Not that Lesser and his two bosses view all feature product as "artistic triumps" and all tv fare as "junk," storyman hastened to add. Lesser pointed out, however, that tv is victim to "countless curbs" imposed by many factors beyond the writer's control.

"And when a writer does pound out an occasional original," Lesser complained, "he usually confines himself to material well within these limitations—figuring that if the yarn doesn't sell for a feature, it has to be suitable for tv submission."

Loew's-KTTV

Continued from page 1

features. After the seven-year licensing period, the library reverts to Loew's.

The agreement throws an entire different complexion on negotiations with CBS-TV for its o&o stations, one of which is KNXT, in Los Angeles. CBS talks would now be limited perforce to WCBS, N. Y., WBBM-TV, Chicago; and WXIX, Milwaukee.

In addition to CBS negotiations, Metro is holding talks with over 12 stations currently on library deals, some of which could take the turn of the KTTV deal, with station interest accruing to Loew's.

Arthur M. Loew, president of Loew's Inc., who participated in the KTTV negotiations, consummated the deal in New York. He observed: "Our acquisition in the station is of particular satisfaction as it gives us a voice in the way our pictures should be presented. . . . We look forward to more arrangements with top stations in the U.S."

Norman Chandler, KTTV board chairman and publisher of the Los Angeles Times and Mirror, which owns the indie, stated that "the creative skills of the MGM organization will bring a new wealth of talent and entertainment to television stations everywhere. . . . They will be an active and working partner and new hope this will only be the first step in a continuing and expanding role of MGM in television broadcasting."

It is understood that Loew's will have board representation on KTTV, with Charles C. (Bud) Barry, v.p. in charge of Metro's tv operation, the probable representative. Barry and Richard A. Moore, KTTV prez now in N.Y., conducted the major negotiations.

On the basis of current station dickers, it appears that Metro is accenting library selling, rather than the previously announced packages of 52. Metro hopes to make a library sale in every major tv market in the U. S.

The KTTV agreement encompasses every feature film in the Metro library through 1948, with the exception of "Gone With the Wind" and "Wizard of Oz," the latter licensed to CBS for network exposure. But "Wizard" also will become available to the Los Angeles indie after the expiration of CBS' three options after the initial showing.

Other provisions in the KTTV deal call for black-and-white transmissions, with an extra color charge to be negotiated when and if KTTV elects to telecast any of the features in color. Under the agreement, a group of 40 to 50 theatrical reissues will be made available to KTTV on a delayed basis arrangement, with KTTV holding seven-year licensing rights to these after their theatrical re-release.

Art Mooney orch set for a week on NBC's "Bandstand" beginning Aug. 27.

Getz Preps 1st Runs Of French, Italian Pix

Preparation of a foreign feature film package, in color and dubbed in English, which has never been released theatrically in the U.S., for first runs on tv, is underway by Don Getz, president of Theatrical & Video Corp.

Getz, now in Paris where he is completing final details, will announce the list of titles in the first package of 13 upon his return shortly. The initial package, slated for release to tv some time this fall, will be predominately French and Italian. Dubbing and re-recording has already begun in Paris under the supervision of Jules Buck, former 20th-Fox producer.

Murray M. Kaplan, v.p. of Theatrical & Video will be in charge of sales.

New Batch For Col

Columbia Pictures is preparing to release another group of features to tv through its subsid Screen Gems, probably in the fall.

Current thinking is to prepare a package of 52 for fall selling and another 52 for marketing later in the year.

"Mr. DISTRICT ATTORNEY"
STARRING DAVID BRIAN

ZIV SHOWS RATE GREAT!
31.2
in 3-station
HARTFORD
beating Phil Silvers, Jackie Gleason, Arthur Godfrey, Fireside Theatre, Lux Video Theatre, Kraft TV Theatre and many others.
ARB—Feb. '56
ZIV TELEVISION PROGRAMS, Inc. Cincinnati, Chicago, Hollywood, New York

Jocks, Jukes and Disks

By MIKE GROSS

Vic Damone: "Speak My Love"-"War and Peace" (Columbia). After bouncing back into the hit brackets with "On The Street Where You Live," Vic Damone delivers another strong money record with "Speak My Love." It's a top-flight ballad blending of lyric and melody due for a long ride on all spinning levels. "War and Peace," on the flip side, is a contrived waltz-styled item adapted from one of themes from the pic of the same name.

Billy Vaughn Orch: "When The White Lilacs Bloom Again"-"Spanish Diary" (Dot). There's already a big wax spread on the German-originated "When The White Lilacs Bloom Again" and Billy Vaughn's etching should be counted among the forerunners. He brings to the lilting melodic line an ear-catching quality that's hard to resist. "Spanish Diary," however, is just a routine effort.

Al Martino: "The Girl I Left In Rome"-"A Love To Call My Own" (Capitol). This coupling, especially the "Girl I Left In Rome" side, should build new favor for Al Martino, who hasn't had a big one in some time. He shows off a rhythmic belting beat that builds the melody's happy flavor into a top spinning entry. He turns to the big ballad form on "A Love To Call My Own" effectively.

Richard Hayman - Jan August: "Sadie's Shawl"-"Carnival In Rome" (Mercury). The British instrumental import, "Sadie's Shawl," is a frolicsome musical piece that will make some headway here via the Richard Hayman-Jan August tandem. Blending of harmonica (Hayman) and piano (August) highlights the captivating musical line. Buddy Bregman gives the same tune an intriguing orch workover on the RCA Victor label. "Carnival In Rome," on the Mercury flip, is a lighthearted affair that'll have a tough time taking the play away from its mate.

Four Tunes: "Ballad of James Dean"-Sayonara" (Jubilee). Resurgence of the late James Dean's popularity gives the Four Tunes' workover of "The Ballad of James Dean" a good chance to make some noise in the teenage market. It's an overly dramatic musical tribute but just right for the current Dean vogue. "Sayonara" is an okay ballad entry with an Oriental motif.

Dean Martin: "Test of Time"-"Mississippi Dream-Boat" (Capitol). This is just a par-for-the-course coupling for Dean Martin. Neither side has a breakaway potential but each is likeable enough to pull in a fair spinning score. "Test of Time" is in the slow ballad groove which he sings with ease. On the other side, Martin takes off on a lively, lowdown rhythm style.

Somethin' Smith & The Redheads: "Heartaches"-"Cecilia" (Epic). "Heartaches" is the perfect tune for the Somethin' Smith combo's shuffle beat rhythm. Sparked by Smith, the group whips up the kind of oldfashioned melodic quality that goes over so well with the jukebox trade. The approach to "Cecilia" is in a similar vein and it should wind up with the same coin-pulling results.

Sammy Davis Jr.: "Earthbound"-"Just One Of Those Things" (Decca). "Earthbound" has an arresting melodic line but the lyric addition doesn't help it much. Sammy Davis Jr., however, gives it an occasional kick. He jazzes up "Just One Of Those Things" in such a way that only the Davis diehards can appreciate.

Alan Freed-Steve Allen-Al (Jazzbo) Collins-The Modernaires: "The Space Man" - "Jazzbo's Theory" (Coral). Attempt to carbon the clicko "Flying Saucer" technique doesn't come off in this all-star slicing. Piece, penned by Steve Allen, and worked over by regiment credited above misses its mark in the music and humor departments. Al (Jazzbo) Collins has the flip side to himself. It's a special material item with limited appeal.

Kay Starr: "The Good Book"-"The Things I Never Had" (RCA Victor). Pair of tunes from the upcoming NBC-TV spec, "The Lord Don't Play Favorites," are ordinary concoctions with slim breakout potential. "The Good Book" is a routine spiritual effort while "The Things I Never Had" is a ballad fashioned in the blues vein without too much distinction. Kay Starr, however, gives 'em both lots of vocal punch.

Mills Bros.: "That's Right"-"Don't Get Caught" (Decca). Give the Mills Bros. a swinging side and they'll really take it to town. That's just what they do with "That's Right," a solid jumping item with r&b overtones. It's sure to pick up plenty of play along the way. The boys have a lot of fun toying with "Don't Get Caught," a pleasant rhythmic piece with a cute lyric handling. It, too, should nab good spinning time.

Pearl Bailey: "The Gypsy Goofed"-"I Can't Rock 'n' Roll to Save My Soul" (Mercury). "The Gypsy Goofed" gives Pearl Bailey an easy item to play around with. It's got a catchy rhythm line and lyric values that are right up her alley. Deejays should go for it in a big way. Bottom deck is just so-so fodder for Miss Bailey's piping style.

Jim Lowe: "The Green Door"-"The Little Man in Chinatown" (Dot). These are a couple of obbeat sides but interesting enough to whip up the kind of spinning play that could pull it out of left field. "The Green Door" has an intriguing melody pattern, highlighted by a barrelhouse piano, while "The Little Man in Chinatown" is a novelty item with a chopstick flavor. Jim Lowe gives both an exurberant vocal.

Polly Bergen: "One Little Mistake"-"Darling I Belong to You" (Unique). Polly Bergen tackles the r&b beat in "One Little Mistake" and makes it come off. The side has the driving punch that appeals to the youngsters and it could pile up deejay requests. Thrush switches to the sweet-voiced styling on "Darling I Belong to You" making it an easy-to-take offering.

Lew Conetta: "Old Love Letters"-"The Pizza Pizzerell" (King). "Old Love Letters" is a neatly fashioned ballad entry that should attract some attention to crooner Lew Conetta. It's in the sentimental groove and he applies the proper vocal tone to get it across. "The Pizza Pizzerell" shows him off in a swinging mood. It's a gay, free-wheeling side that should do especially well in the jukeboxes.

George Cates Orch: "Where There's Life"-"One Nite in Monte Carlo" (Coral). "Where There's Life" should find its niche in deejay instrumental programming. Melody has a standup base and Cates gives it a repeat-spin potential. There's nothing too outstanding, however, in "One Night in Monte Carlo."

LAWRENCE WELK
and his
CHAMPAGNE MUSIC
(Exclusively on Coral)
260th Consecutive Week
Aragon Ballroom—Ocean Park, Cal.
ABC-TV—Sat. 9-10 P. M. EDT
Sponsored by
Dodge Dealers of America

Best Bets

VIC DAMONE ..... SPEAK MY LOVE
(Columbia) ..... War and Peace

BILLY VAUGHN ORCH. ..... WHEN THE WHITE LILACS
(Dot) ..... Spanish Diary

Album Reviews

Cy Walter: "Rodgers Revisited" (Atlantic). Habitues of the small cocktaileries in New York already know how Cy Walter's background keyboarding permeates the room with captivating melodies. This mood has been excellently captured on wax and although it's limited to the works of Richard Rodgers only, Walter keeps the rhythmic patterns interesting and varied at all times. His styling is highly inventive but the melodic line as originally blocked out by the composer is constantly in the fore. In addition to a flock of Rodgers' lively showtune pieces, Walter delivers topflight treatments of such instrumental efforts as "Carousel Waltzes," "March of the Siamese Children" and "Slaughter on 10th Ave."

Woolf Philips Orch: "The Lullaby of Broadway" (London). British orch leader Woolf Philips brings a light and flavorsome touch to the music of Al Dubin and Harry Warren. The treatment is highly listenable and danceable and will revive memories of such Dubin & Warren efforts as "I Only Have Eyes for You," "You're Getting to Be a Habit With Me," "42d Street," "Shuffle Off to Buffalo" as well as the title song.

Tito Puente Orch: "Cuban Carnival" (RCA Victor). This is an exciting sampling of the Afro-Cuban beat as laid out by Tito Puente ,one of its standout purveyors. Most of the tunes were arranged by Puente and he covers the chile gamut to include the cha-cha-cha, mambo and rhumba stylings. Whether working with small, medium or large orch, Puente manages to whip up solid swinging stuff.

Erroll Garner: "Concert by the Sea" (Columbia). This package, cut at a concert performance in Carmel, Calif., shows off more of Erroll Garner's good-humored keyboard improvisations. A receptive aud, whose recorded mitting, doesn't disturb the flow of the disk, had him jumping from one hot riff to another. Sidemen Denzil Best (drums) and Eddie Calhoun (bass) help him give body to "I'll Remember April," "Autumn Leaves," "April in Paris" and "Where or When," among others.

Frances Faye: "Relaxin' With Frances Faye" (Bethlehem). This is hardly a set for relaxin' as the title indicates. For Frances Faye belts with a power that makes you sit up and take notice. It's a lively shellac dish in which she serves up a dozen standards in a way that makes 'em worth hearing again. She gets an appropriate orch backing from Frank Hunter.

Friedrich Gulda: "At Birdland" (RCA Victor). Austrian classical pianist Friedrich Gulda gets his first crack at the U. S. jazz market with this "At Birdland" package. Produced by John Hammond at Birdland, New York jazz nitery, the set showcases Gulda's vibrant fingerwork. He leans towards the cool styling in a setting of mostly his own compositions developing jump, ballad and jam session moods as he goes along. It's a good study of a new jazz figure at work. For the Birdland buffs, there's an intro by PeeWee Marquette, the jazzery's perennial host. Gros.

---

British-born pianist Marian McPartland, now a top jazz star in America, has returned to Britain for a holiday.

VARIETY 10 Best Sellers on Coin-Machines

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. | MY PRAYER (4) | Platters | Mercury |
| 2. | WHATEVER WILL BE, WILL BE (4) | Doris Day | Columbia |
| 3. | ALLEGHENY MOON (7) | Patti Page | Mercury |
| 4. | HOUND DOG (2) | Elvis Presley | Victor |
| 5. | I ALMOST LOST MY MIND (8) | Pat Boone | Dot |
| 6. | ON THE STREET WHERE YOU LIVE (8) | Vic Damone | Columbia |
| 7. | CANADIAN SUNSET (1) | Hugo Winterhalter / Andy Williams | Victor / Cadence |
| 8. | I WANT YOU, I NEED YOU, I LOVE YOU (2) | Elvis Presley | Victor |
| 9. | I'M IN LOVE AGAIN (10) | Fats Domino / Fontane Sisters | Imperial / Dot |
| 10. | GLENDORA (6) | Perry Como | Victor |

Second Group

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| WAYWARD WIND | Gogi Grant | Era |
| STRANDED IN THE JUNGLE | Cadets / Jayhawks | Modern / Flash |
| FLYING SAUCERS | Buchanan-Goodman | Luniperse |
| GHOST TOWN | Don Cherry | Columbia |
| THAT'S ALL THERE IS TO THAT | Nat (King) Cole | Capitol |
| MORE | Perry Como | Victor |
| IT ONLY HURTS FOR A LITTLE WHILE | Ames Bros. | Victor |
| BORN TO BE WITH YOU | Chordettes | Cadence |
| SWEET OLD-FASHIONED GIRL | Teresa Brewer | Coral |
| SONG FOR A SUMMER NIGHT | Mitch Miller | Columbia |

(Figures in parentheses indicate number of weeks song has been in the Top 10)

Songs With Largest Radio Audience

*The top 30 songs of week (more in case of ties), based on copyrighted Audience Coverage Index & Audience Trend Index. Published by Office of Research, Inc., Dr. John Gray Peatman, Director. Alphabetically listed. Legit musical. †Film. ††TV.

Survey Week of Aug. 3-9, 1956

| | |
|---|---|
| A Beautiful Friendship | Kahn |
| A Sweet Old-Fashioned Girl | Valor |
| Allegheny Moon | Oxford |
| Big 'D'—*"Most Happy Fella" | Frank |
| Canadian Sunset | Meridian |
| Cool Tango | Ardmore |
| English Muffins And Irish Stew | Shapiro-B |
| Experiments With Mice | Mills |
| Glendora | American |
| Happiness Street | Planetary |
| Hound Dog | P&L |
| I Almost Lost My Mind | St. Louis |
| I Could Have Danced All Night—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| It Only Hurts for a Little While | Advanced |
| I've Grown Accustomed—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| Mama, Teach Me To Dance | Roncom |
| Me 'N' You 'N' The Moon—†"Pardners" | Paramount |
| On the Street Where You Live—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| One Finger Piano | Marks |
| Portuguese Washerwoman | Remick |
| Proud Ones—†"Proud Ones" | W&B |
| Soft, Summer Breeze | Regent |
| Standing On the Corner—*"Most Happy Fella" | Frank |
| True Love—†"High Society" | Buxton Hill |
| Wait, Little Darling | Mills |
| Wayward Wind | Warman |
| Whatever Will Be, Will Be—†"Man Who Knew" | Artists |
| When The White Lilacs Bloom Again | Harms |
| You Bring Out The Lover In Me | Morris |
| You're Sensational—†"High Society" | Buxton Hill |

Top 30 Songs on TV

(More In Case of Ties)

| | |
|---|---|
| A Beautiful Friendship | Kahn |
| A Choir Of Angels | Porgie |
| A Sweet Old-Fashioned Girl | Valor |
| Allegheny Moon | Oxford |
| Born To Be With You | Mayfair |
| Canadian Sunset | Meridian |
| Don't Cry—*"Most Happy Fella" | Frank |
| Fabulous Character | Valando |
| From The Candy Store On The Corner | Shapiro-B |
| Glendora | American |
| Happiness Street | Planetary |
| How Little We Know | Morris |
| I Almost Lost My Mind | St. Louis |
| I Could Have Danced All Night—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| I Want You, I Need You, I Love You | Presley |
| It Only Hurts For A Little While | Advanced |
| Mama, Teach Me To Dance | Roncom |
| Me 'N' You 'N' The Moon—†"Pardners" | Paramount |
| More | Shapiro-B |
| My Prayer | Shapiro-B |
| None Of That Now | Miller |
| On The Street Where You Live—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| Pardners—†"Pardners" | Paramount |
| Rock And Roll Ball | Sylvia |
| Speak, My Love | Harvard |
| Standing On The Corner—*"Most Happy Fella" | Frank |
| Tennessee Rock And Roll | Broadcast |
| Too Close For Comfort—*"Mr. Wonderful" | Laurel |
| Wayward Wind | Warman |
| Whatever Will Be, Will Be—†"Man Who Knew" | Artists |

CIVIL LIBERTIES AND R & R

Cap Takes 'Giant' Step in Dark

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

Without hearing a note, Capitol closed a deal to issue the soundtrack album of Dimitri Tiomkin's score from "Giant," forthcoming Warner release which will be extensively exploited as James Dean's last film. Score has not been completed when the deal was made, although Capitol did hear two tunes written by Tiomkin, with lyrics by Paul Francis Webster, which will be incorporated into the score.

In recent previews of the film, Warners has alternately used and dropped the title tune. Previews, incidentally, have utilized canned music from other WB films for background score purposes.

Luniverse's 'Flying Saucer' Settlement Adds Up to a Plethora of Pennies

As was expected, the Luniverse recording of "Flying Saucer," and its two principals, as authors and publishers, Dick Goodman and Bob Buchanan, settled the music industry's claim against them for unauthorized usages of copyrighted music by taking out a license. Still unresolved is the recording industry's aspect of it, since also involved were alleged infringements, by name (or disguised name, such as The Clatters for The Platters, and Skinny Dynamos for Fats Domino), and simulations and/or actual recorded excerpts from past proved disks. The record manufacturers are still talking to the Record Industry Assn. of America on a future plan for action.

Meantime, the settlement via Julian T. Abeles, attorney for the music publishers, embraces (a), a $10,000 posted bond; (b), an accounting and payment of royalty on all manufactured records, which is a marked distinction from the trade practice of payment only on records sold; (c), a royalty on the disks, from the first sold, on a cut-rate basis. In aggregate this is said to total around 17c for the platter as against the 2c-per-side, if it were a disk with two single compositions. Since a medley of 17 different tunes (two of them

(Continued on page 52)

Mickey Mantle, Singer

Slugger Mickey Mantle of the N. Y. Yankees will make his disk bow in tandem with Teresa Brewer on the Coral label. Mantle will duet with the thrush on "I Love Mickey," tune penned by Miss Brewer, Ruth Roberts and Bill Katz.

The tune was preemed on Ed Sullivan's CBS-TV show Sunday (12) and put into the groove by Coral the following day.

Did Sinatra Grab Cap Gains Deal On 'Society' Set?

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

In unprecedented disk business deal, Frank Sinatra is apparently winding up with capital gains setup in "High Society" soundtrack album. Details of the transaction are involved and secret but it's understood Metro gave Sinatra soundtrack rights figuring exploitation value of the album would be tremendous.

He had the album produced and sold it to Capitol Records Distributing Co. which is handling the release. Platter's label says "Manufactured For Essex Productions Inc.", which is Sinatra's company. However, Capitol prexy Glenn Wallichs denies any such deal. He says the album always was Capitol's although there's no record of studio having sold rights to waxery.

STAR DISKERY TEES OFF

The Star Record label, Pittsburgh indie, kicked off its disk activity this week with platters by Slim Johnson and Gina Fuller.

Star's releases will cover the pop and rock 'n' roll fields.

Rock 'n' Roll, Get Lost; It's Now 'Happy Music' And Buck Ram's Got It

Buck Ram, tunesmith-manager, has packaged a group of his own artists for a tour of the U.S. and Canada. The unit will fly under the banner of "Buck Ram Presents Happy Music."

Tour kicks off Aug. 3 at Toronto's Casino Theatre and dates have already been set in Montreal, Chicago and the Paramount Theatres chain. The package will be headed by the Platters and will feature Shirley Gunther, the Flairs, the Cues, Dolly Cooper, Joe Houston and Young Jesse.

Acts are all rock 'n' roll performers, but Ram is sticking to the "Happy Music" label because of the many squawks sparked by the r 'n' r beat. His slogan will be "The Happy Beat For Happy Feet."

Lengsfelder Back From Europe With Lotsa Pacts

H. J. Lengsfelder, cleffer-publisher-disker, returned to his New York base last week after winding up his semi-annual European trek lining up deals for his Pleasant Music firm and Request Records operation. While overseas, he conducted more than two dozen recording sessions for his own label as well as for some indies.

For his Pleasant Music, Lengsfelder brought back agreements with Mills Music Ltd., Edward Kassner, B. F. Wood, Richard Schauer and Cecil Lennox in England, Nazionalmusic and Leonardi in Italy and Altona in Holland, among others. In addition, Lengsfelder pacted soprano Frieda Teller, who'll be starred this season with the Vienna Staats-Opera. She'll be released by Request Records in an Offenbach album.

FREE EXPRESSION AT ISSUE: ACLU

By MIKE KAPLAN

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

Rock 'n' roll music, frowned upon by straitlaced city fathers in communities from coast to coast, has found a new champion in the American Civil Liberties Union.

The right of after-beat addicts to flip their wigs hasn't yet become an issue with the national Civil Liberties organization. But it has come under the scrutiny of ACLU executives here and they have started the ball rolling on what may become a national campaign.

As far as local ACLU rep A. L. Wirin is concerned, this is strictly another demonstration of the truth of the legend about Voltaire and his willingness to fight for the right of free expression even of his opponents.

"I," said Wirin, repressing a shudder as he recalled some of the music he's heard in the last few days, "am strictly a Beethoven man."

However, despite his preference he's ready to back to the limit the right of teenagers to have the kind of music they want. Current attempts to ban the r&r beat, he contends, constitute a "monstrous denial of freedom of expression."

Wiring was plucked from the serenity of his longhair music contemplation and into the screaming cacophony of rock 'n' roll by a hearing in El Monte, one of the small cities surrounding Los Angeles, on whether to refuse promoter Hal Zeiger a permit to hold r&r dances in American Legion Hall.

'Censorship Over Art'

"The American Civil Liberties Union is interested," Wirin explained, "because what we have here is a clear case of a board at-

(Continued on page 52)

MGM Re-Kneads 'Baker's Dozen'

MGM Records is kicking off its fall sales program with a third crack at its "Baker's Dozen" campaign. Plan offers distributors and dealers one cuffo album for every 12 purchased in both the LP and EP category. The album drive will run through Oct. 15.

In line with the fall push, the diskery is strengthening its distribution setup with changes in Pittsburgh, Dallas and Chicago. In Pittsburgh, Forbes Record Distributors replaces Sanborn Music Co., while Daily Bros. in Dallas replaces Dobbs. The Chicago switch is on the personnel level with Irving Kirschbaum of Music Distributors, a Jimmy Martin operation.

(Continued on page 54)

Victor Pressing Hard on Samplers Via Coupon Discount Incentives

Time Out for Plugs

The political hoopla on radio and tv during the next two weeks is giving the music biz pluggers a headache.

With all the networks standing by for broadcasts from Chicago and San Francisco to cut into their regular programming hours, the boys are finding it tough to set plugs on their tunes whether there's a "drive" on or not.

"We're lucky," one of them said, "it only happens once every four years."

RCA Victor is taking the disk sampler route to get its fall album program rolling. As an added hypo, the diskery is giving special coupons worth up to $20.44 on LPs and $15.46 on EPS with each sampler, redeemable on selected merchandise at the dealers.

The samplers, one pop and one longhair, are the feature of the label's "Showcase In Sound" best buy program for September. Victor is offering 28 new albums in the program 14 classical and 14 pop. Among the classical entries are three complete operas, "La Boheme," "Manon" and "La Traviata."

The "Showcase In Sound" samplers, both 12-inch LPs, will have a suggested list price of $1.49 and a suggested dealer cost of 92c. This marks the first time that dealers will be able to earn a normal profit on sampler platters. The diskery also has prepped a 45-EP pop highlighter which carries a suggested list price of 98c. and a suggested dealer cost of 61c.

The classical sampler features 13 highlights of the September merchandise program. Ten of the excerpts are introduced by the artists themselves. The pop sampler offers 12 highlights from the release. The 45-EP highlighter is a two-record, eight selection package.

The coupons included with each "Showcase In Sound" sampler will offer a 25% discount on selected packages. On EP, these selections include: Benny Goodman Limited Edition (advertised price, $24.95; Coupon price, $18.71); Glenn Miller Army Air Force Band (advertised price, $24.95; coupon price, $18.71); Harry Geller's "New York, N. Y." (advertised price, $3.98; coupon price, $2.99; and "The Popular Gershwin" (advertised price, $7.98; coupon price,

(Continued on page 54)

Philly Disk Jock Falls Victim to His Sheet's Drive

Philadelphia, Aug. 14.

Bob Horn, who inaugurated the "Bandstand" program on WFIL-TV, has parted company with the station. Deejay's action followed a long-drawn-out bassle stemming from his arrest on drunken driving charges in June.

Circumstances were against Horn, because Philly Inquirer, which owns the WFIL stations, was in the heat of a campaign against tipsy motorists. Rival Evening Bulletin played up the arrest of one of Inquirer's best known air personalities.

Temporarily relieved of his duties on "Bandstand," Horn took regular vacation due him. On return studio execs told him he would be off tv program because of "embarrassment to station." Deejay could retain however, his post as director of music for both stations and would be given a radio assignment.

Horn said he had signed new two-year contract just two months ago, and refused new berth rather than give up old pact. Founder of the tv "Bandstand" four years ago, Horn's show has played host to virtually every top musical name in interim. Deejay is at present conducting his "Bandstand Dances" in Wildwood, N.J. During season he has similar dances running twice weekly in North Philly and once a week in Allentown, Pa.

Bob Haymes' Album

CBS Radio disk jockey Bob Haymes is set for an album showcasing via Juhilee Records. It'll be his first time on wax.

The set will feature Haymes crooning a flock of his own compositions. LP will be tagged "Bob Haymes, That's All."

Chord Organ Hitting High Sales Beat in Demand For Solos, Folios and Albums

Upbeat in sales of the chord organ indicates a continuing upsurge in the demand for more solo arrangements, folios and albums. That's the pitch presented to music publishers by Harold C. Lembke, general sales manager for the Hammond Organ Co.

Over the last few years, close to 2,000 selections have been arranged and published for the Hammond chord organ in album form alone. According to Lembke, that's just a token volume of what the chord organ music market can absorb. Chord organ sales are running 61% ahead of last year with indications that end-of-the-year figures will show a 90-to-100% increase.

Lembke stressed that music publishers were missing a bet by not getting their current pops into chord organ arrangements. Such organists, he stated, are eager for new material and are reluctant to wait until the publisher gets around to printing the hit parade favorites in album form.

The company is also prepping an expansive promotional campaign for stimulating the sale of music registered for the Hammond organ.

Lane, Herman Replace Meyer, Ager at SPA

George Meyer and Milton Ager have resigned their council member seats with the Songwriters Protective Assn. The vacancies were filled by Burton Lane and Pinky Herman.

Both Meyer and Ager exited their SPA assignments because of being based away from the org's h.q. in New York. Ager has been living on the Coast for close to a year while Meyer plans to move there in the near future.

There are 21 members on the SPA council.

MPHC 'Schools Up' For Classrooms

With an eye towards the opening of the new school year next month, Music Publishers Holding Corp. (the Warner Bros. music firms) is stepping up its activity in the educational and standard market.

During the coming season, MPHC will extend its operation in the school band field with the publication of a new band method, now in the production stage. J. Tatian Roach, head of the firm's standard and educational division, is anticipating a sales pickup during the coming school year of the already published "Hits Through the Years—On Parade" and the "Red and Gold" series.

In the forthcoming season a new textbook, "Living With Music," will be released by MPHC for use in general music classes in junior highschools. Also up for the school year push is the first volume of "The Leslie Bell Choral Series."

MPHC is directing its standard and educational pitch at the growing accordion market. Firm now has on the works a flock of new single editions and folios. Among them are "Polkas Made Easy," "Lawrence Welk Favorites" and "Victor Herbert Made Easy." And for the first time the firm will move in on the accordion field with arrangements of "Indian Summer," "Jalousie" and "Shine on Harvest Moon." The Warner group is also taking a crack at the guitar field with a collection of solos by Roy Smeck and a method for Spanish guitar.

The MPHC road men have been pitching their line to the school trade via educational exhibits at key dealers. School music directors have been hitting these exhibits to o.o. the new materials and works from the standard repertoire. The traveling reps are also attending the clinics, conventions and educator meet circuit to plug the MPHC catalog.

Firm has also increased its activity in the amateur theatrical market. Special editions of its w.k. operettas such as "The Fortune Teller" and "Babes in Toyland" are part of the new program. In addition, firm is extending its series for young people called "Musiplays," by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. Latest addition is "The Familiar Stranger."

The growing chord organ field (see separate story) is up for a pitch by the MPHC standard and educational boys, too. One of the firm's top sellers, "Hits Through the Years," has been extended to cover the Hammond Chord Organ and on the presses now is a "Waltz Time" folio. Other folios for organ are in the planning stage.

MPHC also is continuing to expand itse newest publishing venture, "Labanotation." This is the system of writing the movements of dancers on a staff which is read in much the same manner as music notation. One of the upcoming publications will be "Better Dancing With Fred Astaire" prepared in cooperation with the Fred Astaire Dance Studios. Folio will contain a collection of ballroom dances with complete word descriptions adjoining the Labanotation setup. It will be issued with accompanying music.

Top Record Talent and Tunes

VARIETY DISK JOCKEY POLL

This compilation is designed to indicate those records rising in popularity as well as those on top. Ratings are computed on the basis of ten points for a No. 1 mention, nine for a No. 2, and so on down to one point. Wherever possible, only records with two or more mentions are listed, even though their total points are less in some cases than those which receive only one mention. Cities and jockeys will vary from week to week to present a comprehensive picture of all sectors of the country regionally.

* ASCAP † BMI

| Pos. this wk. | Pos. last wk. | No. weeks in log | Artist | Label | Song | EAST: Gallagher & O'Brien—WMCA—New York | Carl Loucks—WELI—New Haven | Jack Rowzie—WWDC—Washington | Buddy Deane—WITH—Baltimore | Alan Dary—WBZ—Boston | Ed Meath—WHEC—Rochester | Lou Barile—WKAL—Rome-Utica | Nedd Flemming—WAEB—Allentown | Grady & Hurst—WPFH—Philadelphia | Bob Tracey—KDKA—Pittsburgh | Joe Hyder—WADK—Newport | Jack Bennett—WHWB—Rutland | SOUTH: Frank Tucker—WCOV—Montgomery | Jim Carley—WPTN—St. Petersburg | John Harris—WMGR—Bainbridge | Don Devendorf—WSAV—Savannah | Bill Dawson—WQOK—Greenville | Jim Lowe—WRR—Dallas | Dave Walshak—KCTI—Gonzales | Roger Clark—WNOR—Norfolk | MIDWEST: Marty Faye—WAAF—Chicago | Frosty Mitchell—KWWL—Waterloo | Carl Shook—WJIM—Lansing | Dan Anderson—WLOL—St. Paul-Mpls. | Ken Alridge—KIMO—Hannibal | Kent Burkhart—KOWH—Omaha | Will Lenay—WSAI—Cincinnati | Wes Hopkins—KYW—Cleveland | Bill Mertz—WVKO—Columbus | Dick Drury—WHHH—Warren | Gene Platt—KELO—Sioux Falls | Gene Edwards—WRIT—Milwaukee | FAR WEST: Al Radka—KFRE—Fresno | John McShane—KMPC—Los Angeles | Frank Darien—KSJO—San Jose | Lamar Sherlock—KTMS—Santa Barbara | Bruce Vanderhoof—KYA—San Francisco | Ray Perkins—KIMN—Denver | Florien Wineriter—KALL—Salt Lake | Jim French—KING—Seattle | TOTAL POINTS |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | 8 | Platters | Mercury | *My Prayer | 3 | 1 | 3 | .. | 4 | 5 | 1 | 6 | .. | .. | 1 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 3 | .. | 3 | 4 | 2 | 7 | 3 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 3 | .. | 2 | 1 | 4 | 2 | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | 203 |
| 2 | 1 | 8 | Doris Day | Columbia | *Whatever Will Be, Will Be | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 4 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | 4 | 4 | 1 | .. | 5 | 2 | .. | 4 | 2 | 7 | 4 | 1 | .. | 3 | 2 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 9 | 4 | 5 | 2 | 2 | .. | 156 |
| 3 | 3 | 11 | Patti Page | Mercury | *Allegheny Moon | 1 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 2 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 1 | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 1 | 1 | .. | .. | 10 | 3 | 1 | 115 |
| 4 | 11 | 3 | Elvis Presley | Victor | †Hound Dog | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 3 | .. | 2 | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 1 | 1 | 3 | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | 92 |
| 5 | 7 | 11 | Pat Boone | Dot | †I Almost Lost My Mind | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 3 | .. | .. | 2 | 6 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 10 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 4 | 4 | 6 | 88 |
| 6 | 5 | 18 | Gogi Grant | Era | †Wayward Wind | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | 1 | .. | .. | 1 | 8 | 8 | 2 | 4 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 10 | .. | 6 | 3 | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 83 |
| 7 | 4 | 7 | Hugo Winterhalter | Victor | †Canadian Sunset | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 9 | 2 | 10 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 9 | 6 | .. | 8 | .. | 5 | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | 82 |
| 8 | 8 | 11 | Perry Como | Victor | *More | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 5 | 10 | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 6 | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 3 | 5 | .. | 78 |
| 9 | 6 | 20 | Vic Damone | Columbia | *Street Where You Live | 7 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | 9 | 7 | 2 | 1 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 8 | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 75 |
| 10 | 18 | 3 | Elvis Presley | Victor | †Don't Be Cruel | .. | 1 | 3 | 2 | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 4 | 6 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | 71 |
| 11 | 9 | 11 | Teresa Brewer | Coral | †Sweet Old-Fashioned Girl | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 1 | 6 | .. | 7 | 8 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 2 | 3 | .. | 9 | 8 | 7 | .. | 67 |
| 12 | 10 | 3 | Buchanan & Goodman | Luniverse | †Flying Saucer | 2 | .. | 1 | .. | 2 | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 64 |
| 13 | 17 | 3 | Mitch Miller | Columbia | *Song for a Summer Night | .. | 6 | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 5 | 6 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 60 |
| 14 | 30 | 3 | Andy Williams | Cadence | †Canadian Sunset | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 2 | 4 | 7 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 58 |
| 15 | 15 | 3 | Patience & Prudence | Liberty | *Tonight You Belong to Me | 5 | .. | 4 | 10 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 7 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 55 |
| 16A | 19 | 13 | Chordettes | Cadence | *Born to Be With You | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 5 | 2 | .. | 5 | 10 | 5 | .. | 7 | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 10 | 7 | .. | .. | 44 |
| 16B | 21 | 7 | Nat (King) Cole | Capitol | *All There Is to That | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 9 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 44 |
| 18A | 20 | 4 | Jerry Vale | Columbia | *You Don't Know Me | .. | 7 | 10 | 9 | 1 | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 41 |
| 18B | 12 | 6 | Joni James | MGM | *Give Us This Day | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 7 | 1 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 41 |
| 20A | 21 | 7 | Eddie Heywood | Mercury | †Soft, Summer Breeze | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 8 | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 38 |
| 20B | 13 | 6 | Artie Wayne | Liberty | *Angel | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 38 |
| 22A | 16 | 13 | Elvis Presley | Victor | †I Want You, I Need You | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 3 | 5 | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 36 |
| 22B | 14 | 20 | Morris Stoloff | Decca | *Moonglow-Picnic Theme | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 2 | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 36 |
| 24 | 30 | 5 | Don Cherry | Columbia | *Ghost Town | 6 | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | 10 | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 29 |
| 25 | 26 | 6 | Four Aces | Decca | *I Only Know I Love You | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 5 | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 26 |
| 26A | .. | 11 | Ames Bros | Victor | *Hurts for a Little While | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 9 | .. | 26 |
| 26B | 39 | 3 | Perry Como | Victor | *Somebody Up There | 8 | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 19 |
| 26C | 35 | 4 | Eydie Gorme | ABC-Par | *Mama Teach Me to Dance | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 6 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 19 |
| 29A | .. | 12 | Clyde McPhatter | Atlantic | †Treasure of Love | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 19 |
| 29B | 29 | 2 | Sanford Clark | Dot | †Fool | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 16 |
| 31 | .. | 5 | Cadets | Modern | †Stranded in the Jungle | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 16 |
| 32A | .. | 1 | Bill Haley's Comets | Decca | †Teen-Age Mother | .. | 5 | 7 | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 13 |
| 32B | .. | 1 | Diamonds | Mercury | †Love, Love, Love | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 12 |
| 32C | 28 | 4 | Eileen Rodgers | Columbia | †Miracle of Love | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 12 |
| 32D | .. | 1 | Sylvia Syms | Decca | *English Muffins | 3 | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 12 |
| 36A | 43 | 3 | McGuire Sisters | Coral | †Weary Blues | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 12 |
| 36B | .. | 12 | Frank Sinatra | Capitol | *How Little We Know | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 11 |
| 36C | .. | 1 | Margaret Whiting | Capitol | *True Love | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 11 |
| 39A | .. | 1 | Betty Johnson | Bally | †Clay Idol | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 |
| 39B | 41 | 9 | Gene Vincent | Capitol | †Be-Bop-a-Lula | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 |
| 39C | .. | 1 | John Leslie | ABC-Par | †I'll Be Laughing Tonight | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 |
| 42A | .. | 2 | Fats Domino | Imperial | †Dreamboat Comes Home | .. | 10 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 |
| 42B | 25 | 7 | Jayhawks | Cash | †Stranded in the Jungle | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 9 |
| 42C | 30 | 8 | Nick Noble | Mercury | †Loves Me, Loves Me Not | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 9 |
| 42D | .. | 3 | Sarah Vaughan | Mercury | *Fabulous Character | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 |

(Copyright Variety, Inc. All Rights Reserved)

Kanaga's Crystal-Ball Shows Disk Future as Good as Its Past (Summer)

Larry Kanaga, RCA Victor, veep-general manager, returned to his New York desk Monday (13) after a week on the road in a bullish mood on the state of the disk biz. Kanaga got the upbeat pitch from distribs and dealers he visited to showcase the label's new fall program.

Dealers, he stated, are basing their optimism for the fall season on the summer sales upbeat this year. Unlike previous hot weather months when the retail disk business hit bottom, the dealers, for the most part, have been holding up strongly, with some reporting a 60 to 65% increase over the previous year's take.

Kanaga credits the summer sales upbeat to the steady phonograph purchases, several hot disk sellers (especially, Elvis Presley, a Victor pactee), and the continual growth of interest in the packaged goods product. According to Kanaga, the dealers are not yet complaining about the barrage of LPs being released by the diskeries and are eager for the new product. "If the market holds steady," he said, "everybody's fall program should do well."

Decca Adds Hal Webman To Growing A&R Staff

Decca Records expanded its artists & repertoire operation, last week with the addition of Hal Webman to the New York staff. He'll report to Milt Gabler, label's national a&r chief.

Diskery's a&r staff setup now includes Paul Cohen, Jack Pleis, Leonard Joy and Is Horowitz based in N. Y., and Sonny Burke and Bud Dant working out of the Coast.

For the past couple of years, Webman had been operating his own music publishing firms. Before that he had been New York editor of Downbeat mag.

Kahl Inks Abrams-Reid

Publisher Phil Kahl has tapped Vic Abrams and Irving Reid to an exclusive cleffing deal for his BMI firms. Their material will be put into the Kahl or Patricia Music operations.

Among the Abrams-Reid credits are "Johnny Be Smart," "Napoleon" and "Give Me Your Love."

Lorry Raine to Etch 'Em For 2—Advance and Dot

Thrush Lorry Raine is set to wax under two recording flags. In a deal arranged by Dot Records prexy Randy Wood, the label obtained an option on the singer's services on a per-master basis allowing her to continue to work on other material for the Advance label.

New deal marks Miss Raine's return to the Dot roster. She recorded for the diskery about two years ago before moving over to Advance. Her first sides for Dot, cut with Billy Vaughn, will hit the market next week. Platter is a coupling of "A Casual Look" and "Cotton Pickin' Kisses."

Singer also has an album release in the works at Advance. It's not been determined yet whether the package, tagged "Interlude," will be released under the Dot banner. Included in the set are four previously unreleased tunes by Harry Ruby backgrounded by Nelson Riddle. These sides were cut before Riddle's exclusive pact with Capitol Records.

MICKI MARLO TO ABC-PAR

Thrush Micki Marlo is set for another crack at the wax field via the ABC-Paramount label.

She previously recorded for Capitol Records.

Cleffers' Crack at B'way in a New High; Self-Publishing Also Marking Trend

There's a rash of new-to-legit cleffers in line for a musicomedy whirl this season. Unlike previous years, in which only a handful got a crack at the Broadway boards, the producers are apparently dropping the barriers to let the newcomers in. And some of 'em are getting a crack at topflight productions, too.

For example, Harold Karr & Matt Dubey have the score assignment on "Happy Hunting," the Ethel Merman starrer; pop tunesmith Bob Merrill is cleffing words and music for "Pay The Piper," musicalization of Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie," and 35-year-old poet Richard Wilbur is doing most of the lyrics to Leonard Bernstein's music for "Candide."

Other legituner starters in the running for a Broadway showcasing are David Baker (music) and David Craig (lyrics) for "Copper and Brass"; Charles Strause (music) and Lee Adams (lyrics) for "The Late Risers"; Abe Ellstein (music) and Michael Brown (lyrics) for "Danny Mendoza"; Shellie Mowell (music) and Mike Stewart (lyrics) for "Solomon Grundy"; Don Walker (music) and Jack Lawrence (lyrics) for "Go Fight City Hall"; Harold Lee Stevens-Marshall Jamison (music) and Howard Rigby-Theodore Barbar (lyrics) for "Heavenly Bodies," and Alex Alstone (music) and James Kennedy (lyrics) for "Living It Up."

Marked Contrast

This is in marked contrast to the past several legit seasons which saw only Jerry Ross & Dick Adler break through with "The Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees"; Mark Charlop & Carolyn Leigh on part of the score for "Peter Pan"; Albert Hague (with Arnold B. Horwitt) on "Plain and Fancy," and Jerry Boch-Larry Holofcenner-George Weiss on "Mr. Wonderful."

The yearling's don't exactly have the field to themslves, however. Also in the 1956-57 lineup are such vets as Johnny Mercer-Gene DePaul ("Li'l Abner"), Robert Wright-George Forrest ("Grand Hotel"), Harry Revel ("Packaged in Paris"), Betty Comden-Adolph Green-Jule Styne ("Bells Are Ringing"), Ralph Blaine-Hugh Martin ("Three Tigers"), Ogden Nash-J. Fred Coots ("If I Were Queen"), and up for a second crack at Broadway, British cleffer Sandy Wilson ("My Royal Past"). The perennial pros of the musical theatre, Irving Berlin, Rodgers & Hammerstein, and Cole Porter are busy on musical projects but are not scheduled for the coming season.

A new musical publishing pattern is also developing this year. The cleffers are beginning to bypass the standard show score publishing firms to set up their own operations. Johnny Mercer has slotted the "Li'l Abner" score to his own Commander Music firm, Bob Merrill will publish the "Pay the Piper" score via his Valor Music and Comden-Green-Styne have set up Stratford Music for "Bells Are Ringing." Chappell will act as selling agent for Stratford while Howie Richmond will be selling agent for Commander.

In the past few years only tunesmith Frank Loesser has stepped out as an important show score publisher via his Frank Music operation. Firm handles "Pajama Game," "Damn Yankees," "Kismet" and Loesser's own "The Most Happy Fella." Tommy Valando stepped into the show score showtune publishing field for the first time last season with "Mr. Wonderful."

Ray Martin in the U.S. For Brit.'s Col Label

Ray Martin, artists & repertoire chief for the British Columbia label, hit the U. S. Monday (13) for a four-week stay. He'll remain in New York until Friday and then head for the Coast for powwows with Capitol Records brass there. Capitol releases the British Columbia platters in the U. S. via its tieup with EMI (Electrical & Music Industries).

While here, Martin will also plug his new platter in which he conducts an orch workover of "Street Symphony" and "Tambourine."

Hefti Forms Quintet

Composer-arranger Neal Hefti has formed a new jazz quintet. The combo will co-headline Hefti's wife, thrush Frances Wayne. He'll supply the arrangements for the group, which will feature the maestro on piano and trumpet with a rhythm section backing.

The group bowed in Rochester last night (Tues.).

RETAIL DISK AND ALBUM BEST SELLERS

VARIETY

Survey of retail disk best sellers based on reports obtained from leading stores in 20 cities and showing comparative sales rating for this and last week.

| National Rating This wk. | Last wk. | Artist, Label, Title | New York—(R. H. Macy Co). | Long Island—(Arcade Assoc.) | Washington—(Super Music) | Boston—(Mosher Music Co.) | Albany—(Van Curler Music Co.) | Philadelphia—(John Wanamaker) | Birmingham—(Loveman Music Co | Miami—(Spec's Record Shops) | Louisville—(Variety Record Shop) | Dallas—(Titche-Goettinger Co.) | San Antonio—(Alamo Piano Co.) | Chicago—(Hudson-Ross Music) | Indianapolis—(Ayres Music Co.) | Minneapolis—(Don Leary Music) | Kansas City—(Katz Record Ctrs.) | St. Louis—(Stix, Baer & Fuller) | Cleveland—(Record Mart) | San Francisco—(Columbia Music) | Denver—(Denver Dry Goods) | Seattle—(Sherman-Clay Music) | TOTAL POINTS |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 1 | PLATTERS (Mercury) "My Prayer" | 2 | 3 | 1 | 4 | 4 | 6 | 4 | 3 | 3 | 1 | 1 | 6 | 2 | 2 | 2 | .. | .. | 1 | 2 | 4 | 147 |
| 2 | 4 | DORIS DAY (Columbia) "Whatever Will Be, Will Be" | 3 | 1 | 7 | 1 | 10 | 1 | 5 | 4 | 5 | 7 | 3 | 1 | 1 | .. | 5 | 3 | 4 | 2 | 1 | 3 | 142 |
| 3 | 2 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) "Hound Dog" | 1 | .. | 2 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 1 | .. | 2 | 2 | 8 | 6 | 1 | 1 | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 7 | 120 |
| 4 | 3 | BUCHANAN-GOODMAN (Luniverse) "Flying Saucers" | 4 | .. | .. | 3 | 2 | .. | 3 | 2 | 1 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 4 | 4 | 2 | .. | 3 | 3 | 2 | 104 |
| 5 | 7 | HUGO WINTERHALTER (Victor) "Canadian Sunset" | 10 | 4 | 6 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 6 | .. | 3 | 4 | 3 | .. | .. | 9 | 9 | 3 | 7 | .. | .. | 63 |
| 6 | 11 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) "Don't Be Cruel" | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 1 | .. | .. | 1 | 58 |
| 7 | 5 | GOGI GRANT (Era) "Wayward Wind" | 9 | .. | 3 | .. | 3 | 3 | 9 | 5 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 54 |
| 8 | 9 | PATTI PAGE (Mercury) "Allegheny Moon" | 7 | .. | .. | 9 | 5 | .. | 6 | 10 | .. | 5 | 9 | 9 | 4 | 5 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 49 |
| 9 | 6 | PAT BOONE (Dot) "I Almost Lost My Mind" | 6 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 7 | 4 | 5 | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | 5 | 44 |
| 10 | 10 | GENE VINCENT (Capitol) "Be-Bop-a-Lula" | 8 | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 7 | 6 | 10 | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 6 | 6 | .. | 39 |
| 11 | 8 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) "I Want You, I Need You" | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 8 | 9 | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 31 |
| 12 | 15 | MORRIS STOLOFF (Decca) "Moonglow-Picnic Theme" | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 8 | 19 |
| 13 | 21 | JERRY VALE (Columbia) "You Don't Know Me" | .. | 5 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 10 | 18 |
| 14A | 18 | TERESA BREWER (Coral) "Sweet Old-Fashioned Girl" | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | 7 | 10 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 17 |
| 14B | 13 | MITCH MILLER (Columbia) "Song for a Summer Night" | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 17 |
| 16A | 18 | BILL DOGGETT (King) "Honky Tonk" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 16 |
| 16B | .. | SANFORD CLARK (Dot) "Fool" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 16 |
| 18 | 16 | AMES BROS. (Victor) "It Only Hurts for a Little While" | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 13 |
| 19A | 25 | EDDIE HEYWOOD (Mercury) "Soft, Summer Breeze" | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | 11 |
| 19B | .. | LITTLE WILLIE JOHN (King) "Fever" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 11 |
| 21A | 17 | PERRY COMO (Victor) "More" | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 |
| 21B | 12 | VIC DAMONE (Columbia) "On the Street Where You Live" | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 |
| 21C | .. | AL HIBBLER (Decca) "After the Lights Go Down" | .. | 7 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 |
| 24 | 22 | PERRY COMO (Victor) "Glendora" | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 |
| 25 | .. | PATIENCE-PRUDENCE (Liberty) "Tonight You Belong to Me" | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 |

| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| MY FAIR LADY | KING AND I | CALYPSO | EDDY DUCHIN STORY | MOST HAPPY FELLA | ELVIS PRESLEY | CAROUSEL | OKLAHOMA! | SONGS FOR SWINGING LOVERS | THE PLATTERS |
| Broadway Cast | Film Soundtrack | Harry Belafonte | Film Soundtrack | Broadway Cast | Elvis Presley | Film Soundtrack | Film Soundtrack | Frank Sinatra | Platters |
| Columbia OL 5090 | Capitol W 740 EAP 740 | Victor LPM 1248 EPA 1248 | Decca DL 8289 | Columbia OL 5118 | Victor LPM 1254 EPB 1254 | Capitol W 694 EDM 694 | Capitol SAO 595 SDM 595 | Capitol W 653 EAP 653 | Mercury MG 20146 |

COL UPS STAN KAVAN IN NEW ALBUM POST

Stan Kavan has been upped at Columbia Records to the newly created post of coordinator of pop albums artists & repertoire. He'll also continue in his present capacity as sales manager of the album division.

Kavan's functions in the new post will cover such activities as analysis of sales performance, preparation of release lists and schedules and investigation of areas of salability. He'll report to Goddard Lieberson, Col prez, in connection with his a&r function and to sales veep Hal Cook, on his sales merchandising programs.

U.S. Disk $ Goes Far in Far East

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

Latest competition for American disk dollars comes from So Deska Records, Nipponese plattery founded by vet New York tunesmith and publish Dudley Manners. He's back in the U.S. with the masters of a pair of 12-inch albums he recorded there featuring Johnny Watson and a 15-piece Japanese band known as the Kamapai Kings.

Watson, onetime arranger for Vaughn Monroe and other top bands, has been in Tokyo for several years. He's now in charge of music at the Ernie Pyle Theatre there. His Kamapai Kings is an allstar outfit featuring the best sidemen in the islands.

Recording in Japan is incredibly cheap, Manners reported before taking off for New York. Pair of albums cost less than $750 to produce.

Studio charges, including engineer, amounted to $135 for the session. Musicians, under Japanese union rules providing for the equivalent of $1.95 per side regardless of how long it takes, received a total of $520 for the 24 sides.

Total figure even includes $33.33 in taxi fares to take the sidemen to the session and send them home.

MAX HERMAN HEADS LOCAL 47'S BIZ AGTS.

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

In the first major operational change resulting from the "rebellion" of Coast musicians, Local 47 business agents are now operating under the supervision of Max Herman, the local's veepee. Board of directors named Herman chief business agent, a newly created post, and put him on salary to oversee all activities of the representatives.

First item on the agenda is a study of the operation to determine whether other business agents are needed by the local, which covers all of Los Angeles County for the cities of Long Beach and Pomona.

VARIETY Scoreboard OF TOP TALENT AND TUNES

Compiled from Statistical Reports of Distribution Encompassing the Three Major Outlets

Coin Machines Retail Disks Retail Sheet Music

as Published in the Current Issue

NOTE: The current comparative sales strength of the Artists and Tunes listed hereunder is arrived at under a statistical system comprising each of the three major sales outlets enumerated above. These findings are correlated with data from wider sources, which are exclusive with VARIETY. The positions resulting from these findings denote the OVERALL IMPACT developed from the ratio of points scored, two ways in the case of talent (coin machines, retail disks) and three ways in the case of tunes (coin machines, retail disks and retail sheet music).

TALENT

| POSITIONS This Week | POSITIONS Last Week | ARTIST AND LABEL | TUNE |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 1 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) | Hound Dog / Don't Be Cruel / I Want You, I Need You |
| 2 | 2 | PLATTERS (Mercury) | My Prayer / Heaven On Earth |
| 3 | 3 | DORIS DAY (Columbia) | Whatever Will Be, Will Be |
| 4 | 4 | BUCHANAN & GOODMAN (Luniverse) | Flying Saucers |
| 5 | 5 | PATTI PAGE (Mercury) | Allegheny Moon |
| 6 | 8 | HUGO WINTERHALTER (Victor) | Canadian Sunset |
| 7 | 6 | PAT BOONE (Dot) | I Almost Lost My Mind |
| 8 | 7 | GOGI GRANT (Era) | Wayward Wind |
| 9 | .. | GENE VINCENT (Capitol) | Be-Bop-A-Lula |
| 10 | 10 | VIC DAMONE (Columbia) | On Street Where You Live |

TUNES

(*ASCAP. †BMI)

| POSITIONS This Week | POSITIONS Last Week | TUNE | PUBLISHER |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | *WHATEVER WILL BE, WILL BE | Artists |
| 2 | 1 | *MY PRAYER | Shapiro-B |
| 3 | 3 | *ALLEGHENY MOON | Oxford |
| 4 | 5 | †HOUND DOG | Presley |
| 5 | 4 | †WAYWARD WIND | Warman |
| 6 | 8 | †CANADIAN SUNSET | Meridian |
| 7 | 9 | †FLYING SAUCERS | Luniverse |
| 8 | 6 | *ON THE STREET WHERE YOU LIVE | Chappell |
| 9 | 7 | †I ALMOST LOST MY MIND | Hill & Range |
| 10 | 10 | †I WANT YOU, I NEED YOU, I LOVE YOU | Presley |

Luniverse

Continued from page 49

were repeated among the 19 allegedly infringed upon usages) were involved, obviously a 34c royalty (per statutory provision) on a disk that sells for 89c retail would be prohibitive. Anyway, it's trade custom that, where a pot pourri is involved, the copyright owner accords a cutrate. And in this instance only a bar or two was involved but, nonetheless, the usage thereof is an infringement. (It was said that the enterprising young Messrs. Goodman and Buchanan were under the impression that the use of a bar or two was not a technical violation. Incidentally, Goodman's father is also an attorney and visited Abeles' office, but the entire issue was handled by A. Warren Troub for the proposed defendants.)

There are still two or three publishers who technically have not agreed to the overall proposed settlement but it is likely that they will go along. Among the conditions of settlement also was a provision that Abeles' legal fee be paid by Goodman and Buchanan, along with all other legal expenses. Still another proviso is that accounting be made this month and another accounting of sales be made in September. The publishers obviously don't want to risk any delays or waits. "Flying Saucer" has been a quick flash hit, with sales said to reach around 500,000 platters to date.

It should be stressed that Abeles was called in by Harry Fox as trustee of the music pubilshers involved, which differs from the Music Publishers Protective Assn. with whom he is traditionally associated. However, MPPA is dominantly an ASCAP-publisher trade association and it so happens that the majority of the pubberies and diskeries involved in "The Flying Saucer" imbroglio are (1) BMI-affiliated and (2) non-MPPA affiliated.

WSM, Nashville radio station, has set aside Nov. 9-10 for the fifth annual national disk jockey festival. Fest will be tied in with the 31st anni of station's "Grand Ole Opry."

Civil Liberties

Continued from page 49

tempting to exercise some form of censorship over art. I'm not interested in getting into a debate on the merits of the music. The fact remains that the ban under discussion is based on nothing but the content of the music. It is, therefore, an attempt to restrict free expression, the product of the human mind and skill. And no agency has the right to exercise such control.

"If some law is being violated, then under criminal statutes, the violators should be arrested and the issue tried before a judge and jury. No board can act as a censor in matters of this kind."

ACLU, it was learned, is also concerned because of a second and subtler nuance in the threatened boycott of rock 'n' roll music in El Monte. There has been evidence that the objection to the music extends to, and may be based upon, the fact that it is largely the product of Negro bands.

"There has been," Wirin admitted, "some question of racial discrimination." Latter subject is one which always prompts ACLU intervention in a case.

There have been several bans on the rock 'n' roll music around the country in the last few months, including a few in California. In El Monte, the preliminary hearing on the proposed ban dwelt heavily on the fact that the music appears to attract a rowdy element. City Attorney James A. Nicklin even commented on the fact that "some of them even show up carrying tire chains."

ACLU position is that the city has no right to ban the music because of these extraneous factors. The police, it was pointed out, have municipal ordinances under which they can operate to arrest persons who disturb the peace. But the organization feels that no governmental group has the right to deprive a segment of the population of the art it prefers simply because that art also encourages some exhibitionists to excesses of various kinds.

Ford's Frisco Appeal

San Francisco, Aug. 14.

When Bennie Ford, a Frisco boxing and wrestling promoter, asked for a dancehall permit at his San Francisco Garden, police chief Frank Ahern protested.

At a Board of Permit Appeals hearing last week Ahern's spokesman Police Lt. Frank Harrington, commented:

"The chief is afraid rock 'n' roll bands would attract occurrences like those in San Jose and Santa Cruz" (rock 'n' roll riots took place in both these smaller, nearby cities earlier in the summer).

America's Now Girlfriend
GLENDORA
PERRY COMO
RCA Victor
JACK LEWIS
Crest
AMERICAN MUSIC, INC.
9109 SUNSET BLVD HOLLYWOOD CALIF

STYNE & CAHN'S
"Saturday Night is the loneliest night of the week"
CAHN MUSIC CORP.

Just Concluded Eminently Successful
NINE MONTH EUROPEAN TOUR
LIONEL HAMPTON
AND HIS ORCHESTRA
Currently—ALL THIS WEEK—N.B.C. BAND SHOW
Aug. 23 (Two Weeks) DUNES, Las Vegas
Oct. 22, Starting Tour of ENGLAND
ASSOCIATED BOOKING CORPORATION
JOE GLASER, Pres.
New York 745 5th Ave. PL 9-4600 | Chicago 203 No. Wabash | Hollywood 8619 Sunset Blvd.

5 BIG RECORDS
"WHEN THE WHITE LILACS BLOOM AGAIN"
HELMUT ZACHARIAS—Decca
FLORIAN ZABACH—Mercury
LEROY HOLMES—MGM
LAWRENCE WELK—Coral
BILLY VAUGHN—Dot
HARMS, INC.

THE SOCK NOVELTY!
NONE OF THAT NOW
MILLER MUSIC CORPORATION

Another BMI "Pin Up" Hit
"THE FOOL"
Recorded by
SANFORD CLARK ..... Dot
THE GALLAHADS ..... Jubilee
Published by
DEBRA MUSIC

...they can help you sell more in this 382 million dollar retail market*!

Each day, you can hear their voices and sales-messages in just about every section of this Pennsylvania marketing area. Men, women and teen-agers in close to 475,000 radio homes turn regularly to these popular deejays for entertainment and product news. So why not let these "live-wires" go to town with your product!

*population rank in Sales Management "Survey of Buying Power," 1956

RCA VICTOR spotlights hometown broadcasting

On The Upbeat

New York

Kenneth Berger's 30-piece orch bows on Band Wagon Records late this month . . . Chappell is publishing the Jack Brooks-Sammy Fain score for "The Soft Touch," upcoming NBC-TV spec, not Kagran as erratumed in last week's VARIETY . . . Music publisher Sam Wigler became a grandpop last week . . . Buck Ram-inked thrush Dolly Cooper to a managerial pact and supervised her first session for Dot Records last week . . . The Blockbusters began a two-week engagement at the 4400 Club, Brentwood, Md., yesterday (Tues.).

Hawkshaw Hawkins, Bill Monroe and the Bluegrass County Boys headline the Don Larkins-Lyle Reed Jamboree at Newark's Mosque Theatre Aug. 19 . . . Decca Records has tied in with the Allegheny Airlines to promote its Grady Martin cutting of "Allegheny Moon" . . . Murri Barber, WMGM record library, off for two weeks in Hollywood . . . Lois Glick, ABC record librarian, back from three months in Europe . . . Herb Dexter is exec veepee in charge of a&r and sales at the newly formed Beech Records . . . Barbara Lea set as featured vocalist with Stan Rubin's Tigertown Five at the combo's Atlantic City Steel Pier gig Aug. 24-30 . . . Arlie S. Huff deejaying at WICE, Providence. He was formerly with WSAV, Savannah, Ga.

There's now a 48-page fan book tagged "The Amazing Elvis Presley" on the market . . . Bill Hegner handling publicity for the new Neal Hefti-Frances Wayne group . . . The Rover Boys move into the Bolero Club, Wildwood, N. J., for three days beginning Aug. 23 . . . Don Elliott doubling between Basin Street and Jack Sterling's early morning WCBS radio show . . . Freddie Bell elected to ASCAP membership . . . September issue of Ebony mag features Louis Armstrong's recent West African jazz tour . . . Argues returns to Roseland for his 11th season there Sept. 6 . . . Ned Harvey orch goes into Ben Maksik's Town & Country, Brooklyn, Sept. 11 for the new season . . . Frank O'Brien returned to the keyboard at Carman's Louis Petite eatery yesterday (Tues.).

Hollywood

Guy Mitchell signed by Allied Artists to sing title song for "The Young Guns." Tune, titled, "Song of the Young Guns," is by Lenny Adelson and Imogen Carpenter . . . Warner studio orch, batoned by Ray Heindorf, is recording Kenyon Hopkins' score for Elia Kazan's "Baby Doll" . . . Garwood Van orch augmented to 24 pieces and signed to a new contract at New Frontier Hotel, Las Vegas, running to April. . . . Andre Previn discussing a straight jazz album, his first, for Decca . . . Johnny Mandel is penning arrangements for Dave Pell's Atlantic album . . . Following Chet Baker's current stint at N.Y.'s Birdland, trumpeter returns here for indef stand at the Tiffany.

Alex North will score Hal Wallis' "The Rainmaker" at Paramount. . . . Yma Sumac in N.Y. following her guest appearance at the International World's Fair in the Dominican Republic . . . KDAY disk jock Frank Evans has cut the narration for a Pacific Jazz LP titled "Best in West Coast Jazz." . . . Phil Moore is penning three tunes for similar amount of UPA cartoons . . . Nelson Riddle, currently in N. Y. prepping music for Frank Sinatra's stint at the Paramount, will conduct the Denver Symphony (17-18) . . . Johnnie Mann Singers pacted by Liberty Records.

Chicago

George Shearing Sextet pacted for Congress Hotel, St. Louis, Oct. 30-Nov. 13 . . . Buddy Charles graduated from Black Orchid's Junior Room last night (Tues.), into main room as opening act . . . Muggsy Spanier plays Colonial Tavern, Toronto, Oct. 29 for two frames . . . Hi-Lo's on WBBM-TV's "In Town Tonight" Aug. 23 . . . Lillian Hines set for Theatrical Lounge, Cleveland, Monday (20) for two weeks . . . Pat Boone plays Du Quoin, State Fair Aug. 26, headlining the first three days; Dorothy Collins takes over to wind up the week . . . Dan Belloc orch plays Coney Island, Cincinnati, Sept. 8-9.

Victor

Continued from page 49

$5.99). The same items are available on 33⅓ rpm platters at the same savings plus the addition of two other albums; "Richard III" film soundtrack (advertised price, $11.98; coupon price, $8.99), and "Romeo and Juliet" (advertised price, $7.98; coupon price. $5.99).

When the consumer buys a sampler, he is entitled to purchase any one of these items at the 25% discount betwen Sept. 1 and Dec. 31 of this year. All dealer purchases of the items carry a 25% discount in additon to the normal discount.

The Victor execs who fanned out around the country last week to brief distribs on the fall operation pointed out that the discount advantages will be tailor-made to best serve the needs of each distributor and the area he serves. The program offers inventory protection as well as dating privileges.

Victor has lined up a hefty promotional and advertising barrage to get the "Showcase In Sound" message across. In addition to ads in the national mags and setting color tv spec commercials, label is supplying dealers cuffo with a three-piece display kit plus a full counter merchandiser.

For its low price ($1.98) Camden line, label has readied 21 new packages. Among the artists included are Arturo Toscanini, Arthur Fiedler, Paderewski, Freddy Martin, Al Goodman, Henri Rene and the Delta Rhythm Boys, among others.

Phil Nimmons' Canadian jazz group is cutting an LP for Norman Granz's Clef label. Resulted from group's being caught at Shakespeare Foundation jazz festival at Stratford, Ont., this summer.

RETAIL SHEET BEST SELLERS

VARIETY

Survey of retail sheet music best sellers based on reports obtained from leading stores in 12 cities and showing comparative sales rating for this and last week.

* ASCAP † BMI

| National Rating This wk. | Last wk. | Title and Publisher | New York—(MDS) | Boston—(Mosher Music Co.) | Philadelphia—(Charles Dumont) | San Antonio—(Alamo Piano Co.) | Indianapolis—(Pearson Music Co.) | Detroit—(Grinnell Bros. Music) | Minneapolis—(Schmitt Music Co.) | Kansas City—(Jenkins Music Co.) | St. Louis—(St. L. Music Supply) | Cleveland—(Grossman Music Co.) | San Francisco—(Pac. Coast Music) | Seattle—(Capitol Music Co.) | TOTAL POINTS |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 1 | *Allegheny Moon (Oxford) | 2 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 5 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 110 |
| 2 | 2 | *Whatever Will Be (Artists) | 1 | 2 | 7 | 2 | .. | 2 | 1 | 2 | 4 | 5 | 1 | 1 | 93 |
| 3 | 3 | †Wayward Wind (Warman) | 3 | .. | 8 | 3 | 5 | 6 | 8 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 3 | 2 | 78 |
| 4 | 4 | *Street Where You Live (Chappell) | 6 | 6 | 2 | 5 | 4 | 3 | 2 | 6 | 3 | 7 | 4 | 7 | 77 |
| 5 | 5 | *My Prayer (Shapiro-B) | 4 | .. | 5 | 6 | 7 | 4 | 7 | 3 | 5 | 6 | 10 | 4 | 60 |
| 6 | 6 | †Canadian Sunset (Meridian) | 5 | 4 | 3 | 4 | 2 | 5 | 6 | .. | 8 | 8 | .. | 8 | 57 |
| 7 | 8 | †Almost Lost My Mind (H&R) | 8 | .. | .. | 8 | 3 | 7 | .. | 7 | 6 | 4 | 8 | .. | 37 |
| 8 | 10 | †Old-Fashioned Girl (Valor) | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 10 | 9 | 5 | 4 | 10 | 3 | .. | 5 | 32 |
| 9 | 7 | *Moonglow (Mills) | .. | 9 | 4 | 7 | 8 | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 25 |
| 10 | 9 | †Want You, Need You (Presley) | 7 | .. | 6 | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 9 | 9 | .. | 17 |
| 11A | .. | *Born to Be With You (Mayfair) | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | 10 | .. | 6 | 8 |
| 11B | 15 | *Hurts for a While (Advanced) | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 8 |
| 13 | 13 | *Ivory Tower (Morris) | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 7 |
| 14 | 11 | *Could Have Danced (Chappell) | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 10 | 6 |
| 15 | .. | †Soft, Summer Breeze (Regent) | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 |

Inside Stuff—Music

German composer Fritz Rotter started the ball rolling for the current U.S. disk activity on his tune (penned with Franz Doelle), "When The White Lilacs Bloom Again." A few months ago, Rotter brought Helmut Zacharias' Polydor waxing of the 26-year-old song, titled in German "Wenn Die Weisse Flieder Wieder Bluht," to the attention of its U.S. publisher, Harms Inc., of the Warner Bros. combine. Although the disk wasn't a hit in Germany, the U.S. publishers were able to stir up enough diskery interest via the Polydor slice to get a barrage of waxings, including the Decca release of the Polydor original. Already on the market are versions by Leroy Holmes (MGM), Florian Zabach (Mercury), Lawrence Welk (Coral) and Billy Vaughn (Dot).

Leonard Feather returned from Paris and Milan last week where he set up deals for the translation and publication of "The Encyclopedia of Jazz" in France and Italy. Encyclopedia has now sold 15,000 copies in the U.S. and is going into its third edition. It'll be published in London next month by Arthur Barker Ltd.

The first "Encyclopedia Yearbook of Jazz," which will contain biographies of 150 new musicians, will be published by Horizon in October and by Arthur Barker in England next spring. Meantime, Feather has set a profile on Norman Granz for the January issue of Esquire mag.

Joy Conners, personal secretary to Alan Holmes, British head of Robbins Music, won the $2,240 jackpot in the Granada-TV "Spot the Tune" show in Manchester last Thursday (9). She had already won $28 for answering various questions and the jackpot question, which had accumulated over the weeks to $2,240, consisted of her finishing a song, only the middle of which was played. The song she had to recognize turned out to be "You're the Cream in my Coffee," and she announced the name with half a second to spare from the 10 seconds allotted to her. Result—she came back to London with a check for $2,268.

Deejays who don't dig that Gallic jive get an assist from a new 45 rpm disk issued by Bax Music, pubbery which controls the tunes in the new Capitol album, "La Femme." Outfit, a division of Criterion Music, is headed by composer Les Baxter and Mickey Goldsen. Aware that some deejays were having trouble pronouncing the titles of some of the numbers in the album, Baxter and Goldsen hired a French gal to read off the titles and translations. Disk is carefully cued so that deejays can either listen to "La Femme" and learn something, or let the gal announce the records as they come up.

Literature is being teamed up with wax by RCA Victor to push its "La Traviata" album. Label is packaging the three-12-inch LP deluxer with a new edition of "Camille," novel by Alexander Dumas, the younger, on which the opera is based. Complete set will retail for $11.95. The album was cut in Rome by George R. Marek, veep and general manager of Victor's album division. It was conducted by Pierre Monteaux and features Rosanna Carteri, Cesare Valletti and Leonard Warren. Marek penned a special foreword for the package.

In line with its New York office staff expansion program, Columbia Records last week set John Lothrop as manager of office services and Alberta Keilbach as supervisor of file and stenographic service. Lothrop will administer activities relating to filing, communications, duplicating, mail room, office space allocation, central typing and stenography. Miss Keilbach will organize and manage a service group providing stenographic, typing and filing facilities.

Phil Lang, standard and educational chief at E. M. Morris, puts on the professorial robes for a two-and-a-half-week session at the U. of Colorado. His seminar will deal with advanced orchestration. When he gets back to his Gotham base, he'll start orchestrating the score for "Li'l Abner," upcoming legit musical by Johnny Mercer and Gene De Paul.

ABC-Par Distrib Shifts

ABC-Paramount continued to reshuffle its distributor network last week with shifts in the Philadelphia and Charlotte (N. C.) territories.

In the Philly area, the diskery picked up David Rosen, former Mercury distributor, replacing Universal. In Charlotte, Arnold took over the ABC-Par line from Mangold.

MGM

Continued from page 49

replacing Howard Budlow as sales manager.

Albums lined up for the "Baker's Dozen" drive are "Winter Wonderland" by Ray Charles; "Music From Motion Pictures" by David Rose; "Take Me In Your Arms" by Leroy Holmes; "Beside A Shady Nook" by Dick Hyman Trio; "Concerto For Lovers" by Robert Ashley orch; "Madrid After Dark" by Federico LaMore orch; "When The Lights Are Low" by George Shearing Quintet; "The Lamp is Low" by Robert Maxwell; "Moanin' The Blues" by Hank Williams; "Out of This World" by Sam (The Man) Taylor; "Goombay Carnival" by The Confidential Club orch, and "Beyond The Sea" by Roger Roger orch.

Donna Records' Pubbery

Art Cook, who heads up the new Donna Records, Cleveland-based indie, is launching a second affiliated music publishing firm to operate as Central-West Music Co. Firm is now dickering for an ASCAP publisher-membership to augment Cook's BMI affiliate, Arco Music.

A cute novelty with a lilting beat!
WAIT LITTLE DARLING
Recorded by KAY CEE JONES
on Decca
MILLS MUSIC, INC.

PROGRAM TO-DAY
YESTERDAY'S
JUST YOU, JUST ME
Music by
JESSE GREER
Published by Robbins
799 7th Ave., New York 19

THE HIT OF THE WEEK
DANNY KNIGHT
BEACHCOMBER! BEACHCOMBER!
AND
MY HEART ISN'T IN IT
MGM 12300 K12300
M-G-M Records

A MUST!...
Jimmy Young's
RICH MAN POOR MAN
LONDON RECORD #1676
Published by
KASSNER MUSIC CORP.
1619 Broadway New York

LYRIC WRITER WITH HOT MATERIAL FOR A CHRISTMAS SONG WISHES TO COLLABORATE WITH AN ASCAP COMPOSER.
Write BOX 8122, VARIETY, 154 W. 46th St., New York 36, N. Y.

48 CHORD PLAYER WANTED
(Pro or Semi Pro)
New York Resident Preferred
Write: BOX 816, VARIETY, 154 W. 46th St., New York 36, N.Y.

DECCA RECORDS
America's Fastest Selling Records!

Traditional Big Top Still a Lure As Christiani Bros. Circus Mops Up

By HUMPHREY DOULENS

Norwalk, Aug. 14.

American family trade is rallying with nostalgic loyalty to tented circus entertainment following the calamity howling incidental to the recent road closing of Ringling Bros. Circus. Christiani Bros. had five turnaway audiences out of seven in this last week. The Norwalk matinee couldn't accomodate 1,000 and the night rack was clean. (Previously the Hunt Bros. outfit also did well hereabouts.)

Christianis are a truly family operation in the old Ringling tradition. Their own stars and their own managers, Christianis break even at $3,200 a day including winter layoff expenses at Sarasota. Their main business problem is shortage of workmen on the lot for this reason the performers are also their own razorbacks.

Paul (Mogador) Christiani, 32, front man for the six brothers and two sisters plus countless relatives, running this trim, lively three-ringer, says recent audiences have included many people who come up and admit they haven't been to a circus in a long time but will support them from now on. The Christianis had so many visitors on the back lot in this sophisticated summer hub that they had to curtail hospitality to strike the tents. For the Cristianis do strike the tents themselves, labor being what it is.

Many-Talented

Belmonte Cristiani, crown prince of the family, in charge of tents and props, was already on his way to next stand (New Britain) to stake out the lot when Phil Dotto's strong-lunged brass sextet played exit march here. As with the Ringlings of old, each Cristiani has his own administrative responsibility beside tumbling, hand-balancing, bareback riding, juggling and riding high school.

Daviso, most versatile of the brothers, has charge of animals. Lucio, admitted star of the troupe by virtue of his somersault horse-to-horse, paces the performance. Oscar does wardrobe and Peter the concessions. And sisters Hort-

(Continued on page 58)

Gale Takes 'Peter Pan' For a Ride in Columbus; 'Capades' Cancels 1 Show

Columbus, Aug. 14.

The opening performance of "Ice Capades" here Sunday (5) was called after a severe rain and windstorm lashed performers and sets alike in the midst of the "Peter Pan" sequence.

Peter Pan, Wendy and the cast had just soared out of the window and were flying to Never Never Land when the sudden storm struck. Fearful of knocking the flyers against the flopping sets, technicians left them aloft for a few moments—long enough to get them sopping wet—before bringing them safely to earth.

John H. Harris, producer of the ice show, said that it was the first time in three years that the show had been cancelled because of inclement weather. "Capades" resumed Monday evening (6), however, and played through Sunday (12) without further incident.

It was the first time the ice show had been seen in Columbus.

Will Melody Linger On In Case of (Rae) Bourbon?

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

Los Angeles County Welfare Commission will hold a hearing tomorrow (Wed.) on whether to continue the show license of the Melody Room, Sunset Strip nitery which was closed down last week for playing (Miss) Rae Bourbon. Spot has been in difficulty since booking the vet femme impersonator who recently underwent sex-change surgery. Performer was arresting opening night on a charge of impersonating a woman and had worked since then in male attire.

Order shuttering the room pending tomorrow's hearing was issued a week ago.

Ellen's 1-Man Coast Show In Mocambo-Orph Dual

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

Hypnotist Arthur Ellen, opening at the Mocambo here Thursday (16), will double for two weeks at the Orpheum Theatre, starting Aug. 22. His one-hour show at the theatre will be the only act on stage. He'll be packaged with "Trapeze" on screen for the first week, and "Bandido" for the second frame.

Several months ago, Loew's State, N. Y., tried the procedure in order to cash in on the Bridey Murphy vogue. Ralph Slater, also a hypnotist, constituted the entire stageshow.

Vancouver's Cafe Biz Perking; Seek Late Law Change

By BRIAN VICKERS

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 14.

Vancouver's Chinatown not only boasts the second largest Chinese colony outside the Orient, but now is the scene of a "war" between night spots.

A short time ago, a new Mandarin Gardens opened in the heart of Chinatown. A small entrance fee includes dinner, but the club is not licensed.

Floorshow, while with second-rate local talent and an amateurish chorus line, jolted several other clubs in the vicinity into action, and now two, Forbidden City and the Mayling, are also offering local talent.

While the standard of entertainment by all three is low, it indicates that Vancouver's nightlife dollar has to be worked for.

However, despite their opposition to one another, the three clubs, joined by two more—the W-K and the Smiling Buddha—have united to fight a common enemy—the law.

Together, they plan to appeal a decision rejecting their request for later hours. An application to have the legal hours extended from 2 a. m. to 3 a. m. was refused here last week. The appeal will be heard by the City Council early this week, and faces the opposition of Mayor Fred Hume.

The most popular nitery here, and by far the best, is the Cave Supper Club. Isy Walters is continuing his policy of importing top acts. His most recent successes have included Bill Kenny, Guy Mitchell and the Mills Bros., but some of his other importations did not fare so well, most notable of late being Christine Jorgensen and June Havoc.

Shows at the Cave are produced by Cindy & Alberto, dance team, and feature a group known as the Coronet Dancers (10).

LOU WALTERS NIXES FLA. COPA CITY DEAL

Bid by Miami Beach realtors to have Lou Walters, operator of the Latin Quarters in Miami Beach and New York, take over Copa City, Miami Beach, is now considered dead. Walters left last week for a talent gandering expedition in Europe without pursuing the offer. He's now expected to open the Florida LQ a few days before Christmas.

Copa City was also offered to Paul D'Amato, operator of the 500 Club, Atlantic City, who turned it down because of what he termed an excessive rental. Copa City bowed out as a nitery a couple of seasons ago and was occupied by an auction house.

Gene Krupa and his trio, before going on a national tour with "Jazz at the Philharmonic," will play a 10-day stand at the Ball and Chain, Miami nitery, beginning Aug. 31.

Set Tony Martin, Torme For London Vaude Season

London, Aug. 14.

The Prince of Wales Theatre, Piccadilly Circus, which for the last eight months has featured the "Paris By Night" Folies Bergere show, is to stage a variety season from September.

Tony Martin and Mel Torme are among the American stars named as top-of-the-bill attractions for that theatre, while British David Whitfield has also been mentioned as a top.

Present indications suggest that the variety season may extend from September until the end of next February when a new Folies revue will be staged.

Strike Threat At Royal York On Eve of CNE

Toronto, Aug. 14.

Some 1,300 members of Toronto's Hotel & Club Employees Union announce they will strike Aug. 22 at the 1,400-room Royal York. Strike is timed to dovetail with run of Canadian Nat'l Exhibition.

Hotel's room reservations are packed for the CNE tenure (Aug. 24 to Sept. 8), mainly for Jack Arthur's grandstand spectacular, plus other tourist and exhibitor lures that drew nearly 3,000,000 at the turnstiles last year for the fortnight.

Action to close Canada's largest hotel involves a dispute with Canadian Pacific Railways, owner-operators of the hotel, with 90% of the employees voting for a strike, according to Henry Parsumi, agent for Toronto Local 299 of the union. Action includes a complete walkout, with Parsumi's claim that "we will close the hotel."

Union is demanding an 18c increase per hour, retroactive to last November, plus a health and welfare plan, and $7 a month for adjustment of maintenance staff rates. The company has countered with a 3c hourly boost and an additional 2c this November, plus a health and welfare plan that has been rejected.

The union said it has assurances from sister unions that there will be no Royal York deliveries of food or services, running down the line from elevator operators to dining room help, liquor lounges and floor shows.

Kurt Oranto has been named head of the Al Dobritsch agency's Chicago office.

Chi Area Cafe Ops Come to Terms With AGVA; Threat of N. O. Pullout

Chicago, Aug. 14.

At a meeting last week between Ernie Fast, midwest regional director of the American Guild of Variety Artists, Milton T. Raynor, attorney for the Chi Cafe Owners Assn., and Ben Orloff, owner of the Silver Frolics strippery here, representing the cafe owners, a decision was reached affecting 22 holdout Chicago niteries who have refused in the past to meet AGVA's terms.

The terms, to be adhered to by the 22 Chicago, Cicero and Calumet City night clubs, include signing of AGVA's minimum basic agreement, payment of welfare fund contributions for performers, posting of bonds for performers' salaries, and agreement to employ only AGVA members. All niteries will have complied with these terms within 12 days, time for necessary paperwork to be completed, Fast said.

Deadline Today (Wed.)

New Orleans Aug. 14.

Unless Bill Hewitt, American Guild of Variety Artists' representative here, and Seymour Weiss, owner of the Roosevelt Hotel, come to agreement by tomorrow (Wed.), AGVA will pull all its acts out and place the hotel on the "unfair" list. AGVA is insisting that the Roosevelt sign its minimum basic agreement, pay welfare contributions for performers and post bonds for performers' salaries.

Weiss' reluctance to agree to these terms is causing the difficulty.

Russians Cool to Bid To Play Globetrotters

Berlin, Aug. 7.

It has long been a habit that whenever Abe Saperstein's Harlem Globetrotters come here (now their seventh postwar appearance), they register a sock hit. And it's no exception this year. Berliners have taken a special fancy to this troupe. At the Olympic Stadium several years ago, they played before 75,000, still an all-time record for such sporting event.

In Berlin this time for four dates, they played the 7,000-seat Sportpalast. Globetrotter's manager, Abe Saperstein, said the advance sale of tickets this year was 25% better than last year. He said that he still intends to arrange a game between his boys and Europe's best basketball nation, the Russians, in Moscow. Last word from the Kremlin city, however, was that "there's still no time available for an event like that."

Chi's Drake Sets Chirping Singles In 4-Week Rides

Chicago, Aug. 14.

Chi's posh Drake Hotel bows a single-act entertainment policy in its remodeled Camellia House Sept. 8. First act to play the refurbished cafe will be chanteuse Fernanda Montel, who opens the room for a four-week stint. Connie Moore follows for another four. The Jimmy Blade orch., a six-piece society band, will provide backing; the Blade orch had been the Camellia House band for over four years until last February.

The Camellia House closed down last week for redecorating, to be done by Dorothy Draper, who did the old Camellia House, New York's Hampshire House, the Greenbrier Hotel in White Sulphur Springs, West Va., etc. Room will be done in a New Orleans motif. Though no change in prices is contemplated, a cover charge is being mulled.

Policy will be to showcase sophisticate chantooseys of the type used in the Maisonette of New York's St. Regis, approximately in the $1,000 class. Buying will be done by Drake veepee Ben Marshall, and bookings will be of four-week duration. Connie Towers follows Connie Moore and it is reported that Marshall is negotiating for Monique van Booren.

Threatened With Suit, MacRae Drops 'Fair Lady' From His Las Vegas Act

Las Vegas, Aug. 14.

Gordon MacRae has dropped his embrace of "My Fair Lady" following a demand—bolstered by the threat of a $100,000 lawsuit—from the show's producer, Herman Levin. During the initial 10 days of his current Desert Inn cafe engagement, MacRae had been scoring solid response with his capsuled musical and verbal recitation of the Broadway smash.

But last week Levin, in a telegram, ordered MacRae to halt the "22-minute vignette of 'My Fair Lady' embracing portions of the musical's plot, dialog, lyrics and music." Levin, through his attorney, Irvnig Cohen of Reinheimer & Cohen, notified MacRae that unless he ceased forthwith, an injunction would be sought and suit for substantial damages instituted. MacRae disclosed that the damages mentioned in the edict totaled $100,000.

MacRae said he tried, through his own Manhattan counsel, to gain permission to retain his "Lady" vignette, but was refused. He said he had spent considerable coin designing the tab and was "merely trying to show my affection for the musical." MacRae had been assisted in the "Lady" portion by wife Sheila Stephens. Singer has substituted takeoff on "This Is Your Life," which he introduced during his previous nitery engagement here 15 months ago.

'My Fairfax Lady' Warning

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

Herman Levin, "Fair Lady" producer, warned Hollywood nitery operator Billy Gray to "cease and desist" performances of a nitery satire tagged "My Fairfax Lady." Gray's show opened five weeks ago.

Judy's Las Vegas H.O. Delays Palace Teeoff

The Judy Garland show for the Palace Theatre, N. Y., will be delayed one week to Sept. 27. Indications point to the fact that Miss Garland will be held over an additional period at the New Frontier, Las Vegas, and she wants the additional time to line up a surrounding cast and take a rest before taking on the minimum eight weeks at the N. Y. vauder.

She'll be on percentage in her two-a-day stand.

Circuits Now Leaning Toward Voting 'A Straight B.O. Ticket'

The circuits are resuming their pitches for bookings of any type of attraction that will sell tickets. Again the loops are making it clear that they'll change the policy of virtually any house if a draw becomes available.

As one booker pointed out, there are theatres seating over 3,000 in virtually every major city in the country and not enough big pictures to go around. During some of the slow weeks, it would be wise to put in some kind of show, whether it be a touring legiter, a concert troupe, or a two-a-dayer with a name and a series of surrounding acts.

Only a few rock 'n' rollers have been on a safari. The Gale Agency package has done well on its tour and returned a profit for bulk of the houses.

Another type of tourer that is doing well in many parts of the country is the jazz unit package. Outfits such as Dave Brubeck, and some of the hipsters, are doing well, especially among the younger set. One of the constant surprises to many managers is the big returns by the horror companies. The spook shows, generally presented after midnght, are paying off handsomely.

One of the major offices is planning to package some of its fair-date units for presentation into theatres. However, plans are at this point indefinite because headliners cannot be plotted at this time.

Frank Sinatra plus a unit that includes the Tommy & Jimmy Dorsey Band and Joey Bishop provides another indication of how a major house will temporarily change its course to accommodate a headliner. The outfit goes into the Paramount, N. Y., for one week starting today (Wed.). Harry Levine, booker for the Par circuit, has Alan Freed doing a repeat at the Brooklyn Paramount over the Labor Day holidays. He had attempted to get a disk jockey show going in the Chicago Theatre, Chicago, but inability to make a deal with the stagehands nixed that effort.

Chi's Big Show Gives Only So-So Lift to Cafes, Pix Houses

Chicago, Aug. 14.

Delegates to the Democratic National Convention, 2,744 strong, roughly 4,000 from press, radio and-tv, and miscellaneous hangers-on for estimated total of 15,000 persons, are giving Chicago's nightlife a slight boost, though not in proportion to their numbers.

Conclave of 15,000 is relatively small by this convention-town's standards, and fact that political conventioneers put on their own show is keeping nightlife hypo traceable to them down to a minimum. In tradition of "smoke-filled rooms" (original "smoke-filled room" having been GOP's 1920 Harding hoopla in Chicago's Blackstone Hotel), most of business is being done in room service departments of large hotels where conventioners are registered, the package liquor stores, and in hotel main rooms. Of latter, Conrad Hilton's Boulevard Room is being used as convention press headquarters, with its ice show being held in abeyance for a week, while Empire Room of Palmer House offers Muggsy Spanier and Helen Forrest until Thursday (16) when Harry Belafonte, a big draw here, opens.

Spike Jones at Chez Paree and Fran Warren at Black Orchid should also do slightly better than they would if there were no convention in town. Business around town is up perhaps 10% because of the Demo conclave; Saturday (11) night saw all top spots packed, with tables unavailable in most places until midnight. This was also true of jazz niteries such as London House and Blue Note.

Fact that there are no legit shows in town may help film houses somewhat, as well as the niteries, though most filmery ops don't expect much convention business. In fact, two roadshow pix here, "Oklahoma" and "Cinerama Holiday," may show only a slight rise, if that, according to spokesmen at the McVickers and the Palace. All told, convention business for niteries and cinemas is welcome gravy, but will not make or break anybody.

Making Chi Safe

Continued from page 1

police commissioner's office were solicited for drinks by three L&L employees, Nancy Conrad, a dancer, Mrs. Shirley Bisutti and Marilyn Taylor, both entertainers. Besides the three, the detectives arrested Eugene Christofalos, 69, president of the L&L Cafe Corp., Alex Karzis, manager, Thomas Vlis, bartender, Ernest R. Hulder, 54, master of ceremonies, Miss Pat Paschal, Mary Garratt, and Mrs. Sharon L. Romashko.

'For the Duration'

To further protect visiting Demos, Capt. Alcook of the First District ordered police stationed in eight Loop niteries for the duration of the convention. They are to see that strippers leave on "some" clothes, prevent bar girls from soliciting drinks and see that the joints are properly lighted. Nothing in the order prevents conventioneers from offering to buy or regulates what the girls will be served, generally watered whiskey and tea, at upwards of a dollar a throw. Police lieutenants and acting lieutenants will be required to make daily reports on the eight spots. They are: the Crossroads cafe, the Cabana, the Randolph Lounge, the Hollywood Lounge, Nannette's, the Kitten Lounge, Eddie Foys', and the Holliday. All are in the Loop or its fringes.

Coincidentally, the city action came after a recent series of tongue-clucking items hitting the strip-and-clip joints and the b-girl situation by two local columnists, Herb Lyon of the Chicago Tribune and Tony Weitzel of the Daily News. The two scribes suddenly discovered the situation, though lately it has been a lot tamer than in some past years. The tightening-up, however, is more likely to stem from the administration's desire to pour on the window dressing for the Democratic convention, insiders think.

Nothing has been said about what action, if any, will be taken to control gyp-and-clip practices outside the convention-flooded Loop or whether the heat will still be on after the Demo conclave. Generally in the past, the heat has been very closely allied to such events as elections and political conventions. What the local citizens, or those who patronize joints outside the Loop, or ordinary business conventioneers are supposed to do for protection after the Democratic convention is over, is yet to be determined.

Lawrence, Treiffesen Start Own Percentery

Harry Lawrence and Roy Treiffesen, both of whom had been with the Lew & Leslie Grade Agency at the time its American operations were absorbed by General Artists Corp., have formed their own office. They have taken over the bulk of the space occupied by the Grade office in New York.

Lawrence had been doing club dates, with Treiffesen working on special attractions and industrial shows.

State, Hartford, to Go Weekend Vaude in Sept.

The State Theatre, Hartford, is set to resume vaude on a weekend basis starting Sept. 8. Initialer for the season is a rock 'n' roll display with the Red Prysock orch, Clyde McPhatter, the Moonglows, the Cadillacs and Jesse Powell. On Sept. 15 for two days Tony Bennett will head a package, and there are deals being negotiated for Bill Haley & Comets, Pat Boone, Four Lads and others.

According to present indications, the State will be the only house in New England on a regular stage-show basis.

Hub's Blinstrub's Goes for a Line

Boston, Aug. 14.

Boniface Stanley Blinstrub will open his 1,700-seater this fall with a line of 12 showgirls in an innovation for the South Boston nitery, which has pursued a consistently successful policy of name singers the past few seasons.

George Hale, Broadway producer, will direct the line productions. Format of names will be continued and signed so far for the upcoming season are: Marguerite Piazza, Teresa Brewer, Guy Lombardo, Patti Page, Frankie Laine and Tony Martin.

The newly refurbished and altered Blinstrub's will open Sept. 3. Some $60,000 worth of improvements have been made, including $30,000 for a new stage lighting system.

Blinstrub's will be the only Hub supper club with a line. Only other supper club in the area with a line is the Frolic across the Harbor in Revere where the Buddy Thomas line of 11 is current on a year-round basis.

Vaude, Cafe Dates

New York

Marion Colby goes into the Copacabana, N.Y., Sept. 20 on the Joe E. Lewis show . . . Davis & Reese pacted for the Sands, Las Vegas, Oct. 31 . . . Roberta Sherwood on a quick booking into the New Frontier, Las Vegas, Monday (20) . . . Mario (& Floria) bemoans the confusion created by the nomenclature of the team of Murio & Sheila, which frequently comes out Mario & Sheila in print. Mario says he's keeping the same partner, who happens to be his wife . . . Henny Youngman goes into the Fontainebleau, Miami Beach, Aug. 28 . . . Joe E. Lewis, Betty Madigan and Bob Melvin set for the Holiday House, Pittsburgh, Oct. 22.

Chicago

Morey Amsterdam into Congress Hotel, St. Louis, Oct. 1 for two. Four Voices play the Congress Sept. 10 for a single . . . Bob Anderson rounds out the bill at Black Orchid, opening under new management Sept. 6 with Sylvia Syms toplining and Yonely in the second slot . . . Jimmy Ames set for Brown Hotel, Louisville, Sept. 7 for three frames . . . Dave Gardner currently at Black Orchid . . . Harry Belafonte opens at Palmer House tomorrow night (Thurs.) in a quick return date . . . Boulevard Room of the Conrad Hilton shuttered this week and converted to Demo convention press headquarters; reopens next week with usual icery.

Raffles Group Moves In As New Black Orchid Op

Chicago, Aug. 14.

Papers transferring ownership of the Black Orchid nitery here from Al Greenfield to a group headed by Paul Raffles, the same group that owns the Cloister Inn here, were signed last week.

The room's first show under new management will bow Sept. 6; lineup has Sylvia Syms headlining, Yonely in the second slot and Bob Anderson as the opening act.

Hollywood

Ciro's will resume its line of girls in its floorshows in the near future . . . Brandie Brandon, pianist at Art Williams' Eldorado, re-optioned through October . . . Latune singer Elsa Oria current at Bar of Music . . . Carl Carelli Trio featuring Frankie Sands inked for a one-year stand at Mocambo . . . April Ames is holding over at Crescendo . . . Abbey Lincoln set for a return date at Ciro's Sept. 14 . . . Comedy team of Rowan & Martin will appear on the bill toplining Nat King Cole at Cocoanut Grove Sept. 5 . . . Bobby Short holds over four weeks at Castle Restaurant . . . George Shearing has been set for a return date at Zardi's in November.

Atlantic City

Vic Damone into 500 Club Saturday (18) for five days, with Frank Sinatra opening for four days Aug. 23. Johnnie Ray comes in for one day Sept. 1 with the Will Mastin Trio starring Sammy Davis Jr. due for a one-day stand Sept. 2 . . . Bill Haley & His Comets with their rock 'n' roll into Steel Pier vaude for a week starting Aug. 19. On bill with Haley will be Miss Loni and Johnny Morgan, Gene Krupa in with Johnny Palmers' orch Aug. 17-23 . . . Daisy Mae & Hepcats into Ed Prouse's Fort Pitt (13) Erskine Hawkins' band opened at Herman's (10).

San Francisco

Abbott & Costello opened two-week run at Frisco's Village Monday (13), and reportedly are drawing $12,000 a week . . . George and Nick Andros, owners of Facks and Facks II, are promoting a 26½-mile Pacific Ocean swim to Farallon Islands Sept. 25 . . . Jeri Southern booked into the Macumba starting Aug. 31.

Kansas City

Terrace Grill of Hotel Muehlebach brought in Maria Neglia for a one-week stand, an unusual booking in the spot. She followed Anne Russell, who also did a one-week stint ending Aug. 9 . . . Orchid Room plays Sonny Vallie, The Magnificents, Lulu Ducongee and Stew & Oscar current stanza . . . Dave Romaine trips to Pitt and Dore's Club, following his current stand at Eddys'. He opens in the Pa. spot for 11 days Aug. 27 . . . Enzo Stuarti makes an overnight hop from Eddys' to open at the Chase Club, St. Louis, Aug. 25, for two weeks . . . Four Voices in at Wildwood Lakes for their first date in this area . . . Don Cornell comes back to Eddys' Aug. 24 for a fortnight.

Vaude in the Market-Place

Boston, Aug. 14.

Danny White's Aquarama, 10-person water show playing wet and dry, ended a tour of parking lots at supermarkets Saturday (11) in a break-in that marked the first time actual pro shows have been put on super lots in the territory.

Using a portable 25 x 25 pool and an accordian player, White, Hub booker turned producer, played three dates on First National Stores parking lots, Medford (6), Natick (8-9) and Stoneham (11) averaging auds of around 350 cuffo.

Tab for the supermarket parking lot tour was paid by Cliquot Club Bottling Co. in a deal with the super chain.

White said the package deal to the bottling firm was for $2,000 for the four dates. The water show, which is to serve as nucleus of a 40-person show to tour this fall, is being booked into summer hotels with swimming pools.

White, who envisions supermarket parking lots as an upcoming circuit for vaude acts, was first to book acts on a regular basis into supermarket autopark lots early this season.

"The biggest surprise of this or any other season"*

VARIETY, Sahara, Las Vegas:
"Harvey Stone . . . Refreshingly humorous in his slick monologue . . . pacing is honed razor sharp . . He has them howling from the outset." Alan.

Las Vegas Sun, FORREST DUKE:
"His material is fresh, his songs are good, and the gags went over big . . . won the crowd over completely."

LES DEVOR, Las Vegas Review Journal:
*"The biggest surprise of this or any season is Harvey Stone, the new Harvey Stone. He's a delight to watch—all the old ability is there, but now a new relaxation, surety and confidence . . . his material is new, unborrowed and good. He should be a blessing to the new fall season in television."

VARIETY, Fontainebleau, Miami:
"Harvey Stone sparks steady howls . . . He looks and acts the class comic cafe comic, thanks to easy, well-timed approach to the tablers and his material . . . gags are steady yock earners. Click staging has big time touch. End result, a resounding payoff from the aud." Lary.

GEORGE BURKE, Miami Herald:
"Harvey Stone, the rollicking Stone, who allows no moroseness to grow while he's on . . . scores constantly."

HARVEY STONE

Guest Starred August 11th
ONY BENNETT SHOW
NBC-TV

Booked for Return Engagements:
FONTAINEBLEAU, Miami
SAHARA, Las Vegas

Opening September 27th
SHAMROCK
HOUSTON

Rep.—GENERAL ARTISTS CORPORATION

Dir.—CHARLES RAPP

Beatty Circus Taps Ringling Acts After Union Pares Penalties

The Clyde Beatty Circus will be rejuvenated with several acts that formerly worked with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. Agreement has been reached between the American Guild of Variety Artists and Walter Kernan and Steve McCloskey to operate the venture formerly headed by Beatty.

Beatty, who will be an employee of the circus, has signed a stipulation permitting 25% of his salary to be deducted in order to pay his contractual obligations to acts with the outfit at the time of its folding.

With resumption of the Beatty circus, some of the talent with the recently closed Ringling show will be back in business. All those who have agreed to go with the Beatty outfit will sign pledges permitting AGVA to deduct monies for a fine for not walking out of the Ringling show when ordered to by the union. Originally nicked by the union with a $2,000 fine for each performer, AGVA has amended that to permit single performers to go back for payment of a $1,000 fine; doubles, $1,500, and trios, $2,000. All turns with more than three would pay $500 for each performer.

All former Ringling acts that will go with the Beatty show have agreed to pay the fine, and the show managers have agreed to deduct a percentage of their salary to pay off the impost.

Schine Acquires Hotel In Glens Falls for 850G

Albany, Aug. 14.

The Schine interests of Gloversville have returned to the Capital District hotel scene with purchase of the 200-room Queensbury Hotel in Glens Falls, for $850,000. Sale was approved by stockholders of the Glens Falls Hotel Corp.

The Schines own a string of other hotels, including the Roney Plaza and Gulfstream in Miami Beach, the McAllister in Miami, the Ambassador in Los Angeles and the Northampton Inn, Northampton, Mass. They operated the Ten Eych Hotel in Albany for nine years, selling it to the Sheraton Corp. of America in 1954 for several million dollars. Schine reportedly still holds a large mortgage.

Sherek-Tennent to Do 'Wood' Jointly at Fest

Edinburgh, Aug. 14.

Because of the recent illness of Henry Sherek, the impresario, the production of Dylan Thomas' "Under Milk Wood," planned for first week of the International Festival, will now be presented by "H. M. Tennent Ltd., by arrangement with Henry Sherek."

Play is to be directed jointly by Douglas Cleverdon and Edward Burnham. It opens at the Lyceum Aug. 21.

Saranac Lake

By Happy Benway

Saranac Lake, N.Y., Aug. 14.

Biggest event of the season is the choosing of "Miss Playground of 1956" at the William Morris Memorial Playground. The kiddies go all out for this event. Winner is awarded a doll and various prizes are donated by the local merchants. It comes off on the stage of the Schine Pontiac Theatre here. Judges are Mayor A. B. "Tony" Anderson, manager of the theatre; Bob Cosgrove of Columbia Pictures, Larry Doyle of the Matty Baseball League and Al Bagdasarian of station WNBZ. Benny Ressler of the Shamus Club will see that every kid gets ice cream and cookies.

Louise Zolner into the general hospital for the second stage of the thoracoplasty operation and took the ordeal like a veteran. Louis Epstein, too, is showing good results from the recent surgery.

Charlotte Eiselman, nitery entertainer, in from Long Island for the general o.o. and rest period, accompanied by her mother, Julia Donohue, wardrobe mistress of many years' standing.

A treat was handed to many of the patients here by the Sisterhood of the Jewish Community Center. They were taken to Lake Placid for a boat sail and a dinner at the Lone View Hotel there.

Bob (IATSE) Hall, backstager at the Apollo Theatre, N. Y., in accompanied by his wife for a two-week vacation and a general checkup which got him an all-clear report to keep on working.

Beverly Dennis, legit and tv artist, in from Chicago. She regained her health here and at a recent checkup rated an excellent report.

Kate Smith in to attend the sixth annual Adirondack antique show, made a few purchases and then was off for her summer camp at Lake Placid.

The Robert Louis Stevenson Society of Saranac Lake is going to build a Treasure Island attraction on land near the Stevenson Cottage. Project is sponsored by Phil Falise and the committee hopes to get William Morris Jr. to take a hand in the planning of the attraction.

Write to those who are ill.

Circus Review

Tower Circus
(Tower, Blackpool, Eng.)

Blackpool, Aug. 6.

Blackpool Tower Co. presentation of The 1956 Tower Circus, directed by Kathleen Williams. Equestrian director, Harold Holt; ringmaster, Henry Lytton. Features Charlie Cairoli with Paul, Tibor Alexander's Dog Revue presented by Miss Irene, Theda Sisters (2), Tom & Jerry, Golden Horse 'Pegasus' and Elephant 'Lony' presented by Jozsi Vinicky, King Kong, Krone's Group of Royal Bengal Tigers presented by Gilbert Houcke, Krone's White, Chestnut & Piebald Stallions presented by Jozsi Vinicky, See-Hee Troupe (3), Krone's 8 Shetland Ponies, The Heltanos (2), The Five D'Angolys, The Zemgannos (4), Edith Crocker's Bears (3), Tower Circusettes; Tower Orch under Erik Ogden.

The 1956 layout, spiced with varied quota of circus acts, again features Charlie Cairoli as principal clown, aided by his foil Paul.

(Continued on page 61)

Olsen & Johnson, Roy Rogers, Other Names Booked Into State Fairs

Columbus, Aug. 14.

Roy Rogers, Red Foley, Pat Boone and Polly Bergen are among the stars who will appear at the Ohio State Fair running Aug. 24-31.

Rogers, along with his wife, Dale Evans, Pat Brady, and the Sons of the Pioneers, will appear at night shows Aug. 24-28 and at matinees Aug. 24-26, surrounded by novelty acts.

Foley and the "Ozark Jubilee" will be attractions on the evenings of Aug. 29-30. Tabby West, Slim West, Marvin Rainwater, Bobby Lord, Sonny James, the Foggy River Boys, and Lennie and GooGoo also will be on hand for the two shows.

Boone, Miss Bergen and Art Mooney's orch are scheduled for the nights of Aug. 24-25.

Iowa's Star Bill

Des Moines Aug. 14.

Olsen & Johnson's musical revue will head the Iowa State Fair night grandstand shows Aug. 24 through Aug. 29.

Roy Rogers, Dale Evans, Trigger, Pat Brady and Sons of the Pioneers will be the grandstand afternoon shows Aug. 30 through Sept. 2 and also on Saturday night, Sept. 1.

Marshfield First In

Boston, Aug. 14.

Massachusetts' big fair season was kicked off by Marshfield Fair, which closed a record week Saturday (11) after opening Sunday (5) to 17,003 paid admissions. Last year Marshfield Fair was flooded out by the hurricane on I's closing day.

Eugene W. Burr, operating the midway, said takes were up 20% over last year in the first three days. Roland Tiebor's Seals and other circus acts were booked in by Al Martin. Billy Wagner's Auto Daredevils did two shows on opening day. It was the 89th year for the fair, which was first to run pari-mutuels in this state. Handle was reported up too.

Sandy "Scampy" Dobritch

Famous Boy-Clown and World's Youngest Ring-Master

- Formerly with Super Circus as SCAMPY, THE CLOWN . . .
- At present, Boy Ring-Master on Ed Sullivan Show . . .
- Booked into the CNE, Toronto, as Clown and Ring-Master August 23 through September 8

AVAILABLE FOR BOOKINGS FROM SEPTEMBER 9

AL DOBRITCH
ENTERPRISES

TELEVISION • International Artist Agency • CIRCUSES

THE BEST ACTS IN THE BUSINESS, UNDER EXCLUSIVE CONTRACT, AND AVAILABLE FOR IMMEDIATE BOOKING

| | |
|---|---|
| 7 BOKARAS | Teeterboard act featuring triple somersault |
| CORDONS | Artistry with lashing, snapping whips |
| DAM BROS | Tight wire act |
| ALPHONSE DE JONGHE | Chimp act |
| PINITO DEL ORO | Beautiful Queen of High Trapeze |
| LOLA DOBRITCH | Tight wire act |
| 5 FREDONIAS | Risley act |
| 3 GOETSCHIS | Unicycle act |
| 6 GUTIS | Jungle Comedy |
| IVANKO QUARTET | Casting acro |
| THE IVANOVS | Horizontal bars |
| JANOS AND BOGYO | Aristocrats of Acrobats |
| JINX | The super chimp |
| MARILEX DUO | Plate Spinners Extraordinary |
| MISS MARA | Aerial act |
| NITA AND PEPPI | Knockabout |
| NOVELLOS | Ladder balancing |
| REBERTES | Acrobatic frivolities |
| SCIPLINI CHIMPS | Sensational chimps (6) |
| SMAHAS | Horse dressage with ballerina |
| DIETER TASSO | Unique Juggler |
| TONI | The Monkey Girl |
| TONITO | Wire act, forward somersault |
| TAKEO USUI | Japanese daredevil—"Slide for Life" |

In addition, we are also in a position to offer for bookings, over 230 other outstanding novelty and circus acts.

AL DOBRITCH ENTERPRISES

(Associated with Frank Sennes)

MAIN OFFICE
NEW YORK
200 W. 57th Street
COlumbus 5-4682-3

CHICAGO OFFICE
Mgr.: Kurt Oranto
203 North Wabash
Financial 6-4239

EUROPEAN OFFICE
Mgr.: Franz Kotter
Arndtstrasse 17,
Frankfort-Main, Germany
Phone: 7-77778

NOTICE: Al Dobritch is no longer associated with George Hamid. Our purpose in publishing the above message is to announce our ability and willingness to supply top acts for all branches of the entertainment field.

House Reviews

Music Hall, N. Y.

Leon Leonidoff production with Albert Sturm, Elliott Reid, George Sawtelle, Tamara Manookian, Kathryn Kelly, Frank Lester, Ten Monson, Angelo Nicelli, Raymond Paige Orch; sets, James Stewart Morcom; costumes, Frank Spencer; lighting, Eugene Braun; lyrics, Al Stillman; Roxyettes routined by Russell Markert; Corps de Ballet by Margaret Sande; "High Society" (M-G), reviewed in VARIETY July 18, '56.

Radio City Music Hall, nearing its 25th anniversary, continues as the ace showcase in the country. A combination of top films and eye-filling stageshows has produced an institution that is as much a must for tourists as the Empire State Bldg. or the Statue of Liberty.

The Music Hall remains a reminder to showmen that it's the show that counts and not the names. The Hall will spend upwards of $25,000 on a single display, but the acts are selected for their relation to the rest of the proceedings and not for their name value. The Music Hall is the basic draw, and acts are merely the incidentals that carry out the ideas of its producers.

The Music Hall is probably the only holdover of a golden age of stageshows that had its great expressions in the Paramount-Publix presentations, the Fanchon & Marco displays and the creations of Samuel (Roxy) Rothafel. Leon Leonidoff, backed by a capable staff, is now the senior producer, and Russell Markert takes over periodically in his own production; the results are generally an average theatregoer's idea of the grandeur of the living theatre.

The present stager, presented by Leonidoff, seems like an allout effort. Probably one of the more impressive numbers staged in this house is a lavish underwater sequence, in which Kirby's flying apparatus have girls hanging on them and doing some spectacular stunts. The sets are applause-winners and writhing coryphees give the impression of marine life. Rear as well as front projection on a scrim heightens the illusion of aquatic scenics. Tamara Manookian, Kathryn Kelly, Frank Lester, Ted Monson and Angelo Nicelli provide the terps and acrobatics that help put this scene over.

The Glee club with George Sawtelle fronting works in a yacht club bar that sets the scene. Al Stillman's special lyrics aid the cause tremendously. The Rockettes in a Hawaiian number, per always, hit the measure of the house. This time, the routine includes a hand drill that proves a good point of interest.

The outside acts are by Albert Sturm (New Acts) and Elliot Reid, who pokes fun at the present political scene. His impression of a series of windbags at a political convention and his rib of commentators covering the scene make his act a timely and laugh-provoking bit.

Raymond Paige conducts the MH symph through a vigorous interpretation of a Lecuona medley. At one point, during his exposition of the Latino rhythms, part of the baton went flying through the air. The crew got a prodigious mitt for this musical contribution. Jose.

Empire, Glasgow

Glasgow, Aug. 7.

Mel Torme (with Colin Beaton), Connor & Drake, Rey Overbury & Suzette; Mereaux & Liliane, The Courtneys (2), Lionel King, The Kordas (3), The Toledos (3), Bobby Dowds Orch.

Mel Torme, on first trip here, scores solidly with fully entertaining act, his tunes being spiced with comedy. Youngish warbler pleases his growing body of fans with versatility and a cheerful approach, giving impression all through that he's enjoying his encores.

Opens brightly with "That's Entertainment," then into "No Other Love." Segues with a comedy bit, takeoff on a Hollywood film of the African jungle, leading from this into "Old Black Magic," which he pegs around a travesty of Billy Daniels' style. Singer then calls for sexy lights and renders "Blue Moon," changing the mood next with "Birth of the Blues."

Next, into his pianistic items, giving "Jeepers Creepers" and Gershwin's "Our Love Is Here to Stay" at the ivories, both from his own recordings. Segues with his current hit of "Mountain Greenery" and, after false exit, returns to offer a lively session on the drums to gain solid mitting.

Torme, on this showing, wins many new customers via his appeal to both youngsters and oldsters, and through warm, happy personality. He gets completely away from rut of song-after-song, avoids well-worn paths of inter-tune gabbing, and comes up with as satisfying an act as any American has offered here this year. Colin Beaton handles the ivories with skill.

Support layout is of fairish strength, but weighed down specialty-wise, and a strong British comedy single would have strenghtened the bill. Three Toledos liven up as accordion-playing openers, and the Kordas engage in some deft juggling, one of the two gals in the troo skipping while simultaneously juggling. Connor & Drake, longtime English duo, amuse with routine cross-talk, and try an Old Mother Reilly impression which doesn't click because this humor style is losing fashion.

Rey Overbury, assisted by shapely Suzette, plays the concertina while seated on folding stool that jumps back at him when depressed, and moves readily across stage. He also tap-dances and introduces comedy of simple things going wrong. Lionel King gives a magico act with playing cards and audience participation. The Courtneys, adagio, and Mereaux & Liliane, acro act, are both in New Acts. Bobby Dowds orch showbacks. Gord.

Palace, N. Y.

Berk & Hallow, Ted Lester, Milt Douglas & Priscilla, Lilyan Cavel, Rebertes (3), Los Zeas (2), Don Cummings, Joe Howard, Kal Kirby House Orch; "The Proud Ones" (20th), reviewed in VARIETY May 31, '56.

With Joe Howard heading the eight-act bill this session, the Palace is magic-carpeted back to its vaude heyday. The octogenarian Tin Pan Alleyite and troubadour of the '90s is hardly as spry as the proverbial chicken, but his spirit is youthful and his performance is lively and contagious. He dishes up the nostagia that is appealing to the Palace's contingent of vaude diehards.

Writer of some 600 songs, Howard "and-then-I-wrote's" his way through a group of his top tunes, including "Hello My Baby" and "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now." Latter was the basis of George Jessel's biopic of Howard. Known as a "descriptive" singer at the height of his career, Howard displays his ability in that department with a rousing, interpretive rendition of Jerome Kern's "Old Man River."

The years have been kind to Howard's pipes, and with the aid of a mike, his voice comes through sharp and clear. The aud is with him all the way. He completes his stint with a strut, cakewalk and shuffle. It, of course, lacks the gusto of more youthful performers, but it has a charm that is heartwarming. He closes to a heavy mitting, warranting a begoff speech.

Dick Berk & Bunny Hallow open the stanza with pleasant tapology. Youthful pair have a nice personality and succeed in conveying it across the footlights. Ted Lester, in the deuce spot, is a novelty musician, displaying his talents via half a dozen miniature instruments which he pulls out of his flowing cloak. Nabs a nice reception.

Comedian Milt Douglas, teamed with Priscilla as a foil, clowns his way through tried and tested material good for an occasional laugh. In the main, however, the stuff is dated. Lilyan Cavel, in her second Palace outing, scores as a pop chirper, relying mainly on a medley of oldies. Don Cummings is a comedian of the Will Rogers-Herb Shriner school. He comes out with a lariat as a prop, drops a couple of short yarns and one-liners and succeeds in convulsing a small segment of the audience. Kal Kirby's house orch provides topnotch show backing.

Rebertes and Los Zeas are reviewed under New Acts. Holl.

CHANDU'S TOLEDO RAP

Toledo, Aug. 14.

Chandu the Magician, known privately as Clarence Hunter, of East Orange, N. J., has been turned over to the grand jury here, charged with robbery in a $50 holdup of a restaurant on July 27, while traveling through Toledo to keep a professional engagement in Peoria, Ill.

Bond of $5,000 was set.

Big Top Lure

Continued from page 55

ense and Connie handle the front door but firmly. No ringers get past these handsome dames, probably the most high-styled ladies to watch the wicket since the indomitable Mrs. Charlie Sparks. Their father, Ernesto, watches them to keep all wolves away and there is always Baghongi, the dwarf, who has been the Cristiani groom for the past 36 years, since early wagon shows in Italy, and who now doubles as clown and bouncer.

Gals Count Up First

Hortense and her sister are spotted late in the bill so they may first "count up." (Show people, well represented from Westport, loved this.) Hortense does a slick balancing act with Freddie Canestrelli, formerly of the Big One. They use a plank and roller. Younger sister works five elephants for closing. Show carries nine bulls, one of them being spotted early in the bill for a mitt-getting solo routine with Oscar Cristiani.

Two prize acts were unhappily omitted at showing here. Daviso, understander, had bad back and troupe could not perform their teeterboard acrobatics. And Lucio was afraid to use his bareback horses on exceedingly stony lot. Incidentally Daviso no longer does his perch act, long a standard with Ringling Show. But he has plenty to make up for it, including stylish high school riding.

Despite defections there was a sufficient succession of standard turns that delighted audience. Tommy Paris and Abbe Davis pound the trampoline and Manuel Zacchini, fugitive from a cannon act, performs whip-cracking feats with his wife Katie. It is their daughter Delilah Zacchini who turns out to be the bright new talent on the bill. Youngster working on a single trap, does head balancing routine high above arena, closely following pattern established by Ella Ardelty many seasons ago and brought to perfection by Pinta del Oro. Delilah is a looker too but does not yet know how to take a bow. She should watch her mother, a circus aristocrat.

Also socko is Manuel Baragan, performing giant cloud swings while ballet girls work end ladders. Clowns redo Polidor's old boxing routine with Baghongi as referee. Harry Dann is equestrian director, doubling as announcer.

Big tent seats 3,000 and is not large enough. There was a turnaway of more than 1,000 at matinee here, just capacity at night. Peekskill, N.Y. reported two turnaways Tuesday (7). Family hopes to save enough this year to acquire new, loftier big top for next season, thus permitting flying acts admittedly a drawback.

The Cristianis have always been a class outfit and their fleet of personal Coupe de Villes hauling the circus trailers is a long way from the gypsy wagons in which Baghongi joined up with their father a long time ago.

OCTOGENARIAN TROUPER JOE E. HOWARD'S BIOG

Joe E. Howard, currently at the Palace, N. Y., is probably the oldest active variety artist in the country. The octogenarian song and dance man as well as songwriter, is still a very spry gent as is evidenced by his act and the fact that, at this date, he has gone in for his autobiog in a tome entitled "Gay Nineties Troubador." He is publishing it himself.

In this paperback edition, Howard indicates that he has quite a photographic memory and still a rather florid and sometime Victorian style of expression. Maybe time has dimmed the recollection of some facts, and the book shows the need of some closer editing, especially where names are concerned. However, it's a readable effort in which he tells almost everything, including his many marriages. Somewhat disappointing is the fact that Howard, with the rep of an able and entertaining conversationalist, failed to include any dialog in this book. Instead, it's a straight recitative, but one crammed with a good picture of show biz spanning many decades.

Although Howard doesn't dwell on it, he makes no secret of the bitter feelings between his son and himself. Like everything else, this episode is discussed rather sketchily. But his accounts of his playdates and other aspects of his theatrical career are written about more fully.

It seems from this book that he'd rather talk about show biz than anything else. Jose.

NICK LUCAS
Now Playing thru Aug. 27
FRED OLIVERA'S RESTAURANT
Anchorage, Alaska

BUCK BUCKLEY
WORLD'S GREATEST STARVING COMEDIAN
BETTE HOLM DANCER
CONSOLIDATED ARTISTS CORP.
Chicago • Milwaukee • Minneapolis

COMEDY MATERIAL
For All Branches of Theatricals
FUN-MASTER
THE ORIGINAL SHOW-BIZ GAG FILE
(The Service of the STARS)
First 13 Files $7.00—All 35 issues $25
Singly; $1.05 per script.
• 3 Bks. PARODIES, per book $10 •
• MINSTREL BUDGET . . . . . $25 •
• 4 BLACKOUT BKS., ea. bk. . $25 •
• BLUE BOOK (Gags for Stags) $50 •
HOW TO MASTER THE CEREMONIES $3.00
GIANT CLASSIFIED ENCYCLOPEDIA OF GAGS, $300. Worth over a thousand
No C.O.D.'s
BILLY GLASON
200 W. 54th St., New York 19—Dept. V
Circle 7-1130

Latest ABC-PAR Record
Chigger Chigger Wa Wa b/w Remember When
CAB CALLOWAY
To-night (Aug. 15) FRANKIE LAINE SHOW CBS-TV
Sunday, Aug. 19 WOOLWORTH HOUR CBS
Mgt. BILL MITTLER, 1619 Broadway, New York

THE HOTTEST NAME IN SHOW BUSINESS
SUEZ AND ROTHBARD
FOR THE BEST IN ENTERTAINMENT
250 S. Broad St., Philadelphia 2, Pa.
Phone: Kingsley 5-1665 Phone: PEnnypacker 5-7083

"THE COMEDIAN"
The Only Real Monthly PROFESSIONAL GAG SERVICE
THE LATEST! THE GREATEST! THE MOST-UP-TO-DATEST!
Now in its 73rd issue, containing stories, one-liners, poemettes, song titles, hecklers, audience stuff, monologs, parodies, double gags, bits, ideas, intros, impressions and impersonations, political, interruptions, Thoughts of the Day, Humorous Views of the News, etc. Start with current issue, $15 yearly — 2 years $28 — 3 years $40 — NO C.O.D.'s.
BILLY GLASON
200 W. 54 St., New York 19

RAY ROMAINE and CLAIRE
"Delightfully Different"
Opening August 20th
4 WEEKS
DORCHESTER ENGLAND
Paris, Stockholm, Oslo and Belgium to Follow
Direction LEW AND LESLIE GRADE

ENTERTAINMENT BOOKER WANTED
(Man or Woman) Permanent salaried position for qualified individual with major agency, representing road shows, variety acts, and other travelling attractions. An opportunity for progressive individuals to advance financially and earn a secure future.
Send photo, references, and full details (all held confidential) to Box 388, c/o VARIETY, 154 West 46th St., New York 36, N. Y.

WHEN IN BOSTON
It's the
HOTEL AVERY
The Home of Show Folk
Avery & Washington Sts.
Radio in Every Room

YVONNE MORAY
Currently
MAGIC INN
SEATTLE, WASH.
MILTON DEUTSCH AGENCY
9157 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif.

WANTED
Top material sketches and comedy songs for late fall Broadway production of "Love Is King," a new musical revue. Reply to:—ROSS
POST OFFICE BOX 321
NEW YORK 19, N. Y.

Announcing the Opening of Offices of
Harry Arthur
LAWRENCE—TREFFEISEN ASSOCIATES
at 250 West 57th Street, New York City
Circle 6-7166
Associates—JULIUS KAMINSKY • SARITA HERNANDEZ

VARIETY BILLS

WEEK OF AUGUST 15

Numerals in connection with bills below indicate opening day of show whether full or split week

Letter in parentheses indicates circuit: (I) Independent; (L) Loew; (M) Moss; (P) Paramount; (R) RKO; (S) Stoll; (T) Tivoli; (W) Warner

NEW YORK CITY

Music Hall (R) 17
Corps de Ballet
Tamara Manookian
Kathryn Kelly
Frank Lester
Ted Monson
Angelo Nicelli
Rockettes
George Sawtelle
Albert Sturm
Elliott Reed

Palace (P) 17
Cycling Kirks
Bobby Brandt
Leonardo & Anita
Lee Sullivan
3 Arnauts
Alphonse Berge
Lee Davis
Great Barton

Paramount (P) 17
Frank Sinatra
T & J Dorsey Orc
Joey Bishop

AUSTRALIA

SYDNEY
Tivoli (T) 13
Rayes & Faye
Jack Powell
B Banks & Part
Barbour Bros. & Jean
Rih-Aruso
Bill Finch
Lawman & Joy
Barry Rugless
Robert O'Donnell
Alwyn Leckie
Adele Inge
Lamb & Rahlen
Barbara Howe
Reg Park
Joe Whitehouse
Wim de Jong
Geoff Thorne
Dorothy Hickey

NEW ZEALAND CHRISTCHURCH
Majestic (T) 13
Hite & Stanley
Howell & Radcliffe
Ross & La Pierre
Trio Gipsys
Salici Puppets
Neal & Newton
Laycock & Maureen
Stuffy Bryant
Jenny Howard
Alain Diagora
Leon Cortez
Frank Ward
J McCormack
Daniel Davey

NEWTON
Elizabethan (T) 13
Philip Stainton
Peter Marmont
Noel Howlett
Richard Beynon
Nicolette Bernard
Edward Hepple
Barbara Wyndon
Harvey Adams
Frank Taylor
Mayne Lynton
Osmond Wenban
Victor Lloyd
Nancye Stewart
Stewart Finch
Carole Taylor

BRITAIN

BLACKPOOL
Palace (I) 13
Albert Modley
Edna Savage
M & B Winters
Francis Langford's Co.
4 Najarros
Hollander & Hart
Paulette & Renee
Pip Hinton
Matt Leamore
Arthur Sumner

Winter Gardens (I) 13
Dave King
Shani Wallis
Mrs. Shufflewick
Jones & Arnold
Warren, Devine & Sparks
Sonny Roy
Margaret West
4 King Tones

Opera House (I) 13
G & B Bernard
Eve Boswell
Freddie Frinton
Patricia Dahl
Lane Bros
Hall, Norman & Ladd
Ghezzi Bros

BRISTOL
Hippodrome (M) 13
David Whitfield
Hedley Ward 3
George Martin
Richman & Jackson
Grangor Bros.
Frances Duncan
Kazan & Katz

BRIXTON
Empress (I) 13
Jimmy Wheeler
Dennis Hale
Alma Warren
Winters & Fielding
Cox Twins
Miles Twins

BIRMINGHAM
Hippodrome (M) 13
Al Martino
Sylva & Audrey
Peter Cavanagh
Joan Kayne
Max Geldray
Trio Warren
Fred Atkins
Sharpe & Iris

BRADFORD
Alhambra (M) 13
Betty Miller
Dorothy Reid
Kirk Stevens
El Granadas
Thunderclap Jones
Peter Quinton
Walter Niblo
Duo Russman
Leslie Welch
Bashful Boys

BRIGHTON
Hippodrome (M) 13
Ruby Murray
Reg Dixon
Tommy Fields
Audrey Jeans
D & D Remy
Skylons
Orly 3
Belles & Beaux
Jack Simpson
Una Stubbs
Geo. Mitchell Co.

CARDIFF
New (M) 13
Billy Daniels
Clifford Stanton
Elizabeth & Collins
Jack Anton
Two Columbos
Tex McLeod
Rita Martell
A & V Shelley

CHELSEA
Palace (I) 13
Jimmy French
Muldoon & O'Gray
Violet Tye
Grayson Cousins
Douglas Creek
Margo Austin
Terry Shaw
Can-Can Etts
Jimmy Russ
Kim Leopold

COVENTRY
Hippodrome (I) 13
Yana
Morecambe & Wise
Cherry Wainer
Allen Bros. & June
Walthon & Dorraine
Jackie Ross
Gunter & Partner
Frank Cook

DERBY
Hippodrome (M) 13
Phyllis Dixey
Norman Thomas
Kay Elvin
Bob Grey
4 Cassandras
Three Toledos
Jack Tracy
Frank Preston

EDINBURGH
Empire (M) 13
Jimmy Gay
Lana La Verne
Prince Sisters
Ron Dillon
White & Simone
E & J Romano
Eve Williams
Honey Dupree
Edna Tinsley
Kordas

FINSBURY PARK
Empire (M) 13
Eddie Gray
J & E Ross
Jimmy Wheeler
A & B Black
Arthur English
Joan Rhodes
Dawn White Co.
Shipway Twins

GLASGOW
Empire (M) 13
Hilltoppers
K & V Glynn
Billy Baxter
Mumford's Puppets
Len Young
Hill & Billy
Will Fyffe & Part
Two Pirates

HANLEY
Royal (M) 13
G. H. Elliott
Hetty King
Randolph Sutton
Billy Danvers
Johnson & Clark
Benson Dulay Co.
Jill Jayes
E & A Gerard

LIVERPOOL
Empire (M) 13
Mel Torme
Flack & Lucas
Bamberger & Pam Courtneys
George Meaton
Mereaux & Liliane
Overture & Suzette

LEICESTER
Palace (M) 13
Syd Seymour
Revel & Fields
Troubletones
De Long & Delysia

LONDON
Metropolitan (I) 13
Tony Brent
4 Grads
Davy Kaye
Geoffrey Lenner
Esme Levante
George Lydia
Chin & Candy Ross
Goga & Partner

MANCHESTER
Palace (M) 13
Jimmy Young
Stan Stennett
Jon Pertwee
Joan Turner
Schaller Bros
Valerie Tandy
Devine & King
Darmora Ballet
Mitchell Singers
20 Dancing Stars

NEWCASTLE
Empire (M) 13
Smith Bros.
Murray & Maidie
Billie Anthony
Paige & Co.
Buster Fiddess
Girl Friends
T & P Derrick
Sheila Armstrong
Bill Muttit

NORWICH
Hippodrome (I) 13
Terry Cantor
Pauleen Penny
Hal Swain
Andrew Allen
Red Preston
Susan Scott
Gabrielle
Brian Seymour
Kenny Cantor
Jackie Foy
Six Saucy Syrens

NOTTINGHAM
Empire (M) 13
Dowler & Rogers
Golding & Stewart
Flying Renoes
Wayne & Clifford
Billy Hancox
Don Bennett

PORTSMOUTH
Royal (M) 13
David Nixon
Johnny Stewart
Reg Varney
4 Jones Boys
Aileen Cochrane
Paula Marshall
Francois & Zandra
Bertha Ricardo
Godfrey James

SOUTHAMPTON
Grand (I) 13
Tommy Godfrey
Ragoldie Bros.
Dee
Billy Livingston
Ros & Ramaya
Coral Gaye
Lyndon
Terry James
Jan Harding
Rietro & Giovanni

SUNDERLAND
Empire (M) 13
David Hughes
Delicados
Marie Benson
Ron Scott
Joe Henderson
Connor & Drake
Pat Rosa
Don Fox

SWANSEA
Empire (M) 13
Les Traversos
Joan Hinde
Earle & Vaughan
Lita Roza
Nelson Bros.
Issy Bonn
Georgette

TOOTING
Granada (I) 13
Robert Earl
Jack Beckitt
Patsy Sylva
Averil & Aurel
Will Carr & Ptnr.

WOOLWICH
Granada (I) 13
Lilian Edmonds
Peter Sterling
Ruth Leslie
David Michael
Steve Marlow
Viera Shelley
Elizabeth James
Three Dukes

Cabaret Bills

NEW YORK CITY

Blue Angel
Dick Gautier
Joey Carter
Bart Howard
Jimmy Lyons

Chardas
Anny Kapitanny
Lili
Bela Babai Orc
Tibor Rakossy
Bill Yedla
Dick Marta

Chateau Madrid
Helen Aimee
Carlos Valadez Orc

Copacabana
Al Bernie
Four Lads
Bob De Voye
Bob Travis
Dorothy Malone
Douglas Clarke
Michael Durso Orc
Frank Marti Orc

Duplex
McCormick & Huff
Bob Dorough
Ada Moore

No. 1 Fifth Ave
Cedrone & Mitchell
Ann Jewett
Bob Downey
Harold Fonville

Hot'l H'nry Hudson
Joan Bishop

Hotel Roosevelt
Eddie Lane Orc

Hotel Taft
Vincent Lopez Orc

Hotel St. Regis
Milt Shaw Orc
Ray Barl Orc

Latin Quarter
Betty George
Harmonica Rascals
Szony & Patti
Trio Bassi
Eileen O'Dare
Jo Lombardi Orc
B Harlowe Orc

Park Sheraton
Alan Logan
Eddie Layton

Versailles
Lou Nelson
Nancy Donovan
Bergman & Patti
Salvatore Gioe Orc
Panchito Orc

Viennese Lantern
Margarita Sierra
Luc Poret
Ernest Schoen Orc
Harold Saudler
Paul Mann

Village Barn
Frank Matthews
Johnny Gilbert
Vivian Swanson
Larry McMahon
Piute Pete
Harry Ferdel Orc
Irving Harris

Waldorf-Astoria
Los Chavales
Trini Reyes
Emil Coleman Orc
Mischa Borr Orc

Village Vanguard
C Williams Trio
Maxine Sullivan

CHICAGO

Black Orchid
Fran Warren
Dave Gardner
Buddy Charles

Blue Angel
"Calypso Latina"
Zoila D'San
Rafael Ery
Mighty Panther
Betty Lewis
Al D'Laey Orc

Blue Note
Les Brown

Chez Paree
Spike Jones
Helen Grayco
Chez Paree Ad'r'bls
Brian Farnon Orc

Cloister Inn
Lurlean Hunter
Pat Moran 4
Dick Marx
Johnny Frigo

Conrad Hilton
"Wonderful Time"
Shirley Linde
Michael Meehan
Neff & Voss
Jan Tors
The Torianis
D Arnold & Marji
Virginia Sellers
John Hilliard
Boulevar-Dears & Boulevar-Dons
F. Masters Orc
London House
Teddy Wilson 3

Palmer House
Harry Belafonte
Charlie Fisk Orc

LOS ANGELES

Ambassador Hotel
Hildegarde
Blackburn Twins
F. Martin Orc

Bar of Music
Elsa Oria
Dick Curtis
Carlos Knoble
Ruben Moreno Orc

Biltmore Hotel
Dave Barry
Albins (2)
Aleettys (2)
Kay Cee Jones
Hal Derwin Orc

Ciro-ette Room
Mary Meade French
Mischa Nowy Orc
Geri Galian Orc

Crescendo
Tony Martinez Orc
April Ames
Larry Allen

Mocambo
Arthur Ellen
Carmen D'Antonio
Carl Carelli Trio
Paul Hebert Orc

Moulin Rouge
Johnny Ray
Slate Bros. (3)
Ffolliott Charlton
Eddie O'Neal Orc

Statler Hotel
Aileen Stanley Jr.
Chop Chop & Charlene
Frederick & Tanya
Eddie Bergman Orc
Fajardo Orc

LAS VEGAS

Desert Inn
Gordon MacRae
Jackie Miles
Sheila Stephens
Donn Arden Dncrs
Carlton Hayes Orc

Dunes
Count Basie Orc
Joe Williams

El Cortez
Uncle Willy
Bobby Clark
Scarlett Rebel
Sherman Hayes Orc

El Rancho Vegas
Joe E Lewis
Lili St Cyr
Renee Molnar Dncrs

Flamingo
Gisele Mackenzie
Goofers
Augie & Margo
Ron Fletcher Dncrs
L. Basil Orc

Golden Nugget
Harry Ranch Orc
Poly Possum
Joe Wolverton
Eddie Gomez

New Frontier
Judy Rand
Amin Bros.
Venus Dancers
Garwood Van Orc

Riviera
"Blackouts"
Ken Murray
Marie Wilson
Dorben Dncrs
Ray Sinatra Orc

Sahara
Ames Bros
Peggy King
G Moro Dncrs
Cee Davidson Orc

Sands
Robt Merrill
Louis Armstrong
Velma Middleton
Copa Girls
A. Morelli Orc

Showboat
Stuart Allen
Judy Smith
Showboat Girls
Mike Werner Orc

Silver Slipper
Fawzia Amir
Haller
Hank Henry
Sparky Kaye
Mac Dennison
Cliff Perre
J. Cavanaugh
Slipperettes
G. Redman Orc

Thunderbird
Dorothy Collins
Arthur Ellen
Landre & Verna
Thunderbird Dncrs
Al Jahns Orc

MIAMI-MIAMI BEACH

Bar of Music
Bill Jordan
Gina Valente
Hal Fisher
Beth Challis
Harvey Bell
Fred Thompson

Ciro's

Eden Roc
Dick Contino
Vicki Young
J Conrad Dancers
Mal Malkin Orc
Chuey Reyes Orc

Fontainebleau
Davis & Reese
Rose Marie
Palermo Bros.
Stuart Morgan 3
Sacasas Orc

Isle de Capri
Herkie S'yles
Eleanor Lackey
Buddy Lewis Orc

Leon & Eddie's
Can-Can Girls
Flash O'Farrell
Marian Wilkens
Denise
Atomo

Lucerne Hotel
Maxie Rosenbloom
Lucerne Lovelies 6
Elaine Deming
Mel Green
Jacques Donnet Orc

Nautilus
Frankie Scott
Marion Powers
Antone & Ina
Syd Stanley Orc

Murray Franklin's
Don Rickles
Bobby Sherwood
Jo Ann Miller
Peter Brady
Murray Franklin
V n Smith

San Souci Hotel
Larry K Nixon
Gil Marr
Sammy Walsh
Freddy Calo Orc

Seville
Kirby Stone 4
Tommy Ryan
Johnny Silvers Orc
Rey Mambo Orc

5 O'Clock
Brandy Martin
Al Golden
Tommy Raft
Parisian Rev

Vagabonds Club
Fontane Sisters
Stanton & Peddie
Cardini
The Archers
Frank Linale Orc
Woody Woodbury

HAVANA

Sans Souci
Bergaza & Tarraza
Diana Carol
Roberto Barcelo
D'Aida
Ortega Orc

Nacional
Malu Gatica
Gali Gali
R Ortega Orc
W. Reyes Orc

Tropicana
Gloria & Rolando
S Suarez Orq
A Romeu Orq
Pepe Biondi
Tito Hernandez
Armanda Roblan
Carlos Faxa &
Lago Sisters
Rafi Munoz

Monimartre
Xiomara Alfaro
Barrancos
Casino Playa Orq
Fajardo Orc

RENO

Mardi Gras Lounge
Billy Duke
Dick Morgan
Penthouse 4
Music Makers

Mapes Skyroom
Mickey Rooney
Smith Twins
Skylets
Eddie Fitzpatrick

Riverside
Dorothy Shay
Starlets (8)
Bill Clifford Orc

LAKE TAHOE

Biltmore
Woody Herman
Herb Jeffries
Diane Lefti

Cal Neva
Red Buttons
Eileen Barton
Barry Gordon
Don Dellair
Wonder & Banks
Eva Marley
Cal-Nevettes
Matty Malneck Orc

Harrahs Club
Mary Kaye Trio

Jerry Wald

Continued from page 3

top industry execs to the independent field. In recent months, Darryl F. Zanuck stepped down as production chief at 20th for an independent status and Don Hartman exited a similar post at Paramount to turn indie.

Wald's project, however, appears to be the most ambitious to date. His agreement calls for a minimum of 18 films in the next five years —and there is no ceiling to the agreement. Wald has always been a believer in heavy production and it seems likely, if he can find properties which both he and 20th feel are suitable, that Wald may do as many as six pictures a year. Part of his setup, it's understood, will include co-production deals.

Twentieth will finance all the Wald product and profits will be split according to an undisclosed formula. Studio and Wald must mutually agree on properties, cast and budget before each film goes before the cameras.

Thus far, Wald has set no properties although he has been negotiating for some simultaneous with his negotiations on the 20th contract. As a result of meetings this week, he expects to be able to put the first two films before the cameras before the end of the year and is aiming at a total of ten films in the first 18 months of his contract. Agreement, incidentally, permits him to begin developing a stable of talent on both exclusive and non-exclusive deals.

Wald entered the industry in 1932 as a writer.

Berle Booking

Continued from page 1

an aura of prestige which would take that curse from them.

"This year's hotel" is the Americana, under construction by the Tisch hotel chain, which owns such spots as the Belmont Plaza, N. Y., and a string in Atlantic City including the Ambassador and Traymore. Booker for that inn will be Stanley Melba, now entertainment director of the Pierre Hotel, N. Y., and booker for the Radisson Hotel, Minneapolis.

Although the Eden Roc will be investing this extra coin to maintain its stature, the effect will be felt by all the first-line spots. The remaining hotels, according to the talent offices, will enter the talent sweeps, to keep up with the Joneses.

New Acts

ENZO STUARTI
Songs
20 Mins.
Eddys', Kansas City

Enzo Stuarti already has filled a number of top spots in Broadway musicals, and of late has taken to tv, nightclubs and hotels. Tenor is a good looking young chap, with heavy quality, which might project almost as well without a mike. He handles entries of a variety of volumes, however, warbling a ballad or two softly, and giving full voice to some more standard tunes.

His opening show at Eddys' de luxe spot included "Just Say I Love Her," "If I Loved You," "On the Street Where You Live," "Addio Bimba," which he recorded for Jubilee, "Come Back To Sorrento" and "I Could Have Danced All Night." All were well presented and well liked, from the most robust to the softest, by the Eddy clientele.

Stuarti has had several niches on the Sullivan show and is due for more. Between he's doing the clubs and other stands. He shows the benefit of his Broadway experience, should also be a good bet for outdoor musicals with his volume and appearance. Quin.

THE COURTNEYS (2)
Adagio Dance
9 Mins.
Empire, Glasgow

Here's a quickly paced adagio turn laced with just the right quota of comicking.

Male is garbed in yellow sailor's uniform with cap, and gal, a shapely brunet, wears the minimum via a Bikini costume that displays her charms to best effect. Adagio twists, holds and splits are worked out slickly, and there's obvious sign of much rehearsal.

Pair have much potential for nitery spots. Gord.

BEBE ALLAN & BARRY ASHTON
Dance
12 Mins.
Sahara, Las Vegas

Bebe Allan & Barry Ashton are well known in these parts, singly and as a duo, for their production number turns. While still fronting the chorus here, they climb a notch to windowcase their terpsichoric fleetness as a curtain launching act.

For a fresh approach, they've designed their footwork around the satiric. Opener, an untitled piece, is mighty subtle, though, and in fact fails to get across the message. Nonetheless it allows the couple to point up their flawless ability to toe the boards. Dance mime, to an offstage tape that relates what the inner thoughts of a dancer might be while at work, has been used effectively by singers, and this case registers well. Alan.

PEGGY KING
Songs
20 Mins.
Sahara, Las Vegas

Television has been a tremendous proving ground for Peggy King, who returns to the nitery boards a matured, well-groomed performer. Her lusty tones have acquired a polished vibrato that takes her confidently through a sesh of standards and pops on the emotional side. Well mixed songology includes "Baby, Won't You Please Come Home," "You'll Never Walk Alone," "While We're Young" and "Too Close for Comfort." Mood intensifies during her "St. Louis Blues."

Her vocalistics are not confined, however, to the serious vein. She opens and exits on a sprightly note, chirping "Ohio" upon entrance and "I'm Glad I Met You" at finale. Unnecessary, though, is her "Hunt's Tomato Sauce" jingle albeit this was what helped launch her. Alan.

ALBERT STURM
Novelty
8 Mins.
Music Hall, N. Y.

Albert Sturm gets money and applause for that which they used to put people away. He cuts paper dolls on stage, as well as sundry other objects. Some of the formations are applause-winners, but it takes a long time for the back reaches of the house to catch on to his act. Possibly this is because his early formations are all prepared before he reaches the stage and all he does is start with large paper trees.

A soon as the audience digs him completely, he unfolds ladders, dolls, and some fancy embroidery. Perhaps starting his act from the very beginning with the rolling of the paper would give him a quicker head start. Jose.

APRIL AMES
Songs
15 Mins.
Crescendo, Hollywood

Discovered a few weeks ago in a Hollywood Studio Club show, April Ames is making her debut as a professional singer with this tryout engagement on the Sunset Strip. It's a showcasing that shows a good potential.

Miss Ames, a brunet with a pixie quality, has exceptional stage presence for a beginner, which underscores her intriguing voice and understanding delivery of lyrics. She manages to achieve a dramatic impact with her material and is particularly effective on such things as a slow, torch version of the standard "Bye, Bye Blackbirds." More material of this sort is indicated since it's a new styling and one excellently suited to her. Catch-in-the-throat warbling of such items as "Strike a Match" or "Accustomed to His Face" fit effectively into the right niche, but she should eschew uptempo versions of Hit Parade material which do nothing for her. With some more experience and a concentration on developing the style, she's a likely bet for the better boites. Kap.

NICK GREER
Songs
10 Mins.
Moulin Rouge, Boston

Nick Greer, graduate of club dates, is essaying the nitery circuit with an arrany of surefire standard and pop tunes in which he accompanies himself on the combo drums, and for his opening here Lou Barnett fills in on the 88. Opening with "Tenderly," he segues into a medley from "My Fair Lady" in easy, relaxed style. Best of his offerings is a slick rendition of "Street Where You Live."

Greer has charm and assurance and uses a nice baritone voice to good effect. Guy.

MEREAUX & LILIANE
Acro-Tumbling
10 Mins.
Empire, Glasgow

Male and femme are equilibrists and acrobats with solid act showing both skill and stamina, and are okay, once sharpened, for U. S. markets.

Open with femme seated at table, and showing her gams. Male approaches and does handstand on the table top, then winds down to rest, still in handstand, on her shapely legs. While he's thus balanced, she drops her pocket-size magazine, and he bends to pick it up, then discards it. Male segues with another handstand on an upturned stem of beaker glass. Then he does a single-hand balance on distaffer's head, following with a walking handstand on femme's body. In this Liliane bears some weight, but lifts her body slowly upwards with male partner still balanced.

Novelty is pair's use of audience participation in Mereaux's springboard leap. He does this, somersaulting in midair, over two customers first, then over four, and finally over six, depositing, in last leap, a comedy cap on head of the centre participant. Winds with similar springboard leap over open lid of grand piano, with distaffer tinkling the ivories while feat is effected. Exit to strong palming. Gord.

LOS ZEAS (2)
Ballroom Team
10 Mins.
Palace, N. Y.

Handsome couple from Mexico are a versatile ballroom duo. They show class and skill in lifts and turns and provide added zest with a Latin accent.

Act is not completely geared in the ballroom style, but also includes terping that deviates from the standard, including a special Mexican dance and a novelty, dubbed the penguin mambo. Professional ability shown by the pair makes them a good bet for nitery and vaude dates. Holl.

REBERTES (3)
Acrobatics
10 Mins.
Palace, N. Y.

Youthful and handsome lads from Italy, previously with the Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey Circus, are exciting acro-risley performers. In addition to the standard flips, balancing, and other acro feats, they inject the right amount of comedy to bring the act a cut above the norm.

They've already been on tv and probably will rate additional dates in the medium as well as in vaude houses and outdoor shows. Holl.

Waldorf-Astoria, N. Y.

Los Chavales de Espana, with Trini Reyes, Luis Tamayo, Luis Bona, Pepi Lara; Emil Coleman & Mischa Borr Orchs; $3 cover.

Los Chavales de Espana (The Kids from Spain) have been on the class circuits since their debut in the New World at Havana's Tropicana some years ago. This 11-man outfit (although only 10 showed on the preem night at the Starlight Roof) is one of the more picturesque groups as to costuming, performance and musicianship. They are annuals at the Waldorf-Astoria and ply the Hilton chain in many towns. As a matter of fact, their standing in the Hilton hierarchy is so strong that the group is set for a fall stand at the Plaza Hotel.

Perhaps one of the factors keeping Los Chavales in high esteem is the rising premium on musical offerings. Although only a few musicrews can hold up on their own boxofficewise, there seems to be a tendency in many nitery and hotel rooms to place a greater emphasis on aural entertainment.

Los Chavales seem to be the Lawrence Welk of the Pyrenees. The group is a self-contained entertainment unit, rigidly disciplined for their ensemble offerings and yet each orchestra is an individual. Each doubles on one other instrument, at least, and bulk of them can take a vocal solo. Mainstays are singer Luis Tamayo, Luis Bona, who sings and announces, and Pepi Lara, who shares in most of the vocal chores. They measure up vocally as well as instrumentally.

The tunes purveyed are generally in the pop Latino vein. Toward the end of their session they bring out the heavy artillery with such efforts as "Granada," "Lisbon Antigua," "April in Portugal" and other evergreens. Under these circumstances, the crowd was loathe to let them go until nearly an hour of entertainment had elapsed.

Los Chavales carry only one outside member, Trini Reyes, who was paired with the group when they first played the Waldorf Roof some years ago, and she's been with them since. Miss Reyes is accomplished in the terps of Castille. Her flamenco shows the abandon of Gypsy forebears and her folk dances have the quaint quality that brings out the applause. Miss Reyes has three spots in the show, each with a change of costume. In each segment, she enlivens the proceedings considerably with lithe and lively choreography personally presented.

Emil Coleman is back at his familiar stand and dispenses a pleasant brand of dance music, while Mischa Borr takes over the relief spots. Jose.

Eden Roc, Miami Beach

Miami Beach, Aug., 11.

Dick Contino, Vicki Young, Johnny Conrad Dancers (4), Mal Malkil Orch; $3.50-$4.50 minimum.

This seems to be the week for intro of "new" faces to the ocean-front cafes by the two biggeries on the run—the Roc's Cafe Pompeii and Fontainebleau's La Ronde. In the case of the Roc, prexy Harry Mufson has been on the new faces kick for some time now, with in-and-out results.

Current layout is heavy on musical matters, the big lift for the proceedings coming from Dick Contino. His virtuosity on the accordion is the big item in an act that contains some lulls, but in the main keeps tabler reaction at a responsive pitch, flashy approach in projection buttressing the skillful fingering of an artfully selected group of classics and standards. The few lulls come when he tends to overgab on intro-patter and in a session at the Steinway—obviously a breathcatcher break. Strongest segment in his musical tour of Italy jelling into encore payoff.

Vicki Young, a rock 'n' roll exponent, doesn't seem to fit the posh surroundings of the room. The type of patron attracted here reflected their leanings via in-and-out reaction to her assortment which included several of her click platters. The basic beat becomes monotonous with sameness of phrasing. When Miss Young hits a ballad, a la Ethel Waters doing "Stormy Weather," or a soft "No, Not Much" she sets well. Too frequent return to the r&r vocal gimmick negates sustained aud reaction. Injection of a more varied assortment of tempo and shading would provide her a more rounded act, suitable for this type of class cafe.

Johnny Conrad purveys two well versed heel-and-toe precision routines, then brings on three talented femmes for Indo-Javanese patterns hypoed by a sultry jazz beat to take the edge off the kicked-around idea. Mal Malkin doubles as accompanist for the topliners and batoneer, acquitting himself in fine style. Lary.

Sahara, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Aug. 7.

"Platter Revue," starring The Ames Bros. (4), with Peggy King, Bebe Allan & Barry Ashton, Sa-Harem Dancers (14), Cee Davidson Orch (12); $2 minimum.

Just a decade ago, the Ames Bros. accepted their initial Vegas salary from Milton Prell, the owner of an unpretentious slot machine parlor known as the Bingo Club. Emcee on the program was nattily attired comedian, one Stan Irwin. Much has passed since then in favor of the Ames, Prell and Irwin; the quartet has scored a resounding success in the music field, Prell has expanded his one-time honkytonk into one of the town's most fashionable resorts, and Irwin—still nattily spruced, but now confining his comedy to backstage ribaldry—has advanced to a position as the Sahara's director of entertainment. And so, pinwheeling that nostalgic turn, the Ames freres provide a happy reunion during their four-frame stand in the Congo Room. Adding further punch to the bill, appropriately entitled "Platter Revue," is Peggy King, who at one time in her early career also found Vegas an acid test site (see New Acts).

The Ames clan meld their four big voices into pleasant harmony on w.k. ballads, topped by their platter identities, "You You You," "Naughty Lady of Shady Lane" and the more recent "It Only Hurts for a Little While." Familiar disclicks are instantly greeted by salvos. Ed Ames, who fronts the quartet, registers solidly during his solo of "On the Street Where You Live." His brothers, however, also have ample opportunity to showcase individual wares—Joe Ames plying his basso pipes for a fervored "Toreador Song" and Vic and Gene inserting comedics and pointing up general show savvy in a "Vaudeville" medley. Each receives warm response.

Act has a new, sock piece of business in "The Magic Melting Pot of Melody," a Sid Kuller-Harry Geller collab that toasts the country's top tunesmiths. Capper is quartet's standard satiric take-offs on styles of pop singers.

Bebe Allan & Barry Ashton front production numbers by the Sa-Harem Dancers—both are zingy choreos—then take spotlight to mirror own terps (see New Acts). With George Moro's productions capably backed up, Cee Davidson gets a chance to relax this show, turning orch over to Eddy Samuels, who supports Miss King, and Al Semola, who stirs the musical bracer for the Ames Bros. Alan.

Chez Paree, Montreal

Montreal, Aug. 9.

Ceil Cabot, Chuck Mitchell, Freddy Davis, Delia Weddington, Dino Vale, Nick Martin Orch (6), Michel Sauro Quartet; no cover or minimum.

Despite first major heatwave of season, biz in this attractive room continues to hold, due in the main to many tourists and conventions in town. Headline slot is split this week between the socko comedics of Ceil Cabot and the antics of Chuck Mitchell. Miss Cabot, who has appeared in other rooms around town before, still wows patrons with her uninhibited style as she runs through a group of vocal satires that appeal to all comers. Comedienne has a sense of timing that does much to enhance act and in many cases general showmanship overcomes so-so material.

Chuck Mitchell in the closing spot relies on the usual comedy standby of impressions for most of routining, breaking pace with some fair gag material. Gets best reception in closing pitch as he imitates various musical instruments, suddenly exhibiting some fine vocal bits which, if used earlier, would have established him from the beginning with the ringsiders.

Delia Weddington opens show with a standard hoofing display that is boosted by her trim appearance. Using an assortment of harmonicas, Freddy Davis offers a varied collection of numbers that range from the classics to the pops. Presentation is good but too much volume on all arrangements dulls overall effect. House emcee and singer Dino Vale clicks with a brace of tunes midway through showcase and the Nick Martin orch handles the music chores in usual steady manner. Between times, the Michel Sauro combo does dance music. Newt.

Chez Paree, Chi

Chicago, Aug., 8.

"Musical Insanities of 1957"; Spike Jones & His City Slickers, with Helen Grayco, George Rock, Freddy Morgan, Billy Barty, Gil Bernal, "Mousie" Garner, Arnold Ross, Bill Carter, Sally Blythe; Brian Farnon Orch, Chez Paree Adorables (5); $1.50 cover, $3.75 minimum.

Playing to a packed house, Spike Jones and his gang broke it up at the Chez Paree opening night of their four-week run. Date also marked reopening of the nitery after a two-week hiatus. August shapes a good tourist month here, and with the Democratic convention in full swing during part of the Jones booking, house looks to do healthy biz.

Opening with a Charleston, the Chez Paree Adorables and Jones' featured dancers, Bill Carter and Sally Blythe, set the fast and brash tone for the segue. The blinding costumes, the extravagant proppery and the sledgehammer humor convey the flavor of a thousand cowbells rung at once while 21 guns blast away.

Display gets rolling with a few musical spoofs, spotting Slickers in the audience in a "history of music" bit, needling musicians from the caveman through Mozart to Goodman. Jones deadpans throughout, setting up the gags and moving things along. Only departure from the pokerface is a hilarious South Sea Isle virgin bit, with Jones exhibiting the face that launched a thousand ships.

Helen Grayco, the featured femme vocalist, displays lush carriage-work topped by belting pipes. Though tending to overstylize, Miss Grayco has the crowd at bay with her versions of "All of You," "Just One of Those Things," "Will You Still Be Mine?" etc. Thrush has good projection and is a looker; she goes off to lusty mitting.

Piece de resistance is a "Lucky Spike Half Wit Parade," a spoof of the w.k. tv'er that provides a flexible frame for musical horseplay. Gil Bernal gives a double-barreled demo of modern pop music, first with a rousing baritone sax solo in the frenetic modern idiom, done table-to-table around the floor, and follows up with a fantastically realistic Elvis Presley takeoff. This goes over big.

Midget Billy Barty wins wild plaudits with his Liberace, Durante and Presley carbons and with recurring bits of business throughout the show. Freddy Morgan, whose face would endow the weeping willow with laughter, entertains smashingly throughout with malaprop banjo offerings and hit-and-run gags. George Rock juggles for laughs with skill and "Mousie" Garner plays the spoiled, lollypop-sucking brat with hairy legs, broadbrim sailor hat and squeaky voice for hefty returns. Arnold Ross backs at the piano with expertness. Dancers Bill Carter & Blythe contribute some smooth, balletish terpology interludes.

Lavish layout concludes with the entire company in a luminous "Man With the Golden Arm" scene that gets hefty response. Choreography by Bonni Hunt makes artful use of the available space and is a neat plus to this "zany" scene. The audience cannot get enough, and sends Jones & Co off to boisterous mitting.

The Brian Farnon Orch backs a difficult show with ease, in the pattern that Farnon has established here for over three years. Unfortunately, this is his last show here. Gabe.

Amato's, Portland, Ore.

Portland, Ore., Aug., 8.

Joe Baris' Winged Victory Chorus (12) with Jerry Malta, Ryan Sisters (2), The Sparkletts (6), Herman Jobelman Orch (6); no minimum, $1.50 cover.

Joe Baris' Chorus is back at this plush nitery after a year's absence. Singers debuted here last year and made a host of fans. They should draw well for the next two weeks considering the time of year.

The dozen handsome lads under the direction of Baris slam out 30 minutes of solid, commercial stuff that grabs plenty of palms all the way. Act is greatly improved over last year, having added some choreography and new material. Ex-GI's are clad in uniform with white scarfs and paratroop boots laced in white for big eye appeal.

Group move about the elevated stage easily, are well disciplined, and have a terrific fast pace throughout. They have the customers off their mitts from start to finish. Heinz Newman, Bernie Barr, Art Barry, Ben Woodward and Justin Palmer click big with their rich solo stuff backed by the group. They are a different type of act suitable anywhere and should catch the eyes of the big leagues soon. Jerry Malta batons the house band for the headliners. Arrangements by Baris and lighting are outstanding.

Patsy & Diane Ryan score easily with their cute and talented tonsil stuff. Girls display a terrific potential and win the crowd with their charm and chirping of three tunes.

Florence Picket Sparkletts are on for two neat production numbers. They add plenty to the show with their eye appeal and terping. Costumes and choreography are top-drawer in the western and musical comedy numbers. Gals are fresh looking and know how to sell the heel & toe stuff. Herman Jobelman and his house crew play a tough show in their usual great manner and please stubholders with their tempos during the dance sets. Feve.

500 Club, A. C.

Atlantic City, Aug., 11.

The Vagabonds (4), Rythmettes (3), Babe Pier, Dunhills (3), Boots McKenna Dancers, Jack Curtis, Joe Frasetto Orch (12); $5 minimum Sat., $4 weekdays.

The Vagabonds spearhead a nicely rounded show at the 500 Club this week, mixing well with the Rythmettes, Babe Pier, the Dunhills and the McKenna girls before they take over for their zany stint, a summer favorite here.

The foursome (Pete Peterson, bass fiddle; Tillio Risso, accordion; Dom Geramano and Al Tories, guitars) can pour it on in any form, but there are a few serious spots in their act, perhaps too few. Peterson again is tops as the comic of the group ably assisted by Geramano and Tories, while Risso as the foil gets plenty of yocks.

They bombard the capacity house for full returns and go off with tablers begging for more.

The Rythmettes are as nice a singing trio as has appeared here this year. From the moment they take off with "Strike Up the Band," they maintain an almost mad pace. "Mr. Wonderful" is one of their best and "Seventeen" also registers solidly. Girls are lookers and hard workers.

Babe Pier, like the Rythmettes, is a newcomer here, but bids for a return after his initial appearance. His clever carbons, especially "Because of You," as per Johnnie Ray, Mel Torme, Tony Martin and Sammy Davis Jr., score heavily. Vagabonds give him big assist.

Dunhills are three clever dancers who are not strangers. Their soft shoe, tap and acrobatic numbers get top mitting. Novelty is their "hot sock dance," done sans shoes.

Two production bits by McKenna girls give the 500 a well rounded bill. Walk.

Chaudiere, Ottawa

Ottawa, Aug. 9.

Gene & Her Genie, Chaz Chase, Dolores Fredericks, Bob Arlen & His Brunettes (3), Harry Pozy Orch (8); $1 admission.

Since Ottawa area niteries seldom book exotics (one or two a season at most), an act like Gene & Her Genie rates bigger attention here than it might elsewhere. Impressively stacked blonde uses a dream theme in which she entices a giant genie from a kingsize Aladdin lamp and works her routine around the dummy male. Staging is okay and Gene leaves no doubt about the act's theme nor why the genie isn't real man. After some initial embarrassed giggles, customers give the session rapt attention and solid mitting at finish.

Although Chaz Chase was familiar to vaude patrons in the B. F. Keith (now Capitol) Theatre here 20 years ago, this is his initial club booking in this area. Looking not a day older than in his vaude days, Chase works an almost identical routine, clowning, eating everything handy, doing a comedy striptease and generally hoking for nice returns.

Dolores Fredericks handles a wide range of chirping, touching ballads like "Mr. Wonderful" blues, "Waiting For the Junk Man," rock 'n' roll, "Blue Suede Shoes" and a few fast-beat items. It's a pleasant stanza that would, in this spot anyway, benefit from shortening.

Bob Arlen & His Brunettes are on with three sessions of socko terps, chiefly Oriental. Besides being lookers, gals are snappy terpsters, male also clicko on the stepping. Closing stint using a miniature platform with trick lighting, would be better on a considerably larger platform. Basic idea is good but space was crowded when all three were aboard. Harry Pozy band showbacks and plays for dancing. Gorm.

Statler Hotel, L. A.

Los Angeles, Aug. 9.

Aileen Stanley Jr., Chop Chop & Charlene, Frederick & Tanya, Eddie Bergman Orch (12); $2-$2.50 cover.

There's sprightly, albeit standard, entertainment on tap at the Statler these nights, but the layout is more interesting for its potential than its present impact.

Headlining is Aileen Stanley Jr., in what is her best showcasing to date. That she just misses ringing the bell solidly can be blamed on family heritage more than anything else; her aunt was a performer who could handle anything from ballads to noveltunes with ease and the "junior" has a natural desire to emulate her. She'd be better off to concentrate instead on comedy, for which she has a fine flair, and punch out special material stuff. She has a couple of good things in this genre in a rock 'n' roll satire and a folk ballad takeoff on the recent Monaco nuptials. This sort of thing fits her perfectly but she vitiates her impact through ballads, even though she does include an occasional lyric change, since her vocal equipment isn't standout enough to appeal strongly.

The prestidigitation artistry of Chop Chop is again evidence in this show and, with the aid of Charlene, as usual, he rifles through his bag of tricks to keep ringsiders constantly impressed. Opening night he had difficulty with his rolling coin on a parasol windup, the result of an injured wrist. But the rest of his stuff, the multiplying cigarets, disappearing chickens and fireeating, is as slick and as sock as ever to develop a fast 15 minutes.

Dance team of Frederick & Tanya opens with routines that are more acrobatic than terp but they win attention. Eddie Bergman orch continues on as dance and show crew. Kap.

Viennese Lantern, N.Y.

Margarita Sierra, Luc Poret, Ernest Schoen, Paul Mann, Harold Sandler; $3.50 minimum.

The age of air travel has apparently reduced this world to extremely small proportions. The clientele sitting in a Manhattan bierstube are seemingly as much at home on their native heath as they would be in a Parisian boite, Berliner rathskeller or a Castillian cafe. At the present height of the travel season, especially with the "fly now, pay later" plans, offshore entertainment seems to be potent lure for a lot of customers.

Max Loew, Viennese Lantern operator, seemingly is coining a young mint on the basis of this premise and, more importantly, his ability to gauge talent. This uptown nitery, basically with an Alt Wien motif, currently assumes a greater international flavor with the retention of imports who are sure of making a dent on U. S. audiences.

Margarita Sierra, a looker from Madrid, seems an important addition to the domestic talent marts. Although this isn't her Yanqui debut, it's her first showcasing for N. Y. audiences, and indications point to an early graduation to the midtown hostels. The personable senorita is dark, long-tressed, becomingly gowned and well backgrounded for singing. She has a well-developed voice and a catalog stacked with familiars that rate the windfall applause. Her floor routine includes "Malaguena," "Clavelicos," "Lisbon Antigua," a Mex medley and "Noche de Ronde," latter unfortunately overdramatically expressed. In most of her tunes, she can get a hoyden intonation, a warming charm and a session of excellent entertainment. Her English interludes seem to be memorized phonetically, but there's enough naturalness left in her act to warrant the strong returns.

Luc Poret's previous N. Y. appearance was as guitar accompanist to Genevieve at the Plaza Hotel, to whom he was related by marriage at the time. This time on his own as a single, Poret impresses as an entertainer who knows the score and with a commercial savvy of Gallic songalogs and a side excursion into flamenco work. Poret, accompanying himself on the guitar, also dwells on the w.k. French airs with "Domino," "Mlle. de Paris," and a set of folk tunes which he turns into a community sing. The results are excellent.

Music is an important ingredient in this spot. The musicrew have their moments to shine. Harold Sandler on the fiddle, Ernest Schoen and Paul Mann are among those who get solo spots and contribute to the gaiety. Jose.

Fontainebleau, M. B'ch

Miami Beach, Aug. 9.
Margaret Whiting, Will Jordan, Stuart Morgan Dancers (3), Murray Schlamm, Sacasas Orch, Al Navarro Orch; $2.50-$3.50 minimum.

Topliners in current installment at the La Ronde of this huge hotel are playing their first nitery dates in the area and prove okay for the summer series. It's pleasant, albeit unexciting, fare that's accepted warmly by the budgeteers.

Miss Whiting is a showmanly performer who knows her way around a cafe crowd. Her free and easy delivery and smooth department are attuned to her compote of pops and standards — most of the latter out of the book of her late father, Dick Whiting. The blend is carefully set up to keep the pace breezy. The recall-medley is the big mitt earner, containing enough nostalgia-noodlers to spark solid reaction from middle-agers in the room, and proving okay with the younger set.

Will Jordan can be classed among the upper-strata impressionists, with additional credit for seeking a different line of patter to weave through his series of incisive lampoons on the better knowns in show biz. Some of his humor could stand punching up and tightening, there being a tendency to waxing too wordy, but overall he builds steady acceptance via twists on takeoffs leading to "how they walk" invent that jells into encore bring back. Topper is his now standard Ed Sullivan carboning for big palm payoff.

The Stuart Morgan dancers are a throwback, literally, to the presentation houses when added live shows were a must in the lavish filmeries. Their adagio work hasn't changed, the tiny femme tossed about by the duo of deadpanned, black clad muscle men. They make for an adequate teeoff act here. Sacasas and his orch music-back adeptly, with Murray Schlamm introing in suave manner. Lary.

Down Beat, Montreal

Montreal, Aug., 7.
Billy Kelly, Rita Williams, Joey Dean, Kim Irwin, Bob Harrington Orch (5), Perry Carmen Quartet; no cover or minimum.

The show policy as devised by operators Solly Silver and Jack Luderman for the Down Beat hardly varies from week to week. And this set formula seldom bores the patrons judging from solid biz on night caught.

In every Down Beat offering, the headline slot goes to a pair of comics or a single (always male), and Billy Kelly in this position proves to be the usual strong fave with localites. Kelly has been around the Montreal circuit for some time but his fast patter, okay delivery and the good sense and taste never to go for the obvious always appeal. Unlike so many Down Beat jesters, Kelly stays with his general routining and seldom resorts to the indigo situations for yocks when his regular material fails. Combining the occasional impresh set with his overall gabbing, Kelly does a hefty 35 minutes to plaudits.

In the preceding pattern, attractive Rita Williams handles the chirp session with ease, mixing the standards neatly. Awareness of the mike restricts femme to some extent and a more relaxed attitude would enhance impact considerably. Hoofer Joey Dean, another regular to Montreal, displays his better-than-average tap talents to a nice reception, but the impression he tries to give that he is also a comic (as evidenced by his stream of chatter between each number) just gets in the way of his dancing.

Emcee Kim Irwin is effective as he opens the show with a brace of songs and the Bob Harrington orch cuts a good musical background for all performers. Perry Carmen's combo continues to please with the accent on Latin rhythms. Newt.

Yeaman's, Detroit

Detroit, Aug. 9.
Norm Dygon & Mr. Chips, Four Emcees, Joe Banket Orch (5); $1.50 minimum.

Norm Dygon begins his act with some well-executed pianistics at a regular keyboard and then turns on the patter to introduce his dummy, Mr. Chips, who sits alongside Dygon at a miniature piano. In the course of the intro, Dygon removes his shoes, explaining this is necessary so he can manipulate the maze of levers under his piano which activate Mr. Chips. The dummy also has a taped voice, which Dygon attempts to explain before getting hopelessly entangled in electronic jargon for a good yock.

In the well-timed act, Dygon & Mr. Chips play and sing, sometimes in unison, sometimes in designed disharmony and both take solo turns. By some odd happenstance, Mr. Chips has a better voice than Dygon. For an encore, Dygon led a community sing sans Mr. Chips for a boff bow. The act is a natural for small rooms.

The Four Emcees are Canadian youngsters who have average voices, delivery and faces. Most of their act consists of doing average imitations of the Crew Cuts, Eddie Fisher, Billy Daniels, Johnnie Ray, etc. The lads might do better if they tried to develop their own style and stuck to it, for the style of others seems to come hard to them. Tew.

El Morocco, Mont'l

Montreal, Aug., 7.
Buddy O'Connor Show, with Buddy O'Connor, Sylvia Murphy, Joey Hollingsworth, Donna Miller, Jack Duffy, O'Connor Combo (4), Buddy Clayton Trio; $1 cover.

Prepping for a series of name attractions to start in September, boniface Peter Vander North has been running a group of package shows throughout the summer months. For the most part, the offerings have been of a so-so nature but present package, the Buddy O'Connor show, proves something of an exception.

O'Connor, via tele and radio, has developed a pretty good rep both here and in Toronto, but this is the first time he has broken into the Montreal nitery circuit and from the reception this affable performer gets, he is a cinch to be a repeater.

Working most of the time at the 88, O'Connor plays and sings a short intro and then brings on other members of his group. Handsome Sylvia Murphy tees off with a song session that has clarity and appeal but lacks showmanship. Granted this attractive thrush is making her cafe debut, but the former experience gained from radio chirping is evident at all times. With proper routining and a more relaxed style, Miss Murphy should prove an asset to any small room.

Tapster Joey Hollingsworth establishes himself as a first-rate hoofer in both appearances during show. The comedics of Jack Duffy, particularly in his impresh moments, do much to boost entertainment level of this group.

Second femme on bill is Donna Miller, who is also doing her first major nitery stint. Miss Miller is a grad from the Leslie Bell (all-girl) Singers and has considerable tv experience in variety shows emanating from Toronto over the past few years. Songs offered are mostly of the pop variety and all draw good mitting.

O'Connor, backed by a combo of bass, guitar, accordion and drums, takes over final few moments with a diversified songalog that scores handily. Between times, the Buddy Clayton Trio does the music for customer dancing. Newt.

Top's, San Diego

San Diego, Aug., 10.
Norman Brooks, Jacquelyn Hurley, Bill Green Orch (5); $1 cover.

Norman Brooks, a revived Jolson, has added blackface mimicry to his act to stir beaucoup excitement and, incidentally, not offend anyone as a dated racial slight. Brooks cites his Jolson reprise role in the new DeSylva-Henderson biopic, "The Best Things in Life Are Free," daubing on blackface and donning white gloves and wig. His songalog of old Jolson tunes is socko all the way topped by a moving—because it's not overdone —"Mammy." In fact, it's to Brooks' credit that he essays Jolson with a certain restraint and warmth, eschewing the general carbon trend to caricature no matter how affectionate.

With exception of his record hit, "Hello Sunshine," the personable Canuck's other tunes are dubious choices, including "How Little We Know," effectively sung in midregister; "You Gotta Have Heart" and "C'est Si Bon"—but all three "belong" to other singers: Sinatra, Fisher, Kitt, respectively. Likewise his patter could be bolstered. On the whole, Brooks is a winning entertainer who ingratiates distaffers and tab-payers alike. The future could—and should—see an emergence of his own personality, though, for peak effect.

Jacquelyn Hurley's eccentric dances are well received to open bill. Bill Green orch does a nice job showbacking and for dancing. Don.

Pan Dancer

Montreal, Aug. 14.
There's an "exotic dancer" working here who really earns the adjective. Not since Lili St. Cyr did her "Afternoon of a Faun" to Debussy's music at the old Gayety Theatre has Montreal seen anything like it.

Opening at the Maroon Club, long-established mainstem showbar, a well-stacked brunet billed as Sabina stunned the patrons into silence by her leadoff. Clad in a Great-God-Pan-life leaf-green costume, she played, unaccompanied, thin, reedy classical music on a recorder for a full minute before making a move. Then she laid it down and, to a longhair orchestral accompaniment, performed a dance which seemed a reasonably authentic creation. It contained nothing conventionally sexy, beyond a couple of brief movements that might have been loosely called grinds.

What's more, she got a fair hand, when caught, from a generally apathetic audience. Show consists of nine girls, mostly lookers, dancing three or four minutes each—mainly mild cooch but one or two others with some imagination. Two trios play half-an-hour each, accompanying and interluding. After an hour they start all over again. Gard.

Nacional, Havana

Aug. 9.
Chiquita & Johnson, Betty Reilly; Walfredo de los Reyes Orch and Reyes Jr., Orch; $3 minimum.

The Casino Parisien at the Hotel Nacional has two fine acts to brighten the hot Havana nights. Chiquita & Johnson dance and twirl, and Betty Reilly gives forth with the humor and the singing.

Chiquita & Johnson have been taking it easy for five weeks due to a sprained muscle in latter's arm, but their return to the stage shows no rustiness. They glide smoothly around, blending the acrobatic and the dancing. She is tiny and a former ballet dancer; he is muscular and a former athlete.

Betty Reilly is an "Irish senorita," as she is billed, which means that she combines the Irish grin with the Latin fire. With personality plus a powerful voice, she sings "Jalisco" and then swings (literally) into some rock 'n' roll. She imitates Edith Piaf and Anna Magnani, switches to French and then launches in calypso. Finally, she does a frenetic and funny "Saga of Elvis Presley." (When needed, she accompanies herself on a guitar).

The Walfredo de los Reyes—father and son—lead the two orchestras which provide music for the acts and for dancing.

The Casino's dining and acts are in the competent hands of a former Broadway inhabitant, George Gogi Tchitchinadze, ex-Gogi's LaRue. Jay.

Gatineau, Ottawa

Ottawa, Aug. 10.
The Billy O'Connor Revue with Jack Duffy, Sylvia Murphy, Joey Hollingsworth, The Trio, Jack Morley, Lindsay-Day Dancers (6), Champ Champagne Orch (8); $1 admission.

Except for a switch in canaries and addition of a tap-terper, the Billy O'Connor Show of Canadian television is lifted intact to the floor of the Gatineau Club to become the Billy O'Connor Revue. The transition, while pleasant club entertainment, emphasizes the faults of the tv production, chiefly the intermittent moments of drag when the effervescent little O'Connor and his group lose the audience temporarily. In a nitery this becomes more noticeable as the hum of disinterested voices zooms to a crescendo until the routine changes to haul attention back to the show. On the whole, the stint is bright, nicely staged and deserving of the kudos it gets from the tablesitters.

O'Connor, a capable showman, spends too much time at the 88s which keeps him in the background. More prominence would enhance the stanza considerably since he's the kingpin. Standout is the comedy of Jack Duffy, whose ability, clicko material and naturally shy demeanor bring him top mitting. His specialty is mimicry of Sinatra (he bears a close resemblance), Nat Cole, Satchmo, Jerry Lewis, others, all crisp and sharp, plus a hillbilly handling of "Cheating Heart." Duffy also works with the Trio in a spoof on radio commercials.

Tapping of Negro youngster Joey Hollingsworth is socko, a lively session in which he works hard for big results. Hollingsworth is best in high-speed routines but impresses with a slow soft-shoe bit.

Filling the spot held on video by Juliette, canary Sylvia Murphy shows need of training in staging and song-selling. Gal has nice pipes and handles a tune well but pipes can't do the job alone. Also her tunes need rearranging. She tees off with a soft, slow arrangement of "Thing Called Joe" and closes with a tune that should be her opener — snappy "From This Moment On." The Trio (bass, guitar, accordion), with Duffy brushing a snare drum and O'Connor at the keyboard, showbacks for the stint and do several specialty numbers including some oldies. Begoffs take the item overtime.

Held over are a pair of routines by the Lindsay-Day Dancers with Jack Morley emceeing, singing with the line and soloing. Champ Champagne house band plays for all but the O'Connor part of the show, and for customer dancing. Gorm.

Eddys', K. C.

Kansas City, Aug. 10.
Enzo Stuarti, Dave Romaine, Tony DiPardo Orch (8); $1-$1.50 cover.

On the face of it this combo appears to be an entry on the milder side, but the virtually full house at opening seemed to like all 40 minutes of it. Both singer Enzo Stuarti (New Acts) and violinist Dave Romaine are newcomers here, giving their all for the cause.

Romaine leads off with his round of faddling on the fiddle, some of it straight, and all interspersed with some comedy lines. Fiddling is a seldom seen thing on a nitery floor in this town, but Romaine gives it some brighter moments, and actually has the crowd beating out the rhythm for him on a number or two. He keeps it varied with sweet tunes ("April in Portugal," etc.), novelties like "San Antonio Rose" and "Deep in the Heart of Texas" played simultaneously, and a medley of French tunes. His clincher is his Mercury label version of "Hot Canary" in which he works a bag of tricky stuff, and goes off to a solid hand.

Stuarti has the second half, proving a tenor of top volume on a list of half a dozen songs including current pops, a standard or two and proved showtunes. Goodlooking lad, well qualified with the pipes, holds up his end of the bill okay. Quin.

Seven Seas, Omaha

Omaha, Aug. 11.
The Lancers (4), Al Lamm Trio; 50c cover weekdays, $1 Sat., no minimum.

The Lancers, boasting plenty of enthusiasm and willingness for work, are a foursome with great possibilities. At present they're missing plenty of bets with the talent available.

An example is Bucky Longdon, one of the best bass vocalists to be heard at this nitery in years. At show caught his excellent voice was employed on only one solo, "Old Man River" (and when are the bass hingers going to forget that ofering?) and not stressed in the clever production numbers.

Guys have fine appearance in tuxes, use two mikes and get off to a bangup start with "Bob Bob Bobbin' Along" and "Rock Island Line" before going into good impreshes of the Ink Spots, Mills Bros. and Crew Cuts. However, the high spots are their offerings of their Coral disk, 'Joey," and "Standing on the Corner."

One of the group does fairish trumpet work on "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and "A Man" is an okay novelty. "Mr. Sandman" and "Follow Me" bring back Corky for the encore solo and group wisely begs off after a smash "Sweet Georgia Brown."

Show caught ran a zippy 27 minutes. Biz excellent. Trump.

Torme Set in Brit.

London, Aug. 14.
It is now confirmed that Mel Torme has been selected by Val Parnell and Bernard Delfont to launch a new variety season at the Prince of Wales Theatre, London, for two weeks commencing Sept. 10.

Negotiations are proceeding to follow Torme with Tony Martin and David Whitfield, while further names reported as being in line for this season include Judy Garland, Slim Whitman, Bill Haley & His Comets, etc.

Mapes Skyroom, Reno

Reno, Aug. 9.
Mickey Rooney with Dick Winslow & Joey Forman, Smith Twins, Skylets with Joe Kirtchen, Eddie Fitzpatrick Orch; $2 minimum.

Mickey Rooney on occasion has been known to fluff off any real effort at a night club act. But this time around the "Mick" puts out enough candlepower to light the Skyroom for 45 minutes. It's fast, very funny, and clean.

Aided well by Dick Winslow, who conducts and doubles for bits, and Joey Forman, the focus is still on Rooney. He sings, does a number which works in all his impreshes, and becomes the character on a Ted Mack Amateur Show, Candid Camera, and a politician on tv. In all this there may be half a dozen funny lines, but Rooney himself is great as he clowns his way through the whole thing.

"Heartbeat of Hollywood" is a sad finish—a Hollywood ex-great who's pleading for a job as an extra. It has some throat-clutching moments the room is very still, but the ending doesn't wrap up his wonderful long stint of humor.

Forman is introed from the aud as a great underwater cameraman and takes the crowd by surprise as a legit part of the show. He serves as Rooney's straight for the most part but does well by himself in some mimicry of his own and as a Texas gambler.

Winslow first appears taking pictures of Rooney from the sidelines and makes a fine "ham-fan" of Rooney's before he takes over the orchestral chores.

The trio make it all appear a pretty casual and fun-for-all session. Material isn't cut and dried and moves quickly. This is no longer Andy Hardy, the playful kid, but a frankly amusing guy with a freewheeling act.

The Smith Twins' biggest selling point of the moment is that they look like Marilyn Monroe. They not only resemble her, but they've go her down pretty close in the breathlessness, open mouth and cold shoulders. Their opening tune, "Lullaby of Broadway," is strongest, mainly because this is the first of an unchanging pace. They hurry through "Lady is a Tramp," "Side by Side" and others in about the same stride. As long as they're going to look the part, they might as well be frank about it and work up some material on MM. They need something clever to hold on to the first double exposure impression.

The Skylets surround Joe Kirtchen for opener, "Surrounded by Girls," and precede Rooney & Co. with a kind of quiet "Where or When," not exactly a buildup for the explosive Mick. Mark.

Family Circus

Continued from page 57

Cairoli sustains the rednosed tradition.

One-ring circus, ably directed by Kathleen Williams, has Miss Irene presenting a League-of-Nations ensemble in Tibor Alexander's Dog Revue, a lively batch of dancing and performing pooches who indulge in standard chute dives, etc. Theda Sisters (Inger & Nany) are clever Danish twosome spinning confidently from high trapeze. Tom & Jerry spice bar-to-bar swings with comedy.

Jozsi Viniczky directs horse and elephant in seesaw trick, and gets his elephant to step daintily over apparently sleeping horse. The Heltanos, two males, spin hoops on legs and arms while balanced upside down. One of duo wins palming with upside-down slide down wire on head.

More balancing from three males of the See-Hee Troupe, who spin plates, one, simultaneously with plates, bending backwards to drink from beer glass. The Five D'Angolys (3 m, 2 f) juggle skilfully with clubs and hoops. The Zemgannos are high-flying quartet of three males, one femme, swinging from high trapeze with safety net, and causing customer gasps as they link with hands in mid-air.

Edith Crocker's three bears, on bicycles and a motorcycle, are brightly presented. The group of Circus Krone tigers perform in cage to Gilbert Houcke's hep direction. Eight Shetland ponies, plus another Krone group of white, chestnut and piebald stallions, all presented by Jozsi Viniczky, are solid entertainment, being easy-on-eye with precision drilling and spirited rhythm of canter and march.

Comedy rope-climbing interlude, with a gal as stooge in audience, is diversion by King Kong, trapeze artist garbed in ape skin. Erik Ogden batons the resident Tower orch from rostrum high above the ring. Henry Lytton is again ringmaster. Gord.

Stratford (Conn.) Bard Booms With 2-Comedy Click; Other Strawhats

Stratford, Conn., Aug. 14.

Produetion nut for the American Shakespeare Festival Theatre, currently in its second season, is expeeted to be redueed substantially this semester. That's based on the elick business being done by the two comedy entries, "Measure for Measure" and "Taming of the Shrew."

"Shrew" was added to the repertoire Aug. 5. "Measure" and "King John" had been alternating until then. Business for the latter, however, has been poor and the drama liability has been eut to one performance weekly. The take for eight performances, ending last Sunday (12), was $27,200 including sellouts Saturday ($5,700 with 44 standees) and Thursday ($4,000, including a number of cutrate ducats for students).

Gross for the previous week, with "Shrew" helping, was $25,300. The weekly break-even is understood to be about $17,000. If business continues at the past fortnight's pace, the cut in the production nut should be sizeable.

'Bus' Click $15,300, Philly

Philadelphia, Aug. 14.

"Bus Stop" grossed $15,300 at the Playhouse in the Park last week, giving the canvastop its most profitable stanza this season. The net on the show was higher than that of the previous week's entry, "Solid Gold Cadillac," which nabbed a record-breaking $18,066, with Gertrude Berg starred. "Bus" was a less costly venture, with a small cast and no stars.

Local crix, who panned the William Inge play when it tried out at the Walnut Theatre in 1955, reversed their opinions in reviewing the tent production. "Bus" is the third Inge play to be presented at the Playhouse this season. The others were "Come Back, Little Sheba" and "Picnic." Except for the Monday eve opening when it rained, "Bus" sold out every night, with the management putting in extra chairs during the latter part of the week.

Modern 'Ado' 5G, Olney, Md.

Olney, Md., Aug. 14.

Despite rave reviews by Washington eritics, the first week of Players, Inc., production of "Much Ado About Nothing" in modern dress brought in only $5,000. The Shakespearean play will continue for another week.

Olney will complete its strawhat season with a new play, "The Old Boy," opening next Tuesday (21). An Irish comedy by Maura Laverty, it was produced by Margo Jones in Dallas last year under its original title, "Tolka Row." The play was also performed under that title in London, Dublin and Belfast.

"Teahouse" $17,400, Warwick, R.I.

Warwick, R. I., Aug. 14.

Robert Rapport's touring tent production of "Teahouse of the August Moon" grossed $17,400 at the Warwick Musical Theatre last week in the first frame of a fortnight's stand. The eomedy played six evening performances and one matinee. Take for seven evening performances the previous week at the Neptune Music Circus, Asbury Park, N. J., was $20,400, a jump of $3,000 over the initial stanza at that spot.

The production moves on to the Melody Circle, Allentown, Pa., next Monday (20) for a one-week stand.

Romero Honorable $17,100, Cincy.

Cincinnati, Aug. 14.

Cesar Romero in "Strictly Dishonorable" set a new record for the Cincinnati Summer Playhouse last week, grossing $17,100 for seven performanees. Every performance at the 1,200-seat theatre-in-the-round went clean, with the standee limit reached nightly.

The operation tried a 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. Saturday night performance sked for the first time. Majority of the audience was female. Maureen Stapleton and Jules Munshin in "An Evening of Tennessee Williams" are current at the Richard L. Rosenfeld operation.

Lillie Record 17G, Westport

Westport, Conn., Aug. 14.

Beatrice Lillie in her new revue, "Beasop's Fables" set a new record for the Westport Country Playhouse last week, grossing nearly $19,000 for nine performances. The show gave an extra matinee last Sunday (12). The eight-performance take was $17,000, beating out the previous high of $16,400 set by Tallulah Bankhead earlier this summer in her revué, "Welcome Darlings."

The Westport management is negotiating for a return booking of "Beasop's" after Labor Day. The barn, meanwhile, has booked Imogene Coca and Jules Munshin for the week of Aug. 27 in "Anniversary Waltz."

'Rush' Slow $6,800, Saratoga

Saratoga, N.Y., Aug. 14.

Robert Q. Lewis in "What's the Rush?" grossed a disappointing $6,800 last week at the 587-seat Spa Summer Theatre. The radio-television star, who started at WTRY, Troy, in 1941, did not draw as well as had been expected for August and the first week of the racing season. His biggest pull was in the balcony. House was scaled to a $3.30 top.

The previous week's preem of Robert Saffron's comedy, "All On a Summer's Day," grossed a fair $6,000 at a $3.30 top. Beatrice Lillie in "Beasop's Fables" is current.

Molly Picon 11G, Wedge

Atlantic City, Aug. 14.

Wedge Playhouse, located next to the Ritz-Carlton hotel on the downtown boardwalk, is going strong in its first season of summer legit. Producers Buddy Ottenberg and Al Nirenberg, are currently offering Molly Picon in "Farblonjete Honeymoon," now in its third week.

The show grossed almost $13,000 last week, topping the previous stanza's take of over $11,000. "White Cargo," starring Julie Gibson, spot's first offering, did $31,000 for four weeks.

Closing bill, starting next Tuesday (21), will be "Tender Trap," with Keefe Brasselle and Miss Gibson.

'Wagon' $12,000, Det.

Detroit, Aug. 14.

"The Time of the Cuckoo, starring Luther Adler and Claire Luce, grossed a thin $8,200 last week at Northland Playhouse. "Paint Your Wagon," featuring Tony Bavvar in his original Broadway role of Julio, did $12,000 at Melody Circus.

The breakevens at the two tents are $11,000 for Northland and $12,000 for Melody. Northland, which seats 1,400, has a potential capacity of $25,678 at a $3.60 top, while the 1,500-seat Melody has a potential capacity of $41,982 at a $4 top. Both tenters offer 25% discounts.

Current productions are "A Roomful of Roses, starring Louise Allbritton, at Northland, and a second week of "Paint Your Wagon" at Melody.

Liked 'Gimmick' Tryout, Rate It a Potential Hit

New York.

Editor, VARIETY:

We saw the recent tryout of "The Gimmick" at the Westport (Conn.) Country Playhouse. We were delighted and amused and greatly entertained, as was the entire large audience.

Farce is difficult to play, especially with an abbreviated rehearsal period. Wouldn't it have been fairer to the cast and author Joseph Julian if VARIETY had reviewed it late in the week instead of opening night?

We feel that "The Gimmick" has hit potentials, and should not be damned without further hearing.

Abby Lewis and John D. Seymour.

(Mr. and Mrs. Seymour are legit and television actors. Ed.)

Strawhat in N. Dakota Converted From Nitery

Minneapolis, Aug. 14.

From nitery to legit is the switcheroo made by the Dome bistro, located on a highway between the towns of Bismarck and Mandan, N. D. Moreover, it's now a professional summer stock company, with an Equity resident troupe.

Nancy Edwards, a Bismarck young woman who studied dramatics at Syracuse U., is responsible for the experiment. Her partner is Judith Marus, who previously operated a summer stock theatre near Buffalo.

The converted Dome nitery has been re-named the Town 'n' Country Playhouse. It's a theatre-in-the-round and attendanee has been ranging from 100 to 150 per night, the latter representing capacity. Miss Marus does most of the directing.

Love That Feeling

Howard Teichmann, who collaborated with George S. Kaufman on "Solid Gold Cadillac," has been getting substantial royalties from stock productions this summer, espeeially sinee the eomedy has proved to be a vehicle for character actress names. Among those playing it in strawhats have been Billie Burke, Gertrude Berg, ZaSu Pitts, Mary Boland, Elsa Lanchester, Frances Starr, Ruth McDevitt, Paula Trueman and Ethel Shutta.

"I've always heard about being kept by women," the author quips, "and believe me it's wonderful."

'Cadillac' Solid For Burke & Berg

"Solid Gold Cadillac" is giving Billie Burke and Gertrude Berg a money-making ride this summer. Both actresses are starring in separate strawhat package productions of the Howard Teichmann-George S. Kaufman comedy. The two offerings have been playing to generally strong business.

Miss Burke appeared in the show initially last April at the Coconut Grove (Fla.) Playhouse, where she grossed nearly $31,600 in two weeks. Other grosses picked up by her since hitting the strawhat trail last June include Ogunquit (Me.) Playhouse, $8,900; Famous Artists Country Playhouse, Fayetteville, N. Y., around $10,000 and the Triple Cities Playhouse, Binghamton, N. Y., $7,000.

Also, the Spa Summer Theatre, Saratoga, N. Y., a reeord $10,306; Theatre by the Sea, Matunuck, R. I., $8,800 and the Falmouth Playhouse, Coonamessett, Mass., $11,900. Miss Burke is on a guarantee, plus 50% of the profits. She also played to capacity at the Ann Arbor (Mich.) Drama Festival and at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, Pa.

Miss Berg's gross record includes the Sacandaga Park Summer Theatre, Sacandaga, N. Y., capacity $11,000; Grist Mill Playhouse, Andover, N. J., capacity $11,400; Capri Theatre, Atlantic Beach, capacity $14,000 and the Playhouse in the Park, Philadelphia, a record $18,066.

Legit Followup

No Time for Sergeants
(ALVIN THEATRE, N.Y.)

Charles Hohman has succeeded Andy Griffith as the blissfully daffy draftee and "No Time for Sergeants" rolls along on waves of capacity-house laughter. One thing is immediately evident—the Ira Levin dramatization of Mac Hyman's novel is not dependent on any particular actor or actors.

In fact, as caught last week, the show seems even better than it did on that gleeful opening night last October. Although Griffith seemed virtually the personification of the happy innocent, Will Stockdale, his sueeessor is also excellent in the role. Griffith's cornpone dialect is missed.

Hohman is a distinctly different characterization, straighter, quieter, less infectious at the start but possibly sustaining more expertly. He is a thoroughly satisfactory successor and "Sergeants" still rates as a comedy smash good for months and months more of bulging box-office.

Although the show has not been changed since its opening 10 months ago, it seems more compact and better balanced than originally. Possibly because Hohman's playing starts more slowly, the comedy doesn't get away to the howl it did opening night, but it holds up better, somehow avoiding the former letdown of the middle portion. With Peter Larkin's ingeniously contrived setting a key factor, the show moves smoothly to a hilarious elimax.

The performance as a whole retains its edge admirably. Myron McCormick is still amusing as the veteran top sergeant, although his playing is beginning to show signs of becoming mechanical. Roddy McDowall remains standout as the air force inductee with an infantry complex, Howard Freeman and Royal Beal are expressively pompous as harried generals, and Robert Webber, James Millhollin, Hazen Gifford, Carl Albertson and Bill Hinnant are notable in lesser roles. Hobe.

Inside Stuff—Legit

A simplified breakdown of the functions of Actors Equity and the responsibilities of its membership has been issued by the union in handbook form. The pamphlet briefly outlines the different Equity contracts, various rules and other aspects of the organization. It also lists eertain professional responsibilities of members, in addition to their union obligations. A historical summary, a rundown of current activities and an explanation of the administrative setup are among other items included in the text, whieh was compiled by the union's Handbook Committee. Cover and inside illustrations are by John Ward.

Casts of "Student Prince" and "Red Mill" at the Greek Theatre, Hollywood, kicked off a new Coast program for a blood bank for performers, the first ever attempted. Equity and American Guild of Musical Artists are cosponsoring the bank. In the past when performers needed blood transfusions, union execs "borrowed" from available supplies around the area and then had to arrange for individual blood donations to replenish what had been used. Bank, whieh will be handled through the Red Cross facilities, will take eare of such contingencies in the future.

"Costumes & Styles" by Henry Harald Hansen (Dutton; $5.95), is a short history of human apparel which should prove valuable to theatrical researchers. Styles are traced from early Egypt to recent creations of Patou, Mainbocher, Lanvin and Schiaparelli. Dior's "new look" is included in the survey, as well as sports costumes, occupational wardrobe, uniforms and special period accoutrements. Author is in charge of costumes at Danish National Museum, Copenhagen. Mrs. Hansen's text is embellished with 685 excellent color sketehes by Scandinavian artists Ebbe Sunesen, Mogens Bryder and Kaj Nrregaard.

Legit Bits

Julius Adler will costar with Diana Goldberg, Mae Schoenfeld and Henrietta Jacobson in the American-Yiddish musical, "It's a Funny World," opening in October at the Downtown National Theatre.

Italian playwright Eduardo de Filippo due in New York in September for rehearsals of F. Hugh Herbert's "Best House in Naples," based on his "Filomena Marturana."

The Shakespearewrights, which operated off-Broadway at the Jan Hus auditorium for the past three years, switehing to a newly constructed 200-seat theatre at St. Ignatius Chureh, N.Y., this season. Group is scheduled to open Oct. 17 with "Hamlet."

British actor Max Adrian set to star in "Candide."

Peggy Clark will do the lighting for "Auntie Mame."

Morton Gottlieb takes over as house manager of American Shakespeare Festival Theatre, Stratford, Conn., replacing Dick Skinner, who resumes next Monday (20) as company manager of "The Lark" in Central City, Col.

Guthrie McClintic will direct "Happiest Millionaire," replacing H. C. Potter, who had to bow out of the assignment because of a film eommitment.

Charlotte Rae and Joe E. Marks have been cast as Mammy and Pappy Yokum in "Li'l Abner."

Joseph Beruh has suceeeded Peter Falk in "Iceman Cometh."

Michi Kobi, of the touring "Teahouse of the August Moon" east, lectured 27 Okinawin students at Mills College, Oakland, Cal., on the theatre.

Shirley Farmer, formerly of the Theatre Guild, into the production assistant slot on "Major Barbara."

Robert Downing and Charles Baker will be production stage manager and casting director, respectively, for "Happy Hunting."

Signe Hasso has landed the femme lead in "Apple Cart."

Howard Bay will design the scenery for "Build With One Hand."

Harold Clurman to direct Broadway version of "Waltz of Toreadors."

An arbitration hearing concerning Alexander H. Cohen and Ralph Alswang's allegation that Hal March breached his contract to appear in their contemplated Broadway production of Max Wilk's "Brass Section" scheduled for Sept. 26.

Charles Bowden, Richard Barr and H. Ridgley Bullock scheduled Paul Crabtree's "Laughter of Giants" as next Broadway production in November.

Pat Hingle and Natalie Trundy signed for "Girls of Summer."

Virgina Kaye, wife of Broadway produeer Kermit Bloomgarden, added to cast of "Major Barbara."

David Merrick, co-producer with Joshua Logan of Broadway musical, "Fanny," planed to London Friday (10) to supervise London edition of tuner which opens Drury Lane Theatre in October.

Jerome Whyte production supervisor for "Bells Are Ringing."

Richard Davidson's "Nobody's Child," under direction of Richard Castle, scheduled to preem Aug. 22 at the off-Broadway Open Stage.

"Fanny" switching its regular Broadway performance sked over the Labor Day weekend by giving Sunday matinee and evening performance Sept. 2 and a special Monday mat. Sept. 3. The regular Monday, Tuesday night and Wednesday matinee performanees will be eliminated that week.

Herman Magidson has replaced Terrence Little as stage manager for "Most Happy Fella."

Refuting a letter printed in VARIETY last week, the management of "Damn Yankees" states the show does employ a Negro performer as a member of the Washington Senators baseball team.

Rcent VARIETY references to "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" have inadvertently omitted mention of Jack Lord as Ben Gazzara's successor. He later relinguished the assignment to Alex Nicol.

The Theatre in Der Josefstadt of Vienna will make its U.S. debut Sept. 4 at the Barbizon Plaza Theatre, N.Y., with Fritz Eckhardt's comedy, "Rendezvous in Vienna."

Robert Alda will costar with Linda Darnell in "Harbor Lights," with Guy Thomajan directing.

Jewish playwright F. Bimko and the Hebrew Actors' Union will present a Yiddish legit season at the Labor Temple Theatre, a former off-Broadway showcase. The initial offering, skedded for early October, will be "Broken Lives," a new comedy by Bimko, which he'll also stage.

Peter Palmer will make his pro debut in the title role of the musicalized "Li'l Abner," while Johnny Myhers is another cast addition.

The Broadway and national companies of "Damn Yankees", and "Pajama Game" scouting chorus replacements.

Paulette Girard, who appeared in "Boy Friend" on Broadway, rejoining the musical currently on the Coast.

Dean Crane has resumed his aerial dance stunt in "Fanny" after a two-month leave.

The new comedy team of Gene Wesson and Gordon Polk, recently signed for a long-term NBC comedy buildup, also set for legit showeasing via 'Happy Hunting," but will perform separate roles, not as a team.

Bil & Cora Baird's Marionette Theatre set for an eight-day, 21-performance run at the Playhouse Theatre, N. Y., beginning Sept. 1.

Sally Gracie and Mark Herron added to the "Major Barbara" east.

"Most Happy Fella" will give a Labor Day matinee instead of the regular Wednesday afternoon show that week.

Alan Napier, Paul Mann and Ellen Holly have been added to the cast of "Too Late the Phalarope," which John Stix will direct.

Bert Lahr has signed a two-year pact to star in the Playwrights Co. production of the musicalized "Grand Hotel."

John Anderson and Murray Bennett have succeeded Pat Hingle and Fred Stewart, respectively, in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

John C. Becher into "No Time for Sergeants" after two months in Europe.

Guy Bolton back in New York from England to assist producer Jed Harris in the casting of "Wings of the Dove," which he adapted from the Henry James novel.

"Matchmaker" will give a Sunday evening performance Sept. 2 and a Labor Day matinee Sept. 3 in lieu of the regular Monday and Tuesday night performance that week.

"Look at Her" is the new title of the "George Abbott-Bob Merrill musical adaptation of "Anna Christie."

SILO TRAIL MAKING LIKE ROAD

Equity Extends Employment Drive To Industrials, Civic Celebrations

Actors Equity, which recently expanded its jurisdiction to the industrial show field, is extending its campaign for actor employment in still other fields. Latest moves in this direction have been taken by the union's Coast office in (1) forming a Star Sponsored Reading Group and (2) opening up the field of local civic celebration productions to its members.

The Star Sponsored Reading Group program has already been functioning in New York, with units under the aiges of Helen Hayes, Peggy Wood and Maurice Evans. In the civic celebration idiom, the Fiesta Del Pacifico in San Diego has earmarked $15,000 of its budget for the employment of Equity members for the six-week run of the Pilgrimage play, "The California Story."

The Santa Barbara Fiesta this year also has a limited number of Equityites for its "Song of the Bells" production. The Coast office is also working on opening up university and college productions for its members. A step in this direction was taken by Edd X. Russell, Equity's Los Angeles rep, who recently met with Peter R. Marroney, dean of the drama department of the U. of Arizona, the latter showing interest in the project.

Anent the union's branchout into the industrial show field, the basic contract for that field calls for a minimum $225 payment to actors, chorus and assistant stage managers for employment covering seven calendar days, including rehearsals and performance. If the work span exceeds that time, the

(Continued on page 67)

Hefty Show Sked Set For '56-'57 Hub Season; Philly Also Looms Big

Boston, Aug. 14.

Hub legit is shaping up lively this season. It looms bigger than last semester, which was the best in several years.

Fall bookings have been set for 10 tryouts thus far. First in will be "Harbor Lights," costarring Linda Darnell and Robert Alda. It's slated for two weeks at the Wilbur beginning Sept. 17. The Colonial relights Sept. 27 with "Too Late the Phalarope," starring Barry Sullivan.

The Shubert has three musicals lined up. The first, "Li'l Abner," based on Al Capp's comic strip, is set for three weeks starting Oct. 2. "Bells Are Ringing," with Judy Holliday, follows for another three weeks beginning Oct. 22. Next, opening Nov. 12, is "Happy Hunting," with Ethel Merman and Fernando Lamas.

Set for the Plymouth are "Sixth Finger in a Five-Finger Glove," Sept. 19; "Apple Cart," Oct. 1; "Best House in Naples," Oct. 15, and "A Very Special Baby," Oct. 29. The Opera House has "Major Barbara" booked for Oct. 3 and the Old Vic the week of Jan. 21.

11 Entries For Philly

Philadelphia, Aug. 14.

A bustling legit season is in the offing here. Already lined up are eight plays and three musicals.

(Continued on page 66)

HAL KENNEDY HAS 9G CAPITAL FOR N.J. BARN

The current season at the Grist Mill Playhouse, Andover, N.J., under the new management of Harold J. Kennedy, involves a $9,000 investment. The capital was raised under a limited partnership running from last May 23 until next Oct. 1. Any profits on the summer stand will be split 50-50 between Kennedy and the backers.

Investors include Kennedy, $650; Broadway general manager Carl Fisher and Broadway producer Robert Griffith, $600; author William Marchant, $1,500, and N.Y. Herald Tribune drama editor Bert McCord, $500.

Kidney Trouble Kayos Plummer, Shatner Subs

Toronto, Aug. 14.

Suffering from kidney trouble, Christopher Plummer, who plays the title-role in "Henry V" at the Stratford (Ontario) Shakespearean Festival, was taken to hospital late last week. His understudy, William Shatner, took over the role Friday (10) eve, with Peter Wylde doing Shatner's former Duke of Gloucester. Plummer went back on the following night (Sat.), returning immediately after the show to the hospital.

Expected that Plummer will be recovered in time to accompany the troupe to the Edinburgh Festival later this month when company will fly over after season's finish of Shakespearean Festival here.

Acting Career A 'Luxury': Miles

Albany, Aug. 14.

Acting today is a "luxury" for aspiring performers. That's the opinion of vet stock producer William Miles as expressed recently in a local interview over station WPTR. The statement was in line with Miles' advice to such aspirants that university drama courses provide the best training.

When queried if tuition might not be a deterent to many of the youngsters, Miles responded with the luxury comment, adding, "Where else can a person learn to act? Stock companies once were the proving grounds. How many of them operate now, except to a limited degree during the summer."

Miles, producer of the Berkshire playhouse, Stockbridge, Mass., and a former actor, mentioned such schools as the Yale School of Drama, Carnegie Tech, U. of Southern California and Boston U. He also had strong praise for the London Academy of Dramatic Arts, but was less complimentary about the N.Y. Academy of Dramatic Arts, which he felt had "slipped."

Miles view of the situation was probably best summed up by his statement that youngsters pursuing an acting career are "crazy."

TIME FOR 'PATRICK'

David Wayne As Star and Co-Producer—Taped Radio

Although David Wayne has started a new radio series for NBC, it won't interfere with his plan to co-produce and star in "The Loud Red Patrick" on Broadway this fall. The ether series is being taped, so the actor can do his m.c. and occasional dramatic performances at his own convenience.

"Loud Red Patrick," based on sketches by Ruth McKenney and her late husband, Richard Bransten, has been dramatized by John Boruff. The copyright for the script reportedly lists Vivian (Mrs.) Boruff as co-adaptor, but that's understood to be merely a nominal matter.

The play has been under option to several different Broadway managements in recent years, including Fred F. Finklehoffe & Jed Harris. Under the latter sponsorship, a pre-production film deal was tentatively set with 20th Century-Fox, but it fell through and the scheduled legit presentation was subsequently dropped.

"Loud Red Patrick" is being produced by Wayne and Robert Douglas, in partnership with Richard Krakeur.

GETS 'EM HOT FROM BROADWAY

By JESSE GROSS

The summer theatre circuit is developing into an extended playing area for Broadway and touring productions. It's another phase in the changing character of the silo trail, which in recent seasons has virtually become a new road.

In the past few years, the circuit has been flooded with touring packages, with a diminishing number of barns going in for independent productions. A solidly booked package averages a 10-12 week summer tour. In some cases a couple of managers band together and mount a show solely for their barns, while in the musical tent field some productions put in several weeks playing canvastops operated by the same management.

The new wrinkle this season, though, is the summer theatre booking of shows directly after their Broadway or road closings, with virtually the same casts going into the warm-weather spots. The latest entry to make that move is "Fallen Angels," which closed Broadway last Saturday (11).

The show, with Mary McCarty and Margaret Phillips continuing in their costarring Broadway assignments, has been booked for a three-week strawhat tour beginning Aug. 27 at the Camden Hills (Me.) Summer Theatre. That spot is operated by Charles Bowden. Richard Barr and H. Ridgley Bullock Jr., who produced the Noel Coward revival in New York. The comedy will play a week in Camden and then go to the Hyde Park (N. Y.) Playhouse and the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, Pa.

Earlier this season, "Ponder Heart," starring David Wayne, moved out for a four-week citronella hike following its Broadway closing. Similarly, most of the post-Broadway touring company of "Teahouse of the August Moon" have been retained for a tent trek following the fold of the production's regular tour.

HUGH BECKET LINES UP PORT.-SEATTLE DATES

Portland, Ore., Aug. 14.

Hugh Becket, legit booker for Portland and Seattle, was here for a few days setting up his new fall series of shows. Joe Flynn, advance man for "Inherit The Wind" company was ditto.

"Wind" gets things started the first week in September with a brisk advance already under way. Becket has booked Imogene Coca in "Janus" for January, followed by Vivian Blaine in "Hatful of Rain" in February. "The Lark," "Anastasia," and "Witness For The Prosecution" are pencilled in the series. Beckett has received loads of inquiries regarding "My Fair Lady" since theatregoers read about the national company.

In adddtion to legit stuff, Beckett's Portland Town Hall Series has also been completed for the coming season: Robert Mallett, October; Alfred Wolff, November; Eric Parel, December; Hal Linker, January; Curtis Nagel and Earl Brink, February; Gerald Hooper, March.

Legit and Town Hall series play at the Civic Auditorium here and the Moore Theatre in Seattle.

J. Brooks Ehrlich?

San Francisco, Aug. 14.

Trial lawyer Jake Ehrlich turned drama critic last week. The legalite was retained by the Call-Bulletin, local Hearst afternoon daily, to review "Witness for the Prosecution," which opened at the Alcazar here Aug. 6. His critique appeared two days after the sheet ran a regular notice by firststringer Bob Hall.

Ehrlich is the author of "Never Plead Guilty," a bestseller last winter.

Summer Stock '56 Bullish; Only 2 Foldos Among 162 Equity Barns

Summer stock appears to be thriving this season. That's indicated by scattered gross reports, but more emphatically by the dearth of barn closings. Still prevalent, however, are the usual claims of hardship brought on by rocketing productions costs and large salary demands by stars.

Of 162 silos and rents bonded by Actors Equity this season, only two have shuttered thus far. They are the Roosevelt, Miami Beach, and the John Hancock Hall operation in Boston. Another barn, the Princess, Niagara Falls, Ont., has reverted to a picture policy, but is still open to package bookings.

The Equity tent-barn tally this summer represents an increase of eight over last year. Included in the total, though, are five new teepees and 27 other showcases (some formerly non-Equity). That means 24 of the operations functioning last summer failed to reopen this year, or switched to non-Equity status. The five canvastops, incidentally, bring the total in that category to 20.

Reflecting the bullish business racked up by some locations this summer are the following gross reports received by VARIETY: Billie Burke in "Solid Gold Cadillac" grossed $10,300 at the Spa, Saratoga, N. Y., breaking a 10-year record. Beatrice Lillie in her "Beasop's Fables" revue set new records at the Ivoryton (Conn.) Playhouse and the Westport (Conn.) Playhouse, grossing $16,000 and $17,000 respectively.

Also, "Teahouse of the August Moon" nabbed $20,400 in its second week at the Neptune Music Circus, Asbury Park, N.J., setting a new high for the spot. Show was the first non-musical to play the tent. Cesar Romero in "Strictly Dishonorable" set a new record at the Cincinnati (O.) Playhouse with a $17,100 gross, while Gertrude Berg in "Solid Gold Cadillac" established a new record at the Playhouse in the Park, Philadelphia, with an $18,066 gross.

'Happy Dollar' Glums Up The Works in Coast Foldo

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

The Texas-backed-and-inspired musical, "The Happy Dollar," gave up the ghost after four dour weeks at a local small-seater and producer-director Richard C. Ott departed, apparently to return to Texas. He left behind an incomplete audit, some outstanding bills and a number of checks which, creditors reported, were not being honored by the bank.

Musical racked up a loss of around $25,000 on an investment of $15,000 according to available estimates. Tally may go higher when all the bills are in. Show never did better than 30% capacity at the 400-seat Las Palmas Theatre and registered an operating loss of around $5,000 in addition to closing expense.

By ironic coincidence, John Latouche, who penned the book and lyrics, died in New York three days after the show closed here.

'Bad Seed' Earns $290,853 Profit

Backers of "Bad Seed," which closed in Chicago last June 30, have thus far received a 189% profit on their $78,000 investment. That was reflected in a recent accounting covering the windup of the Playwrights Co. production.

As of the audit, the Maxwell Anderson adaptation of William March's novel had netted $290,853, of which, $290,000 has been distributed, with the backers and management sharing 50-50. The Nancy Kelly starrer had a click 42-week Broadway run before going on tour, where it played to strong business until its final weeks.

Profit on the venture includes income from the sale of the film rights to Warner Bros. for $300,000 (less commissions), of which 60% goes to the authors and 40% to the company. The film studio paid the Playwrights another $70,000 to delay the tour to enable members of the original cast to participate in the film production. Of that amount, the company retained $50,000, giving the balance to the authors.

'THEATRE-ON-THE-SPOT'

Indiana Students Skedded For 8-Day B'way Legit O.O

Dr. R. W. Masters, director of dramatics at Indiana State Teachers College, Terra Haute, is bringing his Contemporary Theatre Course to New York later this month for an eight-day "theatre-on-the-spot" study. It'll be the sixth such trek for Dr. Masters. The Broadway o.o. was originally designed for drama students but has been expanded to include teachers and others.

Daily luncheons, with guest speakers, are skedded at the Piccadilly Hotel, while shows scheduled to be caught include "Fair Lady," "New Faces," "Happy Fella," "Anne Frank," "Middle of the Night," "Damn Yankees," "Matchmaker" and "No Time for Sergeants." Cinerama and the Radio City Music Hall are also on the agenda.

'Palm Tree's' New Plot

Plans for a Coast tryout of Meade Roberts' "Palm Tree in a Rose Garden" have been dropped. A usual out-of-town break-in will be substituted for the Robert Lavin-Hope Abelson production, skedded to hit Broadway early in December. Fred Sadoff will not stage as originally announced.

Maxine Keith is pressagenting.

'Threepenny' Established As Greenwich Village Fixture; Hikes Tix Scale

"The Threepenny Opera" is becoming a Greenwich Village fixture.

The longrun musical, which reopened at the Theatre de Lys in the Village last Sept. 28 after a prior 95-performance run at the house in 1954, is apparently continuing indefinitely. That's indicated by the recent announcement of the show's b. o. scale for next New Year's Eve. The tab for that performance will be $5.75 for the orchestra and $4.60 for the balcony.

The Carmen Capalbo-Stanley Chase (in association with Lucille Lortel) production is also hiking its regular b. o. scale, effective Sept. 18. The Friday and Saturday night top is being upped from $4.15 to $4.85, while the weeknight high jumps from $3.45 to $4.15. The Sunday night top will remain at $4.15, while the Saturday and Sunday matinee high will be increased from $2.90 to $3.45.

Capalbo and Chase sponored the original de Lys presentation and were joined by Miss Lortel, owner of the theatre, in bringing it back.

(Continued on page 67)

JAS. LEE'S NEW 'CAREER' GETS HOUSTON TRYOUT

Houston, Aug. 14.

A four-week tryout of "Career," a new play by James Lee, is scheduled for an Aug. 28 opening at the Alley Theatre. The production is beng dedicated to the late Margo Jones, founder of the theatre in Dallas, which bears her name.

The presentation, which will mark the Alley's ninth season under Nina Vance's management, will run through Sept. 22.

The Incomparable

Hi Gaud

Direction:

MCA

Public Relations:
ALAN EDELSON

the SMASH $ SENSATION in Her FIRST BROADWAY MUSICAL!

Starring in CAN-CAN

Dallas State Fair Musicals—2 WEEKS thru AUGUST 5

An Open Valentine to
CHARLES R. MEEKER
Vice President and General Manager
Dallas State Fair Musicals

Dear Mr. Meeker:

Yours is truly the vision that moves mountains. Merci beaucoup, with all my heart, for the opportunity you gave me and the generous faith and foresight that made possible this wonderful engagement. I shall never forget it.

Avec amour,

Hildegarde

No less, my deepest thanks to your brilliant staff—

GEORGE SCHAEFER, Stage Director
FRANZ ALLERS, Musical Director
GINO SMART, Assistant Musical Director
JOHN EDWARD FRIEND, Production Stage Manager
MASON JOHNSON, Stage Manager
PETER WOLF, Art Director
GORDON WYNN, Assistant Stage Manager

—and gratitude to the entire superb cast for their help, cooperation and interest.

Photos: Wm. Langley, Dallas

• • •

Opening Tonight, August 15

COCONUT GROVE

Los Angeles Ambassador

3 WEEKS

• • •

— ANOTHER HIT!

Hildegarde's New LP Seeco Album

"HILDEGARDE: CELEBRITY SERIES"

B'way Slump Easing, 'Cat' $20,800, 'Wonderful' $44,800, 'Fanny' $26,700, 'Game' $27,900, 'Matchmaker' $12,700

Business on Broadway was up for most shows last week. The jumps ranged moderate to substantial. Capacity entries were "Happy Fella," "Fair Lady" and "No Time for Sergeants."

Closing of "Fallen Angels" on Saturday (11) marked the first shuttering in several weeks.

Estimates for Last Week

Keys: C (Comedy), D (Drama), CD (Comedy-Drama, R (Revue), MC (Musical-Comedy), MD (Musical-Drama), O (Opera), OP (Operetta).

Other parenthetic designations refer, respectively, to weeks played, number of performances through last Saturday, top prices, number of seats, capacity gross and stars. Price includes 10% Federal and 5% City tax, but grosses are net; i.e., exclusive of tax.

Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, Morosco (D) (73d wk; 580; $6.90; 946; $31,000) (Thomas Gomez, Marjorie Steele, Alex Nicol). Previous week, $19,500; last week, over $20,800.

Damn Yankees, 46th St. (MC) (67th wk; 532; $8.05; 1,297; $50,573) (Gwen Verdon). Previous week, $42,700; last week, over $47,700.

Diary of Anne Frank, Cort (D) (45th wk; 357; $5.75; 1,036; $28,854) (Joseph Schildkraut). Previous week, $21,400; last week, almost $20,500.

Fanny, Majestic (MD) (93d wk; 740; $7.50; 1,625; $62,968) (Lawrence Tibbett, Billy Gilbert). Previous week, $27,600 on twofers; last week, almost 26,700 on twofers.

Hatful of Rain, Lyceum (D) (40th wk; 317; $5.75-$4.60; 995; $23,339) (Vivian Blaine). Closes Sept. 29, to tour. Previous week, $8,000; last week, nearly $8,800; went on twofers late last week.

Matchmaker, Royale (C) (36th wk; 288; $5.75; 1,050; $31,000) (Ruth Gordon, Eileen Herlie, Loring Smith). Moves Nov. 12 to the Booth Theatre where it's scheduled to remain until Jan. 5 prior to beginning a road hike in Chicago. Previous week, $12,900; last week, over $12,700.

Mr. Wonderful, Broadway (MC) (21st wk; 164; $7.50-$6.90; 1,900; $71,000) Previous week, $40,800; last week, nearly $44,800.

Most Happy Fella, Imperial (MD) (15th wk; 116; $7.50; 1,427; $57,875). Previous week, nearly $58,100; last week, same.

My Fair Lady, Hellinger (MC) (22d wk; 172; $7.50; 1,551; $64,240) (Rex Harrison, Julie Andrews). Previous week, almost $65,200; last week, same.

New Faces of 1956, Barrymore (R) (9th wk; 68; $7.50-$6.90; 999; $38,577). Previous week, over-quoted, gross was almost $21,800, last week, around $22,000.

No Time for Sergeants, Alvin (C) (43d wk; 340; $5.75-$4.60; 1,331; $38,500). Previous week, $38,500; last week, almost $38,700.

Pajama Game, St. James (MC) (118th wk; 940; $6.90; 1,615; $52,118) (John Raitt, Eddie Foy Jr., Julie Wilson). Previous week, $27,700; last week, over $27,900.

Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter, Shubert (C) (44th wk; 348; $5.75; 1,453; $41,668) (Jayne Mansfield, Walter Matthau, Martin Gabel). Previous week, $12,800; last week, nearly $13,800.

Closed Last Week

Fallen Angels, Playhouse (C) (30th wk; 239; $5.75-$4.60; 994; $27,251) (Mary McCarty, Margaret Phillips). Previous week, $10,400 on twofers; last week, nearly $10,100; closed last Saturday 11) with an estimated $20,000 deficit on a $56,000 investment.

OFF-BROADWAY

Iceman Cometh, Circle in Square (5-8-56).

Man of Destiny, Downtown (5-21-56).

No Exit, Theatre East (8-14).

Threepenny Opera, de Lys (9-20-55).

Uncle Vanya, 4th St. (1-31-56).

World's My Oyster, Actors Playhouse (7-31-56).

'Lark' Chirps $36,500

Central City, Col., Aug. 14.

"The Lark," starring Julie Harris, grossed $36,500 in nine performances, Aug. 4 through last Saturday (11), at the Opera House. Stand here, which continues, marks the start of the show's tour.

The production had been playing off since its early summer Broadway closing.

'KING' 32G IN L'VILLE AMPHI WINDUP FRAME

Louisville, Aug. 14.

Final presentation of summer musicals at Iroquois Amphitheatre was "The King and I," which closed the 6th week of alfresco shows Sunday (12). With perfect weather, and various other factors co-operating a nifty $32,000 was racked up. While season just closed was not exactly profitable, returns have been good enough to justify plans for a similar six-week season of summer musicals next year.

Top roles in "King" were played by Leonard Graves and Annamary Dickey. In support were Fairfax Burgner, Ronnie McLaren, Jack Davis, Edward Preston, Christine Mathews, Norma Larkin and Mark L. Hykin, with Tao Strong as principal dancer. Local talent filled out the cast.

'Prosecution' Neat 25½G, 'Friend' Steady $47,600, 'Teahouse' $24,400, S.F.

Opening round of "Witness for the Prosecution" at the Alcazar last week was very strong, while fourth session of "The Boy Friend" was great at the Curran.

Third week of "Teahouse of the August Moon"—making its second stand in Frisco—was also good.

Estimates for Last Week

Witness for the Prosecution, Alcazar (1st wk) ($4.95; 1,147; $32,929). Over $25,500.

Boy Friend, Curran (4th wk) ($5.40; 1,752; $52,000). Nearly $47,600; previous week, $47,800.

Teahouse of the August Moon, Geary (3d wk) ($4.40; 1,550; $37,000) (Larry Parks). Over $24,400; previous week, $24,700.

Rain Slows 'Wagon' To $32,000 for K. C. Frame

Kansas City, Aug. 14.

"Paint Your Wagon," the eighth production of the al fresco musical season in the Swope Park Starlight Theatre, grossed a slim $32,000 last week. Cast and production drew fine notices, but rainy weather hurt business. Talent lineup included Dorothy Coulter, Edwin Steffe, Mitchell Gregg, Michael Kermoyan, Charles Nelson Reilly, James Jamieson and Anya Lee.

"Wish You Were Here," in its initial Starlight showcasing, is current. It's tme sixth newcomer of the season.

Hefty Sked

Continued from page 63

The tuner product includes the touring "Pajama Game" and two tryouts, "Happy Hunting," opening Oct. 20 at the Shubert and "Bells Are Ringing," at the same house Nov. 12.

"Bells" is one of 10 productions being offered Theatre Guild-American Theatre Society subscribers. Four others, all straight plays, have also been set. Of those only one has a definite booking. That's "Loud Red Patrick," with Arthur Kennedy and David Wayne, opening Sept. 17 at the Walnut.

The others are "Sleeping Prince," British import skedded for early October; "Girls of Summer," with Shelley Winters, tentatively scheduled for Oct. 29 at the Walnut, and "The Lark," starring Julie Harris, in November.

Other plays pencilled in are "Happiest Millionaire," starring Walter Pidgeon, at the Shubert late in September; "Best House in Naples" Oct. 2 at the Locust, and "A Very Special Baby," costarring Ezio Pinza and Sylvia Sidney, Oct. 15, also at the Locust. "Cat On a Hot Tin Roof" is scheduled for Dec. 10, with the house still to be set. "Build With One Hand," originally slated as the season opener Sept. 10, has been postponed, but is still expected to try out locally before hitting Broadway.

PAPER MILL, $12,780

Gish Sisters Near SRO With 'Chalk Garden'

Millburn, N. J., Aug. 14.

Paper Mill Playhouse hit $12,860 for second week of "Chalk Garden" ending Sunday (12). Dorothy-Lillian Gish starring vehicle had hit $12,780 for first week, slight difference due to press seats opening night.

The Gishes remain another week, then Gloria Vanderbilt, Violet Heming and Turhan Bey come in for pre-Broadway trial of "The Spa," a new Edward Chodorov comedy.

Frank Carrington operation seems to be rolling at consistently profitable pace. "Solid Gold Cadillac," which had preceded Gish duo into the Paper Mill, pulled big, largely on draw of vet Frances Starr, who played the role done by Josephine Hull on Broadway.

'Game' OK $32,400 For 4th D.C. Week

Washington, Aug. 14.

Fourth week of "Pajama Game" at the National grossed a nice $32,400 as the musical continued to bring heavy advance sales at the 1,658-seat theatre. Show will run another two weeks.

House then closes for redecoration prior to reopening Sept. 17 with "Li'l Abner" tryout.

British Shows

(Figures denote opening dates)

LONDON

Boy Friend, Wyndham's (12-1-53).
Caine Mutiny, Lon. Elpp. (6-13-56).
Chalk Garden, Haymarket (4-11-56).
Doctor in House, Vic. Pal. (7-30-56).
Dry Rot, Whitehall (8-31-54).
Family Reunion, Phoenix (6-7-56).
For Amusement Only, Apollo (6-5-56).
Gigi, New (5-23-56).
Hotel Paradiso, Wint. Gard. (5-2-56).
House by Lake, York's (5-9-56).
Kismet, Stoll (4-20-55).
Likely Tale, Globe (3-22-56).
Long Echo, St. James's (8-1-56).
Man Alive, Aldwych (6-14-56).
Mousetrap, Ambassadors (11-25-52).
Night of 4th, Westminster (6-29-56).
Pajama Game, Coliseum (10-13-55).
Paris by Night, Prince Wales (4-9-55).
Plain & Fancy, Drury Lane (1-25-56).
Plume de ma Tante, Garrick (11-3-55).
Quare Fellow, Comedy (7-24-56).
Rainmaker, St. Mart. (5-31-56).
Reluctant Deb, Cambridge (5-24-55).
Repertory, Old Vic (9-7-55).
Romanoff & Juliet, Piccadilly (5-17-56).
Sailor Beware, Strand (2-16-55).
Salad Days, Vaudeville (8-5-54).
Seagull, Saville (8-2-56).
South Sea Bubble, Lyric (4-25-56).
Spider's Web, Savoy (12-14-54).
Such is Life, Adelphi (12-14-55).
To My Love, Fortune (6-6-56).
Waltz of Toreadors, Criterion (3-27-56).

SCHEDULED OPENINGS

Young & Beautiful, Arts (8-15-56).
No Time Sgts., Her Maj. (8-23-56).
Towards Zero, St. James's (9-4-56).
Head Over Hearts, Phoenix (9-5-56).

CLOSED LAST WEEK

Teahouse Aug. Moon, Her Maj. (4-22-54)
Trip to Bountiful, Arts (7-4-56).

TOURING

Bed
Call Girl
Can-Can
Candida
D'Oyly Carte Opera
Free Love
Gay Deceiver
Girl Called Sadie
Head Over Hearts
King and I
Love on the Never Never
Mr. Bolfry
Reprise
Saturday Night at the Crown
Teahouse of the August Moon
This Happy Home
Too Young to Marry
Towards Zero
Twinkle
Under Milk Wood
Waiting for Godot
Water Gypsies
Women of the Street

SCHEDULED N. Y. OPENINGS

(Theatres indicated if set)

Loud Red Patrick, Ambassador (10-3).
Sixth Finger, Longacre (10-3).
Harbor Lights, Playhouse (10-4).
Feathered Fauna, Golden (10-10).
Reluctant Debutante, Miller (10-10).
Too Late Phalarope (10-11).
Double in Hearts, Golden (10-16).
Apple Cart, Plymouth (10-18).
Li'l Abner, St. James (Wk. 10-22).
Old Vic, Winter Garden (10-23).
Separate Tables, Music Box (10-25).
Separate Rooms (10-25).
Happiest Millionaire (10-29).
Long Day's Journey, Hayes (wk 10-28).
Major Barbara, Beck (10-30).
Auntie Mame, Broadhurst (10-31).
Sleeping Prince, Coronet (11-1).
City Center Drama Season (11-7).
Best House in Naples, Lyceum (11-8).
Child of Fortune, Ityale (11-12).
Very Special Baby, Belasco (11-14).
Girls of Summer, Longacre (11-19).
Candide, Beck (11-22).
Bells Are Ringing, Shubert (11-29).
Happy Hunting, Majestic (12-6).
Hole in Head (12-12).
Visit Small Planet, Booth (1-9).
13 Daughters, Wint. Gard. (Wk. 2-18).

OFF-BROADWAY

No Exit, Theatre East (8-14).
Dorian Gray, Bleecker St. (8-16).
Nobody's Child, Open Stage (8-22).
Rendezvous Vienna, Barbizon P. (9-13).
Take a Giant Step, Jan Hus (9-25).
Absalom, Fischer Hall (9-27).
Sea Gull, 4th St. (10-9).
Hamlet, St. Ignatius (10-17).

L.A. Lush; 'Prince' Wow 120G for 13, 'Yanks' $55,100, 'Wind' 27G, 'Desk' 31½G

Los Angeles, Aug. 14.

A new record gross for the veteran "Student Prince" was registered here last week as the operetta wound its two-week stand at the 4,470-seat Greek Theatre. Tally for 13 performances topped $120,000, believed to be far in excess of anything the operetta has accomplished anywhere in a comparable period of time.

Estimates for Last Week

Damn Yankees, Philharmonic Aud (MC) (6th wk) ($4.95; 2,670; $65,000) (Bobby Clark). Down to $55,100 (including tax; net would be $49,500). Closes next Sat. (18).

Desk Set, Carthay Circle (C) (4th wk) ($4.20; 1,518; $34,800) (Shirley Booth). Down to $31,500 ($28,400) but still smash. Previous week $36,500 ($32,900) for nine performances. Closes Aug. 25.

Inherit the Wind, Huntington Hartford (D) (4th wk) ($5.20-$4.95; 1,024; $31,000) (Melvyn Douglas). Smash $27,000 despite theatre parties; previous week, underquoted, was $27,400. Closes Sept. 1.

Student Prince, Greek Theatre (OP) (2d wk) ($4; 4,470; $68,000) (Brian Sullivan-Elaine Malbin). Walloping $57,500 for final six performances to hit $120,000 for two weeks. Succeeded last night (Mon.) by "Red Mill."

Gone Legit

Mike Todd apparently can't get out of certain legit habits. The Broadway producer-turned filmmaker has scheduled Oct. 17 for the preem of his Todd-AO version of "Around the World in 80 days" at the Rivoli Theatre, N. Y.

He's registered that date with the League of N. Y. Theatres, a practice employed by legit producers to avoid conflicting openings.

Stock Items

Jane Fonda will appear with her father, Henry Fonda, in "Male Animal" at the Cape Playhouse, Dennis, Mass., the week of Aug. 19 and at the Falmouth Playhouse, Coonamessett, Mass., the following week.

Greta Keller planes Europe-N.Y. Aug. 15 to start rehearsals for her one-week appearance in "Pal Joey" at the Putnam (N.Y.) County Playhouse beginning Aug. 27.

Dolores Del Rio, currently touring strawhat circuit in "Anastasia," slated to return to Mexico City by Sept. 10 because of two film commitments there.

Howard Dayton will be featured in the Litchfield (Conn.) Playhouse tryout of Lawrence Slade's "Smile of the Moon Man," beginning next Tuesday (21).

Marjorie Gateson will appear in the Olney (Md.) Playhouse tryout of "Old Boy" next week.

Steven Hill doubling as author-director of "A Question of Marriage," the Farley Granger-starrer currently trying out at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, Pa.

Janet de Gore will appear in "You Never Can Tell" at the John Drew Theatre, East Hampton, L.I., next week.

Eileen Geis, the femme lead in "Sabrina Fair" at Wagner College, Staten Island, for three days beginning tomorrow (Thurs.).

John Fostini will appear in "Front Page," starring Pat O'Brien, at the Lakewood Theatre, Barnesville, Pa., next week. Barney Bird will also appear in the production, prior to resuming as stage manager for the National company of "No Time for Sergeants."

Stock Tryouts

(Aug. 13-26)

American Countess, musical comedy by John F. Grahame and Alexander Maissel —Forrestburgh (N.Y.) Summer Theatre (16-18); Milford (Pa.) Theatre (20-21).

Beasop's Fables (Beatrice Lillie), revue —Spa Summer Theatre, Saratoga, N.Y. (13-18); Fayetteville (N.Y.) County Playhouse (20-25) (Reviewed in VARIETY, July 4, '56).

Dead On Nine (Barbara Britton), by Jack Poppelwell—John Drew Theatre, East Hampton, L.I. (13-18).

Golden Egg (Donald Cook), adapted by Gioia (Mrs. Donald) Cook from Philip King's British play, "On Monday Next"—Falmouth Playhouse, Coonamessett, Mass. (13-18).

I Knock at the Door, Arnold Perl's adaptation of Sean O'Casey's autobiographical volume—White Barn Theatre, Westport, Conn. (13).

Love Is a Two-Way Street, by A. E. Eckland—Sharon (Conn.) Playhouse (21-25).

Mousetrap, by Agatha Christie—Starlight Theatre, Pawling, N.Y. (14-19) (Prior U.S. production of this British original reviewed in VARIETY, May 25, '55).

Question of Marriage (Farley Granger), by Steven Hill—Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, Pa. (13-18); Falmouth Playhouse, Coonamessett, Mass. (20-25).

Old Boy, by Maura Laverty—Olney (Md.) Theatre (21-26) (Prior U.S. production of this Irish original reviewed in VARIETY, Feb. 15, '56, under title, "Tolka Row").

Pink Poltergeist, by Romeo Muller—Theatre-Go-Round, Virginia Beach, Va. (14-19).

Saint Joan (Siobhan McKenna)—Sanders Theatre, Cambridge, Mass. (15-25).

Scapin the Rascal, English translation of the Moliere comedy—Monmouth Festival Theatre Co., Tinton Falls, N.J. (14-15).

Smile of the Moon Man, by Lawrence Slade—Litchfield (Conn.) Playhouse (21-25).

Spa (Gloria Vanderbilt, Turhan Bey, Violet Heming), adapted by Edward Chodorov from Ferenc Molnar's "Olympia"—Cape Playhouse, Dennis, Mass. (13-18); Paper Mill Playhouse, Milburn, N.Y. (21-26).

Sticks and Stones (Hermione Gingold), revue—Cincinnati (O.) Playhouse (20-25) (Reviewed in VARIETY, July 18, '56).

Sudden Spring (Celeste Holm), Elihu Winer's adaptation of a play by Halstead Welles—Famous Artists Country Playhouse, Fayetteville, N.Y. (13-18); Ogunquit (Me.) Playhouse (20-25) (Original Broadway version, titled "A Temporary Island," reviewed in VARIETY, March 18, 1948).

Voice of Strangers (Ethel Waters), by Roy Bailey—Ivy Tower Playhouse, Spring Lake (N.J.) Playhouse (20-25).

Welcome Darlings (Tallulah Bankhead), revue—Theatre by the Sea, Matunuck, R.I. (13-18); Ivoryton (Conn.) Playhouse (20-25) (Reviewed in VARIETY, July 25, '56).

What's the Rush (Robert Q. Lewis), revue—Playhouse-In-the-Park, Philly (13-25) (Reviewed in VARIETY, July 18, '56).

LIBERACE FRERES PULL 45G IN DALLAS 'WALTZ'

Dallas, Aug. 14.

With rave reviews and continued good weather helping, "Great Waltz" nabbed a nice $45,000 for its first seven performances through last Sunday (12) matinee at State Fair Musicals. Liberace and brother George Liberace, starring in their first legit roles, with a cast featuring Jean Fenn, Lois Hunt, Paul Ukena and Ilona Murai, have drawn stubholders from 13 states. Produced by Charles R. Meeker Jr., Musicals' managing director, the revival is scaled to $3.75 top in the 4,100-seat air conditioned State Fair Auditorium.

Sixth and final show of this 15th season, "Show Boat," went into rehearsal yesterday (Mon.), also produced by Meeker. Jerome Kern tuner will star Shirley Jones, supported by William Tabbert, Betty Colby, Margaret Hamilton and Lawrence Winters. It's slated for an Aug. 20-Sept. 2 run.

Operatic Pot-Pourri Mild $38,700 in St. L. Week

St. Louis, Aug. 14.

"An Evening of Music," a three-act operatic extravaganza featuring vocal, orchestral and dance excerpts from 13 operas, wound up a seven-night stand in the Municipal Theatre Assn. 10,000-seat alfresco theatre in Forest ark with a moderate $38,700 gross. Talent lineup was headed by Lucine Arama, Walter Cassel, Frances Bible and Thomas Hayward. Tickets were scaled to $3.

"Peter Pan" is currently making its initial local bow with Sandra Deel and Martyn Green heading the cast. It's the first time the flying bit has been used in an outdoor presentation. Others in the cast include Ruth Mattheson, Nancy Devlin, Michael Allen, Norman Shelly and Robert Cosden.

Dick Weaver's 'Fortune'

Dick Weaver, who's currently drumbeating for "Fanny" and "The Matchmaker," will double as general manager and general pressagent for Jed Harris' forthcoming Broadway production of "Child of Fortune."

The play, adapted by Guy Bolton from Henry James' "Wings of the Dove," is skedded to open in New York the week of Nov. 11, with Edmund Purdom as male lead.

Touring Shows

(Aug. 13-26)

Boy Friend—Curran, S.F. (13-18); Philharmonic, L.A. (20-25).

Damn Yankees (2d Co.) (Bobby Clark)—Philharmonic Aud., L.A. (13-18); Curran, S.F. (20-25).

Desk Set (Shirley Booth)—Carthay Circle, L.A. (13-25).

Inherit the Wind (2d Co.) (Melvyn Douglas) — Huntington Hartford, L.A. (13-25).

Lark (Julie Harris)—Opera House, Central City, Col. (13-25).

Pajama Game (2d Co) (Larry Douglas, Buster West, Betty O'Neil)—National, Wash. (13-25).

Teahouse of the August Moon (Larry Parks)—Geary, S.F. (13-25).

Witness for the Prosecution—Alcazar, S.F. (13-25).

Presidential 'Theme' Songs

Continued from page 1

Truman catapulted into the Democratic race.

Not in evidence, however, are the solid standards like "Happy Days Are Here Again" and "Home On the Range" which became identified with Franklin D. Roosevelt just as "The Missouri Waltz" was more or less the "theme" song of ex-President Harry S. Truman. Berlin found out that when he fashioned "In The Fall We'll All Go Voting For Al" (Al Smith) it was eclipsed by "Sidewalks of New York," a solid popular standard, now in the public demain, which became better identified with the exponent of the brown derby.

Frequently, also, specially written theme songs, such as another that Berlin did for James J. Walker's mayoralty campaign—"It's A Walk-In For Walker"—meant nothing. If anything, Walker, himself an ex-songsmith, became better identified with his own "Will You Love Me In December As You Did In May?" (Incidentally, Berlin's original "Walk-In For Walker" may yet wind up in Bob Hope's "Beau James" biopic.).

In the same idiom as "Missouri Waltz" and "Sidewalks of New York," which were songs by association with Truman and Al Smith, the beloved Veep, Alben W. Barkley likewise inspired "My Old Kentucky Home" wherever he was to the fore.

ASCAP has just issued a topical "Ballads For Ballots" brochure of its copyrights which constitute a revealing cross-section of Americana. It again points up the affinity of pop songs with current events.

Besides the sundry marches by Sousa and Edwin Frank Goldman, such as "Semper Fidelis," "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Stepping Along" and the like, a reprise of some of the titles speaks for itself. George M. Cohan's "You're A Grand Old Flag"; the Gershwins' "Wintergreen For President," the turn-of-the-century "Tammany" and "There'll Be A Hot Time In The Old Town Tonight," Paul Lavalle's "Dwight D. Eisenhower March," Harold Rome's "F. D. R. Jones," "I Am An American," "Keeping Cool With Coolidge" (excerpt from Leo Robin-Jule Styne's "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes"), Berlin's "The Freedom Train," Edgar Leslie-Archie Gottler's standard "America I Love You" and "Any State In the Forty-Eight Is Great," by Jimmy Durante and Jackie Barnett, speak for and Jackie Barnett, best tell it by title. There are dozens of others.

As already announced, an independent outfit, Jefferson Records, has marketed an LP boosting the Democrats, with Henry Fonda handling the narration; Columbia is in the act with a non-partisan "Politics U. S. A." package, and the Sound Studio label has a "Ballots Battle" production.

In the earlier days of the Republic, marchers by torchlight sang "Tippecanoe and Tyler, Too" with vim and vehemence, and after the phonograph began to carry the recorded voices of candidates into party meeting places and homes the trend accelerated.

It would be impossible in limited space to mention even a tiny fraction of the political songs that were sung before Abraham Lincoln went to the White House. Only musical or political historians today know or care about a number such as "Clay and Frelinghuysen." Forgotten, too, is Dexter Smith's composition in honor of President Grant, "Ulysses Is His Name," as well as the "Auld Lang Syne" parody that began "Should brave Ulysses be forgot?" and answered the question by saying he shouldn't be. And who cares about "Horace Greeley's March" or "Honest Sam Tilden"? They are gone with the political winds of yesteryear, as much forgotten as a later topical song about a White House occupant, "When Grover Cleveland Gets a Boy." (The ertswhile "bachelor President" had married, become the father of a girl, and the song was a good-humored prediction of all the excitement should his union be favored with a Junior.)

Starts with 1896

The 1896 campaign makes a convenient starting point for considering past campaign songs and recordings. In 1892 wax cylinders and machines to play them weren't distributed widely enough to permit their being of much campaign use, but four years later large numbers were finding their way into penny arcades, saloons and homes, and a few virulently scratchy 7-inch disks were being sold.

A check of the 1896 and 1897 catalogs of Columbia cylinders reveals no identifiable campaign songs. "The Sidewalks of New York" is there, sung by J. W. Myers, but its political significance came later. However, some political songs and sketches were recorded.

A few years ago a Michigan man found a cylinder, whose title he couldn't identify, sung by Steve Porter, which took the hide off of GOP candidate William McKinley and McKinley's campaign manager, Mark Hanna. George Graham, a street corner patent medicine spieler who made "comic" talking records as a sideline, came through with a satire on the Democratic nominee, William Jennings Bryan, and his supporters with a Berliner platter, "The Free Silver Orator." He burlesqued part of Bryan's "Cross of Gold" speech and promised to deliver express wagonloads full of free silver to every American home.

By 1900 the nation was too busy hymning the successful conclusion of the Spanish-American War with such songs as "When Dewey Comes Sailing Home" and "What Did Dewey Do to Them?" to pay much attention to campaign tunes. On Sept. 5, 1901, President William McKinley made his last speech at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo and was fatally wounded by an assassin a couple of days later.

Resurrecting McKinley

Oddly, McKinley was resurrected as a recording subject a generation later. In the late 1920s Columbia issued a disk by one of its top hillbilly recorders, the late Riley Puckett, called "McKinley." It gave what almost seems a seriocomic account of the President's assassination and death. (Parenthetically, since Thomas A. Edison demonstrated his newfangled tinfoil phonograph before President Rutherford B. Hayes at the White House in 1878, a few months after the little squeaker was invented, it's likely that Hayes was the first President to make a record. It stands to reason that human nature couldn't have resisted Edison's inevitable invitation, "And now wouldn't you like to record your own voice, Mr. President?" There is nothing to indicate that Arthur, Hancock or Cleveland ever faced the horn—at least not on professional type recordings—but Benjamin Harrison is said to have made both Bettini cylinders and Berliner disks.)

"Teddy" Roosevelt was a controversial, but popular, President, about whom a good many songs were written. One was "Theodore." After he ceased being President and went on an African hunting tour, "Moving Day in Jungle Town" chronicled imaginary panic among the big animals when they heard the warning: "Run, you lions and tigers, run, run, run—here comes Teddy with his gun, gun, gun!"

Back in 1904, if any song was written directly honoring that prime example of a forgotten man,

(Continued on page 71)

PRODUCER WANTED!
by young playwright with THREE POTENTIAL HIT PLAYS!
•
Write BOX 984, VARIETY
154 West 46th Street,
New York 36, N. Y.

RIOT!
IMOGENE COCA
JULES MUNSHIN
in "Anniversary Waltz"
WESTPORT COUNTRY PLAYHOUSE
Aug. 27-Sept. 2

Stock Review

The Spa

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 9.

George Quick presentation of comedy-drama in two acts (four scenes), by Edward Chodorov, based on Ferenc Molnar's "Olympia." Staged by Chodorov; sets and lighting, Jock Gaynor; costumes, Guy Kent. Features Gloria Vanderbilt, Turhan Bey, Violet Heming, Vladimir Sokoloff, Jonathan Harris, Paula Laurence, Stefan Schnabel, G. Albert Smith, Dana Elcar. At Hyde Park (N.Y.) Playhouse, Aug. 6-11, '56.

| | |
|---|---|
| Dingleman | Vladimir Sokoloff |
| Block | Dana Elcar |
| Lina | Paula Laurence |
| Albert | G. Albert Smith |
| Clementine | Violet Heming |
| Olympia | Gloria Vanderbilt |
| Capt. Kovacs | Turhan Bey |
| Col. Krehl | Jonathon Harris |
| Rudolph | Stefan Schnabel |

It's becoming increasingly evident that quality strawhat tryouts are pretty much a thing of the past. Whereas in the past "Life with Father" and "The Fourposter" had preliminary shakedowns in the barns and such modest hits as "Silver Whistle" and "Come Back, Little Sheba" were actually uncovered in silo stands, the present tendency is for authors and agents to avoid the risk of inadequate summer theatre production for any scripts with real Broadway potential. In effect, therefore, strawhat tryouts have become little more than forlorn hopefuls.

In the case of "The Spa," it's hopeless. As caught in its second citronella circuit engagement, this Edward Chodorov reworking of a 28-year-old Ferenc Molnar flop is a waste of effort, money and audience time. Except for what interest there may be in its presumably expensive cast, it's a clinker for the spots still scheduled to play it.

Fairly drastic measures are apparently being taken by adapter-stager Chodorov to patch up the show. Although the program listed three acts and indicated that the action was in regular time sequence, a mimeographed insert for the performance caught changed it to two acts of two scenes each, and shifted the action to a flashback for the middle two scenes. The switch seems to make a preposterous show even less comprehensible. Another evidence of major revision is the non-appearance of a featured actor, Dana Elcar, listed in the program as playing a character named Block.

The original Molnar play, adapted by the late Sidney Howard and produced by Gilbert Miller for 39 performances in the fall of 1928, had a cast including Cora Witherspoon, Laura Hope Crews, Fay Compton, Ian Hunter and Arnold Korff. It was a sardonic comedy about a charming hussar officer who poses as a criminal to seduce-by-blackmail an Austrian princess.

Chodorov's rewrite adds another switch, making the seducer actually a criminal and having the princess scheme with him to carry on their affair in various Continental resorts. It all seems pointless and rather silly.

Under Chodorov's paceless direction, the actors are understandably baffled. Most apparently have little idea of comedy playing, although Paula Laurence and G. Albert Smith give credible performances in inconsequential supporting roles and Stefan Schnabel is convincingly ponderous as a tiresome court politician and Jonathon Harris adds a broad portrait of a musical comedy Austrian counter-espionage officer.

Gloria Vanderbilt is decorative but otherwise at a loss as the smitten princess, Violet Heming emotes heavily as her distraught mother, Turhan Bey gives a smirking portrayal as the Hungarian hussar charmer and Vladimir Sokoloff is believable but fails to get laughs in the written-in role of a family retainer who was once a Tchaikowsky piano virtuoso.

More impressive than the show, however, is the playhouse, an attractive and unusually comodious U-shape building, the center section of which is the auditorium, with one wing housing the stage and backstage areas and the other a spacious lobby. A bell house in the centre of the courtyard serves as boxoffice. The whole setup is located on, but a little distance back from, the main road. The extensive grounds include ample parking space.

The buildings were formerly the stables for the former estate of Frederick Vanderbilt, one of the sons of late N. Y. Central Railroad tycoon Commodore Vanderbilt, and a quirk of the "Spa" engagement is that the ingenue, Miss Vanderbilt, is a grandniece of the former owner, and visited the estate as a child. The estate itself, across the road a short way south of the theatre, is now open to the public as a showplace, as is the Franklin D. Roosevelt estate, Krum Elbow, about a mile farther south on the same road. Hobe.

Shows Abroad

Head Over Hearts

Edinburgh, Aug. 4.

H. M. Tennent Ltd. (in association with Kenneth More Productions Ltd.) presentation of "Head Over Hearts," new 3-act comedy by Roland Culver. Stars Phyllis Calvert, Naunton Wayne, Roland Culver; directed by Jack Minster; setting, Hutchinson Scott. World premiere at Lyceum, Edinburgh, Aug. 3, '56; $1.20 top.

Col. George Ferring, D.S.O., M.C. ..... Roland Culver
Mrs. Tring ..... Christine Roberts
Maggie Denney ..... Ann Fairbank
James Denney ..... Naunton Wayne
Mr. Symington-Smythe .... Patrick Cargill
Mary Denney ..... Phyllis Calvert
Robert Denney ..... Moray Watson
Sheila Campbell ..... Jane Downs

Roland Culver, English actor of U.S. and British pix, shows a new talent with this light comedy, his first. Three-acter strikes a very English note, being set in luxury drawingroom of a River Thames-side house at Henley, near London, and throws up a cluster of ultra-English types, all pleasant and very human.

As such, play doesn't point any morals or call on more than a modicum of thought. It is merely a diverting bit of theatre, well staged and soundly acted by cast of eight.

Culver shows an insight into characterizing the human types met with on the Thames during the pukka boating week, annual regatta time. Play keeps away from the boat element, only bringing in an odd visitor and offstage sound effects of crews warming-up and concentrates, wisely, on the odd and very human problem of the Denney family. This group's 18-year-old daughter, treated for ringworm, finds her head carries a Nine of Diamonds mark, the "Curse of the Campbells" clan, and thus reveals an 18-year-old mistake of switched babes in hospital. The accident has lain dormant until gal, grown-up and lovely, now finds she's not a Denney but really Sheila Campbell.

Culver is himself cast as an irascible uncle, Col. Ferring, fuming and frothing and eye-popping until he's told the story of his niece who never was. Actor brings rich humor and abandon to role of the whisky-pouring Army type, dodging his own wife's telephone calls and revelling in solving the problem for his sister Mary Denney and his niece Maggie.

Boy-meets girl slant gets new twist through the gal with diamond-marked head finding her heart going for her "brother," played with juvenile verve by Moray Watson. Ann Firbank, young newcomer, is petulant, pretty and poised as the family's daughter.

Naunton Wayne, vet English thesper makes a right choice in role of the amused father, and Phyllis Calvert is warmly sincere as the mother.

Culver's best character has little to do with the plot. He's a cockney type with proud name of Symington-Smythe who intrudes into drawingroom after being stranded on river, and proceeds to psycho-analyze the occupants with an interfering confidence. Patrick Cargill does a standout cameo here.

Play will need usual quota of tidying on its tuneup tour. Jack Minster has directed with a light touch. The Hutchinson Scott setting of a well-appointed English drawingroom merits praise.

Gord.

Daughter of Desire

Glasgow, Aug. 2.

Raystro Films Ltd. (by arrangement with Guy Charles) presentation of melodrama in two acts, by Deborah Bedford. Staged by Andre Van Gyseghem; settings, Michael Warre. At Empire Theatre, Glasgow, Aug. 2, '56; 70c top.

| | |
|---|---|
| Mona Blakeney | Janet Munro |
| Mrs. Meadows | Marjorie Wilde |
| Mrs. Jameson | Barbara Bruce |
| Minnie | Elizabeth Phillips |
| Tony Madrington | Anthony Harrison |
| Angelo | Alfred Hoffman |
| Angelo's Bodyguards | Roger Bizley, Robert Hartley |
| Flo | Margot Field |
| Daisy | Daphne Wetton |
| Trixie | Gwendolyn Gray |
| American G.I. | Peter Bartlett |
| Plain Clothes Man | Martin French |
| Constables | Reginald Collin, Martyn French |
| Sammy Rumbold | David Wylde |
| Older Man | Robert Childs |
| Prison Warden | Jennifer Gray |
| Wardress | Marjorie Wilde |
| Bruce Dunning | Robert Hartley |
| Fanny | Juliet Winsor |
| Barman | Peter Bartlett |

Janet Munro, young English repertory actress, is cast as a respectable girl trapped into prostitution. She skillfully conveys the difficult characterization of a youthful femme on the downward path after falling for a plausible type who offers marriage.

Plot, set in the London area shortly after the war, ranges through such sordid settings as a cheap boarding house, a Brighton flat, a call-girl apartment in Piccadilly, a London street, a public house, and a prison-warden's office.

Main thesping chores are shouldered more than adequately by Miss Munro, and Anthony Harrison is a plausible rogue as her lover, although he over-acts in early passages. Two prostitutes are comically portrayed by Margot Field and Daphne Wetton.

Jennifer Gray is good as a human if apparently impersonal prison warden. Bruce Dunning misses out in clarity of diction as a campaigning author who spills the victim's story and hounds abroad her persecuting gang.

As a whole, the show tends to be a trite potboiler whose appeal will be limited to easy thrill-seekers.

Gord.

Equity

Continued from page 63

minimum payment is $175 per week. If the span of employment is less than seven days, the minimum salary is $50 per day.

In all cases, $15 per diem is the fee when the place of performance or rehearsal is not within reasonable daily commuting distance of the employee's residence. If a seven-day contract is signed and the engagement runs over that period, the minimum for the extra time will be $50 daily, or fraction thereof, plus the $15 per diem.

The minimum compensation for stage managers is set at $250 per week, but if the span of employment, rehearsals and performances is 14 or more calendar days and the entire cast, including the stage manager, numbers less than 13 persons, the minimum payment is reduced to $200. The per diem situation is the same as previously stipulated.

William Gibberson is heading the union's Industrial Show Dept. About 12 organizations have already signed the basic agreement.

'Threepenny'

Continued from page 63

Their version of the Bert Brecht-Kurt Weill German original, utilizes Marc Blitzstein's English adaptation of Brecht's text, with the Weill score retained. The original German version preemed in Berlin during the 1920s.

A Broadway production, using Weill's score, but with an English adaptation by Gifford Cochran and Jerrold Krimsky, ran for 12 performances in 1933. Cochran and John Krimsky doubled as producers. In line with the show's success at the de Lys, the "Theme" from the production was a top disk bestseller several months ago. Hefty deejay and jukebox play of the various recordings of the number resulted in a strong b. o. boost for the legiter.

P.A.'s Switcharounds

Legit pressagent Howard Newman is exiting as Reuben Rabinovitch's associate on the Broadway productions of "Damn Yankees" and "Pajama Game" to take over as drumbeater for the touring "Teahouse of the August Moon," starring Larry Parks. He'll join the show Aug. 27 in Los Angeles succeeding Bev Kelley, who's leaving to handle "The Great Sebastians" tour.

"Sebastians," starring Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, has been laying off since its Broadway close last June and is scheduled to begin a road hop in September. Helen Richards will replace Newman as Rabinovitch's associate.

ALLAN JONES
— NOW —
KOKO CLUB
Phoenix, Ariz.
Management
LOU IRWIN, Hollywood, Calif.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS HONORED
Theatrical and TV Make Up • All Leading Cosmetic Lines • Imported & Domestic Perfumes • Distinctive Fountain Service.
FREE DELIVERY OPEN SUNDAYS
"The Drug Store of the Stars"
HADLEY REXALL DRUGS
1181 6th Ave., Cor. 46 St., NEW YORK
Telephone PLaza 7-0023

Critic New Head of Colon Opera; Can He Break Up Ruling Clique?

Buenos Aires, Aug. 14.

For the third time since the Liberation Revolution in September of last year, the management of the Colon Opera has changed hands, retiring manager Floro Ugarte having been in office only two months.

Sr. Ugarte was thanked for his "disinterested and patriotic" services in that short time, which is unusual when these changes occur. The new appointments—which it is to be hoped are to be longer lasting, were made by a committee appointed by B.A.'s Mayor to select the best candidates. Choice fell on former music and drama critic Jorge d'Urbano, who will have as his musical adviser pianist-conductor Rafael Gonzalez, who previously held this job in 1933.

A Professor of Literature and Philosophy, d'Urbano did excellent work at one time as Secretary of the Book Publishers' Assn. His first order of the day told the turbulent Colon staff that "up to now it has been my job to criticize you, now it will be yours to criticize me," adding that all constructive criticism will be welcome.

The Committee which made the appointments numbered Maestros Juan Jose Castro and Ferruccio Calusio, Dr. George White and Choirmaster Enzo Valenti, with scenic painter Horacio Butler.

It is hoped the new management will achieve some lasting reforms and clean up the chaos which has characterized the Opera management over the past decade. Musical and lyrical circles hope there will be a clean-up of the "camarilla" (clique) system which has ruled the roost for almost as long as the Colon has existed.

Spanish actress Margarita Xirgu is currently in B. Aires, on leave from the Uruguayan Academy of Dramatic Art, where she teaches, to help in rehearsals of Juan Jose Castro's new opera, "Bodas de Sangre," based on Federico Garcia Lorca's libretto, which is to have its world preem here this month.

Concert Review

Die Meistersinger
(Wieland Wagner Re-Staging)

Bayreuth, Aug. 9.

Richard Wagner is still kicking up a fuss in Bayreuth. The current uproar, most violent in years, is over "The Master Singers of Nurnberg," as staged by the composer's grandson, Wieland Wagner. Diehard Wagnerites are screaming "heresy," while more modern fans defend the innovations.

Here's what all the commotion is about: The staging of the second and third acts breaks completely with all tradition. The second act is supposed (according to the composer) to show a typical street in Nurnberg. Instead, the new version shows a big round lilac bush, a statuette of cupid, and no sign of Nurnberg at all. Similarly, the third act is expected to represent a grassy plot outside of town, but has been turned into an arena, resembling a bullfight ring.

The European press is debating these matters vigorously. Though they may not appear world-shaking to those of us who don't idolize Wagner, they at least demonstrate that Bayreuth is very much alive and stirring up exciting theatrical disputes.

After having seen this new "Meistersinger," VARIETY's reviewer makes a different criticism. Wagner intended the work to be a popular comic opera, with certain touching elements. "The whole style of the thing," he wrote to his publisher, "should certainly strike a light popular note." In the present Bayreuth production, it fails to do so. The whole thing never comes alive, because there is little rapport between the people on the stage and those out front. The character of Hans Sachs is probably the most human, touching role Wagner ever created. Yet no personal warmth projected across the footlights to capture the sympathy of the audience. Consequently, no one really cares what happens to Sachs or to any of the others.

His colleagues didn't do much to breathe life into the work, with the notable exceptions of Toni Blankenheim as Beckmesser, and Gerhard Stolze as David. They at least made some effort at being funny. The audience, apparently stiffened into paralysis by their reverence for Wagner, hardly dared snicker, which didn't make the actors' job any easier. Since "Meistersinger" is supposed to be a comedy, it isn't unreasonable to expect a few laughs.

In the current Bayreuth version, the opera is played for its full symbolic value (sample symbol: writing a song is like bearing a child). The controversial sets for the second and third acts clearly aim at heightening the symbolism. But in concentrating on the "hidden meaning," the surface action has been neglected. Too much reaching for symbolism seems pretentious in a "popular comic opera." The real entertainment values are hardly stressed at all. In a five-hour opera, this means enough boredom to make an endurance contest out of what should be a pleasurable experience.

The usual fine, minute Bayreuth care was evident in the staging. Even when there were upwards of 100 extras on stage, as in the third act, each one had been carefully drilled.

The cast was not quite up to Bayreuth standards in some respects. Gustav Neidlinger, as Hans Sachs, sang excellently but made no effort to reach the audience. Even a few facial expressions might have helped establish sympathy. In the role of Walther, the tenor Wolfgang Windassen sang with some insecurity. Since his "prize song" is the climax of the work, this detracted from the evening's enjoyment.

Beautiful singing was heard from Lore Wissman (Eva), Josef Greindl (Veit Pogner), Kurt Rehm (Kothner), and Georgine V. Milinkovic (Magdalene). The Bayreuth Festival orchestra was conducted by Andre Cluytens. The audience of the faithful responded with heavy applause and apparent enthusiasm. Pims.

Irish Harpist Confuses A Very Scots Affair

Edinburgh, Aug. 14.

A 21-year-old harpist from Ireland, Mary O'Hara, already known through video dates, will guest in "Pleasure of Scotland," which Edinburgh Festival Society will present on apron-stage of the Assembly Hall next week as opening production of the Festival.

Jameson Clark, Scot actor of radio and tv, will appear as narrator of the show. John Burgess, leading bagpiper, is also pacted, and James Macbeath, a singer of brothy ballads, will also appear.

A team of Scottish Country Dancers will perform traditional Auld Lang Syne reels.

Inside Stuff—Concerts

Long Island's Little Orchestra will do a "Twilight Terrace Concert" Aug. 19 at the Oyster Bay home of Mrs. Carlton H. Palmer Dance News exec ed.) and under the co-hostessship of the Contessa de Dampierre (former ballerina Luba Rostova) and Suzanne Remy, the painter. Conductor is Clara Bueling Roesch described in the handout as mingling "the iron of harddriving musical leadership with unfailing charm and electric vivacity."

Louis Applebaum, who started the Stratford, Ont. Festival Foundation's music festival here last summer,, has resigned as director. He'll remain as consultant. "Since I am and must remain primarily a composer," he said, "my continuing here could only compromise the Music Festival's future."

Virgil Thomson in Salzburg, to participate (only American composer) in Austrian Government-subsidized conference Aug. 27-Sept. 2 on "Opera in Radio, Television and Film."

Vague-to-Promising Concert Outlook In Mexico ($50 Visa) & Guatemala

(This is the third in a series of articles dealing with the concert business in Latin America.)

By PAUL PIMSLEUR

One way to make a fast judgement about the concert potential of a country is to look at the literacy figures.

Mexico is a big country, with 28,000,000 people. But it's no place to open a pencil factory, because only half the population can write. That's about par for the course in Central America. The variation goes from a high of 75% literacy in Costa Rica to a low of 25% in Guatemala, and indicates that there's a gap like the Grand Canyon between the culture of the Indian natives and the western European culture from which classical music stems.

It's only the minority middle and upper classes that support serious music in Mexico and Central America. So Mexico City, with 4,000,000 actually has the musical life of a city about one-third that size. The quality of the musical offerings in Mexico City is top-notch, but the variety of fare doesn't compare with, say, Boston.

Buenos Aires, is about the same size as Mexico City but it has a large middle-class that is willing and able to plunk down the pesos for concerts.

The concert business got a big boost about 20 years ago, when many emigrants arrived from Europe, bringing their cultural traditions with them. There isn't a concert series in all Latin America that doesn't have a couple of sponsors with names that might have come right out of the Vienna phone book.

The only important management in Mexico City is the ubiquitous Asociacion (sic) Musical Daniel headed by Ernesto de Quesada, Jr. His father, in Havana, contracts the artists for a whole tour, of which Mexico is a key point. Often, the tour begins there, when the artist is coming from the U.S.A. Quesada Jr., in Mexico City, serves the double function of impresario and agent, for he presents the artists at his own risk in the capital, and also sells the artist for other dates. These may include concert series in the provinces, engagements as soloist with orchestra, etc.

The Daniel office presents a roster of about a dozen foreign artists during a season. They have a large number of members, who don't buy a series in advance, but rather get reduced-price tickets to whichever events they choose to go to.

Erratic Management

Concerts take place in the beautiful Palacio de Bellas Artes, famous for its glass curtain from Tiffany's, and for the fact that, like everything else in the city, the theatre is sinking into the ground at the rate of a couple of inches a year. The stage is large and well equipped, though some difficulty may be encountered in getting scenery up to the stage, two flights above the street. (The stage elevator works only when its in the mood.)

Artists applying for a visa to perform in Mexico are in for a rude surprise. It's the most expensive visa you can buy, costing close to $50 per person. In New York, at the Consulate, they explain that it's so expensive because it includes your taxes. But that doesn't stop them from taking some more tax money from an artist when he's ready to leave Mexico.

Outside the capital, concert series are not well organized in Mexico. The only city that books a goodly number of artists, at good fees, is Monterrey, about 400 miles north of the capital. There, the series is aided by the University. Other Mexican cities, like Tampico, Guadalajara and Veracruz, are potential playdates for future development.

The exchange rate in Mexico is a favorable one of about 12½ Pesos to a dollar. Hotels can be had that are cheap and nice. The Guadeloupe is a good offbeat one, with nice doubles, with bath, for $6.

Guatemala

The next natural date after Mexico is Guatemala, her neighbor to the south. In the capital, Guatemala City (pop. 320,000), the Pro Arte Society presents a series of about 7 events yearly, all booked from Quesada. Pro Arte, by the way, is the name of many of the Latin American concert series, inspired by Quesada. In Guatemala City, the society has about 300 members, including some who pay extra when necessary to make sure good talent comes to their city. The hall is the Teatro Capitol, a motion picture house seating 1000. Booking is done through Gaston Pellegrini, Quesada agent there.

The Guatemalan money is the Quetzal (the name of a local bird), and is one-to-one with the dollar. The two decent hotels are the Pan-American and the San Carlos. The country itself is so picturesque it hurts. It's the closest thing to Paradise our little old hemisphere has to offer.

The highest rate of literacy (75%) in Central America is in progressive Costa Rica. The whole country hasn't got a million people, and the capital, San Jose, has under 100,000. But they've got a conecrt series which takes place in their little Italian-style opera house. The mgr. is Ludovico (Spanish for Ludwig) Hurwitz.

Other playdates in Central America are uncertain. Managua (Nicaragua)—a hot place—has a shaky series. Panama takes a few artists. Natural dates for future development are airplane stopover point like Tegucigalpa (sic) (Honduras) and El Salvador.

Danish Ballet's 'Pickup Trolley'

Because the Royal Danish Ballet will perform in only 10 American cities come September there is unprecedented out-of-town partying in process of organization. Most of the enthusiasts will come into Manhattan travelling by air under arrangements of Train & Planes Ins. but the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad is running a "pickup trolley" out of Cincinnati with stops at Lexing on, Louisville, and Huntington, W. Va.

Parties are running as high as 100 persons. Denver group was set for Sept. 20 in April. Junkets from such improbable places as Greenville, Miss., are lined up. Swedish Minneapolis is coming in big delegation. Oklahoma City is another with a party to the Metropolitan Opera. Atlanta's zealots will crowd an evening, matinee and evening performance into two days.

Best explanation for the tours is that the Copenhagen terps are known for their unusual repertory. They go in a lot for stage effects and magic tricks. Indeed the Danes need stages of such depth and facilities that the present tour was limited by that fact. Danish group is believed to be largest ballet troupe in world though Denmark is only 4,000,000 in population.

That several hundred, perhaps over a thousand, Americans propose to travel thousands of miles at great personal cost to see the Danes is a fairly unique commentary. Interestingly it took some three years of negotiations to close the deal first off between Columbia Artists and Howard Lanin Inc. on the U.S. end and the Royal Danish Theatre.

Enrique Jorda, San Francisco Symphony conductor, flew to his native Spain to conduct six weeks of concerts in Madrid, Seville and Santander.

Jussi Bjoerling will join soprano Renata Tebaldi for a special concert at the Frisco Opera House Sept. 9 as part of a week-long Italian Festival (mostly films) sponsored by the Italian Government.

Westminster Choir to Orient

75 Concerts for Private Managements—Plus Military Posts and Symphonies

Westminster Choir, under the personal direction of John Finley Williamson, its founder, will make a globe-circling tour, with emphasis on the Far East, starting in October. The around-the-world hejira, lasting more than four months, may be the most comprehensive and significant tour undertaken by any American musical organization since the end of World War II.

Westminster's bookings will take it across the country, starting on Oct. 1, and after playing about 25 dates in the U.S., the Choir will be flown overseas to begin appearances in Korea, Japan, Hongkong, Formosa, etc. The overseas portion of the tour is made possible by the co-operation of the International Exchange Program, administered by the American National Theatre & Academy.

The Choir has toured for 35 consecutive years, always under the direction of Dr. Williamson, who declares he's "never missed a concert." It has appeared more than 100 times with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony, as well as with the NBC Symphony under Toscanini and with other major symphs. The coming tour will be its third abroad, but the first time the Choir has toured the Orient. It is the only major American musical organization that has toured the Soviet Union (the Boston Symphony is scheduled to concertize in Russia on its forthcoming European tour beginning later this month).

The Westminster has made numerous appearances in England, France, Germany, Italy, Yugoslavia, the Scandinavian countries and others.

The Choir is expected to appear at U.S. military camps and bases throughout the Far East, in addition to its estimated 75 concerts for private impresarios. In addition to its own engagements, it probably will appear with local symph orchestras abroad. It will be prepared to perform the Beethoven Ninth Symphony and Brahms' Requiem with these orchs. Numerous choral festivals, often featuring choirs trained by former pupils of Dr. Williamson, will be held, and the singers will teach at choral clinics, etc.

The overseas schedule still is in process of negotiation, but the Japanese portion of the tour already is firmed with a minimum of 14 concerts and broadcasts. The Japanese dates were closed by Nobutaka Shikanai, one of the founders of the International Cultural Exchange Association of Tokyo and head of the Nippon Broadcasting System, Inc., when he was in New York recently. The Choir will be in Japan for 16 days, with Hongkong, the Philippines, Malaya, Thailand, Burma, Pakistan, India, Indonesia, Ceylon, Lebanon, Syria. Egypt, Turkey, Yugoslavia all on the tentative booking sked. If time permits, the Choir will perform in Western Europe en route home, but major accent of the tour is on the Far East.

Caracalla Opera Gross: $125,300

Rome, Aug. 14.

Boxoffice returns on the first half of the current Caracalla Baths Opera Season in Rome indicate that this year's alfresco opera series will top them all. Attendance is also up over previous years, despite a poor stretch of weather during the opening performances, and the nets for the first 20 performances are likewise well above those of 1955.

Statistics released by the Opera office set the number of spectators for the equivalent period in 1955 at 92,130, while this year's total is given as 99,203. Gross for 1955, again half a season (20 performances) was 71,704,000 lire (roughly $107,600). Figurs for the same period this year: 83,528,000 lire (roughly $125,300).

Literati

Bartlett's Dutton Post

Scott Bartlett, last managing editor for McGraw-Hill, will have a similar title in his new post with E. P. Dutton & Co. where prexy Elliott B. Macrae continues as chairman of the editorial board and William E. Larned, sales-promotion veepee, continues as vice-chairman of the board. Dutton, like several other publishers, operates on a board basis, sans an editor-in-chief title, per se.

William Raney, senior ed at Dutton, recently exited the firm in a policy difference. Similar "policy difference" figured in Stuart (Sandy) Richardson resigning as exec ed of Rinehart (he has since joined Knopf), and Bartlett and former editor-in-chief and director Edward C. Aswell both exited McGraw-Hill for the same "p.d." reasons.

S&S' Legal Setback

Fedor Nikanov, member of the Language Guild and author, won a plagiarism suit last week against Simon & Schuster before Judge Thomas Murphy in U.S. District Court. It was the first time the over-30 year-old publishing house lost a plagiarism case, and the company indicates that it will appeal in an effort to wipe the blight off the record.

Nikanov's contention was that S&S printed "Invitation to Russian," a book he said he penned and submitted to the company. After it was returned to him, a similar text came out under the authorship of Sonia Bleeker and Margareta Madrigal. Miss Madrigal, according to S&S, had done "Invitations" to French, Spanish and Portuguese before the disputed Russki tone. Case had been dragging on for several years.

Kountze Vice Trump

Denman Kountze Jr., son of one of Omaha's leading social families, last week was named to replace Glenn Trump as amusement editor and film critic of the Omaha World-Herald. Trump earlier had resigned to accept a position of assistant general manager of Ak-Sar-Ben, Omaha civic org.

Kountze, 26, has been on the paper for three years, serving as church editor and later with the W-H bureau in Council Bluffs, Ia., just across the Missouri River.

Buchwald Switches Pubs

N.Y. Herald Tribune's Paris correspondent Art Buchwald, now in the States covering the political conventions, is switching publishers (from Little, Brown which published his Paris book) to Harpers which will bring out "The Brave Coward" in January.

Parts of it appeared in Collier's a couple of year ago. It treats with Buchwald's mis-exploits on an African safari.

Dudley Frasier Moves Up

Rinehart's ad and sales promotion manager Dudley Frasier moves up to managing editor. Stuart (Sandy) Richardson has resigned as exec ed to join Knopf. The e.e. spot will not be filled. Rinehart's two senior editors, Robert Loomis and Jean Crawford, continue as is. Patricia Newell is to be publicity manager.

Bob Cochrane, from sales, takes over Frasier's former slot under Theodore S. Amussen, veep and editor-in-chief of the trade book department.

Clubs Bullish On 'Nun'

Kathryn Hulme's "The Nun's Story" will be published finally on Sept. 7 by Little, Brown after several postponements, dating back to last April, brought about chiefly by the extraordinary demands from book clubs.

It's a Book-of-the-Month, Catholic Book Club and Reader's Digest Book Club selection.

Time Inc.'s Peak Profits

Earnings for Time Inc. for the first half of 1956 after taxes were a record $8,627,300, or $4.43 per share, compared with $4,674,700, or $2.40 per share, for the first six months of 1955. In addition to the whopping net profit, prexy Roy E Larsen told stockholders in a midyear report this week, the company also realized a non-recurring capital gain of $15,113,700 which stemmed from liquidation of its holdings in the Houston Oil Co. of Texas.

Net profit plus the capital gain totaled $23,741,000. Revenues for the first half of 1956 were $110,960,300, up $14,053,500 over the equivalent 1955 period. Operating profit was 14% of revenues, Larsen pointed out, compared with an 8% margin for the first half of '55. Higher profit margin for the first half of '56 resulted mainly from the improved earnings position of Time Inc. magazines.

Liquidation of Time Inc.'s 144,540 shares of the Houston Oil Co. or about 10.6% of the latter's common stock was part of an arrangement whereby the publishing combine took over the oil firm's 50% interest in East Texas Pulp & Paper Co. to make it a wholly owned subsidiary. Pulp and paperboard sales of the new subsid, Larsen said, are reflected in the parent company's increased revenues.

In crystal-balling the future, Larsen opined that "circulation and advertising volumes will continue at high levels throughout 1956, and profits will also benefit from inclusion of East Texas Pulp & Paper's earnings during the whole of the second half." But, he warned, costs have continued to increase and "because of the seasonal nature of our business, profits are usually not as high in the second half of the year."

Can. Tax on U. S. Mags

In spite of strong objections from the official opposition in the House of Commons as well as from U. S. publishers, the federal government in Ottawa has approved legislation to tax special Canadian editions of magazines published in other countries. The legislation would impose a 20% tax, beginning next Jan. 1, on gross advertising revenues of Canadian editions of such publications as Time and Reader's Digest.

Besides Reader's Digest and Time, magazines to come under the tax would include Canadian editions of Better Living, Everywoman's, Family Circle, Parents, Canadian Office, Canadian Farm Chemicals and Cleaning & Laundry World.

When the tax was proposed last March, Canadian circulations were: Time, 164,611; Reader's Digest (French and English), 854,825; Better Living, 239,175; Everywoman's, 141,808; Family Circle, 148,055; Parents, 75,005.

Sat. Review's Single Corp.

Saturday Review Inc. has been formed as a consolidation of The Saturday Review Associates Inc. (N. Y. corporation), World Literary Projects Inc. (Delaware corporation) and The Saturday Review Inc. (Delaware corporation and the surviving corporation), according to papers filed with the Secretary of State in Albany by M. M. Ryan, U. S. Corporation Co.

French Literati Season

This month marks the end of the French literati season as no books are published and the best-sellers go along with the migrating Parisians who leave their town to tourists. Biggest sellers were known names or had gotten one of the top literary prizes, which always insure at least 25,000 in sales. There were no revelations, but some new young talent was unearthed.

With her second book, "Un Certain Sourire" ( A Certain Smile), Francoise Sagan, authoress of the international bestseller "Bonjour Tristesse," walked away with honors again. Her insight at a young girl in love with an older man won critical palms and established her as an authentic talent. "Tristesse" will be made as an indie venture by Otto Preminger and "Sourire" has been bought by 20th-Fox. The editor, Juillard, sold over 350,000 copies of "Sourire" last year.

Winners of the Goncourt and Femina, "Les Eaux Melees" (The Mixed Waters) edited by Albin Michel, and Andre Dhotel's "Le Pays Ou N'On Arrive Jamais" (The Country Where No One Never Arrives), respectively each had about 200,000 in sales. Renaudot kudos gave Georges Govy's "The Moissoneur D'Epines" (The Gatherer of Thorns) a neat 100,000 circulation. Publisher is La Table Ronde. Also in for 100,000 was Flammarion's edition of Roger Peyrefitte's "Jeunes Proies" (Young Prey).

Over 60,000 was drawn by General De Gaulle with his "Memoires" and by Henri Troyot for "La Grive," both published by Plon. In the 50,000 category came Albert Camus' philosophical tome, "La Chute," edited by Gallimard, and Jean Reverzy's "La Place Des Angoisses" of Juillard. Jules Romain's "Fils De Jerphanion," of Flammarion, was also in this bracket.

At 40,000 was Blaise Cendrar's "Emmene Moi Au Bout Du Monde" of Denoel; 30,000 was the figure for Editions De Seuil's rendition of Pere Thielard's "Le Phenomene Humaine" and Pauvert's "Histoire D'O."

Among the 15 new writers who got some critical notice, there were only 30,000 copies of their books sold in all, but pub eyes are on them for next time. Among them are Kated Yacine with "Nedjma"; "Etienne Lalou with "L'Escapade"; France Arudy with "Le Pain Et L'Eau" (Bread and Water); Pierre Klodowski's "Le Bain De Diane"; Paulette Houdoyer's "L'Oiseau De Pluie," and Alexandroff's "Les Apatraides."

In all, it has been a good season and foreign and show biz sales have also been brisk to give coin to writers and pubs alike.

Boston Post's SEC Confab

In an attempt to get the faltering Boston Post back on its feet, three members of the Federal Securities & Exchange Commission met Saturday (11) with John Fox, publisher of the financially troubled newspaper.

SEC approval would be necessary if notes are to be issued in an effort to raise money for continued operation of the 125-year-old paper. Leaders of three newspaper unions were at the session briefly at Fox's request.

The deadline of 6 p.m. tomorrow (Wed.) was reaffirmed by union officials in their 10-minute meeting with Fox and the SEC. Fox must get up $186,000 in back pay for employes by the deadline or union members will not work.

Representing Post employes at the session were C. Stanley Whyte, president of the Boston Typographical Union; Edward J. Mylett, president of the Pressmen; and Israel Learner, head of Teamsters Local 259.

Barney Ross' Autobiog

Barney Ross, onetime boxer who conquered the narcotics habit, has been inked by J. B. Lippincott to write his autobiog for 1957 publication. Tentative title for the tome is "God Was In My Corner." Screen rights have already been acquired by indie producer Edward Small.

Co-author of the work will be Martin Abramson, mag writer and longtime friend of Ross. Ross now handles record promotions for Eddie Fisher and is currently on the Coast with the singer and the latter's manager, Milton Blackstone.

Another "fighter-to-films" tome, incidentally, was the Rocky Graziano story, "Somebody Up There Likes Me." Written by Rowland Barber, it was subsequently leased as a Metro picture.

CHATTER

Bernice Kavinsky sold her novel, "Honey From a Dark Hive," to Charles Vidor for indie film production.

Roger Thames, Birmingham News radio-tv editor, syndicating a column on country music to papers in south.

Virginia McDavid resigned her society column writing job with the Birmingham News to get ready for her marriage to tv producer Mark Goodson.

Gene Wortsman, former political writer for the Birmingham Post-Herald, appointed Washington correspondent for the Post-Herald and Denver Rocky Mountain News.

Apropos VARIETY's story last week, "Everybody A Circus Expert," the sports editor of Our Sunday Visitor, Catholic sheet, devoted his entire space last issue to passing of the tented Ringling show.

McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. Inc. has increased its capital stock from 1,200,000 shares at $5 par value to 3,600,000 shares at $3 par value, according to a certificate filed with the Secretary of State at Albany by White & Case, N. Y. C.

Frank Clarvoe, former editor-in-chief of the Frisco News, Coast editorial rep of Scripps-Howard and now associate editor of the Santa Barbara Press, has a novel, "The Wonderful Way," appearing early in September via Henry Holt. Story of a minister.

Random House, which is not due to publish "Bon Voyage," by the husband-wife writing team of Joseph ("Desperate Hours") Hayes and Marrijane Hayes, until spring '57, states that there is "embarrassment to the Hayeses' agents" because "the N. Y. offices of several motion-picture companies have somehow gotten their hands on copies of the mss."

"The Doctor's Secret"
By D. L. Dern
All Book Shops — $2.50
Pageant Press, 130 W. 42 St., N. Y.

SCULLY'S SCRAPBOOK

By Frank Scully

Desert Springs, Aug. 14.

To observers from Venus where I am spending part of my vacation, Operation Alert needs to be recut and perhaps some added scenes before it will rate the success its producers claim it is. The press-agents plugged it fore and aft as if it were another "Marty," which in solar circles is thought to deal with Martians.

The trouble was, in the L.A. area at least, that while 450,000 persons were being mock-bombed to oblivion. Carol Morris, 20, of Oblivion, Ia., 36-25-36, was being crowned as Miss Universe in a jampacked Long Beach municipal auditorium while Miss Israel objected to being photographed next to Miss Germany, and Al Teitelbaum, despite good notices from Joan Crawford, Dore Schary and Joan Caulfield, was being convicted of stealing nearly a quarter of a million of his own furs.

How could people be expected to keep their minds on their own possible liquidation with juicy distractions like these? Not the measurements of the bombs but Miss Germany's was what most people wanted to know. (She measured 40-21-36, but for once mere bigness didn't win in California.)

Only a handful were interested in survival. CBS told us they would be off the air from 1:15 to 1:30 and for us to tune in on 640 or 1240. The Conelrad radio warning system would be coming on on these wavelengths so that enemy bombers could not use the standard stations to guide them to vital targets. We were not told where the control center was (in Southern Cal it was at the William S. Hart high-school, Newhall) and we were further told to keep off the telephones.

Around Desert Springs that's easy. We have one phone and seven parties are on it. Rancho Pancho is blessed with no phone, no doorbells, no door-to-door peddlers. We could get a phone in for $125, but when I offered a $50 bonus to keep it out, they got the idea that being eighth on a party line didn't seem to me worth as much as a Swiss yodel.

Nine Minutes Of Awful Silence

Then a voice that sounded like Pat Bishop or Frank Goss (news commentators of NBC and CBS who sound alike) began test-toning from a secret station which sounded like Powerwrath but probably was Conelrad. The testimony went on for nine minutes and made one wish for the good old days, 10 minutes before, when Alka-Seltzer signed off with an aspirin opera dealing with two young things misunderstanding each other up to the very moment 450,000 persons were presumably killed and 375,000 burned to what Jimmy Durante in a lighter era used to call "a crips."

The commentator explained that Operation Alert was a survival plan against hydrogen bombs and it would be too late to start rehearsing when the sirens started wailing. "I have a little advice for you," he continued.

What it was we will never know because the radio went dead and a frantic switching between 640 and 1240 brought nothing but a dull hum, which is the dullest advice I ever got. My imagination began to run riot. Suppose some friendly pilot crazed by all this simulation loaded a real hydrogen bomb and let Long Beach and the beauties of 29 friendly countries have it right between their trophies. Suppose the jury bent on clinking Al Teitelbaum got blown to areas where furbearing animals are a ruble a pelt. Suppose the radioactive dust met a batch coming from Bikini and obliterated everything between Long Beach, Calif., and Long Beach, N.Y.

By the time these day-mares were resolved the 15 minutes were over, 10,000 Federal employees in Washington, D.C., had emerged from their bomb shelters, reporters 100 miles away had filed their copy that Conelrad was a success beyond the dreams of the Federal CDA and target time was over. Millions had been "killed" by the simultaneous attack on a bunch of major cities with bombs 250 more powerful than those which made a mess of Hiroshima. The L.A. Times building had been leveled, but by a miracle it was out with a 52-page paper the next morning advertising "factory fresh" cars at cut rates and even "reconditioned cigars," whatever they are. (Probably made from the butts of Jack Benny's el ropo segundos.)

Nobody Home For Bombing

Dick Sinclair of KFI after first assuring us the test was a success began dialing listeners to find out how they survived. The first dame said she was tuned to 940 (which supposedly wasn't in the line of communications at all) and all she got was a request to write to Sacramento and report how good or bad the reception was. Sinclair turned to some music of "Oklahoma!" while trying some other numbers to add to his snap tally. The second one hadn't even listened. A third said he got bad reception on 640 (NBC's wavelength) but better on 1240. He might write a card to Sacramento if goaded hard enough. He said he was not only tired but retired. He lived over near Forest Lawn Cemetery.

The next check was on cars. CDA was trying to find out how much gas cars were carrying, it being explained that around L.A. at least any car without a full tank of gas could block thousands of cars trying to get through the passes. About 24 p.c. of those checked at Holywood and Vine had enough gas to get them to my ranch. God forbid, 29 p.c. had half a tank and 8 p.c. had virtually none. These may have been traveling on atom power, for they were still rolling when flagged down.

Dick Sinclair kept telephoning people and reported he guessed everybody had gone to the beaches because of 20 calls he could find nobody home. As they had been warned to stay off the phone, it is equally possible they wouldn't answer it for love or money. Still, his guess may have been right as it was hot in town and lovely at the beaches.

By the next day the theoretical dead had climbed to 696,000. This of course was only for the area of L.A., one of the 75 cities singled out for the nuclear attack. The number of injured had climbed to 713,000. How the statisticians arrive at such boxcar figures was estimated by the fact that supposedly two H-bombs and one A-bomb were dropped. The biggest, equal to 5,000,000 tons of TNT, was dropped in San Pedro Bay, the harbor of L.A. This it was figured would suck up millions of tons of water and pour it as radioactive rain over all Southern Cal. Unless you were a college football player and your hands were under the table for the weekly greasing, you'd be sure to be burned in such a deluge.

Less Horsin' With Orson

In many respects the drill was as exciting as when Orson Welles released those Martians over the New Jersey marshes. Particularly was this true when nothing came through. Dead air has conditioned people into thinking its favorite radio station has gone out to attend a wake and under the circumstances standing by for instructions which never came, lent a certain excitement to those of us who were well out of the range of bombing, whether the thing was a mock-bombing or for real.

It drove one guy to filing a permit to build a bomb shelter and this sort of activity may be expected to increase across the country. It may even extend to towns like Topeka, Kan., where tornadoes are not unknown but where at present our military are housed in boxes costing $125 a month with one bath and no cyclone cellar.

My findings indicate that anybody spared a burning around L.A. had better put a match to the gasoline in his car and start walking toward the Mojave Desert equipped with a survival kit and a water bag. I'll meet him at Rancho Pancho, the Scully summer residence, with some Scotch for his water.

Broadway

Vet Songsmith Edgar Leslie in hospital for a checkup.

Sterling Lord International Inc. chartered to conduct a literary and theatrical agency in New York.

Major Albert Warner and Mrs. Warner in Saratoga for the racing. They are annual visitors to the Spa.

Vet songsmith Henry I. Marshall ("Be My Little Bumblee Bee"), 73, in St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, as result of a cerebral spasm.

Robert Baral in Ft. Wayne, hometown, recuperating from surgery. After nurses saw him reading VARIETY they figured him for a celeb and service improved.

Martin Shapiro, son of Robert K. Shapiro, managing director of Paramount Theatre, serving as assistant stage manager at St. John Terrell's Musical Tent, Haddonfield, N.J.

Zany Joe E. Lewis wires from Las Vegas, where he's, per usual, at Beldon Katleman's El Rancho Vegas: "Just finished your Golden Jubilee Issue. Congratulations from me too."

Bob Christenberry, Ambassador Hotels exec; World-Telly columnist Frank Farrell, Ray Heatherton and Peter Donald among those participating in the Times Square ceremonies opening an intensive Marine Corps recruiting drive. All are ex-marines.

Paris

By Gene Moskowitz
(28 Rue Huchette; Odeon 4944)

Joan Fontaine in to visit with sister Olivia De Havilland.

Sol Hurok and wife off to Deauville for rest and the waters.

"Mutiny on Bounty" (M-G) going into firstrun reissue here on wide-screen.

Pier Angeli through on way to Riviera to star in "The Vintage" opposite Mel Ferrer and Michele Morgan.

Olympia closed down for facelift and opens Aug. 23 with its new season with vaude show topped by Lena Horne.

Mervyn Le Roy in after a special showing of his "Bad Seed" (WB) in Monte Carlo to Prince and Princess Rainier.

Tony Martin, now shooting a pic in London, over for a weekend to visit with Billy Wilder. He is accompanied by wife Cyd Charisse.

Marc-Gilbert Sauvajon adapting two Anglo plays for production here next season. They are a Guy Bolton piece and Peter Ustinov's "Romanoff and Juliet."

Two new femme shows opening to catch tourists looking for bare facts here. They are "Frivolities Amoureuses" at the Comedie Caumartin and "Strip Champagne" at the Theatre En Rond. Both have the usual risque sketches, vaude numbers and strippo bits, and are average in the summer sweepstakes.

Madrid

By Ramsay Ames
(Castellana Hilton; 37-22-00)

The 1956 "Holiday On Ice" show opened for nine days at Madrid's bullfight plaza, the Monumental.

Darryl F. Zanuck in to look over his "Sun Also Rises." Crew started doing exterior scenes recently in Pamplona.

Lola Flores opens with her folklore company at the Theatre Champs-Elysees, Paris, in October at the finish of a Latin-American tour.

Saturday Evening Post's John Reese here to profile Sophia Loren. She plans to stay on in Madrid after she winds up her starring chore in "Pride and the Passion."

Mischa Elman, the Marques de Cuevas Ballet, ditto of Pilar Lopez, Hilde Guden, and Freidrich Gulda will perform for Sevilla's third international festival (Sept. 21-Oct. 7).

Flamenco singer Manolo Caracol (who discovered Lola Flores) and his new protege, Luisa Ortega, joining the company of Pilar Lopez for her presentation at the Teatro Calderon in September.

Felix, charge d'affaires of the Restaurante Valentin, has opened a new spot in the Retiro. It is called Florida Park, and features cool out-of-doors comfort, luxurious food, and dancing to the mambos of Lorenzo Gonzalez.

Actress Conchita Montes continuing her presentations of Edgar Nevilles "El Baile" (The Dance) for a second, and possibly a third, month at London's Fortune Theatre. In September, actress and writer-producer Neville, who is working now on a new translation of "Dance," will take their opus to the U.S.A.

Local No. 1 glamor girl Carmen Sevilla on her way to becoming an international favorite. When she winds up her current "Desert Lovers," opposite Ricardo Montalban in Italy, she comes back to her native Spain to do "Adventure for Two" opposite Richard Kiley for Paramount, and then "Pan, Amor, y Manzanilla" (Bread, Love, and Wine) with Vittorio DeSicca.

Alberto Closas voted this year's best actor at the San Sebastian Film Fest. Best picture was "Todos Somos Necesarios" (We Are All Needed); best director, Jose Antonio Nieves Conde, for the same film; and best writer, Gonzalez Aller, for script of the same. Award for the best color went to Italy's "Un Po Di Cielo" (A Bit of Sky).

Cleveland

By Glenn C. Pullen

Erroll Garner on return Cotton Club visit.

Musicarnival's "Merry Widow," headed by Beverly Sills, doing the biggest biz of season sofar for tent theatres.

Hollywoodites making quick personals here range from Richard Widmark, plugging "Run for the Sun," to Rhonda Fleming, in last week to drum up "Queen of Babylon."

Eve Roberts, singer who moved to New York recently, to double between Kornman's Back Room and lead role in "Tea and Sympathy" for Chagrin Falls stock company during visit.

Charles Wick, former Clevelander, here for chat with Frances Langford and Ralph Evinrude, one of his reported backers in new West Coast film production deal. Promotion deal on Miss Langford's new disk and husband's big yacht grabbed boffo space.

Berlin

By Hans Hoehn
(76 02 64)

Lotar Olias will write the musical score for the French film "Bonjour Paris—Bonjour l'Amour."

The German-Dutch coproduction, "Ciske—The Rat," sold to several East European countries, including the Soviet Union and Poland.

The local Steward Theatre, a U. S. soldier cinema, will be among the first 16m theatres in Europe to receive CinemaScope.

"Solistin Anna Alt," German film made shortly before the end of the war, was shown via a special performance at Filmbuehne Wien. Anneliese Uhlig, star of this film, attended the show.

The U. S. Army is currently sponsoring a jazz contest in Europe. All Army enlisted personnel now on active duty in Europe are eligible to participate as solo performers or in a group act.

Walter Koppel, head of Real-Film (Hamburg), awarded with the Grand Cross of the Order of Merit, the highest distinction in the Federal Republic of W-Germany. It's the first time that it was given to a film producer.

Riviera

By Ed Quinn

Cy Howard relaxing at the Hotel Carlton, Cannes.

Jack Buchanan holidaying at the Beach Hotel, Monte Carlo.

Greta Garbo in to "The Rock" her Riviera hideout at Cap d'Ail near Monte Carlo.

Charles K. Feldman popping up at Monte Carlo, Antibes and Cannes on Riviera vacation.

Joan Fontaine guest of Prince Ali Khan at his Chateau de l'Horizon at Golfe-Juan, near Cannes.

John Taras, ex-choreographer for Marquis de Cuevas, now planning dances for the Monte Carlo Dancing Stars at the Sporting Club, Monte Carlo.

Gloria Swanson commuting between Eze near Beaulieu and Rome. Actress is now scribing a gossip column.

Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer vacationing at Cap d'Antibes. She then goes into "Ariane," Billy Wilder directing.

Gary Cooper came back to the Cap d'Antibes Hotel for long stay with much swimming and sunbathing at Eden Roc.

Otto Preminger looked in for a few days at Cap d'Antibes before leaving for London to set production of "Joan of Arc."

The "Monte Carlo Story" production with Marlene Dietrich and Vittorio de Sica finished work here but complained of heavy location expenses.

Eddie Constantine and daughter Tania finished location work on "L'Homme et l'Enfant" (title of a big Constantine disk hit, "The Bluebird").

Mervyn LeRoy, Dick Powell, Edgar Bergen and Georgia Gibbs contributed to Monte Carlo Red Cross Gala in presence of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace Patricia of Monaco.

London

Eartha Kitt starred in commercial tv's film, "24 Hours in London."

Cyd Charisse and son returned to Hollywood leaving Tony Martin behind to continue filming.

Pamela Browne took over the Peggy Ashcroft role in "The Chalk Garden" at the Haymarket.

Mervyn LeRoy called in during a European visit he's been on in connection with "The Bad Seed."

Esther Williams, currently appearing in her own aqua spectacle, tossed a party to celebrate her 33d birthday.

Eric Maschwitz bought the rights to Nevil Shute's novel, "Beyond the Black Stump," which he's to turn into a tuner.

Eric Porter succeeds to the late Frederick Valk's role in Peter Ustinov's "Romanoff and Juliet" at the Piccadilly.

The Lord Chamberlain banned "The Lonesome Road," latest play by Philip King, author of current longrun "Sailor Beware."

Rita Hayworth, back from the Riviera where she's been visiting her daughters, continues work on her latest pic, "Fire Down Below."

Illness of composer Benjamin Britten postponed preem of his ballet, "Prince of the Pagodas," originally set for Covent Garden next month.

Hugh Hastings, screen writer and author of "Seagulls Over Sorrento," planing to Hollywood for confabs with Al Manuel, his rep in the U.S.

"Summer Song," British musical based on an incident in the life of Dvorak, being set for a country-wide tour under John Buckley's sponsorship.

Leo Jaffe, veepee of Columbia Pictures, planed in for confabs with Mike Frankovich, Columbia's UK topper and heads of indie production enterprises.

Alicia Markova will guest at a ballet gala in the Festival Hall Sept. 7, as part of the sixth anni celebrations of founding of London's Festival Ballet.

Joan Crawford here to take up her role in the Remus production of "The Story of Esther Costello," which will be distributed worldwide through Columbia.

Edith Evans, who suffered a relapse shortly before leaving hospital, is to take a short vacation before returning to the cast of "The Chalk Garden" at Haymarket Theatre.

Executive producer Maxwell Setton has signed Ella Raines, U.S. legit and tv actress, to star opposite John Mills and Charles Coburn in his production, "Town on Trial," for Columbia.

Peter Daubeny, in association with Leon Hepner, brought Les Ballets Africains back to Palace for a threeweek run, after which they will present the Berliner Ensemble from East Berlin.

First tv presentation of a Frederick Lonsdale play will be beamed by Associated Rediffusion in September with the production of Rodney Ackland's adaptation of "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," starring Margaret Lockwood.

BBC-TV to cover the preem of "King and I" at the Carlton on Sept. 11. Celebs will be interviewed for tv's "Picture Parade," making it the first live event of this kind ever covered by BBC-TV. Derek Bond, "Picture Parade" actor-interviewer, engaged by 20th to introduce the guests.

Frankfurt

By Hazel Guild
(24 Rheinstrasse; 776751)

Columbia has announced seven German films on its new fall schedule in Germany.

Astrid Varnay in Mainz to sing the lead in Beethoven's "Fidelio" at Mainz Gutenbarg Festival.

Russia has bought three more Austrian films—"Mozart," "Vienna Dances" and "Symphony in Gold."

Finland's controversial hit film, "The Unknown Soldier," to be released in Germany through Pallas Films.

Sylvia Bossert is first German nightclub singer and actress to be signed to a long-term contract by Bavarian Films.

Caterina Valente now filming "Du Bist Musik" (You Are Music), a CCC-Gloria color film, under direction of Paul Martin.

Tennessee Williams' "The Rose Tattoo" to open Oct. 15 at the City Stage in Essen. Inge Meysel and Karl John play the leads.

Frances Bergen playing her first film role with June Allyson and Rossano Brazzi in Universal's "Interlude," filming now in Bavaria.

"The Forgotten," an original radio drama by Peter Adler, about the life of German Jews in Paris, to be aired on the German radio net Aug. 22.

First jazz concert in the Soviet Zone now being held in Dresden. The Dresden Dance Symphony under direction of Guenther Hoerig is the headliner at current series of concerts.

"Liebe Sommer und Musik" (Love, Summer and Music), now in work as a German-Austrian coproduction in Salzburg, stars the twins Isa and Jutta Guenther and Joe Stoeckel.

Jerry Sims here photographing newsreels for Walt Disney Mickey Mouse show on ABC-TV, showing happenings with American kids in Europe, including the Kinderlift, American Air Force airlift of German children from West Berlin to holiday in free West Germany.

Hollywood director Robert Siodmak, currently filming "Mein Vater der Schauspieler" (My Father, the Actor) starring O. W. Fischer in Berlin-Spandau, is set for next United Artists co-production between American-Italy and France based on Thomas Mann's novel "Confession of Felix Krull."

"Interlude," Universal production filming at Bavaria Studios and starring June Allyson and Rossano Brazzi, wound up on schedule last week, with only one day delay in shooting due to rain in Salzburg when filming there. Miss Allyson and husband Dick Powell are off to Rome to holiday with Brazzi and his wife.

Scotland

By Gordon Irving
(Glasgow: Kelvin 1590)

Edinburgh Festival Tattoo being tel[illegible] Aug. 25.

C[illegible]ie Chester vaude unit to Capitol cinema at Aberdeen.

Stanley Baxter waxing radio comedy series prior to September-October concert tour of Canada.

John Cairney, Scot actor, to South of France for location lensing of Powell-Pressburger film, "Ill Met by Moonlight."

Toni McGettigan, 20-year-old Scot actress, won minor role in new musical "Let's Be Happy," currently before cameras at Elstree.

Jimmy Logan, Scot comedian, took over emcee role in "Sunday Night at Blackpool" on indie tv. Regular compere Tommy Trinder held up by bad weather in London.

Christopher Plummer set for title role in Stratford (Ont.) Festival Company's production of "Henry V" at Edinburgh Festival. Douglas Campbell playing Pistol and also title role of "Oedipus Rex."

Munich

By Karin Thimm
(Saebenerstr. 54)

German star Liselotte Pulver got a contract for a French film.

"The Harder They Fall," with Humphrey Bogart, new and big here.

Bruno Walter, who has not conducted in Munich for 34 years, will baton concert here.

Italian actor Marcello Mastroianni and French starlet Isabelle Corey got the main parts in the German-Bavaria film, "Maedchen und Maenner" (Girls and Men), which is being shot in Yugoslavia.

Old Cuvillies Theatre will be renewed, since this doesn't cost so much as the rebuilding the big National Theatre would. Most of the famed Cuvillies interior decorations were saved after the old playhouse was bombed.

Prominent Indian film experts visited the Bavaria studios and talked about India-German film exchange. They were Jagat Murari, head of the film department in the Indian government; producer Ajit Bose and director Satyn Mitra. Yugoslavian film director Fedor Hanzekovic also visited Bavaria.

San Francisco

Richard Jackson Cumming, composer who lives here, has been elected to ASCAP.

Dick Einfeld set deal here last week to open his "Mohawk" at Irving C. Ackerman's 400-seat Regal on Market Street, Frisco's main stem, tomorrow (15). It's first time film's ever opened at the subsequent-run Regal, reflects jamup of big, holdover pictures in Frisco during height of convention season.

Westport, Conn.

By Humphrey Doulens

Dick Haymes at Stonehenge.

Victor Gilbert opened his new roofdeck at Stonehenge.

Joseph Verner Reed back from o.o.ing Central City and Stratford (Ont.) festivals.

John Tyers joined his wife Helena Bliss at Jones Beach where she is in "Show Boat."

Barron Polan back from Coast and at his Redding farm, now setting Doretta Morrow's new nightclub routine.

Hollywood

Joan Fontaine and John Payne planed in from Europe.

Roy Rogers to Akron as guest of annual Soapbox Derby.

Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone back from England.

Roger Corman to Honolulu to produce and direct "Shark Reef."

Sydney Boehm back into 20th-Fox after three months in Europe.

Jack L. Warner, on his annual vacation, planed for Nice via Polar flight.

Actor Larry Barton joined the Jack Donaldson agency as an associate.

James Stewart heading for an aerial tour of country to plug "Spirit of St. Louis."

American Cinema Editors will hold its first ACE Achievement Award presentation in September.

Irving Greenwald joined the Ben Yost agency as veepee in charge of developing new talent.

Boston

By Guy Livingston

Arthur Blake current at Bradford Roof.

Helen Halpin opened Sunday (12) for week at the Frolic, Revere.

Sylvia Sidney opened at Lee Falk's Boston Summer Theatre in "Anniversary Waltz" Monday (13) for week.

Siobhan McKenna opens in a revival of "Saint Joan," final production of Cambridge Drama Festival, at Sanders Theatre, Harvard, Wednesday (15).

Brandeis U, Waltham, established an annual Creative Arts Awards in theatre, with two awards—a medal for achievement and $1,500 cash prize.

Boston Symphony Orch got the official city sendoff Monday (13) in the Mayor's office before the 80 members planed to Ireland for tour through British Isles, Europe, including Russia for first time.

Chicago

Richard Widmark in last week advancing his "Run for Sun" pic.

Bob Weiner, ex-Columbia Pix pressagent, signed on with the Kuttner & Kuttner ad agency.

Pressagent Victor (Rasputin) Weinshenker underwent surgery last week at Illinois Masonic hospital.

Holiday mag editor Ted Patrick day-and-dated here with the mag's issue saluting the Windy City and Illinois.

Jerry Field, ex-Universal Pictures flack, opened his own public relations shop with Dan Belloc's orch the initial account.

Balaban & Katz prez John Balaban and veep Dave Wallerstein flew to Houston for a gander at Thrillarama film process.

Minneapolis

By Les Rees

Local Fox Quartet into Hotel Radisson Flame Room.

Minneapolis Civic Opera Co. presented "Down in Valley."

Recording vocalist Russ Miller here for radio stations' personal appearance.

Hildegarde set for another Hotel Radisson Flame Room September engagement.

John Stafford Jr. emcee for otherwise "All Girl Revue" at Persian Palms nitery.

Mrs. Don Stolz, wife of Old Log strawhatter's managing director, profiled in Minneapolis Star.

Ralph Flanagan, Ralph Marterie and Glenn Miller orchestras played Prom Ballroom one-nighters.

Jan Pearce soloist with Minneapolis Symphony for third of its series of five "under the stars" concerts at new baseball stadium here.

Northwest Variety club postponing from Sept. 7-8 to next spring scheduled "world's biggest" bingo party to raise funds for its heart hospital.

Portland, Ore.

By Ray Feves

"South Pacific" continues to play SRO at Portland Civic Theatre for 10th week.

Helene Hughes inked to produce the stageshow at Oregon State Fair for 10 days opening Labor Day.

"Inherit The Wind," starring Melvyn Douglas, signed for the Auditorium first week in September.

Joe Baris and Winged Victory Chorus, The Ryan Sisters and the Sparkletts held for second week at Amato's Supper Club.

20th-Fox star Felicia Farr set to make personals here Aug. 28. Evergreen Oregon District Manager Oscar Nyberg is setting stiff schedule for date, since "Last Wagon" has a 187-playing-dates saturation program in Portland-Seattle, Denver-Salt Lake area.

OBITUARIES

JOHN T. LATOUCHE

John Treville Latouche, 38, noted lyricist whose production credits mirrored the Broadway scene since the depression era, died of a heart attack Aug. 7 at his summer home in Calais, Vt. He arrived there only 10 days previously after revising the folk opera, "The Ballad of Baby Doe," which had its first performance July 7 at the Central City, Colo., Opera House.

Latouche, who had a unique style and flair for the original, also wrote the lyrics for such works as "Cabin in the Sky," "Banjo Eyes," "The Golden Apple," "Beggars Holiday" and "Ballet Ballads." "Apple," on which he collaborated with composer Jerome Moross, won laurels as the best musical of the 1953-'54 season in an award bestowed by the N.Y. Drama Critics Circle.

But perhaps best known of Latouche's numbers is "Ballad for Americans," a cantata which the lyricist himself once described as a "pamphlet for democracy." At the time of his death he was turning out the lyrics for a musical version of Voltaire's "Candide" slated for a Broadway unveiling in the fall.

In Memory of My Dear Pal
BILLY MURRAY
August 17, 1954
J. V. MARTINDALE

A native of Richmond, Va., he won a scholarship to Columbia U. where he wrote the book and lyrics for the school's varsity show. Success of the collegiate venture led him to a Broadway career. Among his earlier credits were sketches and lyrics he authored for the memorable revue, "Pins and Needles." In addition he wrote a book, "Deep in the Belgian Congo," which was based upon his experiences as a member of an expedition there.

Surviving are his mother and a brother. He was the husband of the late Theodora Griffis, daughter of Stanton Griffis, former U.S. envoy to Spain and chairman of Paramount Pictures' executive committee.

LEETA CORDER

Leeta Corder, 66, who appeared in opera and legit musicals, died of cancer Aug. 10 in New York. She was seen as a featured player in "Blossom Time," "The Last Waltz," and with Willie & Eugene Howard in "The Passing Show."

Miss Corder started about 1918 with Roxy at the Rialto and Rivoli Theatres, N.Y. A coloratura soprano, she was later signed by the Shuberts. She was one of the early singers on Edison records. Her operatic career was cut short by World War I. She was pacted by the Chicago Civic Opera, but outbreak of the war eliminated the season. She toured as a concert singer instead. She worked on the Keith circuit with her own act and with Jack MacGowan, who later authored "Excess Baggage." She was also in films and radio.

Survived by her husband, John F. Murray, who worked for a while on theatrical trade papers, including VARIETY and also as a press-agent.

WILLIAM LOOS

William (Billy) Loos, 70, of the Loos Bros. vaudeville harmony team, died Aug. 7 in Chicago. The Loos Bros. were "spotlight singers" during the heyday of the nickelodeon and helped plug such old hits as "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," "Moonlight Bay" and others. Their vaude career spanned 35 years and they pioneered in radio. Loos died in a Chicago forest preserve, where he was foreman in recent years. Ernie, the other brother in the team, died in 1945.

His wife, two daughters, and a sister survive.

IRWIN ESMOND

Irwin Esmond, 81, director of the motion picture division of the N.Y. State Education department from 1932 to 1945, died Aug. 6 in Albany. He served as chief film censor for the state until 1945 when he reached the statutory retirement age.

A graduate of Cornell U. law school, Esmond joined the Education dept. in 1915. He headed the motion picture division when the controversial "Birth of a Baby" case arose.

Surviving are a son and daughter.

JAY B. SMITH

Jay B. Smith, 56, magician and onetime theatre manager, died of a heart ailment Aug. 9 in St. Louis. A native of Reading, Pa., he started his theatrical career as a youth when he joined an itinerant magic show.

Smith, who toured for a time with the Howard Thurston show, later managed a St. Louis theatre for the Skouras Bros. Although starting an undertaking business in 1922, he gave magic shows for charity from time to time.

His wife, two brothers and a sister survive.

ALICE JOHN

Alice John, 75, retired actress and one of the first members of Actors Equity, died Aug. 9 in Binghamton, N.Y. Her last Broadway role was in a revival of "Crime and Punishment" during the 1947-'48 season.

Born in Wales, Miss John made her stage debut in Chicago. She later toured with Minnie Maddern Fiske in such vehicles as "Vanity Fair" and "Salvation Nell." Among her other credits were "Berkeley Square" with Leslie Howard and "The Swan" with Eva Le Gallienne.

BLAKE SEWELL

Blake Sewell, 44, orchestra leader, and his 11-year-old daughter were killed in a six-car crash Aug. 5 near Montreal. For years he led the Ritz-Carlton Hotel orchestra in Montreal. Lately he had been a printing salesman for the Montreal Gazette, and had played at weekly dances in his home town of Mount Royal, north of Montreal.

His wife, another daughter (both in another car, which escaped), mother, brother and two sisters survive.

RUSSELL MORRISON

Russell Morrison, 72, actor-stage manager, died Aug. 12 in New York. He launched his career with E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe in Shakespearean repertory. He also appeared in the original 1922 U.S. production of Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author," and in the off-Broadway revival last December.

Recently, he had been preparing a book of reminiscences about Sothern, Marlowe and the Barrymores.

SCOTT HELT

Scott Helt, 49, patent administrator at the Allen B. DuMont Laboratories Inc., in Clifton, N.J., died Aug. 9 in New York after a brief illness.

A veteran in the radio-tv field for more than 32 years, he joined DuMont in 1944. Prior to that he served as an engineer in numerous radio stations throughout the south and mid-west.

Surviving are his wife, son, mother and brother.

MILTON LUBAN

Milton Luban, 46, novelist, publicist and former film reviewer for DAILY VARIETY, died Aug. 10 in Hollywood following a heart attack.

In addition to several novels, Luban screenplayed a number of pictures, including "Grand Canyon" and "Tough Assignment." He was a former researcher for Time mag in NY, and served as a paratrooper in World War II.

His wife and two daughters survive.

MARIE O'NEIL

Mrs. Marie O'Neil, aunt of Thomas F. O'Neil, prexy of General Teleradio and RKO Pictures, died in a fall from a N.Y. hotel window on Sunday (12). She was the wife of Cyril F. O'Neil, brother to W. O. O'Neil, boss of the General Tire empire, in which her husband was a veep and director.

Mrs. O'Neil was described by a company's spokesman as being in her mid-fifties.

WALTER S. STANFORD

Walter S. Stanford, actor and radio performer, died Aug. 6 in Lorain, O. In recent years he appeared with "King Jack's Show" on WXEL, Cleveland, and also was seen in summer stock at the Chardon and Chagrin Falls strawhatters, both in Ohio.

At the time of his death he was a motion picture projectionist in Lorain.

SAM WOOD

Sam Wood, 64, manager of studio maintenance on the Hal Roach lot, died Aug. 8 in Los Angeles following a heart attack. Before moving to the Roach studio he was associated with the old Metropolitan Studios, Paramount and 20th-Fox for more than 30 years.

Survivors include his wife and two sons.

THALIA ZANOU

Anita Lachmund, specialty dancer known professionally as Thalia Zanou, died Aug. 7 in New York after a long illness. Before World War I she trouped in vaude and appeared at the Radio City Music Hall, N.Y., among other showcases.

Surviving are her mother and a brother and a sister.

JULIA GABINET

Mrs. William J. Caschler, 39, violinist known professionally as Julia Gabinet, died July 29 in Philadelphia. A graduate of the Philadelphia Conservatory of Music, she was widely known in Philly variety circles here.

Her husband, son and daughter survive.

ALBERT VEES

Albert Vees, 71, for 50 years an actor and manager, died Aug. 4 in Philadelphia. He appeared in plays with Elsie Ferguson, Fay Bainter, Francine Larrimore, Judith Anderson and others. He managed and directed numerous stock companies.

Survived by two sons.

TOMMY MANN

Tommy Mann, 59, office manager of Columbia Pictures' London branch for seven years and in his 21st year with the company, died Aug. 5 in Surrey, Eng. Before joining Col, he was with Universal.

His wife, two sons and a daughter survive.

Jack Killifer, 58, film editor for 25 years, died Aug. 6 in Hollywood. His wife survives.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nassour, son, Hollywood, Aug. 5. Mother is former actress Sharon Douglas; father is a film producer.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Califano, daughter, Los Angeles, Aug. 5. Mother is actress Virginia Belmont; father is maitre de at the Mocambo.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Grainger, son, New York, last week. Child is grandson of disk jockey Martin Block.

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Ferrer, daughter, Santa Monica, Cal., Aug. 9. Mother is singer Rosemary Clooney; father is an actor.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harley, daughter, Chicago, Aug. 3. Father is a salesman at WBBM there.

Mr. and Mrs. Gil Nelson, daughter, New York, Aug. 6. Father is with General Artists Corp.

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Scott, son, New York, Aug. 8. Mother is the former Stella Claire, a dancer; father is currently appearing in the Broadway production of "Fanny."

Mr. and Mrs. Athan Karras, daughter, New York, July 31. Father is a singer, currently appearing on Broadway in "Most Happy Fella."

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Ayers, son, New York, July 28. Father is a singer, currently appearing on Broadway in "Most Happy Fella."

MARRIAGES

Margret McDonald to Dr. Raymond J. Rimmer, Fort Worth, Aug. 15. Bride is director of publicity-promotion for WBAP AM-FM-TV.

Lois Bannerman to John S. Senior Jr., Hempstead, L. I., Aug. 11. Bride is a concert harpist.

Jean Picker to Paul B. Firstenberg, New York, Aug. 9. Bride is daughter of Eugene Picker, veep of Loew's Theatres.

Ellen-Cobb Hill to Richard French, New York, Aug. 1. Bride is an actress; he's WRCA-TV unit-supervisor.

Jean Patterson Myers to Bruce R. Sullivan, Delmar, N.Y., Aug. 4. Bride is women's editor of Albany Times-Union and conductor of "Prudence Penny" show via WRGB-TV, Schenectady.

Adrienne Marden to Wendell Holmes, Hollywood, Aug. 12. Bride and groom are screen players.

Mary Williams to James Keeton, San Antonio, July 19. Bride is a cashier at the Majestic Theatre; he's treasurer at the State Theatre is that city.

Gloria Rand to William Shatney, Toronto, Aug. 11. Bride is a tv actress; he's an actor and tv playwright.

Gloria Jane Stroock to Leonard B. Stern, New York, August 12. Bride is an actress-daughter of James E. Stroock, president of the Brooks Costumes Co.; he's a tv writer for "The Phil Silvers Show."

Beatrice Ruth to Bob Williams, Cohasset, Mass., Aug. 10. Bride is singer-actress at South Shore Music Circus there; he's N.Y. Post scribe.

Presidential 'Theme' Songs

Continued from page 67

the Democratic nominee, Alton B. Parker, this writer doesn't know of it. But there were at least two campaign songs, both of which the late Billy Murray, who by then had become the most popular recording artist, sang for Columbia. The Republican entry was "We Want You, Teddy, for Four Years More"; the Democratic, "Goodbye, Teddy, You Must March, March, March." For the record, Murray in private life was a Republican.

'Tammany'

This was the period of "Tammany," written by Vincent Bryan and Gus Edwards when they were asked to entertain at a Tammany Hall celebration. It became the unofficial anthem of the N. Y. City Democratic organization and was widely recorded with topical references to "Big Bill" Devery, a police chief fired by Tammany, and other events and characters of bygone years that make the original lyric rather baffling to 1956 hearers. Bryan and Edwards also paid their respect and disrespect to the Republicans by writing "G. O. P.," a comic ditty that both praised and satirized their subject. The lyrics are as dated now as those of "Tammany."

There were few campaign songs in 1908, although Rosie Lloyd and Monroe H. Rosenfeld did come through with "B-I-Double L-Bill," in honor of the Republican nominee, William Howard Taft. But for the first time in political history, both major candidates—Taft and the Democratic nominee for the third time, Wm. Jennings Bryan . . . made a series of records outlining their policies. They spoke for both Victor and Edison (Victor set up special recording equipment at White Springs, Va., where Taft vacationed), and Edison announced the Bryan records were the biggest sellers they had ever issued. The people may have bought Bryan's records but they voted for Taft, who was easily elected. Perhaps in gratitude to Victor for courtesies at White Springs, Taft set up a "Victrola corner" in the White House. When Bryan became Secretary of State under Woodrow Wilson, Edison happily chortled that "Mr. Secretary" had just bought a New Edison Diamond Disk instrument.

T.R.'s Campaign Song

In 1912, Theodore Roosevelt tossed a crimp into Taft's re-election hopes by bolting the G. O. P. and running for president on the Progressive ticket. Roosevelt made several Victor and Edison records, and Taft and Wilson both recorded for Victor. So did Champ Clark, speaker of the House, who gave Wilson a tough fight for the Democratic nomination.

The big campaign song of 1912 was one that didn't directly mention politics. Called "The Missouri Houn' Dawg Song," its correct title was "They Gotta Quit Kickin' My Dawg Aroun'," and it was noisily sung by Clark's supporters, who felt that their man had been given unfair treatment through some of Bryan's convention maneuvers. The "Houn' Dawg" song has lasted well enough to receive occasional latterday recordings by hillbilly virtuosos.

Woodrow Wilson and his Republican opponent, Charles Evans Hughes, made no records in 1916, and this historian can't recall ever reading or hearing of any song boosting Hughes, who for all his brilliant intellectual qualities was regarded as something of a human iceberg. Wilson's "keep us out of war" stand was praised in such numbers as "We Take Our Hats Off to You, Mr. Wilson" and "I Think We've Got Another Washington And Wilson is His Name." There was also a votes-for-women plea, in serious contrast to the good many comic songs that had been written about the bomb-throwing, street fighting tactics of the suffragettes. It was called "She's Good Enough to be Your Baby's Mother," and it contained the cogent argument that if a woman was good enough "to be the mother of Woodrow Wilson, she's good enough to vote with you."

Speeches on Wax

Campaign songs were missing from the record companies' lists in 1920, but Columbia issued a Nation's Forum series of speeches by the leading politicians of the time.

The Democrats were represented by their presidential nominee, Ohio Governor James M. Cox; the vice presidential nominee, Franklin D. Roosevelt; William Gibbs McAdoo, A. Mitchell Palmer, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Bainbridge Colby, Homer S. Cummings and Senator Robert S. Owen.

Aside from various recordings of "The Sidewalks of New York," the 1924 campaign had probably only one recorded souvenir, "The Teapot Dome Blues," named for the oil lease scandals which the dissension-torn Democrats exploited without much effect as a campaign issue.

The 1928 campaign brought more action. A lot of folks in N. Y. City thought Al Smith was going to be elected president, even if few people in other sections did. Lew Brown and Al Von Tilzer hoped they had a campaign hit in "He's Our Al," but though a number of popular recording artists made platters of the ditty it wound up as a dog. Billy Jones & Ernie Hare sang several waxings of a "Gallagher and Shean" type number, "Mr. Hoover and Mr. Smith," in which, because of the lyrical structure, the successful Hoover invariably topped Smith's wisecracks. Amos 'n' Andy recorded a presidential campaign skit for Victor. They evidently had no illusions about who was going to win, because the platter ended with Al Smith walking into the White House—"Herbert Hoover had sent for him."

Depression Themes

In 1932, with the "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?" theme prevalent in depression-ridden pop music, the Democrats gave the nation a psychological lift with "Happy Days Are Here Again," originally issued as a routine pop song two or three years before. Otherwise there was little campaign music and apparently no recordings other than radio transcriptions of Hoover and Roosevelt speeches. Four years later there was still a dearth of musical enthusiasm, but the Republicans gleefully played on the air recordings of Roosevelt's 1932 promises and contrasted them with his performances. To no effect, since Roosevelt carried 46 states.

In 1940 it looked for much of the campaign as if the Republicans had a better than fair chance to keep FDR from getting a third term. There was a Willkie song called "Thank God We've Found the Man," and Willkie made a recorded address in which he appeared to be asking the suffrages of his fellow "Americans." Roosevelt didn't record, but there was a "Vote for Roosevelt" song—strictly run-of-the-mill stuff, like the one for Willkie.

Roosevelt's speech asking for a declaration of war was widely recorded off the air, and several years ago Victor issued an album of 12-inch 78rpm platters, containing the recorded voices of all the American presidents from the first Roosevelt to Truman. But since 1940, Berlin's "Ike" ditties have dominated.

There have been other Berlin items, for sundry military and patriotic causes, such as "Angels of Mercy" specially written for the American National Red Cross; "Arms For The Love of America" (American Ordnance Assn.), "Any Bonds Today" (Treasury's bond drive), "I Paid My Income Tax Today" (Treasury Dept.), "I Threw A Kiss In The Ocean" (Navy Relief Society), "President's Birthday Ball" (National Foundation For Infantile Paralysis), and of course the soldier show, "This Is The Army," was replete with songs such as "American Eagles," "The Army's Made A Man Out Of Me," "How About A Cheer for the Navy," "I Left My Heart at the Stage Door Canteen," "This Is The Army Mr. Jones" and "With My Head In The Clouds."

SUES CINERAMA

Widow of Blackton Charges Illegal Appropriation

Hollywood, Aug. 14.

The widow of the late J. Stuart Blackton, picture pioneer and founder of the old Vitagraph Co., has sued for unauthorized use of clips in a Cinerama production. Now Mrs. William P. S. Earle, widow asks $500,000 damages, an injunction and deletion of the footage.

Besides Cinerama those named include Stanley Warner, Lowell Thomas and Merian C. Cooper.

ROBERT CLARY

VARIETY

Hotel Pierre,
NEW YORK

Robert Clary takes full command of his surroundings. He's got a strong voice; he capers and uses the full amount of his floor space; he uses lots of physical humor and most important, his personality projects throughout the room . . . it builds to the point where it's a begoff.
Chan.

VARIETY

Hotel Radisson,
MINNEAPOLIS

Robert Clary makes his local bow brilliantly. There probably has never been a nitery performer here to display more sheer vocal gusto, bounce and vitality on the amusing side than this tiny ball-of-fire Frenchman whose reputation had preceded him, judging by the warmth of his reception and the near-capacity premises.

. . . Swift pacing and rare liveliness as he exploded in dynamite fashion with numbers sung and performed differently, and enhanced by rib-tickling gestures, grimaces, prancing and incidental business. Every number clicked.
Rees.

Exclusively
EPIC RECORDS

Engagements this past Season:

HOTEL PIERRE
New York

EL RANCHO VEGAS
Las Vegas

FONTAINEBLEAU
Miami

MOCAMBO
Los Angeles

BLACK ORCHID
Chicago

TOWN CASINO
Buffalo

CHEZ PAREE
Montreal

RADISSON HOTEL
Minneapolis

Television:

- MAX LIEBMAN SPECTACULARS (NBC-TV)
- ROSEMARY CLOONEY SHOW
- PANTOMIME QUIZ CBS-TV
  (Second Season)

Direction: WILLIAM MORRIS AGENCY

Personal Management: JERRY SINGER

FILMS | RADIO | VIDEO | MUSIC | STAGE

VARIETY

Published Weekly at 154 West 46th Street, New York 36, N. Y., by Variety, Inc. Annual subscription, $10. Single copies, 25 cents.
Entered as second-class matter December 22, 1905, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.
COPYRIGHT, 1956, BY VARIETY, INC., ALL RIGHTS RESERVED
Vol. 203 No. 12 NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 22, 1956 PRICE 25 CENTS

PIX PIONEERING—'56 STYLE

Showtune Writers Keeping Tight Grip On Scores Including Album Rights

Broadway showtune writers are keeping a tight grip on their properties. Latest wrinkle in the musicomedy cleffers' hold on their works is the retaining of complete control over original cast album rights rather than have the backers share in the disk album royalties.

There have been instances in the past where the cleffers shut out the backers from sharing in the disk album gravy but the usual procedure has been to give 'em a cut of the original cast set profits. A few years ago Rodgers & Hammerstein withheld the album rights for "The King and I" (cut by Decca) and last season Frank Loesser pulled a similar deal for "The Most Happy Fella" (cut by Columbia).

The pattern is being followed this coming musicomedy season by Johnny Mercer & Gene De Paul for their "Li'l Abner" score and Betty Comden-Adolph Green-Jule Styne for their "Bells Are Ringing" score. "Li'l Abner" has already been nabbed by Columbia while "Bells Are Ringing" is still up for grabs. It's reported, however, that Columbia has the inside track on "Bells."

The legituner cleffers are also keeping their hold on the scores via their own publishing setups. In the past such tunesmiths as Rodgers & Hammerstein and Cole Porter affiliated with Chappell

(Continued on page 14)

The Cool War

The Soviets are apparently turning the Iron Curtain into a swinging door.

RCA Victor's international division recently received a request from the Russian Ministry of Foreign Affairs for mambo and cha-cha-cha disks to be used among the Soviet youth clubs. Victor is supplying the platters.

'Naughtiest In World': Havana's Strange Theatre

Havana, Aug. 21.

Havana has the naughtiest theatre in the world. The Shanghai provides customers with a view of 1) risque plays, 2) completely naked women, and 3) pornographic films.

The Shanghai is located in Chinatown, just a few blocks from the ultra-modern buildings of Havana's main shopping area. At one time the Shanghai was a Chinese theatre, but 25 years ago it was converted into a burlesque house. Despite its name and location, there is nothing Chinese about it now.

There have been other burlesque houses in Havana, but poor business and reform efforts have wiped them all out, except the Shanghai. The Shanghai, by keeping publicity to a minimum, has managed to escape the attention of the law. (No cameras are permitted inside, except occasionally when a foreign newspaperman agrees not to take pictures of nudes.)

The Shanghai is an old theatre, and it shows its age. It is hot, uncomfortable and often smelly. It seats 750, and on a Saturday night is usually full. The audience is in-

(Continued on page 14)

'PAJAMA GAME' 1ST U.S. MUSICAL INTO HEBREW

Tel-Aviv, Aug. 21.

"Pajama Game" will have the distinction of being the first modern American musical comedy to be presented in Israel. George Val, director of Israel's only legit tuner operation, the Do-Re-Mi Theatre, has acquired the rights to the musical, which will be given a Hebrew translation by Uri Sela and Miriam Tamir-Sela.

Negotiations for the hit Broadway property were made by Illan Melody Press, Israeli music publishing firm, which will publish the

(Continued on page 18)

Beer Barons Bottling Up Travelin' Talent Who Don Their Best Duds for Suds

Life-of-the-party emcees and gang-song cheerleaders, along with other show biz appurtenances, have become stock-in-trade for Alfred Epstein's Pfeiffer beer, out of Detroit; Anheuser-Busch's Budweiser (St. Louis), and National Distillers. Two ex-showmen are the highly paid personal court jesters of these institutions. Phil Regan does his stuff for Budweiser and National, and Bob Hall, the "rhyming comedian," dittos for Pfeiffer.

Hall has been on the latter's payroll for 16 years on a year-round basis, going to lodges, fraternal organizations, wholesaler and dealer (package store) powwows, gagging it up for the boys. A subtle program line, "by courtesy of Pfeiffer Brewery" (or "Bud") is all that the brewer wants. He finds it pays good dividends.

Just as often the local whizbang wants the emeee to line up extra acts and make it a real show.

The other breweries are not permitting Budweiser and Pfeiffer to walk away with this sort of goodwilling. They have their concepts of extra frills for similar shindigs,

(Continued on page 53)

GOLDENSON TAKES NEW B.O. SLANT

By ABEL GREEN

Leonard H. Goldenson, as president of American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres Inc., is perhaps in the most advantageous show biz position as of now, to go the entire distance into television. But he is the last to "write off" the picture business.

What the young showman objects to is the "opportunistic so-called producers who have forgotten how to build a business, or at least continue perpetuating the one which the pioneers have so well built up. If needs be, it may be that the new virility in the picture business will be built on the bones of the pioneers, but there is plenty film boxoffice around if we know how to approach it."

Goldenson has been forthright and vocal in this thinking for some time, not only as head of the biggest theatre circuit in America (600 theatres) but because, while also having the ABC network as a healthy ally to his cream Paramount Theatre chain, he feels that

(Continued on page 16)

Presley's 100G Pic Bow for 20th

Elvis Presley, the rock 'n' roll kid, has r&r'd himself into $100,000 a picture, which is what 20th-Fox is paying him for his Hollywood debut in "The Reno Bros." Richard Egan will be the other outlaw frere—the Renos were the Coast counterparts of the James Boys, etc.—and Debra Paget is the femme lead.

Hal Wallis has next call on Presley, and then 20th has an option for two more. Wallis didn't have a vehicle ready but is now readying an original short story, "Call From Mitch Miller," which Herbert Baker is transforming into screenplay. The title refers to the Columbia Records a&r topper and obviously will be changed, if only to preserve intra-trade sensitivities, considering that Presley is an RCA Victor disker. (Title change to "Call From Manie Sacks"?). William Morris set the Presley deals with Buddy Adler at 20th and Wallis (Paramount).

Drive-Ins Get Stung

Minneapolis, Aug. 21.

This territory's drive-in theatreowners have what may be something new in the way of an alibi for dwindling grosses the past several weeks.

They're blaming an unprecedentedly large influx of mosquitoes for their boxoffice drop.

Kazan's 'Face' in Strong Bid to Spark N. Y. as Major Film Prod. Centre

New York's potential as a filmmaking centre meets its acid test with Elia Kazan's "A Face In the Crowd." Scheduled to begin interior filming at the Gold Medal Studios (formerly Biograph) in the Bronx on Aug. 28 after two weeks of location shooting in Piggett, Ark., the production, set for Warner Bros. release, will require a total of 61 indoor sets. It's claimed that a production of this size has not been attempted in Gotham during the modern period of filming in the east.

New York, in recent years, has been employed frequently as a production base by indies and, to a smaller extent, by the major film companies. However, the films made in Gotham can, at best, be described as "small" pictures and rarely did the set requirements go over a dozen units. Anything larger was automatically shifted to Hollywood.

Desire of Kazan to maintain his film production activities in the east has resulted in the effort to make a Hollywood-type picture in Gotham. The result of Kazan's bold experiment will be watched with considerable interest by the filmmaking fraternity, many of whom are also desirous of establishing eastern headquarters.

As his art directors and set designers Kazan has selected a team

(Continued on page 14)

A Memory of Doc Cook

Life mag's current feature on Dr. Frederick Cook's phoney "discovery" of the North Pole recalls that almost 50 years ago he received vaudeville bookings, including a date at the London Palladium.

The first squawk the London management heard from the hot newsworthy Dr. was that his dressingroom was too cold. VARIETY thought that funny enough to cable from London and box on P. 1.

College Prof's $500-$750 Wkly. Royalty on '64G'

Not generally known that a backwoods college professor, Dr. Peter G. Cranford, now residing in Atlanta, Ga., has been collecting $500 to $750 a week from the "$64,000 Question" as result of his original "double-or-nothing" radio idea which he first brought to adman Milton Biow before the video era. When Biow bought it he added the category theme and changed the "double-or-nothing" to "Take It or Leave It" (which got to be commonly known as "The $64 Question" show) and which made "right (write) with Eversharp" a national catchphrase for over 10 years and put such emcees as Bob Hawk, Phil Baker and Garry Moore to the fore.

When that property became a toprated radio show, Dr. Cranford's tithe was a $50 weekly royalty from Biow. When the show was scrapped but eventually refined into the "$64,000 Question" by Louis G. Cowan, Biow received a $1,500 royalty, of which Dr.

(Continued on page 18)

KEFAUVER TELEPIX SERIES PUT ON ICE

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Sen. Estes Kefauver's nomination has stymied negotiations of Nassour Bros. to narrate a projected documentary telefilm series "Crime Report." They have been dickering with him for two years on the deal where he'd okay material from the Senate Crime Committee investigation which he headed, and discuss each ease.

Now Edward and William Nassour are shelving plans until after the election. If Democrats lose, they'll renew the pitch.

Palace May Go Legit When Anna Magnani Does Williams' Play

The RKO Palace, longtime flagship of bigtime vaudeville and in recent years vaudfilm, may essay a legit flyer for two and one-half months some time in January or February, depending on Anna Magnani's availability to come to the U. S. for Tennessee Williams' new drama. The play's working title is "Orpheus Descending," but it probably will be retagged. Play is a rewrite of an earlier Williams drama, "The Battle of the Angels."

Williams, a close friend of the Italian star whose first U. S. picture, "Rose Tattoo" (Paramount), won her an Oscar as the top femme, has had "Orpheus" in mind for her for some time. As a matter of record, he had authored "Tattoo" as a vehicle for her, but she was then too much committed in her native Italy to do it here. The role was played on Broadway by Maureen Stapleton, but Miss Magnani eventually did it in the Hollywood film version of the yarn.

For the limited 10-11 weeks, which is all she can spare, the idea is to convert the 1,700-seat Palace on Broadway into a legit stand just for that special engagement. Williams and his agent, Audrey Wood, are slated to produce the play.

Why the Ringling Circus Closed: From the Horse's Mouth, J. R. North

By ABEL GREEN

In a phone interview from his Sarasota base, winter quarters of the Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey Circus, prexy John Ringling North detailed some of the plans he is making for the Big Top's future touring plans, exclusively as an indoor show. Per annual custom it kicks off at New York's Madison Square Garden, the 1957 date set as April 3. Miles White has already designed the costumes, Max Weldy is creating the decor, and North and newcomer Tony Velona have written the special songs. A longtime ASCAPer, North has written the circus' special scores annually for the past several years with the late E. Ray Goetz, Irving Caesar and others.

Umberto Bedini, longtime talent agent for the Ringlings, is "making the grand tour this year again for us," says North, "because it looks like this will be the second

(Continued on page 50)

COMO, CYD CHARISSE TO PREEM WW SHOW

Las Vegas, Aug. 21.

Perry Como and Cyd Charisse will topline the guest stars on Walter Winchell's opening NBC-TV show in October. Columnist, here for the Roberta Sherwood opening at the New Frontier, revealed Como would "preview" his own show on the Winchell segment, since he returns to the air the following night.

Winchell added that Metro, which had previously banned tv appearances of all its stars except for interviews, had specifically cleared Miss Charisse's stint. Winchell is emceeing Miss Sherwood's preem.

H'wood, Scribes to USSR For 'World' Bow in Nov.

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Show biz, leading the way to greater hands-across-the-Iron-Curtain cooperation, will give Moscow an unprecedented touch of American glamour in November when perhaps a dozen top film names will fly to the Russian capital to participate in festivities marking the opening of Mike Todd's "Around the World in 80 Days."

Arrangements have been set for approximately 40 "publisher-level" newspapermen to make the trek and take part in the planned gala.

Todd's plans for the Moscow preem and future co-production deals with the USSR were confirmed at a luncheon press conference today (Tues.) at the strictly capitalist Bevhills Hotel by Vladimir Surin, Russia's first Vice Minster of Culture, here to tie up details. Surin also confirmed all previously printed details of Todd's four-picture parlay in Russia.

L. Wolfe Gilbert's Salute By Friars on His 70th

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

The Friars will kudos L. Wolfe Gilbert with a testimonial banquet Sept. 17, on occasion of his 70th birthday and his golden anni as a contributor to the American musical scene.

George Jessel will chairman event. Slated to attend are Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor, George Burns, Jerry Lewis, Eddie Fisher, Danny Thomas and others.

N.Y. Herald Trib Policy: Staff Byliners on TV A Plus for the Paper

New York Herald Tribune, which has jumped its Sunday circulation by some 77,000 in the past year to 596,000 through the publication of its television supplement and in the face of a price rise to 25c, has decided on a definite policy of television appearances for its byliners. Editor Ogden R. (Brownie) Reid has passed the word on down to the staff: do as much tv as you like; it pays off for us as well as you.

While unable to pin down tangible circulation results on the television impact of some of its columnists like Hy Gardner and sports editor Bob Cooke, the Trib has found the Sunday supplement a definite circulation-getter, so it theorizes that any appearances, regular one-shot, by Trib staffers should also prove beneficial. Aside from the plug involved, the theory is that television serves to "personalize the byliners" and thus makes viewers want to read their stuff as well as watch them on tv.

Up until now, there had been no

(Continued on page 14)

LAINE TO AUSTRALIA FOR OLYMPIC SEASON

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Frankie Laine has been set for a series of personals in Australia in November during the height of the Olympic games activity there. He'll play a fortnight at the Moulin Rouge here, starting Nov. 7, before departing for the trek.

Laine is slated to open in Sydney Nov. 26 for eight to 10 days for promoter Lee Gordon. He'll go from there to Singapore and thence to Manila before returning to the U. S.

Coe's WB Prod. Bow

Fred Coe makes his Hollywood production debut for Warner Bros. with "Billy the Kid," Paul Newman in the title role. Latter came to attention as Rocky Graziano in Metro's "Somebody Up There."

Arthur Penn, also from tv, is director and Gore Vidal, another video alumnus, did the script.

8/22

VARIETY

Subscription Order Form

Enclosed find check for $

Please send VARIETY for One Year / Two Years

To .....
(Please Print Name)

Street .....

City ..... Zone.... State.....

Regular Subscription Rates
One Year—$10.00 Two Years—$18.00
Canada and Foreign—$1 Additional Per Year

VARIETY Inc.
154 West 46th Street New York 36, N. Y.

SUEZ CRISIS STALLS UA'S 'OBSERVATION'

London, Aug. 21.

The Suez Canal crisis is having serious repercussions on at least one film production unit in this country. The War Dept. has temporarily withdrawn its support—troops and equipment—from Hammer Films' "Observation Post" which has a military setting, owing to extensive service drafts and movements.

Michael Carreras, producer-director, is shooting round the main sequences where genuine Army personnel would have been required, but he plans to use extras if the time embargo gets too tight, until the War Dept. is able to cooperate again. If the Suez situation remains status quo, Carreras will try for necessary equipment from friendly countries with vehicles no longer in service with the British army.

"Observation Post" stars Leo Genn, and is set for United Artists distribution worldwide.

Progress on two other pictures, "Off the Record" and "Yangtse Incident" which are both receiving help from naval authorities, has not been affected by international developments.

Scot Film Fest Attracts Celebs

Edinburgh, Aug. 21.

Edinburgh is a brighter name than before in the film firmament. With personalities gathering here from many nations, and a growing entry of new films, the International Film Festival, though run on a shoestring budget, is achieving a new prestige.

Gene Kelly's pic, "Invitation to the Dance," followed closely after the Kirk Douglas starrer, "Lust for Life," as opening films, thus giving a strong Hollywood emphasis to early screenings. Queen Elizabeth honored the Kelly pic by attending its gala showing in Arthur Rank's plushy New Victoria Theatre.

Queen of England also honored local pride by seeing "Festival in Edinburgh," and "Magic Lamp" (M-G), lensed in Hollywood. The Royal gesture, plus widespread headlining of the visit and reviews in local and national journals and newspapers, has given a new boost to the Fest which had been in danger of lapsing into a mere prestige event.

Many Nations Send Reps

Nations sending delegations this year include the U.S., Yugoslavia, China, Netherlands, Poland, Germany and Canada. American reps expected, among others, are Colonel Willard Webb and Mrs. Webb, Library of Congress, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Beatty, Motion Picture Service, and Mr. and Mrs. Benno H. Selcke, USIS. Danish explorer and producer Jens Bjerre has come to introduce his

(Continued on page 62)

Effie the Elephant In Double-Header (Just Like Sinatra)

San Francisco, Aug. 21.

Most telegenic elephant in Frisco is Effie, who ordinarily inhabits the Oakland Zoo.

Effie ambled into the Mark Hopkins Hotel on Nob Hill about 4 a.m. yesterday (Mon.), grabbed a dandy spot on Will Rogers Jr.'s CBS "Good Morning" show.

A half-hour later, Effie, shepherded by Don Blum and Bob Lee, wandered across the street, into lobby of Fairmont Hotel where Dave Garroway and "Today" were holding forth. Effie performed amiably for NBC, thus scoring a rare "double" on both major nets (just like Frank Sinatra did in N.Y. Sunday.)

Shaw Makes Good

Bernard Shaw has been rediscovered. The John Drew Theatre, East Hampton, L. I., had an ad in last Sunday's (19) N. Y. Times legit section touting its current production of Shaw's "You Never Can Tell."

The playwright, however, was billed as the author of "My Fair Lady."

Write Your Own Head

VARIETY last week published three house reviews in its entire department. One of them was Radio City Music Hall, which changes its presentations from four to eight weeks sometimes. One other was the Empire, Glasgow, Scotland, and the third was the RKO Palace, the lone vaudfilmer on Broadway and, when the Apollo in Harlem goes straight pix as it does sometimes in midsummer, the only vaude house in the biggest city in the world.

A harkback to exactly 25 years ago disclosed, in the Aug. 18, 1931, issue that the Paramount, Capitol and Roxy were the Broadway deluxers with stageshows; Loew's State, on Broadway, played vaudeville; there were shows reviewed in that edition at the Fox and the Albee, Brooklyn; an RKO unit was at the 86th St., and the Hippodrome (now a garage) also had a stageshow.

The Chicago, Capitol, and Palace, Chicago, Loew's State and the RKO Hillstreet in Los Angeles, rounded out the 14 house reviews that week.

And 25 years before that vaude bills consumed over a page in VARIETY and House Reviews ran three and four pages every week.

10th Int'l Edinburgh Fest Launched With Brit. Royalty at 1st Concert

By GORDON IRVING

Edinburgh, Aug. 21.

The 10th International Festival of Edinburgh has opened here with a flourish of trumpets, a visit by English royalty, and a selection of talent from most countries, includmajor entries from the U.S. and Canada. Despite clouded world politics, the international galaxy is undimmed. Foreign accents mingle with sturdy Auld Lang Syne speech. Overseas visitors have taxed hotel and rooming house accommodations to the limit. Hundreds are housed with local families.

Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by her husband the Duke of Edinburgh, and by Princess Margaret, graced the opening Fest concert given Sunday (19) by Britain's Royal Philharmonic under Sir Thomas Beecham. Program featured Beethoven's Choral Symphony with the Edinburgh Royal Choral Union and soloists Sylvia Fisher, Nan Merriman, Richard Lewis and Kim Borg.

Transatlantic influence will be more to fore next week (26) when the Boston Symphony under Charles Munch and Pierre Monteux ar-

(Continued on page 43)

Hazards of Barn Acting: Heckling by Raccoons

"The Chalk Garden" apparently isn't a play for raccoons. A nest of the animals, living in the rafters of the Sea Cliff (L. I.) Summer Theatre for the last four or five years, kicked up such a racket that they almost broke up a recent performance of the Enid Bagnold play. It's the first time they've caused such a disturbance.

State law restricts the hunting of raccoons, so Thomas G. Ratcliffe Jr., the strawhat's co-producer, obtained a license to trap the animals. He's caught one thus far, but figures there are still two adults and several young ones left.

Like Pix and Legit There's No Room For 'B' Books, Sez Cerf

Multiple-threat publisher Bennett Cerf (Random House) says that modern publishing is like the picture business or a Broadway legit—either it's a smash or a quick flop. There's no room for a "B" book; it's as obsolete as a B-picture.

Book merchandising these days is closely allied with Hollywood, as witness the $25,000 each for extra advertising from Hecht-Lancaster and Metro, respectively for Irwin Shaw's "Lucy Crown" and William Brinkley's "Don't Go Near the Water." H-L paid Shaw $400,000 for screen rights to the novel and Metro's $355,000 for "Water" can graduate up to $600,000, depending on the gross. The novel about Navy life in modern wartimes as regards its offshore non-combative activities is the top seller in RH's history—three weeks after publication it's No. 1, with over 100,000 copies sold. Cerf thinks the tradebook edition may hit 250,000 copies.

Cerf's close identification with the toprated tv show, "What's My Line?", supports his longtime premise about tv helping rather than hurting reading, especially children's books which, if given video exposure, creates extraordinary juvenile demand. Cerf, as a panelist personality, has also found his lecture-fee standards raised to

(Continued on page 14)

Novelist Davis Grubb"s Rhubarb in Philly Cafe

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.

Novelist Davis Grubb, arrested in a raid on the Hi-Fi Room of the Rittenhouse Hotel, was charged with intoxication. Grubb, who affects the dress style of his friend and idol, Sean O'Casey, was sporting a turtleneck sweater, slacks and cap when picked up.

At the hearing the next morning, the author was released by Magistrate Elias Myers. No literateur, the judge looked over Grubb and cracked: "A writer, huh? You ought to go out and get yourself a job." Nobody told the Magistrate that the "writer" had snagged $70,000 for the film rights alone of his best-selling first novel, "Night of the Hunter."

Four members of the Hi-Fi staff were held in $500 bail for the Grand Jury on charges of selling to minors and visibly intoxicated persons.

Mull Satchmo as Star Of Brit. Musical Film

London, Aug. 14.

Negotiations are near completion to bring Louis Armstrong to England, for the second time this year, to star in a British tuner scheduled for sometime in December. In this full-length pic, Armstrong will portray himself but there's no likelihood of his band appearing with him.

The picture is being undertaken by a major British company, and will make music its central figure. Leslie Macdonnell, negotiator of the signing, has completed most of the arrangements on this side, but now awaits a working permit for Armstrong from the British Ministry of Labor. Joe Glazer is managing the star's business affairs here.

Charge WB's 'Santiago' Distorts Cuban History

Havana, Aug. 21.

Cubans are aroused over the film, "Santiago" (Warner Bros.). Editorials in magazines and newspapers condemn the film for allegedly distorting Cuban history and tampering with the facts about Cuban patriots.

The widely read magazine, Bohemia, carried a lengthy article by historian Herminio Portell Vila pointing out historical inaccuracies in the film. Particularly resented by Cubans are the portrayals of patriots Jose Marti and Antonio Maceo.

The Teachers Union of Cuba sent the U. S. ambassador biographies of Marti and Maceo and requested that he send them on to WB "so that, in future films concerning Cuba, the studio will avoid committing so many inexactitudes, historical errors and events detrimental to our patriotic feelings."

The teachers added: "We hope that once the contents of these biographies have been read, Warner Bros. will consider whether it is right to launch on the world market a film which deals with Cuban historical events with lightness and plagued with innumerable errors."

H'WOOD'S 'AGE OF THE TEENS'

Playing Tag With Teleplay Titles

On the basis of a survey conducted by Metro, the title of the Robert Alan Aurthur tv play, "A Man Is Ten Feet Tall," converted to the screen for M-G release by Talent Associates, was changed to "Edge of the City."

According to the Metro poll, those who had seen the story on television indicated that they wouldn't want to see it again as a picture although they had enjoyed it on video. M-G, which has been extremely active in tv conversions, has had similar experiences in the past. However, a title change or keeping the same title apparently has not made a significant difference in influencing the public.

"Fearful Decision," for example, was presented on the screen as "Ransom"; yet it still failed to cause any b.o. excitement. "The Last Notch," offered as "Fastest Gun Alive," fared much better, and appears to be emerging a winner in its budget classification. "The Rack," presented under its original title, made out poorly in test engagements and was withdrawn temporarily in the hope that Paul Newman, star of the film, would be a bigger b.o. name after "Somebody Up There Likes Me." "The Catered Affair," also issued under its original title, can be termed a mild success."

United Artists' "Patterns," released under its tv title, failed to arouse much wicket activity. On the other hand, Allied Artists' "Crime in the Streets," same as the tv title, proved a success on the basis of the production cost involved. "Marty," the first tv play issued under its original title, is, of course, the classic success story.

In general, the film companies have not been able to determine a formula for the release of films made from tv properties. In some instances, it seems that the original title and story may be forceful enough to bring audiences to theatres. In other cases, it appears to be a wise move to disguise the tv title and tv origin.

H'wood at 'This Is Your Life' Peak; Latterday Subjects Lead Titles

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

With current releases pointing to continuing hefty boxoffice interest in biopix, Hollywood has scheduled a record number of "life story" productions for shooting during the next 12 months. Modern-day personalities are favored by about 2-to-1 in the approximately 40 films of this genre listed for production. Current "Somebody Up There Likes Me" and "Eddy Duchin Story" returns underline the growing studio belief that the field is one which will continue to be lucrative for some time.

Universal-International, which had "The Benny Goodman Story" earlier this year, heads the parade with a total of eight more biofilms slated. Columbia has six on its production schedule and Paramount, Warners, 20th-Fox and Metro each is planning five.

UI, which also has "Walk a Proud Land," story of John Philip Clum, who captured Geronimo, now in release, recently completed "Battle Hymn," the Dean Hess story. Coming up are "The Col. Everest Story," who sped his jet 1,900 m.p.h.; "The Lonesome Gal," spotlighting Jean King Rousseau, radio singer; "The Man of a Thousand Faces," Lon Chaney, to be enacted by James Cagney; "The Life of Charles Russell"; "The Boy From Korea," war orphan Joseph An-

(Continued on page 16)

TODD TESTING CALIF. TAX RAP ON '80 DAYS'

Los Angeles, Aug. 21.

Superior Court test of the validity of the personal property tax assessment on "Around the World in 80 Days" was filed here by Michael Todd Co. Inc. Assessment was based on production costs incurred as of March 5, 1956.

Todd contends the assessment is invalid and in violation of the firm's rights under state and Federal constitutions since the negative was never in California at any time on or prior to the tax date. It was shipped from an eastern lab to Technicolor in July, action alleges, when it was found that the eastern lab couldn't complete the remaining lab work and that the Technicolor facilities would be available. Shipping date, it was stressed, was after the last tax date.

Most of the film, Todd adds, was shot in other countries and none of this production activity was undertaken to avoid any taxes.

Defendants listed in the action are Los Angeles county assessor, county tax collector, county counsel, county auditor, county board of supervisors and Los Angeles city attorney.

'SLASHER' BAN CLOSES W. ST. PAUL THEATRE

Minneapolis, Aug. 21.

When ordered by suburban West St. Paul Mayor John Sperl to discontinue showing a British film, "The Slasher," W. R. Frank shuttered his non-artie West Twins Theatre pending a hearing by town officials. Frank charges that the mayor in effect closed the theatre because no immediate replacement attraction could be obtained.

Mayor Sperl says he issued the order after receipt of numerous complaints and advice that "Slasher" is "obscene and offensive to standards of moral decency." He charges Frank had ignored his previous similar order to halt a Finnish pic, "The Witch."

Andrews Sis Get Into Biopic Act; TA's Metro Deals

Talent Associates has acquired the rights to produce a film biography of the Andrews Sisters. The picture will be based on a film treatment by Alvin Boretz, who has interviewed the trio on the Coast and has completed his research. It will be produced by TA topper David Susskind, who made his debut as a motion picture producer with the recently-completed "Edge of the City" (formerly titled "A Man Is Ten Feet Tall"), which Metro will release.

Talent Associates, which started as a tv package firm, is now firmly entrenched in film production, partly as a result of M-G's acceptance of "Edge." In addition to "The Andrews Sisters Story," the firm has three other film properties scheduled for filming in the near future.

The Andrews Sisters will provide the musical soundtrack for their biopic, but will not appear in the film. A number of their outstanding hits will be woven into the story. According to Susskind, the film will not consist of the usual saccharine treatment, but will be a hard-hitting biopic in the tradition of "Love Me or Leave Me" and "I'll Cry Tomorrow." The family quarrels of the sister team, which has recently reunited, will be included, Susskind maintained. No distribution or financing ar-

(Continued on page 16)

NEED STARS WITH COKE-SET DRAW

By HY HOLLINGER

In its desperate effort to maintain and build audiences via the development of new star personalities, the film industry has become teenage conscious. It is making a concentrated attempt to build teen type performers; that is, personalities whose main appeal is to the Coke set.

The influence of the teeners—from the bobbysoxers of the Frank Sinatra era to the bluejean worshippers of the late James Dean—has been a social phenomenon of the past 15 years, perhaps reaching its peak during the past decade. The potential of this market has been recognized by the record industry and non-entertainment businesses. Hollywood, however, is regarded as lax in catering to this all important segment of the population whose buying power and king-making ability have reached astronomical proportions in recent years.

To be sure, the teen set has not been completely neglected by the film solons. On the other hand, no determined effort has been made to extract the full capacity of the age 13 to 19 group by making pictures especially geared for the youngsters or building performers with "built-in" teen appeal. The pic biz borrowed occasionally from other entertainment media, picking up for film exposure a teen hero or heroine who had already obtained a degree of acclaim via disk outings.

Stress New Talent

Now the film industry is stepping up this effort as well as making a direct move to introduce and develop on its own personalities who will excite the highschool trade. The mysterious aura of adoration that still exists for James Dean and the wild cultist attraction that surrounds Elvis Presley among the teenage set have played important roles in awakening the film industry.

There's not a studio around that is not hopeful of coming up with a successor to Dean. And, as a result, there'll be any number of up-

(Continued on page 14)

TOA Urges Gov't Loans to Theatres To Beat Livingroom Rap; Points To Obsolete Equipment, Furnishings

Washington, Aug. 21.

Theatre Owners of America made a strong pitch to the Small Business Administration last week to provide Federal loans to exhibitors to modernize their establishments to keep up with the times. Following up the recommendation of the Senate Small Business Committee favoring SBA consideration of such loans where banks will not grant credit, TOA told the agency that survival of the motion picture theatre hinges on financial aid.

In a statement submitted to SBA, the exhibitor organization asserted that while the motion picture industry has advanced "technically" the theatre itself has been so engrossed in its fight for survival that it has been unable to keep up with other retail businesses in conforming to modern standards.

TOA pointed to television as playing a major role in the difficulties of the theatre but declared that "after tv has saturated a given area (and provided, of course, that the theatre has survived the period of decline), attendance can be maintained at a sustaining level." However, said TOA, this stabilization "is by no means produced by tv saturation in itself." Statement went on to quote from the Senate report that the exhibitor, after weathering the advent of tv, "still has his share of problems in attempting to lure patrons from the comfort of their living room."

Declaring that theatres have come out of the struggle against tv with obsolete equipment and "threadbare" furnishings, TOA informed SBA that "the potential movie-goer cannot be wooed back on the basis of past habits alone. He must be offered the modern improvements which he has come to expect in all postwar industry."

These improvements, the organi-

(Continued on page 12)

PENNSY'S CENSORS TURN IN PENCILS

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.

The Pennsylvania Board of Motion Picture Censors, after a run of 41 years, shutters next week (31). The employees under administrative director Mike Felt go off the payroll and the Vine St. offices will be dismantled and the equipment shipped to Harrisburg.

Action came as a result of the Supreme Court decision that motion picture censorship is unconstitutional coupled with the failure of the State Senate to approve Governor Leader's appointees.

Industry leaders and parent-teacher associations have been importuning the governor's office to provide funds to keep the group functioning until the Senate deadlock could be broken.

Scorecard on WB Assets As & When Unloaded for $

Further clarification of the Warner Bros. unloading of assets and lease-back, where needed, secs Charles Allen Jr., Serge Semenenko, Jack L. Warner & Co. visualizing the cashing-in of such holdings as the following:

The Burbank ranch may be worth $9-$10,000,000; it's down at a book valuation of around $350,000-$400,000. The WB theatres in England may bring $7,500,000 to $9,000,000. The major Burbank studio could be sold and leased back for the film production purposes that Warner envisions, since he will very much head up an ac-

(Continued on page 20)

National Boxoffice Survey

Drop in Mercury Ups Trade; 'Society' Again Champ, 'King' 2d, 'Duchin' 3d, 'Wonders,' 'Boats' Next

Rain in many sections of country coupled with cooler weather, is boosting biz in many key cities covered by VARIETY this stanza. There are few new big entries but recently released blockbusters continue to rack up great trade.

"High Society" (M-G), No. one last session, again is finishing first by a wide margin. Currently it is playing in 14 key cities covered by VARIETY correspondents. "King and I" (20th) continues in second position, same as last week.

"Eddy Duchin Story" (Col) is holding in third spot, which is the same as a week ago. "Seven Wonders of World" (Indie) is moving up to fourth position from sixth place of last session.

"Away All Boats" (U) is holding in fifth position. It was fourth last week. "Moby Dick" (WB) is pushing up to sixth slot. "Pardners" (Par) is climbing to seventh place as against ninth a week ago.

"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G) is winding up eighth. "Oklahoma" (Magna) is taking ninth money while "Cinerama Holiday" (Indie), now in fewer keys with "Wonders" out in release, rounds out the Big 10 list.

"Trapeze" (UA), which has finished its biggest key city firstrun dates, still is accumulating sizable coin in the few scattered spots currently playing.

"Wilder Years" (M-G), a newcomer, hints some promise. It is stout in Minneapolis and big in N. Y. where paired with vaude. "Naked Hills" (AA), also new, looms torrid in Louisville.

"Walk Proud Land" (U), also a fresh entry, shapes solid in Chi and fine in Denver. "Bus Stop" (20th), due at N. Y. Roxy soon, looks big in Boston. "Bigger Than Life," also from 20th-Fox, looms fine in N. Y. but slow in L.A. "Run For Sun" (UA) is good in Philly.

"Johnny Concho" (UA), okay in Frisco, is soaring to non-holiday week high at N. Y. Paramount where it is being boosted by stage-show headed by Frank Sinatra, star of this pic. "Seven Men From Now" (WB) is okay in Washington.

"Fastest Gun Alive" (M-G) continues hotsy on extended-run in N. Y. "Kettles in Ozarks" (U) is rated good in Toronto.

"Hot Rod Girls"-"Girls in Prison" (Indie) combo is smash in Boston. "Ambassador's Daughter" (UA), nice in Washington, looks big in L.A. and Chi.

"Francis in Haunted House" (U) shapes lofty in Louisville. "Earth Vs. Flying Saucers" (Col), torrid in Chi, is good in Omaha and fine in St. Louis.

(Complete Boxoffice Reports on Pages 8-9)

Welsch's Longhair Pix

Holywood, Aug. 21.

Howard Welsch is planning program of 16 features in color tagged "Masters of Music," based on lives of great composers. Deems Taylor will narrate the series.

Nicholas Ray will direct the first four, based on Bach, Lizst, Brahms and Beethoven.

VARIETY
Trade Mark Registered
FOUNDED 1905 by SIME SILVERMAN
Published Weekly by VARIETY, INC.
Harold Erichs, President
154 West 46th St. New York 36, N. Y.
JUdson 2-2700
Hollywood 28
6311 Yucca Street
Hollywood 9-1141
Washington 4
1292 National Press Building
STerling 3-5445
Chicago 11
612 No. Michigan Ave.
DElaware 7-4984
London WC2
8 St. Martin's Pl., Trafalgar Sq.
Temple Bar 5041
SUBSCRIPTION
Annual ... $10 Foreign $11
Single Copies ..... 25 Cents
ABEL GREEN, Editor
Vol. 203 120 No. 12

INDEX

Bills ..... 53
Chatter ..... 62
Concert, Opera ..... 60
Film Reviews ..... [illegible]
House Reviews ..... 53
Inside Music ..... 47
Inside Radio-Tv ..... 49
International ..... 13
Legitimate ..... 55
Literati ..... 61
Music ..... 44
New Acts ..... 55
Night Club Reviews ..... 54
Obituaries ..... 63
Pictures ..... [illegible]
Radio ..... 21
Record Reviews ..... 44
Frank Scully ..... 61
Te'evision ..... 21
Television Reviews ..... 26
TV Films ..... 31
Unit Review ..... [illegible]
Vaudeville ..... [illegible]
Wall Street ..... 16

DAILY VARIETY
(Published in Hollywood by Daily Variety, Ltd.)
$15 a year. $20 Foreign

'Friendly' M-G May Become 1st Distrib Rapped by Allied States in Trade Ads

Allied States Assn. is contemplating purchase of advertising space in trade papers to rap the film companies whose selling policies are considered detrimental to the interest of exhibitors. This move is reportedly one of the counter actions weighed at last week's Allied board meeting in Louisville, Ky.

Metro, which for a long time enjoyed the status of the "friendly company," may be the first distributor to be blasted in the trade journals. Allied members have been cautioned by the exhib association's Emergency Defense Committee, which convened prior to the board meet, "to look, listen and be careful when dealing with Metro."

The new attitude toward M-G, which for years enjoyed a favored position with exhibitors, is based, according to Allied, on the film company's demands for 50% terms sans adjustment on such pictures as "I'll Cry Tomorrow" and "High Society." The Allied leaders expressed themselves as "hurt and indignant" at Metro's policy and indicated that they feared that M-G's demands would set a precedent which the other film companies would follow. Somewhat bewildered by the M-G switch, they left the door open for a reconciliation by stating that they hoped the filmmaker would reconsider its present terms and again revert to its position as the "friendly company."

The Allied board, under the leadership of prexy Rube Shor, made a pitch for an enlargement of the proposed industry roundtable conference. With invitations already issued to the film company presidents, Allied asked that the scope of the palaver be increased to include not only theatre problems but also the difficulties facing production-distribution under current market conditions. The two-day board meeting renewed its bid to the film company toppers for the proposed roundtable session devoted to industry problems.

The 'Big D' Powwow

Minneapolis, Aug. 21.

The national Allied States convention at Dallas Nov. 26-28 will be for many exhibitors "a make or break convention," according to the current North Central Allied bulletin which urges as many as the territory's theatreowners to attend.

"Many problems, and especially the baffling and discouraging film problem, will be gone over thoroughly by experts," the bulletin promises.

MPD Acquires Toronto's 'Rex'

Distribution rights to "Oedipux Rex," first of a series of films featuring the players, costumes and scenery of the Stratford (Ontario) Festival productions, has been acquired by Motion Pictures Distributors Inc., firm headed by Irving M. Lesser and Nathan H. Gates.

Picture, directed by Tyrone Guthrie and produced by Leonid Kipnis, was filmed in Toronto, utilizing a majority of the performers who appeared in the original Stratford production. MPD, which holds worldwide distribution rights for all media, is gearing the film for theatrical release in October. The production, in Eastman color and widescreen, has a running time of 88 minutes. A total of 40 prints will be available for key city engagements in the fall.

"Oedipus Rex" launches an ambitious long-range undertaking by Guthrie, who will serve as artistic director, and Kipnis. Although embarking on their project with the Greek drama, pair have organized Shakespearean Films, a production company that plans to film the entire first folio of Shakespeare, with the Stratford productions being converted to the screen.

Company has been privately financed, with Kipnis and Judge Samuel Friedman of Fairfield, Conn. the key figures in the group. Under present plans, the company hopes to film two or three films annually in Canada, either in Montreal or at Stratford when the Festival moves from its tent headquarters to a permanent structure. The Stratford Festival is down for a percentage of the profits. It, however, is compensated for the use of its costumes and scenery. The performers receive a straight salary for the film stint.

"Oedipus" was filmed in three weeks. This was made possible, according to Guthrie, by using the original sets and employing performers "who knew their lines backwards and forwards."

Par on 2 Courses—Hoopla on Tolstoy Vs. Decalog Drive

Paramount has found itself in an ad-pub version of "Can You Top This?" That the promotional breaks for "War and Peace" have been top-rung is recognized throughout the trade. Last week's life cover and beaucoup pictorial layout stuff inside was the third time the weekly gave a cover and spread to the adaptation of Tolstoy. Other spotlighting has been tremendous all around, adding up to the biggest attention ever copped by a Par release.

Now comes chapter two. Jerry Pickman, ad-pub v.p., and his department are faced with the task of topping "W & P" for Par's next epic, Cecil B. DeMille's "Ten Commandments." The Decalog production reputedly cost about $12,000,000 to bring in, which is about twice the negative budget for "W & P." In view of the stake in "Commandments," DeMille's industry position and the Par hierarchy's great expectations re the film, greater-than-Tolstoy freespace will be looked for.

Pickman, et al., got a headstart with the recent observance of DeMille's 75th birthday. This received wide coverage. But, then, "W & P" had both Mike Todd and the Soviet Union as assets, their announcements about another version of Tolstoy having served to focus attention on the Par entry.

Chi Projectionist's Ad Device for Pic Bally

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Vet Chi projectionist Jim Small, Balaban & Katz screening room operator and a boothman since 1907, has come up with a rear screen projection unit for 16m film, similiar to a tv set, which he plans to sell as an advertising device to the motion picture industry. Situated in store windows and supermarkets at away-from-the-theatre situations, the unit would show film clips and cartoons, "selling movies with movies," as Small puts it.

Small says commercial time could also be sold, to be interspersed between the clips or cartoons. Small thinks the major theatre circuits would be natural customers for his device, under a franchise or an outright sale plan.

Europe to N.Y.

George Chasin
Finlay Currie
Mary Gray
Lorne Greene
Helen Hayes
Sol Hurok
Leo Jaffe
Katy Jurado
Joseph Kramm
Milton Lehr
Eric Leinsdorf
John Merivale
Nicholas P. Perry
Anthony Quinn
Ann Sheridan
Irving Stone
Theodore C. Streibert
Renata Tebaldi

U Tightens Up on Entry Rules for Tyro Players; Gotta Have Some Training

As part of its general economy of program, Universal has revised the entry requirements for its Coast talent development school. From a strictly dollars-and-cents view, the film company has discovered that it unwise to sign up youngsters for the school who have not had some previous dramatic training.

Operation of the school is costly, probably running to about $1,000,000 annually. It's figured that it takes a year or two of schooling of untrained hopefuls before a chance can be taken in placing the young thesps before the camera.

Under its new policy, U is only accepting students who have had some previous training, either in colleges or in accepted drama schools. Rather than operating as an undergraduate school, it is offering a post-graduate course. Thusly, the film company feels it can save a year or two in salaries, since it is of the opinion that it can weed out more quickly or develop faster the youngsters with previous dramatic experience.

Shorts Short On Cheery Prospect

Importance of the short subject and the newsreel in the overall industry scheme of things is diminishing rapidly as evidenced by personnel shifts at the companies.

Shorts and newsreel sales are being integrated into the overall sales setup and no longer seem to rate a special department. Motivation given is that the companies must effect economies and are starting to do so where it hurts the least.

Latest instance of shorts sales integration is at Universal, where Irving Sochin has quit and is not being replaced. Sochin handled shorts and the newsreel. From now on, the individual division and branch heads will take care of these subjects.

The U move followed a similar change at 20th-Fox, where Lem Jones has bowed out and shorts and newsreel sales are being taken over by the general sales force. At Warner Bros., the Jack L. Warner-Serge Semenenko management has discontinued shorts and the newsreel via elimination of the entire Warner News subsidiary.

Warners is the only company that has actually gone to the extreme by cutting out shorts and the newsreel altogether.

Cutback has been a long time a-coming. Shorts sales managers for the past few years have complained that, with rising costs, they were finding it more and more difficult to make ends meet, particularly since exhibitors were in no mood to boost rentals on the reelers.

L.A. to N.Y.

Ann Baxter
Max Bercutt
Emmett R. Callahan
Arlene Dahl
David Davidson
Laraine Day
Roy Disney
Vikki Dougan
Leo Durocher
Leonard Field
Florida Friebus
L. Wolfe Gilbert
Martin Geodman
Bill Hendricks
Tab Hunter
Sam Katzman
Jessie Royce Landis
Fernando Lamas
Dorothy Malone
Robert Middleton
Jack Mullaney
Dennis OKeefe
William Ornstein
Walter Pidgeon
Cameron Prud'homme
Rosalind Russell
Harry Saltzman
Rod Steiger
Ralph Wheelwright
Jonothan Winters
Natalie Wood

N.Y to L.A.

Mike Conner
Carl Fisher
Mary Gray
Robert Griffith
Richard Kollmar
Forrest Tucker

New York Sound Track

Adolph Zukor on the mend at home after minor surgery. No problems . . . MPAA is stalling on its annual 50G contribution to the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital, the donation being blocked by Barney Balaban who feels the Saranac Lake institution is not hard pressed for money . . . Hecht-Lancaster outfit excited about Don Murray's showing in "Bus Stop," H-L having the newcomer in its "Bachelor Party" . . . Frank Sinatra was tossed critical posies by the local papers for his role in "Johnny Concho," western he made independently . . . Since Samuel Goldwyn is a Republican, how come a clip from his "Best Years of Our Lives" was made available to the Demos in Chi? . . . Though they're still buddies, Milton Pickman, entrenched at Screen Gems, is not joining Jerry Wald at 20th-Fox.

Richard Brandt to Venice as the official rep of the Independent Motion Picture Distributors Assn. . . . Stockholder rep Mia Copping complaining "they're mortgaging our future" via percentage deals with the stars . . . 20th-Fox looking to a $5,000,000 profit from its oilwells next year . . . Brandt circuit planning a drive-in at Phillipsburg, N.J. It'll be built this year . . . Walter Koppel, head of Germany's Real Film, which headquarters in Hamburg, awarded the West German Republic's Order of Merit. He expects to visit in the U.S. this fall . . . Clayton E. Bond, former 20th-Fox tv and shorts exec, named sales v.p. for Animatic Productions . . . 'Twas Alfred E. Daff's wedding day last week, but he made his telephonic longdistance check of the Universal homeoffice as per usual. Above the call of duty, etc. etc. . . . Technicolor's Herbert T. Kalmus back in town this week.

Eric Johnston going to Spokane from San Francisco where he's attending the Republican convention. He's due back in Washington Sept. 1 . . . That $5,000,000 Metro theatrical 16m deal cooking and due for early signature, confirms M-G's Orton Hicks . . . Czechs are interested in buying 20 to 30 American pix as a starter, according to Norman Katz of Associated Artists Production . . . Joshua Logan in for the "Bus Stop" preem Aug. 31.

Carlo Ponti, associate of Dino DeLaurentiis in the making of "War and Peace," doesn't see eye-to-eye with his partner on the length of the picture. "It should be cut," he agreed in New York this week. DeLaurentiis has been battling Par to keep the 3 hr. 28 mins. running time. DeLaurentiis and Ponti have now split. DeLaurentiis is dickering a coproduction deal with Harry Brandt on "Le Notti di Caberia." Ponti's next venture isn't set.

A few quotes dropped at the ITOA luncheon honoring Bob O'Donnell and Bob Coyne for pressing the tax campaign to its successful conclusion: "We present this scroll (to Dallas-based O'Donnell) to a gentleman from deep in the heart of taxes"—Max Cohen; Sam Pinanski (who has no reputation for word economy) "approaches every issue by indirection, and if he were a writing man I think he would use parentheses around a comma"—Coyne; "Joe Vogel made an impassioned plea, before Treasury Secretary Humphrey, telling him about the 4,000-scat theatres being empty, but he forgot to mention Loew's was playing 'Kismet' that week"—O'Donnell.

Eric Johnston, warning the companies against individual action in dealing with the Commie countries, recalled Warner Bros.' problems with "Mission to Moscow." Pic was made at the prodding of White House and State Dept. Yet, when it became an issue in the 1947 House Un-American Activities Committee hearings, neither agency would step forward to acknowledge its part in the production of the film.

In the interests of technical credits, director Robert McCahon says that's all he did on "The Seagram Story," the costly Louis de Rochmont industrial film for the distillery, and that Tom Orchard rates the producer credit . . . Exec veepee C. B. Stratton, Mike Clofine et al. of Hearst Metrotone News are proud of the scoop that Charles Shutt got in wrangling an exclusive from Adlai Stevenson on the civil rights plank statement, and both clarify last week's VARIETY statement that "the tv boys stepped right up and used it first." That's right, but only because News of the Day, via its affiliated INS Telenews, services ABC-TV which gave that network an exclusive. INS Telenews has an exclusive only with ABC-TV but syndicates its services to a flock of indie video stations.

Hon. Giuseppe Brusasca, Italian Undersecretary of State, Coasting this week while Eitel Monaco of ANICA stays in town for huddles with the MPEA. Brusasca has been pitching with the Assn. for more coproduction in Italy a la "War and Peace."

Leo Jaffe, Columbia v.p., back at his homeoffice desk from an extensive tour of Europe during which he conferred with Col-affiliated producers filming abroad . . . Metro Canadian field press rep Chester Friedman returned to his Toronto headquarters after attending the wedding of his son in New York . . . Joe Pasternak due in from the Coast Friday (24). . . .

Harold Gabrilove, chief barker of Albany Variety Club, former Paramount city manager in Newburgh and president of RTA Distributors, has returned with Mrs. Gabrilove from a month's vacation in Italy.

Cinerama crew which has been filming sequences for the new Lowell Thomas adventure, "Search for Shangri-La," has returned to N.Y. after four months in Ceylon, Burma, Nepal, Pakistan and India. Headed by director Otto Lang, the crew includes Harry Squire, Jack Priestly, Michael Zingale, Peter Passas, Jack Wallace, Fred Bosch and Ray Scharples . . . According to an editorial analysis by the Lloyd H. Hall Co., Look Magazine devoted a greater percentage of its editorial space to amusements and entertainment than did any other magazine in the major weekly field. Analysis indicated that Look's show biz coverage during the first six months of 1956 occupied 16.6% of the mag's editorial content, compared with 9.9% for Life, 9.7% for Collier's, and 5% for the Saturday Evening Post . . . Walter Slezak returns to Hollywood for a co-starring role in Metro's "10,000 Bedrooms." He resumes his Broadway activities at the completion of the film, having signed to star in "First Gentleman" . . . Theatre Owners of America has named a special convention reception committee to welcome delegates to the N.Y. Coliseum convention Sept. 20-24. It consists of Samuel Rosen, Joseph R. Vogel, Sol Schwartz, Russell V. Downing, Harry Brandt, Emanuel Frisch, Sam Rinzler, Robert C. Rothafel, Solomon Strausberg, Donald Rugoff, Leo Brecher, and Charles B. Moss . . . Stubby Kaye, who just completed a role in Columbia's "You Can't Run Away From It," returns to Broadway as Marryin' Sam in the "Li'l Abner" tuner . . . Sam Rosen, S. H. Fabian, and Harry Kalmine addressed Stanley Warner zone managers and executives at a homeoffice palaver Thursday (16).

N.Y. to Europe

Diana Adams
Walter Alford
Robert Ardrey
Ira Ashley
George Balanchine
Leon Barzin
Herbert Bliss
Phillip Bloom
Todd Bolender
Richard Brandt
Mark Bucci
Jacques D'Amboise
Henry Deutschmeister
Andre Eglevsky
Melissa Hayden
Jillana
Tanaquil Le Clercq
Ray Milland
Francisco Moncion
Lee Richards
Gregor Piatigorsky
Maria Tallchief
Richard Thorpe
Jean-Loup Tournier
William Warfield
Patricia Wilde

PIX BLOCK THEIR OWN KICKS

Bark Vs. Legion Worse Than Bite

The talk in independent distribution circles, on and off for years, has been about a possible legal bout with the National Legion of Decency. But the seriousness of such dialog never has reached the point where someone went to the nearest courthouse in a move for an injunction.

Conclusion always has been reached that the Legion has the right to call the shots on the moral level of films from the Catholic angle. And priests and prelates could hardly be restrained from urging a Catholic boycott of a theatre whose policy is to play "condemned" pictures.

Any group of any religious, or other, inclination has the similar right.

So far as owners and distributors of "C"-rapped pictures are concerned, the major irritant is the Legion's effectiveness. More and more theatremen are refusing to play "morally objectionable for all" product. This means, of course, that non-Catholics are affected, for their opportunity to see such material commensurately dwindles.

Retain MPEA Unity on Soviets; New Formula for Profits Divvy

A compromise arrangement last week saved the industry's "united front" approach to film dealings with Russia and the satellites. With the exception of United Artists, which — strictly speaking — was never a real party to it anyway, all the member companies of the Motion Picture Export Assn. renewed for one year the MPEA franchise on pic deals with the Iron Curtain areas.

UA, in a special situation via its indie producers, will do its own selling but "in coordination with the MPEA." The MPEA board authorized initial negotiations with Czechoslovakia and Poland, which have indicated an interest in purchasing Hollywood films.

However, the formula under which any deals will operate will differ substantially from that which applied to the original MPEA operation in the Iron Curtain countries following the war.

Whereas the companies then pooled their product and let MPEA pick whatever films it wanted from a prepared list, with the profits equally split among all regardless of whose pix were chosen, the new formula limits the contribution of each company to five features for any one territory.

UA is said to have agreed to this limitation. It's questionable,

(Continued on page 14)

MPEA Bars Bamboo

While authorizing film negotiations with the Soviet satellites last week, the Motion Picture Export Assn. board firmly nixed sales to countries behind the Bamboo Curtain for another year.

Primarily affected is Red China, which in times past has shown some interest in acquiring U. S. pix.

MPAA Unit Hints A 'Separate' Seal For Foreign Pix

That special Code seal for foreign films may become a reality after all.

Clear hint that some sort of special arrangement is in the offing is contained in the report on the Code, submitted last week to the Motion Picture Assn. of America board by the committee appointed to study possible changes in the document and its application.

While not committing itself outright, the committee recommended a "continuing study" of the Code, specifically in reference to the idea of issuing a separate seal to non-English-language imports.

It's felt that, with the considerable pressure being brought to bear on the MPAA by foreign producers whose pix couldn't qualify under the Code standards, the committee reference carries considerable meaning. In the past, on several occasions, it had been made plain by Code Administrator Geoffrey Shurlock and others that a separate classification for imports wasn't praetical.

In recent months, however, MPAA thinking appeared to change, with Erie Johnston and his aides seemingly more disposed to give thought to the predieament of the overseas pix. Pressure has come also from the American majors who've been handicapped via the Code in the acquisition of foreign films.

Outfits like Columbia have gotten around that by shunting those imports on which they couldn't get

(Continued on page 16)

Reade, Benton Dissolve Saratoga Pool; Former Takes Over 2 Houses

Albany, Aug. 21.

On Sept. 1, the pool between Reade and Benton in Saratoga dissolves and Walter Reade Theatres Inc. becomes sole owner and operator of the modern-style Community and the older Congress, the latter a seasonal situation in recent years. Albany exchanges were notified of the takeover in a telegram from Walter Reade Jr., James E. Benton and Saratoga Theatres Inc.

The wire said the new owners wished to discontinue bidding and to negotiate for available product. However, Sarto Smaldone, of the nearby Malta Drive-In, credited with cutting into the business of the Spa's conventional houses by screening Columbia and Universal produet firstrun last season and with pulling profitable patronage in the 375-car layout this year through bidding with a number of distributing companies in competition with Reade-Benton, could continue to obtain product by bidding if he wished to do so.

Jack Harris will buy and book the Community and Congress for Reade, as he does other Reade theatres. In recent months, Frank Williams, of the Benton organization, has bought and booked both Spa situations. This switch came about after litigation between the Reade and Benton interests.

With the takeover of the two theatres, Benton will be operating only the Strand and Champlain in Plattsburg. Reade Jr. owns the Community Motel, within the Saratoga city limits. He has recently indicated construction of a drive-in there next spring.

Chicago, B&K Flagship, Books Double Features

Chicago, Aug. 21.

The Chicago Theatre, Balaban & Katz kingpin house, come Aug. 30, will for the second time in its long history, offer a double bill. Combo of two Warner Bros. pictures, "Burning Hills," and "Seven Men From Now," will occupy the screen for a couple of weeks. P.a.'s by Tab Hunter and Natalie Wood opening day will kick off the double firstrun.

Move highlights searcity of top pix at that time. Last double bill at the Chicago Theatre was booked four years ago as a Christmas season stop-gap.

'SHOCKERS' GET PUSSYFOOT PLAY

Problem and controversial pictures, selected for filming because of their unique ingredients, are emerging as a "double standard" headache for the film companies. Aware of the necessity of providing offbeat themes to lure the public away from television, the film companies nevertheless find themselves in the paradoxical position of soft-pedalling the controversial contents of the film in advertising and publicity.

In some instances, great pains are taken to avoid any mention of the picture's true theme and efforts are made to come up with "safe" selling material. This sets up a situation in which a film company buys a "shock" property because it is hopeful that it will lure customers to theatres and then studiously avoids telling the public exactly what the picture is about.

The pictures, of course, are designed to obtain Production Code approval; yet the film companies are aware they cannot blatantly pitch the theme. A straight-from-the-shoulder approach, it's feared, might offend a section of the public or might keep some customers away who are not interested in the situation or the problem presented. As a result, selling techniques on many recent pictures are geared to intrigue the potential filmgoer but not to tell him specifically what he's going to see.

The advertising technique being employed for Metro's "Tea and Sympathy" and Warner Bros.' "The Bad Seed" perhaps illustrates the quandary of the film companies. Both films, based on successful Broadway plays, contain offbeat and controversial material. Hardly

(Continued on page 53)

Exhibs Not Hot For Appeals Bd.

Exhibitors made it plain this week that they had strong reservations about providing representation on the appeals board. Several felt the Motion Picture Assn. of America was trying to "use" them for the twin purpose of easing off indie producer pressure and to tie the theatres closer to Code decisions.

Allied's Abram F. Myers said he couldn't see the idea at all. "Making pictures is the responsibility of the studios," he commented. "Also, it might compromise theatremen to be on such a board." Theatre Owners of America's Walter Reade felt exhib representation on the appeals level was "a good idea in principle" but he couldn't see it in practice. "I'm afraid somebody is

(Continued on page 16)

Arties' Tabu on Pix With 'C' Rating May Cue 'Safer' Themes From O'seas

National Legion of Decency now has the art theatres on the run. That is, a number of the offbeat situations, which traditionally played imported product without regard to the sensitivities of any individual or minority group, are now refusing to book pictures condemned by the Legion.

This new turn of events could have obvious international implications, for foreign filmmakers, notably French and Italian, who've felt uninhibited in past, might well deal in "safer" subject matter in future rather than lose increasingly-imported art outlets in the United States.

"C" rating from the Catholic reviewing organization automatically means little chance of a booking in various areas across the country. Jack Ellis, distributor of "Three Forbidden Stories," disclosed this week he couldn't get the film shown in Baltimore, Washington, St. Paul and Providence because the Legion gave it its thumbs-down treatment.

Only territories which apparently aren't concerned about the Legion are the south and southwest, according to Ellis. Such key cities as New York, Chicago and Los Angeles are open to playdates, but the exhibitors still would like it better if there were no "C" attached.

This is a growing problem for distributors like Ellis because they usually enter deals to handle imports prior to inspection by the Legion. When the latter brands the product "condemned," the distrib right off sustains a monetary setback.

That the Legion has become more powerful than the Production Code has long been recognized. No major circuit will give screen time to a "C" entry, whereas "Man With the Golden Arm" played all the top chains. "Arm"

(Continued on page 12)

'W&P's' Gargantuan VV

For the debut of "War and Peace" yesterday (Tues.) at the Capitol Theatre, N. Y., the house installed a new screen, described by the management as one of the "world's largest VistaVision screens."

The new, highly-reflective screen is said to enhance the quality of the VistaVision process.

Following the invitational preem yesterday (Tues.) night, the Capitol commenced regular continuous showings of "War and Peace" at 9:30 a.m. today (Wed), with the last complete showing beginning at 8:45 p.m.

Pinanski Pushes 'A Film Industry On Longterm Pull'

Samuel Pinanski, Boston circuit operator and board member of John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., wants the industry's top figures in economics to map a blueprint for reestablishing the picture business on a "sound, longterm basis."

Addressing a luncheon of the Independent Theatre Owners Assn. of New York, the exec spoke in broad terms about ways and means of making the trade attractive to leading private financial institutions. He further suggested the idea of proposing a Government agency which, in its relationship with the film business, would function similarly to the Federal Housing Administration.

The ultimate objective is availability of sufficient capital to assure both filmmakers and exhibitors a longevity of operation. Theatremen would thus be in a position to modernize and the producers would be certain they'd have exhibition outlets in the years to come.

(In recent weeks some leading exhibitors have been plugging for loans via the Small Business Administration.)

Under the Piananski plan, the industry would be elevated to a "legitimate level" and, with the Government as a prop, outside agencies would go for longterm (up to 30 years) loans to stabilize the business on the eeonomle front.

The industry itself would set up a "financial authority" with the Council of Motion Picture Organizations as the focal point, said Pinanski, who's also a member of the COMPO governing board.

Propose Exhib-Indie Structure For Code's New Appeals Board

New appeals board for the Production Code, taking in both exhibitors and indie producer reps, was proposed last week to the Motion Picture Assn. of America board of directors.

Suggestion is one of a series contained in a report to the board from the special committee set up to study procedural and administrative changes in the Code setup. Company presidents are expected to meet in New York at an early date with all indications pointing to aeceptance of the committee's recommendations.

Latter don't involve any changes in the Code document itself and appear eoncerned mostly with an attempt to scuttle the charge that the MPAA is a "club" whose members sit in judgment not only on their own films but also those of the independents. This charge has been made a couple of times in the past when indie productions were refused a Code seal.

Apart from the appeals board aspect, the committee also recommended that the MPAA drop the $25,000 fine which now is mandatory when a member outfit releases a picture sans seal. RKO under Howard Hughes was fined when it released "The French Line" without Code approval. However, the MPAA never collected. The committee observed that the punitive assessment had "lost its meaning."

At the same time, the MPAA member companies would continue to pledge that they wouldn't distribute pictures without a seal.

The committee that drew up the report was made up of MPAA prexy Eric Johnston, Paramount's

(Continued on page 18)

Demo Convention a Boon Of Sorts to Mpls. Exhibs; Axed TVers Drove 'Em Out

Minneapolis, Aug. 21.

Exhibitors here figure that the televising of the Democratic convention last week helped the boxoffice more than it hurt because it resulted in the cancellation of so many video programs popular with numerous fans, many of whom sought a different sort of entertainment from that provided by the conclave.

And, judging by the manner in which grosses held up, a large number of tv adherents deserted their homescreens for the showhouses in quest of their diversion, film row here is pointing out.

Similar results are expected this week during the Republican National Convention, says S. D. Kane, North Central Allied executive counsel. And the same goes for radio, he feels.

It isn't only because this year's Democratic eonvention was comparatively dull and tame during the night sessions, but also because the bulk of those attracted to this type of program, stressing oratory and sans hot fights, aren't avid films fans anyway, Kane believes.

Herb Bonis With Par On Hypo for Big Pix

Herb Bonis, former manager of the Palace, N.Y. has been set by Paramount to work under Charles Boasberg, who is handling the special sales campaigns on "Ten Commandments" and "War and Peace." Bonis was on the Coast last week, studying the layout of the Stanley Warner Beverly Theatre where "Commandments" will premiére in November.

After setting up a ticket scale and okaying construction of a special boxoffice, Bonis returned to N.Y., over the weekend.

A specialist in hard-ticket presentations, Bonis left the Palace to go out with the Danny Kaye units.

War and Peace
(Italian-U. S.)
(COLOR-V'VISION)

A blockbuster destined to be a perennial cinematic classic.

Paramount release of Ponti-DeLaurentiis production. Produced by Dino DeLaurentiis. Stars Audrey Hepburn, Henry Fonda, Mel Ferrer; costars Vittorio Gassman; features Herbert Lom, Oscar Homolka, Anita Ekberg, Helmut Dantine, Barry Jones, Anna Maria Ferrero, Milly Vitale, Jeremy Brett, John Mills. Directed by King Vidor. Based on Leo Tolstoy's novel. Screenplay, Bridget Boland, Robert Westerby, King Vidor, Mario Camerini, Ennio DeConcini, Ivo Perilli; camera (Technicolor), Jack Cardiff; 2d unit camera, Aldo Tonti; art direction, Mario Chari, Fraz Bachelin, Giani Polidori; editors, Stuart Gilmore, Leo Catozzo; sound editor, Leslie Hodgson; music, Nino Rota; music conductor, Franco Ferrara; costumes, Maria DeMatteis; sets, Piero Cherardi; production mgr. Bruno Todini; prod. asst. N. Y., Giliphe Serpe; dialog, Guy Thomajan; asst. to Vidor, Arthur Fellows; asst. directors, Piero Musetta, Guidarino Guidi. World premiere Aug. 21, '56, Capitol Theatre, N. Y. Running time, 3 Hours 28 MINS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Natasha | Audrey Hepburn |
| Pierre | Henry Fonda |
| Andrey | Mel Ferrer |
| Anatole | Vittorio Gassman |
| Helene | Anita Ekberg |
| General Kutuzov | Oscar Homolka |
| Napoleon | Herbert Lom |
| Platon | John Mills |
| Dolokhov | Helmut Dantine |
| Lise | Milly Vitale |
| Count Rostov | Barry Jones |
| Prince Bolkonsky | Wilfred Lawson |
| Countess Rostov | Lea Seidel |
| Nicholas Rostov | Jeremy Brett |
| Petya Rostov | Sean Barrett |
| Mary Bolkonsky | Anna Maria Ferrero |
| Sonya | May Britt |
| Kuragin | Tullio Carminati |
| Denisov | Patrick Crean |
| Peronskava | Gertrude Flynn |

The classic Leo Nicholas Tolstoy novel, "War and Peace," said by many to be the greatest ever written, took six years to create its more than 600,000 words in 1869. Long after the historic Russo-French military campaigns of 1805-1812, millions the world over have been afforded an insight on Napoleon Bonaparte of France versus Czar Nicholas I of Russia, perhaps as no history books have done. A century and half after the event, Hollywood and Italian know-how, some $6,000,000 capital investment, and an overwhelming production personnel which, in the recreated battle scenes utilized between 5,000 and 6,000 Italian troops doubling as celluloid soldiers, have produced a visual epic that is assured of permanent stature in the annals of the motion picture industry.

"War and Peace" is a real blockbuster. This is not a celluloid entry for once or even twice around. It is a rich contribution to the art form of the picture business in the best tradition. It is an entertainment and educational force and a production powerhouse on size and stature values alone. It is big in the biggest sense of the cinematurgical art and, in this alone, there is a payoff.

"War and Peace," the novel, was timely at all times and timeless throughout epochs and eras. This was never truer than now. Because, as at no time before has the world known the fast-moving means of communication as exists today, the meaning of world strife takes on new values. The graphic Dino DeLaurentiis production and King Vidor direction of this Italian-made Paramount release reduces the meaning of war—and peace—to the most common denominator of everyday understanding.

The classic Tolstoy novel which requires weeks and, more often, months to read has been digested into three and a half hours of vivid cinematic magic in the topmost scientific advances (Technicolor and VistaVision).

These factors are garnished with a marquee that reads like a benefit and a production investiture that looks like Fort Knox. For once it's a production that looks more than its $6,000,000 investment.

"War and Peace" may not be the perfect motion picture. What is? There are opportunities for the captious to become caustic. Some of the opportunities are perhaps DeLaurentiis' and Vidor's own faults, such as that heavily-cockneyed John Mills personation, quite a discordant dialog note in the general unfolding.

There may be some who will want to know what or, at the very least, profess confusion as to whom he or she can identify themselves with. There may be some who will concede the power and the artistry of the pictorial Technicolorful vignettes, some of which hold compelling beauty (both in splendor and simplicity), and yet wonder if it isn't too episodic. Some also may find their interest lagging in the long dialog stretches and the genteel pleasantries of the period.

The greater wonder is that such a monumental work could be condensed to three and a half hours. It may not be long before it penetrates to the public that almost as much footage had to be scrapped, and to this the carpingly captious may testily add then why not a few more feet if it creates a discordancy? In short order and with relative simplicity this can be fully ascertained and, if needs be, corrected.

Paramount has a merchandising problem which may compel revision or modification of original plan. Wisely, it is selling "War and Peace" with a forthright accent that this is a long picture—three hours and 28 minutes long. That it is being shown on a grind in a Broadway deluxer, instead of reserved-seat roadshowing, may or may not be concomitant to the fact that Par's DeMillepic, "10 Commandments," is somewheres in the offing. Public reaction can well shift "War and Peace" into an advanced-priced, two-a-dayer because it has all the attributes of a roadshow.

The wonder of the DeLaurentiis-Vidor production is that it has maintained cohesiveness and fluidity of story and also has given fullest accent to the size and sweep of Bonaparte's armies at Austerlitz and Borodino. Life among the Russian aristocracy with its passion for the good living and innate respect for the church in time of stress is brought into sharp focus in a pyramiding sequence of grand balls, gay life, debauchery, titled officers' shenanigans, the riding to the hounds in pastoral terrains, and with it all a pot complete disregard for their serfs.

Audrey Hepburn is the epitome of wholesome young love under benevolent aristocratic rearing. Henry Fonda, the confused young liberal who aped the French as so many Russians did until Napoleon forced the czar's armies to resort to a scorched earth campaign, is perhaps sometimes too literally the confused character. The scenes where he, a civilian, wanders and weaves in and out of the crude battery of bombardiers manning the buttress make one wonder if a little pruning here would not be to advantage.

The ranking members of the proud Count Rostov and Prince Bolkonsky clans and their lineage have all been accorded capital histrionic investiture to match the many-splendored life, love and trappings under the imperial czaristic regime until Napoleon's would-be conquerors invaded the Russian steppes.

Other than the above and the moody but compelling performance by Mel Ferrer, the rest are lesser roles but almost wholly effective. The assorted in-laws, kin, friends, aristocracy, along with Napoleon (Herbert Lom), the opportunistic Anita Ekberg, the predatory Vittorio Gassman, Oscar Homolka as the Russian commander-in-chief and Barry Jones are done with more or less conviction. True, sometimes the English dialects make for a curious infidelity of speech. Homolka is very Akim Tamiroff as the Russian general but some of his aides speak in clipped British English. That is true also of Napoleon, as played by Herbert Lom. Some of the lesser principals, of native Italian lineage, also found themselves dubbed into British English. But these are among the relatively minor footnotes in this major production of size and realism and grandeur which easily qualifies it for the cinema hall of fame.

The majesty of Jack Cardiff's masterful lensing is not the least of the credits. Whether in the soft pastels of the pastoral scenes or in the brilliant hues of the grand ball; whether in the eye-filling sweep of gallant, fresh troops on battle plains or the bleak despair of footsore, retreating Frenchmen slogging in the mire of defeat; whether in the rich and colorful palace interiors or those arresting shots of snow-covered trees against the scorched earth, the American director, King Vidor, the Italian producer, DeLaurentiis, and the peerless British cinematographer Cardiff have restored to the Italian film industry a long forgotten tradition. It is the tradition of size and spectacle and splendor. It is Technicolor at its artistic peak.

So vivid has been the postwar Italian school of drab realism that the world has almost forgotten the epochal sweep of the once Italian standard of motion picture production which has still not completely removed the memory of a "Cabiria." With "War and Peace" the artisans have recaptured the epic canvas which was indigenous to the Italian school.

The film's scripting credits are a strangely multiple thing in light of Irwin Shaw's request to remove his billing when director Vidor reportedly rewrote so many scenes on his own. But to whomever true billing belongs, the screenwriting chore was a yeoman job for a battery of scriveners. The celluloid transmutation of Tolstoy is nothing from which anybody need hide identity. In fact, "War and Peace" has credits in plenty for all concerned. Abel.

The Unguarded Moment
(COLOR)

Esther Williams, sans bathing suit, in psychological sex melodrama. Slickly-produced, generally satisfactory entry.

Universal release of Gordon Kay production. Stars Esther Williams & George Nader; features John Saxon, Edward Andrews, Les Tremayne. Directed by Harry Keller. Screenplay, Herb Meadows and Larry Marcus; based on story by Rosalind Russell and Marcus; camera (Technicolor), William Daniels; editor, Edward Curtiss; music, Herman Stein. Previewed in N.Y. Aug. 16, '56. Running time, 95 MINS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Lois Conway | Esther Williams |
| Harry Graham | George Nader |
| Leonard Bennett | John Saxon |
| Mr. Bennett | Edward Andrews |
| Mr. Pendleton | Les Tremayne |
| Prof. | Jack Albertson |
| Josie Warren | Dani Crayne |
| Sandy | John Wilder |
| Attorney Briggs | Edward C. Platt |
| Pendleton's Secretary | Eleanor Audley |
| Detective | Robert B. Williams |

Having severed with Metro, Esther Williams, in her first freelance outing, essays a straight dramatic role without jumping into a pool, going near the water, or even donning a bathing suit. The result is on the plus side, for the bathing suit-less and dry Miss Williams emerges as a competent and appealing performer without the aquatic accoutrements.

In the slickly-filmed Gordon Kay production, having the typical Universal polish (as identifiable with the film company as popular magazine fiction), Miss Williams portrays a high school teacher involved in a psychological sex melodrama. The story is also out of the pop magazine hopper, but it is agreeably presented and sufficiently suspenseful to place it a notch about the norm. Theatres that play Universal product will find "The Unguarded Moment" a generally satisfactory entry.

In addition to presenting a grounded Miss Williams, the film marks Rosalind Russell's debut as an author, the actress having written the original story in collaboration with Larry Marcus who, in turn, co-scripted the screenplay with Herb Meadows.

Universal, as most film companies, is seeking a performer to assume the mantle of the late James Dean. As its contender, it is offering John Saxon, a young graduate of its talent development school who is receiving the "introducing" treatment in "Unguarded Moment."

Saxon is seen as a handsome, brawny and brainy football hero who despite his many assets is outwardly girl shy. He turns out, however, to be the writer of mash notes and a night prowler criminally inclined to assault woman. Miss Williams, as a shapely, attractive music teacher, is a victim. Her efforts to protect the school and the mixed-up youth backfire and she finds herself charged with encouraging the boy, resulting in her suspension from the school.

Her attempts at clearance and reinstatement are aided by George Nader, young police lieutenant who also eyes Miss Williams romantically. The boy's sexual problem is traced to his demented father whose values are twisted by his wife's desertion.

Saxon no doubt, will have a degree of appeal among femme teenagers, but he has a long way to go before he can be compared to Dean. Nader is smoothly efficient as the police lieutenant. Edward Andrews, as the unctuous, overprotecting father, and Les Tremayne, as the confused high school principal expertly put across their roles.

Harry Keller's direction succeeds in eliciting the maximum suspense elements. William Daniels' camera work and the technical aspects of the production, as stated previously, are slick and polished. Holl.

The Ship That Died Of Shame

"The Ship That Died of Shame," British import which preemed Monday (20) at the Little Carnegie, N. Y., was reviewed from London by VARIETY in the issue of May 11, 1955. Rank presentation of Michael Balcon-Ealing Studios production is based on a Nicholas Monsarrat story which ran in the Satevepost. Continental Distributing Inc. is releasing in the U. S. Original running time of 91 minutes is retained.

"The author's name alone on this one," Clem opined, "should attract filmgoers who flocked to 'The Cruel Sea.' This fact coupled with the reputation of Ealing Studios should make it a good b.o. potentially both in Britain and overseas." Reviewer added that the degradation endured by a "ship with a soul" is "impressively depicted" while the story of three men mainly concerned in her career is unfolded with "suspensive interest." Cast headed by Richard Attenborough turns in "effective" performances. Direction of Michael Relph and Basil Dearden also drew praise.

The Boss

Strong exploitation picture headed for hefty returns during the election period.

Hollywood, Aug. 18.

United Artists release of Frank Seltzer (Walter Seltzer associate) production. Stars John Payne; costars William Bishop, Gloria McGhee, Doe Avedon. Directed by Byron Haskin. Screenplay, Ben Perry; camera, Hal Mohr; editor, Ralph Dawson; music, Albert Glasser. Previewed Aug. 17, '56. Running time, 88 MINS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Matt Brady | John Payne |
| Bob Herriek | William Bishop |
| Lorry Reed | Gloria McGhee |
| Elsie Reynolds | Doe Avedon |
| Tim Brady | Roy Roberts |
| Stanley Millard | Rhys Williams |
| Johnny Mazia | Robin Morse |
| Henry | Gil Lamb |
| Ernie Jackson | Joe Flynn |
| Stitch | Bill Phipps |
| Hamhead | Bob Morgan |
| Roy Millard | Alex Frazer |
| Lazetti | John Mansfield |
| Tom Masterson | George Lynn |
| Governor Beek | Harry Cheshire |

"The Boss" is a hard-hitting melo of the rise and fall of an unscrupulous political boss, with controversial overtones to give it a particularly strong exploitation hook. Film's subject and release during the current political consciousness step up its chances to pay off heftily in the general market as well as program situations.

Producer Frank Seltzer has thinly veiled the Tom Pendergast regime of Kansas City infamy to backdrop his narrative, which Byron Haskin directs for punchy effect. Yarn unfolds in what is subtitled "a middle-class city," but enough of the Kansas City story and its political boss are there to lend honesty of purpose, including the so-called Union Station "massacre" of G-men. Even the entry into politics of a counterpart of Harry S. Truman is inserted, for those who would recognize him. In the title role, John Payne departs from his customary heroics to undertake an unsympathetic characterization, and comes off realistically.

The Ben Perry screenplay opens with Payne returning from World War I to the town where his elder brother is the boss. Upon latter's sudden death, Payne, hard and ambitious, takes over, and the years see his rise to such power that he virtually controls the entire state. Aiding him in his upward stride is William Bishop, a boyhood pal who becomes his legal arm. His high-handed and roughshod methods bring on a wave of reform, which gets nowhere, apparently, until Payne's tie-in with a mob in the rackets leads to his final downfall and he's put away on an income tax-evasion rap.

Payne registers impressively, particularly in the later phases of the picture, when he begins to age, and gets smooth assistance from Bishop as the man finally responsible for his conviction. Gloria McGhee is excellent as Payne's wife, whom he marries while on a drunk after the girl he loves, Doe Avedon, refuses to see him when he stands her up. Miss Avedon in her brief appearances also is good, as is Roy Roberts, Payne's brother. Robin Morse, the gang leader whose men get trigger-happy while trying to rescue a pal from Government men at the Union Station, is a particular standout. Joe Flynn enacts the Truman character.

Technical credits are first class, including photography by Hal Mohr, Albert Glasser's score and Ralph Dawson's tight editing. Walter Seltzer functions as associate producer. Whit.

Canyon River
(C'SCOPE—COLOR)

George Montgomery in okay western for general outdoor trade.

Hollywood, Aug. 10.

Allied Artists release of Richard Heermance production. Stars George Montgomery, Marcia Henderson, Peter Graves, Richard Eyer; features Walter Sande, Robert Wilke, Alan Hale, John Harmon, Jack Lambert, William Fawcett. Directed by Harmon Jones. Story and screenplay, Daniel B. Ullman; camera (De Luxe Color), Ellsworth Fredricks; editor, George White; music, Martin Skiles. Previewed Aug. 3, '56. Running time, 79 MINS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Steve Patrick | George Montgomery |
| Janet Hale | Marcia Henderson |
| Bob Andrews | Peter Graves |
| Chuck Hale | Richard Eyer |
| Maddox | Walter Sande |
| Graycoe | Robert Wilke |
| Lynch | Alan Hale |
| Ben | John Harmon |
| Kincaid | Jack Lambert |
| Jergens | William Fawcett |

This is about a cattle drive in reverse—the herd's being taken from Oregon back to Wyoming. To further upset western tradition, there's a gal along as trial cook. Not much else has a twist, though, so it comes out as an okay outdoor feature toplining George Montgomery for attention in the action market.

The Scott R. Dunlap presentation, produced by Richard Heermance, keeps a close eye on the budget in spots by using some trail herd stock shots that don't match at all well with the newer footage that is ably lensed in CinemaScope and De Luxe Color by Ellsworth Fredricks. Other than this incongruous touch, though, Harmon Jones' direction of the Daniel B. Ullman screen story, keeps the picture playing at an interesting pace with generally good performances to help.

Montgomery is the rancher. Longhorns are a drug on the market in Wyoming so he schemes to import some Herefords from Oregon and crossbreed a tough, new stock. His forman, Peter Graves, apparently goes along with the plan, but plots to take over himself at trail's end via joining forces with Walter Sande in a rustling deal that will eliminate Montgomery—fatally. During the rugged trail trek, though, his boss proves such a good Joe that Graves has a change of heart and gets himself killed breaking up the rustling job, leaving Montgomery to start his new herd with the help of the pretty, widowed cook, warmly played by Marcia Henderson, and her small son, Richard Eyer.

Montgomery capably goes about the hero chores and Graves is excellent as his scheming partner. Eyer is an engaging youngster, while Walter Sande and Robert Wilke are forthright heavies. Alan Hale, John Harmon, Jack Lambert and William Fawcett are colorful as the cut-throat crew Montgomery corrals for the trail drive.

Marlin Skiles' score, editing and other technical assists are okay. Brog.

Child in the House
(BRITISH)

Tearjerker about unhappy child loyally withholding information about her father, hunted by police.

London, Aug. 14.

Eros release of a Golden Era production. Stars Phyllis Calvert, Eric Portman, Stanley Baker, with Mandy Miller. Directed by C. Raker Endfield. Screenplay by C. Raker Endfield from novel by Janet McNeill; camera, Otto Heller; editor, Charles Hasse; music, Mario Nascimbene. At Leicester Square Theatre, London. Running time, 90 MINS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Evelyn Acheson | Phyllis Calvert |
| Henry Acheson | Eric Portman |
| Stephen Lorimer | Stanley Baker |
| Elizabeth Lorimer | Mandy Miller |
| Cassie | Dora Bryan |
| Cook | Joan Hickson |
| Bert | Victor Maddern |
| Det. Sergeant Taylor | Percy Herbert |
| Vera Mennings | Jean Benham |
| Professor Topolski | Martin Miller |
| Peter McNally | Christopher Toyne |
| Ticket Collector | Alfie Bass |
| Mrs. Parsons | Molly Urquhart |
| P. C. Jennings | Bruce Beeby |
| Howard Forbes | Peter Burton |

It is rare that the filming of a novel captures the same atmosphere of a book, unless in expert hands regarding scripting, direction and casting. In this case it is most likely the adaptors who are at fault, the result being somewhat slipshod. Modest entertainment is suited to a double bill here. It is a conventional tearjerker of a child's loyalty to a worthless father, ending in his final conversion.

Mandy Miller, who won immediate fame as the dumb child in "Mandy" some years back, has an emotional, frustrating role as an 11-year-old niece in the temporary care of her aunt and uncle. Her mother is hospitalized and her father is away on some mysterious Continental errand.

The aunt never reaches first base with the child, her barrister husband drawing together the only threads of understanding between them. The warmhearted housemaid provides the simplest human contact for the lonely girl, fretting for her mother and dimly aware of her father's criminal activities. He meets her secretly, exacting a promise she will not disclose his presence in London. Thereafter, the girl is torn between lying subterfuge and the desperate need to meet her father.

In the early stages the dialog is scrappy, and does little to impress the basic facts. The barrister accuses his wife of hating the child because of their own loveless and fruitless union. His brother-in-law had robbed him while working in his firm, but there seems no logical reason for his crookedness, except a love of luxury, travel and an aptitude to form phoney companies.

With a minimum of dialog, Mandy arouses sympathy for the forlorn, defiant child. Phyllis Calvert subtly conveys the underlying malice behind the aunt's apparent solic-

(Continued on page 18)

VENICE'S 'FACELIFT ON LIDO'

Resort Towns' Hardtop Theatres Give Cool Weather Credit For Hot B.O.

Boston, Aug. 21.

Resort picture houses from Maine's coast to Massachusetts' Cape Cod are doing very well this season, unaffected by the spread of resort niteries, rural drive-ins, and television sets. Indeed resort town theatres are doing better this summer than last due to a cool July which found the moppet set more inclined to move indoors.

Film houses did especially good biz in Cape Cod resort towns, Onset, Hyannis, Orleans, Provincetown, Wareham. In Maine, the two film houses at Ogunquit, three at York Beach, two at Old Orchard, and others at Wells, Kennebunkport reported attendance way up over last season. The story was the same at Hampton Beach, N. H., Revere, Nantasket and Falmouth in Mass.

Boston film bookers, supplying the conventional resort theatres, say business is "sensational" at these houses compared with recent past years.

The houses are playing regular release. No special advertising or exploitation is used. There has been no noticeable change in the number of accounts film exchanges have on their books seasonally.

Credit the weather, say showmen. Coolness favored hardtop theatres. Last year, an abnormally hot summer, hurricanes and floods crimped at the resort picture houses.

Only Imports With Early Release Tag to Get Crack At TOA Foreign Film Fair

In an effort to maintain a timely interest, only imports skedded for early release will be considered for screening at the foreign film fair which Theatre Owners of America is arranging in connection with its September convention.

TOA last week reported that 23 films have already been made available for screening by its selection committee. Total of six features will be shown at the Museum of Modern Art, N. Y., during the week preceding the convention which launches Sept. 20.

First showing will be Sept. 12. Films from Germany, Japan, Italy, France, England and one other country will be represented. There may be repeat showings during the convention. According to TOA, 31 French and nine Italian reps already have made reservations, indicating a heavy turnout of foreign visitors who, this year, are being welcomed at the TOA conclave.

Walter Reade Jr., exec chairman of the convention and tradeshow, said last week the primary purpose of the fair was "to dispel any thought of prejudice on the part of the American exhibitors toward foreign-made films."

Chicago Lensers Deny Spiegel Standby Claim

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Bernard Mamet, attorney for Local 666 of the Chicago Cameramen's union, affiliated with the IATSE, last week denied producer Sam Spiegel's claim that he was forced by the union, which also has jurisdiction in Florida, to employ standby crews while filming "End As A Man" down there.

Union's claim is that Spiegel contacted them early this year to order a Florida crew to lens the pic and that, therefore, a crew was made available for him. Union further charges that Spiegel later decided to bring in Hollywood cameramen, but that they would not let him dismiss the Florida crew, which was ordered in advance and therefore gave up other work to be available. Attorney Mamet pointed out that standby crews are illegal under Taft-Hartley.

Disney's 2-for-1 Split

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Two-for-one split of Walt Disney Productions' common stock became effective yesterday (Mon.) with filing of certificate of amendment to incorporation articles. Certificates are to be issued to stockholders of record Aug. 17 on one-for-one basis.

Prior to the split the firm had 652,840 outstanding shares at $5 par.

Film Cos., Exhibs Rap N.Y. Cops On Kleig Klatches

Film companies and Main Stem theatre operators are seeking a clarification of the N.Y. Police Dept.'s policy relating to Broadway ballyhoo and activities connected with film preems. In recent months, it's charged, the Dept. has put the clamp on all street hoopla and its policy has been marked by evasion, uncertainty and confusion.

Efforts are being made by the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Assn. to meet with city authorities to obtain a modus operandi for Broadway premieres. In addition, theatre ops are eliciting the support of the Broadway Assn.

Film companies and theatremen charge that Gotham is the only city in the U.S. that does not provide full cooperation for street activities. This is regarded as somewhat paradoxical in light of the fact that New York is in the midst of a summer festival aimed at attracting tourists and providing events to interest out-of-towners as well as natives. In addition, it's pointed out that the premieres lend the aura of glamor that is identified with Broadway. Proponents of main stem hoopla maintain that the activities can be put on in a manner that will not detract from the area.

From the police standpoint, the street events attract crowds, tie up traffic and deploy policemen from more essential duties. According to a Police Dept. spokesman, each application for a Broadway event

(Continued on page 14)

'LUST FOR LIFE' TEST IN SIX KEY ARTIES

Metro is booking "Lust for Life," starring Kirk Douglas as painter Vincent Van Gogh, in six art houses as test engagements before settling a national release pattern for the picture.

In New York, for example, the premiere at the Plaza Theatre will be a benefit for the Metropolitan Museum of Art, with all proceeds going to the institution's Student Fellowship Program. In San Francisco, a similar arrangement has been with the California Palace of Legion of Honor Museum. Other house dates include Chicago, Atlanta, Detroit and Beverly Hills.

Major part of the initial campaign is being aimed at schools. In addition to providing various educational institutions with special booklets, bulletins, and study guides, M-G is offering, via McGraw-Hill's 16m film department, a 30-minute color film dealing with the production of "Lust for Life." Picture is narrated by production chief Dore Schary. Special field men have been hired to take the film into schools and colleges and to supplement the film with lectures.

Metro is also making arrangements with local exhibitors to provide discount coupons for student groups.

ONLY 15 ENTRIES; MPEA IS ABSENT

By ROBERT F. HAWKINS

Venice, Aug. 21.

When the 17th Venice Film Festival begins unspooling next Tuesday (28), it will be showing a completely revamped face to the public, the industryites, and the critics expected from all over the world for the annual get-together on the lagoon.

The facelifting job they will find will not only be the physical refreshening which the film palace on the Lido is now undergoing (a new gallery box for celebs has been installed, among other things), but the much more vital structural and organizational one which has gone right to the heart of things.

In a do-or-die attempt to bring this granddaddy of all film events (the first film festival opened here in 1932) back to its former importance—as well as its proper dimension and purpose—the Venice authorities, headed by a new director, Floris Luigi Ammannati, have thrown caution to the winds and come up with a large number of drastic innovations.

First, they have cut the number of features in competition to 14—less than half the number run at Venice and other "inflated" fetes in the past years—with the result that a 12-day duration is now possible for the Festival, and almost all screenings will be held at night, thus giving each pic its proper importance.

Second, they have cut the number of prizes—previously for practical purposes on a one-per-country basis—to three: best picture, best actress, best actor. No "special awards," no medals. In the light of the severe pre-selection principle applied this year, admission of a pic to the Venice event

(Continued on page 12)

Sam Spiegel Attacks High Ratio Of Distribution Costs to Grosses

Benjamin Chairs JDA

Robert S. Benjamin, United Artists board chairman, will serve as chairman of the film industry's 1956 drive for the Joint Defense Appeal.

JDA raises funds for the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

O'Donnell, Coyne Extolled, Allied Barbed by ITOA

Exhibition and distribution execs joined in Thursday (16) as the Independent Theatre Owners Assn. of New York saluted Robert J. O'Donnell and Robert W. Coyne for their spearheading of the recent Federal tax campaign. In addition to posies for the two Bobs, the session served as a medium for expressions of ill feeling toward Allied States and a "well done" to the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, which is headed by Coyne.

ITOA president Harry Brandt specifically pointed out that no Allied rep was invited to the Sheraton-Astor "victory" celebration. Several other barbs were directed at this exhib organization, which wasn't identified by name, for its aloofness from the tax campaign until removal of the 10% admissions levy came into view as a possibility.

Coyne, said Brandt, met an immediate rebuff from a "dissident

(Continued on page 18)

After much talk and little action re overhauling the pattern of selling pictures around the world, the film companies may be forced into such a move—forced by independent producers. While assuming an increasingly dominant role in the overall scheme of things, the indies also are outspokenly more and more irritated with what they regard as excessive charges against their pictures to cover the costs of channeling them through to global exhibitors.

In New York last week Sam Spiegel, whose "On the Waterfront" drew considerable monetary and critical tribute, beefed openly to a reporter that the companies are overstocked with offices and personnel and a streamlining job is called for. "Every industry has economized on the selling end except the picture industry," said the film-maker, adding: "The companies are still set up as they were years ago when each released about 60 films, yet some are now selling about a third of that number."

Spiegel's specific gripe is that 27½% to 30% of a film's domestic gross must go for distribution and in the foreign field it's up to 40%. Lopping of some of these costs very often would mean the difference between profit and loss, he insists.

Producer wants to know why a company needs up to 32 exchanges offices in the United States and seven or eight in Canada. He's not for sluffing off the small theatres, he said, but believes they could be

(Continued on page 12)

'Bigger Than Life' Sole U.S. Entry From Majors At Venice Film Fest

"Bigger Than Life," a 20th-Fox release, will be the only contender from any of the major U. S. companies at the forthcoming Venice film festival. Pic was chosen by the fest's artistic selection committee.

Also to be shown at Venice but outside of competition, is "Bus Stop," the Marilyn Monroe starrer. It'll wind the fest on closing night, after presentation of the awards.

With the exception of 20th, all other major companies have refused to make their films available to the Venice selection group. Hollywood—as an industry—will not be repped at the festival for the first time in many years. The companies refuse to accept the principle of Venice picking the pix it wants. Instead, as in the past, they want to select their own entries.

Venice Festival Entries

Venice, Aug. 21.

Pix showing at Venice's feature film fete, besides the Yank entries—"Bigger Than Life" (20th), and "Attack" (Aldrich for UA)—include the following:

From Italy: "Suor Letizia" (Rizzoli for Columbia), directed by Mario Camerini; starring Anna Magnani, Eleonora Rossi Drago, Antonio Ciffariello. In black and white, it's the story of a missionary nun (Magnani) who returns to her home town and "adopts" a son until she realizes she'll have to give him up. It's Miss Magnani's first since her Oscar-winning "Rose Tattoo." Columbia has worldwide release; "Impero del Sole," made by Mario Craveri and Enrico Gras, in color and C-Scope. A documentary feature made in Peru by members of the team which made the prizewinning "Lost Continent."

From France: "Gervaise," directed by Rene Clement, from Emile Zola's novel "L'Assomoir"; with Maria Schell and Francois Perier—a co-production with Germany; "Traversee de Paris," directed by Claude Autant-Lara.

From Spain: "Calle Mayor," directed by Juan Antonio Bardem, with Betsy Blair, Jose Suarez—a co-production with France which was held up some time when Bardem was jailed by Spain for suspected anti-governmental tendencies; "Calabuigh," with Edmund Gwenn, Valentina Cortese, Franco Fabrizi; directed by Luis Garcia Berlanga (who together with Bardem made the w.k. "Welcome Mr. Marshall," which put postwar Spanish cinema on the map).

From Japan: "Akasen Chitai," directed by Kenji Mizoguchi (his first pic in "modern" settings); with Machico Kyo; pic reviewed in VARIETY July 25 from Tokyo. Also titled "Street of Shame" and "Red Light District"; other Jap entry is "Biruma No Tategoto," directed by Kon Ichigawa.

From Mexico: "Toro," directed by Carlos Velos, this pic of the bullfighting life as seen by Luis Procuna was shown privately at Cannes, where it received strong word-of-mouth, and reviewed in VARIETY July 11.

From Germany: "Hauptmann von Koepenick," based on the work by Carl Zuckmayer, directed by Helmut Kautner, with Heinz Ruhmann starred.

From Greece: "The Ogre of Athens," directed by Nikos Koundouros.

From Soviet Russia: "Immortal Garrison," directed by A. Agramenko and Eduard Tisse, based on the legendary defense of the fortress of Brest-Litovsk.

As most of these pix will be shown at night, the afternoons and mornings will be dedicated to various meetings and events, and to two giant retrospective showings dedicated to the works of two directors, Carl Theodor Dreyer, the Danish vet filmmaker whose "Ordet" won the top prize at Venice in 1955, and to Charles Chaplin.

Three new books will be prepared and issued by the Venice Festival this year:

By Mario Verdone, on set and art direction in motion pictures.

By Antonio Petrucci, on the use of color in motion pictures.

By Flavia Paulon, on the technical evolution of pix, as seen in films shown through the years at Venice's Festival.

U.S. Enters 3 Films At Edinburgh and Venice

Washington, Aug. 21.

U. S. Government is participating in the 10th International Film Festival in Edinburgh, Scotland, and the International Exhibition of Cinematographic Art in Venice, Italy.

Three 35m films have been entered in the Edinburgh festival by the U. S. Information Agency. They are "Blessings of Atomic Energy," depicting Japanese achievements in atomic research; "The Scroll," a color film highlighting paintings by Dong Kingman; and "Asian Artists in Crystal," an exhibition of crystal forms engraved from drawings by Near East and Far East artists. Latter two subjects are also displayed in Venice.

Other Government motion pictures have been entered by the Dept. of Commerce, Dept. of the Interior, Dept. of Defense, U. S. Coast Guard, and the National Archives.

American delegate to the Venice festival is Joseph F. Beattie, Chief of Visual Aids, Veterans Administration. Col. Willard Webb of the Library of Congress is the representative at the Edinburgh festival.

L.A. Loaded With H.O.s; 'Moby' Mighty 105G, 'Likes Me' Fancy 60G, 'Lisbon' Great 96G, 'Society' Lively 24G, 3d

Los Angeles, Aug. 21.

Only one of three new bills is generating much interest among Los Angeles firstruns this session but continued activity of many holdovers is spurring the city to a good overall take, especially in view of impact of televised political conventions. Best of newcomers is Republic's dual combo of "Lisbon" and "Dakota Incident," which looks good $23,000 plus $73,000 more via three nabes and eight ozoners.

"Moby Dick" mild $15,000 in three theatres, is getting $90,000 additional from three hardtops and seven ozoners. "Bigger Than Life," also new, is slow $13,000 in three sites.

"Somebody Up There Likes Me" is good $13,000 in two spots, second week, plus $47,000 additional from two nabes and seven driveins. "Trapeze" looks fine $29,000 for second round in four houses. "High Society" shapes fancy $24,000 in third week at Pantages.

Estimates for This Week

Hillstreet, El Rey, Iris (RKO-FWC) (2,752; 861; 816; 80-$1.25)—"Moby Dick" (WB) with 2d-run pix. Mild $15,000 or near plus $90,000 in 3 hardtops and 7 ozoners. Last week, Hillstreet, "Walk Proud Land" (U) and "Raw Edge" (U) (2d wk), $4,300. El Rey, Iris with Globe, "Johnny Concho" (3d wk Iris, 1st wk m.o. elsewhere), $7,300.

Los Angeles, New Fox, Ritz (FWC) (2,097; 965; 1,363; 90-$1.50)—"Bigger Than Life" (20th), "Shadow of Fear" (UA). Slow $13,000. Last week, "Queen Babylon" (20th) "Forbidden Cargo" (Indie) (1st wk), $11,300.

Warner Downtown, Wiltern, Hawaii (SW-G&S) (1,757; 2,344; 1,106; 80-$1.50)—"Lisbon" (Rep) and "Dakota Incident" (Rep). Good $23,000 or near. Last week, Downtown "White City Sleeps" (RKO) and "Flying Leathernecks" (RKO) (reissue) (2d wk), thin $3,900. Wiltern, Hawaii in other unit.

Fox Wilshire (FWC) (2,296; $1-$1.75)—"Ambassador's Daughter" (UA) (2d wk). Big $7,500. Last week, $10,300.

State, Vogue (UATC-FWC) (2,404; 835; 80-$1.25)—"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G), with 2d run pix (2d wk). Good $13,000 or

(Continued on page 18)

Broadway Grosses

Estimated Total Gross
This Week ..... ....$722,900
(Based on 22 theatres)
Last Year .....$643,300
(Based on 20 theatres)

'Profane' Proud $11,000, Indpls.

Indianapolis, Aug. 21.

Biz is oke to big at all firstrun situations here this stanza despite Democratic convention interest via tele "Pardners" is boxoffice leader in total coin at the Indiana, but "Proud and Profane" is actually bigger at Keith's. "High Society" is doing sock trade in second stanza at Loew's, and may hold again. "Queen of Bablyon" is getting nice play at Circle with help from Rhonda Fleming, who put in day here plugging the film.

Estimates for This Week

Circle (Cockrill-Dolle) (2,800; 50-85) — "Queen of Babylon" (20th) and "Abdullah's Harem" (20th). Neat $9,000. Last week, "Seven Men From Now" (WB) and "Satellite in Sky" (WB), $8,000.

Indiana (Cockrill-Dolle) (3,200; 75-$1) — "Pardners" (Par). Nice $13,000. Last week, "King and I" (20th) (5th wk), $8,000.

Keith's (Cockrill-Dolle) (1,300; 75-$1)—"Proud and Profane" (Par). Smash $11,000. Last week, "Moby Dick" (WB) (4th wk), $6,000.

Loew's (Loew) (2,427; 75-95) — "High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Sock $10,000 after $18,500 opener.

'PROFANE' LUSTY 11G, OMAHA; 'LIKES ME' 4G

Omaha, Aug. 21.

A coolish weekend will help total biz at downtown firstruns here this week. "Proud and Profane" at the Orpheum tops the new entries, being rated big. "Earth Vs. Flying Saucers" opened strong at the Brandeis but weakened. The holdovers, "Pardners" at the Omaha and "Somebody Up There Likes Me" at State, are still okay but will be pulled after their second stanzas.

Estimates for This Week

Brandeis (RKO) (1,000; 75-$1)—"Earth Vs. Flying Saucers" (Col) and "Werewolf" (Col). Fair $4,000. Last week, "Eddy Duchin Story" (Col) (4th wk), $3,500.

Omaha (Tristates) (2,000; 75-$1)—"Pardners" (Par) (2d wk). Falling to $6,500 after $12,500 debut.

Orpheum (Tristates) (2,890; 75-90)—"Proud and Profane" (Par). Fine $11,000 or close. Last week, "Moby Dick" (WB) (2d wk), $6,500 with $1 top.

State (Goldberg) (860; 75-$1)—"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G) (2d wk). Good $4,000. Last week, $7,000.

'OKLA.' BRISK $20,000, BUFF; 'SOCIETY' SAME

Buffalo, Aug. 21.

"High Society" is rated smash this round at the Buffalo but real attention is being centered on preem of "Oklahoma" which looms big at the Century. Some feel it was not up to hopes in view of scale and capacity. "Proud and Profane" shapes potent in second Paramount stanza.

Estimates for This Week

Buffalo (Loew) (3,000; 70-$1)—"High Society" (M-G). Smash $20,000. Last week, "Black Sleep" (UA) and "Creeping Unknown" (UA), $13,000.

Paramount (Par) (3,000; 50-80)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) and "Strange Adventure" (Indie) (2d wk). Big $12,000. Last week, $17,000.

Center (Par) (2,000; 50-$1)—"Moby Dick" (WB) (3d wk). Stalwart $10,000. Last week, $13,000.

Lafayette (Basil) (3,000; 50-95)—"Duchin Story" (Col) and "Magnificent Roughnecks" (AA) (4th wk). Good $9,500. Last week, $12,000.

Century (Buhawk) (2,000; $1.25-$2)—"Oklahoma" (Magna). Big $20,000. Last week, house closed to prep for "Oklahoma."

Teck (Cinema Products) (1,200; $1.20-$2.40)—"Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (29th wk). Sturdy $15,000. Last week, same.

'Duchin' Sock 18G, Frisco; 'Okla.' 17G

San Francisco, Aug. 21.

GOP convention here in current week is giving only a minor uplift to local firstrun biz which is continuing the recent fast pace. "Eddy Duchin Story" looks standout with a mighty session at St. Francis. "High Society" still is smash in second Warfield stanza. "First Traveling Saleslady" is rated good at Golden Gate.

Estimates for This Week

Golden Gate (RKO) (2,859; 80-$1)—"First Traveling Saleslady" (RKO) and "Thunderstorm" (AA). Good $12,000. Last week, "Walk Proud Land" (U) and "Raw Edge" (U), $12,000.

Fox (FWC) (4,651; $1.25-$1.50)—"King and I" (20th) (3th wk). Big $12,500. Last week, $14,000.

Warfield (Loew) (2,656; 65-90)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Smash $22,000. Last week, $35,000.

Paramount (Par) (2,646; 90-$1)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) (2d wk). Okay $10,000. Last week, $17,000.

St. Francis (Par) (1,400; $1-$1.25)—"Duchin Story" (Col). Wham $18,000. Last week, "Moby Dick" (WB) (5th wk), $10,000.

Orpheum (Cinerama Theatre Calif.) (1,458; $1.75-$2.65)—"Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (55th wk). Fancy $18,500. Last week, $19,800.

United Artists (No. Coast) (1,207; 70-$1)—"Johnny Concho" (UA) and "Kiss Before Dying" (UA) (2d wk). Oke $8,700. Last week, $14,500.

Larkin (Rosener) (400; $1)—"Madame Butterfly" (IFE). Fine $5,300. Last week, "The Last Ten Days" (Indie) (4th wk), $1,900.

Clay (Rosener) (400; $1)—"Adorable Creatures" (Indie) (7th wk). Big $2,700. Last week, $3,100.

Bridge (Schwarz) (396; $1-$1.25)—"Ladykillers" (Cont) (9th wk). Solid $1,800. Last week, $2,500.

Coronet (United California) (1,250; $1.10-$2.75)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (26th wk). Sturdy $17,000. Last week, $17,400.

Rio (Schwarz) (397; $1)—"Naked Heart" (Indie). Okay $1,200. Last week. "Appointment In London" (Indie), $1,700.

'Society' Det. Ace, $25,000; 'Wonders' Wham 34G, 'Duchin' 20G, 'Boats' 12G

Key City Grosses

Estimated Total Gross
This Week ..... .$2,842,200
(Based on 21 cities and 217 theatres, chiefly first runs, including N. Y.)
Total Gross Same Week
Last Year .....$2,793,200
(Based on 22 cities and 210 theatres.)

'Pardners' Perky $16,000, Philly

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.

Nosedive at boxoffice here this session is being blamed on telecast of the national political conventions, hot weather and August vacations. But dearth of new product probably can be blamed equally as much for leisurely pace. "Somebody Up There Likes Me" is getting the biggest coin total of new pix, with a nice stanza at the Stanley. "Run For Sun" is rated good at Viking. Probably the standout showing will be turned in by "Pardners," with a tall total at the Goldman.

Estimates for This Week

Arcadia (S&S) (526; 99-$1.40)—"Bhowani Junction" (M-G) (7th wk). Oke $4,500. Last week, $5,500.

Boyd (SW) (1,430; $1.25-$2.60)—"Seven Wonders of World" (Indie) (17th wk). Steady $17,000. Last week, $18,000.

Fox (20th) (2,250; 75-$1.45) — "King and I" (20th) (6th wk). Big $18,000. Last week, $21,000.

Goldman (Goldman) (1,250; 65-$1.35) — "Pardners" (Par). Stout $16,000. Last week, "Away All Boats" (U) (4th wk), $10,500.

Green Hill (Serena) (750; 75-$1.25) (Closed Sundays)—"Kid for Two Farthings" (Indie) (3d wk). Fair $3,500. Last week, $4,500.

Mastbaum (SW) (4,370; 90-$1.49)—"Walk Proud Land" (U). Sad $9,000. Last week, "Satellite in Sky" (WB) and "Spell of Hypnotist" (Indie), $10,000.

Randolph (Goldman) (2,250; 99-$1.49)—"Eddy Duchin Story" (Col) (8th wk). Good $10,000. Last week, $12,000.

Stanley (SW) (2,900; 99-$1.49)—"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G). Fine $21,000. Last week, "Moby Dick" (WB) (6th wk), $10,000.

Stanton (SW) (1,483; 99-$1.49)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) (7th wk). So-so $7,000. Last week, $8,000.

Trans-Lux (T-L) (500; 99-$1.80)—"Trapeze" (UA) (8th wk). Okay $7,500. Last week, $10,500.

Viking (Sley) (1,000; 75-$1.49)—"Run for Sun" (UA). Good $12,000. Last week, "High Noon" (UA) and "Moon is Blue" (UA) (reissues). (2d wk) $8,000.

World (Pathe) (499; 99-$1.49) — "Madam Butterfly" (IFE) (5th wk), Nice $3,500. Last week, $4,000.

'Duchin' Dandy $17,000 Leads in Prov.; 'Prison' Stout 11G, 'Paces' 6G

Providence, Aug. 21.

Loew's State is topping the town with "Eddy Duchin Story," landing a torrid session. Also on the hot side is RKO Albee's "Girl In Prison." Majestic is barely good with "23 Paces to Baker Street."

Estimates for This Week

Albee (RKO) (2,200; 50-85)—"Girls In Prison" (Indie) and "Hot Rod Girl" (Indie). Surprising $11,000. Last week, "Away All Boats" (U) and "Jail Busters" (AA (2d wk), nice $6,000.

Majestic (Fay) (2,200; 50-85)—"2 Paces to Baker Street" (20th). Expecting fairly good $6,000 in 5 days. Last week, "King and I" (20th) (2d wk-9 days), nifty $11,000.

State (Loew) (3,200; 65-90)—"Eddy Duchin Story" (Col). Hot $17,000. Last week, "Fastest Gun Alive" (M-G) and "Killer Is Loose" (UA), $11,500.

Strand (Silverman) (2,200; 50-85)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) (2d wk). Slow $5,000. First week, $9,000.

Detroit, Aug. 21.

Because the Democratic National convention didn't greatly affect grosses in those downtowners doing biz here, about the same type of good session is expected while the Republicans are in session this stanza. "Seven Wonders of World" shapes wow in second week first full stanza, at Music Hall. "Eddy Duchin Story" stays great in second stanza at the Madison. "Black Sleep" looks alive at the Broadway Capitol. "High Society" is hitting the heights at the Adams.

Estimates for This Week

Fox (Fox-Detroit) (5,000; $1-$1.25)—"King and I" (20th) (7th wk). Good $13,500. Last week, $15,500.

Michigan (United Detroit) (4,000; $1-$1.25)—"Moby Dick" (WB) (4th wk). Oke $14,000. Last week, $17,000.

Palms (UD) (2,961; $1-$1.25) — "Away All Boats" (U) and "Star in Dust" (U) (2d wk). Good $12,000. Last week, $19,000.

Madison (UD) (1,900; $1-$1.25)—"Duchin Story" (Col) (2d wk). Hot $20,000. Last week, $27,000.

Broadway-Capitol (UD) (3,500; $1-$1.25)—"Black Sleep" (UA) and "Creeping Unknown" (UA). Strong $18,000. Last week, "7 Men from Now" (WB) and "Way Out" (RKO), $14,000.

United Artists (UA) (1,667; $1.25-$2.75)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (27th wk). Nice $11,000. Last week, $12,600.

Adams (Balaban) (1,700; $1-$1.25)—"High Society" (M-G). Terrific $25,000. Last week, "These Wilder Years" (M-G), (2d wk), $7,500.

Music Hall (Cinerama Productions) (1,194; $1.40-$2.65) — "Seven Wonders" (Indie) (2d wk). Wow $34,000. Last week, $26,000 in 4 days.

Krim (Krim) (1,000; $1.25) — "Catered Affair" (M-G) (4th wk). Oke $3,500 in 4-day week. Last week, $6,200.

'Moby' Mighty $21,000, Toronto; 'Kettles' 10G, 'Pirates' Rousing 20G

Toronto, Aug. 21.

"Moby Dick" is off to a wham start this round, with "Kettles in the Ozarks" also okay. "King and I" is still topping the city on its third stanza, with a terrific take. Double-bill Canadian preem of "Davy Crockett" and "River Pirates" plus his "Man in Space" shapes big in five houses. Fourth round of "Eddy Duchin Story" is holding hefty. "Somebody Up There Likes Me" also is hep in second stanza.

Estimates for This Week

Carlton, Fairlawn Rank) (2,318; 1,165; 60-$1) — "Duchin Story" (Col) (4th wk). Hot $14,000. Last week, $20,000.

Christie, Colony, Danforth, Humber, Paradise (Rank) (877; 838; 1,330; 1,203; 643; 60-$1)—"Davy Crockett River Pirates" (BV) and "Man in Space" (BV). Big $20,000 or close.

Circle, Towne (Taylor) (750; 693; 60-$1)—"Cast a Dark Shadow" (IFD) (2d wk). Neat $5,000. Last week, $6,000.

Downtown, Glendale, Scarboro, State, Westwood (Taylor) (1,054; 995; 694; 696; 994; 40-75)—"Raw Edge" (U) and "Behind High Wall" (U). Okay $13.500. Last week, "Godzilla" (Indie) and "Manfish" (UA), $15,500.

Eglinton, University (FP) (1,080; 1,556; 60-$1)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue). Fine $14,000. Last week, "Satellite in the Sky" (WB), $7,000.

Hyland (Rank) (1,357; 75-$1)—"Intermezzo" (Indie) and "Portrait of Jenny" (Indie) (reissues). Light $7,000. Last week, "All for Mary" (Rank) (4th wk), $4,000.

Imperial (FP) (3,344; 60-$1.10)—"Moby Dick" (WB). Great $21,000. Last week, "Safari" (Col), $13,000.

International (Taylor) (557; $1)—"Escapade" (IFD) (2d wk). Fine $5,000. Last week, $4,500.

Loew's (Loew) (2,098; 60-$1)—"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G) (2d wk). Sturdy $12,000. Last week, $16,000.

Shea's (FP) (2,375; 60-$1)—"King and I" (20th) (3d wk). Terrific $24,000. Last week. $27,000.

Tivoli (FP) (995; $1.50; $2)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (17th wk). Fine $11,000. Last week, $12,000.

Uptown (Loew) (2,745; 60-$1)—"Kettles in Ozarks" (U). Good $10,000. Last week, "Away All Boats" (U) (2d wk), $6,000.

Cincy Still Big; M&L Okay $11,000; 'Society' Socko 16G, 'Boats' 9G, 2d

Cincinnati, Aug. 21.

Another round of healthy grossers is holding sway this week at downtown houses. "Pardners" shapes okay at the big Albee. The other new bill, "These Wilder Years," has the Palace almost at par stride. Lead is being retained by "High Society" in second week after its record-breaking opening at the Grand. "Away All Boats" continues smooth sailing at Keith's, also in second. "Seven Wonders of World" hovers close to run's top grocs, set last week in 10th frame.

Estimates for This Week

Albee (RKO) (2,100; 85-$1.25)—"Pardners" (Par). Okay $11,000. Last week, "King and I" (20th) (5th wk-6 days), $8,500 at 84-$1.50 scale.

Capitol (Ohio Cinema Corp.) (1,376; $1.20-$2.65)—"Seven Wonders" (Indie) (11th wk). Might go a bit higher than last week's $5,500, record for run.

Grand (RKO) (1,400; 84-$1.50)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Great $16,000 on heels of $35,500 bow which set an alltime high here. Holds for run.

Keith's (Shor) (1,500; 75-$1.25)—"Away All Boats" (U) (2d wk). Good $9,000 after last week's $12,500.

Palace (RKO) (2,600; 84-$1.25)—"These Wilder Years" (M-G). Fairish $9,500. Last week, "Moby Dick" (WB) (4th wk), 4 days, and "Davy Crockett and River Pirates" (BV), days, $8,500.

Dems, H.O.s Hamper Chi; 'Feeling' Nifty $38,000, 'Land' Great $20,000; 'Boats' Sock 36G, 'Saucers' 19G, 2d

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Firstruns are doing better than expected this frame, in view of scarcity of new entries, and fact that the Demo convention last week hurt somewhat.

"That Certain Feeling" is headed for a nifty $38,000 first week at the Chicago. Combo of "Walk The Proud Land" and "Raw Edge" looks mighty $20,000 in same week at Grand.

"Away All Boats" shapes great in second State-Lake round. "Earth Vs. Flying Saucers" and "Werewolf" continues big in second Roosevelt stanza. "Glory" and "Postmark for Danger" shapes okay in second Monroe round.

"Riffi" is great in the third Ziegfeld week. "Ambassador's Daughter" continues to do big in fourth week at Esquire. "Eddy Duchin Story" is still lively in seventh at the Woods. "King and I" continues solid in eighth Oriental round. "The Ladykillers" is still potent in eighth at the Surf.

"Trapeze" is winding up nicely in 10th week at the United Artists. "Oklahoma" is sturdy in 34th frame at the McVickers. "Cinerama Holiday" still has punch in 62d week at Palace.

Estimates for This Week

Carnegie (Telem't) (480; 95)—"Lovers and Lollipops" (Indie) (2d wk). Neat $5,200. Last week, $6,500.

Chicago (B&K) (3,900; 98-$1.25)—"Certain Feeling" (Par). Good $38,000. Last week, "Moby Dick" (WB) (5th wk), $21,000.

Esquire (H&E Balaban) (1,400; $1.25) — "Ambassador's Daughter" (UA) (4th wk). Sock $11,000. Last week, $12,000.

Grand (Indie) (1,200; 98-$1.25)—"Walk Proud Land" (U) and "Raw Edge" (U). Terrif $20,000. Last week, "Francis in Haunted House" (U) and "Star in Dust" (U) (2d wk), $7,000.

Loop (Telem't) (606; 90-$1.25)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue) (4th wk). Nice $11,000. Last week, same.

McVickers (JL&S) (1,580; $1.25-$3)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (34th wk). Staunch $23,500. Last week, $25,000.

Monroe (Indie) (1,000; 67-87)—"Glory" (RKO) and "Postmark for Danger" (RKO) (2d wk). Good $4,500. Last week, $6,500.

Oriental (Indie) (3,400; 98-$1.25)—"King and I" (20th) (8th wk). Hefty $29,500. Last week, $31,000.

Palace (Indie) (1,484; $1.25-

(Continued on page 18)

'Wonders' Lofty $27,000, Mpls.; 'Years' Fair 4G, 'Society' Sock 12G, 2d

Minneapolis, Aug. 21.

Holdovers predominate here again and for second successive stanza the Loop has only two newcomers. They're "Santiago" and "These Wilder Years." Latter looks stout at Gopher. Sixth week of "King and I" is smash. A standout is the third week of "Seven Wonders of World." Second session for "High Society" shapes great at State.

Estimates for This Week

Century (S-W) (1,150; $1.75-$2.65)—"Seven Wonders of World" (Indie) (3d wk). This new "Cinerama" offering hitting great gait. Tall $27,000. Last week, $28,000.

Gopher (Berger) (1,000; 85-$1)—"Wilder Years" (M-G). Fair $4,000. or over. Last week, "Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G) (3d wk), $3,200.

Lyric (Par) (1,000; 85-$1)—"Pardners" (Par) (3d wk). Satisfactory $4,000. Last week, $5,500.

Radio City (Par) (1,000; 85-$1)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) (2d wk). Tapering off after healthy first week. Lean $5,500 in 5 days. Last week, $10,000.

RKO Orpheum (RKO) (2,800; 75-$1) — "Santagio" (WB). Good $8,000. Last week, "Earth Vs. Flying Saucers" (Col) and "Werewolf" (Col) (2d wk-4 days) split with "Storm Over Nile" (Col) and "Secret of Treasure Island" (Col), 3 days, $4,500.

RKO Pan (RKO) (1,650; 75-$1)—"Duchin Story" (Col) (5th wk). Finishing long, highly profitable run. Smash $5,000. Last week, $6,000.

State (Par) (2,300; 85-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Great $12,000. Last week, $18,000.

World (Mann) (400; 85-$1.25)—"King and I" (20th) (6th wk). Smash $6,000. Last week, $7,000.

Balto Blah; 'Profane' 7G, 'Boats' Good 4½G

Baltimore, Aug. 21.

Too many holdovers and a humid weekend means unexciting grosses here this week. Second week of "Proud And Profane" is okay at Century. "Somebody Up There Likes Me" looms moderate in a second week at the Town. "Away All Boats" shapes good in third Mayfair week.

Estimates for This Week

Century (Fruchtman) (3,000; 50-$1.25) — "Proud And Profane" (Par) (2d wk). Oke $7,000 after $13,500 in opener.

Cinema (Schwaber) (460; 50-$1.25)—"Seven Little Sins" (Indie) (3d wk). Slim $2,000 following $2,500 in second.

Film Centre (Rappaport) (890; $1.25-$2.50)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (25th wk). Okay $8,000 after $8,500 in 24th.

Five West (Schwaber) (460; 50-$1.25)—"Riffi" (UMPO) (3d wk). Potent $3,500 after $4,000 last week.

Hippodrome (Rappaport) (2,100; 25-$1.25)—"High Society" (M-G). Opens today (Tues.). Fourth round of "Duchin Story" (Col) slim $6,000 after $8,500 for third.

Mayfair (Hicks) (980; 35-$1)—"Away All Boats" (U) (3d wk). Good $4,500 following $6,500 in second.

New (Fruchtman) (1,600; 50-$1.25)—"King And I" (20th) (6th wk)—Staunch $8,000 after $10,000 in fifth.

Playhouse (Schwaber) (410; 50-$1.25)—"Simon And Laura" (Indie). Brisk $4,500. Last week, "Lovers And Lollipops" (Indie) (4th wk), $2,000.

Stanley (WB) (3,200; 30-$1)—"Pardners" (Par) (2d wk). Disappointing $7,000 after $10,000 opener.

Town (Rappaport) (1,400; 50-$1)—"While City Sleeps" (RKO). Starts tomorrow (Wed.). Second week of "Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G), okay $7,000.

'Boats' Boff 20G, K.C.; 'Society' 13G

Kansas City, Aug. 21.

Town has bevy of heavy product, most of them holdovers and many doing well. Smash newcomer is "Away All Boats" playing four Fox Midwest houses, with best showing at these spots in weeks. "High Society" in second week at the Midland is exceptionally strong, while "Pardners" at the Paramount second week is showing unexpected strength. "Eddy Duchin Story" continues strong as extended holdover. Very hot weather is rated a help to the boxoffice.

Estimates for This Week

Glen (Dickinson) (700; 75-$1)—"Gangbusters" (Indie) and "Wire-tappers" (Indie). Light $1,000. Last week, house teamed with Dickinson, Leawood and Shawnee drive-ins with "Hold Back Night" (AA) and "Jamie Dawn" (AA), 4 theatres hearty $13,000.

Kimo (Dickinson) (504; 75-$1)—"Man Who Loved Redheads" (Indie) (4th wk). Okay $1,000. Last week, $1,500.

Midland (Loew) (3,500; 75-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Giant $13,000; goes a third. Last week, $20,000, best this year.

Missouri (SW) (1,194; $1.20-$2)—"This Is Cinerama" (Indie) (10th wk). Holds at big $18,000. Last week, $20,000.

Paramount (United Par) (1,900; 75-$1)—"Pardners" (Par) (2d wk). Nice $7,500. Last week, $12,000, above expectations.

Roxy (Durwood) (879; 75-$1)—"Duchin Story" (Col) (4th wk). Nifty $6,000. Last week, $7,500.

Tower, Uptown, Fairway, Granada (Fox Midwest) (2,100; 2,043; 700; 1,217; 65-85)—"Away All Boats" (U) and "Buffalo Bill" (Indie) (reissue) added at Tower and Granada. Great $20,000; may hold. Last week, "King and I" (20th) fifth week in Uptown, first week in others, $15,500 at $1.25 top.

Vogue (Golden) (550; 75-$1)—"Fan-Fan the Tulip" (Indie) (reissue). So-so $1,000. Last week, "Adorable Creatures" (Indie) (2d wk), $1,000.

'Duchin' Smooth $13,000, Seattle; 'Society' 15G

Seattle, Aug. 21.

"High Society" shapes socko this session here at Music Hall as "Eddy Duchin Story" also looms lively at Fifth Avenue. "Proud and Profane" still looks great in second Coliseum round. With Paramount dark until it is ready to bring in "Cinerama," town's seating capacity among firstruns is reduced by 3,000 seats.

Estimates for This Week

Blue Mouse (Hamrick) (800; 90-$1.25)—"Away All Boats" (U) and "Star in Dust" (U) (m.o.). Hot release from Orpheum. Good $4,000. Last week, "3 for Jamie Dawn" (AA) and "Naked Hills" (AA), $2,200.

Coliseum (Evergreen) (1,870; 90-$1.25)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) and "Kiss Before Dying" (UA) (2d wk). Great $9,000. Last week, $12,200.

Fifth Avenue (Evergreen) (2,500; $1-$1.25) — "Duchin Story" (Col) and "He Laughed Last" (Col). Smash $13,000 or near. Last week, "King and I" (20th) (7th wk-6 days), $7,200 at $1.50 top.

Music Box (Hamrick) (850; 90-$1.25)—"Moby Dick" (WB) (m.o.). Fourth week downtown. Hefty $4,500. Last week, "Tempest in Flesh" (Indie), $4,800 in 10 days.

Music Hall (Hamrick) (2,200; 90-$1.25) — "High Society" (M-G). Socko $15,000. Last week, "Moby Dick" (WB) (3d wk), $7,600.

Orpheum (Hamrick) (2,700; 90-$1.25)—"Sattelite in Sky" (WB) "7 Men From Now" (WB). Fair $7,000 or less. Last week, "Away All Boats" (U) (2d wk), $6,800.

'Society' Smash $15,000, L'ville

Louisville, Aug. 21.

"High Society" at State is the big noise here this week. This one shapes smash and is way in front on actual coin. Political show in Chi had localites glued to their radio and tele sets, particularly during the night sessions, but didn't hurt film houses much. "Away All Boats" doing nicely on holdover at the Rialto. "Francis in Haunted House" and "Leather Saint" shapes hefty at the Kentucky. "Naked Hills" and "Screaming Eagles" shapes fairly good at the Mary Anderson. Brown reopened today (Tues.) with "Oklahoma."

Estimates for This Week

Kentucky (Switow) (1,000; 65-85)—"Francis in Haunted House" (U) and "Leather Saint" (Par). Bumper weekend biz helping to slick $8,000. Last week, "Pardners" (Par) (3d wk), okay $5,500.

Mary Anderson (People's) (1,000; 65-85)—"Naked Hills" (AA) and "Screaming Eagles" (AA). Hefty $5,500. Last week, "Satellite in Sky" (WB) and "Stranger At Door" (Rep), same.

Rialto (Fourth Avenue) (3,000; 50-85)—"Away All Boats" (U) (2d wk). Nice $9,000. First week, $14,000.

State (United Artists) (3,000; 75-$1)—"High Society" (M-G). Smash $15,000. Last week, "Fastest Gun Alive" (M-G) and "Nightmare" (M-G), $12,000, over hopes.

'Duchin' Terrif $25,000, Hub; 'Bus Stop' Robust 21G, 'Hot Rod' Big 29G

Boston, Aug. 21.

Biz took a sudden upturn at wickets this frame, with good returns all around, and exhibs were happier. Big pix are getting the expected sock money. New type exploitation can hypo grosses too as evidenced by the disk jock saturation campaign for "Hot Rod Girls" and "Girls In Prison," combo at Paramount and Fenway, with torrid take likely. "Eddy Duchin Story" is smash at the Astor. "Bus Stop" shapes solid at the Memorial. "High Society" is wow in second round at State and Orpheum.

(Continued on page 18)

Estimates Are Net

Film gross estimates as reported herewith from the various key cities, are net; i.e., without usual tax. Distributors share on net take, when playing percentage, hence the estimated figures are net income.

The parenthetic admission prices, however, as indicated, include the U. S. amusement tax.

B'way Upbeat; Frankie & 'Johnny' Wow 149G, 'Boats' 39G, 'Years'-Vaude 23G, 'Society' Continues High 194G, 2d

Some new, strong bills and the arrival of much cooler weather starting Monday (20) are giving Broadway deluxers a jab in the arm currently. Main stem is loaded with holdovers and extended-runs but several of them are still doing great. And rainy weather, such as yesterday (Tues.) is cheerful exhib news.

Standout in the present session, of course, is the stageshow headed by Frank Sinatra at the Paramount, where "Johnny Concho," Sinatra's first indie film production in which he is starred, is the screen vehicle. Sinatra with the Dorseys' orch and Joey Bishop are boosting the pic to a mighty $149,000 or the biggest non-holiday week ever at the Par flagship. Only the Martin-Lewis stage appearance in a July 4 holiday session will top it. Showing was made despite fact that Sinatra missed the first three shows Sunday because of laryngitis. Sammy Davis, Jr., pinch-hit the first show; Alan Dale and Red Skelton subbed for the second; and Steve Allen and Julius La Rosa for the third.

"Away All Boats" is soaring to a wham $39,000 opening round at the State, for biggest initial week there this year. "These Wilder Years" is boosting the vaude layout at the Palace to a big $23,000 at the Palace.

"High Society" with stageshow is holding in amazing fashion, with second session ending today (Wed.) at the Music Hall likely to hit a terrific $194,000 or only about $4,500 below opening week. Film naturally continues. "Autumn Leaves" is holding with a great $23,000 in third Astor frame.

"King and I" with stage bill, while feeling fresh competition, still is plenty big with $73,000 for eighth stanza at the Roxy. It stays, with "Bus Stop" now slated to open there Aug. 31. "Moby Dick" held at sturdy $24,000 in seventh round at Criterion and big $9,500 in same week at Sutton.

"Bigger Than Life" looks like okay $12,000 in third Victoria week, with "Burning Hills" opening tomorrow (Thurs.). Standout opening of week, however, is preem of "War and Peace" at Capitol, where regular run starts today (Wed.). "Pardners", held with good $14,000 in fourth stanza at Mayfair. "Fastest Gun Alive" shapes big $9,000 in sixth Globe round.

"Seven Wonders of World" held with great $48,900 in 18th session at the Warner. "Oklahoma" is heading for good $21,500 or over in 45th stanza at the Tivoli.

Estimates for This Week

Astor (City Inv.) (1,300; 75-$2)—"Autumn Leaves" (Col) (4th wk). Third stanza ended last night (Tues.) was rousing $23,000 or close. Second was $30,000.

Baronet (Reade) (430; $1.25-$1.80)—"Secrets of Reef" (Indie) (5th wk). Fourth round ended Monday (20) held with great $7,800. Third week was $8,000.

Capitol (Loew) (4,820; $1-$2.50)—"War and Peace" (Par). Opened last night (Tues.) with special preem. In ahead, "Trapeze" (UA) (11th wk), fair $12,500 after $13,500 for 10th week, but winding a nice run. Regular run of "Peace" opens today (Wed.).

Criterion (Moss) (1,700; 75-$2.30)—"Moby Dick" (WB) (8th wk). Seventh frame ended last night (Tues.) was sturdy $24,000 or close. Sixth was $26,000.

Fine Arts (Davis) (468; 90-$1.80)—"Riffi" (UMPO) (12th wk). The 11th stanza concluded last night (Tues.) was lofty $10,700. The 10th was $11,200.

Globe (Brandt) (1,500; 70-$1.50)—"Fastest Gun Alive" (M-G) (6th wk). Current session ending today (Wed.) looks to hold with big $9,000. Fifth was $9,800.

Guild (Guild) (450; $1-$1.75)—"Private's Progress" (DCA) (5th wk). Fourth round finished Monday (20) was sockeroo $15,500 after $16,000 in third week. Stays on indef. at this gait.

Mayfair (Brandt) (1,736; 79-$1.80)—"Pardners" (Par) (5th wk). Fourth stanza ended last night (Tues.) was good $14,000. Last week, $15,000.

Normandie (Trans-Lux) (592; 95-$1.80)—"Story of Pasteur" (Indie) (reissue) (2d wk). First session finished Monday (20) was fairly good $6,500. In ahead, "Phantom Horse" (Indie) (3d wk), $3,500.

Palace (RKO) (1,700; 50-$1.60)—"These Wilder Years" (M-G) with vaudeville. Week ending tomorrow (Thurs.) looks to reach big $23,000, pic proving real draw. Last week, "Proud Ones" (20th) plus vaude, $19,000.

Paramount (ABC-Par) (3,665; $1-$2)—"Johnny Concho" (UA) (2d wk). First week with stageshow headed by Frank Sinatra, star of his own production, "Concho," and with Dorsey Bros. orch, Joey Bishop, pic soared to terrific $149,000 despite only four stageshows excepting Friday and Sunday when five were given, and Saturday with six. Stageshow was booked only for first week of pic; hence pic is solo starting today.

Paris (Pathe Cinema) (568; $1.80)—"The Doctors" (King) (3d wk). Second week concluded Sunday (19) was nice $6,500. First was $8,000.

Radio City Music Hall (Rockefellers) (6,200; 95-$2.85)—"High Society" (M-G) with stageshow (2d wk). Initial holdover session ending today (Wed.) looks to hold with mighty $194,000. First week was $198,500, alltime non-holiday week record. Two slightly higher marks made in Easter holiday week, "Glass Slipper" (M-G), getting $200,325, and "Rose Marie" (M-G), $198,930. Stays on, natch!

Rivoli (UAT) (1,545; $1.25-$3)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (45th wk). Current week ending today (Wed.) looks like good $21,500. The 44th round was $21,000. Stays on.

Plaza (Brecher) (525; $1.25-$1.80)—"Fruits of Summer" (Ellist (6th-final wk). Fifth week ended Monday (20) was fine $6,000. Fourth was $6,500. M-G-M Carnival opens Aug. 28 only that it has been retitled "Tom and Jerry Film Festival."

Roxy (Nat'l Th.) (5,717; 65-$2.40)—"King and I" (20th) and stagebill (8th wk). Current round winding up tomorrow (Thurs.) is heading for big $73,000. Seventh was $87,000, first time during run that biz has dropped be ow $100,000 weekly figure. Stays a ninth, with "Bus Stop" (20th) due in Aug. 31.

State (Loew's) (3,453; 75-$1.75)—"Away All Boats" (U). Initial frame ending today (Wed.) looks to hit great $39,000 or near. Holds, naturally. In ahead, "Somebody

(Continued on page 18)

'Society' Lively $31,000 In D.C.; 'Daughter' Hep 20G, 'Likes Me' $12,000

Washington, Aug. 21.

New starters are giving the downtown houses a big lift with "High Society" socko at Palace, "Ambassador's Daughter" brisk at Capitol and "Somebody Up There Likes Me" very stout at Columbia. Of holdovers, "Eddy Duchin Story" continues big at Trans-Lux and "Cinerama Holiday" still is solid at the Warner. "Seven Men From Now" is okay in two spots. Democratic convention apparently hurt the small-seaters.

Estimates for This Week

Ambassador (SW) (1,480; 90-$1.25) — "Seven Men From Now" (WB). Okay $4,500. Last week, "Satellite in Sky" (WB), $3,500.

Capitol (Loew) (3,434; 90-$1.50)—"Ambassador's Daughter" (UA). Nice $20,000. Last week, "King and I" (20th) (7th wk), $16,500.

Columbia (Loew) (1,174; 70-95)—"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G). Fancy $12,000. Last week, "Earth Vs. Flying Saucers" (Col) and "Werewolf" (Col) (2d), $5,000.

Dupont (Lopert) (372; 90-$1.15)—"Proud and Beautiful" (Indie) (3d-final wk). Fair $4,000 after $5,000 last week.

Keith's (RKO) (1,939; 75-$1) — "Pardners" (RKO) (3d-final wk). Okay $7,500 after $9,000 last week.

Metropolitan (SW) (1,200; 90-$1.25) — "Seven Men From Now" (WB). Oke $7,500. Last week, "Satellite in Sky" (WB), $6,000.

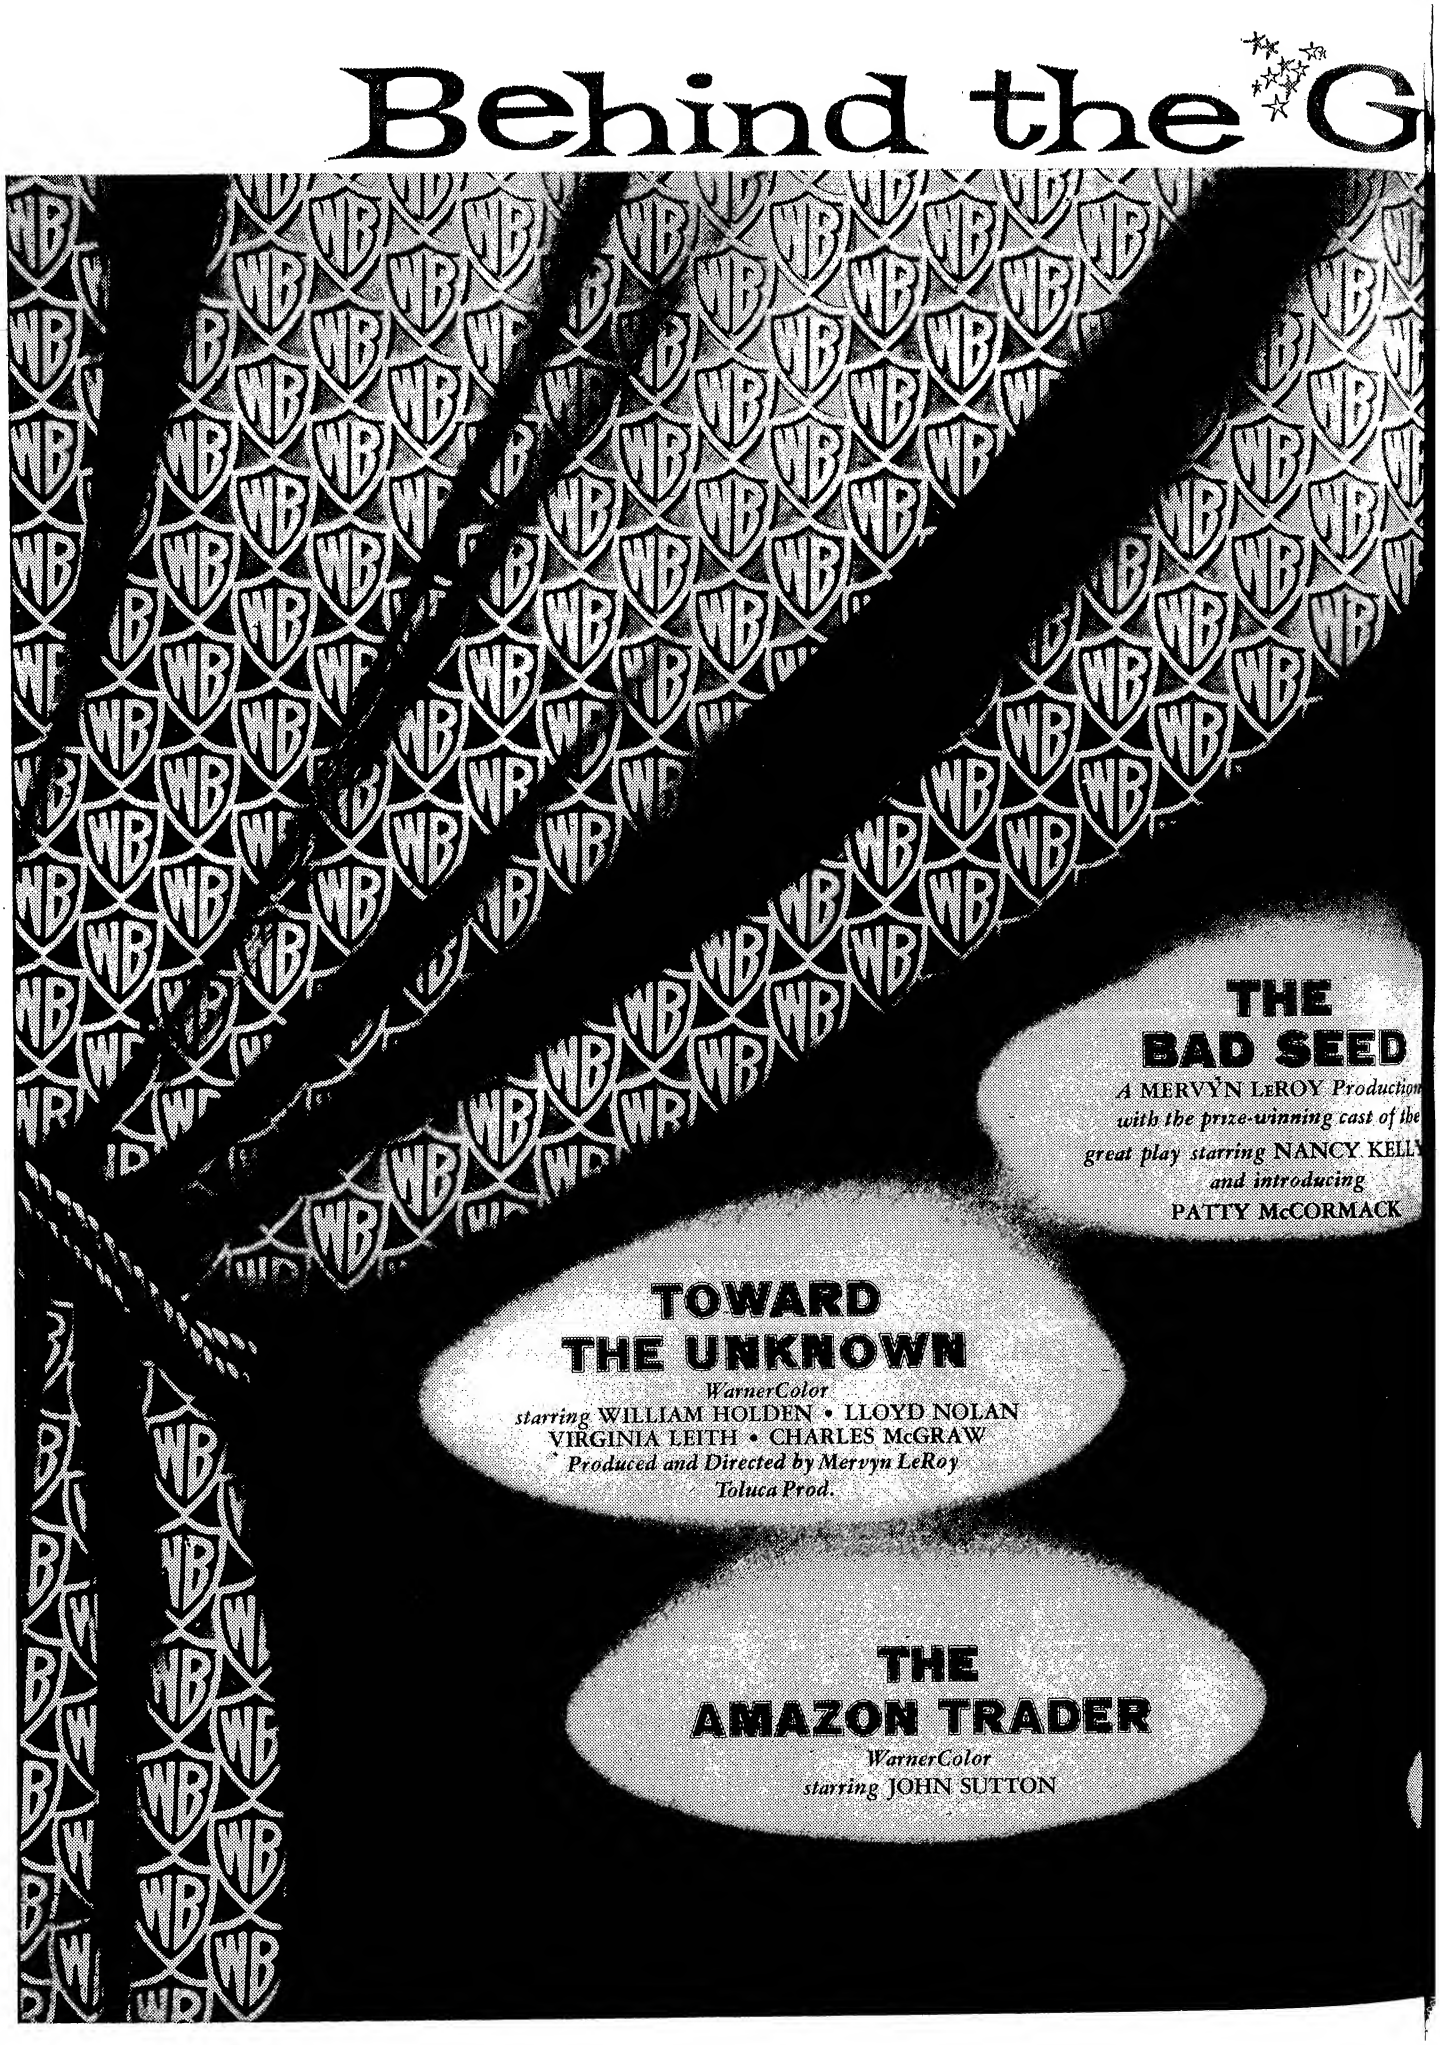
Palace (Loew) (2,360; 85-$1.25)—"High Society" (M-G). Smash $31,000. Last week, "Away All Boats" (U) (2d wk), $15,500.

Plaza (T-L) (290; 80-$1.25) — "1984" (Col) (5th wk). Fair $3,000 after $4,500 last week.

Playhouse (Lopert) (456; 75-$1.15)—"Storm Center" (Indie) (2d wk). Satisfactory $5,000 after $6,500 opener. Holds another week.

Warner (SW) (1,300; $1.20-$2.40) — "Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (45th wk). Hefty $15,000. Last week, $15,200.

Trans-Lux (T-L) (600; 90-$1.35) — "Duchin Story" (Col) (5th wk). Boff $9,500 after $12,000 in fourth. Holds again.



Behind the G
THE BAD SEED
A MERVYN LeROY Production with the prize-winning cast of the great play starring NANCY KELL and introducing
PATTY McCORMACK
TOWARD THE UNKNOWN
WarnerColor
starring WILLIAM HOLDEN • LLOYD NOLAN
VIRGINIA LEITH • CHARLES McGRAW
Produced and Directed by Mervyn LeRoy
Toluca Prod.
THE AMAZON TRADER
WarnerColor
starring JOHN SUTTON

olden Curtain!

TOA Urges Gov't Loans

Continued from page 3

zation argued, "must be made if the motion picture theatre is to survive. For the move must rival the home in attractiveness and comfort and must exceed it in reception facilities. Whatever success the theatre has had in meeting the competition of tv to a large extent been due to its better ability to reproduce sight and sound through the modern methods of projection and sound transmission plus, of course, the equally improved picture itself which can be displayed effectively by the use of such equipment."

Need for Federal loans, TOA said, arises from inability of most exhibitors, particularly in suburban and smalltown areas, to finance the necessary improvements. "This is because," it explained, "being small, individually-owned businesses, they are unable to attract outside financing and do not have their own resources. Furthermore, the recent profit history of the industry has not been such as will encourage lenders.

"Also, the only lending institutions which are available in certain areas must, because of their own limited method of operation, be comparatively conservative in their lending policies. The financing required by these exhibitors can only be obtained under the sponsorship of a Government lending agency and we believe the SBA to be the only one available for such purposes."

10,900 Spots 'In Distress'

Statement, prepared by A. Julian Brylawski, TOA veepee and chairman of its legislative committee, cited estimates that 10,900 of the nation's 19,200 theatres are in financial distress and that 5,200 are operated in the red. Most of these, it said, are in suburbs or small towns.

TOA estimated that an SBA loan of $25,000 would enable the average 500-seat theatre not requiring new seating to install wide screen projection and high fidelity sound systems and air conditioning and to modernize its interior and exterior.

Loans for this purpose, TOA declared, will prove sound investments. "But the returns will be more than money. These loans will save businesses, neighborhoods and retail communities. Even more than that, they will help save the motion picture industry itself. For the difference between profit and loss to the entire industry is in the amounts which can be realized from the operation of small theatres."

The statement was sent to the members of the SBA Loan Policy Board with an accompanying letter requesting a meeting to assist in the preparation of a plan whereby loans will be made available to the theatre industry.

Members of the Board are Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey and Small Business Administrator Wendell B. Barnes.

An Ohio Viewpoint

Columbus.

Editor, VARIETY:

You have had some interesting letters from fans on poor theatre projection and sloppy management.

While I am not in a position to defend the theatres in New York, I would like to put in a defense for theatres in Ohio and give their point of view.

For example: Maurice Fisher saw "House of Wax" at Loew's Spooner (N. Y.). What probably happened is not due to poor projection on the part of the man there, but to the fact that one of the prints had been cut—possibly inadvertently—by a theatre which ran it previously. When it was seen that the picture was hopelessly out of synchronization, the only remedy was to continue showing it on another projector. It is a physical impossibility for the projectors to be out of synchronization, as they are operated with one mechanism.

Mr. Fisher is right, 3-D was a wonderful process, but it was killed not by the exhibitor, but by the distributors' failure to make good product in the medium.

While it is true that many screens are not wide enough to accept the 2:55-1 ratio, the material that is cut off at the sides is usually simply additional background which should not interfere with the action of the picture.

The fact that stereophonic sound is a thing of the past is due as much to the fact that distribution has killed it as anything. For example: Warner Bros. bring one stereophonic print into the Cincinnati exchange. If a picture opens in Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati simultaneously, only Cincinnati will have a stereophonic print, and, of course, the same thing applies in the sub-runs.

I quite agree that the average person cannot tell whether the picture is or isn't in VistaVision.

When Mr. Fisher mentions seeing an annoying strip of dark gray, that's because every item of the show was not made for the same dimension; and the average theatre does not have movable masking. A good deal of the blame for sloppy projection (and we must admit there is some of this) is attributable to negligence on the part of the projectionist; but to expect perfect performance by a projectionist is about the equivalent of expecting courtesy from a railroad conductor or bus driver.

Robert A. Wile
(Sec'y, Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio)

Arties Tabu

Continued from page 5

was okayed by the Legion but was rejected by the Code because of its narcotics angles.

Foreign films, because of the U. S. market scheme of things and the circuits' refusal to book "C"-rated merchandise, for the most part have had only the art spots as showcases. As the latter become closed to "C" material, obviously the point could be reached where there'll be no outlets at all—or not enough to warrant impost costs —for pictures of the "Forbidden Stories" ilk.

Time was, states Ellis, when his accounts wanted to talk terms and nothing else. Now, he adds, the "first question they put to me is about the Legion's rating."

The indie distrib related that art theatre operators are becoming more aware of their community standing and more sensitive anent local animosity they might stir among Catholics by showing Legion-blasted product.

Screen Extras OK Pact With AMPP, Telepixers; Also Join Pension Plan

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Screen Extras Guild membership, by a whopping 1883-80 vote, has approved its new contract with the Assn. of Motion Picture Producers and the Alliance of Television Film Producers. SEGites also voted 1748 to 204, to join the industry pension plan, with the producers to pay 48c and the extras 32c for each straight time day. Extras become part of the pension plan Sept. 12.

In addition, the extras voted, 1,769 to 183, for tentative approval of a health and welfare program. This question was on whether SEG should submit to membership vote a detailed health and welfare plan costing 6c an hour presently incorporated in extras' paychecks. Pending final determination on this, the 1c-an-hour health and welfare allowance gained in recent negotiations makes the extras' current wage hike $2.08 per eight-hour day.

Results of the mail referendum were disclosed by SEG prexy Richard H. Gordon and exec secretary H. O'Neil Shanks.

Pact provides for an additional hike of 2½% in minimum wage scales to take effect Jan. 30, 1958, with the pact to run to April 1, 1959.

B&K Drops Chi American Displays in 1st Nabe Test

Chicago, Aug. 21.

In an economy move inspired by a drop in neighborhood theatre receipts this year as compared with last, the Balaban & Katz chain here is experimenting with eliminating display newspaper ads for its nabe theatres. Confining the experiment to only one daily, the Chicago American, so far, B&K has placed only directory ads for its nabes during the last four weeks.

Proceeding cautiously, and faced with the inherent difficulties of judging the effectiveness of newspaper advertising, B&K execs have not as yet decided whether to extend the policy to the other dailies, or whether to make it permanent. Thinking is that a picture is basically sold in firstrun downtown situations, making anything more than directory ads superfluous in the nabes.

Bennie Berger Revives 'Greed'

Minneapolis, Aug. 21.

In a message to this territory's exhibitors in the current North Central Allied bulletin, NCA President Bennie Berger, commenting on and analyzing the recent U.S. Senate small business subcommittee's "unfavorable" report, predicts that a tidal wave of small towns' resentment eventually will force Congress to enact legislation making the film industry a public utility.

Declaring that the fight for exhibitor relief must continue, Berger asserts the belief that the small towns losing their only theatres and consequently becoming "morgues" because of film companies' greed "will wage such a public attack against the industry that no Congress will be able to stop the desired film rentals regulatory legislation."

Berger claims that theatreowners' present economic condition is such that their showhouses' physical appointments are deteriorating to a point where many people will not attend a theatre even if it's offering a picture which they wish to see. In consequence of this and other factors, he declares "a generation of people now is being raised without the theatre-going habit."

Berger expresses the view in the bulletin that "nothing came out of the recent hearings to help the small theatres in their present plight" and that, if anything, "the committee report was very detrimental to our cause." He said he feels that his friend U. S. Senator H. H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the subcommittee chairman whom he prevailed upon to hold the hearing, and the other subcommittee members failed to understand the problem's "meat."

"But I believe there are sufficient brains among the theatre-owners to devise some new plan for forcing the distributors to recognize the present big problem," declared the Berger message. "We owe it to ourselves, our families and our communities to contine to fight with every power at our command to keep our theatres in operation."

"The problem is very simple," explains the message. "Because most people now have a theatre in their own homes, theatregoing has become very selective. Consequently, it is necessary for every theatre to play all the top motion pictures in order to live.

"But the present sales policies are confiscatory in nature. The film companies are well aware that small grossing theatres cannot possibly pay the prices they're demanding. Since the average theatregoer doesn't wish to see the secondary pictures and the theatres cannot buy the top releases, it goes without saying that the theatre is being gradually exterminated.

"The pity of all this is that the so-called distributors' 'brains' don't realize that this policy means the entire industry's eventual destruction. There apparently isn't sufficient mentality in the higher circles to appreciate that present sales policies also destroy incentive and, in so doing, destroy showmanship too."

Venice's 'Facelift on Lido'

Continued from page 7

is a considered distinction in itself, and each feature in the running will be issued a certificate to that effect. Fourteen finalists were selected from a total of 79 feature pix of 19 countries, some submitted by governments, producers' associations or individual producers while others were invited to be prescreened directly by the Festival committee.

Third important innovation concerns the structure of the jury. In previous fetes, both here and in other countries, the host nation always had the most members—hence the deciding vote—on the "international" jury. This year here in Venice, only two Italians are on the seven-man jury, while the jury prexy is a "foreigner"—a Britisher, John Grierson, vet filmmaker. Others are Andre Bazin, French film critic; James Quinn, British pic official (who repped Britain on this year's Cannes jury); G. B. Cavallaro, Italian film critic; Luchino Visconti, Italo pic director; a Russian conti, Italo pic director; Fridrikh Markovic Ermler, a Russian director and film critic Kiyohiko Ushihara, Japanese member of the panel.

It's Been a Battle

Introduction and enforcement of these changes has not been without a fight, and has cost the Festival some friendships, notably the partial official absence of the MPEA, which voted nonparticipation because of Venice intransigence regarding the pre-selection principle needed to pare down the entries to 14. (Later, it was revealed that nine MPEA member companies had also secretly voted not to submit pix to Venice even if asked.) 20th-Fox's lone-wolf stand in this respect is well-known (Spyros Skouras even is said to have written Venice a letter praising the pre-selection principle), and it will be repped at the Fete by "Bigger Than Life," the James Mason starrer. As it happens, United Artists also will have a pic in the running, via the Robert Aldrich "Attack" (previously known as "The Brick Foxhole"—a title change which incidentally has already caused confusion when Venice pic lists were announced). "Bus Stop" (20th) will be screened on last night of the festival (Sept. 9), out of competition. Showing will precede the prize-award ceremony skedded that night.

Changes also raised temperatures in Britain where, similarly, official participation was voted against, in France, Germany and some others. Some of these controversies have since been smoothed over, but at this writing the situation in regard to "official" participations is still somewhat unclear. One cause of this situation has been the new fest setup. As the 14-pic total automatically excludes many countries previously on the invite list, the fest can really only invite countries participating after the pix are chosen. This makes for delay and hard feelings. Presumably, nonparticipating countries will send delegations as "observers." This situation is further complicated by the fact that the so-called "minor" fetes, documentaries and children's films, are run off just before the main event (their dates: Aug. 16-25), and function under the old setup, with 23 countries repped in one event, 12 in the other. Most countries have sent delegations to this event, even though they are not all officially represented in the upcoming feature event.

The Qualitative Approach

Without openly coming out and saying so, Venice, via its restriction to 14 entries, has swung back to quality and art—within the realm of film industry production. Without attempting to overdo the misinterpretable "arty" angle, the local event has chosen a high standard, rather than becoming a film fair, with its greater commercial possibilities. The move has not been made without thought, however. It's known that Festivals as they have been run in recent years have in the long run satisfied no one. Venice this year hopes to satisfy as many people as possible: the art set and the crix, via a potentially stimulating and concentrated pic diet; and the commercial denizens of the industry, by providing a meeting place (and extra screening room) for film buyers and sellers from all over the world.

Not all of the great volume of pic biz consumed in the lobbies or bars of Cannes' Croisette or Venice's Excelsior concerns the pix in competition—on the contrary, a good majority is made up of product industryites have brought along with them for "outside" showings to their opposite numbers gathered from all points of the compass. As one New York film importer summed it up here, "I can do more business here in one afternoon in the lobby or bar or beach than in one month of letters, cables, or intercontinental phone calls in the States—everyone's right here, and there's something about the setting which stimulates and speeds up our work . . ."

Another important innovation this year is the fact that almost a month before the start of the event, the list of entries had been announced and the calendar of events made known. Previously, and despite rules to the contrary, pix were admitted up to the last minute, changes made, pix rushed from the labs to the festival palace for screening, etc.

Sam Spiegel

Continued from page 7

serviced adequately without such elaborate distribution facilities.

"Waterfront" played 15,000 first-time-around dates in the home market, Spiegel stated, and the first 250 of them yielded almost half of the production's income. He said he had a gross income of $650,000 from N. Y.'s Astor Theatre alone, this via a 22-week run. About 70% of the revenue came from the first 2,000 bookings. Spiegel's suggestion was that the cost of serving the latter runs is simply too high in the light of the percentage of income to be derived from them, that they should be reached with greater accent on economy.

Spiegel is one of a number of producers who think costs are out of line and are agitating for meaningful cuts. A group of them banded together some time ago with the thought of setting up a collective distribution agency but gave up on this because of production financing and other problems.

Now, though, with the bulk of Hollywood talent—producers, directors, writers and stars—taking the indie route, the big companies are openly competing among themselves for production deals. Obviously, the outfits that can hold costs to a minimum stand the best chance of latching on to the best properties. Thus, the distribs, it appears, will be forced to streamline.

Costs have come down on another front, however, according to Spiegel. Major studios renting out space to indies are retreating from the sky's-the-limit overhead charges for the reason they now have stages idle much of the time and want them in use even if it means cutting prices for the outside producers. Spiegel still works on location for the most part and rarely in Hollywood. But if he wanted space on a big lot, he surmised, he could rent it at substantially less expense than the level of a couple of years ago.

Spiegel's current project is "End As A Man," lensed in Florida and representing what the producer considers an unmistakeable gamble. Angle here is that the production is devoid of established stars—Ben Gazzara has the lead—and the director is Jack Garfein, age 26, whose turn-calling in past has been limited to properties for the Actors Studio in N. Y. He has never done any picture work. Spiegel's idea, he said, is to develop new talent and he's hopeful that exhibitors will recognize the importance of such an undertaking.

Global-minded as ever, his next is "Bridge Over the River Quai," which goes before the cameras in September in Ceylon. "Man" is penciled in for release next spring and "Bridge" next summer, both through Columbia. Then comes "The Chase," from a Horton Foote novel, to be locationed in Texas, and "The Second Man," based on the Edward Grierson novel, to be shot in London.

Hollywood Product's Absence Ups Danish Studios; Using Color

Copenhagen, Aug. 14.

Continued boycott of the Danish market by the American distributors has given a boost to the five companies here which make features in the Danish tongue.

Not unrelated to the special economics of the moment removal of Yank competition save for very old pictures) is the current increase in color stock.

Nordisk, actually 50 years old this year, is making a comedy, "Kispus" in tint and Asa has scheduled two future features in Eastman Color. They are "Fintesonnere," a rural subject and "Father of Four" based on a popular Danish comic strip.

Additionally Asa is starting the fall season with melodrama about Copenhagen taxidrivers—in black and white. Saga has a monochromed "Mariane af Marstal," a folk comedy about fishermen, opening at its Saga Cinema, which after adding a balcony is the biggest cinema in Denmark with 2,000 seats.

German 'Bridge' Paces W. Germany's 8 Keys; Yank Pix Top Berlin

Berlin, Aug. 14.

The German film, "The Golden Bridge" (Gloria), was the top grosser last month (July) in West Germany's eight most important key cities, including West Berlin. The Australian film, "A Mad Hotel" (Europa), took second spot while Paramount's "Rose Tattoo" was third best.

In West Berlin's preem house area, American pix are still playing first fiddle. Current breakdown reveals that six out of 14 top cinemas are showing pix of American origin as against three Gallic features, two from Austria and one each from Germany, Italy and England.

Of all new pix, Columbia's "The Harder They Fall" is considered the most important one. It was preemed at Delphi Palast and garnered above-average reviews, with some being excellent. Writer Budd Schulberg and actors Rod Steiger and Humphrey Bogart received top acclaim. Other new U.S. films include "The Houston Story" (Col) at Capitol. "Three Godfathers" (M-G) at Filmtheatre Berlin, "Tall Men Riding" (WB) at Metropol and "The Cobweb" (M-G) at Filmbuehne Wien. The Studio has Paramount's "We're No Angels."

Of other foreign films, France's "Paris Canaille" may find special mention. Latter is now in its fourth week at Cinema Paris. Deutsche London reissued "The Third Man" with very good results at the Marmorhaus. Top German film here is still "Before Sundown."

Recent statistics reveal that the feature films offered on the West German market for the distribution season 1956-57 amounted to 493 films as of August 1. Of these films, 206 are of American origin. Germany comes second with 145 product, followed by France (56 pix), United Kingdom (30), Austria (26), Italy 16), Switzerland (4) and 10 features from other nations. Of all these films, 40 have already been screened in this country.

Mexico's Cimex Sells 17 Films in Europe

Mexico City, Aug. 14.

Seventeen Mexican-made pix have been sold future overseas release it was announced by Cimex, semi-official government distrib outlet. Countries involved in the exhib deals are France, Iran, Jugoslavia and Czechoslavakia. Jugoslavia will take 10. Most films are oldies, though the recently completed "La Manda" (The Vow), still unexhibited locally, and "La Ilegitima" (Illegitimate Girl), a last year's success, are among the group to be exhibited.

All of the 17 will be subtitled, with the varied languages of the different countries at the company's new Paris headquarters. Deals were set by Cimex European chief, Salvador Elizondo.

Moscow Art Theatre Co. Set For London in '57

London, Aug. 21.

Peter Daubeny, the impresario, who has just returned from viewing legit, tuner and revue presentations in Moscow, has finalized negotiations to bring the Moscow Art Theatre Co. to London probably in May for a four-week season of Russian plays at the Palace Theatre.

Works chosen are Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya" and "The Three Sisters," and adaptation of Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina" and Sheridan's "The School for Scandal."

32c Cinema Top Winning in Mex

Mexico City, Aug. 14.

It now seems that the 32c admission price top for local cinemas, set as a ceiling in December, 1952, has won out. It has won over many in the pic trade, much to the surprise of themselves, as well as the city amusements supervision department which stands firm against all moves by disgruntled elements to hike the price scale.

It all stems from the phenomenal boxoffice several Mexican and foreign pix have scored lately, some saying these big grosses explain at least partially the reason of this victory for the 32c top. The price, its champions point out, is enabling more people than ever, particularly more of the working class, to attend top firstruns.

All this has helped biz all along the line because forcing many second and subsequent-runs to improve accommodations and screens. More lesser houses are going wide screen. The top price allowed these houses is 24c. Most operate on a 16-20c scale.

The 32c high advocates stress the new-high gross for a Mexican pic in which "Cantiflas" (Mario Moreno) is missing, "La Escondida" (The Hidden Girl). This stars Pedro Armendariz and Maria Felix and Columbia is world-distributing. It grossed $23,040 in first seven days at the Cine Mexico. Runnerup is "I'll Cry Tomorrow" (M-G) in its third week at the Cine Roble with a gross of $48,375 in 3 weeks.

City treasury department reports that the 137 local cinemas rolled up a total gross of $6,500,000 this year up to June 30 or a new high. Boxoffice hits during that time were the Mexican, "With Whom Do Our Daughters Associate?"; "Love Is Splendored Thing" (20th), "Madame Butterfly" (IFE); "East of Eden" (WB), and "Glass Slipper" (M-G). The only individual gross disclosed was the $92,500 grossed by "Daughters."

French Resigns As BFPA Director-Gen'l

London, Aug. 21.

Sir Henry L. French, who is 73 and has been director-general of the British Film Producers Assn. for the last 10 years, has resigned, mainly on account of his age, so that the association can meet the critical issues ahead facing the British picture industry without "any kind of handicap, whether actual or potential."

The BFPA executive council was told last week that Sir Henry's decision was dictated by his feeling that he might not be able to continue serving the association to his own satisfaction and of members throughout the next two years while the extension of the British Film Production Fund, future of National Film Finance Corp. and revision of the Cinematograph Films Act were all to be the subject of legislation.

He will not be succeeded in office because the BFPA has decided to create a new post of permanent prexy, which will embrace the duties of both director-general and president.

'Dolls' Variety Benefit Preem Likely Sellout

London, Aug. 14.

Ticket sale for the London preem of "Guys and Dolls" (M-G), set for Sept. 19, to aid British Council for the Welfare of Spastics and Variety Club of Great Britain's Heart Fund, promises to be a complete sellout before the actual opening.

Nat Cohen, the Chief Barker here, has announced that already more than half the $28 tickets have been sold as have 143 of the $14 ones or more than 50%.

BFPA Mulls New Quota Rules To Help Brit. Prod.

London, Aug. 21.

Modifications to the British Cinematograph Films Act 1948 to insure that only genuinely British productions come within statutory Quota definitions and a realization that U. S. production or participation in this country should be kept within bounds have been discussed by the British Film Producers Assn. This is revealed in its 14th annual report for the year ended last March 31.

Since the beginning of this year, says the report, BFPA's executive council has been mulling proposals by which the Cinematograph Act, incorporating the Quota provisions which are due to expire in September, 1958, could be improved for the benefit of British film production. Among suggested modifications was one that the definition of British Quota films should be amended to insure that only genuine British productions come within the statutory definitions, and that the possibilities of technical evasion are reduced. Others concerned the exclusion from Quota of pictures made primarily for tv, and the alteration to quota relief provisions.

In considering one of the queries included on the questionnaire sent out to major industry organizations by the National Film Finance Corp., the BFPA agreed that one of the most difficult problems had related to present and prospective high level of production of pix entitled to British Quota certificates by companies completely or largely controlled by American interests or mainly supported by American finance.

'It was realized . . . that American production or participation undoubtedly brought benefits to the British industry, but it was felt that it should be kept within bounds. In this connection, it must be remembered that a number of members of the association are in receipt of financial support from American sources chiefly because of the difficulties of obtaining money for film production from British sources. It is also of importance that films made in Great Britain by American controlled companies and/or American money are eligible for Quota certificates and for payments from the British Film Production Fund on precisely the same conditions as films made by British producers with money from British sources."

Now Davis Sees British Pic Bsiness Not Dying

London, Aug. 14.

"If you read some newspapers, you get the impression that the motion picture industry is either dead or dying," commented John Davis, managing director of the Rank Organization, who as chairman of the British Film Producers Assn., welcomed delegates of the International Federation to a dinner at the Dorchester.

"I do not subscribe to that view—it is neither dead nor dying. It may well be that its pattern of its distribution and exhibition will change materially and that this process will be painful. Television undoubtedly will absorb part of the leisure hours which the peoples of the world are securing to an appreciable extent, but not enough to take away the time available to us for films."

Davis added: "You cannot destroy audiences of the magnitude which we serve when you bear in mind that each week 23,000,000 people in this country go to the cinema."

All Groups in British Film Industry Not Happy Over Statutory Pix Levy

London, Aug. 14.

Since the intention of the Board of Trade to institute a statutory film levy "comparable in purpose with the British Film Production Fund" was announced on Aug. 2, views of leaders on the production side of the industry evidence the general goodwill and backing to the plan. However, this support is not as completely unreserved as it appears, and there's still contention over the fact that it will be a statutory measure. Also, felicitations are clouded somewhat over that part of the Minister's announcement where he promises that the new levy "will be comparable in scale" with the present arrangement.

At present, it's common knowledge that the BFPF falls $2,100,000 below the set target of $9,100,000. Meaning in other words that at "the present scale," the gap between production costs and b.o. receipts will continue to remain unbridged. Consequently, producers would be no better off under the new dispensation than under the existing scheme.

But two slants which are considered the most favorable aspects of the BOT decision are the degree of guarantee which producers will reap from it and the reassurance contained in the statement that the scheme would be comparable in purpose with the BFPF.

Industry Reaction Varies

Typical of industry reaction is the remark made soon after the announcement by Robert Clark, veepee of British Film Producers Assn: "This gives us new hope to go on . . . now we have got this assurance of help we must be careful how to use it," and from Reginald Baker, chairman of Ealing Studios: "A step in the right direction, I do not like the idea of a statutory scheme any more than most other producers, but it is the only means by which we can know where we stand."

For the exhibitors, B. T. Davis, Cinematograph Exhibitors Assn. prexy, said he regretted a compulsory levy: "I was never pleased to see any encroachment of a government department into the industry. Once they are there, you cannot get rid of them." Exhibs didn't object to paying the levy and maintained that the present Eady scheme was doing a good job.

The BOT proposal ties up with the recommendation of the Assn. of Independent Cinemas to the National Film Finance Corp. that the fund should be taken out of the industry's hands.

Fred Feldkamp Resigns As Dragon Films Head

London, Aug. 14.

Fred Feldkamp, whose latest production, "The Silken Affair," was recently completed at Elstree Studios, has quit the managing directorship of Dragon Films Ltd., in order to freelance with his own company.

With associate producer William Harper, and scriptwriter Nicholas Phipps (responsible for "Doctor in House" and "Captain's Paradise"), he is now in France working on another comedy set for British production during the summer.

Tourist Biz Sky High in Portugal

Lisbon, Aug. 14.

The season is in full swing at all casinos of seaside towns in Portugal. These spots are enjoying the biggest boom since the war thanks to the tourist trade. If Americans limit their stay to a few days, and generally at Estoril, near here, French, German, English and other tourists are more adventurous and stay for a week or two at Figueira, Povoa, and Espinho in the north or Praia Rocha and Faro in the south. Good food and wines, cheap whisky and miles of sunny beaches are the principal attraction for tourists. For August and September, the various gambling casinos are also preparing special vaude shows.

The Estoril Casino gives three shows nightly in the restaurant, the Wonder Bar and the Yacht Club. At present the vaude acts include Bernard Hall and his Monte Carlo Vanity Girls and Robert Blake, monologist. Other acts due in are Page and Bray, acro-dancers; magician Channing Pollock and Myr & Myrosca; Bob Bromley, Senor Carlos, Gino Donati, Patty Ross, French songstress Paulette Rallin and the Bert Stimmel dancers. Eurico Braga is director and booking agent.

Same Acts in Other Casinos

All these acts, after their presentation at Estoril for a week or a fortnight, will do the other Portuguese casinos for another month or six weeks.

Impresario Jose Miguel, who was injured in a recent car accident, sold his interests in various niteries and is running the cinema Pavilhao where he is also presenting vaude.

The Casino S. Jorge in Lisbon has a show produced by comedian Jose Viana. It will be followed by another show along the same lines led by comic Oscar Acurcio. Actor-manager Carlos Coelho, back from a year in Africa, is director and booking agent of the spot.

2 Spots Exclusively Foreign

Hotellier Pereira is running the Tagide nitery in Lisbon and the Palm Beach along the seashore off Estoril. Both are very exclusive places with an almost foreign clientele and receive a special subsidy from the Information Ministry. The same acts are presented in the two spots and are bicycled by auto-between the niteries. Acts appearing at present are Brazilian songstress Dilu Melo; ballet dancers Celso Filho and Gloria Norton; French singers Line Andres and Guy Severyns.

The Nina nitery will reopen in September with the Conchita Lopez dancers and singer Carmen de Ortega. For the revue at the Variedades, the Ballet Peggy O'Farrel has been booked. The Maxime there has the Carmen Flores ballet, the Sergio Orch with crooner Manuel Serrano. The Bico Doirado has singers Sita Valsassina and Magdalena Pardo.

Henderson Ltd.

London, Aug. 21.

Henderson's forming a music company under his own name here. He has been general manager of Bourne Music for several years now.

Abbey Skeds 3 Plays For Fall; Rejects 12 Tele Bids as Vague

Dublin, Aug. 21.

Abbey Theatre has skedded three new productions for this fall, including Brendan Behan's prison play, "The Quare Fella" (already set for Broadway). Behan piece was earlier rejected by Abbey directors, but has since been produced in London.

Other plays on the list are "Winter Wedding" by Tomas MacAnna, Abbey's producer of Irish language plays; and "The Waiting Night" by P. S. Laughlin whose earlier work has been for radio.

According to Abbey manager Ernest Blythe, 12 different offers of American TV contracts have been received by the company. All were rejected either by the management or the players because none of them were from principals but from "vague and undefined companies and persons in the U.S."

He added that if the Abbey was approached by some established organization—either U.S. or British—the directors would give favorable consideration to requests for co-operation.

SHULMAN TO SANTIAGO

Sidney Shulman has been named manager of 20th-Fox's branch in Santiago, Chile, it was disclosed last week by foreign chief Murray Silverstone.

Shulman replaces Matthew Harbinson who's been shifted to the company's Buenos Aires office as assistant to Edward D. Cohen, supervisor of Central and South American territories.

Gold Medal's Melange for Moppets

Plan 15 90-Minute Variety Films to Make Up For Smallfry Neglect in Current Market

An extensive program of films specifically designed for youngsters will go into production in the east this week under the aegis of Gold Medal Productions, of which Martin Poll is president, with distribution rights held by Artists-Producers Associates, headed by A. W. Schwalberg.

To be lensed under the overall title of "Big Fun Carnival" are 15 90-minute features of the variety type—that is, each comprising specialty numbers, cartoons, wild animal subjects and the like. They're being fashioned particularly for the moppet trade on Saturday matinees and holidays.

Schwalberg, who's formerly distribution v.p. of Paramount, said surveys he conducted have convinced him that exhibitors are especially anxious to lure the kids and he figures the "Carnival" idea is a natural. Exec also is a director of Gold Medal.

Television talent is to be prominent in the undertaking. Both Marian Stafford and Jared (Jerry) Reed, both of whom have worked tv considerably, are under contract to appear in the series. Signed as a director is Marc Daniels and writers are Louis (Deke) Heyward and Nat Wilkes.

First prints will be released in the fall, according to Schwalberg.

United Front

Continued from page 5

however, whether this has much meaning since, if UA does not sell a picture in a country, the indie producer has the right—after a certain period—to proceed on his own.

It was for this reason that UA, while sympathetic to the MPEA stand to date, never actually became a party to the agreement not to sell to the Soviet orbit.

Under the new arrangement, available films again will be pooled and lists of suitable pix will be drawn up for potential Red customers to choose from. However, payments will go directly to the companies on the basis of how many of their films are sold. This precludes any of the smaller outfits profiting even though none of their films may be chosen.

The companies fell in line with the "be united" pitch on the part of MPEA prexy Eric Johnston when it became clear that only UA would remain outside the fold. At an earlier meeting in N. Y. last week, several of the distribs—notably 20th-Fox, made it plain that they'd extend the MPEA franchise only if the stand was unanimous. Republic at that time indicated that it might prefer to do a solo.

Johnston is skedded to go Europe to visit the Iron Curtain nations this fall for a discussion of film matters. There is a possibility the visit may take him also to Moscow where the Russians have shown considerable interest in buying or "swapping" films.

'B' Books

Continued from page 2

$1.000 a crack, under Lee Keedick management, with personals limited to 30 a year. (If it's a college or university, Cerf cuts the fee to $500 because of the opportunity it affords him to consult the faculty on promising new writing talent. Random House is making a deliberate practise of scouting new writers; the publishing firm's comparatively new editor-in-chief, Hiram Haydn, has been called by the baseball-happy Cerf "the Branch Rickey of the publishing business." This stems from Haydn's penchant for tieing up newcomer writers with modest advances—there are seven such just committed—and if only one or two materialize they figure it a very worthwhile investment).

RH, having clicked with "No Time for Sergeants" and "Don't Go Near the Water," is now questing for a marine book—Cerf feels there "must be a very funny book about the Marines, which would round out the triumvirate."

French Studios Still Wrestling With Plans For Wider U.S. Spread

French film industry, long eager to broaden its U. S. market, still has no solution to the problem according to Henry Deutschmeister, head of Franco London Film, Prior to returning to Paris Friday (17) after a several weeks' U. S. stay, he said that he and other French producers are still examining plans to help bring about wider distribution of Gallic product in America.

"But," Deutschmeister emphasized, "we don't want a 'French IFE,' nor do we want to interfere with the independent distributors who release French pictures. Obviously it's a difficult problem." He added that much misinformation had been circulated about the subject but the facts are that although many suggestions and ideas have been offered nothing definite has been decided upon.

Producer, whose company turns out about five or six films annually, set a distribution deal with Warners during his U. S. junket covering Franco London's Ingrid Bergman starrer, "Elena et les Hommes" (Elena and the Men). Pact, which was arranged with Jack Warner and Ben Kalmenson, calls for WB to have release rights in the U. S. and Canada. Directed by Jean Renoir, film will be handled in those territories as "Strange Night."

Miss Bergman, incidentally, looms prominently in Deutschmeister's 1956-57 production schedule for she has a commitment with F-L to appear in a venture which will be directed by Max Ophuls. Story as yet has not been chosen. Still another potential F-L blockbuster is a Gina Lollobrigida vehicle slated to be made as a co-production with Italy's Rizzoli Films.

Project with Miss Lollobrigida will be a film version of "Imperial Venus," a novel by Edgar Maas described as a "story of Napoleon's favorite sister." Bobbs-Merrill published the tome in 1946. It's due to roll next July. Both the Bergman and Lollobrigida pictures will be in color and widescreen but not CinemaScope.

While Italy's film industry has had its share of difficulties of late, Deutschmeister feels that the turning point has been reached. A veteran of more than 20 co-productions with various Italian companies, he expressed confidence that such mutual filmmaking will continue to be practical for both Italian and French producers involved.

Kazan's N. Y. Bid

Continued from page 1

of tv graduates, the 28-year-old twins Richard and Paul Sylbert, who have had considerable experience in erecting a large number of sets in small quarters. On the two large Gold Medal stages, the Sylberts will build a dozen sets at a time, tearing down and constructing 12 more when the shooting shifts to the second stage.

According to Richard Sylbert, if the quality of the production equals that of California, "we will succeed in doing it here with one-tenth of the facilities and one-half of the people." This, of course, represents a considerable cost saving. In addition, the rental charges for the studio are cheaper and the production unit is not obligated to assume the overhead costs.

It is Richard Sylbert's view that if the people who are interested in making feature films in the east hold out for two more years, every studio in the N. Y. metropolitan area will be fully equipped and more studios will be built. At that time, he said, any picture that can be made in Hollywood can be filmed in New York. He does not regard N. Y. as a threat to Hollywood production, but he stresses that outstanding, quality films could just as easily be filmed in Gotham, including the total interior filming.

Rap N. Y. Cops

Continued from page 7

is handled on an individual basis. At present, however, it's emphasized by theatremen that the police have a hard and fast rule against any activities outside the lobby of the theatre. Kleig lights have been banned and assembly of any kind outside the theatre is prevented.

Universal and Loew's State met strong police opposition when they attempted to stage a noon event last week (16) in connection with the opening of the Navy-themed "Away All Boats."

For several weeks the film company and the theatre, it's asserted, attempted to obtain police permission for a 25-piece Navy band to play outside the theatre. The Navy, which has tied in with U on the picture for recruiting purposes, provided the band, a color guard and a contingent of WAVES. The Navy, for its part, also sought to obtain permission for the event.

However, it's charged that the film reps as well as the Navy were shunted from department to department and from individual to individual. At first, it's said, permission was granted, only to be rescinded on the morning of the event. Frustrated in efforts to obtain a commitment from the police, the filmites appealed to the Dept. of Commerce. Latter initially said okay, but later withdrew its approval after it apparently had received the nix from the police. The Dept. of Commerce, however, informed the film people to channel all future requests through the Commerce Commissioner, who would arrange all clearances.

At any rate, the Navy group gathered in front of Loew's State on Thursday. A police detail was present and the officer in charge ruled that the band could not play outside the theatre. He also prevented the band from playing on the island in Times Square or in front of the Navy recruiting booth. Loew's authorities could not move the band inside the lobby because once the band shifted into theatre property, Local 801 would raise a row. As a result, the promotion fizzled.

None of the usual events identified with premieres was permitted for last night's (Tuesday) opening of "War and Peace." Although billed as an invitational premiere, the area was not roped off nor were Kleig lights allowed.

World's Naughtiest

Continued from page 1

variably almost all male, except for an occasional woman—usually a thrill-seeking tourist.

Admission price is $1.25 top, less in the balcony. There are two shows nightly (at 9:30 and 11:30), and a matinee (3:30) on Sundays.

The manager of the Shanghai is Jose Orozco Garcia, who is a bit of a character. At one time Orozco had a religious shrine on the floor above the theatre, but he has now placed it elsewhere. Says he, "I had heaven up there, and hell down here."

The show at the Shanghai consist of three parts. It starts out with the first seene of a play which is notable for its unsubtle double-entendres. This is followed by a musical revue, in which half a dozen uncoordinated women prance around until they are entirely bare.

For about an hour and a half the scenes of the play and the revues continue to alternate. Interspersed are a few acts, consisting of a singer or a comedian or a dancer.

Finally, the theatre is darkened, and pix are shown. Fugitives from stag parties, these are not the type of film usually seen in public theatres. In fact, the Shanghai is probably the only public theatre in the world that does show them.

Some other minor theatres recently attempted to show this type of film, but they made the mistake of publicly advertising. The mayor or Havana quickly ordered these places closed down.

Customers at the Shanghai are sometimes disappointed at the appearance of the girls in the show. Apologizes impresario Orozco, "Ours is a small country, and there are not many girls who are willing to appear naked."

And as for showing stag films, Orozco says in defense of his country, "These films come from New York, Paris and Mexico City."

Romance the Teenagers for Biz

James Nicholson's Credo Gives Disk Jockeyes Vital Role in 'Hot Rod Girl' Campaign

Boston, Aug. 21.

Embassy Pictures Corp. is using disk jocks on 37 New England radio stations in behalf of "Hot Rod Girl" and "Girls in Prison," currently at the Paramount and Fenway in Boston and day and date in 250 theatres in the six state region.

George Kraska, in charge of exploitation for Embassy, which is distributing the two films made by James Nicholson American Co. in Hollywood, has lined up hot rod parades in several cities along with the deejay promotion.

Nicholson, who was recently in Boston, declares his faith in this boxoffice credo: the 14-24 age bracket is the one to hit. He is aiming his pictures at that age group.

Kraska, echoing, asserted that disk jocks have the ear of the 14 to 24's. Special transcriptions, made by producer Nicholson, are being used by jocks.

Greensboro, N.C., Votes 'Sampling' of Films On A Pre-Selection Basis

Greensboro, N. C., Aug. 21.

Greensboro's board of Public Amusements last week voted unanimously to conduct a "sampling" of local motion pictures for the next several weeks and to require theatre managers to provide the board with lists of forthcoming pictures. Saying that he disliked the word "investigation," the Rev. Carl F. Herman made the motion which was adopted.

Members are to attend the motion picture showings, but selections of pictures are to be left to individual members, the board agreed. As a basis for deciding which pictures they will see, the board members are to be guided by titles, advertising and anything they may hear or read.

Board Chairman L. P. McLendon Jr. noted that a petition before the group did not name a specific film, but asked for an investigation "of types of movies currently being shown in some of our downtown theatres." The petitioners did single out the State Theatre for criticism, declaring that it "does constantly project films that are, in nature, of a demoralizing influence."

IATSE Pulls Peak 1,300 In K.C. as Meany Talks

Kansas City, Aug. 21.

Biennial convention of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees opened here yesterday (Mon.) morning with more than 1,300 delegates on hand, largest turnout in the history of the union. Opening day pleasantries were expressed by Cyril Donovan, chairman (representing stagehands), and George Barrett, vice-chairman (representing motion picture operators), of the local convention committee.

A highlight of the convention was an address by George Meany, AFL-CIO president today (Tues.), this being the first IATSE meeting since the merger of the two union groups.

Richard F. Walsh, IATSE prexy, made a comprehensive report on the status of the union during the past two years. Reports also are on the docket from Harland Holmden, general secretary-treasurer, and the general executive board.

Convention was preceded by a week of preparation, the IATSE board and group of top officers meeting all last week at the Hotel Muehlebach. Over the weekend conventions of the 14 IATSE districts were held, some in the Muehlebach and some in the Municipal Auditorium.

Trib Policy

Continued from page 2

definite policy on tv appearances, with the Trib merely drifting and allowing some staffers to make appearances. Now the policy is one of encouragement, with the change coming during the conventions, when the Tribbers, from Reid on down, made appearances all over the lot. Reid himself, along with Roscoe Drummond and Marguerite Higgins, did a late-night radio report from Chi for the post-Convention Tex McCrary hour one night on WRCA, while staffers Drummond, Miss Higgins, Don Whitehead and John Rogers made the rounds of such news panel shows as "Press Conference," "Convention Searchlight" and "Cross Country Caucus."

Gardner, apart from his Sunday WRCA-TV show, starts a nightly tv strip on the same station soon; Cooke has a ABC Radio series along with the post-Pabst bouts on ABC-TV. Latest to take the plunge is advertising editor Joe Kaselow, who preems a nightly five-minute radio digest of Madison Ave. stuff via WOR.

'Age of Teens'

Continued from page 3

coming pictures that will star or feature male thesps who, it's hoped, will have the magic ingredient that'll make him a Dean, a Presley, or a Marlon Brando. Although some effort is being made to develop young femme performers, the main concentration is on males who will draw the distaff teens, probably regarded as more vociferous in their hero-worshipping.

Presley, who has already made a dent in disks, personal appearances and on tv, is emerging as a hot picture property. He's already set for "The Lonesome Cowboy" at Paramount and "The Reno Bros." at 20th-Fox, as well as a number of other pictures. Universal is placing considerable hope on John Saxon, a young graduate of its talent development school who makes his film debut in "The Unguarded Moment." Metro's contender is John Kerr, repeating his stage role opposite Deborah Kerr in "Tea and Sympathy."

Don Murray, who stars opposite Marilyn Monroe in "Bus Stop" and who is also set for a top role in Hecht-Lancaster's "Bachelor Party," is 20th's contribution for future stardom. RKO is banking on a number of teen-types, including, of course, Eddie Fisher, who makes his film debut in "Bundle of Joy." Also on RKO's hopeful list is James MacArthur, son of Helen Hayes and the late Charles MacArthur. Tab Hunter, who has been around for several years, is nevertheless getting extra special attention from Warner Bros. Anthony Perkins, son of the late Osgood Perkins, is also receiving attention from the film companies. Sal Mineo, who appeared in "Rebel Without A Cause" and "Somebody Up There Likes Me," is another young performer geared for the teenage audience. Paul Newman, who stars in that picture, rates, too, as a member of the Brando-Dean school.

Talent diggers maintain that they are looking for all types of performers who can achieve b.o. appeal, but admit that special efforts are being made to come up with thesps who will cause teenage shouting. The problem, it's maintained, is not only to find the performer but also to select the right vehicle that will present the newcomer under the most auspicious circumstances.

Showtune Writers

Continued from page 1

via subsid publishing firms. R&H are repped via Williamson Music and Porter with Buxton Hill. Now, however, the cleffers are on a do-it-yourself kick. Mercer has set up Commander Music to handle the "Li'l Abner" score while the Miss Comden-Green-Styne team formed Stratford Music for "Bells." Bob Merrill, who's got "Pay the Piper," a musicalization of Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie," due this season, will publish the score via his own Valyr Music firm. Frank Loesser puts his scores into his Frank Music operation.

Nothing can stop The Last Wagon from coming through for you!

from 20th CENTURY-FOX

CINEMASCOPE

COLOR by DE LUXE

Pix Pioneering—'56 Style

Continued from page 1

Hollywood, as now constituted, is sometimes sadly lacking in enterprise.

So strongly does he believe that the picture business will be with us for a long time that AB-PT plans to engage directly in motion picture production.

He feels that legally he can, in light of the divorcement decree, and while plans are set he is waiting for the greenlight from Washington just to make sure.

It is strongly reported that Si Fabian's Stanley Warner Theatres plans a similar production enterprise. This is regardless of the abortive attempt to acquire Warner Bros. which eventualy saw his would-be banking ally, Serge Semenenko of the First National Bank of Boston, along with Charles Allen Jr., David Baird, Jack L. Warner, et al., buying control of WB. Stanley Warner, nonetheless, feels (1) it has the legal right to engage in picture production, and (2), thinks it's necessary to maintain a lifeline to the boxoffice via increased product.

Goldenson similarly isn't just being altruistic about wanting to perpetuate the picture business; realistically (1), there is room and need for more product, and (2) room for a new savvy and enterprise on film merchandising ideas.

The 'Sell' Factor

For example, no property will be put before the cameras before Goldenson's corps of pub-admen and "merchandisers with a 1956 approach think through and convince themselves we can sell this picture to the public."

Goldenson is a little impatient with some of the stodgy picture-selling methods not only from what he considers a long outmoded distribution technique, but on the pub-ad level.

"Aw, we did that 25 years ago" was cited by him as one adman's answer to a stunt the television people have been capitalizing on. To this Goldenson wonders, "Then why not do it again, or bring it up to date for benefit of the picture business and not let it go at that because once tried it has to be buried forever."

But this is an incidental gripe to the general selling. It's part also of the general intra-industry inertia. On the one hand a topmost studio topper acted as if the picture business was about ready to resign from the earth; and to this Goldenson objects because of the negative chain-reaction. "How can we generate any enthusiasm and excitement and showmanship which is the essence of our business if he acts that way?"

On the distribution aspect more anon.

On Hollywood production in general, Goldenson wants to know, "Since when was it written in the books that every $3,000,000 picture must do $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 gross? You build a business by building a catalog. For years and years every successful studio knew that it would come out with seven or eight unequivocal hits; there would be just as many flops; and in between would be the body of their output—the break-even or just 'make a few bucks' type of pictures.

Keep Rollin' Along

"But meantime it kept a studio rolling. It built up values. It acquired properties. The inherent business grew in size and stature and values. It permited newcomers to come along. New writers, producers, directors, stars were thus cradled, nurtured, created, brought into fullest fruition under that system.

"Few do it today. Universal is one. Columbia is another that has created some new marquee names, so much so that these new virile young people become good trading commodities to acquire a maturer and so-called 'bigger' star from a major lot.

"But mostly today it's an opportunistic business. Maybe that's because you say that their thinking is 'only the blockbusters do business' and the B's and the 'nervous A's' are poison. I know all those arguments. But I also know at our own boxoffices from coast to coast that many an 'A' doesn't do the business of these so-called lesser entries. Some have produced surprisingly good grosses. I can name you any number of titles" which he did, indicating that a topical actioner, a science-fiction, a light romance between two young people (he mentioned Tab Hunter, Audie Murphy, Natalie Wood, George Nader as typical newcomers) as doing very well for his theatres.

"They all have to do it. Metro used to do it. Sure, when they made their 'Crime Doesn't Pay' series it did not do so with the intent that Robert Taylor would emerge as a big star, but that's just how he and many a good new talent was developed. Others dittoed. But somehow today they put in three stars when one star could do the trick. I've told that to the producers. They argue that that's the insuranee for the smash grosses. All these are surviving pioneers, too, who remember full well that a $1,000,000 gross was a dream; then when they grew adventurous they'd risk a $1,000,000 production. Today they talk that kind of money for the basic property alone, and they augment it with millions of dollars worth of marquee values and production (not forgetting taking in partners with percentages to the stars where formerly they developed the potent new faces), and they're shooting dice with $3,000,000 and upwards and all figure it's gotta be an almost-$10,000,000 grosser, or else.

"Well, that's carrying inflation too far. Certainly it's not the picture business. It's not showmanship and it's not good business. But when Universal can take an Audie Murphy and make 'To Hell and Back' for $500,000 and gross $5,500,000, that's showmanship."

That Sales Overhead

In the distribution aspects, Goldenson who had been groomed by Barney Balaban to head up Paramount until divorcement edicted he take over the theatre circuit instead, had long opposed the staggering sales overhead. Each major has a $7,000,000 annual load on the sales end, he figures, and Goldenson is convinced the industry can and must cut that $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 distribution ovcrhead, domestically, at least 60%, that is, a saving of over $30,000,000.

He cites that 10 people in 10 key theatre chains account for 60 to 70% of the film product buying for the theatres.

Goldenson feels that anything beyond the cream 8,500 acecounts is a dead loss under the law of diminishing returns. He feels six or seven exehanges, whether individually or pooled, can service the hinterland accounts and "let 'em come in or write into the exchanges. I've long argued that the boast about 12,000 and 13,000 contracts is a very costly proposition and euts in deeply on the cream 8,500 accounts, which are the profit to the producer and distributor."

It is common knowledge that in the reappraisal of theatres and exhibition the so-called 17,000 theatres have become academie for many reasons. One is the upsurge of drive-ins, some 5,000 of them now, which is a healthier offset to the lesser houses. Secondly, many were obsolete, deeadent, basically unattractive, not to mention fire-trap and other hazards, so they were long overdue for the scrapheap. The advent of television merely accelerated something that was inevitable.

Goldenson doesn't minimize the tv inroads but, as a television tycoon himself, he doesn't write off the picture business.

Vision Vis-a-Vis Video

He has two major thoughts on that score. One is the lack of vision on the part of the majors in that 1948-53 period when tv was coming along to build new personalities attuned to the kids. The other is the conviction that the picture business must take cognizance of working with television.

"It's not that tv needs Hollywood but that Hollywood must tool its thinking to create also for the video medium, coordinate between the two, and possibly find that from tv might emerge a film raquce value," he feels. "In a measure we have that slightly via the Walt Disney-Fess Parker impact. Jack Warner has a couple of potentials from the 'WB Presents' tv show, he was telling me. There must be others. This by no means means selling out or disposing of residuals to tv. The new medium can well be harnessed by or at least coordinated to work with Hollywood picture-making. I'm sure something like that must happen with Harry Cohn's operation at Columbia, now that his Screen Gems is such a successful adjunct."

But of one thing Goldenson seems the most certain: the film-makers have gotten away from what should be their dedicated purpose—the running of a business, not a series of opportunistic or "copper-riveted" ventures as he calls it.

Hollywood and tv may, in time, coordinate their resources for most benevolent results from the 8,000 to 9,000 theatres which appear to be the circumscribed orbits of the "new" post-television picture business.

Hollywood's resourcefulness, ever manifested in crisis, may well emerge an even greater force because of this pingpong coordination with the new tv medium.

This, along with the recent 90c tax respite, may give theatres its best postwar opportunities yet.

Two-Pronged Pattern

Certainly Goldenson's opinion is one of the few, perhaps the first, with any sort of definitive approach to the state of the picture business as of now. By and large the industry has explored and deplored, declaimed and decried, mostly blaming television, but none has voiced a pattern for the two media—production and distribution versus tv, in re the theatres. In fact, Goldenson carries it a third step further by enlisting the television potential.

It is not enough to plead the cause of "big pictures" and "blockbusters" on the one hand or "more pictures to feed the little exhibitor" on the other.

Goldenson has even set a pattern for the type of pictures he plans making himself. "They will be in the $200,000 to $300,000 area," says he, "at least while we are starting to learn, first-hand, realistically, the business of production for ourselves, by ourselves. I don't know the themes other than one thing is sure—we're not going to make just anything; it has to be a subject which will give us something to sell."

Goldenson will not be the studio producer. He has a couple of potentials lined up for that job who would coordinate all their production thinking and realization with the eastern sellers and exploiteers—otherwise it will not be done.

MPAA Hints

Continued from page 5

a seal to an indie releaser, in Col's ease Edward L. Kingsley, who actually works for the distrib.

Code itself contains a footnote which says, once there are a sufficient number of specialized houses, a special seal might be eonsidered. It's noted, however, that the Code revamp committee stuck to non-English-language pix, i.e., didn't extend its consideration to the British films. Theory is that any non-English-language pie automatically has a limited "adult" audience.

Since exhibitors have shown little inclination in recent months to worry about the Code seal, observers are wondering how a special seal film could be limited to certain houses only, particularly if the picture—"Diabolique," for instance—is a suecessful earner. Also, question is asked, what happens if a special seal is handed out to a French import whieh is later dubbed for wide distribution?

Exhibs Re Appeals

Continued from page 5

trying to get us to help them off a hot spot," he opined. "If distribution showed that kind of cooperative attitude in other areas, we'd all be better off."

Spyros P. Skouras Jr. of Skouras Theatres also approved of the idea, but felt strongly that "impartial" representation on the appeals board was needed. MPAA committee had firmly turned thumbs down on non-industry voices having a say-so on Code matters.

Several of the theatre ops expressed the opinion that, if there was to be representation, it should be via their associations. At the same time, they doubted that this would serve to greatly influence the mass of exhibs, many of whom haven't been altogether happy with the interpretation and application of the Code.

Amusement Stock Quotations

(N.Y. Stock Exchange)

For Week Ending Tuesday (21)

| 1956 High | 1956 Low | | Weekly Vol. in 100s | Weekly High | Weekly Low | Tues. Close | Net Change for week |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 32½ | 24⅝ | Am Br-Par Th | 143 | 31¾ | 30¼ | 30½ | — ⅝ |
| 31⅞ | 22⅞ | CBS "A" | 213 | 32⅞ | 28⅞ | 29⅜ | —2½ |
| 31¾ | 22¾ | CBS "B" | 125 | 32½ | 29¼ | 29⅞ | —2⅞ |
| 26¾ | 18⅛ | Col Pix | 43 | 22¼ | 20½ | 20⅝ | —1⅛ |
| 16⅜ | 14⅛ | Decca | 108 | 15⅜ | 14¾ | 14¾ | — |
| 100¾ | 75¾ | Eastman Kdk | 76 | 97¾ | 93¾ | 94½ | —3¼ |
| 4⅞ | 3¼ | EMI | 153 | 3½ | 3¼ | 3¼ | — ⅛ |
| 12 | 8⅛ | List Ind | 103 | 8½ | 8⅛ | 8⅜ | + ¼ |
| 25⅛ | 18⅞ | Loew's | 281 | 21¾ | 20 | 20 | —1⅛ |
| 9¼ | 7½ | Nat. Thea | 142 | 8¼ | 8 | 8⅛ | — |
| 36½ | 30¼ | Paramount | 84 | 33⅛ | 32⅜ | 33 | + ⅝ |
| 36½ | 20⅛ | Philco | 129 | 21⅜ | 20⅝ | 20¾ | + ¼ |
| 50⅜ | 41⅛ | RCA | 239 | 44⅜ | 42½ | 42⅝ | — ⅜ |
| 8⅞ | 6¾ | Republic | 12 | 7½ | 6¾ | 6¾ | —1 |
| 15⅛ | 12¾ | Rep., pfd | 4 | 13¼ | 13 | 13 | — |
| 17¾ | 15 | Stanley War. | 28 | 15⅝ | 15¼ | 15¼ | — ¼ |
| 28⅛ | 22⅛ | Storer | 28 | 27⅝ | 27¼ | 27¼ | — ¼ |
| 29¼ | 21¼ | 20th-Fox | 76 | 25 | 24¾ | 24¾ | — ⅛ |
| 29¾ | 24½ | Univ. Pix | 10 | 25¼ | 25⅛ | 25¼ | + ⅛ |
| 82½ | 75 | Univ., pfd | *140 | 76 | 74⅞ | 74⅞ | —1⅛ |
| 26¾ | 18½ | Warner Bros. | 227 | 27¾ | 27⅜ | 27⅜ | — ¼ |
| 141¼ | 101 | Zenith | 25 | 109 | 106 | 106 | — ½ |

American Stock Exchange

| | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 6⅛ | 3⅝ | Allied Artists | 19 | 4½ | 4¼ | 4⅜ | — |
| 13¼ | 9¾ | All'd Art., pfd. | 3 | 10½ | 10⅜ | 10⅜ | — ⅛ |
| 2⅛ | 1⅛ | C & C Super | 567 | 1⅜ | 1⅛ | 1⅛ | — ¼ |
| 10 | 5¾ | Du Mont | 54 | 6⅜ | 6 | 6 | — ½ |
| 3½ | 2¾ | Guild Films | 49 | 3¾ | 3⅛ | 3¼ | — ⅜ |
| 5⅜ | 3 | Nat'l Telefilm | 43 | 5 | 4⅝ | 5 | + ⅛ |
| 5¾ | 2¾ | Skiatron | 15 | 3⅝ | 3½ | 3⅝ | — |
| 13¼ | 9⅜ | Technicolor | 97 | 10 | 9⅝ | 9¾ | — ¼ |
| 4 | 3 | Trans-Lux | 24 | 3½ | 3¼ | 3½ | + ¼ |

Over-the-Counter Securities

| | Bid | Ask | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Ampex | 40⅝ | 43¾ | +3¼ |
| Chesapeake Industries | 2¼ | 3 | — |
| Cinerama Inc. | 1⅛ | 1⅝ | — |
| Cinerama Prod. | 3½ | 4 | — ⅛ |
| DuMont Broadcasting | 7 | 7½ | — |
| Magna Theatres | 2⅜ | 3¼ | + ⅛ |
| Official Films | 1¾ | 2¼ | — |
| Polaroid | 82 | 85 | —3 |
| U. A. Theatres | 6¾ | 7¾ | + ⅜ |
| Walt Disney | 45 | 49 | +2 |

* Actual Volume.

Quotations furnished by Dreyfus & Co.)

H'wood's 'This Is Your Life'

Continued from page 3

thony; and "Bojangles," the Bill Robinson story.

Columbia, as followup to its Duehin depiction, will put "The Jeanne Eagels Story" before the cameras as a Kim Novak starrer. Already completed is "Zarak," which Warwick turned out based on a native leader on the Northwest Frontier in India. Coming up are Tyrone Power's "Lorenzo the Magnificent," dealing with the Medicis; "The Frank Liszt Story," and "The Wheel," life of Gandhi.

Other Biopix

Paramount already has finished "The Buster Keaton Story" and currently has two additional biopix in work, "Beau James," the late Jimmy Walker, former N.Y. mayor; and "The Jim Piersall Story." "The Red Nichols Story" rolls in the Fall as a Danny Kaye vehicle, and Frank Sinatra will star in "Jokers Wild," spotlighting Joe E. Lewis. There is also a possibility Par will do "Topsy and Eva," based on the Duncan Sisters.

Metro, which has the Rocky Graziano yarn ("Somebody") now showing, also is in the midst of camera work on "The Wings of Eagles," story of Naval hero Comdr. Frank "Spig" Wead. In scripting stage are "I Accuse," the Dreyfus case; "Your Cheatin' Heart," hillbilly singer Hank Williams.

Warners already has Alfred Hitchcock's "The Wrong Man" completed, story of Manny Balistrero, N.Y. musician falsely accused of a holdup; and is in final stages of lensing "The Spirit of St. Louis," Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. "Why Was I Born," the Helen Morgan story, goes in the fall. Also on the agenda are "John Paul Jones" and "Darby's Rangers," dealing with exploits of Col. William O. Darby and his raiders in World War II.

Twentieth-Fox has "The Best Things in Life Are Free," DeSylva, Brown & Henderson songwriting team, in the can, and next week launches "The Reno Brothers," story of the Confederate brothers. Prepping is a new version of "Jesse James," and also being readied is "The Townsend Harris Story," first U.S. Ambassador to Japan. "The Jean Harlow Story" is also on the agenda.

RKO recently completed "The Day They Gave Babies Away," story of Robert and Mamie Eunson, grandparents of writer Dale Eunson, who wrote the original upon which film is based. Studio is talking with Perry Como anent taking over title role in "The Old Maestro," the Ben Bernie story which rolls around first of the year.

Allied Artists is projecting "The Victor Riesel Story," dealing with the N.Y. labor columnist reeently blinded, and United Artists has a pair on its upcoming sked. Bel-Air is doing "Mark of the Apache," Chief Red Sleeves.

Biopix Peak

Continued from page 3

rangement has, as yet, been made for the Andrews film, the finalization of the deal awaiting the completion of the screenplay.

However, on the basis of "Edge," Talent Associates has completed a second deal with Metro. It calls for TA, with Susskind at the production helm, to film "The Greatest Ride In Town," an original comedy by Robert Mendes. Story concerns a Brooklyn trolley car motorman who becomes enmeshed in bureaucracy. It's deseribed as a comedy in the manner of those made famous by Harold Lloyd and Buster Keaton. Danny Kaye is being sought for the lead. Martin Ritt, who directed "Edge," based on Robert Alan Aurthur's tv play, is also set to guide "Greatest Ride." Picture, to be financed and released by Metro, will be filmed entirely in New York, as was "Edge."

"Greatest Ride" is scheduled for production next June. It will follow TA's "Shadow of a Champ," also based on an Aurthur tv script, which is scheduled for production by Kirk Douglas' Bryna Productions in February, with United Artists releasing.

The Andrews Sisters project is penciled in for filming in October, 1957.

M-G-M presents

"Tea and Sympathy"

In CINEMASCOPE and METROCOLOR

Starring

Deborah Kerr

John Kerr

with

Leif Erickson · Edward Andrews

Screen Play by

Robert Anderson

Based on the Play by Robert Anderson

Directed by

Vincente Minnelli

Produced by

Pandro S. Berman

556,612,900!

This is the total number of times people will be reached in M-G-M's great all-media saturation campaign across America, synchronized with simultaneous nationwide playdates. WE'RE PUTTING A BUNDLE ON A SURE-FIRE FAVORITE!

ADS IN THESE TOP MAGAZINES

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| LIFE | COSMOPOLITAN | SEVENTEEN | MOVIELAND |
| LOOK | GOOD HOUSEKEEPING | WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION | MOTION PICTURE |
| SATURDAY EVENING POST | McCALL'S | PHOTOPLAY | MOVIE LIFE |
| COLLIER'S | PARENTS' | MODERN SCREEN | SCREENLAND |
| REDBOOK | TRUE STORY | SCREEN STORIES | MOVIE STARS PARADE |
| | | | FILMLAND |

Full pages in Life, Saturday Evening Post, Look, Cosmopolitan, Ladies' Home Journal, McCall's, Redbook, Woman's Home Companion. M-G-M's famed "Picture of The Month" column in Collier's, Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping, Look, McCall's, Parents', Redbook, Seventeen, True Story, Woman's Home Companion. "Lion's Roar" column in Saturday Evening Post.

FIVE-FOLD NEWSPAPER PLAN IN 90 CITIES

Blanketing the nation in the newspapers, spanning 90 cities of 100,000 or over, a five-fold ad barrage:

1. 500 line display ad on Sunday, September 16th or thereabouts on amusement page.

2. 400 line display ad on September 17th or 18th in preferred position on news page.

3. 700 line display ad on Sunday, September 23rd or thereabouts on amusement page.

4. 350 line display ad on TV page either the day of or day before opening.

5. Co-operative display campaign geared to playdates.

SATURATION ON RADIO AND TV IN 50 TOP MARKETS

Two weeks before the simultaneous nationwide bookings, M-G-M will launch one of its greatest promotions on TV and Radio. In the top 50 metropolitan markets of America there will be an extended campaign with a new angle, involving participation by hundreds of popular personalities of TV and Radio, "News" and "Commentators," "Women's Programs," "Teen-Age Programs," etc., the vast opinion-makers of all age groups.

PHONE M-G-M TODAY!

If you haven't set your date, do it now in order to cash in on this tremendous release-date-penetration.

Picture Grosses

BOSTON

(Continued from page 9)

"Proud and Profane" looks okay in third week at Met.

Estimates for This Week

Astor (B&Q) (1,500; $1-$1.50)—"Eddy Duchin Story" (Col). Sock $25,000 or near. Last week, "Moby Dick" (WB) (7th wk-4 days), $4,000.

Beacon Hill (Beacon Hill) (678; 90-$1.25)—"One Summer Happiness" (Times) (7th wk). Sturdy $5,000. Last week, ditto.

Cinerama (Cinerama Productions) (1,354; $1.20-$2.65)—"Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (52d-final wk). Rousing $22,000, hypoed by two extra mats and closing ads. Last week, $20,000.

Exeter (Indie) (1,200; 60-$1)—"Wages of Fear" (DCA) and "Animal Farm" (DCA). Oke $5,000. Last week, "Phantom Horse" (Indie) (2d wk), $3,500.

Fenway (NET) (1,373; 60-$1)—"Hot Rod Girls" (Indie) and "Girls in Prison" (Indie). Hot $8,000. Last week, "Satellite in Sky" (WB) and "7 Men From Now" (WB), $4,000.

Kenmore (Indie) (700; 85-$1.25)—"Gaby" (M-G) (8th wk). Light $3,000. Last week, $3,500.

Memorial (RKO) (3,000; 75-$1.25)—"Bus Stop" (20th). Fancy $21,000 or more. Holds. Last week, "Bigger Than Life" (20th) and "Female Jungle" (AR), $11,000.

Metropolitan (NET) (4,357; 75-$1.25)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) (3d wk). Okay $9,000. Last week, $12,000.

Pilgrim (ATC) (2,100; 65-95)—"Naked City" (DCA) and "Brute Force" (DCA). Weak $4,000. Last week, "Foreign Intrigue" (UA) and "Nightmare" (UA), $8,000.

Paramount (NET) (1,700; 60-$1)—"Hot Rod Girls" (Indie) and "Girls in Prison" (Indie). Lofty $21,000. Last week, "Satellite in Sky" (WB) and "7 Men From Now" (WB), $10,000.

Orpheum (Loew) (3,000; 65-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Terrific $20,000 or better. May hold a third. Last week, $6,000, way over expectations.

State (Loew) (3,000; 65-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Slick $12,000. Last week, $20,000.

BROADWAY

(Continued from page 9)

Up There Likes Me" (M-G) (6th wk), $13,000.

Sutton (R&B) (561; $1-$2)—"Moby Dick" (WB) (8th wk). Seventh week ended yesterday (Tues.) was big $9,500. Sixth was $11,000.

Trans-Lux 52nd St. (T-L) (540; $1-$1.50)—"La Strada" (T-L) (6th wk). Fifth session ended Sunday (19) was smash $12,000. Fourth was $14,000.

Victoria (City Inv.) (1,060; 50-$2)—"Bigger Than Life" (20th) (3d-final wk). Third stanza winding up today (Wed.) looks to hold with okay $12,000. Second was $13,000. "Burning Hills" (WB) opens tomorrow (Thurs.).

Warner (Cinerama Prod) (1,600; $1.20-$3.50)—"Seven Wonders of World" (Indie) (19th wk). The 18th session ended Saturday (18) was socko ($48,900, heat hurting late in week. The 17th week was $52,900. Stays indef.

55th Street Playhouse (B-F) (250; $1.25-$2.50)—"Bullfight" (Janus) (6th wk). Seventh round ended Monday (20) was good $5,500 after $6,500 in sixth.

CHICAGO

(Continued from page 9)

$3.40)—"Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (62d wk). Steady $25,000. Last week, $26,900.

Roosevelt (B&K) (1,400; 65-98)—"Earth Vs. Flying Saucers" (Col) and "Werewolf" (Col) (2d wk.) Hotsy $19,000. Last week, $22,000.

State-Lake (B&K) (2,400; 98-$1.25)—"Away All Boats" (U) (2d wk). Mighty $36,000. Last week, $40,000.

Surf (H&E Balaban) (685; $1.25)—"Ladykillers" (Cont) (8th wk). Loud $7,000. Last week, $5,800.

United Artists (B&K) (1,700; 98-$1.25)—"Trapeze" (UA) (10th wk). Okay $15,000. Last week, $16,000.

Woods (Essaness) (1,206; 98-$1.50—"Duchin Story" (Col) (7th wk). Big $25,000. Last week, $27,000.

World (Indie) (430; 98—"Last 10 Days" (Col) (4th wk). Plump $4,200. Last week, $4,600.

Ziegfeld (Davis) (430; 98)—"Rififi" (UMPO) (3d wk). Big $8,000. Last week, $9,500.

Denver Likes 'Society,' $25,000; 'Land' Rich 14G

Denver, Aug. 21.

"High Society" is the big news here this round, and holds over at Orpheum. "Pardners" perched the Denham, and stays on. "Walk Proud Land" looks fine at Paramount.

Estimates for This Week

Centre (Fox) (1,247; 75-$1.25)—"King and I" (20th) (8th wk). Good $11,000, and record 8 weeks here. Last week, same.

Denham (Cockrill) (1,750; 60-$1)—"Pardners" (Par). Big $13,000. Last week, "Proud and Profane" (Par) (4th wk), $7,000.

Denver (Fox) (2,525; 60-$1)—"Safari" (Col) and "Inside Detroit" (Col). Fair $10,000. Holds. Last week, "Francis in Haunted House" (U) and "Star in Dust" (U), $11,000.

Orpheum (RKO) (2,600; 60-$1)—"High Society" (M-G). Great $25,000. Stays on. Last week, "Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G), $11,500.

Paramount (Wolfberg) (2,200; 60-$1)—"Walk Proud Land" (U) and "Killing" (UA). Fine $14,000 or close. Last week, "Run For Sun" (UA) and "Quincanno" (UA), $12,000.

LOS ANGELES

(Continued from page 8)

over. Last week, $16,500 plus $65,600 in two nabes, seven drive-ins.

Orpheum, Hollywood, Uptown, Loyola (Metropolitan-FWC) (2,213; 756; 1,715; 1,248; 80-$1.50)—"Trapeze" (UA) and "Emergency Hospital" (Indie) (2d wk). Fancy $29,000. Last week, great $40,800.

Downtown Paramount (ABPT) (3,300; 80-$1.50)—"Satellite in Sky" (WB) and "Seven Men from Now" (WB) (2d wk). Thin $5,500. Last week, with Wiltern, Hawaii, $24,000 plus $66,700 in one nabe, eight drive-ins.

Pantages (RKO) (2,812; $1-$1.75)—"High Society" (M-G) (3d wk). Fast $24,000. Last week, $28,700.

Hollywood Paramount (F&M) (1,430; $1-$1.50)—"That Certain Feeling" (Par) (7th wk). Slow $3,500. Last week, $4,100.

Chinese (FWC) (1,908; $1.25-$2.40)—"King and I" (20th) (8th wk). Sock $20,600. Last week, $23,400.

Warner Beverly (SW) (1,612; $1-$1.75)—"Duchin Story" (Col) (8th wk). Fat $7,500. Last week, same.

Four Star (UATC) (868; 90-$1.50)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) (10th wk). Big $5,000. Last week, ditto.

Fine Arts (FWC) (631; $1.25-$1.75)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue) (11th wk). Good $3,900. Last week, $4,600.

Egyptian, United Artists (UATC) (1,411; 1,242; $1.10-$2.75)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (40th week Egyptian, 34th wk U.A.). Swell $19,000. Last week, same.

Warner Hollywood (SW) (1,364; $1.20-$2.65)—"Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (41st wk). Into current stanza Sunday (19) after big $33,200 last week.

Prof's '64G' Royalty

Continued from page 1

Cranford gets one-third. The extra money comes from the further extension of the idea into the "$64,000 Challenge" which stretches Dr. Cranford's share from $500 to $750 and Biow personally collects the other two-thirds.

Incidentally, vet adman Biow is mulling a number of propositions while he is in process of liquidating the agency bearing his name whose billings ran into the millions.

He may go into vidpix production. He has bids to buy into tv stations; also propositions to take board memberships in exchange for his consultative services. There is also talk of a Governmental post. However, judging by the manner in which past and prospective new clients have been leaning on him, Biow's intimates aver "don't be too surprised if he set up shop again in the advertising business."

McCarrick EK Treas.

Rochester, Aug. 21.

Thomas J. McGarrick, assistant comptroller of Eastman Kodak since February, 1942, last week was named general comptroller of the company.

He replaces Cornelius J. Van Niel, who plans to retire at the end of the year.

Foreign Industries Must Establish N.Y. Offices To Further Sales, Sez Brandt

Need for foreign industries to maintain offices in New York to facilitate commercial contact with the independent U.S. importers and distributors was stressed in N.Y. last week by Richard Brandt, head of the Trans-Lux artie chain and of Trans-Lux Distributing, which handles foreign lingualers.

Brandt, who left Saturday (18) to attend the Venice film festival and scout the European product, said that his outfit was considering the establishment of French and Italian corporations "to function as our purchasing agents."

"Unless they're on an outright basis, deals today are so complicated, it's necessary to have someone in New York to deal with," Brandt opined. "The industries abroad should maintain representatives in New York who are empowered to sign contracts and make deals. We used to deal with the Italians through IFE. But that's more or less gone now. If the Europeans don't move on this soon, we will."

With reference to "La Strada," the Italian pic which Trans-Lux is handling in the U.S. and which shapes as an important grosser, Brandt said his company had last week allocated $100,000 for an adpub campaign in 10 key situations over the next three months. Among the cities are Boston, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Washington.

Import, for which Trans-Lux paid $65,000 on an outright basis (excepting a 10% participation for actor Anthony Quinn), so far has played only New York and Provincetown, where it broke the house record at the Art Cinema and was held over. It won't get a national release date till Christmas.

"We are going to give 'La Strada' a New York-type buildup in each city," Brandt said. "We are sending a publicity-exploitation expert into each situation. If properly sold, we are convinced this is one of those European films that has a huge market here."

As an example of how specialized selling can put over an offbeat entry, Brandt cited "Lili," the Metro release. Pic grossed about $1,500,000, of which some $300,000 came from the Trans-Lux 52d St. Theatre in N.Y. alone. Altogether, the N.Y. area accounted for between 40% to 50% of the "Lili" coin, Brandt said. He has no intention of dubbing "La Strada."

Cartoons, Shorts in M-G's 'Carnival' for N.Y. Ride

Taking a leaf from European countries, where cartoon and short subject festivals are popular, Metro has selected a group of its outstanding cartoons and two-reelers of the past and has assembled them as "The M-G-M Carnival."

The short films will be offered as the complete program at the Plaza, N.Y., starting Aug. 28 and running for three weeks. On the program will be seven "Tom and Jerry" cartoons, two Robert Benchley shorts ("See Your Doctor" and "How to Sublet"), and two "Passing Parade' 'subjects.

'Pajama Game'

Continued from page 1

show's top tunes. The production is scheduled to begin a tour of major Israeli cities in October.

Regarding the music angle, the publishing and recording industry in Israel has developed substantially in the past two years. Hebrew versions of all the major European and U. S. hits are being published and waxed, with "Three Coins in the Fountain," "Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing" and "Johnny Guitar" heading the 1956 output thus far. As evidenced by these titles, there's usually a delay in the tune coverage.

Other top records include the Israeli number, "Messeg (Israel Wine) Song," waxed by Lionel Hampton; "Tachanah Merkasit" (called "Gare St. Lazaire" in French); and the "rain song," "Piic-Ploc."

Film Reviews

Continued from page 6

Child in the House

itude. Eric Portman is wasted as her husband, with little to do but offer frigid politeness to his wife, and mute alliance with the youngster. Stanley Baker makes a mixed personality of the crooked father, his characterization being more realistic in the later reels when he is on the run. Dora Bryan brings a breath of cockney joyousness to the role of the sympathetic housemaid, livening the otherwise stilted atmosphere. Clem.

Eyewitness

(BRITISH)

Compact, standard thriller of a murderer's attempt to get at an injured witness to prevent identification; Donald Sinden, turned crook, lacks conviction.

London, Aug. 14.

Rank production (Sydney Box) and release. Stars Donald Sinden, Muriel Pavlow, Belinda Lee. Directed by Muriel Box. Screenplay, Janet Green; camera, Reginald Wyer; editor, Jean Barker; music, Bruce Montgomery. At Dominion Theatre, London. Running time, 82 MINS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Wade | Donald Sinden |
| Lucy | Muriel Pavlow |
| Penny | Belinda Lee |
| Jay | Michael Craig |
| Barney | Nigel Stock |
| Probationer Nurse | Susan Beaumont |
| Mike | David Knight |
| Mrs. Hudson | Aida Reeve |
| Night Sister | Avis Landone |
| Anaesthetist | Richard Wattis |
| Fatrolman | George Woodridge |
| Molly | Gillian Harrison |
| House Surgeon | Nicholas Parsons |
| Henry Cammon | Leslie Dwyer |
| Mrs. Hays | Anna Turner |
| Podge | Anthony Oliver |
| Chief Constable | John Stuart |
| Det. Inspector | Alan Cuthbertson |
| Sugdon | Harry Towb |

A neatly made, unpretentious thriller that should do well for the home market. A murderer's attempt to kill a woman who witnessed his crime makes for suspenseful action, although the story is improbable in some of its twists. Pic is well acted and well served by its director and camera crew.

Following a fight with her newlywed husband, a young woman leaves home with the threat she won't return. While at the cinema, she sees the manager struck down by his opened safe, and is chased by one of the thieves. The terrified girl dashes into the street and is knocked down by a bus. From then on the two haunt the hospital grounds in an attempt to silence her before she can gain consciousness and identify them. The various efforts to gain admittance to the building arouse both tension and humor.

The husband's frantic search for his wife ends in the police arrival at the hospital just as the second thief, jibbing at another murder, kills his partner to save the girl's life.

Donald Sinden doesn't sit too happily in the unusual badman role but Nigel Stock, as his reluctant accomplice, gives the best performance of all. Muriel Pavlow has little to do but register terror as the eyewitness. Belinda Lee spills over with appealing glamor as her nurse. Vet legiter Ada Reeve injects some down-to-earth humor as an inquisitive patient whose claim to having seen the prowler is ignored by everyone until his mission is almost accomplished. Clem.

The Young Guns

Mild oater based on juve delinquency theme.

Hollywood, Aug. 17.

Allied Artists release of Richard Heermance production. Stars Russ Tamblyn, Gloria Talbott. Directed by Albert Band. Screenplay, Louis Garfinkle; camera, Ellsworth Fredricks; editor, George White; music, Marlin Skiles; song, Lenny Adelson & Imogen Carpenter, sung by Guy Mitchell. Previewed Aug. 17, '56. Running time, 84 MINS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Tully | Russ Tamblyn |
| Nora | Gloria Talbott |
| San Antone | Perry Lopez |
| Knox Cutler | Scott Marlowe |
| Jonesey | Wright King |
| Peyton | Walter Coy |
| Grandpa | Chubby Johnson |
| Deputy Nix | Myron Healey |
| Georgie | James Goodwin |
| Kid Cutler | Rayford Barnes |
| Felix Briggs | Stanford Jolley |

"The Young Guns" is a story of juvenile delinquency on the range. As a straight out-and-out western it lacks the shoot-'em-up elements the title suggests, and leans more on the character side of a young man trying to live down the reputation of his vicious gunman-father. As a consequence there are long intervals of dialog sans action, the footage occasionally inserting a fight. Sum total adds up to a mild entry for the oater market.

Richard Heermance production picks up Russ Tamblyn as he leaves a small Wyoming settlement, outlaw hangout, where a group of young would-be gunslingers are eager to follow in the footsteps of their fugitive elders. After he beats a couple of the leaders, Tamblyn is regarded their leader but can't make up his mind whether to become active. Climax has him breaking up a band robbery performed by gang without his knowledge.

Tamblyn is rather lightweight for his role but manages a more or less persuasive performance. Gloria Talbott, his co-star, provides the romantic interest as daughter of an outlaw. In support, standouts include Walter Coy, a kindly sheriff who tries to befriend Tamblyn; Scott Marlowe and Perry Lopez, young gunmen; and Chubby Johnson, former outlaw still dwelling in the glory of the past.

Albert Band makes the most of the overlength Louis Garfinkle screenplay in his direction, and technical credits are standard. Guy Mitchell warbles "Song of the Young Guns' over title credits. Whit.

O'Donnell, Coyne

Continued from page 7

group but he came out of the campaign with increased prestige and the profound respect of the industry." O'Donnel related that Coyne offered to quit COMPO if this would serve to bring Allied back into the fold. "I told Coyne that if he quit I would quit, too," O'Donnell recalled. Latter was national chairman of the tax fight.

"One of the good things that has happened to the industry was the creation of COMPO," Brandt stated. He urged renewed exhib support of this industry organization so that it might continue to fight against taxes and resume with its Audience Awards public poll.

Sam Pinanski, member of the governing board, declared that COMPO has made "many friends in Washington because of the straightforward job it has done."

Coyne and O'Donnell both called for more sharing of the credits, citing the tax win work done by Eric A. Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Assn. of America; Joseph R. Vogel, president of Loew's Theatres; Charles E. McCarthy, COMPO's public information director; Pinanski and Pat McGee, former general manager of Cooper Foundation Theatres. Brandt commented that McGee, an active COMPO-ite over the past several years, "won the accolades of the industry but lost in his personal career," this in reference to McGee's disassociation from Cooper.

This week O'Donnell and Coyne took off on a tour of the country to personnally thank lawmakers and exhibs in key areas for their tax-repeal assistance.

Code Proposals

Continued from page 5

Barney Balaban, Columbia's Abe Schneider and RKO's Daniel T. O'Shea. Most of the work was done by a sub-group of lawyers, including Robert J. Rubin of Paramount and Sidney Schreiber of the MPAA.

While the committee cited several alternatives to the current appeals board, on which only the member companies are represented, it made it plain that it favored an expanded board taking in both exhibition and independent producer elements. It proposed a representation of six to seven theatremen and three to four indie producers.

Left open is the question of whether exhibs are going to be willing to serve. Those queried in the past have been noncommittal, but have never shown any great enthusiasm for the idea. "Even if there are seven exhibitors on the board, is that really going to mean anything to the rest of exhibition if the case involves a potential money-maker?" asked a circuit man.

Implication of exibitor representation on the appeals level would be that the theatres, no longer a definite part of the Code arrangement since divorcement, would be tied closer to an adherence to the Code. Some doubt that exhibs have any great hankering for that kind of tie in the light of past experiences.

The most talked-about movies are coming from

THE NEW RKO!

Put them all together they spell B-O-X O-F-F-I-C-E !

"BEYOND A REASONABLE DOUBT"

Distributed by RKO RADIO PICTURES

STARRING

DANA ANDREWS · JOAN FONTAINE

FEATURING

SIDNEY BLACKMER • PHILIP BOURNEUF • SHEPPERD STRUDWICK • ARTHUR FRANZ

Story and Screenplay by DOUGLAS MORROW • Produced by BERT FRIEDLOB • Directed by FRITZ LANG

Summertime Pix Plugging Gives Radio an Edge Over Television

Summertime spells radio time for the film companies.

Outfits, which the rest of the year carry on a heavy flirtation with tv, are currently going wholehog for kilocycle campaigns to sell the product.

"In the summer months, radio is far and away the best buy we can get," said one ad-pub topper. "People don't look at television now, but they listen to their car radios, they go to the beaches, etc. We feel radio gives us the widest exposure, particularly over the weekends."

Hot season makes radio so popular among the distribs that they're actually finding it tough sometimes to buy all the time they want. A favorite is NBC's "Monitor," a weekend AM feature, which allows package deals involving plugs on the national web, followed by local breaks identifying the theatres where an attraction may be playing.

Probably one of the biggest radio buyers, and not only in the summer, is 20th-Fox, which has gone allout selling its "King and I" musical on the radio. 20th bought the network package on NBC, covering not only spots but also program identification "trailers" taped by stars from "King," with credit to the picture. 20th also has skedded a heavy radio campaign for its upcoming tuner, "The Best Things in Life Are Free," and it used the AM waves extensively for "Bigger Than Life." Last spring, 20th went equally allout for "Carousel," this time on CBS Radio.

"I think radio is a great sales medium for us," commented Charles Einfeld, 20th ad-pub v.p.

At Universal, where "Away All Boats" and "Walk the Proud Land" are getting the AM buildup, publicity topper Phil Gerard called radio "a hell of a buy" and stressed the large summer audiences commanded by radio.

Sid Seadler, the Metro ad chief in N. Y., said he preferred radio to tv in the summer. M-G launced "Somebody Up There Likes Me" with a saturation campaign on New York's WNEW, and the company intends to go heavy on both radio and tv in plugging its upcoming "Tea and Sympathy."

Impression generally is that tv will come into its own again in the fall. However, some ad-pub reps feel that the cost of video trailerizing is becoming very high and may, in the future, require a more selective approach. "We've found that some pictures just don't sell very well on television," was one comment. Once that formula has been evolved, the accent on radio may become heavier all year round.

SW Execs to Seattle For Par-Cinerama Bow

Harry Kalmine, v.p. and general manager of Stanley Warner Corp., and Lester B. Isaac, director of Cinerama exhibition, left Monday (20) for Seattle for the opening there of the Paramount Theatre as a Cinerama house today (Wed.).

They were followed yesterday (Tues.) by another homeoffice contingent, including Samuel Rosen, SW exec v.p.; Bernard Kranze, v.p. of SW Cinerama Corp., and Harry Goldberg, pub-ad chief.

Hotel of the Stars
THE HOLLYWOOD
KNICKERBOCKER
IN THE HEART OF HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

New York Theatre
RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL
Rockefeller Center
BING GRACE FRANK
CROSBY · KELLY · SINATRA
in "HIGH SOCIETY"
in VistaVision and Color
An M-G-M Picture
and SPECTACULAR STAGE PRESENTATION

SW Buys Capitol, Milw., From Ben Marcus Chain

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Stanley Warner Corp. last week bought the 2,600-seat Capitol Theatre, Milwaukee, from Ben Marcus of Whitefish Bay, Wis., operator of Marcus Theatres Co., for a price between $750,000 and $1,000,000. Stanley Warner had leased the theatre from the First Wisconsin Foundation of Milwaukee until last year, when Marcus bought it.

The Marcus firm had been planning a $250,000 remodelling job for the 27-year-old house; whether Stanley Warner will go ahead with refurbishing has not been disclosed. SW also owns the Majestic Theatre in Milwaukee. SW Chicago office manager Alex Halperin negotiated the deal.

Par Not Crazy About TVersions Of Old Scripts

Film companies are losing enthusiasm about having back properties adapted for airing on television. Feeling is growing that in too many cases the effort required of the pic distributor is simply not worthwhile.

Paramount had become particularly active in this field, making its back-number scenarios available for televersions on Lux Video Theatre, Theatre Guild, Producers Showcase and other such shows. In each instance Par has received some monetary payoff, perhaps $2.000 to $3,000. But this was not enough to compensate for the work involved; Par's main objective was a hard-hitting plug for a new release, this also being part of the deals.

Par's attitude now, though is that, with the notable exception of Lux, the tv shows weren't in tune with the film company itself on how the new pic promotion should be rammed across. Company also has been doing a burn because the tv producers left most of the contact work to nonprofessional underlings.

As the overall consequence, Par has become indifferent to the tv tieups and most other picture outfits have adopted the same attitude. This is a switch, for in past they were plenty high on this manifestation of tv handholding.

'RED BALLOON' NEEDS $100,000 TO RISE

Attempt is currently being made by Ilya Lopert to work out a release pattern for "The Red Balloon," French short which he and Richard Davis acquired in Cannes earlier this year. The 35-minute subject is in color and won a prize at the festival.

Lopert, who has left N. Y. for the Venice fest, said last week that he was asking $100,000 for the short and had received offers for $75.000. He and Davis originally paid $50.000 for it.

One deal offered by Walt Disney's Buena Vista outfit, which wanted to couple "Balloon" with another French release, "Si Tous Les Gards du Monde," fell through because Disney wouldn't go for the $100,000 tab.

There is a possibility that Lopert and Davis may decide to handle the short themselves and make it the core of a shorts "festival" running feature-length.

Discussing foreign films in the U. S. generally, Lopert—a vet distrib of imports—said it was difficult to determine the true potential of the overseas product in the U. S. "because it's never been explored." He agreed with the French that existing distribution facilities for foreign lingualers are inadequate but stressed the difficulty of getting the various indie releasers together to agree on a joint plan of action.

Int'l Latex Rise Cues Stanley Warner Stock As 'A Good Investment'

On the basis of the earning power of its subsidiary, International Latex Corp., and the potential value of its real estate holdings, Stanley Warner common stock is recommended as a good investment in a special report prepared by Herzfeld & Stern, Wall Street brokerage firm. According to the survey, prepared by Marshall Weinberg, the theatre chain's stock "offers the investor a satisfactory current return, distinct possibilities of appreciation, and relatively little risk."

While SW has never issued a breakdown on International Latex's earnings, the report indicates that the net earnings are better than $2,000,000 or about $1 per share. In addition, it notes that International Latex will spend $25,000,000 in the next year in new production facilities and that the company predicts a 300% increase in business by 1958. It points out, too, that International Latex's sales have increased from less than $4,000,000 in 1946 to over $30,000,000 in 1955, while net worth has increased from $2,000,000 to over $15,000,000 during the same period.

The Wall St. report notes that as of November, 1955, SW owned or leased 303 theatres, of which 164 were owned, 130 leased, and nine were partly owned and partly leased. It points out that these theatres are carried on the books at cost, the primary part of which was incurred in the 1920's. Noting that these properties are of a "nonprofitable character" due to the decline in theatre attendance, the survey says a significant part of the investment could be gradually converted into more profitable channels. "This is why we feel the theatre properties are of considerable significance to investors," it states.

The Weinberg study says SW is changing the status of the company's theatrical holdings in two ways: (1) by eliminating undesirable leases when the expiration time arrives and (2) by selling additional theatres.

Another factor in SW's favor, according to the report, is the company's policy of purchasing its own shares in the open market. The reducing of the outstanding common stock tends to support the market and gradually increases the per-share earnings and equity, the report indicates.

WB Scoreboard

Continued from page 3

tive production studio. The 321 West 44th St. office buildings which extend back to 45th St. in New York are already subleased to tenants; all that room is unnecessary, according to Allen and Semenenko, who already have earmarked an ultramodern GHQ for WB in the new Tishman Bldg. at 666 5th Ave.

The Music Publishers Holding Corp. is regarded as a valuable asset and perhaps too much so to sell, in light of its $1,500,000 annual yield from ASCAP alone, along with other synchronization and production values for pictures and the future of television. However, a number of would-be buyers already have started buzzing Herman Starr, who is president of MPHC, a wholly-owned WB subsidiary but autonomously operated by Starr, who is also a veepee of the parent picture company. Starr, incidentally, is one of the group who have been given stock options on 15,000 shares of WB stock at $25.77 a share.

Understood that the plan is ultimately to reduce the outstanding WB shares to 1,000,000 certificates, as tenders are issued to buy in as much as possible.

Metrocolor Step-Up

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Metro studio lab completed 10,000,000th foot of film since company set up facilities on its new Metrocolor process last June 1.

First three films made and printed in Metrocolor are "Lust for Life," "Tea and Sympathy" and "The Opposite Sex." A total of 950 prints have been turned out on trio.

WB to Grant $26-Per-Share Options In 'Incentive' Ride for 6 Top Execs

Semenenko-WB Quiz

The Serge Semenko-Warner Bros. deal still is a source of puzzlement to some observers who are not privileged with the straight inside.

For example, official records which were disclosed this week show that Jack L. Warner, president, bought 500,000 shares of the WB common stock on June 8 and on July 10 sold 600,000, leaving him with a balance of 212,399. No indication as to whom he had the direct dealings with.

Making good its promise of an "incentive" plan for management, Warner Bros. last week disclosed that it was ready to grant to six of its top executives options to purchase stock at an average $26 a share.

Company also revealed establishment of a credit agreement with a group of banks for $20,000,000 for a three-year period. And it indicated that plans are afoot for the sale of some of its assets, the proceeds to go towards purchase of additional shares of its common stock. Number of shares outstanding as of July 15, 1956, was 2,482,247.

Disclosures came in a proxy statement that accompanied the official invitation to tender stock. Warner board has appropriated $20,000,000 for the purchase of Warner common at a top price of $28.50. Deadline is Sept. 5, 1956. The three Warner brothers have indicated their intentions to tender stock—Harry M. and Albert an aggregate of 50,000 shares at $27.50 and Jack L. 50,000 shares at the same price.

Subject to approval by the stockholders, stock options are being offered to the following: Jack Warner, 60,000 shares; Benjamin Kalmenson, exec v.p., 40,000; Samuel Schneider, v.p. and treasurer, 20,000; Herman Starr, v.p. and head of the music publishing subsid, 15,000; Wolfe Cohen, foreign chief, 10,000, and Steve Trilling, Warner's assistant, 5,000.

With the exception of Jack Warner, whose option price is $29.29 per share, all will be allowed to purchase their stock at $25.77. Options on half the shares can be exercised after 18 months, and in full after three years. No options are exercisable after five years, or three months after an optionee quits the company.

Report also indicated the share holdings of the board, with Jack Warner shown holding 212,399; Harry Warner, 28,700; Albert Warner, 21,700; Charles Allen Jr., 155,750; Stanlcigh P. Friedman, 600; Robert W. Perkins, v.p. and general counsel, 500; Schneider, 250; Serge Semenenko, 160,000.

Kalmenson, Herman Starr and Waddill Catchings were the directors listed as holding no stock at all.

The $20,000,000 credit agreement is being established with a group of banks consisting of the First National Bank of Boston and other banks for which the First National Bank is acting as agent. Semenenko, who engineered the takeover of Warner Bros. from its former management, is first v.p. of the bank.

The credit carries an interest rate of 4% per year and a commitment fee of half of 1% per annum on the unused portion of the credit. The corporation agrees to maintain its working capital at a minimum level of $25,000,000 and not to redeem or retire its stock in an amount over $30,000,000.

As for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1956, the statement said that, taking June and July business into account, the year's profit "will be substantially less" than the results from operations in the corresponding period in 1955. This net, however, doesn't take into account the profit accruing from the $21,000,000 sale of the Warner library to PRM Inc. for showing on television. Of this sum, $16,000,000 has been paid in cash. The entire deal has been ruled taxable as a capital gain instead of ordinary income.

"The proceeds of this sale have been used to pay off short term bank loans, and to improve the corporation's current position, and all or a portion of the remaining proceeds may be used in purchasing stock pursuant to the invitation to tender stock," the proxy statement said.

Warner News Up For Grabs; Unit Eyes Reels-to-TV

With the Aug. 31 deadline nearing, negotiations are continuing for the sale of Warner News, the Warner Bros. subsidiary, to a group headed by J. Arthur Warner, investment banker. Price is still up in the air but is said to run around $500,000.

The Warners originally acquired the company from RKO in 1947 for $5,000,000. It's not clear whether they'll still be interested—taxwise— in a deal after Aug. 31, the end of the fiscal year.

With Warner (no relation to the Warner brothers) are Andy Gold, Robert Youngston and John LeVien. Latter is the news editor of Warner Pathe News which tomorrow (Thurs.) puts out its final reel. Entire Warner News subsid is being dissolved as of Aug. 31. Attempt is being made to close the deal before that deadline, but there's a question whether it can be done. Differences remain the evaluation of the camera equipment.

Warner and his group, while not planning any revival of the theatrical newsreel, are hoping to maintain a television newsreel service. They may also continue making short subjects for possible WB release.

It's understood that NBC has been in negotiation with the Warner group with a view to making a leasing arrangement for the huge, 26,000,000-feet Warner News stockshot spread which come as part of the deal.

Any new company probably will retain the Pathe name. Present plans call for some 38 key employees of the Warner News subsid to be taken over by the new management.

IATSE-WARNER NEWS SEVERANCE PAY TALKS

Local IATSE union reps in New York are huddling with Norman H. Moray, president of Warner News, on the question of severance pay for employees who may lose their jobs as a new management takes over the subsidiary.

Issue revolves around those workers who will continue in their positions in any new company. The unions maintain these men should be given the choice of staying, or getting severance pay and then making any new deal they wish.

Union leaders say they are concerned not only over this situation, but also over reports that Warners may divest itself of other subsidiary interests where union labor is employed.

Said a union spokesman: "We question the right of Warner Brothers to sell its employees along with the physical assets."

Entire issue is to be taken up at the IATSE convention in Kansas City.

Somerset Reelected

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Pat Somerset, assistant exec secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, has been reelected a v.p. of the California State Federation of Labor at its conclave in Long Beach.

Somerset was also reelected prexy of the California State Theatrical Federation.

LA.'s 250G Theatre

Los Angeles, Aug. 21.

Vinnicof theatre circuit has begun construction of a new $250,000 hardtop house in the Garden Grove suburb in the eastern section of Los Angeles. House will seat 980.

Cecil Vinnicof, chain's veepee, said the new site, to be called the Garden Theatre, will be equipped with screens adaptable to all processes.

WANTED: CONVENTION 'FORMAT'

TV's $17,000,000 Goof

Whatever the merits of "converting" the national political conventions to the electronics medium—and at this point they seem highly dubious—it's a certainty that things will have to be radically different four years hence. (As a matter of fact that's what they were saying back in '52). The inescapable truth is that the "big show" out of Chicago last week was a tv bust, both as a "journalistic spec" and in terms of commanding coast-to-coast audience interest. Stripped to its essentials (and no matter how much the networks tried to implement it wih offbeat touches) it added up to a dull gabfest for perhaps 90% of the time it monopolized the spectrum. If the nation's viewers were inclined to feel apathetic about the whole thing—which was borne out by the ratings and share-of-audience figures—it was a justifiable reaction.

With the Dems now out of the way and the scene of operation shifting to Frisco for the current GOP show, there's little evidence thus far that things are any different or that the lessons learned from Chi can be translated into an exciting video plus for the Republicans.

Only one sure fact has been established, on which there will probably be months of postmortems and self-examination—wherein lies the wisdom of the tv networks in committing themselves to a $17,000,000 outlay (only $14,000,000 of which is recapturable in sponsorship coin) and disrupting two weeks of programming schedules, if the end result borders on boredom?

It's true that, in the interest of public convenience and necessity, the tv networks are faced with an obligation to carry the conventions. Similarly the burden of expense and the obvious economic facts of life dictate the need for bringing a Westinghouse, an RCA, a Philco or a Sunbeam into the sponsorship picture.

But somewhere along the line, despite all the months of preparations and promises, somebody up there goofed, and goofed badly, in effecting a "tv streamlining" of the conclaves to satisfy the needs of the American viewing public. How does one reconcile a Westinghouse plunking down $5,000,000 (enough coin to underwrite a full 52-week season of network programming) for a two-convention spread that translates itself into longwinded oratory calculated to invite wholesale tuneouts? It figures that a sponsor next time out is going to demand a better shake for that kind of money. Certainly last week's Chi shenanigans demonstrated that the most updated gadgetry and wizardry out of the electronic shops is a poor substitute for the "content" of the show itself.

The "format" of last Wednesday night's Chi fiasco was a case in point. Faced with an hour's lull in the Amphitheatre proceedings in the caucusing over the civil rights plank, the networks made some desperate tries at filling the void with the expected buttonholing of key delegates, but for a good part of the hour the newsmen wound up interviewing one another. And with the major interest centering on the outcome of the civil rights issue, the viewer was compelled to suffer through endless hours of dull platform oratory before reaching the crucial plank. As it turned out for those few who braved the 2 a.m. ordeal, it all proved anticlimactic, but that, of course, is beside the point and hardly the fault of the networks.

If an electronic age puts the politician and the strategists in the spotlight, then perhaps the time has come for a radical change in the method of nominating a President. What might have been exciting and valuable backroom politicking for the on-the-scene delegates in bygone days adds up to poor fare for the tv viewer, not to mention uncomplimentary exposure to the constituents back home.

It could well be that, within the limited sphere in which a convention functions, the networks have been exercising all their ingenuity and utilizing every device to give it movement. Since the basic function of the network is to report, with interspersing of information and editorial comment, the Chi and Frisco conclaves may well represent the best of all possible jobs.

But it isn't enough. To the tv viewer it's been a poor substitute for excitement and entertainment and the end result hasn't warranted the endless hours of viewing. Rose.

TV WEBS SIFTING COSTLY DILEMMA

By FARRELL DAVISSON

Chicago, Aug 21.

The chiefs of the three television networks have begun what promises to be a drawnout "agonizing reappraisal" of the medium's role at the national political conventions now that the political strategists have become "tv producers" in plotting these quadrennial epics.

The fact that the packagers and talent roster of the carnivals include the nation's top political and legislative bigwigs makes this one of the toughest and most expensive dilemmas tv has yet encountered. And it has to be resolved in a context in which the politicos have already declared open season on the network concept with charges of "monopoly" flying fast and loose.

The basic problem is this: just how do the webs reconcile the ambitions of the politicians to get as much free tv exposure as possible during the gavel-to-gavel span of their clambakes with the showmanship realities as demonstrated by the Democrats here last week that much of it was a crushing tv bore that put a big segment of the country to sleep as indicated by the early ratings.

Mebbe $5,000,000 Cost To Webs

All this at the expense of a $14,500,000 tap to the advertisers involved, plus the chains' "out-of-pocket" costs which are being estimated somewhere between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

The ironies of the situation were highlighted when during the droning spiels of the secondstring speakers the tv cameras panned around the practically deserted International Amphitheatre as the delegates themselves had long since sought refuge elsewhere from the torrent of gab.

Democratic national chairman Paul Butler's tirade against CBS-TV for it's failure to carry all of the tailored-for-tv film depicting his party's history dramatized just how far apart are the respective tv and political braintrusts on how the medium should cover these affairs. The whole import of Butler's blast was that the tele networks were on hand merely to relay, verbatim and in toto, the Amphitheatre program and that they really had no independence to pick or choose according to the dictates of their news judgments.

Rally Round Stanton

That's why ABC-TV prez Robert Kintner, in a formal statement, and NBC-TV chief Robert Sarnoff in a closed door huddle he and Kintner had with CBS topper Frank

(Continued on page 42)

Show Biz Fillip Spices Up GOP's Lacklustre Opening Frisco Session

By BILL STEIF

San Francisco, Aug. 21.

The story of the opening GOP session was all hurrah, hoopla and entertainment.

The Convention's ordinary business—speeches by Frisco Mayor Christopher, California's Governor Knight and parliamentary routine—was spiced by Gene Archer's singing (including the National Anthem), Perry Botkin banjo numbers, a couple of songs by Dennis Morgan and three numbers by the King's Men.

Manny Harmon, up from Hollywood, led the Cow Palace Band, composed of sidemen from AFM Local 6 here.

Actually, the GOP was saving the most photogenic entertainment for the afternoon session, which because of three-hour time differential took place on the East coast in the evening.

First afternoon round included Ethel Merman doing "Great Day" and special lyrics for "Alexander's Ragtime Band," Irene Dunne reciting the "President's Prayer" and Jane Powell singing the National Anthem. Presumably, the GOP figured it would stock up the most eye-appealing items for the larger, nighttime tv audience.

Highlight of Sunday's frantic efforts to get set up here turned out, surprisingly enough, not to have been caught by tv.

Citizens For Ike Show

This was the National Citizens for Eisenhower show in the 6500-seat Civic Auditorium near downtown Frisco. Show, similar to the one the Citizens put on in Madison Square Garden six weeks ago, ran with clockwork perfection, had a smooth, professional polish.

The Citizens' C. Langhorne Washburn emceed, but was spelled off and on by actor Wendell Corey—a real Republican live wire—and Frisco telemistress Marjorie Trumbull. In addition to the usual passel of politicians, Fred Waring and composer Paul Lavalle showed up, latter with what he called "A March in D, D and E—The Dwight David Eisenhower March."

High spot for the Barney Breeskin band occurred when his 10 violinists stood on top of giant Ike "Bandwagon" which had been driven into the arena, fiddled through "DDE March" and then, as the lights were switched off, turned around revealing "Eisenhower" spelled out in phosphorescent letters on backs. Crowd ate this up.

Several smaller pickup bands were also employed for show, and pair of amateur choruses—one of boy sopranos—rated big hands, too.

Climax to two-hour show was 12½-minute (for tv) campaign film Brandt Enos Associates made for Citizens group.

Black-and-white film is hard-hit-

(Continued on page 42)

Wasn't a Show

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Charge of scalping tickets to the Democratic National Convention here last week was dismissed by police court Judge Joseph Butler.

It was thrown out on the grounds the political shindig wasn't a "place of amusement."

See Documentary Film Technique 'Politico 'Must'

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Innovation of the documentary film as part of the keynote speech at the Democratic national convention is likely to be expanded and accented as the political campaign gets into full swing.

Despite the controversy kicked off by failure of CBS to carry "Pursuit of Happiness," the keynote short, in its entirety, tv reps and galleryites alike admitted it was an effective device. Paul Butler, Demmy national chairman, predicted that the day of the 70-minute speech is past, thanks to dramatic impact of the Dore Schary production. He told newsmen pic had accomplished its original purpose—to dramatize the Demmy story and to make more palatable the overlong floor proceedings.

In addition to keynote short, Demmies also used clips from "Best Years" to background speech of former VFW head, Harold Russell, armless hero of the Samuel Goldwyn film.

Defeated candidate Averell Harriman ran a documentary based on his political career on a grind policy in his Conrad Hilton h.q.

GOP, which unveiled its Eisenhower documentary on the eve of the 'Frisco huddle, also is distriuting an open end telefilm for use during tthe campaign. Local candidates are free to add intros and finales for use on home stations. There is talk that Demmies plan a similar presentation "starring" Adlai Stevenson.

The documentary technique will mean that political parties will court support of Hollywood more than ever.

DEMOS WELSH ON TV-AM NEWSMEN

Chicago, Aug. 21.

At the same time that Democratic chairman Paul Butler was attacking CBS for allegedly breaking a promise by not carrying the entire convention documentary film, Butler's National Committee was welching on a promise of its own to the broadcasters.

The Committee has assigned a block of seats to the broadcasters covering the convention. But it sought to swipe these and turn them over to people who had no tickets for the section. This brought an angry statement from the Radio-Television Correspondents Association:

"The Democratic National Committee violated its commitment to the industry by preempting the

(Continued on page 42)

Femme Poll

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Poll taken by Chicago convention committee amongst femme conventioneers at Democratic powwow produced some startling results.

No surprise at all was score for leading Demmy of the century, with the late Franklin Roosevelt rating first; Adlai Stevenson second; and Harry Truman third.

But, second only to Eleanor Roosevelt as "the woman my husband would most like to sit next to at dinner" was Marilyn Monroe!

Clark Gable, the Duke of Edinburgh, and Peter Lawford beat candidate Stevenson as the most coveted dinner partner. And Ed Murrow was chosen favorite tv personality of the ladies; with Ed Sullivan second, and John Daly third.

Democratic Flashbacks

By FLORENCE S. LOWE

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Perle Mesta is frankly stage struck. Her proudest boast is that she is getting "the highest price ever paid for selling her life story to tv—"even more than Louella Parsons got," she chuckles. (Rumored Mesta fee—$15,000; Parsons tab—$5,000). Famed hostess-diplomat heads for Hollywood mid-September to work on production of the Mesta story on CBS' "Playhouse 90," Dec. 6, also to shop for studio to produce her film-biog with Rosalind Russell starring.

* * *

The perspirinig, smiling man who batoned Lou Breese's 50-piece convention orch through the state songs was AFM prexy James Petrillo, recognized by few Amphitheatre spectators. But Harry Truman had a special nod for him as he waved his stick for "Missouri Waltz." Bearded Mitch Miller beamed nearby.

* * *

The 1952 conventions skyrocketed CBS anchor man Walter Cronkite to the top of the tv news tower. This time, attention-getters were NBC team—35 yr. old Chet Huntley; 33 yr. old Dave Brinkley, both comparative new comers . . ABC's John Daly only web anchor man who actually overlooked the convention floor NBC's three-man team, Huntley, Brinkley and Henry, played to a live audience for both conventions, thanks to NBC's "Convention Central" format, with a store-window glass front which drew s.r.o. gavel-to-gavel spectators . . . Walter Cronkite's "electronic window" (a la "Person to Person") made him look nearest floor, but actually he neither saw nor was seen.

* * *

The $40,000 nut for the RCA-NBC press hospitality trailer center would have been cheap at even more. (It is less, incidentally, in 'Frisco because of less space allocated by GOP). It was not only only best goodwill maker of week, but should boom sales of the new RCA portable receivers . . . Press, delegates, alternates, and platform brass monitored proceedings on the 100 sets scattered around Amphitheatre.

* * *

Veteran newshens made like teenagers when they discovered the handsome delegate-at-large from Philadelphia was John Kelly, Princess Grace's father. Kelly, incident-

(Continued on page 42)

ABC-TV Yields To Frisco Union

San Francisco, Aug. 21.

ABC's John Daly had two close calls yesterday (Mon.), the second entirely unscheduled.

Commentator flew from the Democratic convention in Chicago to New York, did "What's My Line" and planed to Frisco for the GOP convention afterward, landing here just four and a half hours before he was due on the air with his 11 a.m. show.

Arriving at Frisco's Cow Palace, Daly discovered that the NABET local was vastly unhappy with the fact that the engineering for his show was to be handled by ABC. NABET reps got stubborn and threatened to pull the plug on the show unless a union card-holder took over—so just four minutes before Daly was scheduled to go on the air ABC capitulated. A union man took over.

It's No Time for Comedy as Webs Impose 'Gag Rule' on Political Jokes

By DAVE KAUFMAN

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

With the temperature of U. S. politics approaching a white-heat intensity in this Presidential election year, the three tv networks have imposed a "gag rule" on their performers, to insure they don't get caught in any cross-wind of politics. Nets are determined no derogatory cracks are made against any candidate, potential candidate or political issue. They will allow spoofing of politics in general as long as such kidding remains in the bounds of good taste, as defined by the webs.

It's the natural temptation now for comedians particularly to turn to politics for their material, but the webs are carefully scanning scripts to see such a spotlight isn't offensive or derogatory.

Robert Wood, head of continuity acceptance for NBC-TV on the Coast, explained: "A few gags about politics in general are acceptable. But we allow no derogatory remarks. We also won't allow any cracks against controversial figures or issues. If we did, we would have to give equal time to the other side.

"As an example of what we will allow, the Chevy show last week included a takeoff on the convention in Chicago, but there was nothing in it about the issues or candidates. This is within the standards we have set and shouldn't offend anyone. Our performers and producers are aware of our rules on politics, they are all co-operating, so we aren't having any trouble in that connection," he said.

'Don't Hurt Your Sponsor'

Dorothy Brown, who heads western division continuity acceptance for ABC-TV, generally echoed Wood's comment. She pointed out, too, it is the sponsor, more than the network, who may object to cracks against politicos or issues. "Anyone in politics, any public figure, should expect to be a certain amount of kidding," she added. Miss Brown went on to say "it's the sponsor's feeling that's the overriding consideration in these matters. General Motors, for example, might not want mention of any candidate on a show it sponsored. But as far as we are concerned there has been no editorial position taken. However, it's chiefly a matter of good judgment and common sense. For example, I would say any cracks against Vice President Nixon

(Continued on page 40)

Norelco Likes TV 'Project 20'

"Project 20," NBC-TV's pictorial history of the 20th Century, has been set for sponsorship through the winter of 1957-1958, with North American Phillips Co.'s Norelco division picking up the tab for an additional five shows. Norelco had earlier pacted for three of the specials, starting with last season's "The Twisted Cross" program on the rise and fall of Hitler, and the new purchase brings the total to eight shows at an approximate time-program cost of $1,600,000.

First of the remaining seven shows under Norelco aegis is to be "The Great War," the World War I opus just being wrapped up by Pete Salamon and his staff. It's slated for Sunday, Oct. 14, in the 9 to 10 p.m. slot. The remaining show scheduled thus far is "Parade of Freedom," the story of Austria and Vienna originally titled, "Rebirth of Freedom." A 90-minute entry, that will run Dec. 6, a Thursday, in the 9:30 to 11 spot (competing directly, incidentally, with the CBS "Playhouse 90").

Remaining shows slated for Norelco sponsorship are "The Jazz Age," with Fred Allen in a transcribed narration, "The Story of the 1930's," "Four Kings, Two Queens," the story of the United Kingdom which will run as a two-parter, and "The Living American West." Of these five, one will run next spring, the others in the fall of 1957 and winter of '57-'58. Deal was set for Norelco via the C. J. LaRoche agency.

KING's Pubservice Shows

Seattle, Aug. 21.

Two public service radio programs dealing with Seattle schools and libraries went back on air Sunday (19) on KING here.

"Seattle School Forum," covering education problems, is aired at 9:15 p.m., with staffer Paul Smith handling. "Living Library," featuring John Richards, head of Seattle public libraries, follows at 9:30 p.m.

CBS' N.Y. TV City Plans Take Shape

The William Zeckendorf-Billy Rose-Palace of Progress idea—the sky rights above the Pennsylvania RR in New York—may be stalemated, but the proposed Television City for CBS in the near-Pennsy Zone seems to be taking shape. This is one of the few deals Webb & Knapp, of which Zeckendorf is president, is keeping under cover, as recently disclosed in VARIETY.

As it shapes up the site would embrace 30th to 37th St., 11th to 12th Avenues, with the exception of a larger "el" on 31st to 33d St. when the plot would range from 9th to 12th Aves.

In a measure, this might be considered an extension of the "sky rights" skyscraper idea when it was figured that tv studios for closed-circuit merchandising, along with a general broadcast central, would be part of the dream "Palace of Progress." Among major hurdles to any such site, it appears, is the parking, unloading and general vehicular traffic problem. The nearby hotels, stores, etc. gave it all a frankly jaundiced eye.

ERNIE KOVACS EXITS WABC AYEM STINT

Ernie Kovacs is ankling his two and a half-hour early-morning radio stint on WABC, the ABC flagship in New York, after nearly two years in the spot. Kovacs, currently doing the Sid Caesar summer replacement stint on NBC-TV and busy through the season with guest shots, wants to concentrate on television and winds the WABC stint after the Friday (24) stint.

Starting next week, station is installing "Morning Star" in the 6:30 to 9 a.m. time, with a different personality taking over the mike each week. Rocky Graziano kicks it off next week, followed by Eddie Bracken, Jack E. Leonard, Ted Mack, Peter Donald and Russ Morgan, each with a weeklong stint. Show will comprise records and interviews.

Maybelline Coin For Steve Allen Sun. Show

NBC-TV, which last week set a five week one-third sponsorship on the Sunday Steve Allen show with the Polaroid Camera outfit, this week followed up with a two week deal for the same open one-third with Maybelline. New pact leaves only seven weeks with one-third open between now and the end of the year.

Maybelline, via Gordon Best, is taking on the Oct. 14 and Nov. 11 segments. Viceroys and Jergen's Lotion are in for the other two thirds of the show on a regular basis, with the opening caused by the cancellation by Crosley of its third early in October.

Sullivan Back in Hosp

New Haven, Aug. 21.

Ed Sullivan, convalescing from injuries received in an automobile accident earlier this month, has been admitted to Grace-New Haven Hospital.

It's believed a bronchial condition prompted the move from his Southbury, Conn., farm to the hospital.

SAMMY KAYE

Columbia Records - current release, "EVERY SUNDAY MORNING" b/w "ONCE AGAIN."

New Album Release:
Comprising the Great Swing Classics "WHAT MAKES SAMMY SWING"
Unique, exciting treatment with his Swing and Sway Orchestra
Augmented with 15 strings
Continuing in Album popularity "MY FAIR LADY (For Dancing)"

Martin Block To Get Own TV Show

Martin Block, long a top disk jockey on radio, gets his first regular tv show starting Sept. 17 via WABC-TV, N. Y. It's to be a morning strip aimed at the housewife, running in the 11:30 to noon period Monday-through-Friday.

When Block moved from WNEW, N. Y., to ABC some three and a half years ago, it was understood he'd do tv as well as radio, but till now he's only done some one shots. Meanwhile, he continues his WABC and his network radio shows. He won't use the "Make Believe Ballroom" title for the tv'er, calling it instead "The Martin Block Show."

Format is being kept under wraps, but it's definite that Block will spin records and interview personalities. He said it would be "tipping his hand" to discuss the format now, "but we won't do many things that are expected of us and we will do many unexpected things."

ROUNSAVILLE BUYS TWO RADIO STATIONS

Atlanta, Aug. 21.

Robert W. Rounsaville, owner and operator of WQXI, Atlanta Mutual affiliate and a group of other AM stations, Saturday (18) announced the acquisition of two additional radio mills, WIOK, Tampa, and WSOK, Nashville, Tenn., for a total outlay of $540,000.

Rounsaville declared that the prices constiuted a near-record paid for local stations.

Stations were sold to Rousaville chain by H. C. Young Jr., of Nashville. No personnel changes are contemplated in the two newly-acquired stations, Rousaville said.

In addition to WQXI, Atlanta, which went on the air in 1948, Rounsaville properties included WCIN, Cincinnati; WLOU, Louisville, Ky.; WOBS, Jacksonville, Fla.; and WMBM, Miami Meach. In addition he holds permits for WATL-TV, Atlanta; WQXN-TV, Cincinnati; and WQXO-TV, Louisville, none yet in operation.

Spencer Allen Exits WGN as News Director

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Spencer Allen has handed in his resignation as news director of WGN and WGN-TV, effective Oct. 1. For some months Allen has been apprehensive as to the role he and his news setup would play in the new organizational blueprint that has emerged at the Chicago Tribune stations the past year and he decided last week to bow out when he and the new management team headed up by Ward Quaal were unable to come to a meeting of minds.

Allen joined WGN in '38 and was made news chief in '53. No replacement is set.

TV-Radio Production Centres

IN NEW YORK CITY . . .

Mark Goodson (Goodson-Todman) honeymooning in Europe with his bride, the former Virginia McDavid . . . Daryl Grimes doing a lead in this week's "Modern Romances" . . . Sen. Homer E. Capehart had Herb Shriner's song, "What Part of Indiana Do You Come From," inserted into the Congressional Record . . . Patsy Bruder into "Goodyear Playhouse" Sunday (26) . . . Frank Conniff, assistant to William Randolph Hearst, replaces Jack Lescoulie (he'll be in San Francisco covering the convention) on WRCA-TV's "Meet the Champions" on Saturday (25), with Yogi Berra as guest . . . Tom Hatcher into the CBS-TV soap, "As the World Turns" . . . Jackie Kannon, currently playing the lead in strawhat version of "Wish You Were Here," set for "This Is Show Business" on Tuesday (28), his second stint on the show . . . WRCA-TV director John Chapin to the Coast for a month's vacation. . . . Frank J. Sullivan, formerly with NBC and the William Esty agency, named v.p.-general manager of the Television Program Division of LPS Industries Corp. . . . Jimmy Yoham set for Monday's (27) Ernie Kovacs show, his fourth stint on the show this summer in sketch roles . . . Nicholas E. Baehr set to script the Mickey Mantle story for Kraft Theatre for the Oct. 3 show, eve of the World Series . . . Charlie Sinclair, Rogers & Cowan flack, off to Europe with family for o.o. of R&C offices and clients and for additional research for upcoming feature film he's co-authored with David Osborn . . . Tom Donovan, CBS director, on the Coast to direct a couple "Climax" segments, one of them Aug. 30 starring Shelley Winters. He returns to N.Y. to direct "Studio One" on Oct. 8 . . . June Carter, one of the Grand Ole Opry gang, just wound shooting of 22 telefilms in the "Stars of the GOO" for Flamingo Films . . . George Skinner spelling Bill Leonard on his WCBS-TV "Feature Report" in the station's "Six O'Clock Report" till Sept. 7 while Leonard covers the conventions and vacations . . . Jack Landau, assistant to the producer of the Stratford Shakespeare Festival, set to design the set for the upcoming Barry & Enright quizzer, "21" . . . Eli Wallach stars Tuesday (28) in "A Fragile Affair" on the Kaiser hour. Comedy is based on a Ferenc Molnar play translated into English by Gilbert Murray . . . Lee Polk, currently directing WABD's "Freddie the Fireman," set by the Geoffrey Wade agency to direct the live Alka-Seltzer commercials on John Daly's ABC newscasts . . . Merrill E. Joels playing in "Fifth Season" this week at the Saratoga Spa Theatre, but his 10-year-old son, Kerry, kept the tv end going with a stint in "Alcoa Playhouse" Sunday (19) . . . Kate Smith signed for another six appearances on the Ed Sullivan show this season, with the deal restricting her appearances on other variety shows but otherwise leaving her free for series, dramatic shows and specs. First Sullivan stint is Oct. 7 . . . Casey Allen handling announcing chores on "Kaiser Hour" . . . Walter Slezak signed for a costarring role on "20th-Century Fox" hour telefilm production of "The World of Emil Markheim" . . . Allen Swift doing straight announcing on an animated spot series for 5-Day Deodorant Pads being produced for Gray agency by Storyboards Inc. . . . Midge Stark, ex-Maxon agency, now with Jade Productions, packagers of Dennis James' "High Finance" on CBS-TV.

Casey Allen returned from working in a film for Standard Oil in North Carolina in time to go into a lead opposite Jan Miner on "Hill-top House" on NBC radio . . . National Television Film Council will hold its first fall meeting Sept. 27 . . . Video Pictures commercials for Oldsmobile and RCA are getting top play at the conventions. The six tv musical Oldsmobile commercials feature singing stars Bill Hayes and Greta Gray, while the RCA spots star Janet Blair . . . Betty Granger, who toured with vice-president Richard Nixon in '52 as a representative of Negro Republican Women, is WLIB's N.Y., correspondent at the Republican national convention, sending back recorded reports on the civil rights issue . . . Sol Hyman, formerly administrative and head art director of Biow Co., is now art director of Pharmaceuticals, Inc. . . . WNYC's "Hands Across the Sea" program will salute Uruguay Saturday (25) and have Catherine Reiner as the featured soprano soloist . . . Dean Hunter, of WMGM, was recently honored by the U.S. Navy for aiding the Navy's recruiting service . . .

Tommy Henrich, former New York Yankee player, stood in for WPIX's Frankie Frisch three days last week as emcee of the "Frankie Frisch Show," regular post-game feature of all N.Y. Giant home games. . . . About 50 ad agency execs attended a cocktail party yesterday (21) tendered by Associated Artists Productions at the Hotel Commodore in connection with AAP's cartoon presentation . . . Tony Randall will be the guest emcee for the NBC-TV "Tonight" segments next Monday and Tuesday . . . Joan Pettingell has joined tv promotion staff of Edward Petry & Co. She formerly was with the William G. Rambeau Co., Chicago, and most recently was timebuyer with Arthur Meyerhoff in Chi.

Joe Saccone has been promoted to WMGM record librarian. Upped from the station's distribution desk to assistant librarian is Michael Becce . . . Two ABC-TV staffers, Philip M. Bernstein, of the press department, and Boris H. Elisayeff, college student working temporarily in the mail department, won the New York Daily News $5,000 "Little Fooler" contest. Each won $2,500 . . . Bennet H. Korn appointed director of sales for WABD, returning to DuMont from Television Programs of America, where he had served as account exec in the N.Y. office.

IN CHICAGO . . .

Bill Ermeling, formerly with the Telemat tv commercial firm in Beverly Hills, now with the ABC-TV Chi sales staff specializing on peddling the "Afternoon Film Festival" . . . WNBQ-WMAQ program director George Heinemann booked to deliver a lecture on "Creative Television Programming" next Sunday 26 on WNKQ's "Live and Learn" series . . . Lee Armentrout is resigning his WBBM producer's berth to head up the Talent Inc., management shop vice Mary Dooling who's launching her own biz in New York . . . Morris B. Sach's "Amateur Hour" now being simulcast by WGN and WGN-TV notched its 22nd anni Sunday (19) . . . Howard (Howie) Seaman, cameraman with the Chicago Film Laboratory for the past 17 years, is new chief lenser at Fred Niles Productions . . . WBBM, which is making a big play for the Milwaukee audience now that the parent CBS web has no outlet in the suds capital, is dispatching the Jim Conway-hosted "Shopping With the Missus" show up there today Wed. for a round of originations . .. Chi department stores are tossing more and more coin radio's way. Latest buy is Marshall Fields' 10-minute ride three times weekly on Mary Merryfield's WMAQ "Radio Journal" . . . Miller beer sponsoring "Dr. Christian" telepix on WGN-TV, starting Sept. 30 . . . WNBQ-WMAQ ad-promotion chief Howard Coleman talking up color tv at a Lions lunch Aug. 30.

IN HOLLYWOOD . . .

Tom Hargis, who sat at the controls of early radio and late tv shows, will be leaving the smog far behind when he heads next month for Kentucky's Renfro Valley to put his new radio station on the air in partnership with John Lair . . . At 30 a nine-year "veteran" of tv, Alan "Bud" Yorkin moves his directorial talents from George Gobel to Tennessee Ernie when the Fords get together on NBC Oct. 4 . . . KGFJ's new program director is Daniel Speare . . . Pennzoil, shunning radio for 23 years, is coming back to sponsor a news program on Don Lee . . . Perry Botkin, long guitar accompanist for Bing Crosby, is

(Continued on page 40)

'OMNIBUS'—TV'S 'CYCLICAL KID'

Operation Wet Mop

Ocala, Fla., Aug. 21.

To prove that the slogan "Wherever You Go There's Radio" is no empty phrase, radio station WMOP here is going underwater.

On Thursday (30), the station will attempt an entire day of broadcasting underwater at Florida's Silver Springs. WMOP manager Jim Kirk and Vernon Arnette will go underwater at 6 a.m. in a submarine tank and will attempt to stay under until the station signs off the air at 7:15 p.m. All programs will originate underwater.

The gurgling stunt is expected to be covered by tv and newsreels, as well as magazines and newspapers.

WMOP, which has been plugging the event at station breaks as the "wet mop underwater" operation, will have news editor Ed Sherer, program director Gene Turner and deejay Ned Needham doing special programs from the tank, barring an invasion by the fish.

Both Kirk and Arnette have been working out at Silver Springs for the past two weeks getting into condition for the underwater marathon. If the pressure and temperature prove too much, the two will alternate to keep the broadcast going.

3-PART STUDY OF U.S. GOVT.

On the basis of the blueprint for the "Omnibus" roster for the upcoming season, which premieres on Oct. 7 in the Sunday night 9 to 10:30 period on ABC-TV, some of the most ambitious projects yet undertaken by the Ford Foundation's Radio-TV Workshop are on tap.

While not precisely an innovation, the "Omnibus" in-depth probing of vital subjects as encompassed in the "cyclical format"—a theme whose scope is so large as to warrant a succession of programs—will be extended considerably during the new semester.

However, what has all the earmarks of a tv innovation is the fact that, although "Omnibus" will inaugurate a "big name" pattern, utilizing top stars from this country and abroad, Workshop factotum Bob Saudek will adhere to the $67,000-per-show production allotment as in past years (in contrast to the $200,000 to $300,000 cost per average 90-minute spec).

Major item on the new "Omnibus" agenda is a three-part look at how the Federal Government operates. As in the case of last year's three-part "Constitution" series, Boston attorney Joseph N. Welch will be the guide.

The cyclical program technique will not be restricted, however, to the examination of the Federal Government. What shapes up as an absorbing and extended look at the Manhattan sociological phenomenon known as the Bowery will probably get a two-part showcasing. Also Leonard Bernstein is down for a two-part musical treatment—one concerning the development in America of the musical comedy, the other a takeout on Bach.

Also in the works is an offbeat treatment of Oedipus Rex, which will star a major "imported" name. An in-depth examination of the pivotal Battle of Gettysburg, now two years in the planning, will be either a single or two-part treatment. Also on the Saudek schedule is an inquiry into the gentle art of murder as it is practiced in literature, and a pickup from one of the major medical colleges of the country for a 90-minute treatment of school doctors at work.

Shifting of "Omnibus" into the ABC Sunday night time from its erstwhile Sabbath afternoon slotting on CBS has already touched off an anticipated programming rivalry, with a considerable hiking of the budget and prowl for major properties for the competing Alcoa-Goodyear hour dramatics on NBC-TV.

Alcoa-Goodyear's 'Spec Aura' In Drama Reshuffle; Brodkin Exiting

Pepsi on a Celeste

WQXR, N. Y., which doesn't accept singing commercials, has found a way to get Pepsi-Cola back as a client.

The w.k. Pepsi tune will be played on a celeste, but without the singing accompaniment. A spoken commercial will be tied to the tune. Pepsi-Cola signed up for a 26-week spot campaign, which began Monday (20). Pepsi quit the New York Times station in 1944, when singing commercials were banned.

Aside from the 10 Dinah Shore-Bob Hope showcases going into the Sunday night 9 to 10 segment on NBC-TV this fall, the network, along with the Alcoa-Goodyear alternating sponsors on the hour dramatic show are making a determined bid to restore the hour drama to its onetime preeminent status. Herb Brodkin is exiting as producer of the Alcoa-Goodyear series (he has some film commitments on tap). But along with Brodkin's departure from the show will come a whole new concept in hour dramatic programming under the Showcase Productions packaging aegis in which the Sunday night stanza will more or less be interrelated with the Monday night "Producers' Showcase" (also out of the Showcase Productions shop).

Thus the Alcoa-Goodyear dramatics may find Alex Segal stepping to direct 10 of the shows, with other name producers-directors getting assignments a la "Producers' Showcase." Similarly, an effort will be made to acquire the type of story properties which will give Alcoa-Goodyear more of a "spec aura" rather than the more conventional - type dramas that have characterized the hour in the past.

It's no secret that NBC along with the sponsors have been far from happy over the decline of the 9 to 10 ratings and the show's overall prestige, although from a critical standpoint the trade has regarded the drama hour under Brodkin as one of the more qualitative in tv.

Aside from upcoming film commitments, it's likely that Brodkin will be integrated into the Showcase Productions pattern with possibility of his moving into "Producers Showcase." This, of course, would be dependent on the extent of his pix commitments.

Shepherd in Soup Over Soap As WOR Fires Him All Over Again

It isn't often that a performer can lay claim to having been fired, rehired and cut off the air and fired, all in the short span of a week. So if Jean Shepherd, the now ex-WOR, N. Y., all-night talkathon artist, whose loyal following has been described as a cult and who turned a literary hoax into a probable bestseller, claims some sort of record, let no one dispute it.

It looks at last as if the running battle between the unorthodox Shepherd and the staid WOR management is finally over, with Shepherd off the station for good—this time. It all started a week ago Thursday (9) when WOR informed Shepherd that it would not renew his contract, which expired two days later (11). When Shepherd asked why, the reply was that he's not commercial enough.

When the news got out, Shepherd's flock got busy, deluging the station with calls and even holding a mass protest meeting in front of the hurnt-out Wanamaker's Bldg. So WOR, in a "let's not be too hasty" turnabout, asked Shepherd to continue his show for another week pending negotiations on a new contract with the William Morris office, his agents. Shepherd agreed, and took to the air again Monday (13) on those conditions.

Everything was hunky till Thursday (16) night (actually Friday morning) when a listener phoned to say he had read that Shepherd can't sell soap, and wouldn't it be a good idea if all his listeners went out and bought a cake of soap to disprove the theory. "After all," the listener stated, "we night people wash, too."

So Shepherd went on the air with the message; everyone was to buy a cake of soap. But what brand? Shepherd called for suggestions, then repeated some of

(Continued on page 26)

52-Week Renewal On Chevy's 'Crossroads'

Heartened by a climb of 20% to 35% of the available tv audience over the past few months on its "Crossroads" half-hour Friday night show on ABC-TV, Chevrolet has put through a 52-week renewal, extending into Oct., '57, on the religioso segment.

"Crossroads" will be competing next season with the Walter Winchell variety stanza (NBC) and "Zane Grey Theatre" (CBS).

NBC-TV Gets Off Hook On Bolger In Curtis Deal

It looks as if NBC-TV is going to get off the ground after all with its Ray Bolger "Washington Square" series. Web yesterday (Tues.) was wrapping up a deal for half-sponsorship of 14 of the musical series with Helene Curtis, for airing on Sunday afternoons from 4 to 5, alternating with "Wide Wide World.

NBC reportedly got the price down to $100,000 net per show, exclusive of time charges, and nabbed a verbal order for half the tab from Curtis last week in Chicago, during the convention. Web

(Continued on page 42)

'Happy Scrooge' Alcoa Musical For Xmas Spec

A new musical version of Charles Dickens "A Christmas Carol" is set to preem on NBC-TV Dec. 23 under "Alcoa Hour" auspices. Program will be extended to 90-minute length that night for the special, which is titled "The Happy Scrooge" and will star Vic Damone, Johnny Desmond, the Four Lads, Patrice Munsel and Basil Rathbone.

Labeled a "holiday original," "Scrooge" is expected to be the forerunner of a series of holiday specials to be sponsored by Alcoa. Entire show was packaged by Theatrical Enterprises and will be produced by the new agency—this is its first major television deal—under the production aegis of Joel Spector, former Broadway and tele producer who put the project together. It also marks the first time that NBC-TV will air a spec completely packaged and produced by an outside agency, with the regular Showcase Productions staff taking a hiatus for this Alcoa presentation.

"Scrooge" was written by Fred Spielman and Janice Torre. Spielman, a Coast composer, has written music for Metro and other studios, while Miss Torre, who did the book and lyrics, is also an ex-Metro scripter. Deal has already been negotiated for the Warner Bros. publishing houses to handle publication of the score, and Theatrical Enterprises is currently in

(Continued on page 42)

Granik Unloads Fla. TV Interests

Miami, Aug. 21.

Ted Granik, NBC producer and chief stockholder in WJNO, Palm Beach, an NBC affiliate, this week sold his interests in the tv station to John H. Phipps for $882,000.

Phipps, owner of WCTV, Tallahassee, and three radio outlets in that area will take over, subject to approval of the sale by the FCC in December.

Granik, who founded the Palm Beach tv'er in 1954, is a winter resident of the resort and active in civic affairs. Future plans on his south Florida activities have not been announced.

Heinemann Shifts To N.Y. for NBC

George Heinemann, longtime NBC programming chieftain in Chicago for the web's WNBQ and WMAQ o&o's, moves to New York Sept. 1 to take over the programming spot of WRCA-TV, the web's flagship station. Heinemann replaces Steve Krantz, who is exiting to join Screen Gems (see separate story). No replacement is set in Chicago for Heinemann, who among other shows brought in the now-network "Ding Dong School."

Heinemann's been the program chief in the Jules Herbeveaux-helmed o&o operation since 1951, when he was upped from operations manager of WNBQ to program chief of the tv'er. He took over programming for WMAQ in 1953 when the radio and tv operations were merged. Prior to 1948, when he rejoined the web, he had been with CBS after starting as an NBC pageboy.

Some How-To Proposals On Lifting TV Out Of News-Commentary Doldrums

By ART WOODSTONE

Reputable tv newsmen have arrived at a two-ply plan for lifting video out of its news-and-commentary doldrums. They believe in the need for a half-hour nightly news program an idea that has failed to hear fruition, though suggested at CBS-TV. And to jazz up the news shows, they demand that video commentary be made a nightly part of the spectrum, not merely a weekend or special events item.

This is a news year of big political doings, probably to be highlighted by a razzle-dazzle, body-punching battle for the Presidency in November, and now being succored by the conventions and the seriousness of international powerplays. The newsmen figure radio is keeping up with the times and television is not.

Below are observations and solutions, some partial and others whole, given by newsmen recently.

Mike Wallace, tv newscaster for WABD, DuMont key in N.Y., has opinions that embrace the half-hour concept as the way to mechanize news-in-depth and editorials on tv. He said that radio can jam twice as much news into a quarter-hour as tv. Reason, he felt, was that film consumes more time than a voice on radio, therefore marking the need for more news space on tv.

Wallace felt that the sponsor can gain strong identity for his product by letting the newscaster take an editorial stand, for which there would be more time in a half-hour show. Increased costs of a longer show could be covered by more sponsors, all of whom would be gaining more faithful supporters through the editorial stands of the commentators. Wallace found that his own 7 p.m. news show "reached rating peaks" whenever he indulged in one of his film editorials, e.g., Middle-East, Civil Defense, Puerto Ricans. He found, ironically, that it's the "rating war" among the various local and network newscasters that keeps the respective bankrollers from the first to try a change for the better.

Besides editorials to create and hold interest in news shows for longer times, Wallace said, the imminence of transoceanic video and the advent of hand cameras make on-the-spot reporting a strong factor. The WABD reporter didn't agree with the newswriter that most sponsors are afraid of forming adverse commentary through tv editorials. He thought only a few would worry. He also thought that a show would be nurtured by any adverse commentary from Washington, since room could always be made to air it (and that's not to forget the hoopla incident to such equal time demands in video's past).

John Daly's Views

John Daly, veep in charge of ABC-TV (and radio) news and special events and a network newscaster, said that ABC already had commentaries on its tv news show, though he admitted that they were infrequent, due to the restrictions of the quarter-hour format. The network writer suggested that commentators might go as far as using the personal pronoun, I, in editorializing. But Daly thought that the only need in tv is for the commentator to base opinions on "deducible fact," and to give both sides of the picture.

Daly concurred with Wallace that sponsors aren't afraid of an

(Continued on page 26)

Boca Too Small, So NBC Shifting Site Of Convention to Miami

NBC's 30th anniversary convention, scheduled for Boca Raton in December, is being shifted to Miami Beach. The network is taking over the Americana Hotel (which is still under construction) with the web's anni hoopla as the hostelry's initial event. To safeguard against completion of the hotel in time, NBC has a protective insurance clause.

Boca was the site of the NBC convention five years ago. However, the network affiliations have grown to such an extent that the resort is no longer capable of handling the hundreds (both radio and tv affils) expected to turn out for the event.

Four-day convention starts on Dec. 13 and will mark the first anniversary of Bob Sarnoff's ascendancy to the presidency.

DOUB

PULSE with Bill Cullen has propelled ratings on WRCA-radio from

2.1 IN AUGUST 1955 to 4.0 IN AUGUST 1956

making WRCA New York's #1 network radio station in the morning

Source: Pulse, Inc.

LED!

The August ratings dramatize how PULSE with Bill Cullen has fascinated New York.

Twice as many listeners as a year ago now are tuned to NBC's flagship station—a larger morning audience than that of any other network outlet.

And because prices haven't changed yet, PULSE is just as fascinating for time-buyers.

Here is the prestige of a network flagship station—the persuasive salesmanship of a great personality—a remarkably low cost-per-thousand—a bigger-than-ever audience.

All this in PULSE, the only different morning radio program in New York. All this can be yours. For the complete story of fast-rising PULSE, just call George Stevens, our Sales Manager, at CIrcle 7-8300.

WRCA-RADIO

NBC RADIO LEADERSHIP STATION IN NEW YORK

SOLD BY NBC SPOT SALES

TV Webs in Valiant Try to Pump Freshness Into Tired GOP 'Script'

Television sets across the land were still vibrating from last week's tornado of Democratic oratory when the three networks zeroed in Monday (20) for more of same from the Republican's Frisco powwow.

Last week the webs freewheeled all over the Windy City in a schizophrenic attempt to cover both the "story" and formal proceedings of the Dem's assemblage. This week it's the same script except radio-tv legmen are being forced to carry their "what's new?" interviews to ridiculous lengths as the GOP affair which looks to go down in the record books as one political convention that failed to produce any surprises. There's no doubt about President Eisenhower's renomination, and practically none about veepee Richard Nixon. All that remains aside from tomorrow's (Thurs.) formal endorsement of the Ike & Dick ticket is a four-day combination pep rally and variety show stagemanaged for tv by the GOP national committee with an assist from Hollywood's George Murphy and video's own Robert Montgomery.

So for first time in its young history, the medium is left to tell a political "story" it has practically no hand in developing because in Frisco '56 it's the only story available. And whether or not it's an "interesting" story or palatable tv fare depends in large measure on the viewers' personal partisan stance.

CBS, NBC and ABC reporters tried valiantly to pump up some "conflict" and excitement during Monday's opening sessions. But by midafternoon even they had about given up on Harold Stassen's drive to dump Nixon as a quixotic boomerang. Therefore, during most of brace of opening meetings they sat back and let Bob Doyle's pool cameramen shoot the show.

It was just as well the tv lads let the speechmakers have the spotlight solo. By the time the evening session started 50 minutes after the three webs had returned to the air, interviewers had chinned with virtually everyone from Cabinet members to airline hostesses, the analysis boys had reanalyzed their own analysis and directors had called for one more shot of the Golden Gate Bridge. Before Chairman Len Hall gaveled the formal night session opening, all three networks had run out of pictures to shoot and people to talk to and their anchor men just sat back and invited the nation to watch warmup entertainment emceed by Wendell Corey.

Although to a lesser degree than at the Dem's Chi clambake, because there was less action on newsfront, the strength and weaknesses of individual net's coverage were apparent at the GOP's opening day love feast. CBS, with Walter Cronkite repeating his ironman anchor role, still leaves the best impression of overall efficiency, not only in catching onwing interviews (that Richard Hotelet as in Chi is all over the joint) but in providing a comprehensive picture of the whole situation.

ABC-TV this year has gained new stature, not only from John Daly's smooth narration but also for those "conventions within a convention" delegate debates stirred up by ubiquitous Martin Agronsky. Since there's so little to pontificate on, skull sessions with Newsweek's Ernest K. Lindley and Christian Science Monitor's Erwin Canham are just so much filler.

NBC-TV's coverage continues to be overly tricked up with those peephole screen effects, but it too is doing a solid overall job. If four years ago Columbia's Cronkite was made a national figure by his convention duty, this year NBC's Chet Huntley and especially David Brinkley, with his dry wit, figure to emerge with new prestige.

If the combined forces of the tv industry strain out there in Frisco and produce nothing more than a gaudy elephant, maybe the reason is that the traditional political convention, no matter how carefully "produced" for video, is an anachronism in this electronic age.

Dave.

---

Portland, Ore.—Walter E. Wagstaff was named manager of KGW-TV by Gordon Orput, president of Pioneer Broadcasting Co. Wagstaff leaves the post of general manager of a tv station in Boise, Idaho, to take over the helm of the town's newest channel in the fall. He is also a member of the NBC station planning and advisory committee.

---

RENAISSANCE ON TV
With Dr. Frank C. Baxter
Producer: Bill Whitley
Director: Alex Runciman
30 Mins., Sun. 4 p.m.
WCBS-TV, New York

The urbane U. of Southern California professor, Dr. Baxter, does just as well with the Renaissance topic of his "Shakespeare on TV" series. The Renaissance lecture series, originated by KNXT, the CBS o&o Los Angeles station, is being kinescoped Sundays by WCBS-TV, N.Y.

Premiere show was devoted to Dr. Baxter's exposition of conditions in the Middle Ages which presaged the period when men such as Leonardo Da Vinci flourished. Dr. Baxter speaks from a wealth of knowledge, his delivery is relaxed and punctuated by the interest he feels in the subject. He utilizes maps, woodcuts and pictures of the period to illustrate his talk. The sweep of the preem's subject—taking in the entire Middle Ages in 30 minutes—was its biggest weakness. There was hardly time to peek beneath the surface.

In succeeding series, Dr. Baxter plans to have guest scholars on various aspects of the Renaissance. The ensuing interplay should add to program's interest. Horo.

---

WPIX Inks New Biz

WPIX, N. Y., hit a fast-moving sponsor pace this week, inking seven new contracts, including two renewals from national advertisers.

A majority of the business was spots and participations, including a 13-week saturation campaign by Robert Hall Clothes, commencing Sept. 17. On the renewal side, Maxon, Inc., renewed its contract for H. J. Heinz's "Studio 57," and the Toni Co. renewed another contract for a spot drive.

The new accounts include Colgate-Palmolive, Campbell Soup, Zenith and Peter Paul Candy.

No Weekend Respite From Politics as Webs Offer Up Entr'actes

Television's working stiffs hardly had time to catch their breaths before the electronic spotlight was swung last weekend from the Democrats' Windy City talkathon to the Republicans' Frisco extravaganza which opened Monday (20). And if there was no hiatus, for the video troops between the back-to-back political conventions, likewise there was no weekend respite from politics for the dialers.

The three tele networks unleased a round dozen entr' acte offerings Saturday (18) and Sunday (19) from Frisco, totalling six and a half hours of programming. Coming right on the heels of the Dems' five-day gabfest and just before the GOP's whirl, it was a classic demonstration of saturation programming that must have left a lot of fans wishing for at least a brief moratorium from the soapboxing and pontificating.

There were to be sure, some high spots among this welter of political small talk. CBS-TV's Sunday afternoon "Bandwagon '56" is remembered as the most imaginative of the lot with its filmed recap of the Republicans' dramatic '52 conclave. It was an excellent change of pace even if it did show up how unexciting this year's conventions are compared to those four years ago when Dwight Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson first entered the political bigtime.

Also NBC-TV's "Outlook" came off with distinction as Chet Huntley, David Brinkley and Bill Henry sat in on a comprehensive wrapup of the Frisco scene. Hour, complete with a filmed history of Ike's career and a switch to Washington where John Rich described the President's weekend, climaxed with an interview of veep Richard Nixon by Henry.

In a matter of minutes, Nixon popped up on CBS's concurrent "Convention Preview" to repeat his humility act for Ted Church. This half-hour, like many of the others, was largely a Frisco travelog with Walter Cronkite anchoring from the web's main convention studio. The day before Charles Collingwood conducted a tv tour of the city, with the first of about a half dozen shots from the Top O' the Mark which was a must for practically every show.

ABC-TV did its Chamber of Commerce routine with Saturday night's "Convention City" helmed by Quincy Howe at the Cow Palace vantage point he and John Daly are working from this week. It was the usual round of interviews, plus that inveitable pose from the Mark Hopkins crowsnest. Howe and colleagues were back Sunday night interviewing a clutch of GOP. ("These Are the Men") bigwigs. Nixon was present again, as was Available Harold Stassen who was all over the screen with his Herter-for-vice-president performance that badly needed a new script before the weekend was out.

All the regular and special panel shows were loaded with GOP politicos and except for CBS' "Face the Nation" tense session with Thomas Dewey they were largely unproductive of fireworks. National chairman Leonard Hall fenced adroitly with the newsmen on NBC's "Meet the Press" and Stassen tubthumped his anti-Nixon campaign on same web's "Youth Wants to Know."

ABC's "College Press Conference" featured governors Arthur Langlie and Theodore Mckeldin and UN ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. It was a polite meeting of minds. Same channel's "Campaign Roundup" with Senator William Knowland leading a parade of GOP figures and NBC's "American Forum" with a quartet of governors, and its "Convention Searchlight" chin session with Knowland again added to the torrent of words.

With President Eisenhower's renomination in the bag, the only remotely possible question mark to be resolved this week at the Cow Palace is whether Nixon will be his running mate again. And this "controversy," hardly worthy of the name, was worked and reworked to the point of absurdity by television last weekend. Some of the boys shoulda stood in bed and given everyone a rest.

Dave.

Sinatra Across the Board

Whether by design or accident, and most likely it was the latter since the laryngitis was unexpected, Frank Sinatra sure played it across the board on two networks and one local (ABC-TV) appearance, as part of the N.Y. outlet's regular Sunday night "Film Festival" (British pix).

Both on ABC and the Steve Allen (NBC) appearances he plugged his "Johnny Concho" (UA) pic, concurrent at the Broadway Paramount; on CBS he foiled for Red Skelton in a couple of improvised bits. Guest emcee Skelton (in the still ailing Ed Sullivan's absence) deliberately stated he'd "take over in order to help save the voice." On the Allen-NBCer they clowned with a gag panto to one of Sinatra's recordings, "A Foggy Day In London Town."

Sullivan's show was marked by a noblesse oblige reading (by Skelton) of a Collier's mag article wherein the columnist, while expressing "disappointment" over their feud expressed himself that he chose to remember Sinatra's unselfish chores for charity, war bonds, etc. Withal, the former swoon-croon kid has matured into a star of stature, and the network's facilities, on the same cream Sunday night and within the same 8-9 evening hour (not to mention the local ABC-TV stint) contributed inestimable publicity values.

Sammy Davis Jr., Alan Dale & Skelton, Steve Allen & Julius LaRosa were the Sinatra substitutions at the Paramount theatre early Sunday when his voice failed him. He did the final show on his own. Sinatra closed last night (Tues.), giving the Broadway Paramount (with the Tommy Dorscy band backing him) a taste of what a boffola bandshow can mean to the boxoffice. Sinatra proved boffola for himself on a two-ply stint which veered from vendetta to a generous salute to the ailing columnist. He signed off with a personal "get well" to Ed Sullivan. It was sweetness-and-light on Sabbath eve—but also good show business. Abel.

Tele Follow-Up Comment

Alcoa Hour

Topicality itself isn't enough to make a good play. David Karp's "The Big Vote," a piece about the decline of an old-line party boss, was topical enough in its Sunday (19) presentation on "Alcoa Hour," coming as it did between political conventions, but still, it wasn't a good play. It sustained interest, to be sure, but had little dramatic impact.

In portraying the changeover from the old order to the new (enlightened electorate), Karp displayed two key failings. His characters were superficial and unsympathetic, for one thing, and his story really ended an act too soon, for another. After the old-line boss, pictured as an honest, courageous and moral fellow whose ideas about politics are just too old-fashioned, gets his comeuppance, the rest is anticlimax, concerned as it is with the efforts of the brash but practical winner's efforts (successful, of course) to get the boss back into the ranks for the coming campaign.

Ed Begley, as the boss, was impressive and believable within the limits set for him. He was an interesting character, though not a sympathetic one, and therein lies one of the faults of the play. When the conflict changed from one of issues after Begley gets plastered in the primary to a personal conflict—whether he'll return to politics, the story lost interest. Characterization of the new boss, played with vigor by Walter Matthau, didn't help any, since it seemed entirely one-dimensional.

Rest of the cast, headed by Kathleen Maguire, William Emhardt, Luis Van Rooten, William Harrigan, Walter Burke and Robert Culp, were excellent. Norman Felton's direction was somewhat choppy and tended to lag in the final act, but here again, it was a matter of a weak ending to what might have been a fascinating story. Chan.

Climax

The 1945 crash of a B-29 into the Empire State Bldg. is a challenging theme for a teleplay, but Leonard Lee missed the boat in his script, "The 78th Floor," for "Climax" last Thursday (16). Fortunately, producer Edgar Peterson and director Tom Donovan salvaged much of the hour with a super-realistic staging job on the third-act crash that atoned somewhat for the ineptness of the script, but it's a good guess that the first two acts had chased many viewers away by then.

Lee used the familiar technique—the basis for a multitude of disaster stories—of taking a couple of characters about to commit some wrong at the time of the crash and prevented from doing so by the disaster. The motivation was revealed via flashbacks, and for two-thirds of the hour, the audience was treated to a pair of dull soapoperas.

Otto Kruger was one of the characters, an ad agency exec turned blind, who's about to commit suicide because he's useless to the wife, the agency and the world. When he leads a couple to safety, he finds "I've been of use to somebody." Kruger wasn't very convincing, but then who could be with lines like "I know I'm doing the right thing" to mouth. Rosemary De Camp had an equally thankless role as his wife, and she didn't have much luck with it either.

Other couple, played by Pat Crowley and Scott Brady, were hardly more believable, with Brady playing a tv repairman who decides to hold up the jewelry firm where Miss Crowley, his fiancee, works so he can ply her with minks when they're wed. He had to go through the "you don't know what it is to be poor" routine, while she countered with "minks aren't everything." The fadcout was a "what have I done" type clinch.

So there we are, and ff not for a honey of a staging job where Kruger and the couple wander dazedly through flame, smoke and rubble-filled corridors while there's a mob scene downstairs, the entire hour would have been worthless. As it was, the finale hardly made up for the script, but it was some compensation. Chan.

News-Comentary

Continued from page 23

editorial stand on their news shows. He thought that editorials required at least four-minutes to develop satisfactorily.

Hard News a Problem

Charles Collingwood, commentator for WCBS-TV, N.Y., and the parent network, explained why it was hard getting hard news into a quarter-hour. Film footage, first off, takes a longer time to unravel than a radio newscaster's words. Moreover, the changes between film clips and the necessary transitions, plus the chance for occasional technical goofs, slow down the tv program.

An anonymous network newswriter offered some inflammatory comments. His basic premise was that news programming was never a mass audience concept, nor will it ever be either on radio or tv. Hence, he felt that tv commentators should "cultivate" a substantial and loyal audience with his own opinion of the news, just as many big names have done in radio.

In tv today, a news show is only as good as its film, which is often as bad as it is good. Reliance on film makes the tv newscaster an innocuous "reader of news," without opinions and as likely to lose homescreeners to a feature film or another "reader" as he is to hold them. He pointed to Edward R. Murrow as a prime example of a newscaster with an editorial opinion and a large, devoted audience, but not always sponsored. He pointed to Howard K. Smith, who only gets weekend exposure and also without a bankroller.

The man offered two reasons why weeknight newscasters aren't permitted to spice up shows with editorial stands: One is that sponsors, who fork out impressive sums nightly for a quarter hour, time and talent, fear the objection of a single dissenting viewer; second point was that the networks are constantly aware of and intimidated by the possibility of action by irate solons, either in pushing the monopoly question into the courts or in demands for costly "equal time."

Shepherd

Continued from page 23

them. Somebody said, and Shepherd repeated, "How about Sweetheart Toilet Soap, it's a good brand and it doesn't do too much advertising" (station's version is that Shepherd said its sales aren't very good). So Shepherd told his listeners to go to their drug stores, buy a cake of Sweetheart Toilet Soap and tell 'em Jean Shepherd sent you. Also be sure to say "Excelsior."

That's when general manager Bob Leder, who hasn't been getting much sleep lately monitoring the hot-potato Shepherd's 1 to 5:30 a.m. stint, reportedly hit the ceiling. If he didn't reach the ceiling, he did make it to the phone, and called the transmitter in Carteret, N. J., and instructed the engineer to cut Shepherd off the air. So then came the inevitable "Due to conditions beyond our control . . ."

The following day, Shepherd merely said "I've been fired again." Leder said he couldn't have anybody insulting potential customers of the station (Sweetheart and Cashmere Bouquet, also mentioned, aren't advertisers on the station) and anyway, he wanted a less cultish personality and one who would appeal to a wider audience range. Shepherd, who apparently thought Leder blew up because he felt Shepherd was rubbing it in, insisted that it was "just a gag," but said he hadn't been able to get through to Leder during the day. The official WOR announcement stated that Shepherd "Continually interjected unauthorized commercial material" into the broadcast.

While WOR admittedly had two offices manning the phones to handle the protests on Friday, Shepherd was unconcernedly listening to offers from both CBS and NBC (one of them a television deal) and wrapping up the narration for a somewhat commercial enterprise, an industrial film for Worthington Generating Equipment Co. And WOR meanwhile set a replacement, a Parsippany, N. J., auctioneer name of Long John Nebel, whose done some work on the station in the past and who will conduct a deejay-interview-special features show.

TV'S 'YOU CAN'T SEE IT NOW'

'Who Called That Carpenter a Writer?'

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Don't encourage writers—discourage them—lots of 'em would be better off as carpenters.

That's the advice of Cornwell Jackson, coast veepee of J. Walter Thompson agency which reads many scripts for its tv shows, the exec opining "more time is wasted in encouraging people who don't really have talent for writing. Jackson avers too much hubbub is made of "encouraging" the writer, uppointing that the market today is one in which the writer was never more in demand.

Jackson, whose agency daily receives many scripts for "Lux Video Theatre" and other shows, admitted he was once a writer and quit "because I have the most beautiful collection of rejection slips you ever read." Lot of would-be writers today are "encouraged by their classmates and cellmates, but they would be better off as carpenters," he asserted.

"The guy who really wants to write can let writing be a by-product. It's a great mistake when everybody with a pencil sharpener thinks they can write. Most people who think they can write don't understand the craft. Everybody who has written a letter thinks they can write. I think writing and acting are the two most difficult crafts. The greatest kindness is to give would-be writers out-and-out criticism. It's hard to do it since they have taken time and effort, but there is no point in kidding them about it. There is too much encouragement for writers these days.

"It's ridiculous, too, to say only name writers can sell. As a matter of fact, the names strike out as well as those without names. We get scripts from everybody and we judge them solely on their merit. If a man thinks he can write, then let him try it, but don't coddle him. It's too tough a business, and you just harm him by coddling. If the writer can't sell then let him take another job, do mankind some good, and just write on the side. If what he writes is good, he'll sell. I have never encouraged anyone whom I didn't feel had ability," concluded Jackson.

Neatest TV Trick of the Week: Sinatra-Sullivan Peace-Pipe Bit

Robert M. Wetiman's talent relations, dating baek to his long-time managing directorship of the Broadway Paramount whieh created much eontemporaneous show biz lore in the realm of "live" entertainment, again figured in the Frank Sinatra-Ed Sullivan peace-pipe bit. Weitman, now CBS program veepee, at first had suggested that "it would be a real smart thing" on his (Sinatra's) past Sunday (19) night Steve Allen-NBC show to wish the eompetitive Sullivan a gallant "get well." (This was after Sinatra also agreed that he would phone the ailing N.Y. Daily News columnist and star of the CBS-TVer and wish him well).

Thereafter it snowballed, under Sinatra's own volition when Weitman suggested the singer could write himself a little personal show biz history by doing a double-feature on two competitive networks, in the two top concurrent variety shows, on the same night, and within the same hour. This caught fire and Sinatra, with full awareness he would be on a bicycle among

(Continued on page 43)

Sinatra Beats Sinatra

It was a crazy, mixed up Sunday evening in the Steve Allen-Ed Sullivan battle over the weekend, what with Frank Sinatra shuttling between the two shows and even appearing on ABC's "Famous Film Festival" to insure impartiality. It must have been just that neutrality that kept tthe overnight Trendex ratings running at par, since the Sullivan segment, emceed by Red Skelton, again wound up with a sizeable lead over Allen.

Skelton pulled down a 20.9 rating and a 52.7% share, compared with Allen's 13.7 and 36% share. "Famous Film" ran last with 4.1 and a 10.3% share.

'Bandstand,' Designed For Radio, May Prove To Be a TV Sleeper

While NBC came up with its "NBC Bandstand" effort a couple of months ago primarily in an effort to salvage its morning radio schedule, it may have developed a sleeper on the tv side. While the show's effeetiveness in radio is yet to be determined, the half-hour 10:30 to 11 a.m. simulcast version has been cutting Arthur Godfrey's lead over NBC-TV in the morning time period.

Trendex studies showed Godfrey's July (2-6) Trendex at a 6.0, far ahead of NBC's 1.6 with Ernie Kovaes at the time. But a special Trendex for July 30-Aug. 3, the week "Bandstand" preemed, showed NBC up to 2.3 and Godfrey and CBS down to a 4.7. Latest Trendex, covering Aug. 6 to 10, shows "Bandstand" up further, with a 3.1, and Godfrey still sliding with a 4.3. Since the "Bandstand" preem, NBC states, Godfrey's share of audience has slumped by 30%.

Just to kick the Godfrey gong around still further, NBC has booked Frank Parker for "Bandstand" for a two-week stand starting next Monday (27). Tenor, of course, is one of the old Godfrey gang who got a polite bounce a couple of months ago when Godfrey refused to renew his contract.

NBC-TV 'Matinee' Sponsor Windfall —But With an 'If'

Hudson Pulp & Paper Co., which recently switched from the defunct Biow agency to Norman, Craig & Kummel, is mapping a $4,500,000 daytime television spread via the sponsorship of a five-days-weekly quarter-hour on "Matinee" under a 52-week deal. It's by no means certain that such a deal will go through, however, since it's all conditional on NBC-TV finding a bankroller to take over cosponsorship in non-Hudson distribution areas.

Hudson's distribution setup covers about 70% of NBC's basic must-buy lineup, which means the network must come up with a sponsor for that remaining 30% or let the deal go by the boards. At the rate of $900,000 per quarter-hour on an annual basis, a cross-the-board buy comes to $4,500,000, a sum NBC isn't apt to let go so quickly. Such a deal would more than get "Matinee" off the hook, and would take the pressure off the sales force in that it would provide for fewer participation sales, always a tough proposition. Deal would mark the first segmented sponsorship of the show, in contrast to the participaton setup that's obtained all along.

LOTSA PROGRAMS ARE PUT ON ICE

This is the time of the year when the tv networks, virtually SRO on nighttime availabilities, take stock of their programming inventories and, much to their chagrin, find that they've got millions of dollars tied up in properties that won't even get on the air. At least not for the first 13 or 26 weeks. But since disappointments and cancellations are inevitable, the webs can't afford to relax their vigilance in stocking their shelves with potentially promising vehicles in prepping for the day when time again opens up.

Take the case of CBS-TV, for example. With only an alternate-week hour of "Playhouse 90" open in its entire nighttime roster, the network finds itself with at least a half dozen properties (representing to date an outlay of several million dollars) which they are obliged to put on ice for the simple reason that, even if sponsors wanted them, there's no prime time in which to slot them.

CBS poured a barrel of dough into its acquisition of the UPA product ("Mr. McBoing Boing"), with additional coin going into a revamping of the operation as a tv entity, but nowhere on the '56-'57 schedule does it show up. Yet having invaded the eartoonery field on such a large scale, the network is siphoning more and more promising "things to come" when sponsors and agencies start reappraising their program wares and decide on a change.

CBS plunked down $500,000 to grab off the rights and half-ownership stake in studio facilities in connection with its projected "Perry Mason" full hour film series. his was designed as a major offering for the upcoming season. But, like UPA, it's now necessary to earmark it for the future. And with a full production crew already designated, the network is proceeding with the initial 13 installments, at a cost far exceeding the initial $500,000 investment. Hub Robinson & Co. are alerted to the inevitably of an hour's time opening up, even if it doesn't happen until a year or two years from now, but it's equally aware that unless they're qualitative films the sponsors won't be buying. Hence a steady flow of CBS coin into a "you can't see it now" venture.

The Wendell Corey "Probe" series dealing with the subject of forensics; the "Chicago 212" adventure-crime series; the "Heart of Honolulu" film series, somewhat of a counterpart to the Frisco-locallled "Lineup"; the long-anticipated Marie Wilson situation comedy series, too, are bullish prospects on which some extravagant CBS coin has already been lavished and on which enthusiasm runs high within the CBS precincts, but with the network obliged to sit on them against a "wait and see" day.

OCT. 6 SLOTTING FOR LEE COOLEY KIDSPEC

The second 90-minute kiddie spectacular slated for ABC-TV will be done by Lee Cooley, in association with Jaek Beekman. The show, to be aired, Oct. 6, represents the first venture into packaging for Cooley, long associated with Perry Como on tv as a producer, director and writer.

The tab for the three projected kiddie spectaculars will be picked up by the Red Goose Shoe Co. Slated for Saturday telecasting beginning at 11 a.m., as the other two, the Cooley-Beekman package will feature Johnny Olsen, Alene Dalton, Ranger Andy, in addition to a full orchestra and vocal chorus under the direction of Nick Perito and a group of featured dancers with Lee Morrison doing the choreography.

The initial kiddie spec will be telecast on Saturday (25) from the St. Louis Zoo, with Johnny Olsen as emcee. The third is slated for airing on Dec. 8.

Westinghouse's $5,300,000 Dicker For WIND New High for AM Indie

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Deal is virtually set whereby Westinghouse's broadcasting division will buy WIND, generally conceded to be one of the most lucrative independent stations in the nation, for approximately $5,300,000. That's a new high for an indie price tag, topping the $4,100,000 a syndicate headed by Jack Wrather and John L. Loeb shelled out last year for WNEW in New York.

Purchase, subject of course to FCC approval, will be a stock transaction with 93,000 shares of Westinghouse stock going to the WIND ownership. Stock is being traded currently on the Big Board at about $57 a share.

Present WIND ownership breaks down thusly: Proxy Ralph Atlass who has helmed the operation since 1930 owns a 11% interest; the three members of Chi CBS veep H. Leslie Atlass' family—Frank, Harriet and Les Junior, WIND program chief—own 29.7% jointly; Helen Wrigley of the gum firm has 26.4%; John S. Knight, head of the newspaper chain, owns 27.7% and WIND commercial manager John Carey, 5.5%.

It's understood the three Atlass youngsters were anxious to accept the Westinghouse offer and to reinvest their capital gains. It's known they have been scouting around for a tv station to purchase. In the debate whether or not to sell the 5,000-watt indie which grosses upwards of $5,000,000 annually, the Wrigley block of stock was voted with that held by the Atlass trio in favor of accepting the record price offered by Westinghouse.

Mentholatum Dickers $500,000 NBC-TV Buys

Mentholatum, a comparative stranger to network television, is negotiating a $500,000 daytime deal with NBC-TV through J. Walter Thompson. Under the deal, it would take on sponsorship of a quarter-hour on "Modern Romances" for 13 alternate weeks starting Oct. 15 and a weekly quarter-hour on "It Could Be You" for 15 weeks starting Nov. 12.

Only thing holding up the deal is that Mentholatum wants its sponsorship on the two shows to fall on the same day of the week, and the web is trying to juggle things around to fit it in.

Carlos Franco's New Agency; Biz Tops $1,500,000

Newest advertising agency to "hit the street" is Carlos Franco Associates Inc., which goes to the fall programming post with upwards of $1,500,000 in tv billings. What makes the operation unique, however, is that the Franco setup (1) stems primarily from a marketing-research foundation; (2) has been built mainly as a "packaged goods agency."

Franco, the ex-longtime Young & Rubicam timebuyer who subsequently moved into the Kudner and Weintraub agencies, then with Crosley Broadcasting, already enjoys the distinction of grossing more billings with Mutual network than any other agency, as represented by Seaboard Drug's (Mericin) full network stake in the Walter Winchell newscasts next season, plus sponsorship of Bob & Ray.

In addition, Franco has brought into the house S. R. Stern Laboratories (cookies made from the pulp of oranges); Kromex Cor. (aluminum ware); Jetro (Japanese External Trade Recovery Organization) and Rhodes Pharmacal Co. (Safe Sleep). And Franco reps Frank Bloek's St. Louis agency in N.Y.

Identified with Franco in the new ageney are Ed Mottern as director of ereative services; J. Edward Fox as financial specialist; Dr. Franklin R. Cawl, head of marketing, merchandising and research, and Riehard W. Hubbell in charge of media.

'MR. ADAMS & EVE' TO SUB 'CRUSADER'

R. J. Reynolds and the Wm. Esty agency have finally set a replacement for their CBS-TV Friday night "Crusader" segment, with the latter getting a reprive through January but then making way for "Mr. Adams and Eve," the new Ida Lupino-Howard Duff comedy series. Series, created by Miss Lupino and Duff, will be scripted by Sol Saks. It was packaged by Don Sharpe.

Network, incidentally, bought in on the show a couple of months back, purchasing a 50% interest with an eye to finding a time slot for it.

NCAA Grid's Insurance Coin

All-State Insurance has signed to sponsor the quarter-hour pregame segment of NBC-TV's NCAA football sehedule this fall. All-State will bankroll the pre-game segments on seven of the eight NCAA national telecasts.

Network had previously sold the five-minute post-game capsules to Dow Chemical.

Rassler Says 'Medic' Ridiculed Him, Asks $3,250,000 Damages

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Aaron Zeppas, known in rassling circles as Lord Anthony Spears, filed a $3,250,000 suit against "Medic," NBC and others in Federal Court Monday (20) charging invasion of privacy, fraud, breach of contract and unfair competition.

He claims he spent a fortune creating an act, preceuling it on the grunt-groan circuit, that of wrestler who recites Shakespeare while attired in fulldress suit.

"Medic" offered to use him as star of a film showing plastic surgery to cure cauliflower ears and would pay surgical expenses, he continued. Instead, he says, they got his story, did a telefilm on character similar to "Spears" but froze him out. Since the telefilm appeared, the public he claims, holds him up to ridicule because he didn't have ear surgery as depicted in the film. Title of telefilm was "The Daughter And the Weeping."

DALY NEWSCASTS TO COAST FOR 1ST TIME

John Daly's ABC-TV newscasts will go to the web's Coast network for the first time starting Sept. 5, though he's been on the air for nearly three seasons now. Step, which opened up the entire Pacific network to Daly, will undoubtedly help the web's sales force on the Daly show, since clearance problems have been a major stumbling block. (Show is sponsored three out of five nights weekly, by Miles Labs and Time Inc.)

Coast feed will be by a two and one-half hour hot kinnie (three and a half until the East goes standard time), with the Coast getting the show on kinnie at 6:45 (PST). It originates in N. Y. at 7:15 (EDT), accounting for the three and a half hour difference. Possibility is that once a sufficient lineup is cleared, Daly would do a repeat live newscast for the Coast to overcome the time lag insofar as late news breaks are concerned.

This is the NEW Universal Zooma last week at the Democrati

SPEED: F:3/9
ZOOM RANGE: 2½ to 16 INCHES.
WEIGHT: TEN POUNDS.
LENGTH: FOURTEEN INCHES.
COLOR BALANCED AND CORRECTED FOR MONOCHROME AND COLOR.
WILL CONVERT TO ALL AMERICAN ORTHICON CAMERAS.
THIS LENS DOES NOT TIE UP A CAMERA... CAN BE PUT ON OR TAKEN OFF IN LESS THAN A MINUTE.
MINIMUM DISTANCE: OPERATES 16 FEET FROM TARGET.

WATCH ITS PERFORMANCE FROM the Republican Convention in San Francisco

Roberto Kenny, Chief of Production, XEW, Mexico City, and Dr. Frank G. Back, preceding XEW spectacular.

Harvey J. Aderhold, Chief Engineer, WLW-A, Atlanta, Georgia, the first station to take delivery on a UNIVERSAL ZOOMAR.

Lionel Wittenberg and Dr. Frank G. Back, inventor of the STUDIO ZOOMAR and UNIVERSAL ZOOMAR LENSES, at Station WISN-TV, Milwaukee

ALREADY IN USE BY:

NBC Network
WLW-A, Atlanta, Georgia, Harvey J. Aderhold, Chief Engineer
WCPO, Cincinnati, Ohio, Paul Adams, Chief Engineer
WISN, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Lionel Wittenberg, Chief Engineer
WLW-T, Cincinnati, Ohio, Howard Lepple, Chief Engineer
WITN, Washington, North Carolina, Hal Wilson, Operations Director
KUTV, Salt Lake City, Utah, Herbert Holtshauser, Chief Engineer
Radio and Television, Department of Education, Hato Rey, Puerto Rico, Don Rafael Delgado Marquez, Manager.

Lens that STOLE THE SHOW National Convention

THE NEW Universal ZOOMAR

We are now accepting orders for UNIVERSAL ZOOMARS and can make delivery soon. The UNIVERSAL ZOOMAR is similar in appearance to the STUDIO ZOOMAR. This lens is a great contribution to the color camera. Imagine a ZOOMAR LENS with a speed of F:3/9 and zoom range of 2½ to 16 inches!

You have seen its studio use on leading network participation shows where they pan and zoom from stage to audience. It has speed and range for any show where only one camera is used, such as church services, boxing, wrestling, bullfights, bowling, etc.

HARVEY J. ADERHOLD, CHIEF ENGINEER, WLW-A, ATLANTA, writes:
"As for night baseball, it's just wonderful. We are able to carry over two-thirds of the action on the camera that is equipped with the UNIVERSAL ZOOMAR LENS. It is easy to handle and gets wonderful pictures under various lighting conditions."

LIONEL WITTENBERG, CHIEF ENGINEER OF WISN-TV, MILWAUKEE, writes:
"We have used it for both night and day baseball games with good success. It is the first lens of its type that has been satisfactory for night games in the Braves ball park. We have used the lens for wrestling and bowling remotes where we were working with extremely low light levels. Up to the present we have been able to produce good pictures with our ZOOMAR LENS in any installation where they were obtainable with standard lenses."

HAL WILSON, DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS, WITN, WASHINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA:
"We find its effectiveness equal for both indoor and outdoor work. Personally, I sometimes wonder how we got along without it in the past."

HOWARD LEPPLE, CHIEF ENGINEER, WLW-T, CINCINNATI:
"It's the finest lens we have."

STUDIO ZOOMAR

More than 130 STUDIO ZOOMARS are now used by television stations in the United States, all Italian Government television stations, all Canadian Broadcasting Company stations, all stations in Japan, also stations in the Philippines, Mexico, Cuba, Venezuela, and Puerto Rico.

STUDIO ZOOMAR zooms from 2½ to 7 inches.
Speed of F:2/8.
Twelve inches long.
Weight six pounds.
Color balanced and corrected.
Suitable for both monochrome and color.
Can be removed from camera to camera in less than a minute.
No camera need be tied up with the STUDIO ZOOMAR LENS.
THIS IS THE ACCEPTED LENS FOR COLOR.

Stations with color everywhere acclaim the STUDIO ZOOMAR because of its light weight, speed, and flexibility. Stations with the STUDIO ZOOMAR say it pays for itself many times over each year.

You may purchase these lenses from your RCA, GE, or Du Mont representative.
For demonstration and further information, contact

JACK A. PEGLER, President

TELEVISION ZOOMAR CORPORATION

500 Fifth Avenue, New York 36, New York • BR 9-5835

VARIETY - ARB City-By-City Syndicated and National Spot Film Chart

VARIETY'S weekly chart of city-by-city ratings of syndicated and national spot film covers 40 to 60 cities reported by American Research Bureau on a monthly basis. Cities will be rotated each week, with the 10 top-rated film shows listed in each case, and their competition shown opposite. All ratings are furnished by ARB, based on the latest reports.

This VARIETY chart represents a gathering of all pertinent information about film in each market, which can be used by distributors, agencies, stations and clients as an aid in determining the effectiveness of a filmed show in the specific market. Attention should be paid to time—day and time factors, since sets-in-use and audience composition vary according to time slot, i.e., a Saturday afternoon children's show, with a low rating, may have a large share and an audience composed largely of children, with corresponding results for the sponsor aiming at the children's market. Abbreviations and symbols are as follows: (Adv), adventure; (Ch), children's; (Co), comedy; (Dr), drama; (Doc), documentary; (Mus), musical; (Myst), mystery; (Q), quiz; (Sp), sports; (W), western; (Wom), women's. Numbered symbols next to station call letters represent the station's channel; all channels above 13 are UHF. Those ad agencies listed as distributors rep the national sponsor for whom the film is aired.

NEW YORK

Approx. Set Count—4,525,000 Stations—WCBS (2), WRCA (4), WABD (5), WABC (7), WOR (9), WPIX (11), WATV (13)

| TOP 10 PROGRAMS AND TYPE | STATION | DISTRIB. | DAY AND TIME | JULY RATING | SHARE (%) | SETS IN USE | TOP COMPETING PROGRAM | STA. | RATING |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Highway Patrol (Adv) | WRCA | Ziv | Mon. 7:00-7:30 | 11.7 | 47.8 | 24.0 | Early Show; Rain or Shine | WCBS | 9.0 |
| | | | | | | | CBS News—D. Edwards | WCBS | 5.8 |
| 2. Science Fiction Theatre (Adv) | WRCA | Ziv | Fri. 7:00-7:30 | 10.5 | 43.9 | 23.9 | Early Show; Rain or Shine | WCBS | 7.0 |
| | | | | | | | CBS News—D. Edwards | WCBS | 6.7 |
| 3. Rheingold Theatre (Dr) | WRCA | ABC | Mon. 10:30-11:00 | 10.2 | 24.4 | 41.8 | Summer Theatre | WCBS | 16.8 |
| 3. The Falcon (Myst) | WABC | NBC | Fri. 10:30-11:00 | 10.2 | 25.6 | 39.8 | Pantomime Quiz | WCBS | 12.3 |
| 5. Racket Squad (Myst) | WABC | ABC | Thurs. 10:30-11:00 | 8.7 | 20.6 | 42.2 | Lux Video | WRCA | 18.4 |
| 5. Man Behind the Badge (Myst) | WPIX | MCA | Wed. 8:00-8:30 | 8.7 | 20.6 | 42.2 | Godfrey & Friends | WCBS | 10.8 |
| 7. Badge 714 (Myst) | WPIX | NBC | Wed. 8:30-9:00 | 8.5 | 16.4 | 51.9 | Father Knows Best | WRCA | 21.2 |
| 8. The Goldbergs (Co) | WABD | Guild | Thurs. 7:30-8:00 | 8.2 | 31.4 | 26.1 | Sgt. Preston of Yukon | WCBS | 5.1 |
| 9. Amos 'n' Andy (Co) | WCBS | CBS | Sat. 6:30-7:00 | 8.1 | 48.5 | 16.7 | Looney Tunes | WABD | 3.8 |
| 9. Guy Lombardo (Mus) | WRCA | MCA | Thurs. 7:00-7:30 | 8.1 | 45.0 | 18.0 | Early Show; Rain or shine | WCBS | 6.7 |
| | | | | | | | CBS News—D. Edwards | WCBS | 4.7 |

CHICAGO

Approx. Set Count—2,900,000 Stations—WBBM (2), WNBQ (5), WBKB (7), WGN (9)

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Mayor of the Town (Co) | WNBQ | MCA | Sat. 10:00-10:30 | 17.3 | 47.0 | 36.8 | Television Playhouse | WBBM | 6.5 |
| | | | | | | | People's Theatre | WBKB | 6.5 |
| | | | | | | | Wrestling | WGN | 6.5 |
| 2. Science Fiction Theatre (Adv) | WNBQ | Ziv | Sat. 10:30-11:00 | 16.7 | 47.0 | 35.5 | Waterfront | WBBM | 6.7 |
| 3. Great Gildersleeve (Co.) | WNBQ | NBC | Mon. 9:30-10:00 | 15.8 | 30.5 | 51.8 | Summer Theatre | WBBM | 20.8 |
| 4. Racket Squad (Myst) | WGN | ABC | Tues. 8:30-9:00 | 15.6 | 40.8 | 38.3 | Spotlight Theatre | WBBM | 8.4 |
| 5. Susie (Co) | WBKB | TPA | Sat. 9:30-10:00 | 15.0 | 32.4 | 46.3 | Adventure Theatre | WNBQ | 15.5 |
| 6. Badge 714 (Myst) | WGN | NBC | Tues. 8:00-8:30 | 14.6 | 39.1 | 37.3 | G. E. Summer Originals | WBKB | 8.9 |
| 7. Studio 57 (Dr) | WBKB | MCA | Tues. 10:00-10:30 | 13.9 | 29.9 | 46.5 | Standards News Roundup | WBBM | 16.5 |
| | | | | | | | In Town Tonight | WBBM | 11.1 |
| 7. City Detective (Myst) | WGN | MCA | Fri. 9:30-10:00 | 13.9 | 29.8 | 46.8 | Polka Time | WBKB | 13.8 |
| 9. Confidential File (Doc) | WBKB | Guild | Wed. 10:00-10:30 | 12.4 | 29.2 | 42.5 | Standards News Roundup | WBBM | 14.4 |
| | | | | | | | Request Playhouse | WGN | 12.3 |
| 10. D. Fairbanks Presents (Dr) | WBKB | ABC | Thurs. 10:00-10:30 | 12.2 | 31.1 | 39.2 | Standards News Roundup | WBBM | 13.2 |
| | | | | | | | In Town Tonight | WBBM | 8.3 |

LOS ANGELES

Approx. Set Count—2,313,000 Stations—KNXT (2), KRCA (4), KTLA (5), KABC (7), KHJ (9), KTTV (11), KCOP (13)

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. I Led 3 Lives (Adv) | KTTV | Ziv | Sat. 8:30-9:00 | 18.2 | 32.1 | 56.7 | Patti Page | KRCA | 11.9 |
| 2. Badge 714 (Myst) | KTTV | NBC | Sat. 7:30-8:00 | 16.9 | 39.0 | 43.3 | High Finance | KNXT | 9.4 |
| 3. San Francisco Beat (Dr) | KTTV | CBS | Sat. 9:30-10:00 | 15.9 | 31.3 | 50.7 | Festival of Stars | KRCA | 11.0 |
| 4. Confidential File (Doc) | KTTV | Guild | Sun. 9:30-10:00 | 15.7 | 26.2 | 60.9 | Alfred Hitchcock | KNXT | 24.6 |
| 5. Highway Patrol (Adv) | KTTV | Ziv | Mon. 9:00-9:30 | 15.3 | 24.4 | 62.6 | Medic | KRCA | 16.8 |
| 6. Search for Adventure (Adv) | KCOP | Bagnall | Thurs. 7:00-7:30 | 14.7 | 36.3 | 40.5 | Arthur Murray Party | KNXT | 7.0 |
| 7. Life of Riley (Co) | KTTV | NBC | Mon. 8:30-9:00 | 13.4 | 22.1 | 60.5 | Godfrey's Talent Scouts | KNXT | 11.5 |
| 8. Superman (Adv) | KTTV | Flamingo | Sat. 7:00-7:30 | 12.3 | 30.2 | 40.8 | Home Playhouse | KNXT | 9.2 |
| 9. Susie (Co) | KTTV | TPA | Sat. 8:00-8:30 | 12.0 | 22.2 | 54.0 | Honeymooners | KNXT | 16.7 |
| 10. Mr. District Attorney (Myst) | KTTV | Ziv | Sat. 9:00-9:30 | 11.5 | 20.3 | 57.5 | People Are Funny | KRCA | 20.2 |

CLEVELAND

Approx. Set Count—1,900,000 Stations—KYW (3), WEWS (5), WJW (8)

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Highway Patrol (Adv) | WJW | Ziv | Tues. 10:30-11:00 | 35.2 | 67.5 | 52.1 | Big Town | KYW | 11.4 |
| 2. Turning Point (Dr) | KYW | MCA | Mon. 10:30-11:00 | 20.4 | 47.3 | 43.2 | Feature Boxing | WEWS | 13.1 |
| | | | | | | | Summer Theatre | WJW | 12.1 |
| 3. Science Fiction Theatre (Adv) | KYW | Ziv | Tues. 7:00-7:30 | 16.1 | 80.5 | 30.0 | Flaming Theatre | WEWS | 2.4 |
| 4. Range Rider (W) | WEWS | CBS | Sun. 7:00-7:30 | 14.3 | 39.5 | 36.2 | Topper | KYW | 14.8 |
| 5. My Little Margie (Co) | KYW | Official | Mon. 7:00-7:30 | 13.1 | 49.3 | 36.6 | Stories of the Centuries | WEWS | 7.6 |
| 6. 6 O'Clock Adventure (Adv) | KYW | ABC | Wed. 6:00-6:30 | 12.0 | 61.6 | 19.5 | Loney Tunes | WJW | 6.6 |
| | | | | | | | Sports; Today Cleveland | WJW | 4.8 |
| 7. Racket Squad (Myst) | KYW | ABC | Sat. 7:00-7:30 | 11.9 | 50.2 | 23.7 | Gene Autry | WJW | 6.8 |
| 8. Man Behind the Badge (Myst) | KYW | MCA | Wed. 10:30-11:00 | 11.4 | 23.9 | 47.7 | 20th Century Fox | WJW | 23.3 |
| 9. Captured (Myst) | WJW | NBC | Thurs. 10:30-11:00 | 11.1 | 22.7 | 48.8 | Lux Video | KYW | 33.6 |
| 10. Looney Tunes (Ch) | WJW | Guild | Sat. 11:00-11:30 a.m. | 10.5 | 54.3 | 19.3 | Fury | KYW | 7.6 |

ATLANTA

Approx. Set Count—565,000 Stations—WSB (2), WAGA (5), WLW-A (11)

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Highway Patrol (Adv) | WAGA | Ziv | Fri. 10:00-10:30 | 21.8 | 55.9 | 39.0 | Truth or Consequence | WSB | 15.9 |
| 2. Secret Journal (Dr) | WSB | MCA | Sun. 10:30-11:00 | 20.8 | 85.3 | 24.4 | Big Idea | WAGA | 2.6 |
| 3. Racket Squad (Myst) | WSB | ABC | Sun. 10:00-10:30 | 19.4 | 57.6 | 33.7 | Man Called X | WAGA | 12.9 |
| 4. Science Fiction Theatre (Adv) | WAGA | Ziv | Tues. 9:30-10:00 | 17.7 | 40.1 | 44.2 | Big Town | WSB | 24.4 |
| 5. I Led 3 Lives (Adv) | WSB | Ziv | Mon. 9:30-10:00 | 17.4 | 32.7 | 53.3 | Baseball | WLW-A | 22.0 |
| 6. Superman (Adv) | WSB | Flamingo | Fri. 7:00-7:30 | 16.8 | 63.9 | 26.3 | Mama | WAGA | 7.7 |
| 6. Man Behind the Badge (Myst) | WSB | MCA | Sun. 2:30-3:00 | 16.8 | 69.5 | 24.2 | Boots & Saddles | WAGA | 5.5 |
| | | | | | | | Saddles; Sunday Report | WAGA | 5.5 |
| 8. Confidential File (Doc) | WSB | Guild | Sat. 10:30-11:00 | 16.6 | 66.4 | 25.0 | Overseas Adventure | WAGA | 5.2 |
| 9. I Spy (Myst) | WAGA | Guild | Wed. 10:00-11:00 | 16.1 | 52.3 | 30.9 | Press Conference | WSB | 11.1 |
| 10. Annie Oakley (W) | WLW-A | CBS | Mon. 6:00-6:30 | 14.8 | 68.5 | 21.6 | Telenews | WSB | 3.6 |
| | | | | | | | Telenews & Weather | WSB | 4.2 |

WOR: TV'S ALL-GRIND HOUSE

13 UA Tinters For WRCA-TV

First customer for United Artists since the motion picture outfit decided to sell to television a couple of weeks back is WRCA-TV, the New York flagship of NBC-TV, which this week bought 39 features for a three-year span, 13 of them in color. Station will televise all 13 tinters in color, stepping up its tintcasting campaign.

While WRCA-TV has already been signed, the station is continuing negotiations with UA on behalf of the other NBC-TV owned-and-operated stations, WNBQ in Chicago, WRCV-TV, Philadelphia, WRC-TV in Washington and KRCA-TV in Los Angeles. Negotiations are being handled by Al Odeal, recently brought in as filmbuyer at the station from Cleveland, where he was film director for the then-WNBK and subsequently for Westinghouse's KYW-TV.

Under the deal, WRCA gets 10 runs per pic over the three-year term, and will use the films predominantly on its "Evening Show" running from 5:30 to 6:45 starting next month. Pix are all of post-'48 vintage, which means UA had to clear them with the various unions, and in fact 10 of the pix are 1956 productions.

Included in the list of color films are "Top Banana" (Phil Silvers), "Melba" (Patricia Munsel), "Sabre Jet," "Man With a Million" (Gregory Peck), "Island of Desire" (Linda Darnell), "Fort Defiance," "The Scarlet Spear," "GOG" and "Bwana Devil." Some of the black-and-whites are "Act of Love" (Kirk Douglas), "Jackie Robinson Story," "He Walked By Night," "He Ran All the Way" (John Garfield, Shelley Winters), "Outpost in Malaya," (Claudette Colbert), "Twist of Fate" (Ginger Rogers) and "Personal Affair" (Gene Tierney).

WCBS-TV's 105G Weekly Gross As Four Feature Slots Attain SRO

For the first time in the station's history, WCBS-TV, the CBS flagship in New York, has achieved the SRO level on its four major feature film showcases, "The Late Show," the "Early Show," the "Late Late Show" and "Picture for a Sunday Afternoon." It's a $105,000 a week gross revenue situation, and while the SRO standing holds for early fall and by no means is a certainty for the remainder of the year, it would project on an annual basis to well over the $5,400,000 level.

Fact that this is the first time the station has reached SRO on all four shows is due to the first-time sellout of the 12:45-2 a.m. "Late Late Show." WCBS-TV has been SRO at one time or another on the "Late" and "Early" shows, but never could fill up the "Late Late" stanza till now. It's done so on the basis of a departure from the normal participations pattern, instead selling the stanza by quarter-hour segments, seven nights a week. Strip sponsors signed for this pattern are Raleigh cigs, Lestoil, Roto-Rooter, Anahist and Presto Cookers, three of them for 52 weeks.

That such a late-late-night stanza should be sold out is no less remarkable than some of the ratings the films have pulled down. A special Nielsen for March gave the show a 6.5 seven-night average

(Continued on page 36)

RKO's Stock Gleam On Bennett Prod.

RKO Teleradio Pictures, which recently acquired the distribution rights to Donn Bennett Productions' "The Big Idea," has an option to buy a substantial stock interest in the Philadelphia tv firm.

RKO already has had four of its executives elected to the board of directors of Donn Bennett Productions. They are Peter Robeck, sales manager for RKO Television, Robert Manby, RKO Teleradio veepee, Charles G. Drayton and Paul J. Quinn. Manby has been designated temporary chairman of the Bennett company. Incumbents reelected at the Bennett stockholders meeting were Donn Bennett, president, Garfield Levy and Harold Scattergood.

The option arrangement was made at the stockholders meeting for purchase of a substantial stock interest by RKO at a future time. Meanwhile, RKO Television sales manager Robeck has been named exec v.p. of Bennett.

New episodes of "The Big Idea," dealing with inventors and their creations, currently are being filmed at RKO Pathe studios in the East.

WB's 60 Stations

Sixty stations have now lined up for the Warner Bros. feature film packages sold by Associated Artists Productions.

Latest to ink deals are KNXT, Los Angeles; WFBM, Indianapolis; WTCN, Minneapolis; WARM, Scranton and WBTV, Charlotte. AAP's cartoon package has been sold to KREM, Sacramento; KPHO, Phoenix, and WTCN, Minneapolis.

Gold Medal's Stock Incentive For Staffers

A new wrinkle in tieing down key creative and production personnel to one company has been worked out by Gold Medal Productions, the production affiliate of Gold Medal Studios, which took over the old Biograph Studios in the Bronx recently. Gold Medal has set up a Special Films Division to produce industrial films, commercials, telefilm programs and theatrical shorts and has assured itself of a top creative-production roster by staking its people to stock participations in the company.

Under the participating "pool" arrangement, according to Gold Medal prez Martin Poll, the creative-production team will be allowed to work outside the company on a freelance basis but will be on call to the company for assignments as they occur. Eventually, as the operation expands, they will be expected to devote all their time to Gold Medal. Each member participates in the overall take, even if they aren't assigned to specific properties.

Lineup of creative and production talent is headed by Marc Daniels, who will act as producer-

(Continued on page 42)

Atlantic Sets Distrib Deal on 'Giant Killer'

Atlantic Television has acquired distribution rights for the U. S. of the animated Technicolor feature production, "Johnny, the Giant Killer," produced in London and Paris by animator Rene Image. Deal was set for a seven-year term with Anglo-American Enterprises.

Dave Bader, Atlantic v.p., has already set 15 station deals on the 60-minute feature, all for color telecasting.

80% OF HOURS FOR FEATURES

By MURRAY HOROWITZ

To WOR-TV in N. Y. goes the distinction of being virtually the first all-grind house, with 80% of its programming hours devoted to features. Station will open the new fall season with eight new feature film programs, utilizing for the first time virtually the complete RKO film library. "Million Dollar Movie," already SRO for the fall season, will be left intact with 16 showings weekly in the new season.

A number of the film programs will be hosted, such as the projected "Theatre of Movie Classics" slated for four showings on Sundays. Constance Bennett will emcee for that one.

The RKO Teleradio New York flagship, which boosts its rates 33⅓%, effective Sept. 1, has revamped 50% of its schedule to make way for the feature film programming, eliminating a number of telefilm series, in addition to other changes.

Under the new programming schedule, which goes into effect Sept. 24, 80% of all programming will consist of feature films, the bulk of which will be first-run for tv in the N. Y. market. The only remaining "live" show will be the "Ted Steele Show" from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 5 to 6 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

'Sneak Previews'

Many of the new shows will use the cross-the-board programming format of "MDM." The introduction of the new feature film format will be backed by a $75,000 promotion campaign running from Sunday (26) through the month of October. In addition, the station will stage a "Sneak Preview Week," beginning Sunday, exposing samples of the new programming for viewers.

In its Monday - thru - Friday schedule, these are the following new feature film programs: "Love Story," 10 to 11:30 a.m., which will draw from the "MDM" backlog and the RKO library, featuring a different film each week; "Comedy Theatre," 12 to 1 p.m., headlining one-hour first-run RKO comedies including the "Mexican Spitfire" series, with Lupe Velez and Leon Errol and the Bert Wheeler-Robert Woolsey comedies.

"Mid-Day Movie" will follow from 1 to 2 p.m., featuring a dif-

(Continued on page 40)

Continental Baking's 'Oakley' to WABC-TV In Shift From WCBS-TV

National spot biz drive which saw ABC-TV New York flagship WABC-TV grab off the Kellogg-sponsored "Superman" and "Wild Bill Hickock" stanzas in the Gotham market a couple of months ago now sees another national bankroller turning over its shows to the station. Continental Baking is moving "Annie Oakley" from WCBS-TV on Sept. 7 and placing it into WABC-TV's post-"Mickey Mouse Club" 6 to 6:30 strip on Fridays.

Station meanwhile is realigning that 6 p.m. strip. With "Superman" and "Hickock" in on Tuesdays and Thursdays and "Oakley" going into Friday, the station is moving its Nabisco-sponsored "Sky King" into the Wednesday slot. Gene Autry kidpix continues on Mondays, filling out the kidventure strip.

WMBV-TV BUYS RKO PIX

Marinette, Aug. 21.

WMBV-TV, the NBC outlet here recently acquired by Guild Films, has made a deal with C & C Television for the entire library of 740 RKO feature films.

More TV Film News On Page 36

Collapse of CBS-Metro Dickers Cues Loew's-Teleradio Speculation

With the collapse of Metro negotiations with CBS-TV for the licensing of the Metro library on CBS-TV o&o stations, preliminary talks between Loew's and RKO Teleradio take on a new significance.

Metro is seeking a New York outlet and RKO Teleradio's New York flagship WOR-TV leans heavily on feature film programming. Additionally, RKO Teleradio has not ruled out a possible Loew's stock interest in RKO Teleradio stations in a deal with Metro, providing other considerations are acceptable to RKO Teleradio.

Metro's talks with CBS-TV collapsed in the wake of the Loew's deal with indie KTTV, Los Angeles. The KTTV stock plus cash deal killed the possibility of CBS-TV's o&o Los Angeles outlet latching on to the library. Talks this week were confined to the remaining three o&o stations, WCBS, N. Y., WBBM-TV, Chicago; and WXIX, Milwaukee, but the two parties found themselves far apart on the money issue. Prior to the KTTV deal, negotiations were based on a $13,000,000 figure for a 10-year licensing arrangement for the entire Metro library of over 700 films.

In reference to a New York outlet, Metro also has held talks with indie WATV on a possible stock, plus cash deal.

Dick Moore's Formula

Meanwhile, KTTV, has a multiplicity of plans in wake of its two-way deal for the Metro feature film library, the first station to ink with Loew's.

Top quality Metro pix will be programmed in Class A time, one picture per week for that particular slot.

A hike in overall station rates will be put into effect in view of the expected boosted station audience and the cost of the library to KTTV.

These and other plans were discussed by Richard A. Moore, KTTV president, prior to his return

(Continued on page 33)

Gee, Boss, a Berlitz

If anyone doubts the significance of the foreign television field in film syndication, he ought to talk to Les Harris, v.p.-general manager of CBS Television Film Sales. Harris, who makes several business trips abroad each year, claims foreign business now takes up about 40% of his office hours.

But to prove he's serious, Harris is now spending three of his lunch hours a week at the Berlitz School, taking French lessons.

Father Payton's Espanol Vidpix Based on Rosary

Madrid, Aug. 14.

Some of Spain's major sound stages have been converted for the past four months into a veritable holy land, where Father Patrick Payton and his executive assistant, Father Jerome Lawyer, are producing 15 half-hour telepix depicting the 15 mysteries of the Rosary.

Director Joe Breen Jr., says that he expects to wind up shooting on Sept. 15, that there will be seven-and-a-half hours of actual footage, and that any five of the shorts can be made into a feature length film. The series is being filmed in Eastmancolor.

Breen shot some of his exteriors in nearby Alcala, and a few in the southwest of Spain.

Most of the actors he has chosen are Latin, as he contends that Anglo-Saxon faces don't lend themselves as well to the background of these Biblical stories. Leading roles are played by some of the tops of the Spanish and Portuguese screen. Some of them, such as Antonio Vilar and Maruchi Fresnow, are already known to American audiences.

Cameraman is veteran Edward B. Dupar, who filmed "The Jazz Singer" and more recently "Johnny Belinda." Producer Father Payton, who coined the slogan "The family that prays together stays together," has found this one of his most happiest ventures. The Spanish government has made everything as easy as possible, and director Breen says that he would gladly film in Spain again. This has been Breen's first directorial assignment.

KELLY TO FILM VIDOPERAS IN CHI

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Lawrence V. Kelly, ousted as managing director of the Lyric Theatre when the opera company was tossed into receivership last spring, has organized a production firm to produce a series of half-hour operatic films for television. He's the exec director of the new company tagged Operatic Productions Inc.

Pilot reel being shot this week on the Civic Opera House stage will be the third act from "La Boheme" with Eva Likova singing the Mimi role. Orch recruited from the Chicago Symphony will be conducted by Nicola Rescigno, former Lyric musical director who left with Kelly when Carol Fox emerged as victor in a frontoffice fight for control for the fledgling opera company.

KOZLENKO'S POST

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

William Kozlenko has been named assistant to the exec producer and story consultant for Revue Productions' top three anthology dramatic series.

These are GE Theatre, Studio 57 and Schlitz Playhouse of Stars.

Steve Krantz Exits WRCA-TV for SG

Steve Krantz is exiting his post as program director of WRCA-TV, the NBC flagship in New York, to join Screen Gems in a creative-executive slot in the new program development operation at the Columbia Pictures subsid. Resignation is effective Aug. 31.

Krantz has been program chief of the station for the past couple of years, having moved up to replace his old boss, Dick Pack, when the latter moved to Westinghouse Broadcasting. Krantz joined WRCA-TV five and a half years ago as a writer-producer-director, moving from WNEW, N. Y., where he was director of continuity.

LAWRENCE, KEEVER UPPED BY CAL NAT

Reorganization of the old NBC Film Division, and Kagran Corp. into the California National Productions operation at NBC continued this week with the promotion of two key execs of the old Film Division. William L. Lawrence, manager of programs and production, moves into the new post of director of the eastern unit of the program development department, while sales manager H. Weller (Jake) Keever becomes director of sales.

Lawrence is currently on a trip to the Coast in his new capacity, lining up a producer, director and scripts for the new "Citizen Soldier" series to be filmed by CalNat in Germany in November. Lawrence signed George (Dink) Templeton, vet pic producer, as producer-director of the series this week.

STRIP FOR ACTION ...with TV's

★ Consistently out-rates competitors

★ Each show a full hour...loaded

GENE A

nost profitable hour strip!

*-man or mouse!

ith spot advertisers daily!

TRY

★ 50% adults every time— a daytime bonanza!

★ National spot advertisers galore—all ridin' high with the "Best from the West"... Alka Seltzer, Montgomery Ward, Arrid, National Dairies, Chef Boy-ar-dee, Poll Parrot Shoes, Reddi-Wip, Prince Macaroni, Hostess Cup Cakes, Top Value Stamps, and others (more on next page).

Who's afraid of the big, bad Mouse? June ARB's tell an amazing story. Please ask us for it.

STATIONS! Buy this series along with MCA TV's Western Features starring Roy Rogers (next page) for a rootin'-tootin'-shootin' package of 123 first-run, year-round spot carriers.

56

hour-long features

made by Republic Pictures Corporation and available to local advertisers and stations from

MCA TV

AMERICA'S NO. 1 DISTRIBUTOR OF TELEVISION FILM PROGRAMS

Film Syndication

STRIP FOR ACTION ... with TV's

★ Consistently out-rates competitors

★ Each show a full hour ... loaded

ROY RO

nost profitable hour strip!

*-man or mouse!

ith spot advertisers daily!

ERS

· 50% adults every time—
a daytime bonanza!

★ National spot advertisers galore—all ridin' high with the "Best from the West"... Wonder Bread, Nabisco, My-T-Fine, Baker's Chocolate, Bosco, Toni, Revlon, Beeman's Gum, Robert Hall Clothes, Snow-Crop (more on previous page).

* Who's afraid of the big, bad Mouse? June ARB's tell an amazing story. Please ask us for it.

STATIONS! Buy this series along with MCA TV's Western Features starring Gene Autry for a big total of 123 first-run, year-round spot carriers.

67

hour-long features

made by Republic Pictures Corporation and available to local advertisers and stations from

MCA TV

AMERICA'S NO. 1 DISTRIBUTOR OF TELEVISION FILM PROGRAMS

ABC Film, Ziv, MCA-TV New Biz Reflects Upswing in Syndication

Reflecting the upswing in syndication business are the reports and activities of ABC Film Syndication, Ziv and MCA-TV.

Gross sales of ABC Film Syndication properties in June and July of this year were 95.0% higher than in the two comparable months in 1955, with an increase of only 38% more hours of programming. ABC's sales increase reflects the heavy volume of business on its new series "Code 3," and icreased sales of other properties. The Miller Brewing Co., the latest to ink for "Code 3," bought the skein in six Wisconsin markets, bringing the total markets sold to over 80.

MCA-TV's syndication division, is an expansion move cued to sales upswing, has named Ray Wild to the newly-created post of field sales manager. Wild moves up from his position as v.p. in charge of the southern division. At the same time, Wynn Nathan, v.p. in charge of sales, previously headquartered on the West Coast, plans to spend more time at the N. Y. office.

Both MCA moves are aimed at establishing a closer liaison with the sales force in the field in view of increased business activity, highlighted by the popular selling "Rosemary Clooney Show."

Ziv's newest syndicated show, "Dr. Christian," has now been sold in 138 cities in itis fifth week of sales activity, as several food and beverage advertisers joined the growing list. The heightened importance of "trading stamp" activity in the retail field was highlighted by the purchase by Top Value Trading Stamps of "Dr. Christian" in three markets through co-sponsorship deals, Houston, Detroit and St. Louis.

'See It' Sooner

Most of the stations throughout the country will have an opportunity to jump the gun on the first CBS-TV "See It Now" show of the season. "See It" opener will be the filmed version of Danny Kaye's 40,000-mile tour in behalf of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), while Ed Murrow and Fred Friendly will edit down to one or two full-length shows starting in early October.

But meanwhile, Association Films has made available to stations on a nominal rental basis ($5 per station) the 20-minute Technicolor film, "Assignment Children," which deals with the same tour. The 20-minute version was produced for the UN and the motion picture industry. Availability date on that is Sept. 15.

WCBS-TV

Continued from page 31

rating, ranging from a Monday low of 3.8 to a Saturday high of 11.2. That 6.5 average is higher than much of the daytime network programming and higher than much prime nighttime levels of some of the indie stations in town.

Also unusual in the scllout is the timing, in that it was achieved last week, well over a month before the fall season gets underway. Generally, the WCBS-TV business begins to hop later in the summer or even into the fall. One key factor is the station's lineup of first-time-on-tv features, including a 152-picture, cream-of-the-crop package out of the Warner Bros. library and the 104 Columbia pictures, as well as smaller packages from various sources.

As to the gross billings info, the station won't talk money, but a glance at the rate card tells the story. The "Late Late" rate for the seven-day weekly sponsorship runs from $1,500 a week discounted to $1,200, accounting for about $6,500 a week. "Late Show" contains 70 participations, scaled at from $1,000 each down to $680, for an average sell-out gross of about $60,000 a week. "Early Show" has the same rates but has only 40 participations, for an approximate $35,000 a week and the 10 participations on "Sunday Afternoon," scaled at $675 down to $540, bring in about $6,000 a week. Total runs to well over $105,000 weekly, or, if the SRO situation holds over 52 weeks, to $5,460,000 for the year.

Bray's Army Citation

John Randolph Bray, prez of Bray Studios, N. Y., has been presented with a certificate of appreciation from Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker, in recognition of Bray's pioncering training film efforts.

The citation said, in part, "in the four decades that have passed since Mr. Bray conceived and produced the first motion pictures used by the U. S. Army for instruction of troops, the training film has increased steadily in importance. . . ."

The presentation ceremony took place at the Army Pictorial Center, Long Island City, where an average of 40 training films are produced monthly.

TEXACO STAR THEATRE
SATURDAY NIGHT—N.B.C.
Mgt.: William Morris Agency

Kermit Kahn to NTA

Kermit Kahn has joined National Telefilm Associates as advertising manager. In addition to being responsible for all phases of the companies' advertising, he will act as liaison between NTA and Moss Associates, the agency handling the NTA account.

Kahn formerly was with Lennen & Newell.

Famous Sheriffs As Telepix Series

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Republic's Studio City Television Productions has purchased an original tv series, "Famous Sheriffs and Fabulous Outlaws," scripted by Martin Van Laas. Filming may be done later this year.

Alex Gerry and Joel Ashley have been inked for supporting roles in the "Frontier Doctor" episode "Iron Train Ambush," the fifth in the current series of 26.

New York Police Cases as Vidfilm Entry for Guild

Guild Films, in the midst of closing its deal with the Matty Fox group for seven telefilm series, has cleared the way for a new series based on top New York police cases.

Conrad H. Rothengast, former chief inspector of the N. Y. police, has inked a pact with Guild, making his personal records and private files available for the projected skein, to be done in color. Ed Ruby and Jack Reiger, veteran tv producers, who were instrumental in effecting the pact, will assist in the production.

Rothengast's span of service envelopes the Dutch Schultz case, the Lindberg kidnapping, the Readers' Digest murder and other major cases. Among the stories now contemplated are the suicide leap of Anna Kasenkina from the Soviet Consulate and the wounding of a N. Y. priest in his confessional. A good deal of the shooting is slated to be done in New York, but cameras will go elsewhere in the country, too, when the story calls for such location shooting.

This is the second Guild series slated for color telecasting, the other being the current production of Jack London's "Captain David Grief."

In the projected stock deal with the Matty Fox group, substantial agreement has been reached with all parties. Contracts have been drawn and now are being studied for final approval.

Under the deal, the Matty Fox group would receive 500,000 shares of newly-issued Guild stock for seven telefilm series, estimated by Guild officials to be worth about $3,000,000. Additionally, the Fox group would receive 225,000 in stock options, exercisable at prices above the current market value of Guild stock, ranging from $3.5 to $4 per share on the American Stock Exchange.

The vidpix in the deal are: "Sherlock Holmes," "Janet Dean," "Paris Precinct," and the quarter-hour "Junior Science" pix, as well as another 15-minute batch, "Col. Tim McCoy," and "Duffy's Tavern" and "Flash Gordon." Their distribution was left up in the air when UM&M was bought out by National Telefilm Associates. UM&M had previously gained distribution rights to the film from Fox's Motion Pictures for Television.

AAP's Iron Curtain Vidpix Bid

Katz Seeks 'Ground Floor' Status as He Leaves On Globe-Circling Sales Tour

For the first time a concentrated attempt to open up the Iron Curtain countries as a market for American telefilms and feature films for tv, will be made, with the departure of Norman Katz, Associated Artists Productions' foreign sales manager. Katz left here by plane yesterday (21) on a world-girdling two months trip which will take him to Prague, and possibly Warsaw and Moscow.

Katz, who has had some preliminary discussions with a Czech delegation in New York, says he wants to see AAP getting in on the ground floor when the Iron Curtain is lifted for film trade. AAP, which has the foreign tv rights to the Warner Bros. feature library, finds that the U. S. State Department has no objections to such trade. Further the Motion Picture Export Association, consisting of all the major motion picture companies, has now acted to reopen trade negotiations with the Red orbit.

Katz, prior to his departure, said that his trip to Warsaw and Moscow will be cleared in Prague. In addition to the WB feature library, he will hold talks on the WB shorts, Popeyes, AAP's telefilms and other AAP feature properties. AAP holds the foreign theatrical rights to all of its features, with the exception of the WB library, the latter being held by Warners.

In addition to his stops in the Red orbit, Katz will visit other European countries, Australia and the Far East. AAP product now is playing in 12 forcign countries on tv and theatrically, in many more.

Freemantle Wraps Up Flock of O'Seas Sales

Sale of U. S. tv films in eight overseas markets was reported by Freemantle Overseas Radio & TV.

Deals were concluded in Australia, where "Jungle" was purchased by the Australian Broadcasting Commission and "The Big Fights" by ATN, Sydney. These sales, added to those made over the past few months by FORTV, will give the firm a total of nine regular weekly shows when Australian tv service begins this fall.

Associated Rediffusion purchased the "Big Fights" for British tv and the "Encyclopaedia Britannica" was sold to Nordund Westdeutscher Rundfunkverb for use on German tv. Also RCA purchased "Hopalong Cassidy" with Portuguese sub-titles for broadcast over the new Radio Televisao Portugesa in Lisbon.

Other sales of Encyclopedia Britannica Films were made to Telcvision Belge, Brussels; YSEB-TV, San Salvador; and in Guatemala and Baghdad.

CBS-Metro

Continued from page 31

to the Coast. Commenting on the two-way deal, Moore said that "we're in the picture business, presenting pictures on the screen, and I could think of no better partnership than with Metro, the number one source of creative talent."

Under the deal, KTTV will pay $4,000,000 for the seven-year licensing of the Metro library of 725 features. Metro, in a separate but apparently related deal, will pay $1,625,000 for a 25% stock interest in indie KTTV, the deal subject to the approval of the FCC.

Despite the influx of the Metro library, KTTV plans no huge boost in feature film programming. Moore says plans are to boost feature film programming from 12% of the station's total programming to not more than 20%, after telecasting of the Metro library kicks off in October. The other 80% of programming will be devoted to syndicated telefilm series and "live" shows, which will continue to occupy about 30% of the station's programming.

The Metro product, as outlined by Moore, will replace older feature film product and "holes" in the line-up created by what he called the "scarcity of new half-hour series." Once this scarcity is relieved by new telefilms, Moore said he felt the Metro product will build "tremendous adjacencies" for such skeins.

KTTV has by no means negated telefilms as programming. Moore pointed to the current American Research Bureau ratings which listed KTTV telecasting nine of the top ten series in the L. A. market.

The Los Angeles Times and Mirror station plans a big promotional drive to introduce the Metro library, accenting newspapers, Leo the Lion trailers, and placards of all sizes. In addition to the Class A programmer for the top Metro product, there will be other Metro slots in the programming lineup, but their format has not been decided upon as yet. Moore said the percentage of the contemplated rate hike has not been decided upon as yet.

The station has no plans to telecast any of the Metro features at this time in color. Under the deal, KTTV will be charged extra for any color prints, the extra price left for future negotiations. KTTV will continue its negotiations for the Metro short library at a future date.

Lew Ayres' Ford Seg

Lew Ayres, who has recently completed a nationwide tour on behalf of his religioso "Altars of the East," has been signed by Screen Gems to star in "Measure of Faith" for Ford Theatre, which will be telecast this fall on ABC-TV.

FILMWAYS' 2-COAST SETUP ON TV COM'LS

Filmways Inc., N. Y. commercial production outfit which has been in an expansion of late, this week set up a Hollywood Division and becomes one of the very few firms in the field with studios and offices on both Coasts. Stanley Frazen, supervising editor on all shows produced by McCadden Productions and also director of the commercials department at McCadden, has exited the Burns & Allen production outfit to join Filmways as v.p. in charge of the new office.

McCadden and Filmways had had an earlier reciprocal arrangement under which Filmways serviced McCadden clients in N. Y. and McCadden dittoed for Filmways on the Coast, but that ran out several months ago. Since then, Filmways has been working on its own Coast operation. Frazen has taken studio and office space at General Service Studios and has begun work on the setup there.

CISCO KID 31.9* CINCINNATI

In 3-station Cincinnati, ZIV's CISCO KID outpulls the preceding show (Super Circus) by 10.9 rating points: wallops the following show (Liberace which rates 11.2) and more than doubles the combined ratings of its direct competition.
*(ARB, Apr. '56)

Write, phone or wire for full facts on this fabulous audience producer!

ZIV TELEVISION

CINCINNATI, CHICAGO, NEW YORK, HOLLYWOOD

WHTN-TV
CHANNEL 13
IT'S A SELLER'S MARKET, but we can give you the BIGGEST BUY yet!

TIME: Now, while we're still new . . . with rates set to offer low cost per impression . . . choice availabilities are still open.

PLACE: Huntington — Ashland — Charleston and Portsmouth Markets. The rich, prosperous, tri-state area of more than 1,250,000 population conservatively measured from mail responses.

SCENE: WHTN-TV with the largest transmitting antenna in the world . . . 316,000 watts of power for maximum effective coverage . . . a built-in audience of more than 200,000 sets . . . popular basic ABC network programs, outstanding local live shows and top-notch films.

ACTION: Get on our "bandwagon" and g-r-o-w with us! After only one month of maximum power, Channel 13 showed 36.8% audience increase over the first audience report.

CALL US: Huntington, West Virginia, JAckson 5-7661, or our representatives: Edward Petry & Co., Inc.

TV's Basic ABC CHANNEL 13

'T-H-T' Gets Flock Of New Spenders

Elasticity of the NBC-TV "Today-Home-Tonight" (THT) sales setup has induced a record number of advertisers to try network television for the first time. In the first six months of the year, 39 sponsors never before on network video dished out some $4,938,000 in their videbuts on the three shows, in amounts ranging from $1,042,329 for Sperry & Hutchinson (Green Stamps) to only $6,166 for Teweless Seed Co.

List of top new spenders on the three shows is headed by Sperry & Hutchinson, with Harold Ritchie Co. (Eno) next with $588,554, followed by BC Remedy, $439,551; Edison Electrical Institute, $329,914; American Meat Institute, $280,986; Carrier Corp., $197,601; Insurance Co. of North America, $169,249; Mrs. Tucker's Shortening, $167,480; Shaler Co., $156,637; Donahue Sales, $118,869; Pellon, $107,104; and Barcale, $100,968.

Other network newcomers were Aladdin Industries, Allen Industries, American Thermos, Asco Electronics, Canvas Awning, Cooper's, Damar Products, Diamond Alkali, Douglas Fir Plywood, Drackett Co., Frito Co., Kentile, Kelling Nut Co., Knapp Monarch, Maico Hearing Aid, Niagara Mfg. & Distributing Co., Paillard Products, Patterson-Sargent, Plastone Co., Quality Courts, Reader's Digest, Rustcraft, Ruud Mfg., Simplicity Patterns, Squirt, Swingline and Teweless Seed.

310 TV'ers in NARTB

Washington, Aug. 21.

NARTB had added 19 tv members to its roster and 123 radio stations during the last four months, the organization reported last week.

The additions bring to 310 the number of tv stations in the NARTB fold, which is nearly 70% of the approximately 460 commercial video outlets on the air.

SUNDAY SAM REPORTS

Foreign Radio-TV Experts Now Have 'Greater Respect' for U.S.

Boston, Aug. 21.

Speaking for 17 foreign radio and tv experts, who finished a six-month study of radio and tv in the U.S. under auspices of the State Department, Sunday Sam Young-Harry of Nigeria, said the experiment was a success in international group understanding and "we have a much greater respect for this country now."

Sunday Sam spoke at exercises at Boston at which diplomas were presented to the group from Jordan, Iceland, Belgium, Korea, Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Germany, Colombia, Guatamala, Nigeria and Afghanistan.

They studied at B. U., at the school of Public Relations and Communications, interned at radio and tv stations throughout the country and then took a month-long tour of the U.S. on their own.

Y & R's Bowling Tourney For General Cigar Co.

A national handicap bowling tournament is being launched by Young & Rubicam on behalf of its client, General Cigar Co., sponsors of the National Bowling Championship telecasts on NBC-TV Sunday nights.

The trournament, to be held in cooperation with the American Red Cross from Sept. 14 to Oct. 14, will be open to all bowlers in the U.S. for a fee of 50c per individual. All proceeds will go to the Red Cross. Participants will be given a handicap against the championship bowlers, Bill Lillard and Anita Cantaline, both of whom appear in the telecasts. The top 10 winners will be offered a 10-day trip to Mexico, good for two.

Houston—Fred Nahas has been appointed prez of the Shamrock Broadcasting Co., owners of KXYZ here, according to Glenn McCarthy, chairman of the board. Nahas came to KXYZ in 1948 as a veepee and general manager.

'Mickey Mouse Club' Clients' Belated Return

ABC-TV continues to recapture some of the "Mickey Mouse Club" clients it lost at the end of the season, latest being Minnesota Mining & Mfg., which had let its sponsorship lapse in June but this week changed its mind and signed for alternate-week sponsorship of one quarter-hour. Network is pairing MM&M with Miles Labs, another last-season client who dropped but then returned for an alternate-week ride. Deal puts the show back up at about the two-thirds-sold mark.

MM&M buy made through BBD&O.

Knomark's 125G 'Magic Box' Buy

Knomark Mfg. Co. (Esquire Boot Polish) has made its first major spectacular stake, a one-shot buy of "The Magic Box," the Robert Donat-Sir Laurence Olivier starrer about the growth of the British motion picture business. Knomark will sponsor the film on Sunday, Sept. 9, in the 8 to 9 period, preempting Steve Allen for that week.

Picture was bought for network showcasing by NBC from National Telefilm Associates about a year ago and bore a pricetag of $75,000. With an hour's time, total cost to Knomark comes to over $125,000. Film was set last week as a "standby" entry for "Kraft Theatre" if the Wednesday night (15) Democratic Convention session opened late, but the Dems, concerned with their civil rights plank, opened their session promptly at 9 and so the film was passed over, with NBC thus having to try selling it again. This they did, via the Emil Mogul agency.

Albany—Jim Baker, former promotion director for WTRY in Troy, is now associated with Radio Advertising Bureau in New York.

McConnaughey Confident Shift From V to U Can Be Achieved

White S'phur Springs, Aug. 21.

FCC Chairman George C. McConnaughey expressed optimism here last week that the Commission's proposal for an ultimate shift of all or substantially all tv to UHF can be achieved.

The agency topper, in an address to the West Virginia Broadcasters Assn., said he found it hard to believe, in this age of scientific marvels, that tv engineers will not be able to overcome the obstacles which have impeded progress in the use of the UHF band.

But McConnaughey gave assurance that the Commission proposes "no quixotic or overnight change." Even if the technical hurdles can be met, he asserted, the economic impact on broadcasters and the public must be considered and a transition period provided.

"I want to emphasize," he said, "That there is no thought of precipitous action which at a single thrust would obsolete VHF receiving or transmitting equipment in which the public and the broadcasters have made tremendous investments. But every receiver has a limited life span, and depreciation at permissible rates can meet the financial problems of VHF broadcasters who may at some future date be required to replace their present facilities with UHF equipment."

To implement the all-UHF proposal, Chairman McConnaughey revealed that he recently conferred with Dr. W. R. G. Baker, president of the Radio-Electronics-Television Manufacturers Assn., to formulate plans for organizing the projected research and development program which he advocated before the NARTB convention last spring in Chicago.

One approach to the program, he said, would be a nonprofit corporation which could accept grants from universities, foundations, and other interested organizations which desire to contribute money, facilities or personnel. Such an approach, he said, would be so inclusive that no one desiring to participate would be excluded.

On the basis of encouraging support from many industrial leaders whom he has consulted, McConnaughey said he plans to lay the proposal before a larger group soon after Labor Day. "It is my earnest hope," he added, "that at that meeting an agreement can be reached and that immediately thereafter steps will be taken to organize the research and development program and launch it.

"The basic goal," he said, "commends itself to the active support of every farsighted member of this industry. The stakes are large. The difficulties are thorny. But the goal offers the best hope on the horizon for facilitating the expansion of this nation's tv service to the levels where ingenuity, spurred by active competition, can carry it."

McConnaughey said the Commission does not entertain "any realistic hopes" that UHF can be made as good as VHF. "Our proposal," he explained, "does not rest on the hope that the two can necessarily be equated. We believe, on the other hand, that UHF tv transmission and reception have not reached their highest potentials. To put it simply, the question which we have raised is whether UHF transmission and reception can be sufficiently improved so that 70 UHF channels can be utilized in order to attain the goal of a nationwide competitive tv service to the public. Twelve VHF channels will not attain that goal."

Albany—Roger Bower, program director of WROW for a year, former radio and television director-producer for WOR and Mutual and first president of the American Guild of Radio Announcers and Producers, resigned Friday (17) to become general manager of WKIK in Raleigh, N. C.

For the first time, the audience gets a peek at a station's new schedule before it's officially launched.
Gives them that good feeling of being insiders, as well as making their mouths water for the new all-week-long programming of New York's favorite movie station.

Something to make an advertiser's mouth water, too: the proven value, in both ratings and sales, of top feature film on WOR-TV... now available in shows of all sizes,
for all ages, every day of the week.
Tune in, call in, and we'll prove it...

WOR-TV

channel 9 first with the finest films

NEW CARTOON CHAM

Build up your whole schedule . . . program the winner and all-time favorite. He's loaded with 234 cartoons that will wallop your ratings sky-high! And 114 of them are in COLOR, at no extra charge. Get that big boost in business—grab POPEYE. He's packed with pulling power and selling power.

POPE

BULLETIN! from WPIX,

POPEYE SOLD
LAUNCHING!...T
SCOOP-UP 20
PARTICIPAT
A MONTH-AND STARTING

Sales will go like

* MARS BARS, BOSCO, JUNKET, FRITOS, REMCO TOYS,

For details and prices in your market, call today.

a.a.p.

ASSOCIATED ARTISTS PRODUCTIONS, INC.

P OF THE CHANNELS!

YE

N. Y.

OUT BEFORE
)P* SPONSORS
MON. thru FRI.
)NS
A-HALF BEFORE
DATE!

wildfire on your Station, too!

SEVEN-UP, SCHWINN BICYCLES,
AMERICAN CHARACTER DOLLS, MILES LABORATORIES

5 MADISON AVE., NEW YORK, N. Y. MUrray Hill 6-2323

From the Production Centres

Continued from page 22

soloing on three instruments at the gathering of the GOP's in Frisco. For the northerners he plays the guitar, the southern delegates he serenades on the banjo and for Hawaiians there was the uke . . . There'll always be a Linkletter. In a closed circuit telecast for his sponsor, Pillsbury, to food editors around the country, Lois, the missus, and their three daughters, Dawn, Sharon and Diane, tended to the new mixes. Son Jack has already been launched on a tv career. . . . NBC's Bill Lawrence out from N.Y. to organize his production crew for "Citizen Soldier" series to be filmed in Germany . . . NBC called the press together to hear from Barry Wood, director of special events, the season's schedule for "Wide Wide World." To have his little joke, Erle Stanley Gardner is imprinting his CBS "Perry Mason" series with Paisano Productions and carrying the figure of a Mexican road runner. Just his way of getting recognition for his Paisano Ranch . . . Agent Frank Cooper landed a comedy spot for his new team, Gene Wesson and Gordon Polk, on the upcoming Ethel Merman musical to help along NBC's grooming of the comics. Writers are now at work developing a half-hour show for their clowning.

IN PHILADELPHIA . . .

WRCV-TV held special trade preview of "Midnight Jazz Festival" which preems Oct. 6. "Festival" features Henry "Hot Lips" Levine heading a trio, including Coatesville Harris and Al Leopold . . . Bosh Pritchard hosts "Eagles Nest," on WPFH, debuting next month (Sept. 25) . . . Ed Leigh, WSBA (York, Pa.) announcer, ankles to Hillside, N.J. to teach . . . Hy Lit, WHAT deejay, guest at opening of teenage shop in Wanamakers (15) . . . Tommy Roberts, freelance broadcaster, has added a disk session WCAM, (Camden) to his other chores . . . Phil Sheridan emcees "Triangle Theatre," daily three half-hour sessions of former network films . . . Ed Murray, WRCV-TV film buyer, chalks up six years with station (21) . . . Bob Ridley, vocalist at the Troc, (local burly house) replaces vacationing Marvin Burak on WPEN . . . Sam Serota, WIP special events director, is commentator on WIP's new stanza, "Book Parade" . . . Alan Scott's "roving camera," on WRCV-TV, cited by the Chamber of Commerce for "providing vital service in promoting the city."

IN BOSTON . . .

"Big Brother" Bob Emery, WBZ-TV personality, raised $26,186.32 in his birthday promosh for the Jimmy Fund . . . Henry J. McMahon, director retail sales, Yankee Network, welcomed a son, Henry Jr., this week . . . Duncan MacDonald, "Yankee Home and Food Show," back from Nassau where she taped food and fashion interviews for WNAC radio . . . Gus Saunders taking over the Louise Morgan show on WNAC-TV while latter vacations in Nantucket . . . Marie Morash, radio traffic, WNAC-TV, feted by staff at dinner party and baby shower . . . John Scott back from New York and disk jocking at WCOP . . . WJDA, Quincy, sent Jim Asher, station mgr., and Ken Fallon, announcer, to the Demo convention in Chicago. Asher continues on to San Francisco for the Repub doings . . . Rod MacLeish, WBZ news chief, covering the conventions for WBZ and other stations in the Westinghouse chain . . . Singer Jean Martin in this week for disk jock visits . . . Bill Buchanan, WVDA disk jock, played an hour of Eddie Duchin music on his Saturday night program.

IN SAN FRANCISCO . . .

Walt Conway has quit as general manager of S. H. Patterson's radio station, KSAN, for a similar post at the new 10,000-watt KPOO, Oakland. Conway helped build KSAN into a "race" station, reportedly is planning to bring some of Frisco indie's talent across the Bay when KPOO opens, which should be soon. Oakland station, incidentally, is expected to change call letters to KBEY . . . Dick Godfrey, Arthur's son, was promoted to station coordinator at KCBS, will work with newly-signed Don Klein on Stanford football, basketball and possibly baseball games in upcoming season. KCBS is pushing sports, contracted to handle all Stanford events and is also slotting Godfrey for a daily, five-minute evening sports show . . . Frisco's Barnaby Conrad (who wrote "Matador") is writing and will produce and narrate a 30-minute film on the late bullfighter, Manolete, for "Omnibus" this fall . . . Pat Sweet, ex-KSFO gal, has joined the Gil Coleman flackery . . . New salesmen at KCBS are Ed Dunbar, ex-NBC, and Clifford Trotter, ex-KJBS, ex-KSFO, ex-KWBR.

IN MINNEAPOLIS

With Hilex as sponsor, WCCO Radio to air Philadelphia Eagles-Pittsburgh pro football game here Sept. 15 . . . KEYD-TV had as subject of public service program Minneapolis Citizens League's efforts to improve local government efficiency. League members answered a panel's questions at the spontaneous news conference . .. WTCN-TV announcer Stuart Lindman on fortnight Texas jaunt . . . Using voting machines, WCCO Radio to conduct political straw vote on presidential race and major state contests at Minnesota State Fair Aug. 25-Sept. 3 . . . KSTP-TV televised the St. Paul district Soap Box Derby . . . American Crystal Sugar inked for a six-week WCCO-TV promotion campaign . . . Steve Cannon, WLOL disk jockey, won a $1,000 bond in a national "Birds and the Bees" movie-soap contest . . . KSTP-TV added opera vocal student Rita Marie to its "Barn Dance" show cast . . . KSTP-TV farm director Cal Karnstedt, member of the Minneapolis Aquatennial summer mardi gras directors board, was chairman of the occasion when 650 Minnesota mayors and their wives were Aquatennial guests. He also served as Geneva Association banquet chairman . . . Rollie Johnson, WCCO-TV sports director, speaking on "Fishing in the God's Lake Country" (Minnesota) shared with Manufacturers Representatives association his fishing films and experiences.

IN SEATTLE . . .

John Morgan has taken over KTVW's late night "Cellar Cafe" and will host "Swing Shift Theatre," replacing Al Brightman, who will develop station's teenage show, "Hi-Jinks," for fall preem Sep. 17 . . . James Middlebrook, director of engineering for Kink Broadcasting Co., Seattle, has been named v.p. and director of engineering for KWG-TV, Portland, in which KING has a majority interest. Walter Wagstaff, general manager of KIDO-TV, Boise, Ida., will be station manager for KGW-TV when it goes on the air next fall . . . KOMO-TV is again presenting candidates for state offices on weekly "Primary Previews" each Saturday, with Mrs. George Prince of League of Women Voters interviewing candidates . . . KTVW has set fall and winter schedule of 35 home hockey games to begin Oct. 10. Bob Field will do play-by-play . . . KING-TV will do live coverage of Gold Cup race in Detroit Sept. 1, with sports director Bill O'Mara heading crew of nine who will go to Michigan city to cover race. ABC network facilities will be used to do the 2,445-mile remote and the KING crew will be assisted by staff and equipment of WXYZ, Detroit.

Inside Stuff—Radio-TV

NARTB has lined up all seven members of the FCC to address its fall regional conferences. Comr. T. A. M. Craven will speak in Minneapolis at the Region 5 conference Sept. 17-18. Chairman George C. McConnaughey will speak in Salt Lake City for the Region 7 meeting Sept. 20-21. Comr. Rosel Hyde will address the Region 8 gathering Sept. 24-25 in San Francisco.

Comr. Robert E. Lee will be the speaker at the Region 6 meeting in Oklahoma City Sept. 27-28. Comr. Richard A. Mack will address the Region 1 conference Oct. 15-16 in Boston. Comr. Robert T. Bartley will speak at the Region 4 meeting Oct. 18-19 in Indianapolis. Comr. John C. Doerfer will address the Region 3 meeting Oct. 25-26 in Birmingham, Ala.

Announcement will be made later as to the speaker for the Region 2 conference in Washington, D.C., Oct. 11-12.

---

Methods of utilizing radio will be discussed at the annual national radio advertising clinic, sponsored by Radio Advertising Bureau, to be held at the Waldorf Astoria, N.Y., Oct. 29-30.

Among the speakers will be James Cobb, advertising manager of American Airlines, Irvin Swartzberg, president of ReaLemon-Puritan Co., and Robert Breckenridge, brand advertising manager of Lever Bros. Pepsodent division.

'Gag Rule' on Comics

Continued from page 22

would be tabu not only because of his office but because he is a candidate."

Johnny Carson did some humorous spoofing of a political convention on his KNXT (CBS) show last week, but it was cleared by the web on grounds it was a general takeoff not offensive or derogatory to anyone. On the other hand, someone recently wanted to put on a CBS show which would crusade for housing but the web chilled this on grounds it would be entering an active political arena.

Explained Bill Tankersley, director of editing for CBS-TV on the Coast: "We avoid political gags when possible, but on the whole use of good judgment is most important in this area. We have no objection to a gag in good taste. But if we had a script dealing with pending legislation or something controversial like the Dixon-Yates matter, we wouldn't allow it. An entertainment program is not the place for controversy.

'Don't Influence Voters'

"A harmless political joke is okay. But we wouldn't allow any gag which might influence voters or offend anyone. I recall we let Red Skelton use a gag about Gov. Adlai Stevenson's hole in his shoe. But as we saw it the gag in no way concerned itself with the Governor's merit, and was harmless," said Tankersley.

Last April 26 CBS sent a memo to its personnel instructing that "special care" be taken to keep political implications out of all programs, and to avoid remarks of a political nature. Memo said a political joke was one of the most potent forms of political propaganda, and warned unless political gags were closely screened beforehand, the web could be charged with bias.

Webs are unanimous in nixing—specifically—joshing of such controversial subjects as Civil Rights, the farm problem, foreign affairs, parity, the platforms or planks of either party—as well as any political candidate by name in any manner which might reflect on his merit.

For example, in 1952, Bob Hope, doing the color commentary at the Democratic conclave, quipped to his NBC-TV audience: " . . . and Harriman is taking smiling lessons." Such barbed wit is out today.

Kaiser's Aloha Gleam

Honolulu, Aug. 21.

Industrialist and resort owner Henry J. Kaiser may invade Hawaii's tv and radio field "in the near future" but plans still are in the talking stage.

Asked whether he planned to set up a new station or buy an existing operation, Kaiser said "that would depend on the price." Hal Lewis, top Honolulu disk jockey, reportedly would be associated with the Kaiser tv-radio project.

Navy's New TV Station To Service Aleutians

Washington, Aug. 21.

Navy Deartment has activated a tv station at Adak, Alaska, to bring entertainment for personnel at a remote station near the western end of the Aleutian Islands chain. Station was established with the understanding that it will cease operation upon notification by the FCC that satisfactory service is available from any privately operated outlet.

The new station is one of about 20 tv outlets operated by the military services in isolated posts in the U. S. and other countries. The Air Force has 14 stations in operation, including outlets in Iceland, Greenland, Eniwetok, Okinawa and Saudi Arabia.

For Lease in H'wood

COMPLETE FILM STUDIO, STAGE SPACE 110x110, for lease in the center of Hollywood. Ideal for producer of TV series or filmed commercials. Available with projection room, 8 excellent offices, reception room, set construction facilities, parking lot, rehearsal, wardrobe and prop rooms, scene dock, overhead light platforms.

THE BEAUMONT CO.
8652 Wilshire, Los Angeles, Calif.
OL 5-7030

EVERY DAY ON EVERY CHANNEL TV
BROOKS COSTUMES
3 West 61st St., N.Y.C. • Tel. PL. 7-5800

ADVERTISERS AIMING FOR A NATIONWIDE MARKET ON THE MOVE ARE

WENDELL D. "PETE" MOORE, Assistant Sales Manager in charge of Advertising and Sales Promotion for Chrysler's Dodge Division, counts on SPOT'S selective selling role:

"WITH GREATER SUBURBAN GROWTH AND INCREASED USE OF CARS FOR COMMUTING, SPOT RADIO IN EARLY MORNING AND LATE AFTERNOON NOW REACHES A GREATER AUDIENCE THAN EVER BEFORE.

"SPOT RADIO IS ESSENTIAL TO ANY BALANCED, OVERALL PROMOTIONAL OR ADVERTISING EFFORT!"

NBC SPOT SALES

WOR-TV

Continued from page 31

ferent film each day, consisting of first-run RKO films plus those from the WOR-TV library. Also utilizing the RKO library will be the new "6 O'Clock Movie" program.

From 7 to 7:30 "Crusader Rabbitt's Terrytoons" will be telecast, with a "live" host planned in the format. From 7:30 to 9 and again from 10 to 11:30 will be "Million Dollar Movie," consisting of all first-run product. Following will be "Hour of Danger" from 9 to 10 p.m. and again at 11:30 to 12:30 a.m. This will feature "The Saint" and "The Falcon" series and other first-run RKO films. Each of the "Danger" films will be aired 10 times a week. The current Gene Autry-Roy Rogers Western one-hour feature program has been moved ahead from 6:30 to 4 p.m., the new time slot considered virtually free from kid programming competition.

On Saturdays, "Riders of the West," from 11 a.m. to noon, will be one of the new programs offered. These, too, will be first-run product culled from the RKO library. From 9 to 1 a.m., following "MDM," "Weird Theatre" will hold sway. The four repeat showings of first-run one-hour horror films, starring Bela Lugosi, Boris Karloff and others, also derive from the RKO library.

There will be a telefilm series interlude on Saturdays from 6 to 7, with "His Honor, Homer Bell," off NBC-TV, followed by RKO Teleradio's "War in the Air."

The Constance Bennett hosted "Theatre of Movie Classics" on Sundays will be aired from 1:30 to 6 p.m. and again from 9 to 10:30 p.m. Some of the top product of the RKO library will be utilized for this programmer.

The opening "MDM" feature for the fall season will be "Top Hat," starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. Other features to be offered, culled from various packages in addition to RKO's, include "Room Service," with the Marx Brothers, "Enchanted Cottage," with Robert Young and Dorothy McGuire. "The Champion" and "Cry the Beloved Country."

---

Seattle — Lincoln Miller has been named v.p. of Queen City Broadcasting Co. Company operates KIRO, BS outlet here, and is also applicant for television channel 7. Miller has been assistant to Queen City president Saul Haas for past four years.

FOR RENT

Most Artistic Modern Home. 15x30 foot Swimming Pool — Flagstone Terrace. Overlooking Delaware River. Five miles this side of New Hope, Pa.

Over $50,000.00 spent in 1953 to make this unusually compact home last word in comfort, charm and inspiration.

Large two story living room, enormous stone fireplace, most modern kitchen-bar, three bedrooms, two new luxurious bathrooms.

Plus a separate apartment on Swimming Pool level, with living room, fireplace, bedroom with another luxurious bathroom and kitchen, with own entrance.

No help required for Perfect Upkeep.

Rent $3000.00 per year on two year lease or will consider lease-sale arrangement.

Immediate Possession.

JAMES SAUTER
Hotel Pierre, New York
TEmpleton 8-8000

I take this occasion to express my gratitude for the continuing confidence placed in me by my customers and friends in show business.

JESSE BLOCK
Registered Representative
IRA HAUPT & CO.
Investment Brokers
501 7th Ave., New York 18, N. Y.
LOngacre 5-6262

wpix-11 is the only New York station advertisers have chosen for every double exposure plan...

the fast-growing new TV concept of program sponsorship.

Double Exposure is gaining in acceptance because it guarantees more mileage for your TV program dollar. Simply schedule your show twice each week—different times and different days for greater spread—audience penetration.

All six* Double Exposure Plans now scheduled for New York include WPIX 11

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Highway Patrol | Ballantine Beer | WPIX-11 and WRCA |
| Science Fiction Theatre | Emerson Drug | WPIX-11 and WRCA |
| Stage 7 | Chef Boy-Ar-Dee | WPIX-11 and WABD |
| Dr. Christian | C. F. Mueller | WPIX-11 and WABC |
| Foreign Legionnaire | Chunky Candy | WPIX-11 and WPIX-11 |
| Rosemary Clooney Show | Clairol | WPIX-11 and WRCA |

we couldn't resist this

it's always WPIX-11

because it is the only New York station that can offer—night after night—prime time periods—surrounded by solid blocs of top syndicated half-hour shows—and deliver a half-hour of time for less money than a single announcement on the two largest network stations in New York.

A new TV opportunity double exposure with

WPIX 11 New York

MU 2-6500

The Daily News Station

Representative: Peters, Griffin, Woodward, Inc.

Madison Ave.'s Cost-Per-Thousand Yardstick Unveils a Political Dud

Last week's Democratic Convention wasn't more than a couple of days before key network and agency execs were talking about 1960 and the changes that will have to be made for then. For the most part a television dud, the conventions themselves, with an eye toward the millions watching in, will have to make an effort toward streamlining the procedures for video; more important, perhaps, is the tendency among the telecasters to talk about some kind of "limited" coverage in '60, perhaps an hour or two a day, catching only the highlights.

Reinforcing the latter observations is the all-important sponsorship picture, with both the webs and the agencies taking a dim view of the sponsor prospects for 1960. On the basis of the early Trendex returns, the ratings for the Democratic conclave kept pace with the '52 ratings and although the cost this year was far higher, there were more stations and more sets carrying the big show, so that the cost-per-thousand yardstick is expected to come out about even.

The sponsors haven't exactly been buying the conventions on the basis of cost-per-thousand, of course, but the impact they had in '52 isn't evident this year. The tremendous word-of-mouth as it regarded television and particularly the sponsors (who knew Betty Furness before '52 among the general public?) gave the '52 bankrollers the kind of public relations that couldn't be built through normal channels in 20 years. This year, however, the viewers have indicated more annoyance than anything else with the dullness of the conventions and coverage, and there isn't much goodwill toward the advertisers in evidence.

Await Nielsen Data

The actual computation of cost-per-thousand-per-commercial minute, which would become the yardstick if the goodwill factor becomes negligible, will have to await the coming of the detailed Nielsen data a couple of weeks hence. The overnight Trendex, covering only the cities where the three webs are in direct competition, gave a combined network average rating for nighttime coverage for all five nights of 29.9, only slightly behind the '52 Trendex five-night computation of 31.4. The Trendex ratings cover average-minute viewership and therefore don't represent total audience or cumulative (total and duplicated) audience. The network-by-network ratings showed CBS with a 12.1 average, NBC with an 11.3 and ABC with a 6.5.

A broader picture of the total audience tuned in at one time or another to the convention was the American Research Bureau survey, which covered via 1,000 telephone calls, viewing up to Thursday night's balloting and which revealed that 93,831,000 persons had watched the convention on one or more of the three networks. That broke down to 32,383,000 families, which comes to about 85% of all television homes. This means that the "total audience" for all three webs combined up to that point—just prior to he balloting for President—was about an 85 rating.

The ARB survey also showed that NBC and CBS were running about even, with a 40-40 split of the audience and with ABC holding down the other 20%. This means that the "total audience" rating up to that point for NBC and CBS individually was about a 34, this covering the day and evening sessions on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and the Thursday afternoon and a bit of the Thursday evening session, a period of at least 20 hours.

More complete information will have to await the Nielsens, but if, as Madison Ave. appears to believe, future conventions will have to be bought on the basis of cost-per-thousand because the intangibles of word-of-mouth and goodwill didn't come through this year, the sponsorship picture for 1960 looks gloomy, to say the least.

Wanted: Format

Continued from page 21

Stanton, rallied to Columbia's support in the wrangle with the Demo chairman.

While the network top brass are united on what they consider a fundamental principle—the right to look for convention news elsewhere than on the speaker's rostrum—they are less closely aligned on how to cope with the fact that the traditional trappings of political presidential rallies are just so much ho-hum fodder on television.

In retrospect, they see now that the two big political shows back in '52 were actually pretty unique in that each party was showcasing a new cast of characters and each had a real battle for the nominee slot. In short, without trying to program a spectacular for tv the Dems and the GOP did produce some exciting and dramatic sequences by merely doing the job they had assembled for—selecting their presidential and vice presidential banner carriers.

But this semester, both here last week and this week at the Republican's meet on the Coast, the situation is reversed. Despite former President Harry S. Truman's attempt to liven up the proceedings with his backing of New York Governor Averell Harriman, it was virtually a no-contest romp for Adlai Stevenson as the Dem's No. 1 choice. And certainly President Dwight D. Eisenhower is a shoin this week at the Cow Palace.

So into this vacuum moves the "producers" seeking to make political hay out of the wholesale visitation from the tele industry.

All this is fine for the voteseekers, but what does it add up to for the nation's setowners, is the question being asked. And how to cope with it under the medium's inherent public-service, news gathering and entertainment responsibilities, is the corollary poser the tv moguls are grappling with.

The thinking hasn't crystallized as yet and probably won't be for months. It runs all the way from the notion that the networks should limit their coverage to only those sessions that actually accomplish something newswise to the idea that the best way to modernize and streamline the nominating procedures is to keep exposing the video audience to these cumbersome longwinded sessions so that the public outcries will force a change of pace.

Perhaps the politicians are wising up faster to the video facts of life than anyone expected. It wasn't the oratory, the never-ending stream of singers and the filmed inserts such as the Dore Schary-produced "Pursuit of Happiness" political documentary that touched off Butler's ire at CBS, or the squib from "The Best Years of Your Life" as an intro to Harold Russell's speech that were the tv-slanted highlights of the Dem's hoopla.

It's generally conceded that the best gambit of the five-days was Stevenson's decision to buck the choice of his veep running mate back to the delegates. Move produced the most dramatic moments of the conclave as it turned the Amphitheatre into one huge "smokefilled room" before Estes Kefauver emerged on top.

And there's no denying it was a political stroke pulled off for the benefits of the tv watchers. It was just the sort of thing both tv and its clientele had been waiting for through four previous days of political showmanship of the old-hat crossroads stump variety.

Demos Welsh

Continued from page 21

working area which the committee, itself, had assigned to the reporters for radio and television.

"While many reporters were at their studios, or otherwise engaged in their legitimate functions of covering the activities of the Democratic convention, their reserved working seats were filled by persons holding no tickets for this area. This was done on the explicit orders of the Democratic Convention Committee without consultation with the radio-television correspondents, and not only violates the committee's agreement, but displays an amazing ignorance of the duties of the correspondents who have been deprived of facilities for properly reporting the convention activities to the American people."

P. S. The broadcasters got back their seats.

Dem Flashbacks

Continued from page 21

ally, reunioned with fellow Philadelphian, Manie Sacks.

* * *

Item for Ripley—a Taft at the Democratic convention! Lloyd Taft, youngest son of the late "Mr. Republican," reported for the family daily, Cincinnati Star-Times, which also owns two radio-tv stations . . . And Sen. Lyndon Johnson's wife Lady Bird is an Austin, Texas, station owner.

* * *

Not satisfied with electronic gadgets, NBC also employed Dolores Mona, a New York teacher of the deaf, to hunt "scoops" by reading lips of delegates and convention leaders . . . And on the CBA Bulletin board, a sign read, "Under no circumstances will you patronize the NBC cafeteria" . . . Latter was "off limits" also to rank and file of NBC staffers.

* * *

Highlight of the turnabout press conference staged by Martha "Press Conference" Rountree (politicos quizzed reporters) at Mme Mesta's party was H. V. Kaltenborn imitating H. S. Truman imitating H. V. Kaltenborn on Election Eve, 1948.

* * *

Add convention "freebies"—cough syrup, with manufacturers' solemn warning that "not only will coughing slow up and aggravate convention business, but it will steal millions of dollars worth of television and radio time."

Frisco Fillip

Continued from page 21

ting, touching all bases Republicans can possibly take credit on—Korea, inflation, farms, highway, John Foster Dulles and general prosperity. Vice-President Nixon gets a big play in the film.

Business in Frisco generally was jumping, with many nightspots reporting heavy influx of Republicans. Hottest spots, of course, were on Nob Hill, the big Fairmont, Mark Hopkins and Huntington Hotels. Small bands played almost continuously in lobbies, tv cameras were everywhere and crowds milled about aimlessly.

Bolger

Continued from page 23

must now go out and sell the other half, unless it's to take the rap itself.

Program had caused the network no end of trouble earlier, having been responsible for setting off the Sunday-Monday-Tuesday program reshuffle that saw NBC breaking up its historic Tuesday 8 to 9 hour (for which the Bolger segment had originally been scheduled), moving the Bob Hope & Dinah Shore shows to Sundays at 8 to 9, and juggling two half-hour shows into the Tuesday time. Apparently perseverance paid off, though, for in spite of the rebuffs, NBC kept trying with the Bolger show until Curtis came through.

Gold Medal

Continued from page 31

director for the special films division under Poll's executive direction. List includes radio-tv writers Irve Tunick, Louis (Deke) Heyward and Nat Wilkes, Max Ehrlich and Sarett Rudley. Production staff includes Burgie Conner as chief cameraman, Valerie Justin as production coordinator, Bill Cecil as art director, Frank Thompson as costume designer and Lora Hayes and Charles Senf as editors.

Special Films Division is already underway on a quarter-hour musical series for the National Guard, the first Government agency to film a series for its recruitment program. Show, which will be distributed free to stations via Robert W. Orr agency, will star Jill Corey, the Dick Hyman Trio and Mundell Lowe. Also in production is a series of films, ranging from one-minute prayer-meditation spots to dramatic shows, for the Protestant Episcopal Churches of America. Upcoming in late fall will be production of a pilot on "The Voice," half-hour series on the adventures of an answering switchboard operator.

Via its affiliation with Gold Medal Studios (headed by A. W. Schwalberg, former prez of Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp., as chairman, and Poll as prez), the production company will push the "keep 'em in the east" theme insofar as both telefilm and theatrical production are concerned. Production company, having tied up key production personnel via their stock interest, will "loan" them to the studio operation on a fee basis, thereby insuring top men in the field. Studio, equipped with four stages, its own commissary and barbershop and all the other trappings, is currently occupied by Elia Kazan for interiors on "A Face in the Crowd."

Gold Medal's Theatrical Division is also in production on "The Big Fun Carnival," series of 15 90-minute variety programs designed for the Saturday matinee trade.

KOVR Eyes More Biz In Sacramento Valley Market, ABC Affiliation

Stockton, Calif., Aug. 21.

KOVR, Stockton channel which had a brief fling at operating in Frisco, apparently is aiming for the smaller, possibly more lucrative Sacramento Valley area.

Further, it'll latch onto an ABC affiliation if present plans to move the station's transmitter are approved by the FCC.

What this will do to ABC's present Sacramento affiliate, KCCC, is unknown at present.

KOVR's new plans were reported by Terry H. Lee, president of the station's operating company, Television Diablo.

First step will be to shift the transmitter from 3,850-foot Mt. Diablo, which is about midway in the 90 miles between Stockton and Frisco, to 2,670-foot Butte Mountain, near Jackson, Calif., which is about 135 miles from Frisco, but only 35 miles from Sacramento and 40 from Stockton.

This switch will take KOVR completely out of Frisco's prime signal area, and automatically eliminate KOVR's strongest competition, the NBC, CBS and ABC outlets in Frisco.

Lee said that once this takes place, KOVR will acquire "the strong ABC programs" to add to its own shows. Strongest local show, probably, is "California Hayride,"

'Happy Scrooge'

Continued from page 23

negotiation on an original cast recording of the show.

Expansion to 90 minutes will mean preemption of "The Loretta Young" show on that date, but Alcoa also hopes to expand the first show into a regular holiday series, with "holiday originals" for every major holiday. "Scrooge" is described as a loose adaptation of the Dickens classic, with Rathbone set to play Scrooge. Project has been in the works about a year, with Spector, a Theatrical Enterprises client, having brought it into the agency and TE setting the deal with Alcoa. Theatrical Enterprises was formed only a few months ago by Dave Savage, former Guild Films exec, and Jack Talan, former MCA agent, and this is its first major package deal.

PHOTOGRAPHER TO THE STARS
1715 Broadway, N. Y. 19
(at 54 St.)
CO 5-3133

HOTEL Algonquin
59 West 44th Street
New York • MU 7-4400
Preferred by people of the Theatre . . .
100% Air Conditioned

Studio A
JAZZ STYLING
VOCAL COACHING
MODERN ARRANGEMENTS
SPECIAL MATERIAL
Ada Moore • Bob Dorough
Jerry Steward
Appointment by card or phone:
CA 6-9307
236 Lafayette St., New York

ON CBS-TV 'BIG TOP' SHOW EVERY SATURDAY
Doug. Anderson
"THE MASKED MAGICIAN"
Catch Him — He Will Amaze You!
8 Surrey Lane, Garden City
Pioneer 7-5761

Furnished 1½ Room
Air-Conditioned Apt.
330 EAST 57 ST.
Modern Elevator Building
Agent Premises or Call Mr. Mark
PEARCE, MAYER & GREER
41 East 42nd St., NYC, MU 2-1400

MEN WOMEN
TELEPHONE SOLICITORS
Selling tickets & ads for veterans affairs. Full or part time. Nassau-Suffolk counties, N.Y., Bergen-Passaic counties, N. J. high commission. IV 1-9377 Seabord Enterprises, Inc., 119 West Columbia St., Hempstead.

RANGERTONE
One new Rangertone synchronous type recorder console for sale. Terms will be given. Write to Box #1027, VARIETY,
154 W. 46th St., New York 36

WANT TO MAKE A MILLION?
If you can move fast enough to grab one of these "Once In a Lifetime Deals" in Southern California broadcasting . . . this jewel will take only $100,000 down and the balance should be paid out of profits as you get your original investment back. Great growth area offers limitless opportunities in the most wonderful place to live in the world. Don't wait to write, telephone or telegraph Art Hogan or Frank Oxarart now, or better still, grab the first plane.
THE ALBERT ZUGSMITH CORPORATION,
6630 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood 28, Calif.
Hollywood 5-6171

10th Int'l Edinburgh Fest

Continued from page 2

rives. A series of concerts is skedded for the 3,000-seat Usher Hall. Soloists with the orch are Isaac Stern, Robert Casadesus and Clifford Curzon. Canada's first contribution to the Edinburgh junket is on the legit side. The Stratford (Ont.) Festival Co. is set for appearances at the Assembly Hall apron-stage theatre during second and third weeks in "Henry V," by Shakespeare, and Sophocles's "Oedipus Rex," the W. B. Yeats version. Tyrone Guthrie has directed "Oedipus Rex" for playing in masks, with settings for this (and for "Henry V") by Tanya Moiseiwitch.

12 Showings of 'Henry V'

Festival audiences will see 12 performances of "Henry V" and only four of "Oedipus Rex." By coincidence, the Canadian entry in the simultaneous Edinburgh International Film Fest (a more vivid cinematic event this August than in previous years), is a film version of the Tyrone Guthrie production of "Oedipus Rex."

Major dramatic interest has centered on the Henry Sherek-H. M. Tennent production of Dylan Thomas's "Under Milk Wood," which has its stage preem at the Lyceum Theatre tonight (Tues.). This is Dylan Thomas's last work, and was first broadcast on the BBC's arty Third Program in January, 1954. It won the Italia Prize in that year.

Italian drama is also, like Canada's, making an Edinburgh Fest bow. The Piccolo Teatro of Milan will present Goldoni's comedy "Arlecchino" for one week, and a play by Pirandello, "Questa Sera si Recita a Soggetta" (Tonight We Improvise).

George Bernard Shaw Tribute

As a George Bernard Shaw tribute in the G. B. S. centenary year, London impresario Henry Sherek is presenting, for the last week of the festival "Fanny's First Play," preceded by "Village Wooing." Casts include leading British thespers Michael Denison, Brenda Bruce and Jacqueline Mackenzie, the last-named a Scot gal who has been making a name.

On the unofficial or "fringe" list of legit events, Donald Wolfit, stalwart English actor, has opened in the Lauriston Hall in "The Strong Are Lonely." This is adopted from the original of Fritz Hochwalder by Eva Le Gallienne, daughter of the poet Richard Le Gallienne.

Play, already presented in New York, Paris and in European cities, was staged at the Piccadilly Theatre, London, last November. Plot concerns a clash between the Jesuits and the King of Spain.

Sonia Dresdel, leading British actress, also pops up on the Fest "fringe." She leads the Fraser Neal Players in the Edinburgh Y.M.C.A. Theatre in three works. First is a version by Max Faber of Strindberg's "Froken Julie" ('Miss Julia'), about a neurotic girl. It is preceded by the Cocteau curtain-raiser, "La Voix Humaine." Trio will be completed Sept. 3 by "Springtime of Others," a 30-year-old play by Jean-Jacques Bernard. More legit fodder is available in the Phoenix Group presentation, of "Samson Agonistes," Milton's drama in verse in the Greek style. A distinguished company includes Catherine Lacey, John Westbrook and George Hagen.

Auld Lang Syne Revue

Opening Festival production, under official aegis, was an Auld Lang Syne revue, "Pleasure of Scotland," with singers, dancers, narrators, balladeers and bagpipers. This takes form of a large-scale ceilidh (Gaelic for Scotch party or night-out), an interpretation of authentic living arts of Scot music and dance, with Jameson Clark, radio and tv commentator, doing the narrating.

For after-the-show diversion three revues are offered this Festival. "Reprise," staged nightly through midnight at the Palladium vaudery, comprises top items from successful London revues like "Lyric Revue," "Intimacy at 8:30," "High Spirits," "After the Show" and "Slings and Arrows." Leonard Urry is presenting this Peter Myers selection for three weeks, cast including revue artistes Fenella Fielding, Bernard Hunter, Tom Criddle, Patricia Cree, Susan Denny and Susan Pardone. Oxford Theatre Group is staging a revue in the historic Gullan's Close. Another college group also will present late-night entertainment.

Other non-legit highlights of the 1956 Festival include offerings by Sadler's Wells Ballet, the Hamburg State Opera, the Ram Gopal Indian Ballet, and the British Royal Philharmonic Orch. Other groups taking part are the London Mozart Players, Scottish National Orch, BBC Scottish Orch, and the National Youth Orch of Great Britain.

Austria is represented by the famous Vienna Hofmusikkapelle, paying its first visit to Britain. Hofmusikkapelle is a combination of members of the Vienna State Opera Orch (Vienna Philharmonic Orch), members of the Vienna State Opera Chorus and the Vienna Boys' Choir. Hofmusikkapelle is rarely heard outside of Vienna. Deal to play at the Edinburgh 1956 junket was clinched after a plane flight to Vienna by Robert Ponsonby, of the Edinburgh Fest.

New High in Advance Sales

Booking for the scores of events this year reached a new high. Already value of tickets sold is about $15,000 higher than at this time last year. Biggest demand has come from the U. S. with orders pouring in from every state. Canada is a close second.

A late unofficial entry for the Festival is by New York's After-Dinner Opera Co., who will stage three one-act operas in the Gartshore Hall, George Street, Aug. 28-Sept. 8.

Major problem once again is lack of late-night eating facilities for Fest visitors. Cafes and restaurants make well-meaning efforts to stay open, but staff shortage, acute in Britain, and Scotland's outmoded licensing rules, make midnight conviviality non-existent. Festival Club is catering as before for members, but shutters too early.

Floodlit Edinburgh Castle, plus the spectacular Military Tattoo, and daylight flags strewn along the handsome thoroughfares, are giving this arty historic Scotch city a gay enough air.

Sinatra

Continued from page 27

(1) his current one-week personal at the Broadway Paramount, concurrent with his own indie production, "Johnny Concho," would (2) have to kick off the Steve Allen show (from the Hudson Theatre), and (3) rush a bit further uptown to the old Broadway Theatre wherefrom Sullivan's vaudeo originates. [In between he also did an ABC-TV "interview" within the same hour.]

With the columnist-conferencier still bedded—and he will be for three or four more weeks, with chest pains, although a pneumonia threat was circumvented—this past Sunday's show was a loosely booked affair. Red Skelton emceed and it meant he would do two or three bits, if necessary. Thus, the 15 minutes needed for a Sinatra routine, to close the show) including a bit with the guest emcee), was very elastic. Last week Phil Silvers emceed. Hal March was wanted for this show but was prebooked. There will be other guest regisseurs until Sullivan's return. Kirk Douglas next week. [Actually Sinatra couldn't sing, because of laryngitis, on either show.]

Fee to Charity

When Weltman told Sinatra to name his figure, the singer said, "I told you I'd do it for Ed." [Sullivan and the network insist on Sinatra naming a pet orphanage charity and a check will be sent in his name.]

Sullivan, for his part, says, "When you're flat on your derriere you don't feel so arrogant."

He says he is "first realizing what a close call we really had." (The Lincoln in which he and his son-in-law, Bob Precht, were driving, along with a private officer attached to Sullivans' Southbury (Conn.) estate, when an oncoming car, which was off-centre, hit them head-on, is something to marvel at because of its near-demolished condition. Incidentally, Precht who is married to Betty Sullivan, and is a production assistant to the Sullivan show must undergo surgery this week for a double-fracture of his shin and ankle-bone. He has 15 stitches under his chin. A rash on the break had halted the necessary operation).

Sullivan states that he paid Samuel Goldwyn $32,000 for 25 minutes of backstage film clips attendant to "Guys and Dolls" and other footage for use on his show, and seemingly because of "misunderstanding," Sinatra took umbrage because of a misimpression he would be asked to do a cuffo interview" on the Sullivan TVer. An exchange of vituperative personal ads in VARIETY between the two made widespread columnar news as it was picked up. A couple of weeks ago Sullivan's "High Society" and Bing Crosby's filmed interview footage saw the anamoly whereby Sinatra was cuffoing on the "Toast" show because of the fact that he along with Grace Kelly, costar in the Metro picture with Crosby.

Intra-trade scuttlebutt regarded the Steve Allen-Sinatra booking as something beyond a show biz date—a continuation of the "vendetta" which, of course, is now no more. Sinatra's heralded appearance on Walter Winchell's debut TVer for NBC in October was also deduced to be of the same pattern, in light of the WW-Sullivan rivalry, personally, journalistically, and now on competitive video networks, although on different nights (Winchell will be on Friday). This, too, is now no more than a straight show biz guest-shot.

Spot TV's $105,584,000 Billings For 3 Months Sets a New High

Spot television expenditures for the 1956 second quarter hit a gross of $105,584,000, topping the preceding three quarters examined by the Television Bureau of Advertising.

The April-thru-June estimate capped the preceding quarter by more than $5,000,000, and is also ahead of the fourth quarter of 1955, advertisers invested $103,872,000 in spot selling.

TvB also noted that the number of advertisers increased to 2,987, slightly over the '56 first quarter, but representing the greatest number of spot television advertisers in the second quarter of every year from 1949 to date. The number of advertisers in the '55 second quarter was 2,873, compared to the 2,987 in the same '56 period.

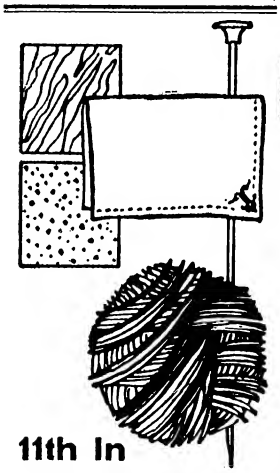
The top 10 spot advertisers and their estimated expenditure in the period are as follows: Proctor & Gamble, $6,541,000; General Foods Corp., $2,978,000; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Co., $2,673,400; Sterling Drug, Inc., $2,138,500; Colgate-Palmolive Co., $2,115,700; Philip Morris & Co., $1,833,100; National Biscuit Co., $1,735,900; Miles Laboratories, Inc., $1,392,600; Lever Bros., $1,263,900; Liget & Myers Tobacco, $1,237,400.

Commenting on the report TvB prez Oliver Treyz noted that Procter & Gamble, consistently the largest users of spot television, has substantially increased its expenditures in the second quarter versus the preceding ones. Lever Bros.' spot expenditures in the second quarter are almost triple those of the '56 first quarter, jumping from 38th place in the initial period to ninth in the second quarter.

Other advertisers showing a marked increase in spot appropriations include General Foods, which went from fourth to second in rank, Philip Morris and Colgate. Additionally, American Tobacco is listed in the top 200 spot television advertisers for the first time.

A drag on the total increase in spot expenditures is found in the automotive field, which accounted for $3,556,000 in the second quarter. As in other media, spot television expenditures of automotive companies are down in the rankings.

By product classification, the top fields and their estimated spending in spot tv for the second quarter include: food and grocery products, $28,381,000; cosmetics and toiletries, $9,541,000; ale, beer and wine, $9,009,000; tobacco products and supplies, $7,371,000; drug products, $6,468,000; confections and soft drinks, $5,322,000.



11th In manufacture of textile mill products

wgal-tv

LANCASTER, PENNA.

NBC and CBS

Among the television markets foremost in the manufacture of textile mill products, the Channel 8 Multi-City Market ranks eleventh, based on production figures for America's top 100 counties (SALES MANAGEMENT "Survey of Buying Power"—May 10, 1956).

Channel 8 Multi-City Market

| | |
|---|---|
| Harrisburg | Reading |
| York | Lebanon |
| Hanover | Pottsville |
| Gettysburg | Hazleton |
| Chambersburg | Shamokin |
| Waynesboro | Mount Carmel |
| Frederick | Bloomsburg |
| Westminster | Lewisburg |
| Carlisle | Lewistown |
| Sunbury | Lock Haven |
| Martinsburg | Hagerstown |

316,000 WATTS

STEINMAN STATION

CLAIR McCOLLOUGH, Pres.

Representative

the MEEKER company, inc.

New York Chicago Los Angeles San Francisco

WGN-TV Number 2 in Chicago!!

Yes, on WGN-TV you have network size audiences—and you buy them at the lowest published rates in Chicago television. The latest Nielsen for July shows WGN-TV a strong second!

*Share of Audience
July, 1956
6:00 A.M.—Midnight
Sunday thru Saturday

| | |
|---|---|
| Network Station B | 29.4% |
| WGN-TV | 25.4 |
| Network Station C | 25.2 |
| Network Station D | 20.8 |

Top audiences at low cost—with no network preemption problems.

Now is the time to select prime periods for fall. National advertisers already set with new programs on WGN-TV include Hamm's Beer, Kellogg, Mars Candy, 7-Up, Miller Brewing. (Several others have renewed.)

* NSI Area—Adjusted

WGN-TV Chicago 9

Chicago Office—441 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill
Eastern Advertising Solicitation Office—220 E. 42nd St., New York, 17
West Coast Only—Edward Petry & Company, Inc.

Jocks, Jukes and Disks

By HERM SCHOENFELD

Ames Bros.: "49 Shades of Green" - "Summer Sweethearts" (RCA Victor). The Ames Bros., who are distinguished from most of the current vocal combos by the fact that they can sing on key, turn up again with a solid coupling. "49 Shades" is a swinging piece of material with a clever lyric which the brothers put over to the hilt. "Summer Sweethearts" is a change-of-pace, a lovely ballad with a seasonal peg and excellent chances to step out.

Ginny Gibson: "Two Innocent Hearts" - "Miracle of Love" (ABC-Paramount). "Innocent Hearts," a number in waltz tempo but with a rock 'n' roll arrangement, is right down the market groove. Miss Gibson is due to have a race with Bethe Douglas, who introed this tune on the indie Fraternity label. On the ABC-Par flip, "Miracle of Love" is another strong side.

Jo Stafford: "Love Me Good"-"A Perfect Love" (Columbia). Jo Stafford, who's been absent from the hit lists for some time, has a standout coupling with this entry. "Love Me Good" is a rhythm ballad with a fine lyric. Orch background, under Paul Weston's baton, lends an important assist. "A Perfect Love," from the Metro pic, "The Opposite Sex," is a class ballad which Miss Stafford projects with unusual warmth. This side could well take over for the long pull.

Four Joes: "Blues in the Night"-"My Heart Says Thanks to You" (MGM). This new and elaborate arrangement of the great oldie, "Blues in the Night," could step out as a potent seller. Colorful jock and juke material. Flip is a fair ballad.

The Treniers: "Rock and Roll President"-"Cool It, Baby" (Vik). The politico angle to "Rock and Roll President" may provide just the extra push to put this one over the top. It's a cute number which the Treniers belt in the approved manner. The Coney Island Kids, on the Josie label, have a different interpretation. On the Vik flip, the Treniers do the "Cool It, Baby," from the 20th-Fox pic, "Teenage Rebel," one of those frantic rhythm numbers in the r&r idiom. Solid juke fare.

Gogi Grant: "When the Tide Was High"-"You're in Love" (Era). A big factor in the pop market via her recent hits, Gogi Grant has two good sides on her latest platter. "When the Tide Was High" is an atmospheric ballad with a good lyric and an exotic melodic gloss. "You're in Love," from the Republic pic, "Accused of Murder," is a more conventional romantic entry which Miss Grant handles effectively.

Teresa Brewer-Mickey Mantle: "I Love Mickey"-"Keep Your Cotton Pickin' Paddies Offa My Heart" (Coral). "I Love Mickey," one of those song tributes to a sports personality, is a cute piece of material which will have to buck the fate of oblivion which usually is accorded this type of number. Teresa Brewer, with an incidental assist from the Yankee home-run hitter, does a bright job and should attract some spins, especially if Mantle goes on to break the Babe Ruth record. Flip is an oldfashioned-type rhythm number, also belted by Miss Brewer with good impact.

Nathan Russell: "His Name Was Dean"-"I Walk in the Future" (Forest). The morbidity surrounding much of the continuing interest in the late James Dean is fully pandered to in the ballad, "His Name Was Dean." The lyric is made up of the usual cliched sentiments, but Nathan Russell gives it a sincere, simple folkstyled rendition. The kids might go for it. "I Walk in the Future" is a routine entry.

Mario Lanza: "Earthbound"-"The Lord Don't Play Favorites" (RCA Victor). Mario Lanza comes back to the pop scene with a couple of big ballads. He's in top vocal form on "Earthbound," a standard-styled item. "The Lord Don't Play Favorites" has a patriotic-religioso peg and once again Lanza lets out all the stops.

Tommy Leonetti: "Secretly"-"Go Buy the Ring" (Capitol). Tommy Leonetti comes up with a fine ballad in "Secretly" and the young singer, who's in the Sinatra-Damone school of crooning, sells it in highly pleasing style. "Go Buy the Ring" is another likely winner, a bright-tempoed tune which he puts over stylishly. Herm.

Best Bets

| | |
|---|---|
| AMES BROS. (RCA Victor) | 49 SHADES OF GREEN Summer Sweethearts |
| GINNY GIBSON (ABC-Paramount) | TWO INNOCENT HEARTS Miracle of Love |
| JO STAFFORD (Columbia) | LOVE ME GOOD A Perfect Love |
| FOUR JOES (MGM) | BLUES IN THE NIGHT My Heart Says Thanks To You |
| THE TRENIERS (Vik) | ROCK AND ROLL PRESIDENT Cool It, Baby |

LAWRENCE WELK
and his
CHAMPAGNE MUSIC
(Exclusively on Coral)
261st Consecutive Week
Aragon Ballroom—Ocean Park, Cal.
ABC-TV—Sat. 9-10 P. M. EDT
Sponsored by
Dodge Dealers of America

Longhair Reviews

Verdi: "La Traviata" (Angel). A brilliantly performed new recording of the popular Italian opera by the orchestra and chorus of the La Scala Theatre with Antonietta Stella, Tito Gobbi and Giuseppi Di Stefano in the lead roles. A translation of the Italian libretto is included in the boxed package.

A Mozart Organ Tour (Columbia). This massive compendium of Mozart's organ music, as played by E. Power Biggs, is an excellent contribution to the composer's bicentennial. Package includes organ solos and sonatas for orchestra and organ played with the Camerata Academica in Salzburg with Bernhard Paumgartner conducting. An excellent pictorial liner folio tells the story of the works and the performances.

Bjoerling Sings At Carnegie Hall (RCA Victor). A highly pleasing repertoire or operatic arias and songs of Beethoven, Schubert, Richard Strauss, Brahms and, for a surprising change of pace, Stephen Foster. Recording, of excellent sound quality, was made during the tenor's Carnegie Hall concert in 1955.

Maria Luisa Anido: A Spanish Guitar Recital (Capitol). A sensitive guitar virtuoso plays an attractive program of works by Albeniz, Granados, Rodrigo and other Spanish composers.

Aaron Copland: Music For The Theatre, Radio, Movies (MGM). An interesting 1925 Copland work, "Music For The Theatre," in a fine reading by the MGM Chamber Orchestra under Izler Solomon. Two later works, "Music For Radio" (1937) and "Music For Movies" (1942) are performed by the same group under Arthur Winograd. - Herm.

Album Reviews

One of the highlights of Decca's fall album program is the double-platter package of "Ethel Merman-A Musical Autobiography." It's a rundown of the top tunes from over a dozen musical comedies Miss Merman has starred in since George and Ira Gershwin's "Girl Crazy" opened back in 1930 in addition to some non-showtunes pops. Although never at her best in the disk medium, this package does succeed in projecting some of the songstress' color and vitality. In addition to the singing, Miss Merman also handles the between-number patter, giving the time and the setting of the songs. Mostly newly recorded, the 34 numbers were sliced with various orchs and combos, including the Buddy Cole Quartet, and orchs under the direction of Jay Blackton, Harry Sosnick, Gordon Jenkins and Sy Oliver. Her original 1950 disk of "Dearie" with Ray Bolger is also part of the songalog. Ray Middleton and other singers give an assist where other singing parts are required. It's an attractive set with photos and an informative liner by Louis Untermeyer plus a listing of the Broadway preems of the various shows.

Johnny Mathis (Columbia). Johnny Mathis, a tyro vocalist from San Francisco when he was inked by Columbia last year, is an unusual stylist who fits more easily into the jazz than the pop category. He sings in anything but a straightforward manner, but he has taste and ideas and the impact is solid.

"The Eisenhower Story" (ABC-Paramount). The timing of this album during an election year makes it a boon for the Republicans and will undoubtedly spark the Democrats to demand "equal time." Written by Joe Di Mona and produced by Creed Taylor, this LP is a documentary compilation of speeches by Eisenhower and others since D-Day. A large part of the album is devoted to the 1952 Presidential election. Although the times are dramatic, the album largely fails to capture the excitement. Ted Mallie does a good narration job.

Winifred Atwell: "By Request" (London). Winifred Atwell, Trinidad-born pianist who now works steadily in Britain, can pound the keyboard with power and dexterity. Although noted for her boogie-woogie tempos, Miss Atwell plays with equal virtuosity in many styles and carries off a varied wax program in highly attractive fashion.

On the jazz scene, Dave Brubeck is spotlighted on a Columbia album playing his own compositions for solo piano. In this form, much of it sounds very cerebral and difficult . . . On the same label, but in different tempo, Buck Clayton and a flock of jazzmen have a traditional swinging session in a package titled "All The Cats Join In" . . . A striking color photo should sell the ABC-Paramount set of "Modern Jazz With Dixieland Roots," which features a highly modern combo headed by trumpeter Don Stratton . . . Another good old-fashioned jazz set titled "We're in the Money," with Pee Wee Russell, Wild Bill Davison and Vic Dickenson is presented under the Storyville label . . . Back to the contemporary groove, trumpeter Kenny Dorham fronts a smart combo on another ABC-Paramount set. In the big band idiom, the excellent Elliot Lawrence band plays some great standards in sharp arrangements by Tiny Kahn and Johnny Mandel on the Fantasy label.

VARIETY 10 Best Sellers on Coin-Machines

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. | MY PRAYER (5) | Platters | Mercury |
| 2. | ALLEGHENY MOON (8) | Patti Page | Mercury |
| 3. | WHATEVER WILL BE, WILL BE (5) | Doris Day | Columbia |
| 4. | CANADIAN SUNSET (2) | Hugo Winterhalter / Andy Williams | Victor / Cadence |
| 5. | HOUND DOG (3) | Elvis Presley | Victor |
| 6. | I ALMOST LOST MY MIND (9) | Pat Boone | Dot |
| 7. | I WANT YOU, I NEED YOU, I LOVE YOU (3) | Elvis Presley | Victor |
| 8. | ON THE STREET WHERE YOU LIVE (9) | Vic Damone | Columbia |
| 9. | DON'T BE CRUEL (1) | Elvis Presley | Victor |
| 10. | MORE (1) | Perry Como | Victor |

Second Group

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| THAT'S ALL THERE IS TO THAT | Nat (King) Cole | Capitol |
| BE-BOP-A-LULA | Gene Vincent | Capitol |
| SONG FOR A SUMMER NIGHT | Mitch Miller | Columbia |
| WAYWARD WIND | Gogi Grant | Era |
| I'M IN LOVE AGAIN | Fats Domino / Fontane Sisters | Imperial / Dot |
| GLENDORA | Perry Como | Victor |
| GHOST TOWN | Don Cherry | Columbia |
| FOOL | Sanford Clark | Dot |
| SWEET OLD-FASHIONED GIRL | Teresa Brewer | Coral |
| FLYING SAUCERS | Buchanan-Goodman | Luniverse |

[Figures in parentheses indicate number of weeks song has been in the Top 10]

Songs With Largest Radio Audience

*The top 30 songs of week (more in case of ties), based on copyrighted Audience Coverage Index & Audience Trend Index. Published by Office of Research, Inc., Dr. John Gray Peatman, Director. Alphabetically listed. Legit musical. †Film. ††TV.

Survey Week of Aug. 10-16, 1956

| | |
|---|---|
| Allegheny Moon | Oxford |
| Born To Be With You | Mayfair |
| Canadian Sunset | Meridian |
| Cool Tango | Ardmore |
| Happiness Street | Planetary |
| He Loves Me, He Loves Me Not | Broadcast |
| How Little We Know | Morris |
| I Almost Lost My Mind | St. Louis |
| I Could Have Danced All Night—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| I Love You, Samantha—†"High Society" | Buxton Hill |
| If I'm Elected | Bourne |
| It Only Hurts for a Little While | Advanced |
| I've Grown Accustomed—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| Make Me A Child Again | Remick |
| Moonglow—†"Picnic" | Mills |
| On the Street Where You Live—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| One Finger Piano | Marks |
| Picnic—†"Picnic" | Col. Pic. |
| Proud Ones—†"Proud Ones" | W&B |
| Sierra Madre | Melody Lane |
| Standing On the Corner—*"Most Happy Fella" | Frank |
| That's All Right, Honey | Movietown |
| Tickled Pink | Mills |
| True Love—†"High Society" | Buxton Hill |
| War And Peace—†"War And Peace" | Famous |
| Wayward Wind | Warman |
| Weary Blues | Melrose |
| Whatever Will Be, Will Be—†"Man Who Knew" | Artists |
| When The White Lilacs Bloom Again | Harms |
| You're Sensational—†"High Society" | Buxton Hill |

Top 30 Songs on TV

(More In Case of Ties)

| | |
|---|---|
| A Beautiful Friendship | Kahn |
| Allegheny Moon | Oxford |
| Delilah Jones | Dena |
| Ghost Town | Cromwell |
| Happiness Street | Planetary |
| Hot Dog, Buddy, Buddy | Valleybrook |
| Hound Dog | P&L |
| I Almost Lost My Mind | St. Louis |
| I Could Have Danced All Night—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| I Love Mickey | Willow |
| I've Got Something In My Eye | Evans |
| Laughing Polka | Champagne |
| Let Me Be The First One To Know | Delstone |
| Love Will Lead The Way | Vim |
| Make Me A Child Again | Remick |
| Moonglow—†"Picnic" | Mills |
| My Prayer | Shapiro-B |
| Ninety-Eight Cents | Summit |
| Pink Cadillac | Four Star |
| Portuguese Washerwoman | Remick |
| Rip It Up | Verico |
| Sailor Man | Lamas |
| To Love Again—†"Eddy Duchin Story" | Col. Pic. |
| Walk Hand In Hand | Republic |
| Wayward Wind | Warman |
| We Laughed At Love | Kahn |
| Whatever Will Be, Will Be—†"Man Who Knew" | Artists |
| With A Little Bit Of Luck—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| Without You, I'm Nothing—*Mr. Wonderful" | Laurel |
| You Bring Out The Lover In Me | Morris |

SHOOT WORKS FOR FALL BIZ

'Flying Saucer' Payoff Sparks Some Beefs, Raises Some Industry Queries

The settlement between Harry Fox, publishers' agent and trustee, and the producers of the Luniverse label's "Flying Saucer" platter has left some unsettlement in its wake. At least one of the publishers, Gene Goodman, whose tunes were used on the Luniverse disk without permission, is refusing to go along with the agreement under which the Luniverse operators, Bob Buchanan and Dick Goodman, would pay a low royalty rate on the tunes which they used without permission in the "Flying Saucer" satire. Among Goodman's tunes are "Mabelline" and "See You Later, Alligator."

Most of the publisher principals, however, are accepting the deal made by Fox and his attorney Julian T. Abeles. Gene Goodman, head of Arc Music, will have to take action on his own if he wants to collect the full statutory rate of 2c per tune. Goodman stated that he was basically opposed to the manner in which the Luniverse disk used his material and he was turning down any deal in order to protect the writers of the tunes who might object (1) to the short count and (2) to the burlesque of their songs. Meantime, the disk companies, whose artists were also used without permission on the Luniverse rock 'n' roll parody, are not planning to take any action again the Buchanan-Goodman team. At least, no action has been started in this direction and one major company exec, whose material was expropriated, said he was ready to forget the whole business.

While the publishers had a clear case of infringement against Luniverse, the rights of the disk companies are not so sharply defined. At least under the Copyright Act, the right of the disk companies to protection against such usage is up in the air.

It's believed that the disk companies are reluctant to test whether Luniverse was within the law in using their artists without permission. One industry lawyer said he didn't expect to see another such platter for another decade, so why make a fuss about it. In any case, he added, it would be difficult to prove that the Luniverse disk caused any economic damage.

If anything, the lawyer said, he understood that the Luniverse record helped to stimulate business for everyone by bringing customers into the stores. This is additionally borne out by the fact that Mercury has reissued The Penguins' version of "Earth Angel" as a result of the interest created in the song by the fragment used in the "Flying Saucer" platter.

Despite Some Sour Notes, Dizzy Gillespie Troupe Makes Goodwill in Arg.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 14.

Dizzy Gillespie's U. S. State Dept.-sponsored goodwill tour here ran into some musician union, and racial problems. However, the 22-man orch display, in a 10-performance stand at the Casino Theatre, is considered the most sensational entertainment offered here so far this year.

Ths State's Dept.'s goodwill tieup helped smooth things out when the local musician's unions tried to stymie the jazz leader from bringing in his own outfit. The Labor Ministry stepped in to make it clear that the present Argentine government won't stand for nationalistic shenanigans. A hotel management, with a large American clientele, also gave evidence of racial discrimination when accommodation was solicited for the group. This earned it a severe rapping in the press. The Argentine Labor Ministry also got into the act and made it clear that this sort of thing is foreign to its principles.

The tour was sponsored in conjunction with the American National Theatre & Academy, which foots the bill.

Cole's 'NAACP' Disk

Chicago, Aug. 21.

During Nat King Cole's stand here at the Chez Paree in May, singer recorded, for Capitol release this month, a tune titled "We Are Americans Too." Disking is to be pushed by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, as a quasi-anthem during the continuing fight for equal rights.

House bandleader Brian Farnon of the Chez Paree and his orch provided backing on the platter. Andy Razof authored.

New Juke Film 'Sells' Industry

Detroit, Aug. 21.

The jukebox industry, which has not always put its best public relations foot forward, is switching tactics in an effort to sell the industry. Music operators, distributors and coin machine manufacturers are the heroes of a new film currently being distributed by AMI Inc., coin machine manufacturers in Grand Rapids.

In a 20-minute color film, titled "Music For Everyone" and produced by Video Films here, the jukebox is kudosed for providing music for the masses. Although an AMI-sponsored film, competitive manufacturers like Wurlitzer, Seeburg and Roekola are also spotlighted. Soundtracks in Spanish, French, German and Italian have also been prepared.

While there is no attack on the legislation introduced at the last session of Congress which would remove the exemption on jukeboxes in the Copyright Act, the film is seen as fitting into a general effort of the juke industry to win goodwill in the event that further legislative efforts are made in this direction. Bills to permit licensing of the jukeboxes are being advocated by ASCAP, BMI, and other publisher and writer organizations.

BELAFONTE TO CLEF MUSIC FOR UA FILM

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Harry Belafonte invades a new field, film music composition, on "Trooper Hook," Joel McCrea-Barbara Stanwyck co-starrer which indie producer Sol Baer Fielding will make for United Artists.

In addition to writing four separate themes, one for each of the film's central characters, Belafonte will compose and sing (and subsequently record) a minimum of three tunes for the film.

Association is the second for Belafonte and Fielding. Balladeer worked for the producer in "Bright Award," the Christopher award-winning film which Fielding produced at Metro and which marked Belafonte's film debut.

Arnold Shaw Mag Piece Cues Pic Cleffer Suit

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Alleging "false statements" to Arnold Shaw for an article in Esquire mag, composer-conductor Leith Stevens has filed a $50,000 damage suit against jazz trumpeter Shorty Rogers in Superior Court here. Stevens also charges injury to his professional reputation and unfair competition.

Action is based on the Shaw article which describes Rogers as a leading contributor of jazz scores to films and credits him with writing scores for "The Glass Wall," "Private Hell 36" and "The Wild One." All were composed by Stevens.

MAJORS OFFER FANCY DEALS

The disk manufacturers, who have been enjoying a boom year to date, are setting their sights on a smash fall season with a wide variety of deals, discounts and guarantees to the dealers. In general, more incentives than ever before are being dangled before the retailer in an effort to stock him up for the anticipated booming biz within the next few months.

The majors, in particular, are letting out all the stops in pushing their packaged merchandise. In addition to sampler disks, some majors are offering extra discounts on catalog merchandise while virtually all are giving some kind of 100 exchange privilege on specific albums. Distributors in each area are being given leeway in handling the form of the deals in each locality.

There's no resistance to the programs on the part of the retailers who stand to gain heavily by the additional discounts. In addition, the 100% exchange privileges gives them a ean't-lose guarantee on the packages that don't turn over as expected.

While some concern has been voiced about the possibility that the market is becoming saturated with packages, especially in view of the massive releases due in the next couple of weeks, industry execs feel that there's still plenty of room for expansion. At any rate, solid business conditions up to this point don't warrant anything but optimism about the next few months.

Dance Promoters Held In Houston for Doing A Waltz With $2,600

Houston, Tex., Aug. 21.

Two dance promoters were arrested here and charged with waltzing away with something like $2,600 of the East Houston Volunteer Fire Dept.'s money.

The fire chief, George Hawkins, told police the pair sold him on a scheme to promote a benefit dance from which the promoters and the department would split the take down the middle. Since then, police said, the promoters have taken in $6.815 but the department's split has so far been only $777.41.

The promoters are Robert E. Byron and Charles Sideris, who were charged with soliciting funds without a city permit. The dance was scheduled to be held Nov. 10 at the City Auditorium.

Police received many complaints about high pressure selling tactics of the group, which had set up an office here. Internal revenue agents were also checking the case.

ACLU FAILS TO SAVE ROCK 'N' ROLL FROM KO

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Despite intervention of the American Civil Liberties Union, the city council of suburban El Monte has nixed rock 'n' roll dances.

City fathers voted unanimously to cancel the license of Hal Zeiger who's been promoting weekly bashes. License originally was suspended July 6 after police complained of a growing number of arrests at his dances. Zeiger had suggested more rigid restrictions, including a 16-year minimum age limit and a seven-minute time limit on each dance.

Nix was recorded after a five-hour meeting following which it was indicated that Zeiger will appeal. The ACLU had condemned ban on rock 'n' roll as a "monstrous denial of freedom of expression."

Erroll Garner trio set for a week at the Colonial Tavern in Toronto starting Monday (27).

Capitol Records Sales Zoom 20% Over Last Year to New Peak of $25,600,000

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Capitol Records' sales and profits hit all-time highs for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1956, president Glenn E. Wallichs reported to stockholders today (Tues.). Sales volume hit $25,647,468 and net income reached $3,209,869 before provision for Federal and Canadian income taxes for the year.

Net income after taxes of $1,610,502 amounted to $1,599,367, a jump of $679,345 over the 1955 tally of $920,022. Net is equal, after preferred dividends, to $3.35 a share on the 476,230 shares of common stock outstanding, as compared to $1.92 per share in 1955. Record common earnings for the year amounted to a 74% jump over the 1955 calendar year and an increase of 119% over the $1.53 per share return for the calendar year 1954.

Net sales represented an increase of 20% over the $21,308,633 for the calendar year 1955 and an increase of 51% over the 1954 calendar year total of $16,254,907. Sales for each month of the fiscal year were higher than any eomparable month in the eompany's history.

(It was also reported that sales for five of the first six months of 1956 each topped any month in the 14-year history of the firm).

Firm substantially completed construction of its $2,000,000 home office and studio building, the Capitol Tower, during this fiscal year as a result of which the book value of property rose from $2,361,127 to $3,581,658.

Cash on hand and U. S. securities as of June 30 reached $2,756,357, slightly more than double that of the previous year and the net worth of the firm jumped from $5,033,647 June 30, 1955, to $6,238,383 on June 30 of this year. Book value of common stock was $12.85 per share.

Cool Lunar

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 14.

Some years ago when Frankie Laine was making the Hit Parade tremble with a noisy novelty called "Sound Off," many rural listeners misunderstood the title to be "Hound Dawg" and pestered radio stations to play "that houn' dawg song." Something similar recently happened when a listener, possibly a bit under rock 'n' roll influence, buttonholed a disk jockey for WSLS here, and insisted on hearing a song about "that there alligator moon."

The disk jock was baffled before it finally struck him this character also hadn't heard right and what he wanted was top tune "Allegheny Moon."

ABC-Par Launches A Five-Year Plan

ABC-Paramount, a little less than a year old, is embarking on a five year plan. Program is pegged mainly on trimming its current artists' roster and develop new top-line diskers at the rate of two a year.

According to Sam Clark, diskery's topper, the program, if everything runs on schedule, will give the company 10 payoff artists at the end of the five years. A record company, he stressed, needs at least that many sure shots to operate smoothly.

ABC-Paramount's current artists' roster runs to 25 pop disk artists. Clark would like to cut this down to about 15. He's now giving the disk roster the onceover to determine the artists whose options won't be picked up after the initial expiration date.

The trimming of the roster, says Clark, is based simply on the fact that we have too many artists to record which results in too many releases. A young company can only hurt itself by spreading out too thin and not giving its releases the concentrated push needed to get across in the market these days.

The reduction of the artists' roster in ABC-Paramount's five year plan only applies to the pop field. The jazz lineup, according to Clark, is doing well and the status of the jazz artists will remain unchanged.

CORAL ADDS 2 COMBOS IN ROCK 'N' ROLL IDIOM

Coral Records is still riding with the rock 'n' roll cycle and has signed up a couple of combos in that idiom. Bob Thiele, Coral a&r chief, inked Jimmy Cavello & His House Rockers, a vocal-instrumental combo from upstate New York. They'll bow with a coupling of "That's The Groovy Thing" and "Soda Shoppe Rock."

A vocal trio, the DeMilo Sisters, have also been added to the roster. Their first platter will be "Faded Photographs" and "Never Too Old To Rock and Roll."

Sunny Gale May Go From RCA to Decca

Sunny Gale may wind up on the Decca label within the next few weeks. Although nothing has been firmed, the thrush has been having confabs with Milt Gabler, Decca's pop artists & repertoire-chief, to iron out wrinkles in the deal.

For the past couple of years, the singer had been etching for RCA Victor but her pact expired a few weeks ago. She came to Victor after scoring with "Wheel of Fortune" on the indie Derby label.

Sam Fox Firm in Tieup With Leo Paris in New Kiddie Music Subsid

Sam Fox Publishing Co. is stepping up its activity in the educational field. In line with the expansion program, firm has tied up with Leo Paris to organize a new children's educational subsidiary, Reynard Publishers. Fred Fox and Paris will head up the new company which will operate through the Sam Fox offices in New York, Chicago and Hollywood.

In addition to the exploitation of the Leo Paris catalog of over 500 recorded children songs, with 30 platters of new material slated for release this year, Reynard is preparing complete educational music projects for tv shows, with extensive promotion of song-unit folios set in the educational field, as well as in trade outlets and chain and department stores.

Reynard's activity will be pegged on building major disk company activity in the kidisk field by integrating television, publisher and record company promotion to meet the successful club and retail operation of the indie children's record producers.

Sam Fox Company is currently celebrating its 50th anni. Paris, for the past 10 years, has been one of the top writers in the kidisk field.

Duke Ellington Back To Columbia's Roster

Duke Ellington has swung back to the Columbia Records roster. After a couple of years away from Col, with stopoffs at Capitol and several freelance sides for Bethlehem, Ellington last week pacted a longterm exclusive deal with Columbia.

Diskery plans to showcase Ellington mostly in albums of his new original material. Ellington's first display under the Col banner will be three LP sides in the label's "Newport Jazz Festival" package.

Top Record Talent and Tunes

VARIETY DISK JOCKEY POLL

This compilation is designed to indicate those records rising in popularity as well as those on top. Ratings are computed on the basis of ten points for a No. 1 mention, nine for a No. 2, and so on down to one point. Wherever possible, only records with two or more mentions are listed, even though their total points are less in some cases than those which receive only one mention. Cities and jockeys will vary from week to week to present a comprehensive picture of all sectors of the country regionally.

* ASCAP † BMI

| Pos. this wk. | Pos. last wk. | No. weeks in log | Artist | Label | Song | EAST: Ed Stokes—WMGM—New York | Lou Dennis—WBRY—Waterbury | Milton Q. Ford—WMAL—Washington | Howie Leonard—WFOR—Portland | Don Sherman—WBOS—Boston | Jim Stevens—WLLH—Lowell-Lawrence | Herb Fontaine—WJDA—Quincy | Tom Durand—WTTM—Trenton | Bob Wells—WEBR—Buffalo | Dick Doty—WHAM—Rochester | Danny Fusco—WRUN—Rome-Utica | Al Meltzer—WHEN—Syracuse | Milner & Brown—WFEN—Philadelphia | Bob Tracey—KDKA—Pittsburgh | Arlie S. Huff—WICE—Providence | SOUTH: Chuck Thompson—WALA—Mobile | Jim Carley—WFIN—St. Petersburg | Don Devendorf—WSAV—Savannah | Don Wallace—KTUL—Tulsa | John Wrisley—WIS—Columbia | Dave Steere—WMAK—Nashville | Stan Nelson—KITE—San Antonio | Mike Woloson—WNOR—Norfolk | MIDWEST: Spider Webb—WAIT—Chicago | Don Bell—KRNT—Des Moines | Robin Seymour—WKMH—Dearborn | Ed McKenzie—WXYZ—Detroit | Sandy Singer—WTCN—St. Paul-Mpls. | Norman Wain—WDOK—Cleveland | Dick Drury—WHHH—Warren | Gene Piatt—KELO—Sioux Falls | Robb Thomas—WEMP—Milwaukee | FAR WEST: Frank Pollack—KRUX—Phoenix | Ted Donay—KCNA—Tucson | John Magnus—KGFJ—Los Angeles | Dick Cook—KSFO—San Francisco | Bob Holmes—KSJO—San Jose | Jim Ameche—KDAY—Santa Monica | Bill Previtti—KGGM—Albuquerque | Paul Coburn—KOL—Seattle | TOTAL POINTS |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | 9 | Doris Day | Columbia | *Whatever Will Be, Will Be | 3 | 4 | 1 | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 1 | 2 | 2 | 2 | 4 | .. | 2 | 4 | 1 | 1 | 1 | .. | .. | 7 | 1 | 6 | 2 | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 2 | .. | 2 | 1 | .. | 2 | .. | 2 | 3 | 218 |
| 2 | 1 | 9 | Platters | Mercury | *My Prayer | .. | 2 | .. | 4 | .. | 4 | 1 | .. | 9 | 3 | 3 | 2 | 3 | 8 | 1 | .. | 3 | .. | 4 | .. | 5 | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | 1 | 7 | 4 | .. | 6 | .. | 4 | 2 | 1 | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 185 |
| 3 | 3 | 12 | Patti Page | Mercury | *Allegheny Moon | 1 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 2 | .. | 3 | 4 | 10 | 1 | .. | 8 | 3 | .. | .. | 4 | 5 | .. | 3 | .. | 3 | 2 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 8 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 132 |
| 4 | 7 | 8 | Hugo Winterhalter | Victor | †Canadian Sunset | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 6 | .. | 1 | 7 | 9 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 5 | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 5 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 3 | .. | 100 |
| 5 | 12 | 4 | Buchanan & Goodman | Luniverse | †Flying Saucers | .. | 1 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 1 | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | 2 | 4 | .. | 89 |
| 6 | 9 | 21 | Vic Damone | Columbia | *Street Where You Live | 2 | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 6 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 1 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | 7 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 86 |
| 7 | 10 | 4 | Elvis Presley | Victor | †Don't Be Cruel | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | 2 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | 1 | 84 |
| 8A | 5 | 12 | Pat Boone | Dot | †I Almost Lost My Mind | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | 7 | 2 | .. | .. | 5 | 5 | 6 | .. | .. | 2 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | 7 | .. | 7 | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 80 |
| 8B | 4 | 4 | Elvis Presley | Victor | †Hound Dog | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 5 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 5 | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 7 | .. | 80 |
| 10 | 14 | 4 | Andy Williams | Cadence | †Canadian Sunset | 7 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 1 | .. | .. | 9 | 2 | 9 | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 9 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | 77 |
| 11 | 6 | 19 | Gogi Grant | Era | †Wayward Wind | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | 5 | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 1 | 7 | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 8 | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 74 |
| 12 | 13 | 4 | Mitch Miller | Columbia | *Song for a Summer Night | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 9 | 6 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 8 | 5 | 5 | 55 |
| 13 | 20 | 8 | Eddie Heywood | Mercury | †Soft, Summer Breeze | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 8 | 10 | 9 | .. | 8 | 3 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 50 |
| 14 | 20 | 7 | Artie Wayne | Liberty | *Angel | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 2 | 46 |
| 15 | 11 | 12 | Teresa Brewer | Coral | †Sweet Old-Fashioned Girl | 5 | .. | 8 | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 8 | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 44 |
| 16 | 18 | 7 | Joni James | MGM | *Give Us This Day | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 10 | 42 |
| 17 | 8 | 12 | Perry Como | Victor | *More | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 7 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 4 | .. | .. | .. | 39 |
| 18 | 16 | 14 | Chordettes | Cadence | *Born to Be With You | 4 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 2 | .. | 10 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 34 |
| 19 | 18 | 5 | Jerry Vale | Columbia | *You Don't Know Me | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 10 | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 32 |
| 20 | 15 | 4 | Patience & Prudence | Liberty | *Tonight You Belong to Me | 10 | 8 | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 3 | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | 28 |
| 21 | 29 | 3 | Sanford Clark | Dot | †Fool | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 6 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 24 |
| 22A | 16 | 8 | Nat (King) Cole | Capitol | *All There Is to That | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 8 | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 21 |
| 22B | 32 | 5 | Eileen Rodgers | Columbia | †Miracle of Love | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 21 |
| 24 | .. | 4 | Fontane Sisters | Dot | †Voices | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 20 |
| 25A | .. | 2 | Al Hibbler | Decca | †After Lights Go Down | 8 | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 19 |
| 25B | 25 | 7 | Four Aces | Decca | *I Only Know I Love You | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 19 |
| 27A | .. | 1 | Roger Williams | Kapp | †Tumbling Tumbleweeds | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 17 |
| 27B | 32 | 2 | Sylvia Syms | Decca | *English Muffins | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 17 |
| 29 | .. | 2 | Georgia Gibbs | Mercury | †Happiness Street | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 9 | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 16 |
| 30 | 26 | 5 | Eydie Gorme | ABC-Par | *Mama, Teach Me to Dance | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 8 | 9 | .. | .. | 15 |
| 31A | 39 | 2 | Betty Johnson | Bally | †Clay Idol | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 14 |
| 31B | .. | 1 | Billy Vaughn | Dot | *White Lilacs Bloom Again | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 14 |
| 33 | .. | 1 | Bill Doggett | King | †Honky Tonk | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 13 |
| 34A | .. | 1 | LeRoy Holmes | MGM | *White Lilacs Bloom Again | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 12 |
| 34B | .. | 1 | Bill Haley's Comets | Decca | †Rip It Up | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 12 |
| 36A | .. | 1 | Billy Ward-Dominos | Decca | †St. Theresa of the Roses | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 11 |
| 36B | .. | 1 | Crew-Cuts | Mercury | *Bei Mir Bis Du Schon | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 11 |
| 38A | .. | 1 | Steve Allen | Coral | *Lola's Theme | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | 10 |
| 38B | .. | 2 | G-Clefs | Pilgrim | †Ka Ding Dong | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 |
| 40A | 31 | 6 | Cadets | Modern | †Stranded in the Jungle | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | 9 |
| 40B | .. | 2 | Frank Sinatra | Capitol | *You're Sensational | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 |
| 40C | 36 | 4 | McGuire Sisters | Coral | *Weary Blues | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 9 |
| 43A | .. | 1 | Little Richard | Specialty | †Rip It Up | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 |
| 43B | 26 | 12 | Ames Bros | Victor | *Hurts for a Little While | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 7 |
| 43C | 26 | 4 | Perry Como | Victor | *Somebody Up There | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 |

(Copyright Variety, Inc. All Rights Reserved)

Inside Stuff—Music

Decca Records is entering into a tieup with Lever Bros. to promote its new release, "You'll Wonder Where The Yellow Went," by the Jumpin' Jacks vocal combo. Number is based on the Pepsodent toothpaste jingle to which new lyrics were written by Don Williams. Williams, a copywriter for the Foote, Cone & Belding ad agency which handles the Pepsodent account, wrote the original jingle. Williams also wrote the flip side of the Decca disk, "Frantic Antic." The Jumpin' Jacks cut the Pepsodent jingle and are making their debut as a regular vocal combo with the Decca platter.

Lever Bros. and Decca are shipping special toothbrush and paste packages to 3,000 jocks together with the new disk.

---

Jack Robbins and his two sons, Howard (Buddy) and Marshall, are now all in the music biz on their own with each involved in legit musical properties. Marshall is general professional manager of the Johnny Mercer publishing firm, Commander Music, which is handling the score for the "L'il Abner" show. Buddy is handling the score for the upcoming Betty Comden-Adolph Green-Jule Styne score for the Judy Holliday starrer, "The Bells Are Ringing." Jack Robbins, meantime, is helping with the musical score of an Olsen & Johnson revue now in the works.

---

Ed Wickes, vet Tin Pan Alley newsgatherer, whose career dates back to the old N.Y. Clipper and more recently the N.Y. Sunday Enquirer, has been bedded for some time in his Bronx (N.Y.) apartment with Parkinson's disease. Mrs. Wickes has also been confined. A committee of songsmiths, headed by Al Sherman and Sammy Smith, both care Broadway Music, and Edgar Leslie, from his Wentworth Hotel apartment (both N.Y.), can be contacted by friends of the Wickes.

---

Still going after the late James Dean trade, MGM Records is preparing a special EP platter tagged "Music From Motion Pictures Starring James Dean." The four sides, cut by the Art Mooney orch, are "Giant," title song of the last picture Dean made; "Theme From East of Eden," "Theme From Rebel Without A Cause" and "There's Never Been Anyone Else But You," from "Giant."

Really the Blues

Montreal, Aug. 21.

Paul Denis, blues singer, got six months in jail here last week for flimflamming a widow of $350 and making no attempt to repay her. He took the money to organize a "pianothon" for her 19-year-old son, but could show nothing he had done except make two disks of the boy's work, at a cost of $6.40.

Judge Armand Cloutier convicted Denis in April and gave him four months to make restitution. "I warned you that if you didn't do a paybackathon you'd go on jailathon," said the judge.

MIAMI BEACH NITERY SWINGS TO BAND POLICY

Miami Beach, Aug. 21.

A Miami nitery, the Ball & Chain, will go after the dance minded on Aug. 31 when Gene Krupa brings in a jazz crew for a two-framer.

The latest spot operates until 5 a.m. and will go after the trade with a continuous music policy. If the Krupa crew clicks the B & C operators plan to pitch for other name band units with Charley Barnett, Jerry Mulligan and Carmen Cavallero on the list.

Debussy Estate OKs Pop Adaptation Of 'Clair de Lune' to Forestall 1961 P.D.

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.

"Clair de Lune," one of the best known works by French composer Claude Debussy, is to be made into a pop song number entitled "Moonlight Love." The lyrics of "Moonlight Love" are by Mitchell Parish and the adaptation has been done by Domenico Savino, veteran composer and conductor.

RCA-Victor has the exclusive recording rights, with Perry Como doing the initial waxing. Tune will be introduced to the television audience on Walter Winchell's Oct. 5 program.

Credit for the new song goes to Adolf Vogel, head of the Elkan-Vogel Music Co., of this city, which has acted as American representative for the Debussy estate and the French publishers since 1930. Vogel made a trip to Paris last month to obtain the consent of the composer's stepdaughter.

The U.S. copyright on the original runs out in June 1961. The music dealer explained to the family that the work, once in the public domain, might be subjected to all sorts of treatments and vulgarization.

A carefully handled adaptation at this time would forestall the Tin Pan Alley plagiarists. As a new number, "Moonlight Love" would be protected by copyright for 56 years. Although the Debussy heirs had never before consented to popularizing his work, Vogel's plan was accepted on the condition that "Moonlight Love" was not to be sold or played in France.

New song means no letting down of the restrictions of Debussy music, Vogel pointed out. There have been many attempts to steal the number and he stopped one record company as recently as two weeks ago.

"Clair de Lune" sells between 80,000 and 100,000 copies annually in the United States. When Jose Iturbi played the number in the film "Music for Millions," a total of 650,000 copies were sold in two years.

RCA Nabs Nip Thrush

RCA Victor has pacted a Japanese thrush, Moon Kim, for its pop roster.

Miss Kim, a resident of the U. S., was heard by RCA execs singing on Voice of America broadcasts.

Granz Jazz Unit Pulls 32G in H'wood Benefit

Hollywood Aug. 21.

"An Evening of Jazz" racked up a boxoffice nigh of $32,000 at the Hollywood Bowl here last Wednesday (15). Concert, presented by Norman Granz, featured Ella Fitzgerald, the Louis Armstrong troupe, Roy Eldridge, Oscar Peterson, Buddy Rich, Illinois Jacquet, Flip Phillips, Ray Brown, Herb Ellis, Harry Edison and Art Tatum.

More than 19,000 payees piled into the Bowl for the bash. Previous high had been made by Nat (King) Cole who pulled in $28,000. The concert was given for the benefit of the Hollywood Bowl Assn.

SIAE AND SONZOGNO WIN MASCAGNI HEIRS' SUIT

Rome, Aug. 14.

A protracted court case involving the heirs of composer Pietro Mascagni, the SIAE (the Italo ASCAP), and the music publishing house of Sonzogno, has just been settled in Rome courts. Suit, filed in 1951 by heirs Domenica and Lina Mascagni, had asked that SIAE pay them all author's rights—held up since 1929—on "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Amico Fritz," "Isabeau," "Lodoletta," "Maschere," "Piccolo," "Marat," "Guglielmo Ratcliff," "Silvano," "Zanetto," "Sintomi D'Amore," Mesaggio D'Amore," and "Danza Esotica." In addition, heirs asked damages resulting from non-payment.

Current court edict, however, settles in favor of the defendants (SIAE and Sonzogno), upholding their right to 100% of the author's rights to the above works, as agreed by Mascagni himself during his lifetime.

The two remaining members of the Mascagni family, by the same court decision, will be entitled to author's rights for all other Mascagni works not listed above, to be collected through the SIAE.

Andy Razaf Gets Album Tribute on Indie Label

Vet lyric writer Andy Razaf is getting an album all to himself in the indie Period label's upcoming "Maxine Sullivan Sings Andy Razaf." Package is being produced for Period by Leonard Feather and will feature a combo headed up by Charlie Shavers.

Set will mark the first time an album has been devoted completely to Razaf's lyrics. Cleffer, who's been paralyzed from the waist down since 1950, is now living in Los Angeles. Among his tunes in the album will be "Ain't Misbehavin'," "Honeysuckle Rose," and "Stompin' At The Savoy."

---

Sammy Kaye orch plays Sept. 5-6 at Chateau Ste. Rose, north of Montreal.

RETAIL DISK AND ALBUM BEST SELLERS

VARIETY

Survey of retail disk best sellers based on reports obtained from leading stores in 19 cities and showing comparative sales rating for this and last week.

| National Rating This wk. | Last wk. | Artist, Label, Title | New York—(R. H. Macy Co.) | Long Island—(Arcade Assoc.) | Washington—(Super Music) | Boston—(Mosher Music Co.) | Albany—(Van Curler Music Co.) | Philadelphia—(John Wanamaker) | Birmingham—(Loveman Music Co | Miami—(Spec's Record Shops) | Louisville—(Variety Record Shop) | San Antonio—(Alamo Piano Co.) | Chicago—(Hudson-Ross Music) | Indianapolis—(Pearson Music Co.) | Minneapolis—(Don Leary Music) | Kansas City—(Katz Record Ctrs.) | St. Louis—(Stix, Baer & Fuller) | Los Angeles—(Music City) | San Francisco—(Columbia Music) | Denver—(Denver Dry Goods) | Seattle—(Sherman-Clay Music) | TOTAL POINTS |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 1 | PLATTERS (Mercury) "My Prayer" | 1 | 3 | 1 | 4 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 5 | 5 | .. | 2 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 156 |
| 2 | 2 | DORIS DAY (Columbia) "Whatever Will Be, Will Be" | 5 | 2 | 3 | 1 | 9 | 6 | 8 | 3 | 7 | 3 | 2 | 9 | .. | 6 | 4 | 5 | 4 | 1 | 9 | 111 |
| 3 | 4 | BUCHANAN & GOODMAN (Luniverse) "Flying Saucers" | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 9 | 2 | 5 | 1 | 5 | 5 | 2 | 4 | 4 | 2 | 1 | .. | 3 | .. | 97 |
| 4 | 3 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) "Hound Dog" | .. | 9 | 2 | 2 | .. | .. | 4 | 4 | .. | 2 | 3 | .. | 1 | 1 | 3 | 3 | 10 | 4 | .. | 95 |
| 5 | 6 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) "Don't Be Cruel" | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | 1 | 3 | 8 | .. | 4 | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | 68 |
| 6 | 5 | HUGO WINTERHALTER (Victor) "Canadian Sunset" | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 4 | 4 | .. | 6 | .. | 4 | 6 | 1 | .. | 8 | 7 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 58 |
| 7 | 11 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) "I Want You, I Need You, I Love You" | 2 | .. | .. | .. | 2 | 1 | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 3 | .. | .. | 47 |
| 8 | 10 | GENE VINCENT (Capitol) "Be-Bop-a-Lula" | 7 | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 10 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 2 | 5 | .. | 42 |
| 9 | 7 | GOGI GRANT (Era) "Wayward Wind" | 4 | .. | 4 | .. | 8 | 8 | .. | .. | 8 | 6 | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 35 |
| 10 | 8 | PATTI PAGE (Mercury) "Allegheny Moon" | 6 | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | 9 | 7 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 7 | 8 | 32 |
| 11 | 16 | SANFORD CLARK (Dot) "Fool" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 3 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 2 | 30 |
| 12 | 9 | PAT BOONE (Dot) "I Almost Lost My Mind" | 3 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 10 | 9 | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | 5 | 28 |
| 13 | 18 | AMES BROS. (Victor) "It Only Hurts for a Little While" | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 3 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 23 |
| 14 | 21 | PERRY COMO (Victor) "More" | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 21 |
| 15 | 14 | MITCH MILLER (Columbia) "Song for a Summer Night" | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 6 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 18 |
| 16A | 14 | TERESA BREWER (Coral) "Sweet Old-Fashioned Girl" | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 16 |
| 16B | 16 | BILL DOGGETT (King) "Honky Tonk" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 16 |
| 18 | 25 | PATIENCE & PRUDENCE (Liberty) "Tonight You Belong to Me" | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 14 |
| 19 | .. | ANDY WILLIAMS (Cadence) "Canadian Sunset" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 13 |
| 20 | 21 | AL HIBBLER (Decca) "After the Lights Go Down Low" | .. | 5 | .. | 6 | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 12 |
| 21 | 21 | VIC DAMONE (Columbia) "On the Street Where You Live" | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 11 |
| 22 | 13 | JERRY VALE (Columbia) "You Don't Know Me" | .. | 6 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 |
| 23 | 24 | PERRY COMO (Victor) "Glendora" | 8 | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 8 |
| 24A | .. | CHORDETTES (Cadence) "Born to Be With You" | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 7 |
| 24B | 12 | MORRIS STOLOFF (Decca) "Moonglow-Picnic Theme" | 9 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 |

| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| MY FAIR LADY | KING AND I | CALYPSO | EDDY DUCHIN STORY | ELVIS PRESLEY | SONGS FOR SWINGING LOVERS | CAROUSEL | MOST HAPPY FELLA | OKLAHOMA! | HIGH SOCIETY |
| Broadway Cast | Film Soundtrack | Harry Belafonte | Film Soundtrack | Elvis Presley | Frank Sinatra | Film Soundtrack | Broadway Cast | Film Soundtrack | Film Soundtrack |
| Columbia OL 5090 | Capitol W 740 EAP 740 | Victor LPM 1248 EPA 1248 | Decca DL 8289 | Victor LPM 1254 EPB 1254 | Capitol W 653 EAP 653 | Capitol W 694 EDM 694 | Columbia OL 5118 | Capitol SAO 595 SDM 595 | Capitol W 750 |

On the Upbeat

New York

Gogi Grant, currently at Salisbury Beach, Boston, swings over to the Riverside Hotel, Reno, for one week beginning Sept. 6. She's also set for a shot on Steve Allen's NBC-TV show Sept. 16 . . . Joan Tietjen upped to exec assistant spot at Columbia Records . . . Neal Hefti-Frances Wayne group waxes its first album for Epic today (Wed.) . . . Jackie Lee cut four sides with Dick Jacobs' orch for Coral release.

Charles (Chick) Farmer has completed his screen treatment of "The Mabel Wayne Story," which is being submitted to several Hollywood studios by his agent Mitchell J. Hamilburg . . . The Four Voices set for Arthur Godfrey's CBS Radio show for two weeks beginning Aug. 27 . . . Lionel Hampton plays his first Las Vegas date at the Dunes beginning tomorrow (Thurs.) . . . Dizzy Gillespie orch will lead off the Aug. 25 bash at Randall's Island New York Jazz Festival.

Hollywood

Freddy Martin orch held over at the Cocoanut Grove for the seventh straight time during Nat Cole's stand Sept. 15 . . . George Shearing Quintet, current at N.Y.'s Embers, set for a week's engagement at the Colonia Tavern, Toronto, Sept. 3 . . . Lionel Hampton orch set for a six-day run at the Downtown Paramount Sept. 6 . . . Lillian Roth signed Bobby Kroll as musical conductor for her Statler stand starting Aug. 30.

Mildred Phillips and Jimmy De Knight are penning a title tune for "Rumble On the Docks," Sam Katzman pic for Columbia release . . . Jerry Gray and Red Nichols' crews will alternate at the Palladium's series of Yuletide private parties beginning Dec. 1 . . . Paul Dunlap signed to score "Dragoon Wells Massacre" at Allied Artists . . . Warren Baker orch has releases coming up this month on five different labels—Dot, Sunset, Liberty, Kimberly and Omegatape . . . Aug. 31 is Wolfie Gilbert's 70th birthday and marks his 50th anni as a tunesmith.

Chicago

Mr. Kelly's, Chi, set to reopen next Wednesday (29), has the Connie Milano trio, Beverly Kenny and Audrey Morris . . . Phyllis Branch currently at Chicago's Easy Street on Monday nights; Leigh Travis and the Bill Wallace trio continue there Wednesday through Sunday and Bill Russo's quintet plays the Sunday afternoon jazz concerts . . . Tommy Reed back to the Muehlbach Hotel, Kaycee, Oct. 5 . . . Muggsy Spanier plays the Town House, Indianapolis, Sept. 3 for two frames . . . Patti Page set for the Corn Palace Show, Mitchell, S. D., Sept. 23-29, with the Tony Pastor Orch . . . Brian Farnon orch to handle relief chores, two days a week, at the Chez Paree, Chi, after almost four years as house band.

Scotland

Mel Torme topping in variety at the Empire, Glasgow . . . The Hilltoppers to Empire, Edinburgh . . . Janie Marden, ex-BBC Show Band chirper, pacted for date at Empire, Glasgow, Oct. 1 . . . Lonnie Donegan and his Skiffle Group set for trek to Edinburgh and Glasgow . . . Owen Walters, musical director at Alhambra, Glasgow, to London to baton his own orch in 5-minute airing on national network . . . The Teenagers' waxing of "Why Do Fools Fall in Love," on Columbia, topping bestsellers here; Tony Martin's "Walk Hand in Hand," on HMV, in second slotting.

VARIETY Scoreboard OF TOP TALENT AND TUNES

Compiled from Statistical Reports of Distribution Encompassing the Three Major Outlets

Coin Machines Retail Disks Retail Sheet Music

as Published in the Current Issue

NOTE: The current comparative sales strength of the Artists and Tunes listed hereunder is arrived at under a statistical system comprising each of the three major sales outlets enumerated above. These findings are correlated with data from wider sources, which are exclusive with VARIETY. The positions resulting from these findings denote the OVERALL IMPACT developed from the ratio of points scored, two ways in the case of talent (coin machines, retail disks) and three ways in the case of tunes (coin machines, retail disks and retail sheet music).

TALENT

| POSITIONS This Week | POSITIONS Last Week | ARTIST AND LABEL | TUNE |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 1 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) | Hound Dog / Don't Be Cruel / I Want You, I Need You |
| 2 | 2 | PLATTERS (Mercury) | My Prayer / Heaven On Earth |
| 3 | 3 | DORIS DAY (Columbia) | Whatever Will Be, Will Be |
| 4 | 4 | BUCHANAN & GOODMAN (Luniverse) | Flying Saucers |
| 5 | 6 | HUGO WINTERHALTER (Victor) | Canadian Sunset |
| 6 | 5 | PATTI PAGE (Mercury) | Allegheny Moon |
| 7 | 7 | PAT BOONE (Dot) | I Almost Lost My Mind |
| 8 | 9 | GENE VINCENT (Capitol) | Be-Bop-A-Lula |
| 9 | .. | PERRY COMO (Victor) | More / Glendora / Somebody Up There |
| 10 | 8 | GOGI GRANT (Era) | Wayward Wind |

TUNES

(*ASCAP. †BMI)

| POSITIONS This Week | POSITIONS Last Week | TUNE | PUBLISHER |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | *MY PRAYER | Shapiro-B |
| 2 | 1 | *WHATEVER WILL BE, WILL BE | Artists |
| 3 | 3 | *ALLEGHENY MOON | Oxford |
| 4 | 6 | †CANADIAN SUNSET | Meridian |
| 5 | 4 | †HOUND DOG | Presley |
| 6 | 5 | †WAYWARD WIND | Warman |
| 7 | 7 | †FLYING SAUCERS | Luniverse |
| 8 | 8 | *ON THE STREET WHERE YOU LIVE | Chappell |
| 9 | 9 | †I ALMOST LOST MY MIND | Hill & Range |
| 10 | .. | †DON'T BE CRUEL | Shalimar-P |

Epic Inks Jaycee Hill To Buck Elvis Presley

With the diskery prowl for another Elvis Presley still rolling in high gear, Epic Records is jumping into the field with Jaycee Hill. Marv Holtzman, Epic's pop artists & repertoire chief, picked up four Hill masters last week and has set the first platter for Sept. 10 release. Both songs were written by Hill and are being published by Valyr Music, Bob Merrill's firm.

Epic also added Ralph Young and Eileen Barton to its roster last week. Miss Barton previously waxed for Coral while Young was a Decca pactee.

ABC-Par Execs to Coast For Packaged Material

ABC-Paramount execs headed for the Coast over the past weekend to scout material for album projects. In the trek were proxy Sam Clark and artists & repertoire toppers Sid Feller and Don Costa.

They'll be back at their New York base by the end of the week.

Prado to Far East

Perez Prado will bring mambo to the Far East this fall in his first trek through that territory.

Prado planes to Japan next month for a series of one-niters and performances for Armed Service personnel. He's also due to tour Australia although bookings have not yet been set. Music Corp. of America is handling the tour.

Victor's Pianist Push

RCA Victor is on a keyboard kick. Label has already wrapped up pacts with pianists Eddie Heywood and Bud Powell and is currently in negotiations with cool 88'er Phineas Newborn.

Heywood comes to the Victor label after a session with Mercury Records. His composition, "Canadian Sunset," is currently a hot seller for Hugo Winterhalter on the Victor label.

Decca Signs Three

Decca Records bolstered its roster last week with the pacting of three artists. In the signings were Eddie Fontaine, who's been waxed previously by Vik Records, the Sunnysiders, who clicked last year with "Hey Mr. Banjo" on the Kapp label, and newcomer crooner Mark Murphy.

Label is prepping all three for an early release.

Grammophon Price Cut Called 'Decisive Step'; Berlin as Haley's Comet

Berlin, Aug. 14.

What Deutsche Grammophon calls the most decisive step in the record industry since the introduction of the LP is the new price reduction which went into effect Aug. 1. The adjusted price scale brings the tab on the LPM line down to $5.70 from $7.60, on the LP line down to $4.10 from $5.50, on the LPEM line down to $4.50 from $5.70, and the LPE line down to $2.90 from $3.70. Same rates apply to LPs issued by other companies.

According to Constantin Metaxas, Deutsche Grammophon's sales manager for Berlin and the east European area, this price reduction has become possible via positive technical developments and the considerable increased demand for LPs in this country. Price cut, he added, may also be regarded as a measure to fight competitors already selling LPs at cut prices. It's felt that with the price reduction, the demand for LPs will further increase.

Metaxas indicated that the rock 'n' roll trend is continuing strong here with Bill Haley particularly successful. Latest list reveals that five out of the 10 bestsellers are Haley items. These are "Rock Around The Clock"/"ABC Boogie"; "When The Saints Go Marching In"/"Rock"; "Burn That Candle"/"Rock-A-Beatin Boogie"; "See You Later Alligator"/"Paper Boy"; "Birth of the Boogie"/"Razzle Dazzle." Haley's Brunswick platters are currently holding first, second, third, fourth and eighth spot.

MGM Inks Toni Carroll, Picks Up Bechet Sides

Latest addition to MGM's talent roster is thrush Toni Carroll. Warbler has appeared in niteries and tv but this marks her first try on wax. Initial release slated for Aug. 29, is a coupling of "Think Twice" and "Goodnight My Love, Goodnight."

Label also has picked up some sides, cut in France by vet jazzman Sidney Bechet.

Mike Conner to Coast

Mike Conner, ex-Decca publicity-artists relations chief, headed for the Coast yesterday (Tues.) to o.o. possible new affiliations in the recording, management and tv fields.

He'll be gone about three weeks.

A cute novelty with a lilting beat!

WAIT LITTLE DARLING

Recorded by KAY CEE JONES on Decca

MILLS MUSIC, INC.

PROGRAM TO-DAY

YESTERDAY'S

FLAPPERETTE

Music by JESSE GREER

Published by Robbins

799 7th Ave., New York 19

Another BMI "Pin Up" Hit

EARTHBOUND

Recorded by

ROBERTO AND HIS ORCH.....Coral

MARIO LANZA.....Victor

SAMMY DAVIS, JR.....Decca

Published by MELLIN MUSIC, INC.

THE HIT OF THE WEEK

ALAN DEAN

A KISS IS FOREVER — MGM 12311

I'LL SHARE YOUR TEARS, LAUGHTER AND DREAMS — K 12311

M-G-M Records

. . . they can help you sell more in this 1¼ billion dollar retail market*!

People often associate Milwaukee with beer but almost everyone in Milwaukee associates these popular deejays with top entertainment and product news. Each day thousands of loyal listeners—from all age groups—in over 288,000 radio homes—invite these personalities into their homes and listen to what they have to say. So why not let these key salesmen, in this key market, help you move more merchandise!

* Sales Management "Survey of Buying Power," 1956.

RCA VICTOR spotlights hometown broadcasting

Why Ringling Circus Closed

Continued from page 2

summer I can't go over personally. And of course brother Henry (Ringling North) from his Rome base is doing the same."

Reticent to go into any defi or challenge to the sundry "experts" who have been postmorteming the whyfore of the RB&BB show's premature foldo in Pittsburgh this past July, North recalls that early closings are not new in the 72-year history of the show. And as for the allegations about "overglamorizing the circus" he has positive views that it was by no means the quality of the circus, but that labor problems and postmidcentury technocracy figure chiefly "in a re-evaluation of how to operate the Ringling Circus in this day and age."

Specifically, "Television is here to stay and you know already my views that tv is too much competition for a circus, just as it has cut into the film business and other entertainments.

Hikes in the Haulage

"Fundamentally the circus has operated in its lavish style because of cheap manpower and lots of it. Well, we haven't it today any more. In 1942 our railroad haulage bill was $115,000, in 1956 it was over $600,000, and even though the eastern and southern railroads gave me a 26% discount, what is that compared to a 400% increase?

"We do well in New York at Madison Square Garden, in Boston and San Francisco indoors and in no time that $25,000-a-day nut that we have gets drained. You can't take in 25G a day any more and why operate just to meet the overhead? That's why the portable top idea is just as spurious as all the 'expertizing' about 'overglamorizing' etc. Furthermore, I'll tell you a surprising thing or three which the short-memory, Monday-morning-quarterbacks forget or just don't know. And if they're ignorant that's all the more reason we should not take them seriously.

"Back in 1915 my uncle (John Ringling) told me that my other uncles and kin had told him just about the same thing 'what was wrong' as we have it today. Because in 1915 the Metropolitan Opera ballet master, Ottokar Bartik, under the then Gatti-Cazzazza regime, had staged our ballets and did so for four seasons. We had 120 girls, again in the same appeal-to-the-kids spectacles like the Cinderella story, or Rumpelstilsken or whatever.

Water Carriers, Etc.

"Who said pretty girls were ever a liability to any show biz venture? Uncle John said that at the time that if he 'had listened to anybody we'd be out of business in six months. Run the show as your best instincts tell you. Your judgment is as good, and should be better, because this is your property and your responsibility. Never mind listening to all those 'small show' experts who brag how they personally carried the water to the elephants. If all of them ever did all the bulls in world would be so waterlogged none of 'em could ever perform. It's like the 400 original Florodora Sextet girls I have personally met so far. If it weren't for the Big Top some of the small shows wouldn't have a prayer, so keep it that way Johnny'."

Class and ballet and fancy trimmings are not new to the Ringling show. The first year of World War II, 1942, saw Stravinsky, John Murray Anderson, Peter Arno, George Balanchine and Norman Bel Geddes contributing music, staging, design, ballet and costumes to the Big Top. That was the year, says North, that the show netted $960,000 before taxes. 650G after taxes, resulted in a $100,000 cash dividend, left $1,200,000 cash in the bank, and yet when the dissident members of the Ringling clan took over operations for the next three years the Big Top lost $5,000,000 and the $1,200,000 cash reserve was gone.

$1,100,000 From 'Greatest'

North thinks show business must think pretty well of his concept of a Ringling show for Cecil B. DeMille to pay him $1,100,000 which is his 10% share of "The Greatest Show On Earth" gross to date. Not counting the $276,000 from tv rights last year.

North stresses that "we didn't go broke and close. We closed because it was good business not to try and outsmart the law of diminishing returns. The moment labor and other factors started to make us 'the latest show on earth' was when I thought it wise to return to winter quarters. There, too, the 'experts' about our business seemingly don't know, or if they knew choose to forget, that we've returned to winter quarters in August and September in years before. True, never as early as July. Doing $25,000-a-day business, even though we had to spend it all for overhead, is nothing to be sad about.

"Of one thing I'm sure, even with fullest respect for what tv has done to us, certainly the Ringling circus has the best chance to buck this kind of competition because we come around only once a year. So if I route my plans to the indoor arenas we are on safer ground. We have bids from every hardtop auditorium but I don't want to make the same mistake of overextending ourselves with the indoor operation as we have with the Big Top, so it will take a few more weeks to decide the extent of our route. We can always add on dates."

On Continental 1-Ringers

In answer to the query whether he favors the Paris idea of one-ring, intimate shows, a la the Cirque d'Hiver and the Cirque Medrano, which is the general thing on the Continent, North says, "The Ameriacn public wants three rings; it favors the excitement of almost too much to see and digest, but that is the essence of 'The Greatest Show On Earth,' and besides we also have to give them sideshows and the menagerie and the other gimmicks."

North sees all this pro&con discussion as a great big plus of invaluable publicity value, "certainly the most free space we've ever snagged. Now they will look forward eagerly to see what boo-boos we will make. Strangely enough, the 1956 circus, as an attraction, garnered perhaps the best press of any Ringling show in decades, and this was from real experts whose job is to appraise and evaluate, not the disgruntled few press-agents who used to be allied with us and no longer are. I know where the knocks come from but I'm not going ever to dignify them.

"Sure, I hope we have no pickets when we reopen but as AGVA knows we have no objection to our acts joining their union or any other union. But this, too, is old stuff to us. We had it when Ralph Whitehead headed AFA (American Federation of Actors) and we have gone through all these labor relations problems in stride. Again to quote my favorite Uncle John, 'never lose your dignity'; we don't care whom they join but I don't see where and why we should pay $68,000 to a welfare fund or become a dues-collecting agency for AGVA. We have enough bookkeeping headaches of our own."

Early Foldo in '38

North continues about "premature closings" recalling that in 1938, when the AFA struck, he folded the Big Top after 11 weeks and sent out a smaller show which was a rump medley of the Al G. Barnes-Hagenbeck & Wallace and Sells-Forepaugh circuses, which titles the Ringlings owned and still do.

The circus, like much entertainment, is geared to the economy of the country and "if business in America is bad circus business is too," although admittedly this is not true circa 1956.

"More on 'overglamorizing' and 'over-showmanship' of the circus," says North. "In the same period that we had Frank Buck and Gargantua we had Charles LeMaire, who did the costumes for Florenz Ziegfeld, do 'em for us; John Murray Anderson, who staged for all of the top Broadway entrepreneurs, produced the Big Top for us; and Norman Bel Geddes, who designed for the Theatre Guild dittoed for the Ringling show. So you see we had pretty girls then, too, and lots of hoopla and glamor —and we did a terrific business! What's wrong with dozens of lookers on ropes in precision formation, playing xylophones or whatever?

"Umberto Bedini is scouting for novelties as we always have and the Ringling show will have 'em as it always has. Talent is no problem for the Big Top. The cream of the crop of the foreign circus acts first came to America and for us."

Tractors Saved 500G

North recites that in the same idiom of modernization of the circus he got nine caterpillar tractors instead of the hundreds of horses formerly used to haul the show "and they thought I was nuts in that department, too, but they soon found it saved us $500,000. There are elements of modernization we did in the cookhouse and wagons that these 'experts' don't know a thing about. All they know is the show folded 'prematurely' this year. The fact that this is smart showmanship and sound business, to prepare ourselves for the new scheme of things, playing less of 'the death trail' and more under hardtops; the fact this is plain commonsense for us to do so seems to be ignored."

North hit two more oil wells in Oklahoma. He has long been in oil with former Yale classmate Theodore Muhl, whose mother, incidental, was a sister of Florenz Ziegfeld Jr. The Muhls are dominantly in Parke, Davis (chemicals). North is also dominant in Florida realty, especially around Sarasota.

OK Sarasota Biz

Pleasant sidebar show biz surprise to North is the b.o. that the Ringlings' winter quaters menagerie and museum is attracting at 50c and $1 top. Being in "winter" quarters so early North sees, personally, how many tourists visit Florida in the summer, and while last winter the zoo took in $130,000 in three months, more surprising is the $4,000-a-week the Ringling zoo has grossed so far in July. This is the first year it's open the year 'round. It became a winter attraction the year before. "There is always something doing," says North, "and Sunday afternoons at three we put on a little circus as well. But dominantly they watch the horse-trainers and the like, visit the zoo, etc."

This is keeping him occupied while readying production plans with Miles White, Max Weldy, et al., for the 1957 resumption.

Gene Norman Expands

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Growth of his indie disk labels GNP (formerly Gene Norman Presents), Whippet and Dixieland Jubilee, has prompted Gene Norman to buy out the Eccles Recording Studios in Hollywood. Outfit will continue as in the past to provide recording studio services.

Pressure of added work anticipated as a result of the buy has prompted Norman to discontinue his Campus Club Show on KHJ-TV effective Sept. 1. He'll continue his nightly KLAC deejay program, operation of the Crescendo nitery and his concert activities and may launch a weekly tv remote from a teenage dance featuring name attractions.

RETAIL SHEET BEST SELLERS

VARIETY

Survey of retail sheet music best sellers based on reports obtained from leading stores in 13 cities and showing comparative sales rating for this and last week.

* ASCAP † BMI

| National Rating This wk. | Last wk. | Title and Publisher | New York—(MDS) | Boston—(Mosher Music Co.) | Philadelphia—(Charles Dumont) | San Antonio—(Alamo Piano Co.) | Chicago—(Lyon-Healy Music) | Indianapolis—(Pearson Music Co.) | Detroit—(Grinnell Bros. Music) | Minneapolis—(Schmitt Music Co.) | Kansas City—(Jenkins Music Co.) | St. Louis—(St. L. Music Supply) | Los Angeles—(Freeman Music Co.) | San Francisco—(Pac. Coast Music) | Seattle—(Capitol Music Co.) | TOTAL POINTS |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | *Whatever Will Be (Artists) | 1 | 2 | 5 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 3 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 118 |
| 2 | 1 | *Allegheny Moon (Oxford) | 2 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 1 | .. | 3 | 1 | 2 | 4 | 1 | 112 |
| 3 | 3 | †Wayward Wind (Warman) | 6 | .. | 9 | 3 | 7 | 5 | 4 | 8 | 2 | 3 | 3 | 6 | 2 | 74 |
| 4 | 4 | *Street You Live (Chappell) | 8 | 6 | 3 | 5 | .. | 8 | 2 | 2 | 10 | 4 | 4 | 2 | 7 | 71 |
| 5 | 5 | *My Prayer (Shapiro-B) | 5 | .. | 4 | 4 | 4 | 3 | 5 | 5 | .. | 5 | 5 | 10 | 4 | 67 |
| 6 | 6 | †Canadian Sunset (Meridian) | 3 | 4 | 2 | 6 | 8 | 4 | 7 | 7 | .. | 6 | 7 | .. | 5 | 62 |
| 7 | 7 | †Almost Lost My Mind (H&R) | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 3 | 6 | 6 | .. | 9 | 7 | 6 | .. | .. | 34 |
| 8 | 8 | †Old-Fashioned Girl (Valor) | 10 | .. | .. | 8 | 6 | 10 | 8 | 6 | 4 | 10 | .. | .. | 6 | 31 |
| 9 | 9 | *Moonglow (Mills) | .. | 9 | 6 | 9 | .. | 9 | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 20 |
| 10 | .. | *More (Shapiro-B) | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 13 |
| 11 | .. | *Give Us This Day (Valando) | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 12 |
| 12 | 11 | *Born to Be With You (Mayfair) | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 9 | .. | 9 | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 11 |
| 13A | 15 | †Soft, Summer Breeze (Regent) | 9 | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 |
| 13B | .. | †Hand in Hand (Republic) | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 10 |
| 15 | .. | *Picnic (Columbia Pic) | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 8 | .. | 8 |

Hampton British Tour To Open Oct. in London

London, Aug. 21.

Lionel Hampton band's forthcoming British tour has been delayed for three weeks and will now open Oct. 21 possibly at the Royal Albert Hall, London.

Impresario Harold Davison is arranging a nationwide itinerary of engagements, approximately 25 dates, with a farewel performance in London.

The Vic Lewis orchestra, which makes the reciprocal exchange, leaves London on Oct. 5 and opens in the U. S. on Oct. 10. It is expected that Lewis will join a package show already booked for dates at that time.

Chi Jazz Lineup Set

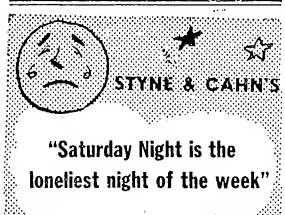
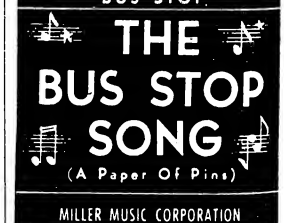
Los Angeles, Aug. 21.

Dinah Washington, current at Zardi's has been set to headline with Little Richard at the 12th Cavalcade of Jazz which will be staged at Wrigley Field, Sept. 2. Chuck Higgins orchestra and Bo Rhambo's Trio also will appear.

Annual bash includes a bathing beauty contest.





THE TWIN TUNES
QUINTET
Currently, SURF CLUB, Wildwood, N. J.
Sept. 26-30—EL RANCHO CLUB, Chester, Pa.
Oct. 4—3 Weeks—CONCORD TAVERN, Toronto
Oct. 29—2 Weeks—B & B CLUB, Indianapolis
Nov. 13—2 Weeks—PLAYDIUM, East St. Louis, Ill.
★ ★ ★ ★
ASSOCIATED BOOKING CORPORATION
JOE GLASER, Pres.
New York | Chicago 203 No. Wabash | Hollywood 8619 Sunset Blvd

SCOUTS IN MOUNTAIN CLIMES

Pistol-Play, Brawls Become Feature In Miami Beach's B-Girl Boob Traps

Miami Beach, Aug. 21.

The strippery circuit in this area hit the violence trail this week despite recent police-announced "close scrutiny" of the spots after complaints by patrons on padded bills and "rollings" by B-girls who infest the boob-trap locations. Topper was a fatal shooting which took place outside the Gaiety Club, on the Miami side of the Bay.

Shot to death was a young skiing instructor, while his friend was wounded by an unknown pair of men after the pair had become involved in an argument inside the club with a bartender and the manager. According to John Cook, the wounded man, he and the dead man, John Cahill, were about to drive away when two cars pulled up alongside theirs. A fist fight started, ending when an unidentified person fired a pistol twice, fatally wounding Cahill in the chest. He died en route to a hospital.

Rifled Purses

Cook at first accused the Gaiety manager, Arthur Pace and the bartender Walter Stettler of being the assailants, but the charge was later dropped. According to Beach detectives, Cahill had been in trouble earlier in the year on charges by several women from the Gaiety Club that he had rifled their purses at a private party he crashed at the strip spot.

In an unrelated affray, it took nine cops to break up a near-riot at the Harem Club when a patron, who first flashed a $1.000 bill, later attempted to break up the premises aided by three other men. The quartet were subdued after they had tossed huge potted palms through the front door, ripped up barstools and struck two strippers who had joined them. The results: The four were jailed, the big dough guy getting blackjack wounds in the head. One stripper charged with assault and battery. Decision by all to drop the matter was nixed by Municipal Court Judge Albert Saperstein after refusing to "allow the court to be

(Continued on page 52)

'Aqua Follies' Grosses 177G in Seattle Stand

Seattle, August 21.

Al Sheehan's "Aqua Follies" garnered a good gross of $177,521 in 16-performance run here in Aqua Theatre, August 1-13, during the annual Seafair.

Split is 50-50 on show with sponsor Greater Seattle, Inc., with civic promotion firm grabbing net profit of $26,500.

AGVA Snaps Whip In Midwest Area

Chicago, Aug. 21.

In an opening move designed to obtain adherence to American Guild of Variety Artists terms by New Orleans talent buyers, Seymour Weiss' Roosevelt Hotel there has been placed on AGVA's national "unfair" list and all AGVA acts have been pulled out. Action came last week when the hotel failed to meet AGVA's demands that it sign union's minimum basic agreement, pay welfare fund contributions for entertainers in the future, and post bonds for performers' salaries.

New Orleans AGVA rep Bill Hewitt, under the direction of Ernie Fast, AGVA's Midwest Regional Director, conducted negotiations. Fast is planning a similar campaign in St. Louis, leading off with the Congress and Chase Hotels.

BLACK ORCHID, CHI, IN $80,000 OWNER SWITCH

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Purchase price of Chicago's Black Orchid, recently sold by Al Greenfield to a group headed by Paul Raffles, the same group operating the Cloister Inn, is reported in the neighborhood of $80,000, Buyers put down $20,000 cash and assumed over $20,000 in 20% amusement tax due the U. S. government, to be amortized at the rate of $1,000 per month. The remainder will be paid to Greenfield in installments.

Government approval for the deal came through last week and the new management takes over Sept. 5, with its first show set for Sept. 6.

Double Life

One of Life mag's secretaries is doubling as a nitery singer at No. 1 Fifth Ave in New York. Fia Karin works for Charlie Tudor, Life's art director, during the day and is warbling at night at the supper club.

Miss Karin, a Juilliard graduate, has sung in summer stock musicals.

New MCA Dallas Booker

Dallas, Aug. 21.

L. W. (Duck) McClaugherty has taken over as booker here for the Dallas office of the Music Corp. of America, replacing Eddie Greene.

McClaugherty is a former nitery owner.

VIDEO, ETC., STILL ON TALENT PROWL

By JOE COHEN

The summer resorts are again being scouted as sources of cafe and television material. The talent agencies are scouring the hills in search of new potential, particularly in such resorts as Green Mansions, Warrensburg, N. Y.; Tamiment, Tamiment, Pa.; and Scaroon Manor, Schroon Lake, N. Y.

The search centers around these spots, not only because of the possibility of finding performing material but as a laboratory for writers, directors, producers, scenic artists, lighting men and others. The variety revues in these spots have been originally written and produced by staffers and while many individual performers will carry away vast chunks of material for use on the winter circuits, the collective efforts are still worthy of further use on video.

The mountain spot revues became important some years ago, when the William Morris Agency pulled Max Liebman out of Tamiment, and Music Corp. of America got Ernest D. Glucksman out of Green Mansions. Both of these figures are still important in video production on NBC-TV.

However, the value of these spots is again zooming. The variety revue is looming into greater importance because of the growing use of tv spectaculars. The agencies are using these spots to test sketches, as well as larger works. For example, William Morris as well as others scouted a full-length opera commissioned by the Ford Foundation at Tamiment and given Aug. 11.

The new crop of overall producers at both resorts also are being propositioned for video. Monroe B. Hack, producer at Tamiment, and Mickey Ross of Green Mansions are entering the deliberations of the talent agencies in plotting submissions to the networks and advertisers.

Also responsible for building the resort possibilities is Dave Bines,

(Continued on page 52)

Supermart Show of Shows Sets 40-City Tour This Year With Top Name Lineups

Supermarket Show of Shows, the Youngstown, O., outfit which tours entertainment packages for supermarket chains, has set a 40-city season this year, with names like Julius LaRosa, Georgia Gibbs, the Four Aces and Fran Warren toplining their various tours. Outfit, headed by Bob Thompson, is only in its second year; last year it toured only five cities, playing in auditoriums and on fair grounds to over 325,000; this year, with 40 cities lined up, it anticipates a total audience of 1,750,000 in stints ranging from one-niters to week-long stands.

Under the setup, Show of Shows contracts with supermarket chains to do shows in their coverage areas, with customers turning in the stores' cash register receipts for tickets. Season kicks off Oct. 14 with a split-week between Oklahoma City and Tulsa for one chain, with LaRosa, Miss Gibbs and the Four Aces toplining a "house" bill (which will support the headliners in virtually all the appearances) comprising Francis Brunn, the Abbotts and Bobby McFadden. Troupe hits the Columbus and Toledo area the week of Nov. 11, then is off on a one-and two-niter" tour on Nov. 17 through Dec. 2, with the topliners in this tour consisting of the Four

(Continued on page 52)

H'wood Nitery Pacts Hoofers for Long Term

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

First longterm pact ever inked by a local nitery with a dance troupe has been signed between the Club Seville and the Lester Horton Dancers. Modern toe outfit recently completed a three-week stand at the Seville to top business.

New contract calls for 16 weeks of appearances through 1957 with the dance outfit granting the club an exclusive on its services in return for the guaranteed playing time.

Plan A. C. Motel With Cafe Acts

Atlantic City, Aug. 21.

The first resort motel to book night club acts will be erected here this autumn and will feature, at its beachfront uptown location a restaurant, swimming pool with plexiglass cover for winter use, plus free rolling chair rides on the boardwalk and cuffo transportation to and from mainland golf courses. Construction costs will be over $2,000,000, according to its backers, Arthur A. Handler and Benjamin Kramer, resort businessmen.

Hotels here depend on orchestras of various types as a means of entertaining their guests, booking with them sometimes one or two acts. For the past several years 500 Club has been only spot, besides Steel Pier, which aims at tourist trade, to bring in top names.

Way for construction was paved last Thursday (16) when Handler and Kramer bought parcel of land on uptown boardwalk from resort. They now own 70,000 square foot area.

Jimmy Ellyn Drops Baton To Join McConkey Artists

Jimmy Ellyn, midwestern orch leader, is giving up his band to join the Chicago office of McConkey Artists. He'll handle the bookings of small musical units. He replaces Phil Field, former McConkey veep, and reports to Dick Shelton, outfit's prez.

Addition of Ellyn is part of the agency's move into the dixieland field pointed up of late in the pactings of Jack Teagarden, Nappy Lamare, Ray Baduc and Pee Wee Irwin.

COMEDY MATERIAL
For All Branches of Theatricals
FUN-MASTER
THE ORIGINAL SHOW-BIZ GAG FILE
(The Service of the STARS)
First 13 Files $7.00—All 35 issues $25
Singly: $1.05 per script.
• 3 Bks. PARODIES, per book $10 •
• MINSTREL BUDGET ..... $25 •
• 4 BLACKOUT BKS., ea. bk., $25 •
• BLUE BOOK (Gags for Stags) $50 •
HOW TO MASTER THE CEREMONIES $3.00
GIANT CLASSIFIED ENCYCLOPEDIA OF GAGS, $300. Worth over a thousand
No C.O.D.'s
BILLY GLASON
203 W. 54th St., New York 19—Dept. V
Circle 7-1130

"GAY NINETIES TROUBADOUR"
The Life Story of
JOE HOWARD
"I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now"
POCKET EDITION
$1.00
Write: JOE HOWARD
1685 Lenox Ave.,
Miami Beach, Fla.

VING MERLIN
and his
VIOLIN BEAUTIES

MILWAUKEE, WIS., FAIR, Aug. 18-25
ST. PAUL, MINN., FAIR, Aug. 26-Sept. 3
Mgt.: Jerry Levy - Fred Amsel
Direction: William Morris Agency

GENE and her GENIE
GENE GEMAY's new Arabian Nights Fantasy with Aladdin's Magic Lamp and the fabled Genie
Just Concluded
CHAUDIERE CLUB
Ottawa, Canada.

Dear Mr. Bennett:
M'amselle Gemay is a superb artiste. We are all looking forward to her return engagement in the near future.
Respectfully,
AURELE TREMBLAY,
Manager, Chaudiere Club.
Personal Management:
BOB BENNETT
1600 Chancellor Street
Philadelphia, Pa.
Tel.: PENNYPACKER 5-2880
VARIETY:
Chaudiere, Ottawa
Ottawa, Aug. 9.
Impressively stacked blonde uses a dream theme . . . Staging is okay and customers give the session rapt attention and solid mitting at finish. Gorm.

Central Canada Exhibition Clicking With Parlay of Names, Oldstyle Corn

Ottawa, Aug. 21.

When television came to Canada, attendance dropped at the Central Canada Exhibition, so tv was blamed. This year, the CCE, which preemed Saturday (18), is designed to buck video and is using like Mills Bros., Lassie, Clarabelle and others for its grandstand show.

But the midway, Frank Bergin's World of Mirth, is using weapons that television can never use. It's boxoffice power is in the sounds of sirens, motors, spielers, front shows and the rasping tunes from ferris wheels and merry-go-rounds, the sights of new canvas, blatant show fronts and all the color and excitement of the midway's 35 rides and half-a-hundred shows.

Bergin has ignored the advice, particularly strong in recent years, to streamline and modernize his carnival. He sticks to the corn and if this year's opener is any indication, records in attendance and revenues will be made.

CCE runs to Aug. 25. It opened with an hour-long parade that started in Hull, Quebec, and ended in front of the grandstand at Lansdowne Park. It had eight bands, television names, gigantic galloons. Each day at the CCE a new car is won by some stubholder; chances go with admission tickets. CCE is also raffling a completely furnished home at $1 a chance.

Basically, nothing is new along canvas row. There's Club 18, a femme show; Gay New Orleans, a Negro rock 'n' roll session; Dancing Waters back for a second year; Harry Fee's monkey circus, Ebersole's giant dog and midget horse, Harry Sidell's fat lady, Walter Wanous' freak show, Doc Hardeviek's snake show, George Murray's motordrome, Bob Herman's Midgets, Bobby Hill's Montana wild west show, others.

Hardly is there a switch from the past quarter-century, and the mobs line up as always, only there are more people this year, for opener at least. Officials are sure the 500,000 mark will be passed for CCE's first time.

Great, But Boring

Montreal, Aug. 21.

How utterly ravishing can a show get?

Montmartre Cafe's newspaper ads here proclaim "Rodrick Scott Dancers, Eight ravishing dancers: accompanied by Ginger Atley, ravishing dancer; Lusa Ribera, ravishing dancer."

Dick Contino Hit With 500G Breach-of-Contract Suit by Romm in Florida

Miami Beach, Aug. 21.

Dick Contino will play a return date here in 25 days—the location this time being Federal Court where he must answer suit for breach of contract in a $500,000 suit filed by his former manager, Leonard Romm, now Miami area head of the General Amusement Corp.

Contino was ticketed for the return date while playing at Eden Roc. He has retained a local lawyer through his Los Angeles attorney Jerry Geisler to try to have the suit stopped. According to Romm, Contino came to him in May, 1954, and allegedly asked him to enter into an agreement whereby Romm was to become his "personal manager" and to remain so "as long as he was in the entertainment business."

At the time, Romm continues, Contino "expressed dissatisfaction with his act . . . the general reception he was receiving from the public" and . . . "adverse publicity." Romm then "closed out his office" dropping all other management contracts, agreeing to take over Contino for an agreed salary ($300 weekly), plus expenses and percentage of the accordionist's earnings.

The suit asserts Romm was fired in November, 1954, and that Contino refused to pay any monies due him under the agreement, or to make adjustments. Attempts at settlement never reached final stages, according to Romm and when Contino came to fill the Eden Roc engagement, he was forced to serve notice of the suit.

S.F. VENETIAN ROOM ENDS TALENT POLICY

San Francisco, Aug. 21.

Fairmont Hotel's Venetian Room, last hotel room in Frisco presenting name entertainment, will close down following Dec. 16 Ella Fitzgerald date. Reason is that it loses money—$200,000 last year.

Ben Swig, Fairmont's owner, plans to use room for banquets, private parties next year.

McGuire Sisters Set B.O. Record in Mass. Spot

Salisbury Beach, Mass., Aug. 21.

A new record was set by the McGuire Sisters, topping their own previous mark for the spot last season, at Dennie Mulcahy's 1,200-seater Salisbury Beach Frolics for the week ending Saturday night (18).

The singing sister trio pulled in 16,000 for seven days, opening Sunday (12), topping their last season's record here of 15,000. Admission to the club, which has no minimum, is $1.20. Spot is only 50% airconditioned and, testifying to the sister's pulling power, 1,000 stood in line waiting for the first show in the sweltering heat last Saturday night.

Billy Daniels to Wind British Tour in Oct.

London, Aug. 21.

Billy Daniels is scheduled for two-week stand at the Prince of Wales Theatre, London, Oct. 8, to conclude his British tour.

Mel Torme opens the variety season for two weeks commencing Sept. 10. British stars David Whitfield, Joan Regan and Dickie Valentine are also in line for top billing.

Brit. 'Paris by Night' Ends Long, Clicko Run

London, Aug. 21.

Current edition of the Folies Bergeres show, "Paris By Night," presented jointly by Val Parnell and Bernard Delfont, ends its Prince of Wales theatre run on Sept. 8 after 898 performances. Since April, 1955, when the production first opened, it's estimated that nearly 1,000,000 customers will have seen it.

In December, the newly-cast show begins a lengthy South African tour. Delfont is already planning another Folies spectacle to open at the Prince of Wales in March next. A vaude season opens at the theatre on Sept. 10, with Mel Torme, David Nixon and Jimmy Wheeler topping the bill.

Miami Beach

Continued from page 51

used as a collection agency" when the brawlers wanted to settle damages out of court.

Third item on the circuit: Virginia Carroll, who works under the name Dixie Evans, is in fair condition following reported overdose of barbiturates. Medicos pronounced her on the way to recovery after treatment. Featured at the Place Pigalle for several months, Miss Eavns has been building a big rep with patrons of the undrapers locations. According to a club spokesman, she had become involved in contractual difficulties, with pacts to work in two different clubs at the same time. The Pigalle is still billing her in big-space ads, in what is evidently a continuing promotional buildup.

Supermart Show

Continued from page 51

Aces, Miss Warren and a film star still to be set.

The one-niter tour embraces El Paso, Lubbock, Albuquerque, the New Mexico towns of Littletown, Clovis, Hobbs and Roswell, Ft. Worth, Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo. Later in the year, units are set for Montreal (two weeks, duplicating last year's stand), Boston, Cleveland, Kansas City, Youngstown, St. Louis, Mobile, Wichita, Tampa and St. Petersburg. Units generally play auditoriums or fair grounds; the Oklahoma City date, for example, will be played at the Municipal Auditorium, but the Tulsa stint will be at the Fair Grounds Pavilion. Both of these are three-a-day operations; Thompson says 92,000 tickets have been picked up already.

Show of Shows sets the deals with the supermarkets and books the acts; it then assigns MCA, the William Morris office or General Artists Corp. to package and produce the shows.

Scouts

Continued from page 51

who takes an annual leave from his producer's post at the Palace Theatre, N. Y., for work in Scaroon Manor. He has been building the value of the resort to the point where talent offices become interested. The percenter reps usually take in that spot while going around to Green Mansions.

These resorts also serve a function for the agencies and networks in seasoning talent. Both Green Mansions and Tamiment were incubators for some top names including Imogene Coca and Dick Shawn. As in the case of Shawn, the Morris office persuaded him to work several seasons at Tamiment so that he could learn more about handling sketches. Spot also has been used by dancers to break in a set of whole new routines and also to get experience in sketches and voice.

One of the advantages in working these places comes with the preparation of new shows on a frequent basis. Ability to learn new lines, songs and routines is a necessity in video, and knack is acquired in these spots. Recognized mountain entertainers can be obtained at comparatively low cost. The acts are sold on the idea of taking a vacation but actually, some say, it's harder work than in the winter season. It's a practical laboratory course that pays off handsomely.

Inside Stuff—Vaudeville

Allan & Ashton, currently appearing at the Sahara Hotel, Las Vegas, are not a "new act" as reported last week (15) in VARIETY. Act had been split up for considerable length of time, and have just returned to the boards employing choreo they initiated in 1952. During splitup, however, Allen, act's male member, was employed as specialty dancer and assistant to choreographer Dorothy Dorbin at the New Frontier, Vegas.

NEW CIRCUS OFFSHOOT BOWS IN STROUDSBURG

Stroudsburg, Pa., Aug. 21.

The new Maley's Three-Ring Circus, formed out of the bankrupt King Bros. and Barney Bros. Circus, gave its premiere performance here Saturday (18) before a crowd of about 3,000. For about a month, the bankrupt King Bros. Circus was stranded here as efforts to organize a new circus were under way by Arnold F. Maley and some associates from Macon.

A new $10,000 white-and-red-trimmed canvas top has been secured. Some acts from other bankrupt circuses were added. Among the acts are the Alberto Zoppe troupe, Lee Pettis and his elephants, Jean Carr, Madame Ronda and others. Maley said, as the circus progresses throughout towns in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, other acts will be added.

Vaude, Cafe Dates

Chicago

Don Shirley Duo, Jo Ann Miller set for Chicago's Black Orchid, Nov. 1 . . . Eddie Barnes into the Colony Club, Omaha, Sept. 14 for two frames . . . Lucille & Eddie Roberts into the Statler Hotel, Cleveland, Oct. 22-Nov. 4 . . . Jack Marshall, Roger Ray play the Du Quoin, Ill. State Fair, opening next Sunday (26) for a single stanza . . . Ronnie Eastman pacted for the Chez Paree, Chicago, Nov. 16 for three frames, on the bill toplined by the Vagabonds . . . Mello-larks coming to Chicago Oct. 18-20 for clubdates and teevee appearances. . . . Eddie Peabody pacted for the Town House, Indianapolis, Oct. 8. . . . Red Reynolds trio into the Town House, Indianapolis, Sept. 17 for two-stanzas.

Dallas

Roger Williams, into the Statler's Empire Room for two frames, also inked for Oct. 16 free East Texas Day Cotton Bowl show during the Texas State Fair. The Sportsmen also on the bill . . . Gordon MacRae, Prof. Backwards, The Sportsmen, Bob McFadden and three other acts set for Aug. 29 show at SMU for American Bar Assn. convention . . . Colony Club dated the Commodores for Sept. 28. Mel Torme's return set back to Nov. 16 . . . Tommy Hanlon into private King's Club . . . Dave Chenault, local pianist-vocalist with long runs at private clubs here, goes to the Vagabond Club, Corpus Christi, Tex. . . . Bobby Batson and Lieux Dressler filling a return date at the University Club . . . Organist Hugh Waddill opened at the new Monaco Room.

Kansas City

Hotel Muehlebach is bringing in vet Leo Reisman's orch for a four-week stand in the Terrace Grill Sept. 14, first time in several years Reisman will have been in town. He succeeds Joe Reichman, who will make it a three-month stand by then. Grill will have Eileen Rogers for a fortnight opening Aug. 31 . . . Al Horvath Trio moves into the Muehlebach's Picardy Cafe Sept. 16, following Three Men & a Maid . . . Bob Manning to Omaha for a single day, after his tdo weeks at the Muehlebach Hotel, then to New York for some Victor recording sessions . . . Three Bonnie Sisters and Dick Roman heading bill at Wildwood Lake . . . Les Brown band due in the Pla-Mor Ballroom for a one-nighter Aug. 25 . . . Lawrence Welk comes to Municipal Aduitorium Sept. 5 for a one-nighter.

Atlantic City

Julius LaRosa into Steel Pier starting Sunday (26) with Karpis Trio, Paul Sydell & Susie, Alphonse Berge, Will Jordan, who will emcee show, playing in Music Hall for a week . . . Stan Rubin & his Tigertown Five booked into Pier Marine Ballroom Friday (24) through Aug. 30 . . . The Five Keys into Weekes' Lounge . . . Keefe Brasselle, Julie Gibson, Arlene DeMarco into Wedge (21).

L.A. Restores License To Padlocked Spot But Still Raps Bourbon's Sex Switch

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Entertainment license of the Melody Room was restored by the L. A. County Public Welfare Commission, effective Aug. 31, after a hearing that established the commission has its own severe ideas of booking standards. One of these is that Ray (or Rae) Bourbon, is an "undesirable performer.

Hearing on the license was held after the Melody Room had been shuttered for a week by Sheriff's deputies on the grounds that it was presenting an indecent performance in the show offered by "Miss Rae" Bourbon, vet femme impersonator who recently underwent a sex change operation in Mexico. Hearing had no connection with a still pending trial of (Miss) Bourbon on charges of impersonating a woman.

Commission member Harry Farrell recalled he had warned Melody Room operator Jack Gordon not to book Bourbon and emphasized that the performer is undesirable as far as the commission is concerned. Ban apparently has nothing to do with Bourbon's "changed" act, or indeed with anything but the fact that the commission objects to any booking for the entertainer regardless of what type of act might be presented.

Rev. Andrew F. Griffin, another member of the commission, testified he attended the show and found it obscene and profane. He described a segment of the act which he found obscene. Rev. Griffin also objected to the performer's "satirizing" his own arrest for impersonating a woman and complained "this entertainer also drinks."

Scot Duo Bow In London

Glasgow, Aug. 21.

Chic Murray & Maidie, Scot vaude act, is pacted for opening variety bill of new season at Prince of Wales Theatre, London, teeing off Sept. 10.

Act will be making its London bow.

Lucille and Eddie
ROBERTS
Originators of
"WHAT'S ON YOUR MIND"
Still at the
PRINCESS HOTEL
Bermuda
Mgt.: MCA

WHEN IN BOSTON
It's the
HOTEL AVERY
The Home of Show Folk
Avery & Washington Sts.
Radio in Every Room

Latest ABC-PAR Record
Chigger Chigger Wa Wa b/w Remember When
CAB CALLOWAY
Currently
CASINO ROYAL
Washington, D. C.
Mgt. BILL MITTLER, 1619 Broadway, New York

WANTED
ATTRACTIVE LATIN TYPE GIRL WHO SINGS AND PLAYS MARACAS. STEADY ENGAGEMENT IN BOSTON. TO FRONT ORCHESTRA
JACK MANDEL
SUITE 601
1697 Broadway, New York 19, N.Y.

YVONNE MORAY
Currently
AMATO'S SUPPER CLUB
PORTLAND, OREGON
MILTON DEUTSCH AGENCY
9157 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif.

$25 A THOUSAND FOR 8 x 10 GLOSSIES!
Our process gives you 1000 reproductions from your photo, printed on NON-CURL glossy stock. Almost impossible to tell from actual photos. Reruns are only $17 a thousand. Send for a sample.
KINNEY LITHO SERVICE
542 S. Dearborn, Chicago, Ill.

FLAGPOLE SITTER FOR TWO WEEKS IN NORTH JERSEY. MUST HAVE OWN EQUIPMENT.
Call or write: MR. GOLD
663 Maywood Ave., Maywood, N. J.
HUbbard 7-5020

HARVEY SCHWARTZ
Personal Management
550 Fifth Ave., N. Y. 36, N. Y.
Plaza 7-6454

VARIETY BILLS

WEEK OF AUGUST 22

Numerals in connection with bills below indicate opening day of show whether full or split week

Letter in parentheses indicates circuit: (I) Independent; (L) Loew; (M) Moss; (P) Paramount; (R) RKO; (S) Stoll; (T) Tivoli; (W) Warner

NEW YORK CITY

Music Hall (R) 23
Kirby's Ballet
Tamara Manookian
Kathryn Kelly
Frank Lester
Ted Monson
Angelo Nicelll
Corps de Ballet
Rockettes
Glee Club
George Sawtelle

Elliott Reid
Albert Sturm
Palace (P) 24
Antar & Rasha
Simpson's Co.
Derby Wilson
Gene Jimae
Mr. Ballantine
Charmonaires
Artie Dann
Elimar

AUSTRALIA

NEWTON
Elizabethan (T) 27
Philip Stainton
Percy Marmont
Noel Howlett
Richard Beynon
Nicolette Bernard
Edward Hepple
Barbara Wyndon
Harvey Adams
Frank Taylor
Mayne Lynton
Osmond Wenban
Victor Lloyd
Nancye Stewart
Stewart Finch
Carole Taylor
SYDNEY
Tivoli (T) 27
Bayes & Faye
Jack Powell
Billy Banks & Ptnr
Barbour Bros. & Jean
Rin-Aruso
Bill Finch
Lawman & Joy
Barry Rugless

Robert O'Donnell
Alwyn Leckie
Adele Inge
Lamb & Rahlen
Barbara Howe
Reg Penny
Joe Whitehouse
Wim de Jong
Geoff Thorne
Dorothy Hickey
NEW ZEALAND
DUNEDIN
Majesty's (T) 27
Hite & Stanley
Howell & Radcliffe
Ross & La Pierre
3 Gipsys
Salici Puppets
Neal de Newton
Laycock & Maureen
Stuffy Bryant
Jenny Howard
Alain Diagora
Leon Cortez
Frank Ward
J McCormack
Daniel Davey

BRITAIN

ASTON
Hippodrome (I) 20
Eddie Reindeer
Desiree et Pierre
Glyn Thomas
Duncan Sis
Noble & Denester
BRIXTON
Empress (I) 20
Jimmy French
Muldoon & O'Gray
Simmy Russ
Violet Tye
Grayson Cousins
Douglas Creek
Margo Austin
Kim Leopold
Terry Shaw
BLACKPOOL
Palace (I) 20
Albert Modley
Edna Savage
M & B Winters
Francis Langford
4 Najazos
Hollander & Hart
Paulette & Renee
Pip Hinton
Matt Lamore
Arthur Summner
Winter Garden (I) 20
Dave King
Shani Wallis
"Mrs. Shufflewick"
Jones & R Arnold
Devine & Sparks
Sonny Roy
Margaret West
4 King Tones
Opera House (I) 20
G & B Bernard
Eve Boswell
Freddie Frinton
Patricia Dahl
Lane Bros.
Hall, Norman & Ladd
Ghezzi Bros.
BIRMINGHAM
Hippodrome (M) 20
Syd Seymour Co.
De Yong & Delysia
Treble Tones
Revel & Fields
Constance Evans
BRIGHTON
Hippodrome (M) 20
Ruby Murray
Reg Dixon
Tommy Fields
Audrey Jeans
D & D Remy
Skylons
Kathryn Orlo Trio
Belles & Beaux
Jack Simpson
Una Stubbs
George Mitchell
CHELSEA
Palace (I) 20
Jean Raymond Co.
Ragoldi Bros.
T Godfrey Dee
Billy Livingstone
Picaro & Giovanni
Ross & Ramaya
Coral Gaye
Lyndons
Terry James
COVENTRY
Hippodrome (I) 20
David Whitfield
Saveen & D May
Janet Brown
Max Geldray
Bobby Limb
Flying Dernos
Hal Garner
Devlin & Partner
Shane & Lamrr
CHISWICK
Empire (M) 20
Dorothy Squires
Jimmy Wheeler
Group One
Larry Grayson
Fox Twins
Barbara & Wendy
June Birch
2 Pirates
4 Cassandras
DERBY
Hippodrome (M) 20
Billy Daniels
Len Marten
Terry Scanson
Shipway Twins
Martin & Gaye
Rossinas
Swie & Joe Slack
FINSBURY PARK
Empire (M) 20
Al Martino
V & V Shelley
Eddie Arnold
3 Granadas
Sherry Wainer
Joan Kayne
Roger Carne
Raf & Julian
GLASGOW
Empire (M) 20
Jerry Colonna
Ray & Kimberley

Monsieur Defore
Betty Driver
Vic Sanderson
SWANSEA
Empire (M) 20
Johnson & Carr
Dorothy Reid

White & Ann
Granger Bros.
Ossie Morris
Frances Duncan
Tex McLeod
Fred Atkins

Cabaret Bills

NEW YORK CITY

Blue Angel
Orson Bean
Mae Barnes
Portia Nelson
Roy Benson
Charaas
Anny Kapitanny
Lili
Bela Babal Orc
Thor Charlossy
Bill Yedla
Dick Marta
Chateau Madrid
Helen Aimee
Porcho
Ralph Font
Copacabana
Al Bernie
Four Lads
Bob De Voye
Bob Travis
Dorothy Malone
Douglas Clarke
Michael Duroso Orc
Frank Marti Orc
Duplex
McCormick & Huff
Bob Dorough
Ada Moore
No. 1 Fifth Ave
Cedrone & Mitchell
Fia Karin
Ann Hewett
Bob Downey
Harold Fonville
Hot'l Henry Hudson
Joan Sloan
Hotel Roosevelt
Eddie Lane Orc
Hotel Taft
Vincent Lopez Orc

Hotel St. Regis
Milt Shaw Orc
Ray Bari Orc
Latin Quarter
Betty George
Harmonica Rascals
Szony & Patti
Trio Bassi
Eileen O'Dare
Jo Lombardi Orc
B Harlowe Orc
Park Sheraton
Alan Logan
Eddie Layton
Versailles
Lou Nelson
Nancy Donovan
Bergman & Mimi
Salvatore Gioe Orc
Panchito Orc
Viennese Lantern
Margarita Sierra
Luc Poret
Ernest Schoen Orc
Harold Sandler
Paul Mann
Village Barn
Frank Matthews
Johnny Gilbert
Vivian Swanson
Larry McMahon
Piute Pete
Harry Ferdel Orc
Irving Harris
Waldorf-Astoria
Los Chavales
Trini Reyes
Emil Coleman Orc
Mischa Borr Orc
Village Vanguard
C Williams Trio
Maxine Sullivan

CHICAGO

Black Orchid
Fran Warren
Dave Gardner
Fred McKenzie
Blue Angel
"Calypso Latina"
Zoila D'San
Rafael Ery
Mighty Panther
Betty Lewis
Al D'Lacy Orc
Blue Note
Duke Ellington
Chez Paree
Spike Jones
Helen Grayco
Chez-Paree Ad'r'bls
Brian Farnon Orc
Cloister Inn
Lurlean Hunter

Pat Moran 4
Dick Marx
Johnny Frigo
Conrad Hilton
"Wonderful Time"
Shirley Linde
Michael Meehan
Neff & Voss
Jan Tors
The Torianis
D Arnold & Marji
Virginia Sellers
John Keston
Boulevar-Dears & Boulevar-Dons
F. Masters Orc
London House
Teddy Wilson 3
Palmer House
Harry Belafonte
Charlie Fisk Orc

LOS ANGELES

Ambassador Hotel
Hildegarde
Blackburn Twins
F. Martin Orc
Bar of Music
Elsa Oria
Dick Curtis
Carlos Noble
Ruben Moreno Orc
Biltmore Hotel
Dave Barry
Albins (2)
Alcettys (2)
Kay Cee Jones
Hal Derwin Orc
Ciro-ette Room
Nejla Ates
Skeets Minton
Felix Martinique
Geri Galian Orc

Crescendo
Tony Martinez Orc
April Ames
Larry Allen
Mocambo
Arthur Ellen
Carmen D'Antonio
Carl Carelli Trio
Paul Hebert Orc
Moulin Rouge
Johnny Ray
Slate Bros. (3)
Ffolliott Charlton
Eddie O'Neal Orc
Statler Hotel
Aileen Stanley Jr.
Chop Chop & Charlene
Frederick & Tanya
Eddy Bergman Orc
Fajardo Orq

LAS VEGAS

Desert Inn
Gordon MacRae
Jackie Miles
Sheila Stephens
Donn Arden Dncrs
Carlton Hayes Orc
Dunes
Jazz At Philharmonic
Buddy Rich
Oscar Peterson
Ray Brown
Herb Ellis
Roy Eldridge
Illinois Jaquet
Flip Phillips
El Cortez
Mary Beth Hughes
Bobby Davison Orc
Jimmy Brown
Taffy O'Neill
Cirquettes
Sterling Young Orc
El Rancho Vegas
Joe E Lewis
Lili St Cyr
Renee Molnar Dncrs
Flamingo
Ritz Bros.
Estelita
Half Bros.
Don Kirk
Mary Menzies
Flamingoettes
Lou Basil Orc
Golden Nugget
Harry Ranch Orc
Poly Possum
Joe Wolverton
Eddie Gomez
New Frontier
Mickey Rooney
Roberta Sherwood
Joey Forman
Dick Winslow
Wilder Bros.
Venus Dancers
Garwood Van Orc
Riviera
Blackouts of '56

Ken Murray
Marie Wilson
Royal Guardsmen
Anthony & Allyn
Martin Bros.
The Shyrettos
Little Buck
Nancy Wynne
Gene Pellicci
Barry Gordon
Riviera Dancers
Ray Sinatra Orc
Sahara
Ames Bros.
Billy DeWolfe
Allan & Ashton
Sallarem Dncrs
Cee Davison Orc
Sands
Peggy Lee
Sue Carson
Clark Bros.
Copa Girls
Antonio Morelli Orc
Showboat
Joaquin Garay
Marlene
Garr Nelson
Showboat Girls
Mike Werner Orc
Silver Slipper
Fawzia Amir
Haller
Hank Henry
Sparky Kaye
Mac Dennison
Cliff Ferre
J. Cavanaugh
Slipperettes
G. Redman Orc
"Haller Girl"
Thunderbird
The Gaylords
Landre & Verna
Ruwe, Louie & Sunshine
Barney Rawlings
Thunderbird Dncrs
Al Jahns Orc

MIAMI-MIAMI BEACH

Bar of Music
Bill Jordan
Gina Valente
Hal Fisher
Beth Challis
Harvey Bell
Fred Thompson
Ciro's
Eden Roc
Lillian Roth

J Conrad Dancers
Mal Malkin Orc
Chuey Reyes Orc
Fontainebleau
Sunny Gale
Shecky Greene
Sacasas Orc
Isle de Capri
Frankie Scott
Eleanor Lucken

Buddy Lewis Orc
Leon & Eddie's
Can-Can Girls
Flash O'Farrell
Marian Wilkens
Denise
Atoma
Lucerne Hotel
Maxie Rosenbloom
Lucerne Lovelies 6
Elaine Deming
Mel Green
Jacques Donnet Orc
Malayan
Rivero Quintet
Bimini Mama
Pierre Duval
Murray Franklin's
Don Rickles
Bobby Sherwood
Peter Brady
Murray Franklin
Cookie Norwood
Nautilus
Rolly Rolls
Nina Dabore

Antone & Ina
Syd Stanley Orc
San Souci Hotel
Herkie Styles
Nancy Ford
Gil Marr
Sammy Walsh
Freddy Calo Orc
Seville
Larry K. Nixon
Rosina Aston
Tommy Ryan
Johnny Silvers Orc
Rey Mambo Orc
5 O'Clock
Sharon Knight
Al Golden
Tommy Raft
Parisian Rev
Vagabonds Club
Four Aces
Frank Fontaine
Peterson Dancers
Frank Linale Orc
Woody Woodbury

HAVANA

Sans Souci
Bergaza & Tarraza
Diana Carol
Roberto Barcelo
D'Aida
Ortega Orc
Nacional
Chiquita & Johnson
Betty Reilly
W. Reyes Orc
Tropicana
Gloria & Rolando

S Suarez Orq
A Romeu Orq
Pepe Biondi
Tito Hernandez
Armanda Roblan
Carlos Faxa
Lago Sisters
Rafi Munoz
Monimartre
Lola Beltram
C Playa Orc
Fajarda Orc

RENO

Mardi Gras Lounge
Four Knights
Billy Duke 4
Music Masters 4
Mapes Skyroom
Billy Eckstine
Skylets

Ed Fitzpatrick Orc
Riverside
Dorothy Shay
Rowan & Martin
Les Marsellis
Starlets
Bill Clifford Orc

LAKE TAHOE

Bal Tabarin
Woody Herman
Mary Kay Trio
Cal Neva
Pearl Bailey
Slate Bros.

Cal-Nevettes
Will Osborne Orc
Harrahs Club
Louis Armstrong
Treniers
Mickey Katz

Pix Block

Continued from page 5

a hint of the subject matter, however, can be gleaned from the prepared advertising and publicity.

In "Tea and Sympathy," dealing with a boy's fear of homosexuality, the advertising emphasis is placed on the hit Broadway play. Metro feels that the picture's theme is well known since the play ran for 91 weeks on Broadway and toured some 40 cities with the original cast—Deborah Kerr, John Kerr, and Leif Erickson—which is appearing in the film. No mention of the homosexual content, of course, is made, but such catch lines as "Love Story of a Teenage Boy and an Understanding Woman" and "When Does a Woman's Sympathy End and Her Indiscretion Begin?" are introduced. A portion of the dialog is also offered as a vague hint—"'Years from now,' Laura was softly saying, 'when you talk about this—and you will—be kind.'"

In "The Bad Seed," the key figure is an eight-year old murderess. However, WB's campaign carefully avoids any mention of the child's part in the story. The advertising art implies, a sex shocker, showing a woman in a transparent gown silhouetted in a doorway. The copy lines say, "A Hidden Shame Out in the Open and the Most Terrifying Rock-Bottom a Woman Ever Hit for Love" and "Talk All You Want About the Man and the Woman But Please Don't Tell About the Girl." Warners is also recommending that exhibitors put a "for adults only" tag on the picture.

In another recent example where an effort was made to disguise the contents of the picture, the approach backfired. This occurred with "Somebody Up There Likes Me," the Rocky Graziano biopic. Metro skirted the hoodlum and juve delinquency aspects and stressed the inspirational and love angles in an attempt to lure the femme trade. The approach, however, was not successful, and when the film did not draw, as had been expected, the campaign was changed to play up the more seedier side of the film.

Beer Barons

Continued from page 1

bearing down principally on sports figures.

The readymade headliners out of the sports pages are naturals for the suds-and-quaff middlemen and consumers, and many of them have developed little "acts" of their own. Mostly it's in the form of personal anecdota, with a humorous twist, or a routine of "the latest stories," and just as often laced with a little vocalizing, saxing or ukeing. They are the conventional extra added attractions at banquets and such, and there again the local liquor merchant or brewer supplies the dais names cuffo.

Much of this activity runs around the year from Labor Day until late spring. The summer is no problem—beer sells itself.

House Reviews

Paramount, N. Y.

Frank Sinatra, Joey Bishop, Dorsey Bros. Orch. (27) with Lynn Roberts; "Johnny Concho" (UA), reviewed in VARIETY July 11, '56.

Frank Sinatra, the Dorsey Bros. and especially the round-the-block opening day queues made it seem like old times at the Paramount last week, all of which should set the United Paramount high command to thinking about a possible revival of stageshow policy.

There was no doubt that the crowds came with the purpose of seeing Sinatra, who hasn't made a New York stage appearance since he played the Paramount in March of 1952. But it's also a possibility that audiences are surfeited with remote-control entertainment, be it television or motion picture, and are back in the mood for live presentations. That's something the Paramount can ascertain only by another try, either on a special "one-shot" basis or on a regular policy.

At any rate, Sinatra, in for a one-week-only stand originally aimed at bolstering his indie production, "Johnny Concho," which shares the bill, has made this a personal triumph, pulling in the daytime bobby-soxers and the evening adults (most of them no doubt the bobby-soxers of the middle '40s) with equal facility. Apparently, he's slanting his stint that way too, saving the chatter for the teenagers and doing an uninterrupted-by-smalltalk fast 30 minutes in the evening.

Sinatra's in fine fettle for this outing—his voice is as strong and flexible as ever and his mastery of phrasing and style were never more apparent. There may be more relaxed or powerful singers (to take the extremes) in this business, but there's nobody who can turn a musical phrase with Sinatra's ease and aplomb. If anything, there's a tendency towards over-stylization—the skipped beat and the delayed take—but Sinatra makes it look like it was written that way.

His repertory in this stint is restricted to standards with which he's become associated, not so much by an initial identification with the songs but by his album waxings. In this respect, as in others, it's an indication that he's pulling in the crowds as Sinatra the polished performer, rather than on the basis of any current record hit or vogue. He kicks off the stint with "You Make Me Feel So Young" and runs through a string of such pieces as "My Funny Valentine," "Just One of Those Things," "Taking a Chance on Love," "Little Girl Blue," and a torrid "All of Me." Windup is "A Foggy Day in London Town."

Dorsey Bros. orch, enlarged for the stint by eight strings and a harp, doesn't take much of a backseat to Frankie either, since they can stand on their own record as far as the old Paramount days go. And they are crowd pleasers, if only in retrospect, with a long medley of their old classics that drew instantaneous recognition and applause. It's still a solid outfit, as witness a belting version of "King Porter Stomp" for the opener. Another "like old times" asset is a band vocalist who can sock across a song (you don't hardly get that kind anymore), and that's Lynn Roberts, who sells "World on a String" and a ditty called "Pet Me Papa" with savvy and style.

Joey Bishop does more than fill out the bill. He's a firstclass comic and he rolls 'em with a string of stories and one-liners on topics ranging from television to popular songs to old reliables like the heat. It's a fast-paced turn that leaves 'em begging.

All told, an auspicious return to stageshows at the Par after nearly three years, and who can tell if it won't start something? Chan.

Palace, N. Y.

Cycling Kirks (2), Bobby Brandt, Leonardo & Anita, Lee Sullivan, Three Arnauts, Alphonse Berge (4), Lee Davis, The Great Barton (2); "These Wilder Years" (Metro) reviewed in VARIETY July 25, '56.

New Palace layout, composed mostly of vet turns, adds up to an entertaining package. Spotty weaknesses in individual acts are compensated by the overall performance.

Standouts in the lineup are Irish tenor Lee Sullivan, The Three Arnauts, and The Great Barton in a balancing routine.

The Cycling Kirks (2) open the bill, using to good effect a variety of unicycles and bicycles in many intricate and fancy riding stints. They are followed by teenage Bobby Brandt, an acrobatic tapper, strong on somersaults but weak on grace. He does come through fine though on his version of a modern soft shoe dance.

The veteran ventriloquist team of Leonardo & Anita has a big array of puppets. Although the numbers underline Leonardo's voice dexterity, it might be wise to specialize with fewer dummies, allowing better characterizations with more updated material.

Sullivan, an old hand at the Palace, belts out a medley of sweet pop tunes in a pleasing, emotional fashion, winding up with "Somewhere Over the Rainbow," as a plug for Judy Garland's upcoming Palace engagement.

There's nothing new in the takeoff of The Three Arnauts, simulating romancing birds, but it still holds up in comedy appeal. They could update their slapstick short intro with string instruments, though.

Assisted by three goodlookers as models, Alphonse Berge makes the most of his dress designing bit, using bolts of cloth and a few pins. Humorist Lee Davis takes awhile to warm up, but his patter about suburbia is well received. His material is not too fresh and a number of his night club off-color gags are lost in this setting.

The Great Barton, a Swiss balancer who has done circus stints, closes the bill.

Assisted by a girl, he has a suspenseful, exciting act, specializing in finger balancing.

Kal Kirby, in the pit, performs his batoning chores competently. Horo.

Empire, Glasgow

Glasgow, Aug. 14.

The Hilltoppers, Frankie & Maisie Mumford's Puppets, Billy Baxter, Two Pirates, Will Carr & Partner, Len Young, Hill & Billy, Kay & Valerie Glynn, Bobby Dowds orch.

The Hilltoppers, U. S. vocal combo garbed in red jerseys, grey flannels and white shoes, are an entertaining athletic-looking quartet as billtoppers here. Act makes favorable impression with varied songalog, ranging from "P.S. I Love You" to a trumpet bit in "O My Papa" and their disclick "Only You."

Group, led by warm personality of Jimmy Sacca, registers well. Comedy byplay is okay in generally entertaining act, as is the impressions work of Eddie Crowe, baritone of foursome. He does travesties of Gary Cooper, Mitchum and (in rock-'n'-roll talk) Cagney.

Quartet also registers with "The Kentuckian Song," "Teardrops from My Eyes," and "To Be Alone." Exit to good palming.

Frank & Maisie Mumford (New Acts) present a well-balanced puppet parade to close the first half of layout. The Two Pirates strike comedy seam with aero-humor in pseudo-acro item. Two males of medium and diminutive size, they have flying wires to suspend smaller of twosome while partner feigns muscular strength in lifting him.

Bill Baxter is a standout in slotting before the Hilltoppers. He does a bright takeoff of show biz through the years, ranging from silent flickers to old-time comedian of the 'twenties. Also impersonates the slick type of U. S. comedian as well as American war films, latter with aid of noisy offstage recorded effects.

Hill & Billy, mixed twosome, shape promisingly with harmonica novelty (New Acts). Will Carr balances and juggles with balls, cubes and sticks while lying upside down, using only his two feet. Len Young (New Acts) is a better singer than comedian. Kay & Valerie Glynn open the bill with dance spot, garbed in straw hats, striped blazers and natty canes.

Showbacking by the Bobby Dowds house orch is okay. Gord.

CNE's McElroy Ill

Ottawa, Aug. 21.

Herb. H. McElroy, general manager of the Central Canada Exhibition in Ottawa for the past 26 years, will miss his first CCE this year.

McElroy is seriously ill in the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Flamingo, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Aug. 16.

The Ritz Bros. (3), Estelita, The Half Bros. (2), Don Kirk, Mary Menzie, The Flamingoettes (10), Lou Basil Orch (13); $2 minimum.

The Ritz Bros., sparked by a 10-minute walk-on ovation on opening night (16) here, pulled all the stops on their loaded bag of yock-getters before a packed house.

They whip into their sortie with a mischievious toast to the bosses called "It's Great To Be At The Flamingo." Then it's off on a tour south of the border at they revive "The Mexican Disk Jockeys." Their uninhibited capers become brasher and the kudos swell as they unfold their w.k. characterization of Johann Strauss. "No New Tunes On This Old Piano" prefaces their usual prowl through the audience. "After The Show" signals more nonsense, and sets up traditional soft shoe exit.

Estelita's Latin songology ranges from the soulful to the satiric vein. Opener is a fired up "Cuban Love Song." Here she switches the mood for a spoof called "The Hills Of Cuba." She goes dramatic for a poignant rendition of "La Virgen de la Macarena," her interpretation of the matador's prayer is clearly understood despite the Spanish lyrics. She hits with "Quesas, Quesas, Quesas," a cutie during which she employs both Espanol and Anglo lyrics. She splices her songs with infectous patter that leans heavily to her native accent. Windup "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee" is sock as she sings, struts, then peels to tights to reveal shapely figure.

The Half Bros. score well as the curtain launcher. They use Indian clubs and hats and employ w.k. juggling tricks. Technique is good. Climatic juggling aboard bicycles gets duo off to sound applause.

Don Kirk hoofs and sings and Mary Menzie turns a neat ballet toe to guide The Flamingoettes through the production numbers. Louis Basil is highly competent in his dual role as emcee and orch leader. Alan.

Beverly Hills, Newport

Newport, Ky., Aug. 17.

Marion Marlowe, Georgie Kaye, Janos & Bogyo, Donn Arden Dancers (10), Dean Campbell, Gardner Benedict Orch (10), Jimmy Wilber Trio, Larry Vincent; $3 minimum, $4 Sat.

Marion Marlowe contributes high entertainment value to this fortnighter. It's her first appearance at Greater Cincinnati's top swankery. Results, as in the case of Frank Parker, her erstwhile singing mate in the old Arthur Godfrey family, have the welcome mat out for returns.

In a gold lame, off-the-shoulder gown that accentuates her tall hour-glass figure, the sparkling brown-eyed brunette magnetizes attention without need of a spotlight. On the boards for 26 minutes, she enhances personality with artistic use of hands and arms. And on a couple of fast numbers the soprano makes with effective swishing of hips. Songalog includes "Mr. Noah," "Autumn Leaves" and an aria in Italian. Jerry Bresler is Miss Marlowe's pianist and director.

Georgie Kaye, back for his second visit, rewards with a sparkling half-hour of humorous banter and a bit of tapology.

Janos Bogyo, robust males in natty sport attire, register solidly with five minutes of nonchalant hand balancing in the opening spot.

Three routines by the Donn Arden line, with tenor Dean Campbell as emcee and backing by the Gardner Benedict combo, give color and filling to the 75-minute proceedings. Jimmy Wilber Trio takes over for intermissions and Larry Vincent sings and plays piano in the cocktail room. Koll.

Black Orchid, Chi

Chicago, Aug. 14.

Fran Warren (with Joe Stein), Dave Gardner, Fred McKenzie, Joe Parnello & Al De Marco, Kenny Sweet; $4.50 minimum.

Last display at the Orchid under Al Greenfield's aegis headlines Fran Warren, well-known to Chicago theatregoers for her lead role in the Chi company of "Pajama Game," and a pair of newcomers to town as support. Bill should do okay biz.

Miss Warren knows how to belt out a song in the best musicomedy style, but this is not what is particularly needed in a nitery. Femme's a looker, and attractively gowned, but more intimacy and a stronger repertoire are needed to make this a potent cafe turn. Opening with a series of show tunes establishes Miss Warren's school, but leaves something to be desired here; the songs have good lyrics but none of them too w.k.

Toward the end Miss Warren essays the intimacy bit with the hand mike, but doesn't turn the volume down, destroying the effect. In the latter half of her turn, distaffer includes some pop standards and current faves, i.e. "I'll Get By," "Always," "Just One of Those Things," and "I've Grown Accustomed to Your Face." Joe Stein backs neatly on the '88. More of same, and some torchy things, plus a more intimate style would help this turn immeasurably. Miss Warren goes off to good palms, however.

Dave Gardner handles comedy chores, with a turn obviously inspired by the Andy Griffith success. Unfortunately more than a broad dixie accent are needed to duplicate same. Introduction of hipster terms to the southern idiom is a Gardner variation of the Griffith style, and that's where it particularly fails. A few blue notes don't help much either. Gardner essays a few songs along with the humor, displaying a strong, melodious set of pipes almost reminiscent of the Cantor-Jolson school of singing. Gardner wraps up with a southern hipster telling of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar." He goes off to okay mitting.

Fred McKenzie attempts a sophisticated Elvis Presley routine, and here again there's nothing like the original. McKenzie is a personable, good-looking young man, but he overdoes the sexy approach, hoarsely whispering all songs. Accompanying himself on the guitar, he employs some of the same body movements used by Presley, inviting comparison and suffering therefrom. There is almost no change of pace in his act, all numbers being of the slow variety, further slowed up by the delivery. He does "Baby Talk to Me," "Wayward Wind," "Memories Are Made of This." Development of a more original style and variety would help this singer greatly. He gets off to fair palms.

Joe Parnello and Al De Marco do the usual workmanlike job of showbacking with Kenny Sweet adeptly handling intermission keyboard chores. Gabe.

Chaudiere, Ottawa

Ottawa, Aug. 14.

Somethin' Smith & His Redheads (3), Val Setz, Dora Adorables (6), Harry Pozy Orch (8); $1 admission.

Chant-instrumental trio, Somethin' Smith & His Redheads, sell a commodity that always has a market—corn. Mixing tall-stalked gag items with downright rickyticky tunes, the group collects yocks on a sprinkling of comedy production items including a swami number and a spoof on Stokowski's batoning, but biggest returns come from straight tune work with Smith switching from guitar to banjo at times, others staying with 88s and bass fiddle.

A frantic session of juggling hat, coat, cane, etc., plus a solid line of gab brings good mitting to Val Setz. Juggler's pacing is clicko throughout and routining gets the tablesitters in a receptive mood from teoff. Setz missing a few easy ones to move the customers to his side.

Chaudiere's Rose Room introduces a new femme line this week, the Dora Adorables spicing the menu with three routines, Spanish, Cuban and rock 'n' roll, last showing a frenzy of action to a blasting score. Harry Pozy band does a standard job on showbacking. Gorm.

Sahara, Las Vegas

(FOLLOWUP)

Las Vegas, Aug. 14.

Billy deWolfe hangs out the "extra-added" shingle during the second and third week of the current four-frame Sahara opus that toplines The Ames Bros. Brand new to this circuit, DeWolfe presents a refreshing approach to the comedy line that will appeal to the gaming sophisticates and will be a vital asset to the efforts of the Ames freres and the overall show, currently clocking SRO biz.

DeWolfe's savvy is illustrated in his opening impresh of the chorus, showdolls and emcee of a night club. He dresses drama with satire to kid the temperaments of a thesp. His sense of humor borders, for a moment on a Chas. Addamsish vein with his recreation of the Frankenstein monster. Salvos are long after his wrapup, a cocktail lounge scene spotting his w.k. Mrs. Mergatroide characterization.

Otherwise on the bill, all remains the same—the Ames four coming off DeWolfe's merry sortie to unroll their well-receiving song sesh, and Allan & Ashton launching the curtain with their terp satirics. Alan.

Copacabana, N. Y.

The Four Lads, Al Bernie, Bob Voye Trio, Line, Bob Trevis, Dotti Malone, Gail Robbins, Douglas Clarke, Mike Durso Orch, Frank Marti Samba Band; $5 minimum.

For the summer season, the Copa is apparently staying on a pop disk name policy. Following the Eydie Gorme stand, the Four Lads are now headlining with another musical act that apparently is slanted more for the record-buying bobbysoxers than the older nitery crowds. However, the vocal combo turns up with a highly pleasing act for all-comers.

Al Bernie turns in a more traditional Copa act. Although getting off rather slowly with a special material song, Bernie picks up momentum with his gags, zanyisms and mimicking ability, one of the best being his takeoff on Elvis Presley. Also gets strong reaction with his Roberta Sherwood and Sammy Davis Jr. carbons and his Scotch mambo bit.

Bernie's gags are not all 100% pure and while completely okay for the usual nitery clientele, some of the lines may be slightly too rough for the teenagers who have come to hear the Four Lads. Bernie, in any case, has to beg off after a long performance.

The Four Lads, who have been clicking on Columbia Records after stepping out as the background ensemble for Johnnie Ray, have a neatly staged routine. It's virtually all singing with just enough patter, comedy byplay and special medleys to supply the color and the pace.

They don't need the greatest pipes to click and any weaknesses in this department is compensated for by their youthful zeal and their pleasing ensemble tone. Their songalog is a rundown of all their discliclis, including "No, Not Much," "Down By The Riverside," "Istanbul," "Standing On The Corner," "Moments To Remember" and their current "A House With Love In It." There are, wisely, no obtrusive plugs for their records. Among their most effective bits is their tribute to Frank Loesser, a medley of the latter's hits interspersed with the songwriter's biog. A bit sticky at times, but well done.

The Bob Voye Trio, the opening turn, is reviewed under New Acts. The production numbers, featuring Trevis, Dotti Malone, Gail Robbins and Douglas Clarke, are all holdovers from the previous show.

Mike Durso does his usual fine showbacking job, alternating with the Frank Marti band for customer dansapation. Herm.

Hotel Muehlebach, K. C.

Kansas City, Aug. 17.

Bob Manning, Joe Reichman Orch (8); $1-$1.50 cover.

Another session of the summer policy at the Muehlebach's Terrace Grill has Joe Reichman continuing the dance tempos and Bob Manning in to warbie his first stint in this town. The show is all Manning, who dashes off 10 tunes or so and provides a trim 25 minutes of entertainment with generous backing from the Reichman crew.

Manning is a tall, goodlooking boy, who is largely relaxed while warbling his list. He leans heavily to the standards, and adds an intimate note to most. He does "Something's Gotta Give," "The Nearness of You," "I've Got That Old Feeling," "I've Got the World On a String," You'll Never Walk Alone," and others. Orch leader Reichman sits in at the keyboard on a closing medley backing Manning for what proves to be a choice bit.

With this show Reichman goes into his third month in the room, and is due to stay till mid-September. Dance floor has been filled steadily all summer which means good biz for the room as a regular diet. Quin.

Thunderbird, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Aug. 16.

The Gaylords (3), Landre & Verna (2), Ruwe, Louie & Sunshine, Barney Rawlings, Thunderbird Dancers (8), Al Jahns Orch (12); $2 minimum.

The Gaylords have built up a good size following via disks, and should do okay biz for the Navajo Room during the interim fortnight leading up to the Labor Day holidays. Moderately budgeted package is well rounded with Landre & Verna, held over, and ventriloquest act of Ruwe, Louie & Sunshine.

Gaylords have fashioned a solid cafe act parlaying songs and comedy. They blend three strong voices to w.k. ballads and their own record hits. Instrumentally, partners Don Rey at the keyboard and Billy Christ on bass add good rhythmic punctuation to trio's balladeering. Act is fronted by Burt Bonaldi who inserts homey monologs within the tune framework. In this vein, yocks are loud for a satire of the dialects of pop tunes, and impreshes of w.k. singers, while trio explains that "You Can't Go Wrong With An Italian Song."

Landre & Verna move into sixth week of what had originally been set as a five-frame engagement. Precisioned tricks and smooth floorwork during lilting opener; a spoof of the terpsichore art in "Oh, You Beautiful Doll" and their explosive paso doble number have all been retained. For the fortnight, though, they have expanded to embrace an exciting interpretation of the tango.

Ventriloquist Ruwe knows his trade well. He has a casual approach and an astute savvy which allows him to create pathos or evoke chuckles during his repartee with animated balsa stoogies, Louie and Sunshine. That he has the patrons charmed is indicated when he tunes up nostalgic medley and quickly inspires a community sing.

Barney Rawlings is usually proficient as emcee and lends warmth to lyrics of both production numbers, holdovers from previous show. Al Jahns orch musically guides the show. Alan.

Dunes, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Aug. 16.

Norman Granz' "Jazz At The Philharmonic," with Oscar Peterson, Herb Ellis, Buddy Rich, Ray Brown, Illinois Jacquet, Flip Phillips, Roy Eldridge; no cover or minimum.

The Dunes is providing a new showcase for jazz. How successful the coupling of jazz and a Vegas nitery will be, in terms of an expedient towards reducing entertainment costs of this inflated circuit, could well be answered this week as Norman Granz wheels his "Jazz At The Philharmonic" into the Arabian Room for a seven-nighter.

One thing is certain, as far as the addicts are concerned, Granz' JATP concert is a real gone bash. The sesh revolves around Oscar Peterson and his articulate nimbleness at the keyboard. But as Granz himself points out at the opening, "Jazz At The Philharmonic" is unique in that the musicians have no arrangements, there are no rehearsals, no music stands or even chairs on the stage, no uniformity in dress, and each performance is marked by different compositions and by different interpretations. In short, JATP is a spontaneous jam session during which the individuality of the artist is reflected. With respect to the latter, each member takes a solo turn. Flip Phillips and Illinois Jacquet click on saxes and Buddy Rich, unleashes the whole book of percussion techniques. Rich's rapidity on the skins is almost impossible to follow with the naked eye. Roy Eldridge intensifies the excitement with his trumpet blasts.

Peterson on the piano, Ray Brown on bass and Hal Ellis on guitar provide JATP with the pretty segment of the performance, emracing tunes like as "Love For Sale," "Tenderly," "Almost Like Being In Love." Occasionally, if the mood is right, Peterson lends himself vocally to intone the lyrics. Appropriate gusto of all as a unit is signalled during the upbeat numbers, such as the finale "Air Mail Special." Granz speaks with authority during his role as JATP emcee. Alan.

Gatineau, Ottawa

Ottawa, Aug. 18.

Phyllis Marshall, Pat Henry, Stamfords (2), Jack Morley, Lindsay Day Dancers (6), Champ Champagne Orch (8); $1 admission.

This is the second week Canadian television names have been given top billing at the Gatineau Club. Last week, Billy O'Connor and group; this week, sultry-piped Negro looker, Phyllis Marshall (New Acts), a gal with a big video following who has bigger impact on a floor than on the 21-incher.

Miss Marshall, like so much new native talent, comes with a ready-made following and clicko training in showmanship via video.

Pat Henry's comedy gabbing is too blue for this room. There are probably rooms where Henry's routine would click but this isn't one of them. The Stamfords work a nice session of adagio laden with plenty high spins, lifts and flips to good mitting. Like so many terp acts, they insert bits of weak gab that could be eliminated.

Heldover are the Lindsay-Day Dancers in three clicko routines, and Jack Morley who chants with the line, solos and emcees the show. Champ Champagne band showbacks and plays for dancing between shows. Gorm.

Palmer House, Chi

Chicago, Aug. 16.

Harry Belafonte (with Millard Thomas, Frantz Casseus), Charlie Fisk Orch with Lee Charmel; $2 cover.

Appearing in Chicago for the third time within a year (the second in the Empire Room), Harry Belafonte demonstrates that three times in 10 months is not too often for Belafonte fans, out in force opening night. Having smashed the house attendance record last time around, balladeer bids fair to equal or better his own mark during this four-weeker, opening Thursday (16).

Belafonte unwraps several additions to his repertoire this time around, though none seems to have the power of his better-known identification pieces. But the vital style remains the same, the keen showmanship edge is undulled and the crowd buys it all with the same wild enthusiasm as heretofore.

Bowing with "Hello Everybody," Belafonte launches into such faves as "John Henry," "Scarlet Ribbons," and "Hold Him Joe," displaying a superlative command of the room as he does so. New entries offered here are "Man Smart, Woman Smarter," "Jamaica Farewell," and "When the Saints Go Marching In." Latter, introed as a Britisher would do it, starts off in a humorous vein and segues into the usual rousing delivery.

Belafonte paces the floor as he sings with lithe grace. He plays the mike cord as if it were a bullwhip. And the vocal styling matches the coiled-spring promise of his walk. Simple red shirt and black trousers, coupled with expert use of lighting, is all the staging needed here for maximum effectiveness. The act builds solidly, and the crowd's plaudits with it, till, for the clincher, Belafonte has the customers chiming in on "Matilda" for the wrapup. He goes off to sustained salvos.

Expert guitar backing is provided here by Mildred Thomas and Frantz Casseus, the latter a Haitian import and a new addition to the turn. The Charlie Fisk house band does admirably on the backstopping as well. Gabe.

The Village, S. F.

San Francisco, Aug. 14.

Abbott & Costello, Bob Williams, Ron Hargraves, Joy Healey Dancers (7) with Dick Merritt, Leon Radsliff Orch, Guy Cherney; $2 minimum.

Abbott & Costello had rough going in what they said is their first nightclub appearance but finally got to them.

After 12 minutes of their old routines, revolving around a few non-sequiturs and the mispronunciation of Worcestershire Sauce, Costello impatiently stamped his foot and loosened up enough to tell a couple of ancient burlesque jokes, thus garnering the first real laughs of the evening. Then the pair bring on their protege, Ron Hargraves, and let him sing a couple of novelties, play the guitar and play the ukulele for close to 15 minutes.

When A & C returned they had a couple of props, with which they proceeded to do their shell-game act and Costello traded Abbott two $10s for a $5. Soon they realized the audience was still sitting on its hands, so Costello cut loose again with several short gags and a good deal of jumping around. Seeing the audience warm up on opening night, Lou said, "This is what you're going to get in the next show," and the pair closed with their classic "who's on first" routine for the first real ovation of the act.

They work very hard, but just couldn't relax sufficiently to put over their creaky material. Or perhaps the material is simply too well-scrubbed.

Hargraves needs considerable polish for this league. He has an engaging personality and a true, if small, voice. But playing "Tico Tico" on the uke is not very exciting nightclub entertainment at best.

On the other hand, Bob Williams' 15-minute dog act, which precedes Abbott & Costello, rates heavy applause and lots of laughs. Williams uses a droopy hound dog and tries to coax him through a series of tricks, with a sly satire on serious dog trainers. The dog, of course, doesn't respond to anything so Williams pushes the hound into each desired position, and near the act's end brings on a real trick pup. Results are socko.

Joy Healey's Dancers, who open and close show, are disorganized. Leon Radsliff's orch is adequate and Guy Cherney handles the few emcee duties nicely. Stef.

500 Club, A. C.

Atlantic City, Aug. 18.

Vic Damone, Joan Walker, Lenny Kent, Boots McKenna Dancers (8), Jack Curtis, Joe Frasetto Orch (12); $5 minimum Sat., $4 weekdays.

Vic Damone tops the talent in Paul (Skinny) D'Amato's supper club until Thursday (23) when Frank Sinatra comes in for a four-day stay, already a sellout.

Damone, no stranger here, he fast wins the tablers he has not won before. His intimate manner is pleasing to all, and his agenda of songs is picked for his 500 Club audience.

His top number is his Columbia disk, "On the Street Where You Live," with the Frasetto tooters backed up by a Damone trio of piano, bass fiddle and guitar. This is his concluding offering, but goes over so well that Damone had to do it over again as an encore. On top of that he gives three more numbers, including the big favorite, "Yiddishe Mama," before they let him go. Most of his numbers are oldies, "What Is This Thing Called Love," "These Foolish Things," "Dancing Cheek to Cheek" and "September Song."

Joan Walker is a neat tapster, the red head looker doing neat job while the McKenna Dancers featuring Danny Carroll put on two nice production bits. Lenny Kent, booked with Damone, missed opening night's dinner show.

Walk.

Sans Souci, Miami B'ch

Miami Beach, Aug. 18.

Herkie Styles, Nancy Ford, Sammy Walsh, Freddy Calo Orch; $2.50 minimum.

The Blue Sails Room in this mid-Beach hostel has been holding consistent patronage, thanks to popularity with the guided tour ops who keep their groups coming for the two shows nightly. Basic reason is the "happy to have you atmosphere from maitre d'Ross to host-emcee Sammy Walsh on the floor, who guides the proceedings around the budgeteers with the comics featured usually working them into the act.

Thus, younger and/or upcoming laughmakers are booked to allow for profitable windups on the books . Typical is Herkie Styles. The lad's been around, albeit he's yet to hit the more demanding class cafe route. That could be a matter of time if he'd get himself a more potent script to buttress his flair for yockful, clowning carbonings of the well-knowns. As is, he tosses a welter of lines and bits of biz into the pot, some old, some new, some zany, some blue. The sum total is a pleasant one for the Blue Sails' attendees who eat up the lines that bring them into the spotlight.

Young Nancy Ford is a nice looking thrush with a fair set of arrangements on the pops. She handles her song slot in good style.

Sammy Walsh, per usual, is a wily emcee who warms them quickly, works into the comedy segments as foil for styles at end of his canto, and in general, adds the knowhow touch to keep them interested in the goings-on. He's leaving for a date in Manhattan then returns in November to take up the same duties on a long-termer for the winter season.

Freddy Calo and his group are also perennials in this spot and rate the holdovers, playing the shows adeptly and setting up tricky Latin-rhythms for the dansapation.

Lary.

Chase Club, St. Louis

St. Louis, Aug. 16.

Fernanda Montel, George Hopkins, Nino Moraes Orch (5); $1-$1.50 cover.

Harold Koplar, maestro of this westend spot, seems to have found a hypo for this airconditioned room via the booking of foreign born chanteuses. Two weeks ago Monique Van Vooren from Belgium not only scored solidly but drew fine biz. This is being repeated currently by Fernanda Montel, a willowy blonde of French parentage who holds the customers in rapt attention in addition to having fine pipes and a flair for putting over her ditties.

Her repertoire is well chosen as she selects French and American tunes. Her "Piano du Pauvre," parts of which are done in both English and French, cops a hefty mitt. For her "Gualante" she thrushes to groups of ringsiders and tosses in a few dance steps. Her opening ditty, "Paris Champagne," gets off in the right mood that remains throughout her 30 minutes stint. She also does "Wrong Time," "April In Portugal," "Street Where You Live," and others.

George Hopkins, a comic, tees off the proceedings as m.c. with a gag, not too new and then reappears for the close with new material that cops lusty yocks. He also does a brief take off of Elvis Presley and garners more okays with his vocalizing of "Without A Son." He has nice baritone pipes.

The proceedings are neatly backed up by Nino Moraes' boys with the maestro doing some deft work on the 88.

Sahu.

Lake Club, Spgfld., Ill.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 13.

Dorothy Lamour, Benny Meroff & Kathleen McLaughlin, Walt Loftiss Orch.; $1.80 admission.

Dorothy Lamour, in for 10 days, is bringing out lots of supper club delegates and winning their endorsement with her magnolia mannered vocalistics.

The only surprise in the Lamour layout is her working without the sarong, her pic trademark. Not even Hawaiian leis. However, her hula arm and hip movements in beaded gowns and fringful skirts keeps the identity Lamour, toujours.

"Be My Guest," a special material ditty, sets the informal mood of her turn. A concealed wireless apparatus on her person and bandstand radio antennae allows her to stroll, greet and sometimes kiss male ringsiders. The "let's all have a big party" tone continues as she turns autobiographical comedienne to trace her "Road to Malibu" in a musical skit called "The Girl Who Brought Southern Hospitality to Hollywood."

Introing her capable accompanist, San Mineo, she lounges on the piano—the better for her girdled battery to pick up bits of his "California Rhapsody," excellently rendered and received. Mineo's few strains of "Rhapsody in Blue" sets the mood for "He Was Too Good to Me, True," a torcher handled with smoldering sex appeal by Miss Lamour.

Smartly, the film singer skips the "and then I introduced this one" bit as she offers a medley of her top film songs. Bits of "Moonlight and Shadows," "Tangerine," "An Apple for the Teacher," "Personality" to "Moon of Monacoora" keep applause building.

Miss Lamour tries an exit with "Piano Roll Blues" after 30 minutes or more on the floor. For encores she gives "There's Danger in Your Eyes" coupled with "Come Rain or Come Shine" and "I'd Rather Be a Dreamer."

Opening the show is Benny Meroff, vet Chicago musician-comedian showing off his crazy instruments while comely Kathleen McLaughlin cavorts in the background. Grabbing a clarinet, Meroff does a Ted Lewis impresh for solid reaction and the comedy duo scores with a rapid repartee lampoon of television commercials.

Walt Loftiss' young band does well by all concerned.

Wayn.

Versailles, N. Y.

Nancy Donovan, Lou Nelson, Jerry Bergman & Mimi, Salvatore Gioe and Panchito bands; $5 minimum.

Except for bookings of Edith Piaf, the Versailles had been sticking to a revue format for the past few years. Current show marks the club's switch back to acts. The changerover is being pleasantly handled by songstress Nancy Donovan, comedian Lou Nelson and the Jerry Bergman & Mimi magico turn.

Miss Donovan's date follows a two-year overseas stay. The chirp is in good form. Her 30-minute songalog includes standards, pops, special material and a click calypso offering. She's covering the best-selling lists with "The Street Where You Live" and "Whatever Will Be, Will Be," while an operatv satire, comprising takeoffs on a pot pourri of video commercials, is an okay novelty switch.

Nelson, a holdover from the prior show, "Fashions in Rhythm," registers effectively with his gagstering. He's an affable comic, with chuckle-pulling savvy. His material holds up well for the 18 minutes he's on. Bergman & Mimi get the show rolling, with the former demonstrating slick styling in his sleight of hand trickstering. His running bit of dropping colored ping pong balls from his mouth is good for laughs, while his overall performance is personable and pleasing. Femme assists.

Salvatore Gioe and Panchito bands do their usual fine job of musicalizing.

Jess.

Sands, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Aug. 15.

Peggy Lee, Sue Carson, Clark Bros. (2), Natalie & The Beachcombers (4), Copa Girls (12), Antonio Morelli Orch 12); $2 minimum.

Peggy Lee is one of this circuit's more prominent regulars. Her sensuous embrace of tune and lyric are to the liking of the gambling crowd. And, there's no doubt she will lure plenty of customers during her four frames in the Copa Room, handily adjacent to the spa's casino.

Unfortunately however, her act has been altered little from that of past engagements and this repetition creates a mechanical appearance to her format. What new touches she has invested in this turn are weak and only tend to make her overall presentation seem contrived. That aspect is most obvious during the distracting parade of torero-attired Copa Girls down the aisle during Miss Lee's lilt of "My Matador." Sans the production flourishes, the tune could be one of her best numbers. Also, chirp's orchestrations sometimes over-arranged and much too lush. Generally, less effect would probably be more effective. Despite these points, Miss Lee still remains a polished performer and poignant interpreter of song.

Sue Carson has a charming sense of ribald humor that scores effectively. She expresses her opening tune, "The Smartest People In The World Are Men," with wide-eyed innocence, but punctuates followup inferences with pointed patter. Comedienne then slices off some gags that score instant yocks. Impreshes of the styles of w.k. singers, are sock. Finale has her vocally painting the "Seven Lively Arts," which evolves into smart cafe stuff and ignites heavy mitts.

Clark Bros. are no strangers here and their familiar terpsichorics give pace to the show. Their machine-gun like taps and precisioned tricks generate excitement. Copa Girls follow vocal course chartered by Natalie & The Beachcombers during production numbers, both holdovers from previous bill. Antonio Morelli batons a slick show throughout.

Alan.

Riviera, Las Vegas
(FOLLOWUP)

Las Vegas, Aug. 15.

Ken Murray and Marie Wilson have uncorked "Blackouts of '56" in the Clover Room for a repeat performance after an absence of only four weeks. Show's current month long stand still will total 18 weeks it has played here in less than a year, and from all indications the revusical could encore here indefinitely.

Murray's gags, as dated as they may be, are still bounced to good results off the curves of Miss Wilson. Together they intersperse through the barber shop harmonizing of Ben Yost's Royal Guardsman, ballroom comedics of Anthony & Allyn (now a duo, as partner Hodges was injured in an auto accident few days prior to the Riviera bow), deft juggling of the Martin Bros., bicycle choreo of The Shyrettos, acro terping of Little Buck, piano-drum pyrotechnics of Nancy Wynne and Gene Pellicci, and the rock 'n' roll stomp of seven-year-old Barry Gordon.

Notably, young Gordon stops the show in its tracks again during this tour. Riviera Dancers grace the familiar Hollywood & Vine opening and finale, while Ray Sinatra and his orch stay well abrest of the multitude of cues that pop up throughout the show.

Alan.

Top's, San Diego

San Diego, Aug. 16.

Penny Singleton, Jacquelyn Hurley, Bill Green Orch (5).

Penny Singleton, "Blondie" of the film and radio series, has an appealing turn in general. Act is a blend of special songs, such as "My Foist Formal Affair" and "A Performer's Best Friend Is His Piano," obscure tunes such as "I Want a Little Boy" and "I've Lived Next Door to Everybody," and such songs as "April in Paris," "The Best Things in Life Are Free" and "Button Up Your Overcoat." A bluesey "One for the Road" and "Mr. Wonderful" get an okay rendition as well. By now Miss Singleton knows how to handle an audience in friendly fashion, although some of her patter could be less stilted for greater intimacy George Finley's piano accomp is an asset.

Eccentric terper Jacquelyn Hurley opens the show to good mitt and the Bill Green crew fills the bill for showbacking and dancing.

Don.

New Acts

BOB VOYE TRIO
Dance
15 Mins.
Copacabana, N.Y.

Bob Voye Trio, two lads and redheaded looker, are an attractive adagio dance team. Although still requiring more polish, team shows up nicely with its youth and zeal.

Hoofing fortes of this combo lie in a series of spins and body-tossing routines. These are displayed in a variety of musical tempos from slow to hot. The turn, however, needs to develop a more distinctive approach to climb out of that "just another good dance act" category. The tendency to mug during the dance routines, a fault mainly of the boys, is no substitute for a bigger repertory of tricks.

The trio, however, does make an overall nice impression and shows promise for more development.

Herm.

LEN YOUNG
Comedy
12 Mins.
Empire, Glasgow

Len Young is a robust English comedian with good singing voice. Principal fault is cardinal one of using too-familiar gags. Once this is overcome, and timing improved, he would loom as decent prospect for both vaude and tv.

Well-built type, with expressive rolling eyes, he should get some topflight fun material and get weaning with stronger basis for act. Slant towards topicality is welcome; f'instance, he makes much of current political situation with gags against Egypt's General Nasser.

Young gives out strongly with tunes like "Memories Are Made of This," and impressions of Sinatra, Hutch and Jolson. He winds with sentimental "Mother's Eyes," exiting to fair measure of palming, but would register much more strongly if act were re-shaped and buttressed with laffable gags.

Gord.

MUMFORD'S PUPPETS
Puppets
12 Mins.
Empire, Glasgow

Best bit of this entertaining puppet parade is stint of blonde doll puppet. She's brought on after a bit by a puppet fashioned as a starchy but life-loving old gent at the ivories, who isn't averse to a bit of leg-tickling, etc.

She's made to sing with lips and move sulkily and in slinky style across stage, then manipulated down into auditorium for a spot of shoulder-serenading to middle-aged males in front row of stalls, in full view of spotlights. Gives out with a sexy "Madamoiselle de Paree" to good palming.

Another welcome bit is when a puppet enters garbed gorgeously as Madame Butterfly. Mock fight between two characters, a black bull and a Spanish matador, opens the puppet parade with novelty but some overlength.

Okay act for vauderies and tv.

Gord.

PHYLLIS MARSHALL
Songs
27 Mins.
Gatineau, Ottawa

Phyllis Marshall, already w.k. on Canadian radio and television as well as personal appearances around her native Toronto, is bowing in nitery work at the Gatineau Club. From her initial booking, the tall, whistle-stacked, sockopiped Negro chirper should go far. She knows how to sell her tunes, has selected them wisely and had them set to clicko arrangements. She wears classy gowns and, both in pipes and appearance, possesses some Lena Horne qualities and ability to fill top billing slots with professional slickness in taste and talent.

Miss Marshall's work here shows she should be solid in niteries, tv, radio, disks and pictures.

Gorm.

HILL & BILLY
Harmonica Comedy
9 Mins.
Empire, Glasgow

Male and distaff partner offer comedy with harmonica music. Act is lively, but would need considerable sharpening and polish for U.S. market. As is, it's moderately entertaining and okay for general run of vauderies in early slotting.

Comedy hits a novelty note through props. F'rinstance, male's harmonica breaks up into sections in early minutes of act. Another he uses has drop blind with the inscription "Frying Tonite." Both male and smiling partner give with lively tunes, including "Red Hot Ivory Rag."

After playing of mouth-harmonica by male, the femme enters in white cowboy getup, and male goes off to enter in granpappy garb with quaint musical rig of washing board, auto-horns and claxons. Pair wind with more strident capers, including "Seven Lone y Nights" and "Mocking Bird Hill."

Gord.

PAYO & MAI
Unicycle Juggling
10 Mins.
Ak-Sar-Ben, Omaha

Payo & Mai, handsome husband-wife duo, stack up as one of the best turns in the biz. Couple comes in on tall cycles for a routine dance bit and from then on the man is on his own, with eye-catching gal merely around for window dressing. He finally winds up on a king-sized cycle for hat juggling and finale has him spinning a dozen hoops on his arms, neck and one leg. Payo is a double for Tony Curtis and sells effectively.

Act is good for any media.

Trump.

Unit Reviews

Ak-Sar-Ben Revue

Omaha, Aug. 20.

Ming & Ling, Payo & Mai, Andre, Andree & Bonnie, Young China (4), Dean Allen, Helen Haag Chimpanzees, Doro hy Hild Dancers (10), Happy Kellems, Freddie Nix Orch (12); at Ak-Sar-Ben Field, Aug. 13-15.

Final Ak-Sar-Ben Revue of the season for members of the Omaha civic org was the Barnes & Carruthers unit framed specifically for outdoor fair grandstand dates.

Ming & Ling, Chinese hillbillies, headlined and handled a 22-minute spot excellently. Although some of their comedy is a bit on the rough side for a family show, a majority of it goes over big. Ming, the father, has exceptional stage presence while most of the talent is provided by the boy with his take-offs on Fisher, Como and Ray.

Andre, Andree & Bonnie is one of the better novelty dancing acts, with an unusual closing revealing that three of the four mannequins are actually alive though the billing makes one expect there are only two.

Another strong offering was Young China, with two young girls doing standout acrobatics. Finale brings in their dad for a boff stunt on a stairway.

Helen Haag's chimps are a better-than average animal turn and Dean Allen served as emcee. In the latter's own turn he opens with some sad gags before moving into his Donald Duck talk and revealing a good singing voice. Payo & Mai are under new acts.

Production numbers are outstanding with the 16-gal line, under company manager Stuart McLellan, offering both looks and adept dancing.

Solo work by vocalist Marilyn Dihl adds to presentation greatly.

Happy Kellems, tramp clown, does effective come-in work to complete a well-rounded entertainment package.

Trump.

TV Discoveries of 1956
(CANADIAN EXHIBITION)

Ottawa, Aug. 19.

Mills Bros. (4), Lamberts (2), (with Ralph Quinlan), Joyce Hahn, Denny Vaughan, Ernie Rudy Orch (10); Aug. 18 only; $2 top.

"TV Discoveries of 1956," a GAC-Hamid production, is the Central Canada Exhibition's first effort to buck the television opposition that slashed attendance in past years. It was the Mills Bros. show, with Canadian video names Joyce Hahn and Denny Vaughan in for good returns. The Mills combo could hardly get off the stage against powerful mitting from a fair crowd.

Joyce Hahn, tiny, pert chirper with Canadian Broadcasting Corp.'s "Cross Canada Hit Parade" (now on a summer hiatus), got nice mitting for "Blue Heaven," others, and Denny Vaughan, bill topper on his own video CBC stanza, also off for the hot months, made a satisfactory impression. Lamberts worked a neat session of acro, probably the most effective of the show's sight acts since the stage was more than 150 feet from the front row of grandstand seats. Zippy, a lively, well-trained chimp, went through a set of clicko paces at the beckoning of his boss, Ralph Quinlan. Show was capably backed throughout by Ernie Rudy, batoning his band from the 88s.

Gorm.

Robert Q. 'Rush' $13,100 in 6, Philly; Bea's 'Fable' Record $12,250 at Spa

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.

The Playhouse in the Park, Philly's municipally-operated tent theatre, got $13,100 for the opening week of the first musical booking in its five year career—the intimate revue, "What's the Rush," starring Robert Q. Lewis. That was on seven instead of eight performances since the show didn't open until Tuesday night (14). The management figured an extra 24 hours was needed to make the necessary changes in adapting this to "in-the-round" presentation.

The three major critics gave the musical favorable notices, a couple of them near-raves, but biz didn't come up to expectations. Oddly enough, the two matinee performances, traditionally weak at the Playhouse, turned out to be sock.

Sole for this week's holdover the show is fairly good. "Tender Trap," with Eddie Bracken, is due next week and then the season winds up, Sept. 3-8 with Siobhan McKenna in the Cambridge Drama Festival revival of "Saint Joan."

Lillie's $12,250 a Record, Spa

Saratoga, N.Y., Aug. 21.

Beatrice Lillie in "Beatrice's Fables" grossed a record $12,250 last week at a $1 top at John Huntington's 5,7-seat Spa Summer Theatre. That topped the previous mark of $10,366 registered last month by Billie Burke at the regular $3.20 top in "Solid Gold Cadillac."

This week the spot offers Chico Marx in "Fifth Season."

Detroit Still Dawdles

Detroit, Aug. 21.

Business was slow again last week for the two Detroit area tents. "Roomful of Roses" starring Louise Albritton, grossed only $3,500 at Northland Playhouse, "Paint Your Wagon," featuring Tony Bavaar in his original Broadway role of Julio, did $15,500 at Melody Circus in the second week.

The break-evens are $10,000 at Northland, a 1,400-seater, with a top of $3.60, less 25% discounts, and $12,000 at Melody, a 1,500-seater with a $4 top, less 25% discounts. The potential capacity at Northland is $25,678, and at Melody Circus it is $41,992.

Current productions are John Carradine in "Dracula" at Northland Playhouse and "Kismet" at Melody Circus. Northland will present "Sticks and Stones," starring Hermione Gingold, beginning Aug. 28, and Melody Circus will present Celeste Holm in "Sudden Spring" for two weeks beginning Sept. 4.

'Teahouse' $17,200 Warwick

Warwick, R.I., Aug. 21.

Robert Rapport's touring tent production of "Teahouse of the August Moon" grossed a satisfactory $17,200 last week in the windup frame of a fortnight's run at the Warwick Musical Theatre. Take for the two weeks was $34,600.

The comedy is current at the Melody Circle, Allentown, Pa.

'Kismet' 37G in 2 Week, Oakdale

Wallingford, Conn., Aug. 21.

Two-week span of "Kismet" at Oakdale Musical Theatre here ending last Saturday (18), played a carbon fortnight, with grosses almost identical each week, for a total of $37,000 for the 14-performance run. Credit for the good biz went largely to word-of-mouth on the okay production headed by William Johnson, Zero Mostel, Helena Scott, Beatrice Kraft and Avon Long.

Spot has tremendous advance on current week of "Mister Roberts" and substantial interest in fortnight stand of "Teahouse of the August Moon," due Aug. 27-Sept. 8.

'Much Ado' $4,900, Olney

Olney, Aug. 21.

Holdover of the Players, Inc., production of "Much Ado About Nothing" in modern dress grossed $4,900 at the Olney theatre last week.

Olney starts a two-week run tonight (Tues.) with its final play of the season, "The Old Boy," an Irish comedy by Maura Laverty, with Marjorie Gateson and Edward Cullen in the lead roles, and Leo Brady directing.

Show Out of Town

Saint Joan

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 15.

Cambridge Drama Festival presentation of William Morris Hunt, Miles Morgan, Bryant Haliday & Michael Wager revival of drama in three acts, six scenes, by G. B. Shaw. Staged by Albert Marre; settings, Robert O'Hearn; music, Caldwell Titcomb. Stars Siobhan McKenna. Features Kent Smith, Ian Keith, Earle Hyman, Frederick Tozere, Michael Wager, Thayer David, Earl Montgomery, Dick Moore, Dennis Patrick, P. J. Kelly, Frank Maxwell, Richard Purdy, Paul Sparer, Lee Richardson, Peter Falk. At Sanders Theatre, Harvard U., Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 15, '56; $3.20 top.

Cast: Dennis Patrick, P. J. Kelly, Siobhan McKenna, Lee Richardson, Frederic Tozere, Chris Gampel, John Glennon, Paul Sparer, Frank Maxwell, Michael Wager, Janet Dowd, Earle Hyman, Jimmy Oster, Kent Smith, Earl Montgomery, Ian Keith, Thayer David, Lee Richardson, Richard Purdy, Dick Moore, Paul Sparer, Peter Falk, Richard Purdy, Nancy Dussault, Susan Howe, Betty Rollin, James Merritt, Ernest Scherrier, Carl Goodwin, Dave Elliott, Jerry Grieden, George Staples, Kent Paul, Zone Rodriguez, Emmanuel Wexler, Jerry Kelley, Jennifer Hill.

On basis of this revival of the Bernard Shaw drama, Irish actress Siobhan McKenna looms as one of the great Joans of this generation.

Miss McKenna brings a soaring voice, tinged with Irish brogue, to her scintillating portrayal of the Maid, which she originally did in Dublin and later to critical praise in London. From walkon, in straight red dress and bare feet, to final scene of dream sequence, she dominates, reaching the furthermost parts of the Elizabethan 1,100-seat house with terrific impact and emotion.

This is a down to earth portrayal, with no nonsense about it, and not only heroic, but with overtones of warmth and humor. Miss McKenna does not play Joan as a saint, but as a sturdy peasant girl impelled by a powerful inner drive and sublime confidence in her invincibility. The euphony of her brogue and faultless diction, although seemingly out of character in the French peasant role, brings additional warmths and humors and perhaps expresses Shaw's concept of Joan more vividly.

This is no glamorous, feminine prima donna portrayal. In an ugly haircut of the ragged bowl-shaped variety, sans makeup, and attired first in the straight stick dress of poverty and later a succession of soldier outfits, the actress does not rely on physical appearance, but offers a Joan of simple naturalness and powerful theatrical impact.

Albert Marre's staging, skillfully highlighting the star, is eloquent. Michael Wager's handling of the difficult role of the doltish Dauphin's complex character is well rounded, convincing and disarming. Ian Keith is a click as the stern Cauchon, Kent Smith turns in a slick performance as the Earl of Warwick, and Dennis Patrick is outstanding as the doubting Baudricourt.

Earl Montgomery offers a fine portrayal of the pettish Chaplain de Stogumber, Earle Hyman is militant as Dunois, and Thayer David plays the Inquisitor with paternal gentleness and compassion getting across the footlights with marked emphasis.

The production goes next Philadelphia, to be done arena-style in the Playhouse in the Park, then opens Sept. 1 at the Phoenix Theatre, N. Y. The talk opening night here was that Miss McKenna's 'Joan" might be a bet for subsequent transfer to Broadway for a regular run. It's already scheduled for telecast by NBC in late September or early October.

Guy.

PERLITA NEILSON SET FOR 'DIARY' IN LONDON

London, Aug. 21.

Perlita Neilson, who was acclaimed for her performance as Nina in John Clements' current revival of "The Seagull" at the Saville, has been chosen for the title role in London production of "The Diary of Anne Frank."

Frith Banbury, who will present the play here, persuaded Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett, who dramatized the Anne Frank journal, to see Miss Neilson's performance in the Chekov drama, although he had auditioned more than 300 other girls.

(Miss Neilson appeared in New York as the moppet lead in "Lace on Her Petticoat" in the fall of 1951—Ed.)

Perfectionists

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Rodgers and Hammerstein apparently aren't good enough for the Santa Monica Theatre Guild.

Beach city outfit launches its most ambitious project in its 10-year-history next Friday (24) with a new musical version of "Green Grow the Lilacs," by Lynn Riggs. Rod McKuen has written four new tunes for the show, to be staged by James Brittain, assistant to MGM producer Nicholas Nayfack.

In its publicity, however, the Santa Monica Theatre Guild carefully avoids mention of the fact that "Lilacs" has been set to music before this —in a show called "Oklahoma."

Off-B'way Show

Taming of the Shrew

Joseph Papp for the Shakespearean Theatre Workshop, in cooperation with the Dept. of Parks, revival of comedy in two acts by William Shakespeare. Directed by Stuart Vaughan; choreography, Marvin Gordon. At East River Park Amphitheatre, N.Y., Aug. 17, '56.

Baptista ..... Joseph Barr
Vincentio ..... Karl Williams
Lucentio ..... Mel Arrighi
Petruccio ..... Jack Cannon
Gremio ..... William Major
Hortensio ..... Robert Baines
Tranio ..... Chester Doherty
Biondello ..... John Riordan
Gremio ..... Hugh Palmerston
Curtis ..... Janis Halliday
Pedant ..... Larry Swenson
Katherine ..... Colleen Dewhurst
Bianca ..... Monica May
Widow ..... Rowena Buracks
Tailor ..... Daniel Durning
Haberdasher ..... William Roberts
Officer ..... Alan Becker
Girl Strollers ..... Dorren Cavalier, Gail Cramer
Baptista's Servants ..... Leon ard Majzlin, Gail Cramer
Petruccio's Servants Jack Golding, James Tolkan, Rochelle Schifrin, Roscoe Browne, Edward Simonian, Peggy Riordan, Ellena Raisel

Dancers: Bobbie Chifos, Ruth Morrow, Florence Peters, Annetta Bennett, Naomi Scoiller, Alice Uchida, Claire Williams, Paul Berenson, Harry Kolby, Lew Webel.

Others: Shirley Krieter, Lee Cooper, Christine Columbo, April Goodwin, Eliza Beth Townsend, Jerome Majzlin, Gloria Schattner, Ruth Coleman, Patricia O'Grady.

New York's alfresco Shakespeare Festival, which preemed at the East River Park Amphitheatre on the lower eastside earlier this summer with "Julius Caesar," is now offering an uninhibited production of "Taming of the Shrew." The cuffo-admission presentation is satisfactory, although overboard on mugging and slapstick. The pop appeal of these elements for the operation's primarily new-to-legit audience is evident, however.

The performances are generally agreeable. Jack Cannon is an aggressive Petruchio, but his manner and tone have contemporary flavor. Nevertheless, he does quite well in a number of his shrew-taming scenes. Colleen Dewurst gives a robust performance as Katharine, while Mel Arrighi, William Major and Robert Baines are okay as suitors of Bianca, appropriately played by Monica May.

John Riordan and Hugh Palmerston do most of the clowning as Biondello and Grumio, respectively. Chester Doherty is good as Tranio, as is Joseph Barr as Baptista. The production is loaded with cuffing, tumbling, beard-pulling and other hokum. It's colorfully costumed, while Stuart Vaughan's staging keeps the outdoor vehicle moving at a comfortable pace.

A few skeletonized sets are used and, as in the case of "Caesar," the production points up the worthiness of the gratis operation. The venture was on the verge of folding because of a shortage of funds, but a $750 contribution by "My Fair Lady" producer Herman Levin is enabling continuation of performances through the balance of the summer. The legit sked at the amphitheatre is limited to Thursday and Friday nights, with an occasional Sunday matinee. Jess.

Vivien Leigh Out Of 'Bubble' for Some Time

London, Aug. 21.

Vivien Leigh, recovering from the loss of the child she was expecting in December, has been ordered to take a long rest, and is unlikely to return to the cast of Noel Coward's "South Sea Bubble" for some weeks. She was taken ill the day after attending the farewell party on the stage.

Next year she plans to costar with her husband, Laurence Olivier in a film version of "Macbeth."

The Music Circus, Lambertville, N.J., gets its first show train from Philadelphia next Friday (24).

Stock Reviews

The Pink Poltergeist

Virginia Beach, Va., Aug. 14.

Theatre-Go-Round presentation of comedy in three acts (seven scenes), by Romeo Muller. Produced by Lesley Savage; staged by the author; features Jay Warrenn, Martha Howell, Robert Whiting, Lesley Savage. At Theatre-Go-Round, Aug. 14-19, '56.

Harlow Goodyear ..... Jay Warrenn
Mildred Morgan ..... Martha Howell
Muriel Morgan ..... Paulette San Marchi
Harry Morgan ..... Tony Brande
George Goodyear ..... Robert Whiting
Officer Walters ..... Tom Quinn
Ann Morgan ..... Michele Berenberg
Irene Woodsworth ..... Lesley Savage
Bonny Joe ..... Jumbo
Ghent Pontifex ..... William DaPrato

Romeo Muller, director and actor at Theatre-Go-Round, tries out a new script of his own here every season. This year he exploits the Bridey Murphy theme with a farce about two young lovers whose affair is complicated by the fact that every time they meet, or even converse by phone, they release a poltergeist, a noisy, mischievous sprite.

The boy is a young actor of modest intellect, a roving eye and a firm conviction that he is another Brando. The girl is just a pretty girl who thinks she is in love with him until she meets his brother. The latter, a publisher's assistant, rings in his boss, a woman whose interests are divided between psychic phenomena and pursuing the male—any male.

She in turn calls upon a hypnotist, who is incidentally a conductor on the Long Island Railroad, to take both youngsters back into time until they can find the beginning of their love in a previous incarnation and discover the identity of the troublesome spirit.

The play is original in treatment, deals interestingly and intelligently— for a farce—with hypnotism, and its dialog abounds in topical wisecracks. It is overlong and some of the situations are labored. Also, the characters, while amusing, have hardly more dimension than caricatures.

Best performances are those of Jay Warrenn as the boy, Paulette San Marchi as the Spring Byington-character mother of the girl, Tony Brande as her Long Island Railroad-hating father, Tom Quinn as a policeman unhappy in his job, and William DaPrato as the hypnotist. Twyf.

A Question of Marriage

New Hope, Pa., Aug. 15.

Michael Ellis production of comedy by Steven Hill, based on "The Inhabitants of Stepanchikova," by Feodor Dostoevsky. Stars Farley Granger; features Martin Kosleck, Joan Copeland, Zohra Alton, Helene Dumas, Aileen Poe, Philip Sterling, Sandy Kenyon, Frank London. Staged by Hill; settings, Hal Shafer; lighting, Elliott Krancer. At Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, Pa., Aug. 13-18, '56.

Yegor ..... Farley Granger
Grisha ..... Philip Sterling
Stefan ..... Frank London
Donoskin ..... Sandy Kenyon
Kolya ..... Palmer Ward
Sonya ..... Robin Row
Nastasya ..... Zohra Alton
Tatyana ..... Joan Copeland
Olga ..... Aileen Poe
Mama ..... Helene Dumas
Foma ..... Martin Kosleck
Peasant ..... Saul Scher

The only sustained laughter the opening night of "A Question of Marriage" was when Martin Kosleck, playing an Iago-like character, got off a spoonerism that may or may not have been in the script. For the rest of the time the audience seemed embarrassed, not knowing whether or not it was time to laugh until along toward the end when chaotic slapstick set in.

"Question" is a farce about life and love on a bankrupt, pre-revolutionary Russian estate. Based on a tale, "The Inhabitants of Stepanchikova" by Feodor Dostoevsky, it's as confused as a Shakespeare comedy only not so funny.

Farley Granger, who reportedly hoped to do the show to Broadway, plays the handsome but stupid young estate owner undecided whether to marry a dippy rich girl to save the family property, or a governess and give the place to the peasants. The situation is complicated by his mother's devious boyfriend, skillfully played by Kosleck, who tries to rig things in the rich girl's favor.

Granger is good. His dimwit Yegor is not unlike the hero of Dostoevsky's "The Idiot," and even as scenes fall apart around him and the audience is howling at the ineptitude instead of the situation, he maintains admirable nerve and dignity.

Joan Copeland is expressive as the silly rich girl. Philip Sterling, an excellent straight man, plays Granger's assistant. Sandy Kenyon brings off a tough role as an improbable nitwit. Zohra Alton, as the governess, uses "method" instead of acting.

But acting is not enough. Author Steven Hill, who directs, never brings the audience into his confidence, so scenes that might be funny to, say, a Russian, remain merely baffling here. As a consequence, a sort of camaraderie develops among the patrons, such as at a fire, flood or other such spectacle.

It may be that the show, with its disjointed approach and interminable, improbable denouement, is meant to be something new in the theatre. Entirely reorganized and re-directed, it might even be funny. But a less promising opening night would be hard to imagine. Ward.

Dead on Nine

East Hampton, N.Y., Aug. 17.

Ron Rawson production of melodrama in three acts (seven scenes), by Jack Popplewell. Stars Barbara Britton; features Murray Matheson, Hugh Reilly, George Turner, Myra Carter, Robert Carroll. Directed by Ruth Rawson; settings and lighting, Peter Dohanos. At John Drew Theatre, Aug. 13-18, '56.

Tom Hammond ..... Hugh Reilly
Robert Leigh ..... Murray Matheson
Marion Dale ..... Myra Carter
Esmeralda Leigh ..... Barbara Britton
Richard Farrow ..... George Turner
Gladys ..... Faith Burwell
Leslie Booth ..... Robert Carroll

A not too time-worn plot and some interesting characters meet rough treatment in the imbalanced dramatic development of this mystery, which had a five-month run in London last year. Action capers through a first act that makes little or no attempt to establish characters and bogs down into almost endless explanations in the final scenes. The fact that the play's two murders are committed offstage forces an onstage recapitulation of the gory details, and the dialog that accomplishes the recap becomes more narrative than dramatic.

Plot involves a second-rate playwright and the wife he has married for money. In love with his secretary, the scrivener asks for a divorce. The wife, seeking to pay back hubby for ten years of loveless married life, refuses to grant the split. Husband and secretary plot to kill the wife.

Plot misfires, wife kills secretary, disposes of body and plays cat and mouse with distraught spouse, who can not accuse her without incriminating himself. Wife's subsequent plot to kill hubby fails when he murders her accomplice-lover. Final scene in which each is about to receive retribution for the crime the other committed is just too long and too improbable to carry.

Barbara Britton, billed as the "$64,000 Question Girl," is not the answer in the role of the wife. Too attractive to be unloved, she lacks the technical skill to overcome an indifferently written part. Murray Matheson is effective as the husband, but has been seen to better advantage. Hugh Reilly is relaxed and cavalier as the neighborhood bachelor and man of the world. Myra Carter brings feeling to the part of the hapless secretary and George Turner does well as the not-so-dumb country policeman. Robert Carroll, onstage only briefly, offers a neat delineation of a foot-in-mouth neighbor who can play the piano.

Ruth Rawson's direction is intelligent, moving and, in the light of script demands, almost heroic. Peter Dohanos has provided a plausible interior of an English country bungalow and has lighted it effectively.

Since the cliff-hangers and red herrings of this work are the elements that require the most revision "Dead" would seem to have very little expectancy beyond its present run. Hank.

Local Priest Nixes 'Tea' At Clinton (Conn.) Barn

Clinton, Conn., Aug. 21.

"Tea and Sympathy" ran into a local church thumbs-down when it was produced several weeks ago at the Clinton Playhouse. Tabu issued by the parish priest apparently clipped attendance for the Robert Anderson drama. Curious angle of the nix was that no such action was taken in previous seasons against the strawhat's presentations of "Moon Is Blue" and "I Am a Camera," both of which had drawn church disapproval elsewhere.

Despite that one-week downbeat, business has generally been good this summer at the barn, according to Charlotte Harmon, who has been solo producer while her press-agent-husband Lewis Harmon has been working on a Broadway show. Even the shift to a no-name, resident company policy has not seriously crimped attendance. Biggest draw to date has been the opener, "Solid Gold Cadillac," with Ethel Shutta featured guest lead.

SEE BOOM SEASON ON ROAD

Strawhats Go Picts One Better; See Same Competition (Plus Picts)

St. Louis, Aug. 21.

Not only the picture business is getting tough competition from television and night baseball. Now outdoor legit is viewing the situation with alarm, with an extra fearful glance at home air-conditioning. As the final angle, the film business itself, in the form of drive-in theatres, is seen as the b.o. menace.

Even the Municipal Theatre Assn., which has been presenting alfresco musicals successfully for many years in Forest Park, is beginning to be aware of rivalry for the amusement-seeking trade. That was indicated last week by Edwin McArthur, MTA musical conductor for the last 12 years, in a talk to the local Optimist Club.

"It is growing more and more difficult to get people to come out to the park at night," the batoner said. "That is because of the advent of night baseball, the phenomenal growth of television and the fact that most people now have air-conditioned homes that they don't want to leave in the summer.

"The people who do come out don't regret it," the maestro asserted. "During the opening night of 'An Evening of Great Music,' recently, for the first time in my experience here there was whistling and cheering as we completed the piece. I think this week of grand opera is the greatest thing in the history of the city's outdoor theatre and I feel we owe this sort of seriousness to the public, as well as presenting music's more frivolous side.

"My musical colleagues in other parts of the country insist it's just not possible to go from serious music to frivolity and fantasy. Yet after doing grand opera last week, we'll turn to 'Peter Pan' this week, complete with full acting, costumes and sets.

"We've got to have new plays that bring new material, and also we must keep our approach toward the old tones continuously fresh if we are to meet the new challenge, especially with television, night baseball, drive-in films and home air-conditioning as competition."

Claiborne Foster Quits 'Cat' in Billing Dispute; Mary Bell Succeeding

Claiborne Foster, top-featured in "Cat On a Hot Tin Roof," is quitting the show at the end of this week because of a dispute over billing. The actress, who came out of retirement to succeed Mildred Dunnock as Big Mama in the Tennessee Williams drama, will be replaced by Mary Bell.

Miss Foster and her agent, William Liebling, first requested co-star billing, after Alex Nicol, juvenile lead in the Playwrights Co. production, was upped to co-stardom with Thomas Gomez and Marjorie Steele. The management turned down that bid, but gave Miss Foster featured billing on the house boards in type of equal size to that of the stars.

That failed to satisfy the actress, and she insisted on the equal-size type in the show's alphabetical ad listings in the dailies. Since that would have involved added lineage, the management resisted and the matter finally went to Elia Kazan, who staged the play and has a decisive say on business as well as artistic questions regarding it. He issued a flat turndown.

Still not appeased, Miss Foster reiterated her demand for the increased-size billing in the ads. This time, she received a firm refusal, so she turned in her notice.

Fred Clarks Costar

Hollywood, Aug. 21.

Fred Clark and wife, Benay Venuta, together with Gene Nelson, costar in "Pal Joey" at the Civic Playhouse, West Hollywood, starting Sept. 13.

Producers are Sanford Scott and Allan Kirk.

'Wonderful' Versus 'Fella' For N.Y. Softball Title

Softball teams from the casts of "Mr. Wonderful" and "Most Happy Fella" will compete for the John Golden Memorial Trophy tomorrow (Thurs.) in Central Park, N. Y., winding up the Broadway Show League's second formal season.

The Actors Equity council recently endorsed the activities of the League, noting that it would cooperate in any manner which does not require physical activity on the part of its members.

Flock of Actors Turn Producers

A rash of legit actors are branching out as producers. It's a follow-up to a similar epidemic in the film industry and a throwback to a onetime prevalent legit pattern.

Presumably an influence on the flock of swingovers is the success of Maurice Evans and Elliot Nugent in their performer-to-manager moves. Evans' recent credits include co-sponsorship of "Teahouse of the August Moon" and "No Time For Sergeants," both walloping hits. Nugent was also involved in a big payoff entry as co-producer of "Seven Year Itch."

Oddly enough, while a large contingent of performers are planning their managerial bows this season, Evans is reverting to acting as star of the forthcoming revival of "Apple Cart." The actor-to-producer lineup includes Burgess Meredith, David Wayne, Tom Ewell, Martin Gabel, Wendell Corey and Richard Ney, the last two have confined their performing to films in recent years.

Meredith, set for a costarring assignment on Broadway this season in "Major Barbara," has teamed with vet producer Courtney Burr for his managerial activities. The duo have three properties under option and plan to launch the first, "Speaking of Murder," this season. The other two are "Larger Than Life" and a musical, "The Girl From Sardi's."

Wayne will be doubling as co-producer and costar of "Loud Red Patrick," skedded for a Broadway preem Oct. 3. Robert Douglas, a director, will be associated with Wayne in the presentation. Ewell, who last starred on Broadway in "Itch," has optioned Peter De Vries' "Comfort Me With Apples," which he plans to co-produce next season with Philip Langner. He may also appear in the production. Corey has the rights to Max Wilk's "Brass Section," which he plans to appear in and co-sponsor. Ney has a musical, "Too Little Time for Love" on his production sked, while Gabel, who co-produced and appeared in "Reclining Figure" on Broadway last season, has three properties on tap as co-sponsorship ventures. They're "Hidden River," "Once More, with Feeling," and "Serenade." He's currently costarring in the Broadway production, "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter."

Katharine Cornell has been her own producer for many years, and Cornelia Otis Skinner has repeatedly done her one-woman shows under her own management. In former times, actor-managers were commonplace. The present trend has other motivating factors, however, notably tax considerations.

Just Call Me Director

David (Cricket) Skilling, a member of the resident company at the Starlight Theatre, Pawling, N.Y., will make his directorial debut next week with the barn's production of "Solid Gold Cadillac."

He'll also appear in the Howard Teichmann-George S. Kaufman comedy.

LOTSA HIT SHOWS, SUBSCRIPTIONS

The road is apparently due for a relatively prosperous season. The bullish signs are presumably attributable to two major factors: the continuing boom in general business and the above-average lineup of scheduled touring shows.

As indicated by favorable reports from various key road cities, local subscriptions are running ahead of recent years. That's probably a reflection not only of the general prosperity, but also of perking interest in legit, possibly stimulated by attractive lists of subscription shows.

The indicated boxoffice surge is relative of course. That is, it may top the figures for the last few seasons, but has no prospect of even approaching the level of 20 or even 10 years ago.

Broadway-established shows set to tour will include "Janus," "Hotful of Rain," "Matchmaker," "The Lark," "No Time for Sergeants," "Great Sebastians," "Middle of the Night," "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter," "Chalk Garden," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "Fanny," "Mr. Wonderful" and "My Fair Lady." Already-touring entries likely to

(Continued on page 58)

Hub Censor Ahoy! Here Comes 'Cat'

Boston, Aug. 21.

Boston, which boosters like to call the intellectual capital of America, is expected to revert soon to its periodic status as the censorship capital. That's figured a cinch with the scheduling of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" to start its road tour here in November. Exact date and the theatre aren't set.

The Tennessee Williams drama, which copped both the Pulitzer and N. Y. Drama Critics Circle prizes for the 1954-55 season on Broadway, did not play the Hub during its tryout tour, and local interest in it is intense. The play drew some reformer attention even in normally blase New York, and comment from Gotham returnees is that it can hardly fail to raise the moral temperature of the low-boiling-point official Hub censor.

As local eggheads are unhappily aware, Boston has something of a national reputation for taking moral objection to plays, books and other forms of art generally found inoffensive elsewhere. Possibly the most celebrated cases have involved Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra" and Maxwell Anderson's "Valley Forge," both of which were banned for public performance here.

PLUSH COCONUT GROVE HOUSE GETS FACELIFT

What the theatre needs is more oil millionaires. That, at least, is reflected in the setup at the Coconut Grove (Fla.) Playhouse.

The theatre, operated by oil tycoon George S. Engle, is equipped with an amazing array of conveniences and accommodations for both audiences and actors. Moreover, its being overhauled. The stage is being enlarged for musicals, and the dining room and cocktail lounge are being refurnished and redecorated.

A supper club, with a capacity of 300, is being added on the second floor and will feature dancing and entertainment. The Playhouse building also has six apartments and barber and beauty shops for the performers. In addition, Engle recently purchased a small hotel, with a swimming pool, for use by those connected with the theatre. The hotel can accommodate 36 people.

The Playhouse, which ended an inaugural 20-week season last June, is scheduled to reopen Nov. 12 on a year-round stock basis.

Legit Is Losing Majestic, Boston, Maybe Wilbur; Shuberts to Keep 3

Boston, Aug. 21.

One and perhaps two Boston theatres may be lost to legit this season. They are the Majestic and Wilbur. Both have had sparse bookings in recent seasons.

The Wilbur has one legit booking, "Harbor Lights," opening Oct. 4 for two weeks, before reverting to the owners, who have been leasing it to the Shuberts. The latter must relinquish it under the terms of a Government consent decree. The owners also have the Metropolitan Theatre.

The Majestic has been leased from the Shuberts by Benjamin Sack, owner of the Beacon Hill Theatre, a picture house, and will open Sept. 17 with the film version of "Oklahoma." Some $200,000 worth of rebuilding is going on at the oldtime legit in preparation for its opening as a film house.

Several local producers have been eyeing the Wilbur with a view to stock companies. G. Sheldon Balloch, who with Clifford N. Lenox produced five weeks of musicals at the John Hancock Theatre in a strawhat endeavor this season, inspected the Wilbur this week for the possibility of doing stock musicals. Larry Homer, who has been working on plans for a local stock company, is also reportedly interested in the house.

After disposing of the Wilbur, the Shuberts will be operating only three local theatres, the Shubert, Plymouth and Opera House. Incoming season looks to

(Continued on page 58)

Rounseville on the Go In Legit, Radio, Concert

Robert Rounseville is meeting himself coming and going up and down the scale these days. The tenor is currently rehearsing for the lead in the Warwick (R.I.) Music Theatre production of "Student Prince" next week. Prior to opening there, he's booked for a live radio stint on the "Woolworth Hour" on CBS next Sunday (25).

During his week at Warwick, he'll be out for the Wednesday (29) evening performance because of a prior Cleveland commitment to sing at a Rodgers & Hammerstein program. William Stanz, a member of the "Prince" cast will sub for him that night.

Buff Strawhats Go Into Barn

Buffalo, Aug. 21.

Mortality list in strawhat lineup is mounting currently. Two barns have folded within the past month and a third is suspending further legit performances until after Labor Day.

Darien Center Players closed without explanation and Theatre Arts Academy folded when the Fire Dep't refused to license the premises for theatre purposes.

Princess Theatre, Niagara Falls, Ont., concluded its legit package show with Mae West's "Come On Up, Ring Twice" last week and will revert to motion pictures "until package shows are available," according to Michael Zahowchak, owner. Gypsy Rose Lee was booked for Labor Day week.

Remaining in operation are Melody Fair at North Tonawanda, Grand Island Playhouse, Lake Shore Playhouse and Clarence Playhouse.

'PACIFIC' STILL CHAMP MUSIC TENT GROSSER

"South Pacific" is still a boxoffice powerhouse. The latest proof of the musical's draw is the extension of its run for a third week at the Brandywine Music Box, Concordville, Pa. The tent, currently in its first season, had four previous shows, each playing one week.

The Rodgers & Hammerstein tuner, which opened Aug. 6, was originally slated to close last Saturday (18). It's been held over this week, however, and the scheduled presentation of "Paint Your Wagon" has been cancelled. Extension of the run necessitated several cast changes because of performer commitments elsewhere.

After smash runs on Broadway and the road, "S.P." was a tremendous grosser in stock last summer, in some cases being instrumental in keeping the entire season out of the red.

London's Kenneth Tynan As Legit Critic in U. S.

Kenneth Tynan, drama critic for the London Observer, reportedly confided to friends recently that he hopes ultimately to switch to the U. S., to cover Broadway legit for an American publication. Presumably he has in mind a weekly, since he has never had to meet a morning-after deadline.

One of the most talked-about critics in London in many years, Tynan started with Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Standard about six years ago, doing a weekly review of the West End stage. He took over the assignment from Beverly Baxter. He resigned after a policy dispute and some time later was hired by the Observer, to succeed Ivor Brown.

Sharon (Conn.) Playhouse Gets Localites' Backing To Forestall Folderoo

In an offbeat maneuver for a small out-of-the-way barn, the Sharon (Conn.) Playhouse is currently offering its third and final tryout of a 12-week season. This comparatively heavy concentration on new material is only one unusual feature of the 400-seat Equity-franchised operation.

The silo was erected last year after the local townspeople formed a corporation for the purpose. It was put up in place of a 200-seater that had been run for four years by Judson P. Philips, who announced that he was folding the showcase after incurring a loss of about $10,000.

The localites responded to the announcement by holding a town meeting and asking Philips to explain his reasons for the shuttering. After hearing the producer, they formed the corporation, with residents from Sharon and nearby communities buying stock. Enough coin was raised to build the new theatre, with Philips continuing as producer.

The setup of the new house is such that it can be converted to other uses. Plans are also being worked out to use the spot during the winter for various cultural programs, including music and ballet. Although Philips is in the production seat, there's also an operating committee of stockholders.

Stacking up against the three tryouts this summer was one last year. The current entry is A. E. Eekland's "Love Is a Two-Way Street," costarring Albert Dekker and Edith Atwater. Prior preems this semester were Hamilton Wright's "The Real Me" and Daniel Schneider's "Paradise Gate."

Philips, incidentally, is also an author, writing mysteries under the pseudonym, Hugh Pentecost.

'Breeze' Due in London

Glasgow, Aug. 21.

Roland Culver's new comedy, "Head Over Heels," currently trying out at the King's Theatre here, is set to open Sept. 5 at the Phoenix Theatre, London. It will revert to original title, "A River Breeze."

Cast is headed by Phyllis Calvert, Naunton Wayne and the author.

Legit Bits

Ira Ashley, radio director, off to London last week to dicker with scripter William Rose for the American rights to the British film, "Genevieve." He wants to turn it into a musical comedy.

Mime Phil Bruns skedded for a Sept. 10-11 stand at The Open Stage, N.Y., in a program of "Panomania."

Production staff for "Happiest Millionaire" includes general manager, C. Edwin Knill; company manager, Clayre Ribner; production stage manager, William Weaver; production assistant, Neil B. Smith, and pressagents Phyllis Perlman and Marian Byram.

Shepard Traube has scheduled a late November Broadway preem for "Bon Voyage," new comedy by Ronald Alexander, who recently returned to the U. S. after six months in Europe.

Stanley Greene is presenting a revival of "Rope" at the Playgoer's Playhouse, N.Y.

Faye Emerson will star in "Protective Custody."

Michael Abbott will be associate producer to David Susskind on "A Very Special Baby."

David Hayes will design the sets for "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

Robert Linden is production manager for "Auntie Mame." Top price will be $10.50 for the New Year's eve performance of "Most Happy Fella."

Ronn Cummins is set for the role of the oldest boy in "Harbor Lights."

Joan Bennett will star in Alfred de Liagre Jr.'s touring production of "Janus," opening Sept. 27 in Rochester.

Claude Dauphin will make his Broadway directorial bow with "Best House in Naples."

Boris Aronson will design the sets for "A Hole in the Head."

Chicago's Studebaker Theatre Co. begins its season Oct. 2 with "Androcles and the Lion."

"The Jamestown Story," a new outdoor drama by Paul Green, is slated for a May 13, 1957, debut in the vicinity of Williamsburg, Va., under the auspicies of the Jamestown Corp.

The legit rights to the comic strip, "Penny," have been purchased by Charles Adams.

Jean Stapleton departs Sept. 4 from the Broadway production of "Damn Yankees" for a featured assignment in "Bells Are Ringing."

Anthony Brady Farrell, owner of the Mark Hellinger Theatre, N. Y., and the Sacandaga (N.Y.) Summer Theatre, flew to Alaska last week for six weeks of hunting and fishing.

Myron McCormick, featured actor in "No Time for Sergeants," hospitalized with a throat ailment last week at Harkness Pavilion, N.Y.

Broadway pressagent Michel Mok back from a seven-week visit to his native Holland and a showcatching stopoff in London.

Ben Boyar has returned to town after a summer stint as general manager of the Music Go Round, Somers Point, N.J.

Martha Raye will star in "Boffola," new revue scheduled for Broadway production this season by Harry Rigby and Herbert Jacoby.

Michael Myerberg's production of "The Ballad of Baby Doe" begins an out-of-town break-in Dec. 17 with a four-week stand at the Shubert Theatre, Washington.

Richard Horner and Justin Sturm have teamed with Stanley Gilkey and Guthrie McClintic for the production of "A For Adult."

William Thourlby has returned to the cast of "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter."

Cliff Hall and Malcolm Lee Beggs are pinchhitting for the vacationing Howard Freeman and Royal Beal in the Broadway production of "No Time For Sergeants" prior to moving over to the national company, which reopens Sept. 13 in Chicago.

Sidney Lumet will direct Kermit Bloomgarden's production of Arch Oboler's "Night of the Auk."

Irving Slosberg has replaced Harry Fromkes as president of the Playhouse Theatre, N.Y. His brother, Stephen Castle, is vice president and Vincent E. Cerow treasurer. Slosberg and Castle control the Lehigh Petrolium Co., Norwich, Conn.

The Actors Fund of America has issued its first "Fundamentally yours" newsletter to be published "every now and then."

Beverly Kelley, quits as pressagent for the touring "Teahouse," next week to take a similar spot ahead of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in "Great Sebastians." Howard Newman succeeds as "Teahouse" p.a., with Eddie Runkle continuing as company manager.

Jay Russell handling the local drumbeating for the Cambridge (Mass.) Drama Festival production of "Saint Joan," starring Siobhan McKenna. Phil Bloom is handling national publicity.

Da Costa's Living

Morton Da Costa, who clicked as a director last season with "No Time for Sergeants" and "Plain and Fancy," is now getting more staging offers than he can handle.

At the moment, he's agreed to direct scheduled Broadway productions of "Auntie Mame," "Captain's Paradise" and a musical version of "Ah, Wilderness," plus a television spectacular for NBC.

'Godot' Reopens in Paris; Set for Repeat Click

Paris, Aug. 14.

Samuel Beckett's controversial "En Attendant Godot" (Waiting For Godot) is having a successful revival at the Theatre Hebertot, with practically its original cast. Exception is Roger Blin, who has been content only to direct this time. Here, as in London and New York, the surrealist piece has turned out to be something either hooted or huzzahed. It looks to develop into a contemporary offbeat classic. It is now on the Right Bank, though it started its career on the Left Bank three years ago.

Its theatre of origin, Babylone, is now gone, but though the title character of "Godot" never appears the play seems here to stay. Blin first read it in 1950 as written directly into French by Beckett, an Irishman and former associate of James Joyce. It took three years to talk a theatre director into trying it, and then J. M. Serreau decided to do it. It opened Jan. 3, 1953, and the people involved expected either catastrophe or triumph.

"Godot" stirred up strong pros and cons from both audiences and critics. This stubbornly anti-conformist play ran two years, with 16 different actors alternating in the roles of the two garrulous tramps, the overbearing slavedriver and his twitching slave.

It has since been done successfully in Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Finland, Holland, Belgium, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Turkey, Brazil, Argentina, Japan and finally England and the U. S. It was financially successful everywhere but on Broadway.

The present cast here includes Lucien Raimbourg and Pierre Latour as the tramps, Jacques Remy as the slavedriver and Jean Martin as his slave.

Show Abroad

Young and Beautiful

London, Aug. 16.

London Arts Theatre Committee presentation of comedy in three acts, by Sally Benson, based on short stories by F. Scott Fitzgerald. Stars Lois Smith. Staged by Fred Sadoff. At Arts Theatre Club, London, Aug. 15, '56; $1.20 top.

Josephine Perry ..... Lois Smith
Mr. Perry ..... Jack Allen
Mrs. Perry ..... Barbara Lott
Travis de Coppet ..... Brian Bedford
Anthony Harkar ..... Nicholas Brady
Mrs. Bray ..... Rosemary Johnson
Lillian ..... Dudy Nimmo
Sonny Dorrance ..... Mike Margan
Ed Bement ..... Richard Raphael
Capt. Dicer ..... Jeremy Burnham

Lois Smith has come to London to repeat her performance in "The Young and Beautiful," which had an eight-week run in New York last season. In the irritating role of a fickle New York teenager who self-dramatizes every emotion and falls in and out of love until she no longer has any genuine feeling except frustration, she runs through all the tricks with facile sophistication.

It is a study of a budding nympho, and the supporting characters merely framing the varying facets of the central figure. The mid-1920's type arouses little sympathy here and no real concern would arise about her enormous exploits to warrant a wider audience beyond this limited club engagement.

None of the other players attempts to adopt the U.S. accent, and nothing could be more English than Jack Allen as the father., Barbara Lott is pleasantly maternal as his wife, and the various beaux are agreeably handled by talented youngsters, the most promising and incisive being a newcomer from the provinces, Brian Bedford, as the eccentric young philosopher to whom the girl returns after all her experimental kisses have turned sour.

Play is well directed by Fred Sadoff. Clem.

Pearl Buck Authors 'White Bird' for Legit

Nobel and Pulitzer Prize novelist Pearl S. Buck has written an original play, tentatively titled, "The White Bird," which Ted Danielewski will stage and co-produce on Broadway with a managerial associate still to be set. The authoress is also working on the book for a musical adaptation of Hilda Werner's "My Indian Family," which Oscar S. Lerman and Martin B. Cohen plan for Broadway production next season.

Lerman is also involved in another scheduled Broadway production, "Me Papoose Sitter," which he and Leon Greenland plan to preem next winter.

Legit Followup

The Most Happy Fella
(IMPERIAL THEATRE, N.Y.)

The vocally-taxing male lead assignment in "Most Happy Fella" is being given a neat workover at matinee performances by Richard Torigi. The role was created by Robert Weede and played by him at the show's evening sessions.

Torigi appears somewhat younger than Weede and sports a well-groomed crop of hair (presumably dyed gray) whereas the latter is bald. The physical difference, though, detracts little from the effectiveness of Torigi's portrayal. The personal warmth of the aging vineyard owner is ably projected in his characterization and quality songstering.

Despite its operatic treatment—usually a b.o. deterent—"Fella" has been a virtual sellout since preeming on Broadway last May. It's an appropriate reflection on the meritorious job done by Frank Loesser in providing the book, lyrics and music for this version of Sidney Howard's "They Knew What They Wanted."

Except for the male lead switch, the regular members of the cast play all performances. Their portrayals add to the vitality of the Kermit Bloomgarden-Lynn Loesser production, as do various other creative aspects, notably Jo Mielziner's picturesque sets.

Incidentally, the Imperial Theatre cooling system was inadequate at last Wednesday's (15) matinee performance, and the house became a Turkish bath. Jess.

Boom Road Season

Continued from page 57

continue include "Pajama Game," "Damn Yankees," "Boy Friend," "Teahouse of the August Moon," "Witness for the Prosecution" and "Inherit the Wind."

For the key eastern cities, notably Boston, Philadelphia, Washington and New Haven, there will also be the customary crop of touring tryouts.

Chi Subscriptions Up

Chicago Aug. 21.

Theatre Guild-American Theatre Society's local subscription setup is headed for one of its best years since 1953 when it upped its annual series to eight plays from six. Chicago office, managed by Harriet Watt, already has passed last season's mark of 13,420 subscriptions, with another six weeks remaining before the order book is closed for the '56-'57 semester.

Again last season the Guild was one play shy of filling its eight-show subscription package. As of now, there are six definite tourers logged in for current series, leading off with "No Time for Sergeants," which opens at the Erlanger Sept. 13.

Next in order are: "Witness for the Prosecution," Selwyn, Sept. 24; "Hatful of Rain," Harris, Oct. 8; "Great Sebastians," Great Northern, Oct. 22; "Damn Yankees, Shubert, Oct. 29.

TG-ATS Frisco Sked

San Francisco, Aug. 21.

Lineup of Theatre Guild-American Theatre Society subscription offerings set for Frisco this season include "Lark," starring Julie Harris; "Chalk Garden," costarring Gladys Cooper and Judith Anderson; "Hatful of Rain," starring Vivian Blaine, and "Great Sebastians," costarring Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne.

Incidentally, Broadway pressagent Reginald Denenholz did some local campaigning for the subscription series before winding up a Coast vacation last week.

Barn Touring Is Just Honeymoon for Carney On Strength of TV Rep

Art Carney, who's become a personality as regular on the Jackie Gleason tv show, has been mopping up this summer on the strawhat circuit. He's been making scattered appearances in "Seven Year Itch," with business hitting capacity on all dates.

Grosses include $14,600 for nine performances at the Cape Playhouse, Dennis, Mass., the week of June 30. Another $14,300 at the Flamouth Playhouse, Coonamesset, Mass., the week of July 16 and $14,500 at the Ogunquit (Me.) Playhouse last week.

He's currently appearing at the Theatre - by - the - Sea, Matunuck, R. I., with a stand at the Ivoryton (Conn.) Playhouse set for next week.

Majestic, Boston

Continued from page 57

be slower than last, which went down as biggest in 25 years and extended into the middle of June. So far, 15 productions are booked as against 20 at the same time last year.

The Shubert is set for three musicals, one after another, opening with "Li'l Abner" Oct. 2, followed by "Bells Are Ringing," Oct. 22, and "Happy Hunting," Nov. 13, all for three-week tryouts. The Colonial opens Sept. 20 with "Too Late the Phalarope" for two-and-a-half weeks, followed by "Separate Tables," Oct. 8 for two weeks, and the first musical for the Colonial in a couple of seasons, "Candide," Oct. 29.

The Plymouth opens Sept. 19 with "Sixth Finger in a Five Finger Glove." Shaw's "The Apple Cart" comes in Oct. 1 for two weeks, "Best House in Naples" is due Oct. 15, and "Very Special Baby" opens Oct. 29. Season's first production at the Opera House is the Royal Danish Ballet opening Oct. 3 for four days. Shaw's "Major Barbara" opens Oct. 8, and the Old Vic Company of London is set for January.

John Dutra will appear in "Bus Stop" next week at the Capri Theatre, Atlantic Beach, L. I., prior to going into the touring company of "No Time for Sergeants," which reopens Sept. 13 in Chicago.

Singing STAR of RADIO, TV and MUSICALS

LOIS HUNT

Just Completed Starring Female Role in

"THE GREAT WALTZ"

STATE FAIR, DALLAS, TEXAS

"Vocalism is turned over to prettiest and best soprano ever to brighten acoustics of the State Fair auditorium, Lois Hunt, with Metropolitan Opera background. Miss Hunt, petite and lyrical, is adorable in looks and magnificent vocally."
The Dallas Morning News, JOHN ROSENFIELD.

"Lois Hunt, an attractive, vivacious soprano, was an added beauty spot and her vocal power added brilliance."
Dallas Times Herald, VIRGIL MIERS.

Starring August 25th

HOLLYWOOD BOWL

Hollywood, Calif.

Personal Management: JACK BERTELL
527 Madison Avenue, New York PLaza 3-2153

ALLAN JONES

— NOW —
KOKO CLUB
Phoenix, Ariz.
Management
LOU IRWIN, Hollywood, Calif.

Dramatic Arts School with schedule two years course covering all branches show business including legitimate, motion picture, TV, etc., has vacancy for competent principal. Students reside on campus. Facilities include 500 seat fully equipped modern playhouse. Applicant must be fully experienced and able teach and supervise staff. Situated within 100 miles of New York. Post includes five-room cottage. Those interested in this position give full particulars of theatrical, teaching experience and state salary expected.

Apply Box 168, VARIETY,
154 West 46th Street
New York 36, N. Y.

RIOT!
IMOGENE COCA
JULES MUNSHIN
"Anniversary Waltz"
WESTPORT COUNTRY PLAYHOUSE Aug. 27-Sept 2

DIRECTOR

Seeking a director to start rehearsals at once in New York of a new comedy. We are planning to open in one of the Off-Broadway theatres.

WRITE TO P.O. BOX 48,
BOSTON 1, MASS.

L.A. Hits the Skids; 'Red Mill' 52½G, 'Yankees' $50,000, 'Inherit' $27,600

Los Angeles, Aug. 21.

Cab strike and the political convention telecasts apparently bit into local legit last week, with only "Inherit the Wind" immune. Other three offerings dipped in varying degrees. "Damn Yankees" wound its run on the downbeat over the weekend and was replaced last night (Mon.) at the Philharmonic Auditorium by "Boy Friend."

Estimates for Last Week

Damn Yankees, Philharmonic Aud (MC) (7th wk) ($4.95; 2,670; $65,000) (Bobby Clark). Skidded to $50,000 (including tax on the non-profit presenation; net would be about $46,500) for the final; previous week, $55,100.

Desk Set, Carthay Circle (C) (5th wk) ($4.20-$3.85; 1,518; $34,-800) (Shirley Booth). Slumped to $22,500 (including tax on the non-profit presentation; net would be $20,250), still profitable, previous week, $31,500; closes next Saturday (25).

Inherit the Wind, Huntington Hartford (D) (5th wk) ($5.20-$4.95; 1,024; $31,000). Moved up slightly with the end of the cut-rate theatre parties late in week to hit $27,-600. best so far; previous week, $27,000; closes Sept. 1.

Red Mill, Greek Theatre (OP) (1st wk) ($44,470; $68,000) (Paul Gilbert, Gil Lamb, Irra Pettina). Okay $52,500 for first seven performances of final offering of al fresco season. Closes next Saturday (25).

'Wish' Passable 37G, K.C.; 'King,' With MacDonald, Follows Film Version

Kansas City, Aug. 21.

Starlight Theatre's ninth production of the season, "Wish You Were Here," grossed, a moderate $37,000 for the week ending Sunday night (19). The musical drew moderate notices from the critics, and rated heavy publicity on the appearance of local boy Arnold Stang in the opus.

Season's finale, "King and I," opened last night (Mon.) as the expected bonanza of the schedule. It stars Jeanette MacDonald, with Leonard Graves, Terry Saunders, Dorothy Coulter, Glenn Burris and Fred Harper. It's figured the show may hit around $70,000 for the first week, and it stays a second stanza. If it's up to anticipation, it will bring the Starlight season in at about the projected season's total of $550,000.

There is considerable conjecture as to the effect of the film "King," which played five weeks in Fox Midwest houses, ending Aug. 14, only about a week before opening of the musical on the Swope Park theatre stage. The picture did sock biz, garnering $63,000 in its stay, but estimates are that it will possibly hypo the stage version, especially with the Jeanette MacDonald name as a draw outdoors.

'PETER' SOARS TO 49½G FOR ST. L. MUNY WEEK

St. Louis, Aug. 21.

The Municipal Theatre Assn. stage in the 10,000-seat alfresco playhouse in Forest Park was well suited for the flying stints in "Peter Pan" last week, and the musical version of the Barrie classic drew a nifty $49,500. Featured in the cast were Sandra Deel, Martyn Green, Ruth Matteson, Roy Urhausen and Ruth Schumacher. A scheduled Sunday (19) performance was rained out.

The season is entering the home stretch with a 14-night run of "Kismet" opening last night (Mon.) with a cast is headed by Norwood Smith and Margot Moser. The $3 top continues.

Touring Shows

(Aug. 20-Sept. 2)

Boy Friend—Philharmonic Aud., L.A. (20-1).
Damn Yankees (2d Co.) (Bobby Clark)—Curran, S.F. (20-1).
Desk Set (Shirley Booth)—Carthay Circle, L.A. (20-25).
Inherit the Wind (2d Co.) (Melvyn Douglas) — Huntington Hartford, L.A. (20-1).
Lark (Julie Harris)—Opera House, Central City, Col. (20-1).
Pajama Game (2d Co.) (Larry Douglas, Buster West, Betty O'Neil)—National, Wash. (20-25); Royal Alexandra, Toronto (27-1).
Teahouse of the August Moon (Larry Parks)—Geary, S.F. (20-1).
Witness for the Prosecution—Alcazar, S.F. (20-1).

'Pajama' $25,200, D. C.

Washington, Aug. 21.

Television viewers glued to their sets for the Thursday and Friday night (16-17) proceedings of the Democratic convention cut attendance last week for the fifth stanza of "Pajama Game" at the National, but the musical still drew a nice $25,200.

The show has another week to go, after which the theatre closes for redecoration until Sept. 17, when "Li'l Abner" comes in for what's said to be the first preem of a musical in Washington in 20 years.

Siobhan's 'Joan' $9,600 (5), Cambridge Drama Fest

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 21.

Cambridge Drama Festival in Sanders Theatre, 1,100-seater at Harvard U., set a record with Siobhan McKenna in "Saint Joan" with $9,600 for the first five performances and is heading for $14,-000 for the first full week. The Shaw revival, which opened last Wednesday (15) and holds through Sept. 1 has been a sell-out since opening.

Previous record was for "Beggar's Opera," second of the three productions staged this season, which did $8,800 for the first four performances and $12,000 for the first full week. First production of the new group's strawhatter was "Henry V."

"Saint Joan" goes next to the Playhouse in the Park, Philadelphia, and then into the Phoenix Theatre, N.Y., opening Sept. 4.

Stock Tryouts

(Aug. 20-Sept. 2)

Affair of Murder, by Mignon G. Eberhart—Westchester Playhouse, Mt. Kisco, N. Y. (26-2).
American Countess, musical comedy by John F. Grahame and Alexander Maissel—Milford (Pa.) Theatre (20-21).
Angel by Accident, by Fred Carmichael —Dorset (Vt.) Playhouse (24-25).
Beasop's Fables (Beatrice Lillie), revue —Famous Artists Country Playhouse, Fayetteville, N.Y. (20-25); Somerset (Mass.) Playhouse (27-1) (Reviewed in VARIETY, July 4, '56).
Career, by James Lee—Alley Theatre, Houston, Tex. (28-1).
Is Your Honeymoon Really Necessary, by E. V. Timmarsh—Flat Rock (N.C.) Playhouse (28-1).
Love is a Two-Way Street (Albert Dekker-Edith Atwater), by A. E. Eckland—Sharon (Conn.) Playhouse (21-25).
Old Boy, by Maura Laverty—Olney (Md.) Theatre (21-2) (Prior U.S. production of this Irish original reviewed in VARIETY, Feb. 15, '56, under title, "Tolka Row").
Rhom, by Larry Ward and Gordon Russell—Westport (Conn.) Country Playhouse (27-1).
Roll 'Em, revue—Groton (Conn.) Playhouse (28-2). (20-1).
Saint Joan (Siobhan McKenna)—Sanders Theatre, Cambridge, Mass. (20-1).
Smile of the Moon, by Lawrence Slade —Litchfield (Conn.) Playhouse (21-26).
Spa (Gloria Vanderbilt, Marchan Bey, Violet Heming), adapted by Edward Chodorov from Ferenc Molnar's "Olympia"—Paper Mill Playhouse, Milburn, N.J. (21-2) (Reviewed in VARIETY, Aug. 15, '56).
Sticks and Stones (Hermione Gingold), revue—Cincinnati (O.) Playhouse (20-25); Northland Playhouse, Det. (26-2) (Reviewed in VARIETY, July 18, '56).
Sudden Spring (Celeste Holm), Elihu Winer's adaptation of Halstead Welles' play—Ogunquit (Me.) Playhouse (20-25); South Shore Music Circus, Cohasset, Mass. (27-1) (Original Broadway version, titled "A Temporary Island," reviewed in VARIETY, March 18, '48).
Voice of Strangers (Ethel Waters), by Roy Bailey—Ivy Tower Playhouse, Spring Lake, N.J. (20-1).
Welcome Darlings (Tallulah Bankhead), revue—Ivoryton (Conn.) Playhouse (20-25); Cape Playhouse, Dennis, Mass. (27-1) (Reviewed in VARIETY, July 25, '56).
What's the Rush (Robert C. Lewis), revue—Playhouse in the Park, Philadelphia (20-25); Melody Circle, Allentown, Pa. (27-1) (Reviewed in VARIETY, July 18, '56).

SCHEDULED N. Y. OPENINGS

(Theatres indicated if set).

Loud Red Patrick, Ambassador (10-3).
Harbor Lights, Playhouse (10-4).
Sixth Finger, Longacre (10-5)
Reluctant Debutante, Miller (10-10).
Too Late Phalarope (10-11).
Double in Hearts, Golden (10-16).
Apple Cart, Plymouth (10-18).
Li'l Abner, St. James (Wk. 10-22).
Old Vic, Winter Garden (10-23).
Separate Tables, Music Box (10-25).
Separate Rooms (10-25).
Happiest Millionaire (10-29).
Long Day's Journey, Hayes (wk 10-28).
Major Barbara, Beck (10-30).
Auntie Mame, Broadhurst (10-31).
Sleeping Prince, Coronet (11-1).
City Center Drama Season (11-7).
Best House in Naples, Lyceum (11-8).
Child of Fortune, Royale (11-12).
Very Special Baby, Belasco (11-14).
Girls of Summer, Longacre (11-19).
Candide, Beck (11-22).
Build With One Hand (11-26).
Bells Are Ringing, Shubert (11-29).
Uncle Willie (12-3).
Happy Hunting, Majestic (12-6).
Hole in Head (12-12).
Visit Small Planet, Booth (1-9).
Waltz of Toreadors (1-17).
13 Daughters—Wint. Gard. (Wk. 2-18).

OFF-BROADWAY

Nobody's Child, Open Stage (8-22).
Saint Joan, Phoenix (9-4).
Rendezvous Vienna, Barbizon P. (9-13).
Take a Giant Step, Jan Hus (9-25).
Absalom, Fischer Hall (9-27).
Sea Gull, 4th St. (10-9).
Hamlet, St. Ignatius (10-17).

2-Town Ohio Bard Fest A Hit at Toledo, Antioch

Toledo, Aug. 21.

More than 40,000 persons have attended Ohio's Shakespeare-under-the-Stars Festival, which this year has spread to Toledo's Zoo Amphitheatre after four years on the campus of Antioch College in Yellow Springs, O., more than 100 miles away.

The Toledo Zoological Society and the Area Theatre of Antioch College, co-sponsors of the Festival, reported that Toledo attendance would pass the 17,500 mark after the Aug. 19 performance of "Measure for Measure." The play marked the completion of eight weeks of the 11-week Festival season. The attendance for the same period at Yellow Springs reached 22,600.

Both locales reported top business for "Hamlet," "King Lear," "Comedy of Errors," and "Much Ado About Nothing," in that order. Other shows given this summer are "All's Well that Ends Well," "Love's Labour's Lost," and "Measure for Measure." All seven productions are being repeated in a repertoire period to continue through Sept. 9.

'Witness' $28,300, 'Teahouse' $24,500, 'Friend' $42,700, S.F.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.

It may or may not have been the effect of Republicans converging on this convention city, but business at all three legit houses was excellent last week.

"Witness for the Prosecution" evidently was building into a profitable stand at the Alcazar, with a $2,100 gross increase in its second week. Fifth frame of "Boy Friend" at the Curran, despite end of four-week Civic Light Opera subscription, showed highly respectable figures, and "Teahouse of the August Moon," in the fourth week of its second run at the Geary, did very nicely.

"Damn Yankees" opened at the Curran last night (Mon.) on subscription.

Estimates for Last Week

Witness for the Prosecution, Alcazar (2d wk) ($4.95; 1,147; $32,-929) (Francis L. Sullivan, Patricia Jessel). Encouraging $28,300; previous week, $26,200.

Boy Friend, Curran (5th wk) ($5.40; 1,752; $52,000). Nice $42,-700; previous week, $48,200.

Teahouse of the August Moon, Geary (4th wk) ($4.40; 1,550; $37,-000) (Larry Parks). Fair $24,500; previous week, $26,500.

British Shows

(Figures denote opening dates)

LONDON

Boy Friend, Wyndham's (12-1-53).
Caine Mutiny, Lon. Hipp, (6-13-56).
Chalk Garden, Haymarket (4-11-56).
Doctor in House, Vic. Pal. (7-30-56).
Dry Rot, Whitehall (8-31-54).
Family Reunion, Phoenix (6-7-56).
For Amusement Only, Apollo (6-5-56).
Gigi, New (5-23-56).
Hotel Paradiso, Wint. Gard. (5-2-56).
House by Lake, York's (5-9-56).
Kismet, Stoll (4-20-55).
Likely Tale, Globe (3-22-56).
Long Echo, St. James's (8-1-56).
Man Alive, Aldwych (6-14-56).
Mousetrap, Ambassadors (11-25-52).
Night of 4th, Westminster (6-29-56).
Pajama Game, Coliseum (10-13-55).
Paris by Night, Prince Wales (4-9-55).
Plain & Fancy, Drury Lane (1-25-56).
Plume de ma Tante, Garrick (11-3-55).
Quare Fellow, Comedy (7-24-56).
Reviewer, St. Mart. (5-31-56).
Reluctant Deb, Cambridge (5-24-55).
Repertory, Old Vic (9-7-55).
Romanoff & Juliet, Piccadilly (5-17-56).
Sailor Beware, Strand (2-16-55).
Salad Days, Vaudeville (8-5-54).
Seagull, Saville (8-2-56).
South Sea Bubble, Lyric (4-25-56).
Spider's Web, Savoy (12-14-54).
Such Is Life, Adelphi (12-14-55).
To My Love, Fortune (6-6-56).
Waltz of Toreadors, Criterion (3-27-56).
Young & Beautiful, Arts (8-15-56).

SCHEDULED OPENINGS

No Time Sgts., Her Maj. (8-23-56).
Mr. Boltry, Aldwych (8-30-56).
Towards Zero, St. James's (9-4-56).
River Breeze, Phoenix (9-5-56).
Children's Hour, Arts (9-19-56).

TOURING

Bed
Can-Can
Daughter of Desire
D'Oyly Carte Opera
Free Love
French Without Tears
Girl Called Sadie
Head Over Hearts
King and I
Lilac Time
Mr. Boltry
Saturday Night at the Crown
Teahouse of the August Moon
This Happy Home
Too Young to Marry
Towards Zero
Trip to Bountiful
Twinkle
Under Milk Wood
Water Gipsies
Wife For A Night

B'way Dips, But Some Shows Climb; 'Wonderful' $46,700, 'Faces' $20,600, 'Pajama' 28G, 'Cat' 20½G, 'Match' 12½G

Business on Broadway slipped for most shows last week. Tradesters blamed the drop on competition from the tv coverage of the Democratic National Convention. It's the Republicans' turn to take the rap this week. However, business generally took a jump Monday night (20).

Swingover of "Hatful of Rain" to twofers boosted it substantially, while "Mr. Wonderful" also registered a sturdy increase. "Most Happy Fella" was the top-grosser of the week, beating "My Fair Lady," which was knocked out of the capacity lineup for the first time because of last Saturday (18) night's cancelled performance.

"Fella" and "No Time for Sergeants" were the only entries to go over the capacity mark.

Estimates for Last Week

Keys: C (Comedy), D (Drama), CD (Comedy-Drama), R (Revue), MC (Musical-Comedy), MD (Musical-Drama), O (Opera), OP (Operetta).

Other parenthetic designations refer, respectively, to weeks played, number of performances through last Saturday, top prices, number of seats, capacity gross and stars. Price includes 10% Federal and 5% City tax, but grosses are net; i.e., exclusive of tax.

Cat on a Hot Roof, Morosco (D) (74th wk; 588; $6.90; 946; $31,000) (Thomas Gomez, Marjorie Steele, Alex Nicol). Previous week, $20,-800; last week, over $20,500.

Damn Yankees, 46th St. (MC) (68th wk; 540; $8.05; 1,297; $50,-573) (Gwen Verdon). Previous week, $47,700; last week, almost $45,400.

Diary of Anne Frank, Cort (D) (46th wk; 365; $5.75; 1,036; $28,854) (Joseph Schildkraut). Previous week, $20,500; last week, almost $19,700.

Fanny, Majestic (MD) (94th wk; 748; $7.50; 1,625; $62,968) (Lawrence Tibbett, Billy Gilbert). Previous week, 26,700 on twofers; last week, almost $25,100 on twofers.

Hatfull of Rain, Lyceum (D) (41st wk; 325; $5.75-$4.60; 995; $23,339) (Vivian Blaine). Previous week, $8,800; last week, nearly $11,700 on twofers; moves Sept. 10 to the Plymouth Theatre where it will remain until Oct. 13 prior to beginning a road tour Oct. 15 in Chicago.

Matchmaker, Royale (C) (37th wk; 296; $5.75; 1,050; $31,000) (Ruth Gordon, Eileen Herlie, Loring Smith). Moves Nov. 12 to the Booth Theatre where it's scheduled to remain until Jan. 5 prior to beginning a road hike in Chicago. Previous week, $12,700; last week, over $12,500.

Mr. Wonderful, Broadway (MC) (22d wk; 172; $7.50-$6.90; 1,900; $71,000). Previous week, $44,800; last week, nearly $46,700.

Most Happy Fella, Imperial (MD) (16th wk; 124; $7.50; 1,427; $57,-875). Previous week, $58,100; last week, almost $58,000.

My Fair Lady, Hellinger (MC) (23d wk; 180; $7.50; 1,551; $64,-240) (Rex Harrison, Julie Andrews). Previous week, almost $65,200; last week, almost $56,100, with $9,067 lost last Saturday (18) night when the performance was cancelled mid-way through the first act. Tom Helmore, pinch-hitting for costar Rex Harrison, who was out because of a throat infection, was unable to continue the performance because of laryngitis. Helmore went on for Harrison last Friday eve and Saturday matinee and is dittoing this week until Harrison returns. Earlier in the week, Harrison's costar Miss Andrews was out of the show with a bad throat. Lola Fisher subbed.

New Faces of 1956, Barrymore (R) (10th wk; 76; $7.50-$6.90; 999; $38,577). Previous week, $22,000; last week, almost $20,600.

No Time for Sergeants, Alvin (C) (44th wk; 348; $5.75-$4.60; 1,331; $38,500). Previous week, $38,700; last week, over $38,600.

Pajama Game, St. James (MC) (119th wk; 948; $6.90; 1,615; $52,-118) (John Raitt, Eddie Foy Jr., Julie Wilson). Previous week, $27,900; last week, over $28,000.

Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter, Shubert (C) (45th wk; 356; $5.75; 1,453; $41,668) (Jayne Mansfield, Walter Matthau, Martin Gabel). Previous week, $13,800; last week, nearly $13,300.

OFF-BROADWAY

Dorian Gray, Bleecker St. (8-16-56).

Iceman Cometh, Circle in Square (5-8-56).

Man of Destiny, Downtown (5-21-56).

No Exit, Theatre East (8-14).

Threepenny Opera, de Lys (9-20-55).

Uncle Vanya, 4th St. (1-31-56).

World's My Oyster, Actor's Playhouse (7-31-56).

Liberace Freres-'Waltz' $59,800 2d Week, Dallas

Dallas, Aug. 21.

Holdover week of "Great Waltz" at State Fair Musicals grabbed a nifty $59,800 for the closing seven performances through last Sunday (19) matinee. Clear, hot weather, with the mercury at 101-107 degrees daily, didn't hamper the b.o. Produced by managing director Charles R. Meeker Jr., the Johann Strauss tuner starred Liberace and brother George Liberace in their initial legit roles.

"Show Boat," sixth and final staging of the 15th season, opened a 14-performance run last night (Mon.) Jerome Kern revival, also produced by Meeker, stars Shirley Jones and features William Tabbert, Betty Colby, Margaret Hamilton and Lawrence Winters.

Ont. Season 360G, Conn. Up to 28G

Stratford, Ont., Aug. 21.

Gross for eight of the Shakespeare Festival's nine weeks was $360,405. Attendance was down around 5,000 from last year's 126,-791. Ninth week ended last Saturday (18) and there was an extra benefit performance Monday (20) for the family of late actor Frederick Valk, who appeared here last year. Final week's take hasn't been announced.

Company left today (Tues.) for Montreal, which gave it a civic reception at 10:30 on St. Helen's Island. It flies tomorrow (Wed.) to the Edinburgh Festival to do "Henry V" and "Oedipus Rex," returning Sept. 17.

Skip Manley, circus big-top man who planned and erected the theatre tent here, will dismantle it for the last time next Saturday (25). A few days later work will start on construction of the new permanent theatre. The necessary $984,-000 is now assured.

Conn. Bard $28,000

Stratford, Conn., Aug. 21.

Continuing upward curve of American Shakespeare Festival Theatre, abetted by acceptance of "Measure for Measure" and "The Taming of the Shrew," brought the house to the season's top gross, $28,000, for the eight shows through Sunday (19).

Saturday's (18) SRO with "Measure" set the alltime record for the two-year-old theatre, $5,815, and "Shrew" came pretty close the preceding night. "King John" had emaciated biz in its only performance Wednesday matinee (15).

Season winds up Sept. 9.

Cambridge Drama Fest 'Significant': Gov. Herter

Boston, Aug. 21.

The Cambridge Drama Festival was cited by Gov. Christian A. Herter last week for its "significant contribution to the American stage." Festival producers William Morris Hunt, Bryant Haliday, Miles Morgan and Michael Wager were present at the ceremonies at the State House here.

The governor's citation read, "In its first year, the Cambridge Drama Festival has already become a significant contribution to the American stage. I am most delighted that the Festival is proving to be such a successful one and that it is of both national and international importance. I am pleased that the Festival has become an integral part of our Massachusetts culture."

Opening at Sanders Theatre, 1,100-seat house on the Harvard U. campus, three productions have been presented. They are "Henry V," "Beggar's Opera" and the current "Saint Joan," starring Irish actress Siobhan McKenna.

Caribbean Islands' Concert 'Boomlet'

By PAUL PIMSLEUR

The islands of the Caribbean have two things in common—sunshine and good money. The former makes a concert tour pleasant. The latter can make it profitable.

The biggest islands are Cuba, Dominican Republic and Haiti (they share an island), and Puerto Rico. As usual in Latin America, travel is all by plane.

A tour of the Caribbean may start in Havana. There, the chief sponsor is the Sociedad Pro Arte Musical, one of the world's largest musical societies. It has several thousand members, and runs a double series, with each artist performing twice, one on the afternoon series and once on the evening series. Pro Arte presents from 15 to 20 artists a season, taking advantage of proximity to the U.S. in booking talent. Artists are provided by Ernesto de Quesada. As a sample of the calibre, here are some of this past season's names: Rubinstein, Stern, Serkin, de los Angeles, New Orleans Symphony, Salzburg Marionette Theatre. The society has its own hall, called the Teatro Auditorium. It also runs an opera season.

Havana's strong booking position has had the effect of fostering concerts in other parts of the island. An artist can play a week in Cuba, going from Havana to Camaguey to Santa Clara to Santiago. Each town has its Pro Arte series, presenting from four to eight artists yearly, chosen from among those who come for the big series in Havana.

Hotels in Havana are good, but expensive in the tourist season, October to May. Always reserve rooms in advance, because they're packed much of the year.

The Cuban peso is interchangeable with the U.S. dollar.

Haiti Uncertain

Cuba's neighbor to the East is Haiti. The latter is a very poor country, and bookings there, though possible, are uncertain.

Next door to Haiti is the Dominican Republic, whose capital is Ciudad Trujillo, named by the country's dictator for himself. There, the Sociedad Pro Arte is two years old and has 170 members, some of whom kick in the difference when there's a loss. They present about seven events per season, which Quesada sells them as cheaply as he can to help the young series grow.

The hall is a radio studio called La Voz Dominicana, and seats 709. Guiding spirit of the series is Ninon de Brouwer.

Ciudad Trujillo boasts several Miami-type hotels, deluxe but expensive. Among them are the Ambassador, the La Paz, and the Jaragua. The Dominican peso is worth a buck.

The U.S. commonwealth island of Puerto Rico, which is progressing economically by leaps and bounds, has a terrific concert life. Chief promoters of cultural activities are the U. of P.R., and the Pro Arte societies all over the island.

Active University

The University, located near the capital of San Juan, uses student activities funds to bankroll a series of from 20 to 30 events yearly. These include a number of top name recitalists, a small sprinkling of local artists, and, as the piece de resistance, a two-week opera season for which they actually bring the Metropolitan down to Puerto Rico. The latter project is the work of N.Y. lawyer Al Gins, with the financial help of the University and local newspapers.

The University's extensive concert activities are directed by Dr. Alfredo Matilla. Events take place in the modern auditorium, seating 2000.

The Pro Arte Society is equally enterprising, not only in San Juan, but in several other cities and towns. The San Juan series presents about 15 artists each season, in the Teatro Tapia. These include many top names. It is quite possible for an artist to perform on both the University and the Pro Arte series, as there is no rivalry between them. The population of the capital is about a quarter of a million, and growing fast.

Second largest city in Puerto Rico is Ponce, with 90,000 population. There, they have had a Pro Arte series since 1936, on which about ten artists appear yearly. They have 800 members. Booking is done independently, with Quesada and with New York managements. Inez Acevedo is president. The La Perla Theater seats 1,052.

Next largest town is Mayaguez. There, Pro Arte has 400 subscribers and presents from 10 to 12 events per season. They are sometimes aided financially by the College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, which is located in Mayaguez. They have three theatres, with capacities of 700, 1,000, and 1,200. Atilano Fernandez is president.

The town of San German has a Pro Arte series with 600 members (bolstered by the student body of the nearby Polytechnic College). Concerts are given in the college auditorium, seating 1,000. President is Hernan Alvarez.

The chief booking agent in Puerto Rico is Domingo Blanco. He is Quesada's representative there, and he provides the majority of the artists for the various series and for the University.

Other Caribbean islands which ought to be good concert customers, but aren't organized along Pro Arte lines, are Jamaica and the French possessions, Martinique and Guadeloupe.

The last stop in the Caribbean before reaching the South American mainland is the Dutch island of Curacao (pop. 100,000). There, the Kunstkring presents from six to 10 events per season, depending on the budget. They are willing to lose money on some events, to get top artists. The director is Rudolf Boskaljon, who books almost entirely with Quesada. The Roxy Theatre seats 900. The neighboring Dutch island of Aruba also takes some of the attractions that come to Curacao

(The above is the fourth in a series of special pieces on the concert business in Latin America.—Ed.)

Officials, Bothered By Boos, Halt Support Of Bayreuth Wagner Fest

Bayreuth, Aug. 14.

It's the same old story in Germany, same as in the theatre all over the world—everyone wants to get into the act if it's a hit, and no one wants to be associated with a flop.

The annual summer Wagner Festival at Bayreuth has been getting the first serious boos and jeers in the six years since the war. During that time it's been under the aegis of Wolfgang and Wieland Wagner, grandsons of composer Richard Wagner, whose operas are performed now with ultra-modern staging and lighting at Bayreuth, instead of the traditional ponderous costumes and sets associated with Wagnerian opera.

Now Bavarian state official Kurt Eilles has withddrawn from the Friends of Bayreuth Society, charity group which raises funds to underwrite the costly summer staging. He says this is in protest against the radical modern staging of "Der Meistersinger."

In a widely-quoted remark, he charged that the out-of-this-world sets looked more like a hepped up musical called, "Kiss Me Eva" (a play on the popular musical "Kiss Me, Kate," first American musical to be translated into German and done with complete German cast last winter, with the name switch because Eva is the heroine of "Meistersinger").

The State Secretary of the Bavarian Ministry of Justice, long an avid fund-raiser for the Bayreuth event, particularly objected to the use of a giant paper ball hanging over the heads of singers to depict a tree. Also, the strange dramatic effects in the second act created by flooding the huge stage with bright blue lights.

Marjorie Lawrence Oncer

New Orleans, Aug. 21.

Marjorie Lawrence, one-time Metopera soprano, will appear as soloist with the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Dec. 11.

Miss Lawrence, whose fight against polio was retold in the film, "Interrupted Melody," lives at Elmwood Plantation near here and will teach at Tulane University's music school this fall. She is the wife of Dr. Thomas King.

Closely-Spaced Anzac Concerts

Sydney, Aug. 14.

Australian Broadcasting Commission's concert division has hit a new high via boxoffice intake with top overseas' talent over the '56 season.

Robert Lamb of the ABC asserts that Australia was the only country in the world where top recitalists may give as many as 40 concerts in 13 weeks to capacity business. Recent example:

Irene Kohler (British pianist), 22 performances in 12 weeks.

Miklos Gafni (Hungarian tenor), 22 performances in 20 weks.

Paul Badura-Skoda (Viennese pianist), 40 performances in 13 weeks.

Christian Ferras (French violinist), 55 performances in 19 weeks.

Victoria de los Angeles (Spanish soprano), 32 performances in 13 weeks.

Hans Schmidt-Isserstedt (German conductor), 15 performances in six weeks.

Eugene Istomin (American pianist) is set for 44 performances here in 16 wcks.

Fernando Germani (Italian organist), 35 performances in 12 weeks.

Philly Music Academy Into Non-Profit Basis

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.

The Academy of Music, century-old concert hall, has been sold to the Academy of Music of Philadelphia, recently formed non-profit organization. C. Wanton Balis Jr., president of the Philadelphia Orchestra Assn., voted that organization's 55% of the total shares.

Stuart F. Louchheim, president and spokesman of the new group, announced the start of a drive for $1,500,000 to give the venerable music hall a facelifting.

The 237 minority stockholders were asked to contribute part of the liquidation price under three optional plans. Those donating the full price of the stock will have their seating privileges continued for 15 years. Those giving $500 back will have five-year seating privileges. Benefactors contributing the full price and also surrendering seating rights, will have their names inscribed on a plaque in the Academy.

PHILLY'S 100TH BIRTHDAY

Fund Drive Pegged to Date (Jan. 26, 1957) By Potts

Philadelphia, Aug. 21.

A committee has been named to help solicit funds from business corporations for the improvement program for Philadelphia's Academy of Music.

The 100-year-old structure will hold its centennial celebration next year (Jan. 26, 1957).

Frederic R. Potts, chairman of the business committee of the Academy of Music Centennial, has the following leaders serving with him:

William Balderston (Philco); Wilfred D. Gillen (Bell Telephone); Charles B. Grace (Heinz); Theodore Schlanger (Stanley-Warner), and John R. Wanamaker.

Conn. Fest Big Draw

New London, Conn., Aug. 21.

Ninth annual dance festival at Connecticut College here (16-19) pulled substantially better biz than last year, when $3,000 was refunded to ticket buyers stymied from attending due to flood conditions of '55.

With total capacity potential of 6,670 for five-performance series, attendance hit approximately 6,100. Festival featured works of Jose Limon, Pauline Koner, Ruth Currier, Anna Sokolow, Alwin Nikolais, Doris Humphrey, Birgit Akesson, Margret Dietz.

Turkish Soprano Set

San Francisco, Aug. 21.

Zandonai's "Francesca da Rimini" revival will have Leyla Gencer, prima donna with the Ankara State Opera.

This will be American debut for the Turkish soprano. She turned down an invitation to tour South Africa with Milan's La Scala to be available here.

Frisco Ballet to Asia

International Exchange Program, which is administered for the U. S. State Dept. by American National Theatre & Academy will tour the San Francisco Ballet in Asia for three months starting in January. Performances will be given in Phillippines, Korea, Okinawa, Formosa, Hong Kong, Thailand, Malaya, Indonesia, Burma, India, Ceylon and Pakistan.

Lew Christensen company has lately been in the eastern U. S. playing summer festivals.

About 30 dancers will go to the Orient.

11G Roger Williams Pull At Pop Concert Gives Yale Bowl Series a Lift

New Haven, Aug. 21.

Fifth Yale Bowl pop concert of the 1956 series turned out to be a moneymaker when Roger Williams lured 9,700 into the enclosure last Tuesday (14). This was top attendance of the season and pulled an even $11,000 gross.

Series is behind the eight-ball in total to date and a general feeling that the pop concert idea had had it in this town was beginning to crop up. However, the response to the Williams program, plus a good contribution by the New Haven Symphony Orchestra under Harry Berman, threw a roadblock against diminishing local interest in this form of entertainment. Proving once more that when you give 'em what they want, they'll support it.

Britten's Full-Lengther Due for Sadler's Wells

London, Aug. 14.

A three-act ballet, "The Prince of the Pagodas," gets its world preem by Sadler's Wells Ballet Sept. 19, shortly before the company leaves for a provincial tour to be followed by a season at the Bolshoi Theatre, Moscow.

With specially commissioned music by Benjamin Britten and choreography by John Cranko, leading roles will be danced by Svetlana Beriosova, David Blair and Anya Linden. This will be the first full score Britten has penned specifically for ballet. In addition, there's a one act ballet, "The Miraculous Mandarin," with music by Bela Bartok and choreography by Alfred Rodrigues set for its first London performance on the opening night of the season, Sept. 4.

Others to take part are Margot Fonteyn, Elaine Fifield and Beryl Grey.

S.F. Ballet's Asian Trek

San Francisco, Aug. 21.

Lew Christensen's San Francisco Ballet will tour a dozen Asiatic countries next January through March under ANTA's International Exchange Program, according to Robert W. Dowling, ANTA board chairman.

Clincher for tour, which U.S. State Dept. pays for, was company's just-concluded eastern trip which included a three-week run at Jacob's Pillow in Massachusetts.

Company will appear in Korea, Okinawa, Formosa, Philippines, Hong Kong, Thailand, Malaya, Indonesia, Burma, India, Ceylon, and Pakistan.

Up Anzacs' Fifield

London, Aug. 14.

Elaine Fifield, Australian ballet dancer, will succeed Violetta Elvin as full-rank ballerina of Sadler's Wells. The first role of her new status is that of Odette-Odile in "Swan Lake" which is to be staged at Covent Garden on Sept. 8.

Miss Fifield joined the company in 1954 and danced her first major role in "Madame Chrysantheme" created specially for her by Frederick Ashton.

Seattle Maestro to Hawaii

Seattle, Aug. 21.

Jackie Souders, trombonist and orchestra leader here, has left the business to manage the Wailua Ranch Resort on the Hawaiian Island of Kauai.

Souders started as a sideman here in 1920. He played with Vic Meyer's orchestra in the old Butler Hotel and was musical director and emcee for Fanchon & Marco shows on the Coast.

Talent Lineup At Chicago's Lyric

Chicago, Aug. 21.

Chicago's Lyric Opera, its litigation behind, will offer 10 productions this autumn, some repeating. Tickets will be sold ($8 to $40) in Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday-Thursday and Friday Night series. Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West" is a revival item. Dimitri Mitropoulous will be in the pit for that. George Solti is also set for conducting chores with others still in negotiation.

Michael Lepore is currently drilling the chorus of 68 which will back the singers at the Civic Opera House. Monte Fassnacht is production supervisor and Gerald Ritholz on the scenic end. General manager Carol Fox, survivor in the recent rancorous feud, has Thalia Stahas and Byron Belt as assistant managers, Ardis Krainik as exec secretary, Bernard Guttman on fiscal matters and Danny Newman batting out the blurbs.

Here's the schedule as of now:

MONDAY NIGHT SERIES

Oct. 22—"Die Walkure"—with Ludwig Suthaus, William Wilderman, Paul Schoeffler, Birgit Nilsson, Inge Borkh, Claramae Turner. (Baton: Georg Solti.)
Oct. 29—"Don Giovanni"—with Eleanor Steber, Anita Cerquetti, Nicola Rossi-Lemeni, Leopold Simoneau, Fernando Corena, Paul Schoeffler. (Solti.)
Nov. 5—"Tosca"—with Renata Tebaldi, Jussi Bjoerling, Tito Gobbi.
Nov. 12—"La Forza Del Destino"—with Renata Tebaldi, Giuletta Simionato, Richard Tucker, Ettore Bastianini, Carlo Badioli, Nicola Rossi-Lemeni, (Solti.)

TUESDAY NIGHT SERIES

Oct. 16—"Andrea Chenier"—with Eleanor Steber, Mario Del Monaco, Tito Gobbi.
Oct. 23—"Il Trovatore"—with Anita Cerquetti, Claramae Turner, Jussi Bjoerling, Ettore Bastianini, William Wilderman.
Oct. 30—"Tosca"—with same cast as Nov. 5.
Nov. 13—"Don Giovanni"—with same cast as Oct. 29.

WEDNESDAY-THURSDAY SERIES

Oct. 17—"Salome"—with Inge Borkh, Ramon Vinay, Alexander Welitsch. (Solti.)
Oct. 31—"La Traviata"—with Eleanor Steber, Leopold Simoneau, Ettore Bastianini.
Nov. 8 (Thursday)—"La Forza Del Destino"—with same cast as Nov. 12.
Nov. 14—"La Boheme"—with Renata Tebaldi, Jussi Bjoerling, Ettore Bastianini.

FRIDAY NIGHT SERIES

Oct. 19—"Andrea Chenier"—with same cast as Oct. 16.
Oct. 26—"La Traviata"—with same cast as Oct. 31.
Nov. 2—"Tosca"—with same cast as Nov. 5.
Nov. 9—"The Barber of Seville"—with Giuletta Simionato, Tito Gobbi, Leopold Simoneau, Nicola Rossi-Lemeni, Carlo Badioli.
Nov. 16—"La Boheme"—with same cast as Nov. 14.

Concert Notes

Claudio Arrau planed to Europe over last weekend to play at the Salzburg Festival in Austria this week. He follows with a South African tour beginning Sept. 16 and then embarks on a swing of India, Ceylon and Singapore.

Hans Schwieger, conductor of Kansas City Philharmonic, has replaced Yugoslav Lovro von Matacic for conducting assignments on "Cosi Fan Tutte" and "Die Walkure" with San Francisco Opera this fall. William Steinberg will take over Matacic's chore on "Boris Godounov." Matacic cancelled out.

Berlin Philharmonic's first West Coast appearance will be Nov. 11 at the Frisco Opera House. Orchestra plays Berkeley Community Theatre, Nov. 12-13.

Mrs. J. P. Otterson has been appointed publicity director of the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra Society. She has been connected with advertising agencies in Washinton and until recently was Buffalo rep for Great Books Foundation.

Mary Gray, soprano formerly with the San Francisco Opera and Civic Light Opera, has returned to the Coast after six years on the Continent, with concert appearances in Germany, France, England and Italy. She will fill concert dates on the Coast before going back to Germany to star in the premiere of a new opera.

Toledo Orch Skeds

Toledo, Aug. 21.

Toledo Orchestra has scheduled five evening concerts for the 1956-57 season in the Toledo Museum of Art Peristyle, beginning Oct. 31. Joseph Hawthorne will conduct.

Other dates are Nov. 28, with Jack Heller, concertmaster, as violin soloist; Jan. 9, Andres Segovia, guitarist, Feb. 6; Jorge Bolet, pianist; and March 27, concert version of Verdi opera, "La Traviata," sung in English by Irene Jordan and Thomas Hayward.

Literati

Madeleine Sherwood's Book?

Random House prexy Bennett Cerf has a carte blanche deal with Mrs. Robert E. (Madeleine) Sherwood for a novel drawn on contemporaneous society and the theatre. She has manifested a penchant for writing but has not buckled down to anything specific since the death of her playwright-husband.

She is dividing her summer as alternate house-guest with the Bennett Cerfs in Mt. Kisco, N.Y. and the Frederick Backers in Sands Point, L.I.

Dailies And Red China

Reluctantly, major news media are falling in line with the U.S. State Dept.'s ban on allowing U.S. correspondents to accept bids to visit Red China. But the protests are strong. The N.Y. Times, editorializing on the ban yesterday (21), stated, in part, "The people of this country are entitled to as much truth about the world as they can get. It is the business of newspapers, news agencies and broadcasters to bring it to them. There is a serious constitutional question involved as to whether the State Dept. has the right to deny the public the right to read about certain subjects . . ."

The Times editorial came in the wake of a State Dept. announcement on Monday (20) that President Eisenhower had explicitly endorsed the department stand. The Peiping government earlier this month telegraphed invitations to 22 U.S. news and radio correspondents to accept bids to visit China despite the State Department's ban. There hasn't been a U.S. newsman in Red China in eight years.

Prior to Eisenhower's expressed view, the following correspondents were listed as going to Red China in a Hong Kong dispatch: John Roderick, of the Associated Press, Robert C. Miller, of United Press, James Robinson, NBC, and Keyes Beech of the Chicago Daily News.

In New York, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, prez and publisher of the N. Y. Times, said that he had advised Times members not to accept the invitation. James Wechsler, editor of the New York Post, said the newspaper had asked the State Dept. for an affidavit of identity for Seymour Freidin, Post correspondent. It was with such an affidavit that Freidin visited in Bulgaria in 1955, when visits to that country were stamped forbidden on U.S. passports. The N.Y. Herald Tribune took the same stand as the Times, but is desisting from sending a staffer into Red China.

Second Laurie Anthology

Jerry Lieberman, a Brooklyn (N.Y.) gag writer whom Joe Laurie Jr. hardly knew but whose work he felt was promising, for which reason he willed him much of his comedy files, is working on a second anthology of Laurie humor. The first, "Off The Cuff," was a sellout under the Pocket Books imprint.

Lieberman followed that with "Best Jokes For All Occasions," and it went so well that Perma-Books will reissue it in November. The second Laurie collection, therefore, is not due until next spring.

Latest on Boston Post

As court-appointed trustees of the folded Boston Post tried to dig up money needed to resume publication of the 125-year-old newspaper the other three morning papers, Herald, Globe and Record, started intensive campaigns toward wooing the Post's circulation. Future for the 850 employes, among them Elliot Norton, Post drama critic and storm centre of a recent controversy involving freedom of the press with the Shuberts, looked bleak.

Folding of the Post recalled the story that more pressagents have been lost in the ramshackle series of buildings with winding corridors and crooked stairs than in any other newspaper in the country. Apocryphal stories say that on any given Tuesday (pressagent day), three or four p.a.'s had to be flushed out of the Post buildings by searching parties.

Last edition of the Post, which may become a collector's item, was published Wednesday (15). The Post failed to publish Thursday (16) and has been out of the picture since. The tangled affairs of the financially crippled paper went before three courts.

The Post Publishing Co. filed a petition for reorganization in U.S. District Court Thursday (16) and three trustees were appointed. Judge George C. Sweeney named former Asst. U.S. Atty. Charles W. Bartlett, Atty. Joseph P. Healey, professor of corporation law at Boston College Law School, and Atty. Thomas W. Lawless, a specialist in corporate reorganization, as trustees.

The Newspaper Guild of Boston filed an equity action in Suffolk Superior Court seeking to freeze Post assets and a temporary injunction was issued for a hearing later. Post employes went to Municipal Court seeking complaints charging failure to pay their wages.

Typewriters in the Post editorial room were being used by reporters to type out claims for pay as the paper folded. The end came after John Fox, publisher, failed to meet employe union demands for $180,000 in current wages and back pay.

Trustee Healey said: "We are working in an attempt to arrange working capital financing both here and outside Boston."

In its petition for reorganization, the Post said, "The indebtedness, liquidated as to the amount and not contingent on its liability, is over $2,200,000."

In its petition to reorganize the Post said: "A newspaper which publishes only mornings and on Sundays (the Post) cannot compete with other newspapers in the same community that publish both mornings and evenings and Sundays, under whatever names. That the reason for this is the preference of advertisers for so-called "combination" advertising, comprising identical advertisements that appear on Sunday and a weekday evening, at a special rate.

"The Post presently is housed in antiquated buildings and altogether unfit for modern newspaper operation. Most are nearly 100 years old and none built in this century. Its presses are from 30 to 50 years old and obsolete. This also is true of much of the other mechanical equipment."

RKO Buys Mercer Tome

Charles Mercer, AP tv editor-critic, has written a novel called "Rachael Cade," which Putnam's will publish in October, but already it's a Literary Guild selection and RKO bought it for $125,000.

Book deals with African situation.

N.Y. Times' Morgue

Value of a newspaper's morgue was accented to readers of the N.Y. Times Sunday (19) in an obit on John Becan, 66, retired director of that publication's morgue, who died Saturday (18) at his Bayside, L. I., home. Almost an entire column was devoted to Becan who toiled among the Times' clips for some 48 years.

Piece was virtually a history of the Times' morgue for it recalled that after two years as a copy boy Becan joined Thomas Bracken (the morgue's present director) in 1907 as a two-man clip-cutting staff. Forty years later the repository filed its 1,000,000th biographical envelope, and the staff has now grown to 20 librarians with Bracken as director.

'Best TV Humor'

Irving Settel, himself a radio-tv packager and producer, has edited an anthology of "Best Television Humor of the Year" (Ace; 35c) which is a readable paperback and certainly a good money's worth considering the byliners.

Excerpts from these shows are included with full credits to source, authorship, etc.: Jack Benny, Perry Como, Garry Moore, Steve Allen, Martha Raye, Jack Paar, Milton Berle, William Bendix, Ronald Colman, Ozzie & Harriet, The Goldbergs, Danny Thomas, Bob Cummings, Sam Levenson. Abel.

UP's Burnup Vs. Diana Dors

United Press took the unusual step of sending out press releases Monday (20) to non-subscribers to feed them the story of the beating administered to photographer Stewart Sawyer by Patrick Hamilton, Denise Dors' husband, at a Beverly Hills party at the couple's home the night before. Apparently UP was so burned over the incident that it took extra measures to spread the story, although a bylined piece on the incident complete with photos had gone over the wire and been carried by subscribers.

Incident occurred at a party given by Miss Dors for some 300 celebs, and was kicked off when Hamilton, Miss Dors, agent Louis Shurr and designer Howard Shoup tumbled into the pool. Hamilton claimed Sawyer had pushed them —although nobody saw him do so except Hamilton—and he and Miss Dors knocked the photog down and beat and kicked him. Sawyer and his wife may sue the Hamiltons (Miss Dors).

Pr lific Gore Vidal

TV scripter Gore Vidal who is represented on other publishers' lists, the Broadway stage and pix, this fall takes a double-featured encore via Zero Press this November.

"A Thirsty Evil" is a collection of seven new and recent short stories by him, and earlier in the same month the "Zero No. 8 Anthology" includes new writings by Jean-Paul Sartre, Marianne Moore, Samuel Beckett, Kenneth Patchen, Paul Bowles and others, Vidal included. Themistocles Hoetis is the editor thereof.

Gore may also have three new plays on Broadway next season.

Trezevant Collier's Post

John G. Trezevant, who joined Crowell-Collier Publishing Co. last September, has been named managing editor of Collier's effective Sept. 1. Formerly assistant news editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, he had been serving on the staff of Paul C. Smith, prexy and editor-in-chief of Crowell-Collier.

Trezevant succeeds Gordon Manning who resigned to join the staff of Newsweek.

'Big Bill Blues' Biog

Blues singer Big Bill Broonzy's autobiog, "Big Bill Blues," to be published in this country by Grove Press.

Overseas version was released last spring in four languages by the Cassel in England.

Cautious Mrs. Morgan

Mrs. Alice B. Morgan, the financial whiz from Bristol, R. I., who stopped at the $32,000 plateau rather than go for the jackpot on "$64,000 Question," is having her book, "The Investors' Road Map," published by Simon & Schuster next month. When she casually mentioned it on the CBS-TVer the publishers were deluged with mail, phone and wire orders for over 30,000 copies of the book.

The 78-year-old investment counsellor gave her decision to stop as culled from the last page to her "Investors' Road Map"—"you must have long-range goals to overcome short-range frustrations"—and added that she would not be setting a good example as an investment adviser by flinging caution to the winds and risking her total winnings.

Mrs. Morgan most recently has been conducting investment classes in her native Bristol, R. I., as a community service and has been a frequent contributor to Independent Woman and Barron's National Business & Financial Weekly. The study of investments has been her chief interest for the past 20 years.

CHATTER

Brooklyn Weekly and Brooklyn Daily Inc., of Kings County, has changed its capital stock from 200 shares, no par value, to 1,000,000 shares at 10c par value.

John M. Cockburn, drama critic of Glasgow Evening Times, penned biog of British labor leaders Keir Hardie under title of "The Hungry Heart." Jarrolds, of London, publishers.

Dick Falk, Broadway publicist, authored "I Make News—And Sell It" for the current issue of The American Salesman. It's replete with anecdota on how the writer snared free space.

Poughkeepsie Newspapers Inc. decreased its capital stock from $4,810,000 to $2,803,500, according to papers filed with the Secretary of State at Albany by Van De Water & Van De Water, of Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Pat Van Doren has resigned as head of the subsidiary rights department of Farrar, Strauss & Cudahy, succeeded by Kathy Connors, formerly with Bantam Books. She will be assisted by Beverly Jane Loo.

James D. Gershman, who shifted from INS where he was a senior editor, to p.r. director with Macy's, and last year to ad-pubrelations-display activities manager at Gimbel's, has resigned to join Harshe-Rotman flackery as v.p. in charge of the N.Y. office.

Lead article in current American Mercury Joseph J. Seldin's "Selling Presidents Like Soap," a takeoff on the Madison Ave. influence in political campaigns accenting radio-tv; another show biz piece is Sam G. Wingfield's "Yesterday's Minstrels," about blackface comedians.

"The Doctor's Secret"
By D. L. Dern
All Book Shops — $2.50
Pageant Press, 130 W. 42 St., N. Y.

SCULLY'S SCRAPBOOK

By Frank Scully

Desert Springs, Aug. 21.

In one of those rushes of civilian activity between wars, KNX, a radio station claiming to be the most powerful in the west, decided to hire a returned warrior to fill out a pause in the night's recorded music with a live audience participation show—a sort of midnight frolic for insomniacs with unpunctured eardrums.

They got a guy, the son of a vaude performer, who played the piano, told some jokes, wandered up and down the aisles asking people where they were from, what they were doing in Hollywood, and after telling a few occupational jokes at their expense, handed them a gift that had been left over from the daytime sample cases—passes to wander around the forecourt of Grauman's Chinese, soap for their pretty necks, toothpaste for their yellow teeth and toy models of solid gilt Cadillacs.

Notables dropped in now and then to kill an hour before going to bed and sometimes joined the m.c. in the yawning fun. One of them must have been a vicepresident of CBS from Manhattan because one day the entertainer was kidnapped and held for ransom at 485 Madison Ave., New York. In time some sponsors paid the ransom fee and that's when New Yorkers discovered that all bright young comedians go to N.Y. when they die.

In Hollywood the loss must have been felt like a hole in the head that refused to heal. It even carried over into television, because one day a CBS producer climbed to Bedside Manor, my hilltop home, and on learning that I had no intention of returning to New York in what the diplomats call the forseeable future, asked me if I would do a show from 11 to midnight on Friday nights. It was explained that I could kid anything and anybody, as a long check had revealed that all veepees and their informers invariably blew out of town Friday afternoon and would not have listened to the original of the Gettysburg Address if it broke on Friday night.

The Pooped Deckhand

I explained that I had a full schedule of writing and by Friday was more pooped than a poop deck. Besides I could neither sing, dance nor tell other people's jokes. The producer pointed out that Arthur Godfrey couldn't even walk around at that time and he was making millions.

"We'll give you a good trio and a top staff support," he explained. "And money."

"How much?"

"All the refrigerators your friends can use and $300 a show."

I could use $1,800 just then, so I said, "I'll try it for six weeks."

We held a dry run over a closed circuit and some spotter at the New York end must have been awake and caught it. He reported to the veep in charge of messing up the best laid plans and a directive came from New York to Hollywood ordering the show to go on five nights a week and to be piped east where slummers presumably keep awake much longer than they do on the west coast.

"Not me," I said. "On one lung, one leg and one idea I'd be dead in a month on a five-day week. Get Steve Allen."

"He's gone."

"Where to? Forest Lawn?"

The hassle went on for weeks. Though I have a macaroni constitution, I have a whim of iron. Thanks to that whim I have outlived most of my contemporaries, though my number has been up since 1917. I refused their terms. They refused mine. The producer went east to see what he could and has never been heard of since.

Then the other day the oldest flea from heaven in the Scully Circus, a first lieutenant in the Air Force, rolled in to Desert Springs, which is our summer quarters, 80 miles east of where the L.A. smog is conditioning people for radioactive fallout. With him was his wife, a child and a six months' old pup.

The Hospitable Pharisee

They arrived at three in the morning and feigning a hospitality that a Pharisee could not have topped, I welcomed them. I offered them a bunkhouse, but after looking it over and seeing that the walls had holes large enough to allow Gila monsters to join in the fun, they said they preferred to sleep on the divan bed in the kitchen of my unit. I was reserving this for a daughter who was in nurse's training and had got slugged months before by a crazed female patient of 80. Out of this altercation had developed a tumor which due to the present cancerphobia the croakers thought should be clipped in the bud. A beautiful doll weighing 116 pounds, she had lost 20.

Her mother had scurried to San Diego to be on hand for the operation and had reported that the operation was a success and that the tumor had proven benign. They would be home in a few days, so the doll could complete her convalescence on Rancho Pancho and maybe get fattened up by a 10-day layoff.

A Ph. D. couldn't have studied the alphabet under similar conditions, so I decided to take a book and go down to the barn and read for a while. I fingered though a batch of new books, trying to figure which one would give me the least brain-strain. Among them were "The Wind In His Fists" by John Jennings, "The Color Is Green" by Lenard Kaufman, "The Public Arts" by Gilbert Seldes, "They Knew Too Much About Flying Saucers" by Gray Barker, "Minnesota Gothic" by Walter O'Meara, "The Spiked Heel" by Richard Marsten and "The Funny Men" by Steve Allen.

"There he is!", cried Patty Freeman Scully, a beautiful brunet who happens to be my daughter-in-law. "I saw him on tv in Topeka. He was advertising this book."

"Advertising it? It says here he wrote it, and here are his horned rimmed glasses on the dust jacket to prove it."

Staking A Horn Rimmed Claim

Horned rimmed glasses of course are not a surefire identifying mark. They got their first laugh in 1914 when Prof. Walter B. Pitkin, an owl and I introduced them to the Columbia campus. Comedians have been getting langhs with them ever since.

I paged through the autopsy. Fred Allen, Jack Benny, Milton Berle, Red Buttons, Sid Caesar, Eddie Cantor, Wally Cox, Jackie Gleason, George Gobel, Arthur Godfrey, Bob Hope, Sam Levenson, Groucho Marx, Phil Silvers and Red Skelton. But no Sonny Tufts. About 275 pages of laboring the obvious by an anthologist who was either neglecting his show to prove he could write or neglecting his writing to prove he could act.

Analyzing Humor

His style wasn't bad except for a "or what have you" touch that went out with "23 skidoo." He retailed some of the jokes of the comedians but spent most of the time analyzing humor (which is like analyzing little white clouds) and defending the shortcomings of the comedians by rating most of them as the funniest in the biz.

I enjoyed most comedians but laugh less than either Ned Sparks or Jim Thornton. When the comedians move into my racket even enjoyment seems to go out the window. I feel like a farmer who finds his farm stocked with surplus, and no market, watching grain being imported to further flood his cluttered ranch.

You have to join a union to perform in most fields, but anybody who can string one simple declarative sentence behind another can call himself a writer. Since surveys have shown that college graduates average one book a year as readers (their own, probably), it becomes obvious that writers have to do something else (even if it means becoming tv performers) to make both ends meet.

I hear the sciences are begging for recruits.

Anyone for electronics?

Broadway

Helen Hayes and the Leo Jaffes (Columbia Pictures International Corp, v.p.) back from Europe yesterday (Tues.) on the Queen Mary.

VARIETY circulation manager Eddie McCaffrey is a first-time grandpop by courtesy of daughter Kathleen (Mrs. Timothy) Madden. It's a girl, born Sunday (19).

Ted Husing can have visitors now at the Instituite of Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation, 400 East 34th St., but still far from well as a result of his paralysis following a stroke.

Anthony Quinn, Sol Hurok, Renata Tebaldi, Finley Currie, Eric Leinsdorf, MCA v.p. George Chasin and Nick Pery, Columbia Pictures' Continental manager, due in from Europe tomorrow (Thurs.) on the S.S. Liberte.

George Woods on the William Morris Agency is with Walter Winchell on the Coast to assist in lining up names for the columnist's vaudeo debut over NBC Oct. 5 (Friday nights) under Toni and Old Gold sponsorship.

Olsen & Johnson have some coin due them from Manufacturers Trust Co., according to the bank's ad in the News listing unclaimed property at its 55 Broad St., head office. Old account is listed care of Baumgarten & Arum, law firm at 400 Madison Ave., and indicated as "attention Mr. Males."

William Morris agency's Martin Jurow has been in touch with Shirley Wolf, attorney for Martha Raye, who is recuperating in Miami Beach from an overdose of sleeping tablets, and plans are going forward for her revue starrer, "Boffola," under the aegis of Harry Rigney & Herbert (Blue Angel) Jacoby, to be staged by Herb Ross. This would mark her first legit since Al Jolson's "Hold Onto Your Hat."

Minneapolis

By Les Rees

Old Log strawhatter offering "Light Up the Sky."

Local Fox Quartet in third week at Hotel Radisson Flame Room.

Lawrence Welk concert at St. Paul Auditorium Sept. 2 scaled at $5 top.

Horseshoe Lake summer theatre presented "Emperor's New Clothes."

Local Herb Pilhofer group gave outdoor modern jazz concert at Walker Art center.

Antal Dorati, Minneapolis Symphony, conductor, making guest appearances in Italy.

Ed Sullivan pacted to appear with his variety show for a second time next May 14 on St. Paul Women's Institute series.

As result of her successful supper club debut here, Hotel Radisson Flame Room inked pianist Ramona Gerhard for another engagement next summer.

Skitch Henderson to travel from New York here in a jet for his guest conductor appearance with Minneapolis Symphony in fourth of series of five "under the stars" concerts at new baseball stadium.

Philadelphia

By Jerry Gaghan

Ross Raphael Orch will play the Warwick Room first three weeks in October.

Richloy Inc., and Myers Music Inc., pubbery, have linked forces in new headquarters.

Ray Fabiani, wrestling promoter, named to executive board of Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.

Harry Belafonte, biggest single draw at the Latin Casino last season, pacted for return date (Nov. 1).

Lisa Ferraday failed to show for local Republican rally but sent Selene Walters, former Goldwyn girl as sub.

Show trains for St. John Terrell's Lambertville Music Circus, will be inaugurated from Reading Terminal here, starting Aug. 24.

Paris

By Gene Moskowitz

(28 Rue Huchette, Odeon 4944)

Sarah Vaughan due for an Olympia Musichall engagement next season.

Jean Gabin and Bernard Blier set for the nth remake of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables."

Rex film house bringing back the Dancing Waters as a stage attraction along with firstrun pix.

In spite of the summer exodus, John Ford's "The Searchers" (WB) garnering nice biz and reviews.

Greta Garbo's "Queen Christina," "Conquest" and "Camille," all Metro, back for arty house reruns and doing nicely.

Pido Sayers, on leave from the New York City Ballet, to Monte Carlo for a terp stint with the John Taras group, dancing at the Casino.

Contest to choose unknown young girl for lead in Otto Preminger's film version of "Bonjour Tristesse" is over and winner is 17-year-old Gisele Franchomme.

Jack Benny still peeved about police interference when he tried to shoot a vidpix scene in Rome before the famed Fountain De Trevi which has all those coins thrown into it.

Gary Cooper, Audrey Hepburn and Maurice Chevalier now ready for actual shooting of Billy Wilder's "Love in the Afternoon" (AA) after two weeks of rehearsal of script in a theatrical manner.

Preston Sturges signed Brigitte Bardot to play opposite Michael Wilding, Cesar Romero and Kathleen Hughes in his next pic, "Long Live the King," which is to be made on the Continent in English next fall.

Lisbon

By Lewis Garyo

Tenor Luis Andrade to Italy to give recitals on radio and tele.

Mexican chantoosie Ana Maria Gonzales holidaying in Estoril after a tour of Portuguese seaside towns.

Luis Bernardo, soloist in ballet company of San Carlos opera house, has gone to Paris to join a new ballet unit.

German actor Werner Fuetterer, prexy of German Artists Syndicate and Antonio Angel Diaz, of Argentina, visited Estoril.

Brazilian revue star Beatriz Costa will be leading lady of new company of actor-manager Eugenio Salvador at Maria Vitoria theatre.

Two lines of Portuguese girls, singers and dancers, one managed by Erasto and another by Anibal Sansao, off for North Africa under six-month contracts.

Impresarios Amelia Rey Colaco and Robles Monteiro as well as actors Luis de Campos and Jacinto Ramos off to France and Italy to look in at various festivals.

Singer Luis Picarra off to Belgian Congo.

Westport, Conn.

By Humphrey Doulens

Elaine Malbin here.

The Andre Mertens to Cape Cod.

Philip Langner back from Cape Cod.

Len Coca now booking singers into the Westnor.

John Hammond back from jazz forum dates at Stratford (Ont.).

Millie Palmer, daughter of the late Lew Dockstader, joined local colony.

Alan Bunce and Ruth Nugent back from fishing trip to Nova Scotia.

Imogene Coca and Jules Munshin doing "Anniversary Waltz" at Country Playhouse week of Aug. 27.

Betty Comden and Adolph Green here putting finishing touches on "Bells Are Ringing" script.

Edna Ferber, Ruth Harvey, Theresa Helburn, John C. Wilson, John Tyers and Ed Kneedler at opening of "Knickerbocker Holiday" at Country Playhouse (20).

Santiago

Berlin Classic Orchestra at the Municipal.

Kanda Jaque, who appeared in local films and legit, now a fashion designer.

New Camilo Henriquez legit house in Press Club building to be showcase for Ensayo Theatre productions.

Rene Largo Farias, former program director at Radio Mineria, now running Radio Los Castanos in Vina del Mar.

Catholic University starting motion picture department teaching film techniques and awarding degrees in pic making.

Radio Mineria launched its own version of "$64,000 Question" with top prize of 1,280,000 pesos ($2,560), Finanpro sponsoring.

Emelco filming 20-minute documentary on life of William Wheelwright, American pioneer who built first railroad in South America, for USIA.

Chicago

Danny Kaye's stand at the Shubert opens Sept. 7.

Mike Fritzel next month takes over the Trade Winds eatery, operated for many years by the late Hy Ginnis.

Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein in last Saturday (18) for the Chicago Trbiune's annual music festival.

Dore Schary gifted former President Harry Truman with a print of "Pursuit of Happiness" campaign film which the Metro exec produced for the Democratic national committee.

London

(Temple Bar 5041-9952)

"Kismet" hit its 550th performance at the Stoll Theatre.

Don Tannen's comedy act as Savoy Hotel held over for a third week.

Sir Anthony and Lady Eden saw Peter Ustinov's "Romanoff and Juliet" at the Piccadilly Theatre, on their wedding anni.

Two stage vets celebrated their birthdays: Robert Atkins, founder of Open Air Theatre, who is 70; Bransby Williams is 86.

Linda Christian and Edmund Purdom, back in London after a Continental vacation, shortly begin rehearsals on a tv play.

Agnes de Mille will guest during the American Ballet Theatre's season at Covent Garden. It will be her first appearance there.

Mary Pickford and Marjorie Thorson, chief script editor for Metro, took part in a BBC radio program, "Talking of Films."

Victor Mature, Anita Ekberg and Trevor Howard left for Italian location of the Warwick Films production, "Interpol," for Columbia release.

Elizabeth Seal, a star of "The Pajama Game," signed by Maxwell Setton to play lead in his production of "Town on Trial," for Col release.

Harry Secombe, comedian-singer, will star for Ealing Films in their tragi-comedy concerning a vaude family act. Pic due to roll late this year.

Cyril Ritchard returns shortly to U.S. to produce at the Metropolitan Opera in November; also for the Broadway presentation of "The Reluctant Debutante."

Andor Foldes, the American pianist who has just completed a marathon tour of Europe and Africa in which he gave 85 performances, appeared in BBC's season of promenade concerts.

New Haven

Rise Stevens set for Yale Bowl pops finale Aug. 28.

Summer Shakespeare Institute at Yale, now in its second year.

World-Telly columnist Frank Farrell a visitor at Oakdale canvastop in Wallingford.

National Film Service Corp. is sinking $150,000 into a new office-warehouse building in Hamden.

Life Mag has picked this town as one of four in the country for a special film on redevelopment progress.

Australia

By Eric Gorrick

(160 Castlereigh St., Sydney; MA 7778)

WB and Hoyts' loop inked new pact for eight pix on key release here.

Berry Greenberg, Warner's South Pacific topper, looksseeing Far East territory.

20th-Fox aiming to preem "King and I" here over Hoyts' pic loop around next Yuletide.

David N. Martin is doing okay with "Witness for the Prosecution" at the Elizabethan theatre, Newtown.

J. C. Williamson Ltd. will roadshow "Can Can" throughout New Zealand after conclusion of smash Sydney run.

Paul Talbot, prexy of Fremantle Radio-TV Inc., N. Y., named as the exclusive agent to arrange newsreel coverage of 1956 Olympic Games.

Metro expects to have drive-ins operating in Perth and Adelaide before the end of year; these are in addition to a Melbourne and Sydney lineup.

Mexico City

By Pete Mayer

(Tel: 08-Tlalpan-264)

Alfonso Sanchez Tello to coproduce "San Miguelito" in Tijuana.

Film star Marta Roth making her videbut as a singer over XEW-TV.

Thesp Eduardo Noriega signed to a two-picture deal by the Calderon brothers.

Rodolfo Acosta and Ann Sheridan completed 12 tv shorts with European backgrounds.

Bellas Artes management signed the Chinese Opera and the Sadler's Wells Ballet for end of year.

Luis de Llano taking over the Fabrigas Theatre for his Mexican version of "The Boy Friend."

Local Variety Club banqueting with Mexico's new Archbishop, Miguel Dario Miranda, as honored guest.

Widow of writer Francisco Rojas Gonzales selling four of his scripts to producers Angel de la Fuente and Eduardo Ragasol.

Blind organist, Ernesto Hill Olvera contracted by Cuban nightery owner, Alberto Ardura for his "Tropicana" cabaret in Havana.

Producer Rueben Calderon to star Anthony Quinn and Rhonda Fleming in his English language all locationer, "South of Yesterday."

Pic star Arturo de Cordova finally made a member of the local directors' guild and starts preparation on his first film, a Silvia Pinal starrer.

Portland, Ore.

By Ray Feves

Walter E. Wagstaff signed to manage KGW-TV. This will be town's 4th channel.

Carl Hawley inked to do his "Mr. Talent" show daily at Oregon State Fair in Salem, Ore., Sept. 1-9.

Yvonne Moray, Lola & Lita, Doreen Cannon, and Emery Clay Line at Amato's Supper Club for two weeks.

Melvyn Douglas in "Inherit The Wind" inked for the Auditorium first week in September, with brisk advance seat sale.

Evergreen's Oregon district manager Oscar Nyberg has a big day set for 20th-Fox star Felicia Farr when she personals here next Monday (27).

Helene Hughes stage revue nightly at State Fair Sept. 1-9 will include Frank Fontaine, Harry Stevens, Joey Rardin, Toy & Wing, Lebrac & Bernice, Burns Twins & Evelyn, Mason-Kahn Dancers and Jack Seltinridge Orch.

Vienna

By Emil W. Maass

(Grosse Schiffgasse; A45045)

Ernst Maerzendorfer appointed chief of Salzburg Opera House.

Boston Symphony skedded to appear here under Pierre Monteux.

Bruno Walter received Golden Medal of Salzburg Mozarteum Society.

Peking Opera, touring Europe, rented Volkstheatre for Sept. 13-15.

State opera singer Emmy Loose will guest in Buenos Aires Opera house.

Marcel Prawy appointed producer for Volkspera, branch of State Opera.

International Congress of Scientific Film Producers to be held here Sept. 23-29.

Bruce Low, Dutch diskstar, inked by Volkspera for "Wonderful Town" preem.

Cosmopol film shooting "Love Life of Handsome Franz," Max Nosseck directing.

Goethe's "Faust" to be on program of Salzburg 1957 festivals, with Ernst Lothar directing.

Amadeo disk company producing LP platters with music by Joseph Marx and Egon Kornauth.

New York City Ballet under George Balanchine to appear here for first time beginning September.

Las Vegas

By Alan Jarlson

Dick Lane Quartet from the Desert Inn to the Riverside Hotel, Rena.

Herb Flemington to Bev Hilton Skyroom for indefinite lounge date beginning Aug. 27.

Walter Winchell in to intro Robert Sherwood's Monday (20) opening at the New Frontier.

Norman Brooks dons blackface to sing Al Jolson numbers during coming Thunderbird bow.

Dorothy Collins to Denver for an open-air one nighter Wed. (22), then back to N.Y. to prep upcoming "Hit Parade" tver.

After they wind up current fortnight at the Thunderbird, Landre & Verna sky to Hollywood and a huddle with UI's Will Cowan anent role in upcoming musical short.

Joe E. Lewis goes to Hollywood Sept. 4, after his El Rancho closing, to confab with Director Charles Vidor and Frank Sinatra about upcoming biopic, "The Joker's Wild" at Paramount. Followup plans call for Joe E.'s perennial visit to the N.Y. Copacabana, opening there Sept. 20, and guest shot on "Toast of Town" Oct. 7.

Athens

By Irene Velissariou

(44 Tinou Str.; 614.515)

Nicos Zahariou to Milan to sing at the Scala.

Jonel Perlea arrived in Athens to conduct "Requiem."

Georg Ludwig Jochum in to conduct Hamburg Symphony.

Gina Bahauer in for a recital at Herodus of Attica Theatre.

G. Kompothecras off to U. S. to sing at New Orleans nightclub.

Greek dancer John Metsis in to participate in the Athens Festival.

Irene Papas in Greece for a vacation during which may appear on legit stage.

"The Taming of the Shrew" will succeed "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at The National Gredens' Theatre.

Hollywood

Rhonda Fleming returned from Chicago.

Raymond A. Klune recuperating at home after surgery.

James Mulvey in from N.Y. for confabs with Samuel Goldwyn.

Ludwig H. Gerber to Honolulu to supervise filming of "Shark Reef."

David Rose in from the east for his second appearance at Hollywood Prexy Daniel T. O'Shea checked in at RKO for studio huddles with William Dozier.

wood Bowl.

George Fisher setting up his own publicity office with Elaine Rose and Carl Randall.

Gordon Douglas is directing "Buffalo Grass" from a wheelchair as a result of a leg injury.

John Tunstall, South African film producer, in town to sell "Tales Around an African Campfire."

Boston

By Guy Livingston

Fujiiwara Opera Co. booked for John Hancock Theatre Sept. 10-13.

Jerry Vale opened at Revere Beach Frolic Sunday (19) for one week.

Gogi Grant opened Sunday (19) at Salisbury Beach Frolics for a week.

Sylvia Syms opens at Al Taxier's Bradford Roof Wednesday (22) for a week.

Neil Hamilton in for "Oh Men, Oh Women" at Lee Falk's Boston Summer Theatre opening Monday (27) for a week.

James A. Knox, former manager of the Olympia, Lynn, producing variety shows at Wingaersheek Beach, Gloucester.

Celeste Holm opens Monday (27) in "A Sudden Spring" for last week of South Shore Music Circus season in Cohasset.

Max and Joe Schneider signed Frank Fontaine to open their Steuben's nitery in upcoming season starting in September.

San Francisco

Bandleader Al Wallace moved over from Oakland's Lake Merritt Hotel to new Villa Hotel in suburban San Mateo.

Eddie Sherman, Abbott and Costello manager, in Frisco celebrating 20th anniversary of his personal contract with A&C.

Carol Channing, Tommy Noonan, James Arness, Barbara Nichols, Clint Eastwood and producer Arthur Lubin took part in stage skit at Frisco's Golden Gate as part of ballyhoo for opening of "First Traveling Saleslady." Skit was written by George Jessel.

Bermuda

By Al Wagstaff

New 1,500-seat cinema being constructed by Bermuda General Theatres in Hamilton to open early in 1957.

Smuggler's Lair closed for the season and will reopen in spring at new location.

Lucille and Eddie Roberts in for fourweek stint at Harbor Patio of Princess Hotel.

Scot Fest

Continued from page 2

pic, "The Last Cannibals," lensed among the people of New Guinea.

China is repped by Chang Yen, of the People's Republic of China. Yugoslavia has sent two representatives. DEFA delegation from Germany includes Max Gunther, Dr. Egel and Paul Wiens. Film Polski (Poland) has sent Jan Lenica, Warsaw, and two delegates are due in from Czechoslovakia.

Other Personalities

Other personalities skedded for visits during three weeks of film junketing are Max Catto (author of "Hill in Korea"); British producer Ian Dalrymple; Charles Frend, Ealing (London) megger; Tyrone Guthrie, Tom Patterson (Stratford, Ont., Theatre), Basil Wright, Anthony Asquith, Mrs. Madeline Toutelot, of Film Council of America.

With the J. Arthur Rank Film Distribs celebrating their 21st anni, an extra large party is set to arrive this week from the Rank studios in London.

"Reach for the Sky" will take place Sunday (26) in the Playhouse Cinema, indie city house. Major interest is centered on the David O. Selznick Awards, to be announced at the New Vic cinema Sunday, Sept. 2. Four contenders for the top trophy are "Divided Heart" (Eng.), "The Last Ten Days" (Austria), "Maddalena" (Italy), and "Umberto D" (Italy).

OBITUARIES

MRS. JOE LAURIE JR.

Mrs. Joe Laurie Jr., widow of the author-comedian, was killed early this week when she fell down a flight of stairs at her apartment in Parkersburg, W. Va., where she retired following the death of the veteran humorist two years ago. The accident presumably happened between Saturday night (18) and Sunday when her body was discovered by her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Shannon, 1603 Liberty St., same city. She was 58.

Mrs. Laurie preferred to live alone, but was in constant touch with Mrs. Shannon. When the latter failed to hear from her for two days she became alarmed and upon investigating found the body. Mrs. Laurie was in vaudeville at one time under the professional name of June Tempest.

A year after the comedian's death, Joe Laurie III crashed in a private plane which he had been piloting near his Long Island home. He was a veteran flyer in the Korean war. Mrs. Laurie III and their three children survive.

Funeral services will be held in Parkersburg this (Wed.) noon.

BERTOLT BRECHT

Bertolt Brecht, 58, one of Germany's leading playwrights, died Aug. 14 in East Germany.

He wrote the libretto for Kurt Weill's "Threepenny Opera," currently playing off-Broadway. One of his best known plays is "Mother Courage and Her Children."

After World War I, he joined the "Expressionists," a group of German artists and writers. After his first stage successes, he took over the Theater am Schiffbauerdamm in Berlin, where he trained in his new epic style such actors as Peter Lorre, Oscar Homolka and Helene Weigel, Brecht's wife.

A refugee from Hitler Germany, the playwright went to Switzerland in 1933 and lived in Russia and the U.S. before moving to East Berlin after World War II. He received the Stalin prize in 1954, three years before East Germany's Communist party banned an anti-militaristic version of his play "The Trial of Lucullus."

He also helped organize the Berliner Ensemble, an East Berlin theatrical company. The group is due to open later this month in London with "Mother Courage" in which his wife has the lead role.

SIDNEY LINNIT

Sidney (Bill) Linnit, 58, co-director of Linnit and Dunfee, Ltd., London firm of theatrical impresarios, died Aug. 12 in London nine days after a heart attack. Starting as a call boy and actor, he later became general manager for Edgar Wallace, then in 1936 joined Jack Dunfee in management.

His name is associated with several West End legit successes including "French Without Tears," "Quiet Weekend," "Now Barabbas," "Goodbye Mr. Chips," "Gaslight," "Flare Path" and "Brighton Rock," and such stars as Peter Ustinov, Moira Shearer, Audrey Hepburn, Cecil Parker and film director Anthony Asquith.

The company—now a sprig of Music Corp. of America—is responsible for four current London hits, "Salad Days," "Romanoff and Juliet," "For Amusement Only" and "Man Alive." Linnit, who served with the British Secret Service during the war, was former prez of the Society of West End Theatre Managers and a prominent agitator against entertainments duties.

His wife survives.

J. EDWARD FRAWLEY

J. Edward Frawley, 61, a past president of the American Hotels Assn. and founder of the Frawley Hotel Corp., of which he was prexy for many years, died Aug. 17 in Wheeling, W. Va.

He came to New York from Detroit in 1903, to manage the Park Central Hotel. The following year he became general manager of the Hearst Hotels Corp., then operating the Ritz Tower, Warwick, Lombardy and Devon. In 1931 he became v.p. of the National Hotel Management Co., a post he held for eight years. During this period he managed the New Yorker and Belmont Plaza in N. Y., the Congress in Chicago and many others.

In 1938, he resigned that post to head his own management firm, Frawley Hotel Co. Six years ago, when he suffered a stroke, he sold all of the corporation's hotels except the McLure in Wheeling.

Wife, daughter and sister survive.

FRANK MEYER

Frank Meyer, 79, film industry pioneer who became one of Adolph Zukor's chief aides when the latter founded Famous Players films in 1912, died Aug. 16 in Bronxville, N.Y.

Born in St. Louis, he entered the banking business there in 1898. In 1908 he joined Cameraphone in Denver, one of the first talker film companies. He returned to St. Louis a year later and formed an association with Western Film Exchange Co., among his clients being Comedy Theatre, New York, which Zukor operated.

He joined Paramount Pictures Corp., when it evolved from Famous Players, serving in several executive capacities, before his retirement six years ago. He held the post of assistant secretary, general manager of film laboratories and general purchasing agent.

Wife and two sons survive.

KATHLEEN HOWARD

Kathleen Howard, 77, former Metropolitan Opera singer, film actress and magazine editor, died Aug. 15 in Hollywood.

Born in Canada, she made her operatic debut in 1907 at Metz, Germany. In later years she sang in opera houses throughout Europe and the U.S. She joined the Met in 1916 and remained until 1928, singing a variety of roles. After leaving the Met, she became the New York fashion editor for Harper's Bazaar, and editor of Photoplay.

She went to Hollywood in the late 1930s and appeared in many films including, "Born to be Bad," "The Bride Goes Wild," "Laura" and in several W. C. Fields films, playing his wife.

Two brothers and a sister survive.

MERLE CROWELL

Merle Crowell, 67, former newspaperman, writer and a senior editor of Reader's Digest since 1944, died Aug. 14 in Katonah, N.Y.

Born in Maine, he launched his career as a reporter in 1911 for the former N.Y. Evening Sun, and from 1915-23 worked as staff writer and associate editor for the old American Magazine. Between 1923-29 he was its editor-in-chief. In 1931 he became public relations director for Rockefeller Center, and continued in the post through 1944.

Wife, two sons and brother survive.

GEORGE HALE

George Hale, 55, dance director, died Aug. 15 in New York. He launched his career as a dancer and became a producer and director of musical numbers. He was the choreographer for numerous Broadway productions including "Strike Up the Band," "Girl Crazy," "Of Thee I Sing," "Red Hot and Blue" and "Heads Up."

In recent years, he had worked in Hollywood, directing dance routines for industrial films, and more recently, engaged in packaging shows for tours, niteries and tv.

Wife, daughter and brother survive.

BELA LUGOSI

Bela Lugosi, 72, screen actor known for his work in horror films, died Aug. 16 in Hollywood after a long illness. He was best known for his "Dracula" character.

Lugosi began acting in Germany in 1915 and made his Hollywood debut nine years later in "The Silent Command." Among his other pictures were "Murders In the Rue Morgue," "White Zombie," "Devil Bat," "The Wolf Man," "The Black Cat," "The Ghost of Frankenstein" and "The Black Sleep."

His wife and son survive.

MIMON ANAHORY

Mimon Anahory, 92, Portuguese impresario and playwright, died July 24 in Lisbon after a long illness. He managed a number of Lisbon and Oporto theatres including the San Carlos opera house.

Anahory, who co-authored several plays and revues, organized the Popular Fair in Lisbon in 1940 which is still one of Portugal's outstanding summer events.

Surviving are three sons, one of whom, Eduardo, owns the largest costume and scenery establishment on the Iberian peninsula.

GEORGE DANNER

George Danner, 48, audio man with CBS film crew, died of a heart attack at a San Francisco motel Aug. 20, the opening day of the Republican national convention.

Danner, who joined CBS only a month ago, had worked with Warners from 1932 to 1949. Later he freelanced and also was with Columbia Pictures for a time.

Surviving are his wife and two children.

ANNA DEXTER

Mrs. Anna Dexter, 78, believed to be the only woman in North America to have made regularly scheduled broadcasts since 1928, died of a heart ailment Aug. 16 in Halifax.

Mrs. Dexter broadcast her daily half-hour program of household hints and comment on current affairs from her own home until a month ago when she became hospitalized. However, she continued the broadcast from her bed there until shortly before her death.

Several children survive.

W. E. GENTRY

W. E. Gentry, 48, a television engineer for WSB-TV, Atlanta, died unexpectedly Tuesday (14) at his home, 8 Arc Way, N.E. Gentry, moved to Atlanta from Rome, Ga., 16 years ago to become associated WSB-Radio, NBC affiliate here. At the time of his death he was engineer in charge of WSB-TV transmitter.

MIGUEL B. JIMINEZ

Miguel Bernal Jimenez, 46, Mexican organist and composer, died of a heart attack July 26 in Leon, Guanajuato, Mexico. He was best known for his two native operas, "Juan Diegito" and "Tata Vasco." More recently he was associated with Loyola U. in New Orleans and acted as organist for the cathedral there.

His wife, six sons and four daughters survive.

ALFRED R. BACEN

Alfred R. Bacen, 30, stunt man for auto thrill shows, was killed Aug. 14 during a performance at Waterloo, Ia., doing a dynamite-coffin-explosion stunt. A native of Jacksonville, Fla., he had been doing the trick for several years and was with the Trans-World Daredevil unit when killed.

Authorities said he died instantly as a result of concussion.

JARO CHARAIN

Jaro Charain, 72, musician and assistant librarian in Warners' studio music department, died of a heart attack Aug. 17 in Hollywood.

In addition to his 25 years with Warners, he organized the first "Voice of America" concert broadcast behind the Iron Curtain.

His wife and two children survive.

ROY PACE

Roy Pace, 42, a member of Metro's legal staff, died Aug. 11 in Hollywood. Before moving to Metro he was an attorney for the Jaffe Agency, Allied Artists and Warner Bros.

His wife and daughter survive.

CHARLES GRIFFIN

Charles Griffin, 68, screen actor, died Aug. 17 in Hollywood. In the early days of World War I he headed the first American Red Cross unit which went to Italy.

He left his wife and a daughter.

ROBERT WRONKER

Robert Wronker, 37, feature writer with 20th-Fox publicity dept., died Aug. 20 in N.Y. Before joining 20th in 1949, he was editor of Televiews, a weekly tv mag.

His parents survive.

MAX EISENSTAT

Max Eisenstat, 54, for 27 years manager of the Chautauqua Repertory Theatre, died Aug. 18 in Chautauqua, N. Y.

He was also assistant manager and director of the Cleveland Playhouse in Ohio.

PAUL N. ALLEN

Paul N. Allen, 61, retired motion picture cameraman, died of diabetes Aug. 15 in Hollywood. Before his retirement in 1930 he handled lenses for D. W. Griffith on "Broken Blossoms" and other pictures.

His wife survives.

DON CAMPBELL

Don Campbell, 53, founder of Vitapix Co., tv outfit, died Aug. 13 in Glendale, Cal., following surgery. He was also head of the D. C. Electric Co., which has served film studios for a number of years.

His wife and daughter survive.

MRS. GEORGE DELACORTE

Mrs. George Delacorte Jr., secretary of the Dell Publishing Co., died Aug. 18 in Greenwich, Conn. She and her husband, who is president of the company, founded Dell 35 years ago.

Two sons and four daughters also survive.

Mrs. Annie A. Andros) Hawley, composer, [illegible] cellist, died Aug. 11 in Boston following a long illness. Born in Cambridge, Mass., she studied music and voice in New York and at the New England Conservatory of Music.

May Brahe, 70, Australian composer of more than 100 songs, including "Bless This House," "I Passed By Your Window" and "Thanks Be To God," died Aug. 14 in Sydney. She also composed several children's operettas.

Moura Zenoglio, 70, actor-manager, died recently in Lisbon after a long illness. Also a comedian, he had been active as a provincial impresario until the start of World War II.

John J. Fisher, 48, projectionist at the Cinderella Theatre, St. Louis, for the last six years, died of a heart attack Aug. 1 in that city. His wife and two daughters survive.

Harry Giventer, 44, business adviser of theatrical and film producers, died Aug. 17 in Hollywood. He left two sisters and six brothers, one of whom is Billy Gray, comedian.

Percy Winocour, 74, pioneer of the film industry in Scotland, died Aug. 6 in London. He was a distributor in Glasgow for a number of years, later becoming an exhib.

Wife of Arnold Kaufman, RKO Teleradio Pictures executive, died Aug. 15 in Boston. Also surviving are a daughter and Mrs. Kaufman's parents.

Jeanette Spooner, former secretary to Louis B. Mayer and later to Kenneth McKenna, died Aug. 10 in Culver City, Cal. Her mother and sister survive.

Harold Green, 54, 'cellist in the Empire Theatre, Sheffield, Eng., orch, died Aug. 9 in Sheffield. Survived by wife, who is pianist in the same orch.

Juan B. Orraca, 50, Mexican film and stage actor, died Aug. 2 in Mexico City after a long illness. His ex-wife, a son and daughter survive.

Mrs. Andre Charlot, 66, widow of the famed revue producer who died three months ago, died of a heart attack Aug. 19 in Hollywood. Surviving are a son and daughter.

Edmond J. Molloy, 45, an account exec at the Edwin, Wasey advertising agency, died Aug. 17 in Chicago.

Michael McDonough, 80, retired film actor, died Aug. 8 in Hollywood. His wife and daughter survive.

Mother, of Elsie & Kittie Prince, harmony act, died in Sheffield, Eng., recently.

Mother, 65, of Eleanor Morrison, Columbia Masterworks publicist, died recently in New York.

Father of legit pressagent and strawhat operator Lewis Harmon died Aug. 17 in N.Y.

Lawrence V. Taylor, 41, musician died in Pacoima, Cal., Aug. 7 in an auto accident.

Mother, 67, of Alan and Jay Livingston, died Aug. 17 in Hollywood.

Mother, 74, of singer Gene Austin, died Aug. 4 in Madill, Okla.

BELA LUGOSI

Born Lugos, Hungary, Oct. 20, 1882
Died Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 16, 1956

A true friend for more than twenty years—gone—but will never be forgotten.

DON MARLOWE

IN MEMORY
DAVID KOSTELL

who was greatly loved and deeply respected . . . He will be sorely missed . . . He was a true friend . . . His loyalty and sincerity will always be remembered.

SAM ALEXANDER

MARRIAGES

Simone Lovell to Peter Halliday, London, Aug. 10. Bride is actress-daughter of the late Raymond Lovell; he's an actor.

Karen Greer to Lance Fairfax, London, Aug. 11. Bride is a tv actress and singer; he's a musical instrument dealer.

Ann Pidgeon to Ronald Leigh Hunt, London, Aug. 11. Bride is an actress; he's an actor.

Sara Neil to Walter Trevor, London, Aug. 14. Bride and groom are dancers with Sadler's Wells Theatre ballet.

Nancy Boyd to Noel Sokoloff, Sorrento, Me., Aug. 18. He's a composer and son of symphony conductor Dr. Nikolai Sokoloff.

Iva Richardson to Francis X. Bushman, Las Vegas, Aug. 14. He's the silent screen star.

Virginia Curran to Paul Weigl, Los Angeles, Aug. 10. Bride is a timebuyer in the Coast office of Roy S. Durstine agency; he's a partner in Hollywood Plastic Arts Inc.

Annalisa Soderblom to Alfred E. Daff, Van Nuys, Calif., Aug. 16. He's executive veepee of Universal International Pictures and president of Universal International; bride is nonpro.

Sally Jay to Philip Jenkinson, Sale, Eng., recently. He's a legit stage manager; she's former scenic designer.

Tony Evans to Gerald Mayer, Beverly Hills, Aug. 12. Bride's a model; he's a tv director.

Mary Jo Kunches to John Ertmann, Batavia, Ill., Aug. 18. Bride's assistant educational director at WBBM, Chicago; he's a director at WBBM-TV.

Blossom Stern to Arthur Tracy, Aug. 17, New York. Bride is daughter of orch leader Harold Stern; groom was w.k. in radio as "The Street Singer."

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Manning Slater, son, New Haven, Conn., Aug. 13. Father is v.p. and commercial head of WICC, Bridgeport.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Delfino, daughter, Stamford, Conn., Aug. 11. Father is program director and deejay at WICC, Bridgeport, and freelancer at WNEW, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Surgall, son, New York, Aug. 15. Mother, Florence Small, is editorial staffer of Broadcasting-Telecasting; father is radio-tv scriptcr.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Roth, son, Maplewood, N.J., Aug. 9. Mother is Selma Rich, daughter of vocal coach Jimmy Rich.

Mr. and Mrs. Papai, son, Columbia, Aug. 5. Father is a WBNS-TV director.

Mr. and Mrs. David Breeden, son, London, Aug. 3. Mother was formerly June Brae, Sadler's Wells ballerina.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian Warren, daughter, London, Aug. 7. Father's managing director of London & Overseas Film Services.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony DiPardo, daughter, Kansas City, Aug. 7. Father is orch leader at Eddys' Restaurant there.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustavo Alatriste, son, Mexico City, Aug. 7. Mother is Mexican film actress Ariadne Welter.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Schine, son, Gloversville, N. Y., Aug. 12. Father is an official of Schine Circuit.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Colbert, son, Portland, Ore., Aug. 12. Father is U-I branch manager there.

Mr. and Mrs. David William, twins—boy and girl—London, Aug. 11. Mother is Chin Yu, who appeared for two years in "Teahouse of the August Moon"; father's an actor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Arden, son, Dallas, Aug. 13. Father is a bandleader, mother is vocalist with the band.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard (Buddy) Zeidman, daughter, New York, Aug. 11. Father is manager of Mutual's sales service department.

Mr. and Mrs Mack Wolfson, daughter, New York, Aug. 18. Father is a songwriter.

Mr. and Mrs. Hank Williamson, son, Dallas, Aug. 7. Father is a WFAA-TV staff announcer.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schwartz, son, New York, Aug. 20. Father is the composer and producer; mother is professionally Mary Gray, actress.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert DeHaven, son, Hollywood, Aug. 19. Mother is singer Connie Haines.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Gilbert, daughter, New York, Aug. 20. Father is producer-writer of "Break The Bank" and "20 Steps To A Million"; grandfather is vaude comic Bobby Gilbert.

In the world of television, It's Fall, not Spring, that turns men's fancy To thoughts of big ratings, of course

Big ratings are made at the season's beginning, not its end. One way to get the right start with 1956's bigger-than-ever television audience is with a schedule of audience promotion in America's television magazine, TV GUIDE.

Your schedule should start in TV GUIDE's Fall Preview Issue. This annual special issue, eagerly awaited by 4,000,000 television families, will offer a complete outline of the coming season, covering every category of network presentation from Specs to Soap Opera. It offers producer and sponsor a golden opportunity to get their story across to a big, important segment of the viewing public, to get a head start in the race for ratings.

Give your show its full measure of promotional support. Build your promotion schedule around TV GUIDE.

Advertisers already scheduled to promote their TV shows this season in TV GUIDE are:

The American Tobacco Co.
American Telephone & Telegraph Co.
U. S. Steel Corp.
General Electric Co.
Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.
Scott Paper Co.
Sylvania Electric Products, Inc.
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.
Radio Corp. of America
Chrysler Corporation
Ford Motor Company
The Quaker Oats Co.
The Warner Brothers Co.
Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., Inc.
Whirlpool
Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp.

Copy deadline (Fall Preview Issue) September 1

America's Television Magazine...

Weekly Circulation 4,000,000

National Advertising Office: 400 N. Broad St., Phila. 1, Pa., Phone: RIttenhouse 6-1600 . . . Advertising Offices in 30 cities including: New York, 625 Madison Ave., TEmpleton 8-4700 . . . Chicago, 6 N. Michigan Ave., RAndolph 6-9470 . . . Los Angeles, 6277 Selma Ave., HOllywood 5-2103.

FILMS | RADIO | VIDEO | MUSIC | STAGE

VARIETY

Published Weekly at 154 West 46th Street, New York 36, N. Y., by Variety, Inc. Annual subscription, $10. Single copies, 25 cents.
Entered as second-class matter December 22, 1905, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879.
COPYRIGHT, 1956, BY VARIETY, INC., ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

Vol. 203 No. 13 NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 29, 1956 PRICE 25 CENTS

PIX AS NO. 1 USSR-U.S. ENVOY

New Group of Potential Blockbusters Rising to Hold Hands With 'GWTW'

As a result of the current blockbuster trend, a group of pictures are emerging that might well be dubbed "perennials" or "posterity" films. These are screen classics, produced in such scope that they represent all-time contributions; that is, films that can be played and replayed, after respectable waiting periods, for years and years to come.

They are, in brief, in the tradition of "Gone With the Wind." The all-time blockbuster, initially released in 1939, has chalked up a domestic gross of $33,500,000 and has been playing abroad, almost without interruption, since it was first issued. The importance Metro places in this valuable property is manifested in the fact that it has been excluded from the 725 pre-1948 pictures leased to television. It has been reissued five times, bringing in $7,000,000 in its most recent outing two years ago. After waiting a total of four or five years, M-G will probably issue the picture domestically again.

While some current offerings may not reach the acclaim and success of "GWTW," they have nonetheless the ingredients that may establish them as "perennials." Paramount's "War and Peace" (3 hours and 28 minutes) and the same company's upcoming "10 Commandments" easily fit into the category. Warner Bros.' "Moby Dick" and its soon-to-be-released "Giant" are also strong contenders.

To a lesser degree, the film versions of the Rodgers & Hammerstein stage hits—"Carousel," "Oklahoma!," "The King and I" and the still-to-be-filmed "South Pacific"— may find ther way into the list of "posterity" classics. It's not inconceivable that they may be employed for future R & H festivals.

'Killing,' 1st-Run Flop, Click at Mpls. Artie On Double-Money-Back Bally

Minneapolis, Aug. 28.

After being a downtown first-run boxoffice flop here just a month ago, United Artists' American noir crime thriller, "The Killing," is now doing sensational business at, of all places, a local neighborhood "fine arts" theatre, the Campus. That's the only house that would book it for a subsequent engagement and where it's being sold on a "double-your-money-back" guarantee.

Demonstrating anew the strange quirks of the film business and how much the handling of an attraction sometimes can mean, the picture bids fair to break the Campus' record. Under any circumstances, it will earn the theatre a substantial profit.

Passed up by all other neighborhood houses, including the hard-

(Continued on page 20)

Little Richard Show In Tex. Stopped by Cops

Amarillo, Tex., Aug. 28.

Richard (Little Richard) Penniman, a rock 'n' roll bandleader, was taken to jail here last Thursday night (23) after local police officers stopped a floor show at a dance. Chief Deputy C. E. Travis said the bandleader and three members of his band were held for taking part in a show consisting of "improper posturing." Travis said the dance was attended by about 400 persons.

Little Richard and his bandsmen paid a fine in order to move on to Lubbock, Tex., where they had an engagement the following night.

Nevada Board May Put Limit On Vegas Spots

Las Vegas, Aug. 28.

A new policy that would limit the number of casinos in Las Vegas during the coming winter was expected to come under discussion as the Nevada Tax Commission held its regular monthly session in Carson City yesterday (Mon.) Last Thursday, the Gaming Control Board, the Commission's investigating agency, plunged headlong into the question of whether there is currently more gambling in operation than this area can stand. But at day's end, the board had reached no conclusion.

The Board's three members, like every member of the gambling industry, did agree that the next 10 months will be the crucial test for Las Vegas, and may well tell the tale.

The Las Vegas economic picture, for the past year a mighty touchy subject, was forced into consideration by chairman Robbins Cahill as the board debated a gambling application from the

(Continued on page 50)

Danny Thomas' Three Dream Nitery Deals

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Danny Thomas has three unprecedented lifetime deals to play a trio of niteries—the Sands in Las Vegas, the Chez Paree in Chicago, and the Copacabana in New York.

Comedian, currently starring in his vidpix series, said deals call for him to appear at those bistros the rest of his life—"at my option, my salary and my leisure."

SO SEZ SOVIET'S CULTURE BIGWIG

By FRED HIFT

Whatever formula Russia adopts for the acquisition of American films, it must contain an element of reciprocity, Vladimir Surin, first Vice Minister of Culture in the Soviet Union, declared in New York last week.

Speaking through his interpreter, the Russian film engineer, Michael Vysotsky, Surin said a three-pronged basis for film dealings between the U. S. and Russia would be acceptable to Moscow: 1. An out-and-out exchange (it's understood the Russians would go for a four-to-one ratio), 2. The purchase of pictures ("but then the U. S. also would have to buy our films"), and 3. Co-production. (This wouldn't exclude the first two approaches.)

Surin said the Soviet Union was extremely eager for a widening of the cultural exchange between East and West, with particular emphasis on the motion picture "as a medium that can create a new understanding between our people." He acknowledged the existence of mistrust on both sides, but noted: "If we cannot use films to resolve that question mutually, then I

(Continued on page 63)

Gene Austin In Wax Comeback

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Gene Austin, whose records during the 1920s reached the phenomenal total of some 80,000,000 copies, is returning to the wax world, and with his old employer, RCA Victor Records. Singer's career spanned a period when records had not achieved their greatest impact but his total is believed to be the biggest in the history of the business.

Return to recordings is tied to the planned production of "Lonesome Road," the Austin biopic, by Case Productions, in association with Desilu, late this year. Austin will sing for the sound-

(Continued on page 12)

The Hard (Cash) Way

Maintaining artistic standards on the screens of the Soviet state is a simple matter, Vladimir Surin, Russia's film boss, explained in N. Y. last week.

"When a picture is half finished, and we look at it and decide that it hasn't lived up to expectations, we may just scrap the whole thing," he said. "The way we look at it, it's better to lose some money than to have a poor film on the screen."

B'way Legit Never Had It So Good; Top Names on Tap for New Season

By HOBE MORRISON

The greatest array of stars in a generation or more may be seen on Broadway this season. Along with the marquee names will be new works by some of the top authors and composers.

The lineup of stars already set includes a number of Hollywood names, plus established legit headliners and a liberal sprinkling of performers from abroad. The prospective shows include several promising musicals and an assortment of straight plays.

A novel wrinkle of the production list is the number of promised works of great author names, notably Bernard Shaw (three revivals), Eugene O'Neill (three previously unproduced plays and two musical adaptations), plus such established playwrights as Robert E. Sherwood, Tennessee Williams, Mary Chase, Terence Rattigan (two plays) and Maxwell Anderson.

Although an unpredictable portion of the announced projects undoubtedly won't reach actual production, there are musicals in prospect by Irving Berlin-S. N. Behrman, Howard Lindsay-Russel Crouse-Harold Karr-Matt Dubey, Betty Comden-Adolph Green-Jule Styne, Leonard Bernstein-Lillian Hellman-Richard Wilbur, Bernstein-Arthur Laurents, Robert Wright - George Forrest - Luther Davis, and George Abbott-Bob Merrill.

Stars definitely set for appear-

(Continued on page 58)

Winchell Plans Reunion Of Gus Edwards Gang

Among the script ideas Walter Winchell has for his new NBC-TV series is a 1956 re-creation of Gus Edwards' "School Days" act with himself, which may also enlist the services of Eddie Cantor, George Jessel, Georgie Price and other Edwards alumni.

While on the Coast the columnist set the idea with Mrs. Gus Edwards, widow of the songsmith and entrepreneur of yesteryear "kid" acts.

How 'Variety' Is East's Show Biz Tie to the West

Paris, Aug. 28.

A VARIETY man, recently back from a sojourn in Czechoslovakia at an international film festival, noticed there had definitely been an Iron Curtain, but, even if it was diluted now politically, there had never been much of a sawdust or asbestos curtain on show biz, nor too complete a blackout of U. S. radio, video, music or even films, though the Motion Picture Export Assn. had stopped selling pix to Russia and satellites in 1948.

Though the average public may have been 'way behind in U. S. show biz, the insiders in film and theatre were hep and knew about current pix. "Finian's Rainbow" and "The Man Who Came to Dinner" had been done recently in Czechoslovakia, with overtures ready for "Inherit the Wind" and "The Diary of Anne Frank." U. S. songs also popped up via radio, etc., and in spite of a still present blackout on Western newsprint, Eastern tradespeople were also up on VARIETY.

Jan Werich, the top Czech actor who spent the war years in the U. S., spoke VARIETYese fluently as did a Hollywood actor who had

(Continued on page 17)

Lots of Campaign Songs, But Do They Win Votes?

Irving Berlin speaking: "A campaign song never elected anybody. Or even ever got anybody a vote. They're written because even political conventions, like any other big 'show' or spec, needs a little musical priming."

Besides Berlin's current encore, "Ike For Four More Years"—a sequel to his 1952 "I Like Ike"—

(Continued on page 20)

Summer's Doldrums End As London Erupts Over Helen Hayes' Criticism

Legit is apparently due for a healthy fall season. That's indicated by last week's international rumpus over reported remarks by Helen Hayes about the British theatre. Producers in London erupted with indignation over the incident. In Broadway trade circles the reaction was that the stage is perking up ahead of schedule.

When Miss Hayes' remarks, delivered offhand to reporters on her return from London, were cabled back to England, several West End managers, notably Henry Sherek and Val Gielgud, issued you're-another retorts. It was like old times, or at least as old times are nostalgically recalled, although without any very serious consequences.

Miss Hayes was quoted, possibly out of context, as saying that the American theatre has pulled so far away from the British that "you can't see us for dust." She assertedly added, "They have no playwrights to compare with us. I

(Continued on page 20)

Eden Roc Nabs Berle, Belafonte, Ray As Miami Hotels Vie for Top Talent

By LARY SOLLOWAY

Miami Beach, Aug. 28.

Annual bidding for the patron-pullers among cafe attractions to play the winter season here has hit an early high with four top hotels pitching offers around the New York-Las Vegas-Hollywood talent marts in the race to line up those acts they feel will keep them in the run for the tourist buck.

Of the quartet—the Americana (this year's hotel), Fontainebleau, Eden Roc and Versailles—only the Roc, thus far has come up with a definite set of commitments for at least a 10-week period. As reported in VARIETY recent, Milton Berle has been pacted for a two-weeker in mid-January at $17,500 per frame. Others lined up by prexy Harry Mufson include Harry Belafonte, Johnnie Ray, Nat (King) Cole, Joe E. Lewis and Roberta Sherwood, with Belafonte teeing off during the Xmas period.

The Fontainebleau has signed Tony Martin for his annual return, the Ritz bros. in January and has offers out to Lena Horne, Gordon MacRae, Dinah Shore among others. The Versailles, via its cafe operator Barney Barnett will have Sarah Vaughan, is dickering with the Andrews Sisters and burning the wires in attempts to grab other availabilities.

Tisch's NBC Convention

The Tisch brothers, having grabbed the NBC convention for a December meet at their new Americana, are trying for Perry Como, even if only for a telecast

(Continued on page 46)

SATCHMO INKED FOR LONDON CONCERT DATE

London, Aug. 28.

Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, who is due here the latter part of the year for a British film assignment, has been inked for a Royal Festival Hall concert date as well as a series of engagements at the Albert Hall.

His concert engagements, which at this writing are still subject to work permits being granted, include a Sunday night engagement at the Royal Festival Hall, when he'll appear with the London Symphony Orchestra as a concerto artist featured in a number of arrangements for which he's famous. The concert will follow the pattern of his recent stint with the New York Philharmonic.

The Ministry of Labor last week okayed Armstrong's labor permit for his film engagement. The pic, as yet untitled, will be released under the British Lion banner.

'The Revelers' Revived

The Revelers, a nomenclature identified with noted male quartets since the 1920s, is being revived, with the new group appearing at the Palace Theatre, N.Y., Aug. 31 to Sept. 6.

Associated with the Revelers in the past were such names as James Melton, James Parker and Wilfred Glenn.

SULLIVAN'S HOUR SALUTE TO CANTOR

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Eddie Cantor will be saluted by Ed Sullivan in an hour-long tribute on Sullivan's CBS-TV show Jan. 27, if current negotiations are finalized. Plan is for Sullivan to kudo Cantor just before the vet comedian's 65th birthday Jan. 31, and considered as guesters are Burns & Allen, Eddie Fisher and Jack Benny, all pals of Cantor's.

CBS is also dickering for Cantor to play the lead in "Seidman and Son," a "Playhouse 90" drama located in N.Y.'s garment center, and Cantor will probably take the part. Cantor was also paged to star on "Matinee Theatre," on NBC-TV, in "Uncle Harry," a Broadway legiter of years ago, and indications are he will accept.

60 Brit. Scribes Ready For Launching 'Yangtse' But Boat Doesn't Show

By HAROLD MYERS

London, Aug. 28.

The British frigate Amethyst, heroine of an incident into the Yangtse river in 1949, when she broke her fourmonth Communist blockade and ran the gauntlet of Red Chinese shore batteries, failed to keep a rendezvous with the press for the first day of filming on the new Herbert Wilcox production "Yangtse Incident."

The Amethyst, reprieved from the breaker's yards at Wilcox's special request, was being towed from Devonport to the Harwich naval base. It was due last Tuesday morning (21) and was to have been used that day for location lensing. High seas and rough weather delayed the frigate's journey and as a result the first day of shooting ended with the production exactly one day behind schedule.

About 60 Fourth-Estaters traveled by special train from London for the occasion. With them were Robert S. Wolff, managing director of RKO Radio, who will distribute the picture in the United Kingdom, and Gustav Berne, head of Distributors Corp. of America, which has acquired Western Hemisphere rights.

Boat Never Showed Up

For the best part of a whole day the party waited for the Amethyst to show up. The original intention of lunching aboard the frigate was abandoned and a buffet meal was provided at a shore station. Subsequently, it was thought the boat would arrive by late afternoon and it was planned to return by later train. That, too, had to be abandoned when it was realized the delay was greater than anticipated.

The film, being made by Wil-

(Continued on page 22)

Pride & The Glory

A Broadway femme personality of vintage years and much show biz experience had a sage observation about the pride she took in "our own democratic royalty," referring to the candidates' wives in both the political conventions.

"I abhor the term 'lady' but everyone of them—Mrs. Eisenhower, Mrs. Nixon, Mrs. Kefauver, Adlai Stevenson's sister, that attractive Mrs. Lucille (Gov. Frank) Clement from Tennessee—everyone of them was just that—a 'lady.' No blonde coiffs, no long earrings, truly America's 'royalty' and very fitting and decorative hostesses at the White House or in any other distinguished company."

Scot Fest Draws Many From U.S.

Edinburgh, Aug. 28.

American visitors to the 10th International Festival are here in larger numbers than at any junket in the past. Accents from Iowa to Los Angeles can be heard from the celebrity-packed Festival Club to all the play, opera and concert offerings. More than 2,000 artists are taking part in 164 performances. That number is apart from wide and growing variety of "fringe" sideshows. City is jammed with overseas arrivals.

Officially, the Fest is featuring six orchs, four choirs, five chamber orchs, five legit groups, the Hamburg State Opera, two ballet companies and more than 25 soloists. Approximately 239,000 tickets valued at more than $420,000 have been printed.

Late Dylan Thomas' verse play, translated to stage terms, and brilliantly produced at the Lyceum Theatre, looks like being the drama hit of the three-week festival. First-nighters acclaimed its imaginative presentation and cheered the dead author. Play, still under original title of "Under Milk Wood," is presented by the H. M. Tennent firm by arrangement with Henry Sherek, the London impresario. Sherek, recently hospitalized with a serious illness, glowed with pride at opening night reception here.

Shortage of theatres is a snag.

(Continued on page 17)

Iowa Girls' Pipe Band Handed Jilt on the Kilt From Scottish Society

Edinburgh, Aug. 28.

Iowa Girls' Pipe Band, which ran into some controversy on its Scot tour some years back, has again run into minor trouble.

An Auld Lang Syne society formed to protect the Scot kilt is sending formal protests to various bodies who invited the distaffer group to give displays here. Society is the Gaelic-titled Am Feile Beag, formed four months ago to uphold prestige of the kilt.

According to the group's secretary, James Duncan, aim of the protests is to insure "there will be no repetition of this travesty of Scotland's traditions at a later date."

Duncan hopes that any girls' pipe band outfits visiting at future dates will wear "modified apparel." He wants the "farce" of having girls in male attire, the kilt, brought to an end.

Secretary of Am Feile Beag has suggested an approach to Lord Lyon King-of-Arms, Scots heraldry boss, so that girl pipers might de-

(Continued on page 17)

First Lady

Peterborough, N.H., Aug. 28.

For the first time in its 103-year history, the Peterborough Band has a woman director. She is Rosemarie Niles of Keene, whose father, Frank Niles, former drummer with Benny Goodman's orch, is one of the 30 members of the group.

Miss Niles, who plans a band of her own, plays the flute, saxophone, oboe, organ and piano. She is organist at the Marlboro Federated Church and sings with the Brattleboro (Vt.) Choral Society.

30th Anni of 'Show Boat'

Doubleday and the book trade is making much of the 30th anniversary of its first publication of Edna Ferber's "Show Boat," which has sold over 500,000 copies in hard and paperback editions since its original appearances in 1926. The N.Y. Booksellers' League commemorated the event by a sturdy pilgrimage to Guy Lombardo's "Show Boat" production at the Marine Theatre, Jones Beach, Long Island, N.Y.

When the legit musical first premiered at the Ziegfeld Theatre, N.Y., Dec. 27, 1927, more than a year after publication of the novel, the VARIETY review by Abel observed, "A Ziegfeld black-and-tan at $5.50. That's 'Show Boat' and a Leviathan of a show. Meaty and gripping, rich with plot and character, it's almost a pity the Edna Ferber novel wasn't dramatized 'straight,' sans the musical setting. But, musicalized and Ziegfeldized, it's a worthy, study entertainment.

"It has everything and tops everything ever done before by Florenz Ziegfeld Jr. It has story, music, production, casting and consistent entertainment from the 8:30 to 11:30 curtains, and is a show which defies fidgeting as the conventional zero hour of curtain time approaches. One forgets the clock.

"The principals are Norma Terris, Eva Puck & Sammy White, Howard Marsh, Charles Winninger, Helen Morgan, Edna May Oliver, Jules Bledsoe (colored barytone) and "Aunt Jemima (big Tess Gardella of the varieties, doing blackface), rating in the order named. . . ."

The standard agate matter preceding the review took note of "Settings by Joseph Urban; dances by Sammy Lee; dialog by Zeke Colvan; costumes, John Harkrider; musical direction, Victor Baravelle; in two acts and 18 scenes."

Strolling Down the Svenska Line

By HANS HOEHN

Stockholm.

Sweden, with population of nearly 7,500,000 now, is truly living up to its reputation of being Europe's most American-conscious country. With so many Americans and so much Americanism around here, it gives visitors the impression of "Little America" as it's often called on the Continent. Amazing are the number of American headliners that keep pouring in. Recent lineup includes Eartha Kitt, Lena Horne, Delta Rhythm Boys, Golden Gate Quartet, Nicholas Bros., Count Basie Orch, "Holiday on Ice" (with Sonja Henie and Alan Hayes Jenkins), Harlem Globetrotters, Boston Symph Orch under Charles Munch, pic directors George Stevens; and George Seaton, Edith Head, and those are not all.

Various Branches of Show Biz

As to the local film situation, the principal troubles here also are too high amusement taxes (38%). According to Rune Nilo, press chief of SF (Svensk Filmindustri), top pic producing outfit which owns 101 cinemas including 18 in Stockholm, the average Swedish film must be seen by nearly 1,000,000, otherwise it won't break even. Only the fact that most producers are also cinema-owners makes them escape a critical situation. In all, Sweden has about 2,000 cinemas (many, however, closed during the summer months) and produces between 30 and 40 pix per annum.

Hollywood pix predominate, always way above the 50% mark. Biggest b.o. success here at present is Paramount's "Court Jester" (Danny Kaye), now in its 11th week at the Royal. CinemaScope '55 was introduced here this month (with "Carousel") but reacted badly with the critics. As in all Scandinavian countries, foreign films are only shown here in original version with subtitles.

As usual, for the summer months, many oldies are reissued here, including Chaplin's "Gold Rush," "Stalag 17" (Par), Marcel Carne's "Le Jour Se Leve," Leslie Howard's "Pimpernel Smith," etc. "What Price Criticism?" counts for much here. The critics raved about Italy's "La Strada" and "The Overcoat," and as result both pix have been drawing big crowds for many months. Biggest domestic success is "Seventh Heaven" (SF), a comedy in Eastmancolor starring Hasse Ekman, who also directed, now in its 12th week at the Roeda Kvarn, Stockholm's top cinema. Quite in contrast to former years, local comedies do surprisingly big. "Lesson in Love" and the award-winning (in Cannes) "Smile of the Summernight," both comedies, have been previous top domestic grossers.

AgaScope, the Swedish answer to CinemaScope, had been introduced earlier this year with "Gorilla," a full-length documentary made in Africa, and currently "Song of the Scarlet Flower" (based on bestseller by Finnish author Johannes Linnankoski) is made using the same system. "Flower" may be of special interest since it's a second remake. Mauritz Stiller made it first in 1918, Per-Axel Brannel (director of Dramatic Theatre today) remade it in 1934, and now it's done by vet director Gustaf Molander. Latter, incidentally, also worked on the 1918 version, then as a scriptor with Stiller. Molander, dean of the Swedish film industry, is 67 and this is his 62d film.

Television

Stockholm's television comes to an official start Sept. 15, with five

(Continued on page 20)

8/29

VARIETY

Subscription Order Form

Enclosed find check for $

Please send VARIETY for One Year / Two Years

To .....
(Please Print Name)

Street .....

City ..... Zone .... State .....

Regular Subscription Rates

One Year—$10.00 Two Years—$18.00

Canada and Foreign—$1 Additional Per Year

VARIETY Inc.

154 West 46th Street New York 36, N. Y.

VARIETY

Trade Mark Registered

FOUNDED 1905 by SIME SILVERMAN; Published Weekly by VARIETY, INC.

Harold Erichs, President

154 West 46th St., New York 36, N. Y. JUdson 2-2700

Hollywood 28
6311 Yucca Street, Hollywood 9-1141

Washington 4
1292 National Press Building, STerling 3-5445

Chicago 11
612 No. Michigan Ave., DElaware 7-4984

London WC2
8 St. Martins Pl., Trafalgar Sq., Temple Bar 5041

SUBSCRIPTION Annual, $10; Foreign, $11; Single Copies, 25 Cents

ABEL GREEN, Editor

Volume 203 120 Number 13

INDEX

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bills | 52 | Obituaries | 63 |
| Chatter | 62 | Pictures | 3 |
| Concert, Opera | 60 | Radio | 24 |
| Film Reviews | 6 | Radio Reviews | 36 |
| House Reviews | 52 | Record Reviews | 42 |
| Inside Music | 48 | Frank Scully | 61 |
| International | 13 | Television | 24 |
| Legitimate | 54 | Television Reviews | 34 |
| Literati | 61 | TV Films | 30 |
| Music | 41 | Unit Review | 51 |
| New Acts | 52 | Vaudeville | 49 |
| Night Club Reviews | 53 | Wall Street | 15 |

DAILY VARIETY
(Published in Hollywood by Daily Variety, Ltd.)
$15 a year. $20 Foreign.

H'WOOD-TV 'BIKE BUILT FOR 2'

THEATRE (MIS) MANAGEMENT

First one, then two more, and now a flock of letters have come to VARIETY accenting and continuing the diatribes against poor theatre management, sloppy projection, archaic cinema conveniences, inefficient ushering, sloppy operation, juvenile delinquency, loud-talking adults, noisy kids and kindred complaints. All add up to one thing—these are the factors why they're not "going more to the movies" and it's not 100% the fault of television. In fact, there is positive stress that (1) tv has less appeal, and (2) they still like films but for these deterrents.

It is a healthy and heartening note that, at least, the spirit is there if perhaps the customers' flesh can no longer stomach some of these shortcomings.

The frequency of poor projection of the new 'scopes is something that looms as an all-industry problem. If, for any of the reasons given (from lack of suitable prints to inept boothmen) the facts are correct, this is an intra-industry obligation at the altar of the commonweal. Quite obviously there is something—plenty—wrong up and down the line. The VARIETY vox poppers quite obviously feel strongly about it, else they'd not have gone to such detail.

And that curiously lingering interest in 3-D! But that's something else again. Although this may be a straw-in-the-wind for some enterprising showman to reattempt that phase of it. However, there seem to be more urgent aspects that should warrant more immediate attention.

It's oversimplification, apparently, to conclude that only certain "want-to-see" pictures draw 'em. If anything in these letters (in this issue) has any value for the picture business, its a recognition that there are elements besides tv and poor product that militate against the boxoffice. It's basically at the door of the boxoffice, from "the floor" to the booth.

There are some uncomplimentary things said about certain key houses and chain operations. The key executives will be remiss if they don't seize upon this as an excuse for general jacking-up, forgetting the merits of any particular gripe or localized squawk. Sure, these will be corrected. But let them make sure this is a sampling for correction up and down the line, and up and down the circuit. It's too obvious that the public knows the answers, is attuned to savvy showmanship, and has a tall memory for the days when "going to the movies" was a relaxation, not an irritant. For details of the irritations scan some of the letters on page 12 of this issue. Abel.

Stock Expert Takes Stock on Filmdom, Sees It on 'Threshold of Greatest Era'

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

The motion picture industry is on the threshold of its greatest era, says stock expert Gerald M. Loeb partner in E. M. Hutton & Co., brokers, after a study of business conditions but it will have to undergo some drastic changes in keeping with the times.

Without such changes, the industry that has for two generations been the greatest mass entertainment medium ever known may find itself in a stalemate.

The most important change, according to Loeb, is a transfusion of new blood in the production end of the business.

"Not necessarily new people," he emphasized, "although that appears to be a growing necessity. The important thing is that the industry look at its market with a new mind, with new ideas and a fresher imagination."

Formula production, Loeb believes, will not lead the industry to the golden horizons that loom ahead. But a constant straining for fresh approaches to entertainment can and should enable Hollywood to develop business that will make the lush war days seem commonplace.

The potential, Loeb declared, is evident on a study of general business and work trends in the nation. The tendency is to shorter hours;

(Continued on page 17)

Par's 'DeLemma'

Par prexy Barney Balaban's DeLaurentiis to DeMille "DeLemma" (dilemma) is an embarrassment of riches. The Dino DeLaurentiis $6,000,000 spec, "War and Peace," will soon have the C. B. DeMille $12,000,000 spec, "10 Commandments," as a stablemate.

Par decided against roadshowing its Italian-made Tolstoy epic but is currently mulling an "intermission" policy on a "modified" roadshow basis because of the picture's unusual length, 3 hours and 28 minutes, which producer DeLaurentiis refuses to cut.

"Peace" is running with a 12-minute intermission at the Hollywood Paramount but is strictly grind at the Capitol in New York.

Indies Pacting Names Must Serve Up Class Yarns or Else: Harmon

Independent producers are now faced with the necessity of competing with major studios on an even level, observes Sidney Harmon, partner with Philip Yordan in Security Pictures. "Never before have so many stars had such script authority," Harmon commented in New York last week. "The result is," he added, "that to sign a name

(Continued on page 20)

Problem Pix Not For Pasternak; He Ladles Up Laffs

Veteran Metro producer Joe Pasternak is a firm believer in the theory that motion pictures should provide entertainment and make the audience feel that it has had fun. "There's room for problem pictures," he said, "but not on my schedule. I like to make pictures that have comedy, music and dancing and that provide joy and happiness."

His objective, he said, is to produce films that will not "bore anybody" but will make the customers "feel good" since "they have enough problems at home."

Pasternak made these observations during a short Gotham stop-

(Continued on page 20)

M-G DEAL SEALS SUREFIRE MATING

By GENE ARNEEL

Metro's divestiture of its library films to television is another manifestation of the rapidly-changing film industry scene and, for the first time, it's now crystalizing.

M-G, via its $20,000,000 deal, assured for itself a stake in a diversified future through the acquisition of some tv station stock. Thus the film company, instead of merely working with tv, actually has become a part of the electronics industry to a large degree.

This is the key to the scheme of things for the future. Backlog deals are ephemeral things; the significance of the M-G transaction is that it foreshadows the merger of other Hollywood production-distribution companies with tv interests on a permanent basis.

RKO over the past week took the wraps off its plans, revealing intent to produce a wide range of films specifically for tv, including 90-minute "spectaculars." An important money-making division of Columbia has been Screen Gems, its tv-producing subsidiary, which accounts for 15% of Col's profits.

Paramount has engaged in telecasting from the start, rents out facilities to tv producers and expectedly will engage in tv production on its own later. Republic's tv activities compensate for the company's losses in theatrical production and distribution. The amalgamation of United Paramount and American Broadcasting led to profitable operation of the latter for the first time.

These are the developments portending the "we're all in the same family" pix-tv unity.

Casualties on the Way

As for the theatrical end of show business, more economical slenderizing and more casualties are now clearly in view. There simply aren't enough pictures being made to keep the present number of theatres (now about 18,000) in profitable operation. Circuits around the country are continuing with their policies of shuttering in-the-red houses.

Leonard H. Goldenson was quoted as saying last week that AB-PT will engage in production to ease the squeeze. An unofficial survey revealed that 1,100 theatres were closed in the first half of 1956. Ex-

(Continued on page 12)

See Catholics Readying Another Blast Vs. Code; MPAA's Shurlock Takes Tough 'Won't Talk' Stance

Remakes Reserved

In unloading its backlog to CBS-TV and other telecasters, Metro made a point of protecting the value of properties being remade. In any case where a back-number film is being done over in modern dress, the vintage production is restricted from tv exposure until following release of the new version. That's a specific part of the M-G deal.

Thus, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," which is among the old films going tv, must be withheld until the remake of this property, recently produced for M-G by Sam Zimbalist, is fully played off in the theatrical market.

Indies Should Have Voice In Code, Sez Arnall

Opinion that independent producers should be given a voice in the running of the Production Code "from beginning to end" was put forward in N. Y. last week by Ellis Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers.

While highly praising the "marvelous job" being done by Geoffrey Shurlock, the Code administrator, Arnall nevertheless felt that the Code—as presently constituted—wasn't doing justice to the indies.

"The independents should be in the Code administration, if for no other reason than that, today, there are more pictures produced in Hollywood by independents than by the major lots," he observed. "Just putting the independents on the appeals board doesn't solve anything."

He was referring to the recom-

(Continued on page 15)

Another attack on the Production Code is in the offing from the Legion of Decency or other Catholic quarters. This, it's learned, is behind the Motion Picture Assn. of America's sudden muzzling last week of Code Administrator Geoffrey Shurlock when he returned from a two months' tour of Europe, where he probed local censorship and discussed the Code with producers in Britain, France and Germany.

Shurlock, usually communicative and generally considered the Code's most effective p.r. spokesman, refused to discuss any phase of his trip, in detail. It was made plain that this was on orders from the MPAA's p.r. high command which felt that he had "talked too much," i.e., too candidly, about the Code and its problems while in Europe.

MPAA's lowering the boom on Shurlock is seen as the start of a new and "tougher" policy re public discussion of the Code and an attempt to restore some of the prestige which many in the industry feel the Code has lost.

This, in turn, they see as creating a situation where, more or less by default, the Legion of Decency emerges as the dominant public influence in the industry, even though it represents a strictly partisan point of view.

MPAA quarters last week indicated they had knowledge that another blast from the Legion was in the offing, and that methods were being explored to deal with it. The same happened last year when the Legion's Msgr. Thomas F. Little excoriated the Code for being too lax and lambasted the producers for their "retrogressive"

(Continued on page 22)

Goldwyn May Have to Go Into Percentage Phase Of $1,000,000 'G&D' Deal

Looks like Samuel Goldwyn will be paying substantially more than the $1,000,000 minimum for the rights to "Guys and Dolls." That price was a guarantee against 10% of the worldwide gross.

"Dolls" has passed the $6,000,000 mark in domestic market rentals already, this on the basis of the first 4,500 exhibition contracts. Thus, the total domestic revenue should be well over $8,000,000. Added to this, of course, must be the money due from all foreign territories, which cannot be figured at this time.

However, that the overall total will be considerably over $10,000,000 is a certainty.

National Boxoffice Survey

Biz Turns Spotty; 'Society' First for Third Time In Row, 'King' 2d, 'Wonders' 3d, 'Boats' 4th

Old boxoffice favorites continue to hold sway in current session as several sections of country reported a return of hot, torrid weather after about a week of rainy, unseasonably cool temperatures. This stanza is noteworthy for fact that many exhibs are waiting until next round to launch new, big product for Labor Day week.

For third week in a row, "High Society" (M-G) is finishing in first place, and again by a great margin. Big name musical this round is running nearly $300,000 ahead of its nearest competitor on grosses in keys covered by VARIETY correspondents. Playing in 18 keys, it is great to terrific and record in most of them.

"King and I" (20th) is landing second place for third week in succession although launched early enough in July to cop first place for that month. "Seven Wonders of World" (Indie), launched in additional keys this week, is pushing up to third spot.

"Away All Boats" (U) is climbing to fourth. "Duchin Story" (Col) is finishing fifth as against third last round. "Oklahoma" (Magna) is moving up to sixth position, with new openings naturally helping.

"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G) is copping seventh money while "Proud and Profane" (Par) will be eighth. "Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) is finishing ninth. "Pardners" is taking 10th place.

"Run For Sun" (UA), just out; "Moby Dick" (WB) and "Autumn Leaves" (Col) are the runner-up pix this stanza.

"Bus Stop" (20th) looms as a potentially torrid grosser, based on initial playdates this session. It is pacing Cincy with a sock take, is smash in Minneapolis, great in Boston, big in Cleveland and hotsy in St. Louis. Pic opens at N. Y. Roxy this week. "Solid Gold Cadillac" (Col), also new, is rated fancy in L.A.

"War and Peace" (Par), limited on turnover, shapes mighty in N.Y. and great in L.A. "Fastest Gun Alive" (M-G), another review, is nifty in Toronto, still good in N.Y. on longrun and torrid in L.A.

"Bad Seed" (WB), stout in Cleveland on extended-run, is rated wow in Buffalo. Another new film, "Walk Proud Land" (U), looms hot in Chi, big in Toronto, good in Seattle and nice in St. Louis. "Burning Hills" (WB), mild in Cincy, shapes okay in Detroit, fine in N. Y. and good in Denver. "Boss" (UA) is rated hot in Omaha.

"Hold Back Night" (AA) looks good in Boston. "Queen of Babylon" (20th) is fine in Louisville. "Satellite in Sky" (WB), okay in Frisco, is not so good in Balto and Providence.

(Complete Boxoffice Reports on Pages 8-9)

CHAPLIN AND DREYER'S 'RETROSPECTIVE' PIX

Venice, Aug. 28.

Charlie Chaplin has given Venice Film Festival special permission to screen his "Great Dictator" during the retrospective showing of Chaplin pix to be held here Sept. 3-9. Pic has been kept under wraps for some time, with comedian refusing to re-release it at this time.

Three other full-lengthers will be screened here during the Chaplin seance: "The Kid," "The Circus" and "The Gold Rush," while the 6-day program also will include a set of 13 short items from Chaplin's early repertoire.

Retrospective showings here at Venice will be opened Aug. 29, with four initial days dedicated to the life work of Danish director Carl Theodor Dreyer. Seven features of his will be shown, accompanied by seven documentaries he made during his lifetime. Dreyer won the top prize here last year with "Ordet." Retrospective screenings will be held in the Film Palace's "TV Room" every afternoon.

Inflation No Stranger to French; Break-Even on Output Doubtful

Substantial rise in the investment in French films during 1956, coupled with a record postwar output of 125 features during the year, is detailed in a French Government analysis made available this week by the French Film Office in New York.

Study shows that inflation has hit the French industry with approximately the same impact as it has Hollywood. Due to the considerably higher cost of individual pix, fear is expressed that there may be difficulties in recouping these very high negatives costs in 1957.

Investment in French films during the first half of 1956 ran to 6.300,000,000 fr. ($18,000,000) as against a total of $23,000,000 (8,000,000,000 fr.) for the full year of 1955. Projecting the 1956 half-year figure to the full year, that's a $13,000,000 increase in a single year, which is tremendous, considering that France is still struggling for its export markets and still relies heavily on the home market.

France in the first half of 1956 turned out 63 feature pix of which 50% were in color. (In 1955, during the same period, 41 films were made of which only 33% were tinters.) It's expected, according to the report, that the 1956 total will reach 125 features, the highest number since the prewar days. Of the 63 made between January and July, 45 were entirely French and 18 were coproductions.

Production costs on the purely French product are up 33% over last year and 10% on the coproductions. An entirely French picture now averages 98,000.000 fr. ($280,000) and a coproduction 202,000,000 fr. ($580,000). New techniques, color, the upped costs of labor and material, etc., are blamed for the rise. The $280,000 figure represents a 100% rise over prewar days.

Partly keeping pace with the upped expenditures, the French market gave the local product 51% of the total income during the first quarter of 1956 against only 30% during the comparable 1955 period. Gross forcign receipts during the first quarter of this year were up 40% compared to 1955.

With some very successful

(Continued on page 15)

Producers 'Roping In' Cowboys, So Unions Go To Bat on Violations

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

There is "an increasing tendency" by producers to use extras (especially cowboys) as stunt men or to get them to work in both capacities, it's charged by the Screen Actors Guild and the Screen Extras Guild.

Guilds beef stuntmen are asked to do extra work as well as their specialty, and extras wind up doing stunts also, asserting such practices violate their contracts.

Guilds say they intend to enforce their contracts by filing claims against offending studios and filing disciplinary charges against any members who knowingly take part in such violations. They also say charges may be filed with the Screen Directors Guild against those assistants "who are continually involved in these violations."

OFFBEAT 'OEDIPUS' PIC VIA LESSER

Irving Lesser, whose Motion Picture Distributors Inc. has acquired releasing rights to "Oedipus Rex," admits he has an "offbeat" product to sell and adds this is beneficial because too many "onbeat" pictures don't click. He's now pondering a marketing approach via "specialty" theatres.

Lynn Farnol has been retained by Lesser to handle the campaign for "Oedipus," which was filmed just as it was staged at the Shakespearean Festival in Stratford, Ontario. The 88-minute translation of the Sophocles tragedy was directed by Tyrone Guthrie. Film has been selected for showing at the Edinburgh Festival Sept. 2.

Lesser is now on his own in independent distribution, having disposed of his intcrests in a partnership with Seymour Poe.

'Goodwin' Goes to WB; 'Marjorie' Via Sperling

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Milton Sperling has turned over his interest in "Melville Goodwin, U. S. A.," to Warners, which assigned Martin Rackin to produce. Sperling, who was to have made it under his United States Pictures banner, will serve as supervisory producer.

H. C. Potter will direct the Kirk Douglas-Susan Hayward costarrer, which rolls Dec. 4. Sperling will now concentrate on getting "Marjorie Morningstar" before the cameras for his indie.

Tony Owen (U. S.) Vs. DeLaurentiis On Coproduction

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Hollywood producer Tony Owen touched off fireworks at the Screen Producers Guild roundtable discussion Monday (27) by declaring Italo-American coproduction deals can succeed only with an American guiding hand. Guest of honor at the luncheon was Dino De Laurentiis who urged more such deals, and more use of Italian talent in such films. Owen, who has made seven films abroad, said there may be occasional good directors on the Continent but they are so rare as to be exception. Same applies to producers, he contended, adding, "if you want international success, you must have American star names, also it's better to have an American writer go over the screenplay."

De Laurentiis, through an interpreter (Par's studio foreign publicity chief Luigi Luraschi) admitted Owen may have had bad experience, but said that in Italy alone there are 10 producers out of 100 active capable of being "in reasonable agreement" with Americans on coproduction films. He also said there are at least 10 top-notch Italian directors who could meet American standards.

De Laurentiis cited the growing importance of the Italian market for U. S. producers, his country last year had 14.000 theatres with a potential yearly gross of $200,000,000.

In pitching for coproduction he mentioned the 40% American take in Italy is blocked but that in other countries, where similar situation applies, there is no freeze on Italian pix. Thus, Italo-American productions can recoup coin in those countries.

Seeks Injunction Vs. WB, Et Al., on 'Mitchell'

Warner Bros., United States Pictures and Milton Sperling were named defendants in a copyright infringement suit brought Friday (24) in New York Federal Court by Roslyn Fisher. Widow of John Fisher, she seeks an injunction to restrain WB, USP and Sperling from infringing the copyright of the Isaac Don Levine book, "Mitchell—Pioneer of Air Power," which the defendants filmed as "Court Martial of Billy Mitchell."

Mrs. Fisher, who also is pressing a similar suit against WB, et al., in N. Y. Supreme Court, charges that Samuel Bronston obtained film rights to the Levine book in 1943 and assigned it to her late husband in 1944. He in turn assertedly assigned all rights in the tome to his wife in 1950. Her Federal suit asks no specific monetary damages.

Durante 'Beau'-Tied

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Jimmy Durante will make a guest appearance in "Beau James," Jimmy Walker biopic, his first film assignment since "Milkman" for Universal in 1950.

He'll sing two of his numbers from the Walker era.

Binford Dead at 89; Banned Films Freely In Memphis 28 Years

Memphis, Aug. 28.

Lloyd T. Binford, famed as a "tough" censor and one of the South's most controversial figures, died yesterday (Monday) at a local nursing home. The former Memphis censor chief, who retired eight months ago, was 89. He had been seriously ill for the last two months.

Named chairman of the Memphis board of censors Jan. 9, 1928, Binford later ran roughshod over dozens of Hollywood's top pictures. His rigid bluenosing inspired the VARIETY phrase of "Binfordized" in respect to films that fell victim to his scissor-wielding. His strict attitudes, especially toward sex, shooting and inter-racial stories, often caused him to be involved in legal actions with the major distributors.

One celebrated case arose from Binford's 1947 ban of Hal Roach's "Curley," a United Artists release which showed white and Negro children at play together. After Roach and UA contested Binford's ruling, the Tennessee Supreme Court held that the Memphis board had no power to disapprove a film simply because there were Negro actors in it, but the ban remained because of a legal technicality.

Binford was particularly known for banning pictures which hinted of racial equality. He stopped

(Continued on page 52)

'GUILTY' TO KICK OFF ROBERT GORDON SKED

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

"Three Were Guilty," an original screenplay, will launch the schedule of Robert Gordon Productions, new indie formed by director Robert Gordon whose credits include "The Joe Louis Story" and "It Came from Beneath the Sea." "Guilty" was written by magazine writer George Walker and Gordon and reputedly is based on subject matter never before filmed, namely an abortion case.

Associated with Gordon is Harvey Bernhard, owner-operator of the Bali Hai, Las Vegas; actor-writer James Edwards; Bill Watters, who will serve as director of publicity and advertising; and Harry Sokolov, v.p. and legal counsel of Famous Artists.

"Guilty," which will be shot on location in Manhattan between Christmas and New Year's, the period covered in the story, will be followed by "Devil's Harvest," an outdoor action film written by Edwards and Byrd Holland; and by a sci-fi film and a comedy.

A major release now is being negotiated for the program.

N.Y to L.A.

Martin Goodman
Dick Haymes
Peggy McCay
Howard Newman
Frank Sinatra
Bob Willey

Europe to N.Y.

John Boulting
Finlay Currie
Stewart Granger
Lance Hamilton
Vic Hyde
Mervyn LeRoy
Louis A. Lotito
Arthur Miller
Richard Myers
Otto Preminger
Engenia Rawls
Michael Redgrave
Charles Russell
George Seaton
Donald Scawell
George A. Smith
Natalie Trundy
Wilfrid Hyde White

N.Y. to Europe

Daniel Blum
Shirley Booth
Aileen Brenon
Art Buchwald
James Burnes
Arlene Dahl
Charles Goldsmith
Edward Grossman
Tyrone Guthrie
Henry Howard
Priscilla Morgan
Charles Nolte
Joe Pasternak
Leonard Sillman

New York Sound Track

"Bus Stop" director Joshua Logan quoted in the Sunday Herald Tribune re Marilyn Monroe's acting talents and some critics' inability to appreciate them: "When the conversation is about Marilyn, hysteria rules." On whose part?

Charles Allen Jr. and David Baird, his associate, back from a London and Paris o.o. of the Warner Bros. holdings, which they presumably "auditioned" with an eye to sale and lease-back under the new WB management's plan to liquidate and cash in as much as possible.

Metro's British sales chief Charles Goldsmith, his wife and their two boys have been spending their U.S. holiday lapping up the sun at Long Beach, L.I. Weather in Europe generally has been cold, nasty and sunless, even more "unusual" than California's famed "heavy dew."

As Danny Kaye called the turns, 4,000 attendees at the Carter Barron Theatre, D.C., with lighted matches in hand, felicitated Jerry Pickman on his 40th birthday . . . Sid Blumenstock sprained his back while tying a shoelace, but all is mending well . . . Bill Gehring's sales execs committee ready to move on that Indianapolis "charge-as-you-go" survey.

Actor Fernando Lamas has a sideline—he's a distributor of American films all over Latin America. Lamas, who'll do a Broadway stint this fall, plans to settle in New York with actress-wife, Arlene Dahl . . . Sportscaster Mel Allen this week will narrate his 1,000th sports newsreel for Fox-Movietone News. He started the commentaries in 1946, has been handling two a week since. He does his own scripting . . . Attention TOA: The British Film Producers Assn. to date hasn't received an invite to the September Foreign Film Fair. How-about-it? . . . Joseph Maternati of the French Film Office poured for Jean Renoir at the posh French headquarters yesterday (Tues.) . . . "King and I" adaptation for the Far East, and particularly Thailand, is a dilly. Any reference to royalty, if properly deferential, would run a mile long in the titles.

Sidney Albright, 20th-Fox managing director in Australia, due in New York Sept. 17 . . . Tullio Carminati, actor in "War and Peace" and "Roman Holiday" Par's ,Italo-made films, identified as a former particularly ardent Fascist bigwig. Carminati couldn't get a U.S. visa, but it's apparently allright for his films to come in. Ditto of some other German and Italian thesps . . . Nov 11-17 is 20th-International's Overseas Drive dedicated to Manny Silverstone. They expect to hit a record $2,000,000 in billings . . . MPEA's Robert Corkery shoving off for Argentina next month . . . Technicolor's Herbert T. Kalmus off to Europe in mid-September to inspect the lab's Continental operations. . . . John B. McCullough, director of technical services for the Motion Picture Assn., named a fellow of the Society of Motion Picture & TV Engineers . . . Code's Geoffrey Shurlock enjoyed "Jedermann" at Salzburg, then made friends with a stranger on the plane home. It turned out to be Hugo von Hoffmanthal's son . . . Arthur L. Mayer to Canada . . . Giulio Brusasca, the Italo Under Secretary who suddenly went home last week, ostensibly flew to meet a Venice crisis over the lack of official American representation there. Actually, he's a member of the Italian cabinet and was called home on more important matters. It was dramatic, anyway . . . Press friends of Merrie Smith (it's now Mrs. A. Joynes Beane Jr.) turned out in force, along with MPAA-MPEA homeoffice staffers, at Miss Smith's wedding reception at the Harvard Club. Bride was Eric Johnston's executive secretary . . . Hedda Hopper to be screen-bioged. All the truth and nothing but the truth, etc.? . . . Politicking and the conventions put the spotlight on some industry names—George Murphy, Dore Schary, Miss Hopper, Lauren Bacall, Irving Berlin, Frank Sinatra, Nat King Cole . . . Vladimir Surin of the Soviets' Ministry of Culture says Russian color tv is in the experimental stages, with tint receivers now being blueprinted for greatest economy of space . . . Britain's Diana Dors has a new act—cold-shouldering the press.

Paramount general counsel Louis Phillips (-Nizer, Benjamin & Krim) okay after a mild setback . . . Metro is shifting its tv department from the homeoffice to the Mayfair Theatre Bldg. . . . Producer Sidney Harmon reports temperamental outbursts have become a thing of the past out Hollywood way . . . Lots of rumors afloat about what to expect at the Sept. 5 meeting of the Loew's board . . . Morale has hit a new peak on the Warner production end, George Stevens notes. Incidentally, he, Henry Ginsberg and Edna Ferber, who authored, are partners only on "Giant," lensed for WB release . . . Stage business at the "War and Peace" bow—comments by Arlene Francis, Barney Balaban and Alexandria Tolstoy—took up precious time.

Charles T. Rosen, son of Stanley Warner exec v.p. Samuel Rosen, engaged to Elizabeth L. Granak of Belmont, Mass. The wedding is planned for December. Young Rosen is employed by the International Latex Corp., a SW subsidiary . . . Metro's "High Society," now in 95 spots, booked to open in an additional 86 firstrun theatres between now and the end of the month. About 50 new bookings are already set for September . . . Walter Pidgeon in from the Coast to begin rehearsals in "The Happiest Millionaire," which marks his return to the Broadway theatre . . . Metro assigning special field reps for "Lust for Life," with Jimmy Boyle the first to be engaged . . . Cinerama's "Seven Wonders of the World" will be presented at a special 10:30 a.m. show on Labor Day . . . The Tyrone Guthrie-Leonid Kipnis "Oedipus Rex" selected for a special "gala" showing at the Edinburgh Festival . . . Metro has purchased from Feuer & Martin the film rights to the novel "Stay Away Joe" by Dan Cushman. Broadway producers had originally acquired the property for a legituner . . . Altec Service Co. named to provide technical supervision for upcoming premieres of the Todd-AO "Oklahoma!"

Jeff Brown, v.p.-story editor of Samuel Goldwyn Jr.'s Formosa Productions, scouting story properties . . . Stage show opening at the Roxy Friday (31) will be adapted from a story in verse, "Magic of the Stage," penned by Robert C. Rothafel, managing director of the house . . . Hecht-Lancaster, shooting "Bachelor Party" in Greenwich Village, faked some scene-taking to steer the crowds from the actual lensing a short distance away.

Telefilm producer Bernard L. Schubert ("Topper," "Crossroads," etc.) moving into the feature film field. As his first entry, he's planning a film dealing with the faith healing movement in the U.S. Thomas J. Fleming has been signed to write the screenplay . . . British producer John Boulting ("Private's Progress") arriving in New York today (Wed.) . . . Studio Films readying "Jazz Festival" for October release. Jazz personalities to be featured in the production include Count Basie, Duke Ellington, Sarah Vaughan, Amos Millburn, Herb Jeffries, Ruth Brown, Cab Calloway, Larry Darnell, Lionel Hampton, The Clovers, and Dinah Washington . . . Metro's sales veepee Charles M. Reagan back from a week's visit to the studio.

The Stanley Meyers (Dodo Blumber) in N.Y. on biz-pleasure from the Coast.

L.A. to N.Y.

Philip Ahn
Ruth Altman
Ray Anthony
Gene Barry
Anne Baxter
Milton Berle
Emmett R. Callahan
Joanne Dru
Eddie Fisher
L. Wolfe Gilbert
Susan Hayward
Beverly Kelly
Charles Laughton
Rita Moreno
Ingo Preminger
Milton R. Rackmil
Robert Ryan
Herb Steinberg
Irving Stone
F. Cowles Strickland
Barry Sullivan
Mike Todd
Joan Woodward

'SURVIVAL' SPAN COMING UP

Leo in the Livingroom

"Now I've heard everything." That, in essence, was the reaction of the theatremen to the statement of Metro's tv veepee Charles C. "Bud" Barry that M-G's release of feature films to television would be beneficial to Metro pix in general, including films shown in theatres.

At a press conference announcing Metro's sale of feature films to 12 tv markets, Barry said that he believed that "a new and vital interest in films would be created." His theory is that the constant exposure of M-G's Leo the Lion trademark plus the "greatest" bally compaign by the tv stations will bring new "identification and interest" in M-G films and that the public will go to theatres to see Metro films as a result of the exposure of the trademark on tv.

"Leo the Lion," Barry said, "will be the most famous trademark. It will be the roaringest lion."

The 'New' RKO Story: Plenty Scripts On Hand From Scratch (Post-Hughes)

From the standpoint of literati, RKO is now out of the woods, having come upon, for the first time, an adequate amount of story material to assure a continued production program. This was one of the toughest obstacles for the company to surmount, Don Moore, eastern story editor, stated in New York this week.

When he stepped into the job early this year, Moore who had been manager of the story department at CBS-TV, found the company, for four to five years under the Howard Hughes regime, had taken little interest in building a backlog of properties. The outfit had no readers on the payroll over that period. Also, synopses and reports on 50,000 to 100,000 novels, plays, magazine pieces, etc., had been destroyed in error.

While the company has now caught up with a number of new books, teleplays and such, Moore must keep his scouts out on the prowl for additional material. He has nine readers on a permanent basis and others on special assignment. Since he moved in, the exec and his staff have covered 2,000 properties, he figures.

As for the plays, "You must catch them young; all the good ones on Broadway already had been spoken for when we arrived," stated Moore, By "catching them

(Continued on page 20)

'Now Listen, Pa'

Pamela Moore, 18-year-old Barnard College student who authored "Chocolates for Breakfast," due from Rinehart next month, may find herself negotiating a deal for the screenrights with her own father. He's Don Moore, RKO's eastern story editor, who offered this comment about the novel: "amazing." It's in a second pre-publication printing.

Film exec also has a book coming out in the fall, this being "The Naked Warriors" which he co-authored with Comdr. F. D. Fane. Appleton is the publisher.

Overflow Cars Get Soundtrack

Nashville, Aug. 28.

Joseph Hart, local drive-in operator, is making sure he doesn't have to turn any cars away because of a full theatre.

Obtaining permission from the Federal Communications Commission to broadcast on an offbeat cycle that could be picked up on car radios, he installed a transmitter at the cost of $50. Now late-coming cars can wait on the back ramp, see the picture, and obtain the sound on the car radios.

POST-LABOR DAY 'CRISIS' PERIOD

By HY HOLLINGER

With the advent of Labor Day, the traditional lowering of the curtain of the summer season, the film industry and particularly the nation's film theatres face their most crucial economic test. What happens at the boxoffice in the post-Labor Day period may well determine the industry's future.

Having undergone a series of upheavals since the end of World War II, the picture business is now facing its most dangerous crossroad. Its survival as a medium of inexpensive, mass entertainment, as traditionally accepted, depends on its ability to meet and ward off the formidable challenge that faces it this fall and winter. Even diehard optimists do not expect the industry to emerge unscathed, but there is hope that a new modus operandi will be evolved that will spell out prosperity for the survivors of the economic battle. The shape of the atomized "new motion picture industry" will probably be developed during the 1956-57 fall and winter season.

Having recovered somewhat from the serious post-summer b.o. slump of 1956, the industry, and especially the theatres, must again overcome the numerous factors that keep the public away from motion picture entertainment. These include the trek back to school of a substantial number of customers, the end of the vacation periods, the closing of drive-ins, the general buckling-down-to-work-again atmosphere, and last but not least, the return to the airwaves of the big television shows and the top-rated tv performers.

Bloody But Unbowed

The tv networks have been busy all summer adding and revising programs, establishing new formats, acquiring new feature films, jockeying for time slots, and preparing hoopla, all of which is designed to keep the public glued to tv sets. The film industry in recent years has been able to some extent to meet the return of the tv shows. There's no doubt in anyone's mind that the tv shows have hurt the b.o., but the effect, as yet, has not resulted in complete disaster.

This year, however, the theatres will be faced with the tv industry's

(Continued on page 6)

Cite Need for O'seas Educ'l Program That U.S. Pix Ass'ns Cannot 'Dictate' Sales Policies of Member Companies

Foreign industries and governments continue to stick to the notion that the Motion Picture Assn. or the Motion Picture Export Assn. is in a position to force commercial trading propositions on member companies.

In the view of the companies, this basic misunderstanding abroad is harmful and indicates the need for a more vigorous public relations program overseas to translate the facts of American industry into realistic terms which foreign execs can understand.

Several recent instances have served to underscore the widespread misapprehension over the actual functions of the MPAA and MPEA that exists abroad. They are:

The bid from Italy's Eitel Monaco for MPEA to foster more coproduction in Italy: the British approach to Eric Johnston, asking him to take action re the sale of films to British television; the demand from Vladimir Surin, the Soviets' first Vice Minister of Culture, that the MPEA take on a number of Russian features in the U. S., a concept of MPEA's power that extends to many other countries.

Since, in most countries, the government is most directly involved in the operations of the local film industries, the assumption that the MPEA has quasi-official status is not illogical, particularly since not much is being done to counteract the impression. Firming up the foreign view is the fact that MPEA does, of course, negotiate film agreements for the entire industry.

As Surin put it succinctly, "if Mr. Johnston negotiates with us for his entire industry, he can certainly think about means of

(Continued on page 20)

'Okla.'s' Big Brit. Bally

London, Aug. 28.

A pre-filmed interview with Rodgers & Hammerstein, to be beamed on BBC-TV two days before the London preem of "Oklahoma" on Sept. 6, is one of the highlights of the extensive RKO campaign to plug the picture on all British radio and tv networks.

RKO's London office estimates that the picture will have attained at least 100 hours of radio and tv coverage before the preem engagement is ended. During August, the show tunes have had 30 radio and tv airings and since July, a total of 70 have gone out at peak periods.

The BBC's sound division is also devoting a whole hour on Sept. 13 to a soundtrack adaptation which is to feature a recorded interview with Shirley Jones.

UA-NBC Dicker On Post-'50 Prod.

Largest single block of relatively new American productions will go to television under a deal now being wrapped up by United Artists and NBC.

Film distributor is leasing 39 features to the network for airing on 10 stations, with the rental amounting to slightly over $30,000 per picture, or a total of around $1,200,000.

Of particular significance is the fact that the product was made in 1951 and subsequent years, whereas all deals involving other picture companies have centered on films lensed in 1948 and earlier. There have been instances where "modern" productions went to tv but these were sporadic and the sellers were individual producers and comparatively small companies.

UA's deals with the independent producers on its roster include tv distribution rights, meaning no problems in this regard. However, some precedents might be set as clearances are obtained with the unions involved

Bennie Berger Group Out To Sell M-G a Bill Of Goods on 'Friendship'

Minneapolis, Aug. 28.

North Central Allied directors are meeting this week at prexy Bennie Berger's call to try to figure out a way to persuade M-G to continue to be "the friendly company" by adhering to the sales policy of reviewing all percentage picture contracts and adjusting the terms in relation to the grosses whenever such action is deemed to be called for.

Meeting was called in consequence of Metro's decision to sell "I'll Cry Tomorrow" and "High Society" for 50% with no review even in the subsequent runs and smaller situations.

"This is the last straw," Berger told the directors. "Metro has been one of the companies showing some restraint in its dealings with exhibitors, but now it proposes to fall by the wayside and go the way of all flesh by doing what other distributors have been guilty of—ignoring theatre-owners' welfare.

"With this development the outlook for exhibitors seems more hopeless than ever. Taking its cue from Metro, the other bad companies will undoubtedly become worse in their dealings with us. Apparently, all our fighting and efforts are producing just the opposite effects from those needed to prevent the demise of many of us."

Mike Clofine Retiring Because of His Health, Bill Montague Succeeds

Michael D. Clofine, editorial producer of News of the Day theatre newsreel and Telenews, television daily, retired last week with William P. Montague, a Hearst Metrotone News exec, moving into the vacated posts. Clofine, whose retirement was disclosed by C. B. Stratton, Hearst Metrotone exec v.p., is stepping out for reasons of health and will reside in Cuernavaca, Mexican resort.

History of the modern newsreel and Clofine's career go practically hand in hand for, after several years with the Hearst organization in various writing and editing capacities, he was named in editorial charge of the Hearst reel in 1919 by William Randolph Hearst Sr. In 1927 Hearst Metrotone News was formed under dual ownership of the Hearst org and Metro. Since then News of the Day made the shift from silent to sound under Clofine's supervision and enlarged its operations to include many non-newsreel productions.

Also a vet in the reel field, Montague was assignment editor of Paramount News from 1927 to 1942, served with an OWI film unit during the war, and later produced a newsreel in France for Loew's International. He became news editor of Telenews in 1949 and subsequently joined Hearst Metrotone.

'King & I' 50% Stands

Policy of no readjustments has been instituted by 20th-Fox in selling its "King and I" musical.

Pic is being sold on a 50% basis and shapes as the biggest 20th grosser since "The Robe."

Loew's—TV—and Wall St.

By ABEL GREEN

Charles C. "Bud" Barry, vice-president of MGM-TV, whose job to date has been that of cashing in on Loew's Inc. residuals as much as possible, states that this is Step 1 in the program he and Arthur M. Loew, company prexy, had set up. Step 2 is MGM-TV production, and while Loew told him that, if necessary, to hold that phase over until the 1957-58 season, Barry is sanguine that by September-October he will have the second phase in action.

This will embrace (a) a "Mr. Chips" series of 39 vidpix to be made in London; (b), a "Father of the Bride" series to be produced in Hollywood; and (c), a third property which may be firmed up in the next week or two. If that "third property" is stalled, then Category C will embrace outside packages which Metro will finance and help produce.

Just as Barry has been selling stations and networks that Metro owns "the finest film product," he is firm in his intra-company program that, having "the finest studio facilities"—brains, resources, techniques, know-how—there is no reason why Metro's films-for-tv shouldn't be also the best.

For the rest of August and early September, Barry's first step is proceeding on (a), cashing in on old films; (b), getting in on station participation deals, viz, KTTV, Los Angeles, and he wants more; (c), participation deals with stations and networks whereby Loew's Inc. shares in the "tv boxoffice"—i.e., sponsorship sales—with their 7-to-10-year partnerships.

Prexy Loew has supported him in every respect, says Barry, and "since it's inevitable that television is the new show business, and since Metro is in show business, it's also inevitable that we must be in it—and as importantly as since the days that Loew's Inc. has been the bellwether of the picture business."

Multi Set Slant

Barry is of the opinion that tv has almost reached the saturation point in the number of sets, or if it's expanded it will be on an auxiliary or luxury basis—the two-and three-set homes, the ones with color receivers, etc. He has analyzed that there are seven hours of film viewing on an average, so Metro's release of its backlog "is not adding to the viewing, we're only adding to the quality."

He takes this "film network on television" not as seriously as do some of the exhibitor diehards, who naturally recognize video as b.o. poison, because "Metro is still dominantly a creative film production company, and that lion's roar in many a tv screen should redound to the value of the company's more recent and constantly new film product."

He cites Screen Gems, Warners' tv activities, Walt Disney via ABC-TV, et al., as examples of how Metro has been tardy in getting into the medium but "is now more than ready to meet the competition."

What theatre owners are going to say about "the friendly company" releasing such a wealth of product, with a Blue Book of the topmost marquee names in the history of the industry, is also held not as importantly by Barry. He is by no means blind to the fact that Metro has a prime obligation to its thousands of exhibitor-customers over the years.

The Residual Bonanza

His job, however, is to cash in on residuals. He has studded the U. S. map with leaseholds, station partnerships and vidfilm distribution partnerships. This is something the new banker elements on the Loew's Inc., board have long favored and which Arthur M. Loew parried for a time. He seems to have modified his original objections although, even then, he admitted he had "many attractive offers" and that "most of them were too tempting to decry entirely."

The Wall St. reaction was immediate last Friday afternoon, when the news was out on this $20,000,000 deal. Wall Streeters have long been touting Loew's Inc. as a strong sleeper, on the expectancy of film-leasing, realty liquidation, etc., as divorcement deadline approaches. It may be sooner than the Feb. 1 deadline.

Fox West Coast Expands

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

As part of a planned expansion of its operations Fox West Coast Theatres has acquired four five-acre sites in Greater Los Angeles for immediate construction of new houses in mushrooming residential and shopping centres. Each will have parking facilities for 700-1,000 cars.

Locations are in West Covina, Garden Grove, Northridge and Van Nuys.

The Last Wagon
(C'SCOPE-COLOR)

Suspenseful class western, good indications for general market.

Hollywood, Aug. 25:

20th-Fox release of William B. Hawks production. Stars Richard Widmark; features Felicia Farr, Susan Kohner, Tommy Rettig. Directed by Delmer Daves. Screenplay, James Edward Grant, Daves, Gwen Bagni Gielgud; story, Gielgud; camera (De Luxe Color), Wilfrid Cline; editor, Hugh S. Fowler; music, Lionel Newman. Tradeshown Aug. 23, '56. Running time, 98 MINS.

Todd ..... Richard Widmark
Jenny ..... Felicia Farr
Jolie ..... Susan Kohner
Billy ..... Tommy Rettig
Valinda ..... Stephanie Griffin
Clint ..... Ray Stricklyn
Ridge ..... Nick Adams
General Howard ..... Carl Benton Reid
Col. Normand ..... Douglas Kennedy
Bull Harper ..... George Mathews
Lt. Kelly ..... James Drury
Sergeant ..... Ken Clark
Cole Harper ..... Timothy Carey
Sarge ..... George Ross
Mrs. Clinton ..... Juney Ellis
Apache Medicine Man.... Abel Fernandez

The mounting menace of Indian attack as the survivors of a wagon train massacre make their way through hostile Apache country provides stirring motivation for this excellent William B. Hawks production. Its suspenseful plot and rugged characterization by Richard Widmark as a Comanche-reared white man are admirably backdropped by the magnificent Northern Arizona scenery caught via CinemaScope and DeLuxe Color, and film should find sturdy payoff in the general market.

Pic tees off studio's new policy of presenting fresh young talent. Widmark is only marquee name in cast, but feature benefits by the new faces, each of whom turns in a capital job. Under Delmer Daves' shrewd direction, film comes off as an interesting enterprise far off the beaten path of routine westerns and emerges a class affair which 20th expects to exploit as a blockbuster.

Story gets under way when Widmark, who has killed three men, is captured by a brutal sheriff and pair join a wagon train. After the Apaches wipe out all but the occupants of one wagon and leave Widmark for dead, he takes on the task of leading these survivors, all in their teens, to safety, the chain of events making for exciting unfoldment as they try to elude the lurking redskins.

Widmark is seen in a forceful role, a man who killed to avenge the murder of his Comanche wife and two sons, and has none of the refinements of civilization until he meets Felicia Farr, who with her young brother, Tommy Rettig, is one of the survivors. One of film's highlights is his knife fight with two Apaches, done realistically and in keeping with Widmark's character throughout the film.

Miss Farr leads off the lineup of new talent and makes an engaging impression, as does young Rettig in his hero-worship of Widmark. Susan Kohner scores as the half-breed sister of Stephanie Griffin, an interesting newcomer, and Nick Adams and Ray Stricklyn both show promise. George Mathews is standout as the sheriff, finally killed by Widmark for his cruelty, and Douglas Kennedy is good in his brief appearance as head of the wagon train, father of Susan and Stephanie.

Technical end of the picture is above average in every department, as is the screenplay by James Edward Grant, Delmer Daves and Gwen Bagni Gielgud, adapted from latter's original. Wilfrid Cline's color photography is striking as he trains his lens for fine effect upon the Sedona background; Lionel Newman's music helps maintain mood and suspense; Hugh S. Fowler's editing is sharp. Whit.

Back From Eternity

Jungle crash mello okay for general trade.

Hollywood, Aug. 25.

RKO release of John Farrow production, directed by Farrow. Stars Robert Ryan, Anita Ekberg, Rod Steiger; costars Phyllis Kirk, Keith Andes, Gene Barry; features Fred Clark, Beulah Bondi, Cameron Prud'homme, Jesse White, Adele Mara, Jon Provost. Screenplay, Jonathan Latimer; story, Richard Carroll; camera, William Mellor; editor, Eda Warren; music, Franz Waxman. Previewed Aug. 24, '56. Running time, 97 MINS.

Bill ..... Robert Ryan
Rena ..... Anita Ekberg
Vasquel ..... Rod Steiger
Louise ..... Phyllis Kirk
Joe ..... Keith Andes
Ellis ..... Gene Barry
Crimp ..... Fred Clark
Martha ..... Beulah Bondi
Henry ..... Cameron Prud'homme
Pete ..... Jesse White
Maria ..... Adele Mara
Tommy ..... Jon Provost

This remake of RKO's 1939 release, "Five Came Back," generates good melodrama as plottage follows what happens when a plane is forced down in the South American jungle. Film's familiar yarn is sparked by strong handling of situations and persuasively-enacted characters, sum total leading to hefty chances in the general market, where Robert Ryan and Rod Steiger's names hold meaning.

Picture is first of three which John Farrow, who also directed, will turn out for RKO as producer-director. Farrow inserts plenty of realism both in the crash sequence, when Ryan, vet pilot, is unable to weather a storm, and later when it comes time to choose who will be saved and who will be left behind, since the repaired plane can only carry half its original load. Expert technical knowhow also provides solid production values for a setting.

The Jonathan Latimer screenplay, based on Richard Carroll's story, twirls around the behavior of the assorted passengers and how they take their fate as plane lies in the midst of head-hunter country. Romance is pointed up between Ryan and Anita Ekberg, a hooker on her way to a South American city resort; and also between Keith Andes, co-pilot, and Phyllis Kirk, affianced to Gene Barry, a bullying coward. Steiger is a murderer being returned to the scene of his crime for execution, in whose hands lie the final choice of passengers.

Both Ryan and Steiger deliver highly restrained performances, and get top support right down the line. Miss Ekberg is an interesting personality, and in their triangle Andes, Miss Kirk and Barry are convincing. Fred Clark is sharp as a South American detective escorting Steiger, Cameron Prud'homme and Beulah Bondi score as an elderly couple, Jesse White is okay as a racketeer and Joe Provost appealing in a moppet role. Adele Mara makes a pretty hostess.

On technical side, William Mellor makes interesting use of his cameras. Eda Warren's editing hits a good pace and Franz Waxman's music score fits into the story. Whit.

The Beast of Hollow Mountain
(C'SCOPE-COLOR)

Science-fiction western which can be exploited for strong returns.

Hollywood, Aug. 24.

United Artists release of William & Edward Nassour production. Stars Guy Madison, Patricia Medina; features Eduardo Noriega, Carlos Rivas, Mario Carlos Rivas, Mario Navarro, Pascual Garcia Pena, Julio Villareal. Directed by Edward Nassour, Ismael Rodriguez. Screenplay, Robert Hill; additional dialog, Jack DeWitt; based on idea by Willis O'Brien; camera (De Luxe Color), Jorge Stahl Jr.; special effects, Henry Sharpe; music, Raul La Vista; editors, Holbrook Todd, Maury Wright. Tradeshown Aug. 20, '56. Running time, 81 MINS.

Jimmy Ryan ..... Guy Madison
Sarita ..... Patricia Medina
Enrique Rios ..... Eduardo Noriega
Felipe Sanchez ..... Carlos Rivas
Panchito ..... Mario Navarro
Pancho ..... Pascual Garcia Pena
Don Pedro ..... Julio Villareal
Margarita ..... Lupe Carriles
Martinez ..... Manuel Arvide
Manuel ..... Jose Chavez
Jose ..... Magarito Luna
Carlos ..... Roberto Contreras
Jorge ..... Lobo Negro (Guillermo Hernandez)
Shopkeeper ..... Jorge Trevino
Employee ..... Armando Guitierrez

"The Beast of Hollow Mountain" is an exploitation natural. It's hokey, but as a first in its field, a science-fiction western (as well as initial process film in CinemaScope), it should rack up handsome returns for its producers and provides moppet audiences particularly with edge-of-the-seat entertainment during its fantasy sequences. Name of Guy Madison in star role is a further draw for the juves, playing an American rancher in Mexico up against the menace of a pre-historic Tyrannosaurus Rex.

Filmed in De Luxe Color against the natural beauties of a heretofore Hollywood-unexplored part of Mexico, picture makes first use of the Regiscope animation process, developed after years of experimentation by co-producer Edward Nassour, who makes his bow as a feature director. An electronic process which is a definite contribution to film-making, it allows natural movement by a beast towering here over 30 feet. Story is based upon an original idea by Willis O'Brien, special effects expert known for his work on such past films as "The Lost World" and "King Kong."

The Robert Hill screenplay builds its narrative upon events leading up to the thrill sequences featuring the monster. Madison is partnered with Mexican Carlos Rivas on a ranch near Hollow Mountain, surrounded by an impenetrable swamp, where stories have it a mysterious and fearful beast dwells. Plottage twirls around the efforts of a wealthy Mexican cattleman, Eduardo Noriega, the extremely jealous fiance of Patricia Medina, daughter of the local mayor, to drive Madison out of the country. Their differences are resolved in the swamp, where the monster appears to create terror and finally meets its doom through Madison's efforts.

Nassour inserts outstanding production qualities in this film hecoproduces with William Nassour, his choice of backgrounds lending further interest to its unfoldment. Special effects photography by Henry Sharpe is a strong assist to Jorge Stahl, Jr.'s principal color camera work, a potent asset, and Raul LaVista's music score helps with the suspense.

Madison delivers in his expected style and Miss Medina makes a pretty heroine, whose friendship with the American is violently resented by Noregia, heavy whose street brawl with Madison is well staged. Rivas as Madison's partner is good, and specially appealing is Mario Navarro, young son of Pascual Garcia Pena, in for semi-comical characterization. Whit.

Port Afrique

"Port Afrique," British-made film tradeshown in New York Thursday (23), was reviewed from London by VARIETY May 23, 1956. In appraising the David E. Rose production Myro opined that the producer has values to help sell the picture in the U. S. through stars Pier Angeli and Phil Carey. "That's the biggest aid he has," the critic wrote, " . . . for this is lacking in suspense and tension. Little is gained from the potential exotic atmosphere of the Moroccan background."

Based on a novel by Bernard Victor Dryer, story has Carey tracking down the killer of his wife. While Myro felt that the characterizations "lack color and conviction," he nevertheless praised Carey's performance as a portrayal marked by "determination and sincerity." Likewise Miss Angeli "infuses a dramatic allure into her role and sings as well as she can act." Directed by Rudolph Mate, the Technicolor film is distributed by Columbia Pictures.

Briefs from Lots

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Karl Malden makes his directorial debut on "Time Limit," Richard Widmark starrer which latter's indie Heath Productions will make for UA release . . . Ben Hecht will work with David O. Selznick on the script of Ernest Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms," their sixth association . . . Paramount signed Robert Ivers, 21-year-old U. of Arizona undergraduate and Tucson little theatre actor, to a term contract beginning with "The Delicate Delinquent" . . . Neville Brand replaces Cameron Mitchell in "The Reno Brothers" at 20th-Fox when latter was unable to wind his commitment in "The Day They Gave Babies Away" at RKO in time for the role . . . Barbara Bates, former UI, Warners and 20th contractee who has been living in London for the last two years, won the costar role in "Town on Trial," which Marksman Productions is shooting there for Columbia release.

Universal signed George Nader for male lead in "Man Afraid" . . . Harry Jackson shifting from stage to screen in UI's "The Night Runner," starring Ray Danton and Colleen Miller . . . William Campbell draws one of the brother roles in "The Reno Brothers" at 20th-Fox . . . William Hopper cast as male lead in the Morningside production, "The Giant Ymir" . . . Willard Parker slated to star in Don Ormond's indie, "The Hanging Judge" . . . Allied Artists bought "Death In Small Doses," authored by Arthur L. Davis . . . Bert Schoenfeld is the new head of the RKO sound editing department . . . Choreographer Jack Cole makes his debut as an actor in Metro's "Designing Woman" . . . Raoul Walsh signed a multiple-picture director deal at Warners, starting with "Band of Angels" . . . Willard Waterman will star in his own indie production, "The Dedicated Man" . . . William Marshall signed for a Negro role in Metro's "Something of Value" . . . Kelly Brown drew a featured spot in RKO's "The Girl Most Likely." Carol Channing will sing the title song in same picture . . . Cornel Wilde will star in "Mobree," a slave trade story, for his Theodora Productions . . . Alan Ladd signed with 20th-Fox for "Boy On a Dolphin."

Columbia handed John Fente a term writing deal, starting with "The Roses" . . . Greta Thyssen up for top femme role in the Hugo Haas indie, "Little Miracles"

Inside Stuff—Pictures

"Baby Doll," by Tennessee Williams (New Directions; $3), contains the screenplay of the new Elia Kazan film, and also the two short plays from which it derives: "27 Wagons Full of Cotton" (1945), and "The Long Stay Cut Short; or, The Unsatisfactory Supper" (1946). Former was issued in hard covers by New Directions; latter appeared among five plays (including an early version of "Camino Real"), published by Dramatists Play Service under the title, "American Blues."

"Baby Doll" was shot mainly on location in Mississippi, and features Carroll Baker, Eli Wallach, Karl Malden and Mildred Dunnock. As source-plays would indicate, theme concerns virgin child-bride of an aging cotton-gin owner who is caught up in an affair with a younger man. Film was considered under two previous titles: "The Whip Hand" and "Mississippi Woman." It was independently produced by Kazan's organization, Newtown Productions Inc. (director has a home near Newtown, Conn.), and is a Warner Bros. November release. Book carries no stills from the film, but jacket has a photo of a decaying southern mansion used in the film. Much of Williams' special brand of writing is evident in "stage directions" of the shooting script.

Considering stockholders and their families as potential filmgoers, Stanley Warner is making sure that the investors are aware of the product that is coming up. In prexy Si Fabian's statement accompanying its most recent dividend payment, the theatre chain lists the top pictures of all the film companies.

"So you do not overlook the unexcelled entertainment variety of the new season's pictures, and so that you may tell your family and friends about them," the leaflet notes, "your management wishes to direct your attention to the outstanding attractions which have already begun their runs or are scheduled for early release."

There is no public opposition to higher admission prices for good product, Frank H. Ricketson Jr., general manager of National Theatres Inc., reported last week after completing a study of the subject. In the first statement since taking over the newly created post, Ricketson reported that the reaction to "The King and I," being shown at upped prices, proves the public is willing to pay for good entertainment. Noting the growing number of big pix due, he predicted the film industry would shortly enter a new era of prosperity, adding the public already is showing increasing response to new product.

"Pursuit of Happiness," documentary short made by Dore Schary for the Democratic National Committee, may solve a problem for producer Jack Rose and director Mel Shavelson on "Beau James," the Jimmy Walker biopic starring Bob Hope at Paramount. Producer-director team had been hunting, unsuccessfully, for footage of the late President Roosevelt to use in a key scene in the film. They spotted "Pursuit" during the telecasting of the Democratic convention last week and promptly wired the Democratic National Committee for permission to use clip from the documentary.

A subsidiary company, The Vitaphone Corp., formed by Warner Bros. in 1926 for its developments in sound, has been merged into the parent company. Action merely consisted of a paper transaction of absorbing Vitaphone, a N.Y. corporation, into Warner Bros. Pictures Inc., a Delaware corporation. According to a WB spokesman, there was no significance in the "merger." He said there was no longer any reason to keep the company on the books and that "we just got around to dissolving it."

In step with these times of diversification, Interstate Theatres, Dallas chain, will operate Fred Astaire Dance Studios in Houston and Dallas. Circuit's Almeda Theatre, Houston, now undergoing alterations, will open in the fall as the first Astaire operations under the tieup. Similar deals with other circuits around the country are now pending.

Although the Yank industry may go for a films-to-Russia deal, some individuals in high places are opposed to it. Feeling is the Soviet has reached political conclusion re showing of Hollywood films—specifically, the end result is likely to be strictly pro-Red, psychologically.

'Survival' Span Coming

Continued from page 5

greatest bombardment. With the aid of the film production companies, especially RKO, Warner Bros. and Metro, video can now offer its strongest array of feature film product. The bulk of the Warner backlog sold to tv and Metro's strong collection of feature films will be seen on television for the first time.

Metro's recent deal for the tv display of its pre-1948 films in 12 large markets (and with more coming) points up, perhaps more than anything else, the stiff tv competition that the nation's theatres will meet this fall and winter. The question being posed is: "Will the public go to theatres if it can obtain some of the great pictures of the past on television?" The M-G pix, in a sense, are the blockbusters of the past; films that were both artistic and financial successes. Television has never before been able to offer such a strong lineup of feature pix. Combined with the WB and RKO entries, it provides tv with an entertainment package that is difficult to beat—especially for free.

TV's Formidable List

Faced with the high cost of filmgoing, the babysitter problem, parking difficulties, and time schedules, the potential film customer is not expected to rush out of his home when, by the flick of his wrist, he can bring outstanding films into his livingroom. Among the 725 Metro films headed for tv are "Goodbye Mr. Chips," "Boys Town," "The Thin Man," "Ninotchka," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "San Francisco," "Meet Me in St. Louis," "David Copperfield," "Mrs. Miniver," "Random Harvest," "Dinner At Eight," "A Tale of Two Cities," "Easter Parade," "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," and all the Andy Hardy, Maisie, and Dr. Kildare pictures.

The stars who will be seen in the M-G films include Clark Gable, Lana Turner, Spencer Tracy, Ava Gardner, Robert Taylor, Greer Garson, Van Johnson, Elizabeth Taylor, Walter Pidgeon, James Stewart, Joan Crawford, Gregory Peck, Greta Garbo, Lionel Barrymore, Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Jean Harlow, Laurence Olivier, Vivien Leigh, Fredric March, Deborah Kerr.

The titles and the stars equal, to a certain extent, the entertainment value that can be obtained in theatres. To be sure, a large number of the public has seen the pictures, but there is, too, a substantial portion of the younger generation to whom these pictures are new and perhaps exciting.

It is generally conceded that if the theatres of the country can survive the challenge of the fall and winter tv programming, including the hefty schedule of outstanding feature films, there is nothing that video can throw at the theatres in the future that cannot be met successfully. "What more can tv offer?" is the general attitude.

SEG's 295G Surplus

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Net income of the Screen Extras Guild for the year ended last April 30 was $24,591.92, and SEG today has a total surplus of $295,110.49, the guild reports in its annual financial statement mailed members.

SEG income for the year ended April 30 was $190,083.96, and expenses totalled $165,591.92.

TURNOVER DILEMMA ON EPICS

'Epics' Clogging Firstruns

Film companies seem to be solving the product shortage—but in an unexpected way.

Number of upcoming "epics," i.e. "War and Peace," "10 Commandments," "Giant" etc., are clogging up the firstruns all over the country and are actually creating a projected shortage of outlets.

Sales execs point out that, with many of these biggies running overtime (up to 3½ hours), it'll be necessary to shoot for long runs to make up for the lack of turnover. These films naturally are slotted into the cream flagships, creating a situation where some of the companies may have to shop around for new showcasers.

COMPO, Despite Good Work, Again Faces That Ol' Debbil Bankrollitis

Council of Motion Picture Organizations, formed five years ago by trade associations within the film industry, evidently is faced again with the problem of how to stay in business. COMPO just a few weeks ago concluded a campaign that resulted in elimination of the 10% Federal tax on theatre admissions costing over 90c, meaning a claimed (and undisputed) saving to the picture industry of over $51,000,000 annually.

Since its inception COMPO has been running smack into the traditional absence of unity within the film-making trade. The disharmony persists.

The financing has been simple enough: members of Theatre Owners of America and Allied States Assn.—these being the two national exhibitor associations — would donate contributions on the basis of seating capacity, and the distributing companies, as members of the Motion Picture Assn. of America, would match the exhib contributions dollar for dollar.

National headquarters of Allied States some time ago decided to call a halt on this; the Allied hierarchy evidently couldn't see how COMPO was worthwhile. The fact that COMPO has won that $51,000,000 victory apparently doesn't matter to the Allied braintrusters.

$200,000 Budget

Running COMPO means an expenditure — overall, including money from theatremen and the film companies—of about $200,000 a year. Be hard to make a "B" picture for that.

Compo has become the focal point of the entire picture business organizationally, so far as many Capitol Hill legislators are concerned. It's a medium through which the trade, institutionally, reaches press and public.

A new dues drive is to be launched Sept. 10, according to special counsel Robert W. Coyne. And information director Charles E. McCarthy is at hand with the fact-finding knowledge that 22 states and 626 towns and cities are still imposing admissions taxes and a battle against them is in order. COMPO has proved its justification for being—it needs money to continue.

Venice Festival Catering More to Scribes; Also Add Facilities for Tradeshows

Venice, Aug. 28.

Many innovations, both physical and organizational, are notable at this year's Venice film fete, which is making a strong push to recapture its No. 1 ranking in the festival circuit. Airconditioned press facilities, for one, have been better distributed throughout the Festival Palace and an adjacent building, while phone and teletype service has been augmented by additional channels and lines. Even overseas stuff may now be fed right into press-wire facilities in the Festival Palace. Only telephoto servicing still must be handled in Venice proper.

Press has an airconditioned working room equipped with typewriters in various keyboards, adjoining phone exchange and cable and wire setups. Press material is of course in several lingos and this year includes a paper-bound set of program notes on all pix (includ-

(Continued on page 52)

Ford Foundation's $12,950 To Will Rogers Hospital

Will Rogers Memorial Hospital has received a check for $12,950 from the Ford Foundation, which is half the amount of grant earmarked for the show business-fostered tuberculosis institution. Balance expectedly will be paid next year.

Foundation has a $200,000,000 grant program to assist voluntary, nonprofit hospitals. In applying for the aid, Abe Montague, Columbia v.p. and president of the Rogers Hospital, said the money would be used for a broadening of services and research.

Kazan Clobbers Star System; Not Much B.O. in 'Em

Elia Kazan is firmly convinced that the old star system is dead despite the fact that Hollywood has failed to recognize its demise. "Hardly any star draws a thing at the boxoffice any more," Kazan declared, "and what's coming up is a much healthier situation, a much more interesting one, and I think a much more dramatic or theatric, or, I don't know, just artistic, if you want to use that word."

The director's comments on the star system as well as an analysis of the current state of the motion picture industry were made in the course of an interview with Fitzgerald Smith on NBC's "Monitor" last weekend. Kazan pointed out that he had cast his latest picture, "A Face in the Crowd," without recognized stars but "with fresh talent who are right for the parts and who have something to bring to the screen that hasn't been seen on the screen or on tv before . . . "

Kazan stated that the motion picture industry is facing a crisis. Whether the picture business realizes or not, he said, the competition of television is formidable. "I think motion pictures will continue to be important; they may be more important," he noted, "but the old system of grinding out 50-60-70 features a year and almost anything going and almost anything making money is all over. I think the motion picture business has become a business of specialists . . . It's a disaster for a certain type of picture-maker and certain type of exhibitor but it's really a great thing for honest and true motion pictures."

Kazan asserted that some of the so-called blockbusters have been disappointing. "I personally am not interested in great crowd scenes or anything like that," he said. He pointed out that a great lack in pictures has been the failure to make pictures "truly about this country." "America," he said, "is sort of an undiscovered country, artistically speaking, as far as pictures go. I think there is a wealth of story ideas, or real material. There's almost too much to even encompass in your mind."

The prospect for the new picture-maker, Kazan said, "is that he

(Continued on page 18)

'SPILL' ON 'W&P' NOT SUFFICIENT

Opening of Paramount's "War and Peace" (three hours and 28 minutes) and the skedded entry of other contenders in the marathon sweepstakes has provided the trade with a new puzzler. Gist of the problem is how to determine whether a long film is excessively long and, then, how to program it in theatres.

Par has decided against any new booking dates for "Peace" pending a study of initial audience reaction and commercial results at the Capitol Theatre, New York, and the Hollywood Paramount.

The long-distance running time has limited performances to four a day, and without intermission. At the start of the Cap run Par found the desired "spill" was not being achieved—that is, some patrons were remaining beyond one full showing of the film in order to catch a particular scene for the second time. This, along with the physical problems in filling a 4,820-seat house for every performance on a grind policy, has rendered capacity business impossible.

According to Par sources, 13,646 tickets were sold opening day, whereas a full house would have been 19,280.

Also, Par and Cap representatives conducted on-the-spot checks of audience appraisals. "Good notices" from the public were claimed all around, but when the specific question about length was asked, 30% of those queried nodded that the film might have been shorter.

Cecil B. DeMille's "Ten Commandments," which opens late this year, will play two-a-day. Meaning no turnover difficulties with the four-hour epic.

George Stevens, in N. Y. over the past week, related that "Giant," which he made for Warner release, will open at the Roxy, in Gotham, in October along with a stage show. Although the producer-director said the on-the-boards outing will be "short," the fact that there will be any live performances at all is regarded as curious since "Giant" runs three hours and 15 minutes. The policy here, too, will be grind and without intermission.

Henry Ginsberg, Stevens' partner, reported the plan for the playoff of "Giant" will be flexible, with exhibitors in many instances calling the turns on intermissions and whether performances will be continuous or two- or three-a-day.

Stevens feels the making of mammoth productions will reach trend proportions and this well have its pitfalls. He believes, he said, that

(Continued on page 18)

'Koepenick' (German) Gets 1st Slot On Eve of Venice Festival Teeoff

By ROBERT F. HAWKINS

Venice, Aug. 28.

The 17th Venice Film Festival opens tonight (Tues.) with the German entry, "Der Hauptman Von Koepenick," directed by Helmut Kautner and starring Heinz Ruehmann, in the initial slot. Originally, as per tradition, fete was set to start off with an Italian pic, this year one of this country's two entries, "L'Impero Del Sole," but the labs have been tardy in delivering a satisfactory final print (pic is in color and C'Scope), and item will be shown later.

The two U.S. contestants, UA's "Attack" (ex-"Fragile Fox") and 20th's "Bigger Than Life," have been assigned their spots in the program. The 20th entry unspools Sept. 1st, while "Attack" will be seen Sept. 7. "Bus Stop," which 20th is running here out of competition, will be seen on the festival's last evening, Sept. 9, with Italian President Giovanni Gronchi probably attending the screening, which will be followed by the prize award ceremony.

All pix in competition will be seen at nighttime showings, thus leaving the daytime free for meetings, screenings of retrospective shows of old Charlie Chaplin and Carl Theodor Dreyer pix, and for possible tradeshowings.

Program as currently set, besides the above pix and dates, includes: "The Ogre of Athens" (Greece) and "Biruma No Tategoto" (Japan), Aug. 29; "L'Impero Del Sole" (Italy) and "Torero" (Mexico), Aug. 30; the Russo entry, "Immortal Garrison," Aug. 31; "Suor Letizia" (Italy), Sept. 2; "Calabuig" (Spain), Sept. 3; "Akasen Chitai" (Japan), Sept. 4; "Calle Mayor" (Spain), Sept. 5; "Traversee de Paris" (France, Sept. 6; "Gervaise" (France), Sept. 8.

It's also just been announced that there'll be a special showing of Rouben Mamoulian's "Becky Sharp," first color (Technicolor) feature to be shown at the Venice Festival (in 1937). Print was supplied by Mamoulian himself.

Felt here that jury of seven,

(Continued on page 18)

'Ben Hur' Set to Roll In March; Long Delayed

Hollwood, Aug. 28.

Metro has greenlighted its long projected production of "Ben Hur" by producer Sam Zimbalist, with March as the starting date.

Director and cast are now being sought for the Rome locationing. Sidney Franklin was to have directed but doesn't want to go abroad.

'Curtain' Nations Loom Large In Venice Picture

Venice, Aug. 28.

Delegations from most participating countries, including a large representation from the Iron Curtain nations, are in for the Venice Film Festival. Yank interests are repped by official U. S. Government delegate Joseph Beattie and by Francis Savage, film officer at the Rome Embassy.

Here for Soviet Russia, which has one of the largest groups, is Alexander Fiodorov, director of film production in the USSR, as head of the delegation; Fridrick Ermler, w.k. Soviet director and jury member here; two actresses, Sigrida Tungure and Olga Olfervoic; several members of the Russian Embassy in Rome; plus several newspapermen.

Jozsef Darvas, Hungarian Minister of Popular Culture, tops the

(Continued on page 18)

Changes in N.Y. State Motion Pic Division

Albany, Aug. 28.

A change in the direction of the Motion Picture Division, State Education Dept., officially takes place Sept. 1, when Mrs. Helen L. Kellogg, associated with the censoring unit since 1927 and with its predecessor, the old Motion Picture Commission, from 1921, retires.

Mrs. Kellogg, who reached the statutory age limit of 70 last year and who was given a one-year extension, has been acting director of the MPD since Dr. Hugh M. Flick was promoted in the summer of 1955 to the post of executive assistant to the Commissioner of Education, Dr. James E. Allen, Jr.

Louis Pesce, advanced from a reviewer to assistant director on June 1—after a civil service examination—now becomes acting director.

Gondolas & Palaces SRO

Venice, Aug. 28.

The Venice film fete seems to want to give those austerity rumors the lie. With the list still far from complete, it looks like there'll be at least a party or reception on each day of the 13-day show, counting both official receptions by participating nations and events sponsored by private industry groups.

Italy is down for its traditional giant opening and closing affairs for over 1,000 people. Italy also hosts at the yearly historic regatta; at a tour of Venetian villas and palaces; at a luncheon in honor of festival toppers of all the world, also including alumni—past directors of pic fetes in Venice, Cannes, Locarno, Cork, San Sebastian, Berlin, Karlovi Vary, etc.; and will also sponsor a motorboat rally for visiting stars and the press, from the island of Torcello to Saint Marks Square.

Others booked so far for official shindigs are France, receiving in the Ducal Palace; Germany, Japan, Soviet Russia, Mexico, and Spain, latter importing a 20-man dance group for some flamenco atmosphere. Also, torero Luis Miguel Dominguin is flying in two Spanish bulls for a demonstration (no kills) bullfight to be held on the Lido as a benefit, proceeds going to families of victims of the recent Belgian mine disaster.

Not known whether or not 20th and UA wil give a separate or joint reception in lieu of the MPEA ankling of this year's event. MPEA usually hosted festivaliers at a cocktail. Greece, with troubles of its own, and probably surprised by its festival entry, has not yet been heard from. Finally, Angelo Rizzoli is the first producer down for a private affair of his own. He'll host a giant reception on his yacht, Sereno, in honor of his fest entry, "Suor Letizia," and its star, Anna Magnani.

Docs-Shorts (153) And Kidfilms (44) Arrayed At Venice to Big Play

Venice, Aug. 28.

The Seventh International Exhibition of Documentaries and Short Subjects and the Eighth International Exhibition of Films for Children got under way here, with audiences giving both items an unusually big play. Emanating from 25 countries are 153 pix in the documentary show, while in the moppet category there are 44 items representing 13 countries. Critics from all countries accredited for this event number 112.

U.S. has some 20 items in both races, submitted by both the Government and Film Council of America. Government pix include a group of medical items, plus some entries made by USIS, Army, Navy and Interior.

The Film Council sent over a large number of entries, of which 10 were accepted. Feeling here is that more of these would have been accepted had they not been generally too "local" in concept and problems. Others were rejected as too openly commercial in endorsing product of producer. Among the Film Council entries accepted are: "On the Bowery," "Petroushka," "Vigil," "Naked Eye," "The Helen Keller Story," "Story about Ping."

Many Iron Curtain countries are repped here, and are already present with delegations of government officials, directors and industry men. Soviet Russia and Hungary are the strongest numerical contributors to these two official festivals, while of the Western nations, Britain and France, along with hosting Italy, have the traditionally largest selections.

New Product Lifts L. A.; 'Cadillac' Solid $22,000, 'Gun' Bangup 110G, 'Peace' Powerful 35G, 'Sun' Hot 24G

Los Angeles, Aug. 28.

Opening of two upped-scale biggies will hypo firstrun biz in current week as several extended-runs hold up well. "War and Peace" is headed for a great $35,000 in first stanza at the Hollywood Paramount despite being held to four daily showings because of its length. "Solid Gold Cadillac" is rated fancy $22,000 or close in first round at Warner Beverly.

"Fastest Gun Alive" is likely to land solid $25,000 in two regular firstruns plus a fat $85,000 in one nabe and eight ozoners. "Run For Sun" looks fine $24,000 in four sites.

Fourth frame of "High Society" shapes sock $24,000 while "Cinerama Holiday" hit a sharp $23,800 in 41st week at Warner Hollywood. "Trapeze" is rated okay $11,000 in third round in two theatres.

Estimates for This Week

Warner Beverly (SW) (1,612; $1-$1.75) — "Solid Gold Cadillac" (Col). Fancy $22,000. Last week, "Duchin Story" (Col) (8th wk), $6,000.

State, Hawaii (UATC-G&S) (2,404; 1,106; 80-$1.50)—"Fastest Gun Alive" (M-G) with second-run pix. Hot $25,000. Last week, in different units.

Los Angeles, New Fox, Ritz, Loyola (FWC) (2,097; 865; 1,348; 90-$1.50)—"Run for Sun" (UA) and "Hot Cars" (UA) — Nice $24,000. Last week, minus Loyola, "Bigger Than Life" (20th), and "Shadow of Fear" (UA), $13,000.

Downtown Paramount, Uptown (ABPT; FWC) (3,300; 1,715; 80-$1.50) — "Crash Dive" (20th) and "Halls Montezuma" (20th) (reissues) Mild $11,000. Last week, Downtown Paramount only, "Satellite in Sky" (WB) and "7 Men From Now" (WB) (2d wk), $5,800.

Hillstreet (RKO) (2,752; 80-$1.25) — "Snake Pit" (20th) and "Night and City" (20th) (reissues). Scant $3.000. Last week, with unit.

Hollywood Paramount (F&M) (1,430; $1.25-$2.40) — "War and Peace" (Par) Great $35,000. Last week, "Certain Feeling" (Par) (7th wk-8 days), $5,000.

El Rey, Iris (FWC) (861, 816; 80-$1.25) — "Moby Dick". (WB) with second-run pix (2d wk). Slow

(Continued on page 22)

Broadway Grosses

Estimated Total Gross

This Week ..... $652,900
(Based on 22 theatres)

Last Year ..... $584,900
(Based on 20 theatres)

'Sun' Lofty 10G, Frisco; 'Sky' 12G

San Francisco, Aug. 28.

Republican convention to depress film biz somewhat since there was too much free entertainment. There are few newcomers and none is smash. However, "Run For Sun" looks fine at United Artists. "Satellite in Sky" shapes okay at Paramount. "High Society" is holding up best of extended-runs, with another smash session at Warfield in third week. Virtually as strong at smaller St. Francis is "Eddy Duchin Story," with great takings in second week.

Estimates for This Week

Golden Gate (RKO) (2,859; 80-$1)—"Behind High Wall" (U) and "Outside Law" (U). Fair $9,000. Last week, "First Traveling Saleslady" (RKO) and "Thunderstorm" (AA), $12,000.

Fox (FWC) (4,651; $1.25-$1.50)—"King and I" (20th) (9th wk). Good $10,000 in 5 days. Last week, $12,500.

Warfield (Loew) (2,656; 65-90)—"High Society" (M-G) (3d wk). Big $18,000. Last week, $22,000.

Paramount (Par) (2,646; 90-$1)—"Satellite In Sky" (WB) and "Seven Men From Now" (WB). Okay $12,000 or near. Last week, "Proud and Profane" (Par) (2d wk), $10,000.

St. Francis (Par) (1,400; $1-$1.25)—"Duchin Story" (Col) (2d wk). Great $14,000. Last week, $17,000.

Orpheum (Cinerama Theatre Calif.) (1,458; $1.75-$2.65)—"Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (56th wk). Big $16,000. Last week, $18,500.

United Artists (No. Coast) (1,207; 70-$1)—"Run For Sun" (UA) and "Star of India" (UA). Fine $10,000 or near. Last week, "Johnny Concho" (UA) and "Kiss Before Dying" (UA) (2d wk), $8,700.

Stagedoor (A-R) (440; $1.25-$1.50)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue) (5th wk). Fat $4,000. Last week, $5,000.

Larkin (Rosener) (400; $1)—"Madame Butterfly" (IFE) (2d wk). Big $5,000. Last week, $5,300.

Clay (Rosener) (400; $1)—"Adorable Creatures" (Indie) (8th wk). Neat $2,100. Last week, $2,700.

Bridge (Schwarz) (396; $1-$1.25)—"Ladykillers" (Cont) (10th wk). Big $1,600. Last week, $1,800.

Coronet (United California) (1,250; $1.10-$2.75) — "Oklahoma" (Magna) (27th wk). Hot $16,500. Last week, $17,100.

Rio (Schwarz) (397; $1)—"3 Forbidden Stories" (Indie) and "39 Steps" (reissue). Oke $1,500. Last week, "Naked Heart" (Indie), $1,200.

'Society' Socko $22,500 in Balto

Baltimore, Aug. 28.

Except for the socko pace at the Hipp being set by "High Society," grosses tend to be moderate here this week. "Satellite In Sky" is glum at the Stanley as is "Davy Crockett and River Pirates" at the New. "While the City Sleeps" is modest at the Town. "Away All Boats" is still potent in fourth Mayfair week.

Estimates for This Week

Century (Fruchtman) (3,100; 50-$1.25)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) (3d wk). Okay $6,500 after $8,000 in second.

Cinema (Schwaber) (460; 50-$1)—"Proud and Beautiful" (Indie). Okay $4.000. Last week, "Seven Little Sins" (Indie) (3d wk), $1,500.

Film Centre (Rappaport) (890; $1.25-$2.50)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (26th wk). Pleasing $8,500 after $8,000 in 25th.

Five West (Schwaber) (460; 50-50-$1.25)—"Rififi" (UMPO) (4th wk). Nice $3,000 following $3.500 in third.

Hippodrome (Rappaport) (2,100; 50-$1.25)—"High Society" (M-G). Socko $22,500. Last week, "Duchin Story" (Col) (4th wk), $5,000.

Mayfair (Hicks) (980; 35-$1)—"Away All Boats" (U) (4th wk). Still potent at $4,000 following $5.000 for third.

New (Fruchtman) (1,600; 35-$1) "Davy Crockett and River Pirates" (BV). Fairish $5,000 Last week, "King and I" (20th) (6th wk), $6,500.

Playhouse (Schwaber) (410; 50-$1)—"Simon and Laura" (Indie) (2d wk). Brisk $4,000. Last week, $4.500.

Stanley (WB) (3,200; 30-$1)—"Satellite in Sky" (WB). Drab $4.500. Last week, "Pardners" (Par) (2d wk), $6,500.

Town (Rappaport) (1,400; 50-$1) "These Wilder Years" (M-G). Starts tomorrow (Wed.). "While City Sleeps (RKO), dull $6,500.

'Concho' Crisp $9,500, Omaha; 'Boss' Big 8G

Omaha, Aug. 28.

For first time in months there isn't a holdover at downtown first-runs this week. Biggest takes are being registered by "Boss" at the Omaha, which is boomed as a "world premiere," and which garnered much space in the local press. "Johnny Concho" is fancy at the Orpheum. "Kiss Before Dying" isn't generating much interest at the State and "Santiago" is only fair at the Brandeis.

Estimates for This Week

Brandeis (RKO) (1,000; 75-$1)—"Santiago" (WB) and "Zanzabuku" (Rep). Fair $4,000. Last week, "Earth Vs. Flying Saucers" (Col) and "Werewolf" (Col), $8,000.

Omaha (Tristates) (2,000; 75-90)—"Boss" (UA). Fine $8,000. Last week, "Pardners" (Par) (2d wk), $6,500 at $1 top.

Orpheum (Tristates) (2,890; 75-90)—"Johnny Concho" (UA) and "Unidentified Flying Objects" (UA). Okay $9,500 or near. Last week, "Proud and Profane" (Par), $10,500.

State (Goldberg) (860; 75-$1) — "Kiss Before Dying" (UA) and "Emergency Hospital" (UA). Mild $4,000. Last week, "Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G) (2d wk), $4,500.

'Gun' Swift $14,000 in Toronto; 'Land' Sturdy 12G, 'King' 20G, 4th

Toronto, Aug. 28.

"Fastest Gun Alive" and "Walk Proud Land," both at Loew houses, are off to hefty starts. Also new "La Strada" looks big. Still heading the city is "King and I" for a socko fourth frame, best biz Shea's has done in years, with "Moby Dick" still up there in second stanza.

Estimates for This Week

Circle, Towne (Taylor) (750; 693; 60-$1)—"La Strada" (IFD). Big $9,000. Last week, "Cast Dark Shadow" (IFD) (2d wk), $5,000.

Colony, Danforth, Fairlawn, Humber, Odeon (Rank) (839; 1,351; 1,165; 1,204; 2,318; 60-$1)—"Foreign Intrigue" (UA) and "Star of India" (UA). So-so $28,000. Last week, at Odeon and Fairlawn only, "Duchin Story" (Col) (4th wk), $14,000.

Downtown, Glendale, Scarboro, State, Westwood (Taylor) (1,054; 995; 694; 696; 994; 40-75)—"Black Sleep" (UA) and "Creeping Unknown" (UA). Good $14,000. Last week, "Raw Edge" (U) and "Behind High Wall" (U), $13,500.

Eglinton, University (FP) (1,080; 1,556; 60-$1)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk). Good $12,000. Last week, $14,500.

Imperial (FP) (3,344; 60-$1.10)—"Moby Dick" (WB) (2d wk). Okay $14,000. Last week, $24,000.

International (Taylor) (557; $1)—"Escapade" (IFD) (3d wk). Hep $4.000. Last week, $5,000.

Loew's (Loew) (2,098; 60-$1)—"Fastest Gun Alive" (M-G). Swell $14,000. Last week, "Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G) (2d wk), $77,000.

Shea's (FP) (2,375; 60-$1)—"King and I" (20th) (4th wk). Wonderful $20,000. Last week, $25,000.

Tivoli (FP) (995; $1.50-$2)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (18th wk). Good $12.500. Last week, same.

Uptown (Loew) (2,745; 60-$1)—"Walk Proud Land" (U). Fine $12.000. Last week, "Kettles in Ozarks" (U), $6.000.

Fair Bops Mpls. But 'Bus' Bright 15G, 'Godzilla' 7G, 'Society' 8G, 3d

Minneapolis, Aug. 28.

As holdovers continue to be conspicuous by their presence, current newcomers are helping some. Standout is "Bus Stop," smash at Radio City. Another big new entry, "Godzilla," looks to pack quite a wallop at the Gopher. "Autumn Leaves" isn't so big at Orpheum. Likely to draw around 1,000,000 people during its 10 days, the Minnesota State Fair is tough opposition for cinemas currently. Fourth stanza for "Seven Wonders of World" is great at the Century. Third round for "High Society" is big at State.

Estimates for This Week

Century (S-W) (1,150; $1.75-$2.65)—"Seven Wonders of World" (Indie) (4th wk). State Fair actually helping this one. Aided by extra matinees last week and currently. Tremendous $35,000. Last week, $34,000.

Gopher (Berger) (1,000; 85-$1)—"Godzilla" (Indie) and "Frontier Town" (Indie). Sensational newspaper ads bringing in plenty of patrons. Good $7,000. Last week, "Wilder Years" (M-G), $4,000.

Lyric (Par) (1,000; 85-$1)—"Pardners" (M-G) (4th wk). Okay $3.000 in 5 days. Last week, $4.000.

Radio City (Par) (4,100; 85-$1)—"Bus Stop" (20th). Smash $15,000. Last week, "Proud and Profane" (Par) (2d wk), $5,500 in 5 days.

RKO Orpheum (RKO) (2,800; 75-$1)—"Autumn Leaves" (Col). Slim $6.000. Last week, "Santiago" (WB). $8,000.

RKO Pan (RKO) (1,650; 75-$1)—"Santiago" (WB) (m.o.). Mild $5,000. Last week, "Eddy Duchin Story" (Col) (5th wk). $4,500.

State (Par) (2,300; 85-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (3d wk). Robust $8.000. Last week, $12,000.

World (Mann) (400; 85-$1.25)—"King and I" (20th) (7th wk). Holds up at big $6,000. Last week, $6,400.

'Bus' Boffo $15,000, Cincy; 'Society' Sockeroo 13G, 3d, 'Pardners' 10G, 2d

Key City Grosses

Estimated Total Gross

This Week ..... $2,902,700
(Based on 23 cities and 234 theatres, chiefly first runs, including N. Y.)

Total Gross Same Week Last Year ..... $2,662,800
(Based on 22 cities and 213 theatres.)

'Bus' Big $19,000, Cleve.; 'Boats' 18G

Cleveland, Aug. 28.

"Bus Stop" is pulling strong biz to the Palace, take being biggest coin in city by a small margin. "Away All Boats" is only a step behind with a lofty total at the Hipp. "High Society" looms great at Stillman in third session. "Bad Seed" is stout at Allen, also in third round.

Estimates for This Week

Allen (Stanley) (3,000; 75-90)—"Bad Seed" (WB) (3d wk). Stout $15,000. Last week, $19,000.

Hipp (Telem't) (3,700; 70-90)—"Away All Boats" (U). Tall $18,000 or over. Last week, "Earth vs. Saucers" and "Werewolf" (Col), $21,000.

Ohio (Loew) (1,244; 70-90)—"Pardners" (Par) (4th wk). Oke $5,000. Last week, $6,000.

Palace (RKO) (3,285; 70-90)—"Bus Stop" (20th). Big $19,000. Last week, "Bigger Than Life" (20th), $5,500.

State (Loew) (3,500; 70-90)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) (2d wk). Good $10,000. Last week, $16,000.

Stillman (Loew) (2,700; 70-90)—"High Society" (M-G) (3d wk). Great $12,500. Last week, $18,000.

'Profane' Proud $11,000 Paces K.C.; 'Texan' 14G, 'Society' Snappy 8G, 3d

Kansas City, Aug. 28.

Biz continues bright with the list of a product on the plus side. Leading newcomers are "Proud and Profane," lively at the Paramount, and "First Texan," a bit over average in four Fox Midwest theatres. Dickinson circuit is in with another of its four-way day-date setups with "Black Sleep" and "Creeping Unknown" doing firstrate. "Hight Society" in third week holds big. Art houses have new bills, too, Kimo doing well with "Simon and Laura" and Vogue is getting moderate play with "Lovers and Lollilops." Weather has warmed up during the days, but nights still are cool.

Estimates for This Week

Glen, Dickinson, Leawood Drive-In, Shawnee Drive-In (Dickinson) (700; 700; 1,000 cars; 1,000 cars; 75c) — "Black Sleep" (UA) and "Creeping Unknown" (UA). Okay $15,000. Last week, subsequent-run.

Kimo (Dickinson) (504; 75-$1)—"Simon and Laura" (U). Sturdy $2,500; holds. Last week, "Man Who Loved Redheads" (Indie) (4th wk), $1,200.

Midland (Loew) (3,500; 75-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (3d wk). Fancy $8,000. Last week, $11,000, best holdover week this year at this house.

Missouri (SW) (1,194; $1.20-$2)—

(Continued on page 22)

'BOATS' BOFF $22,000, DENVER; 'SOCIETY' 13G

Denver, Aug. 28.

"Away All Boats" is leading the city this round at Center Theatre, and staying over. Week shapes as one of biggest smash grossers there in weeks. "High Society" looks socko in second Orpheum week. It stays a third.

Estimates for This Week

Centre (Fox) (1,247; 60-$1) — "Away All Boats" (U). Smash $22,000. Last week, "King and I" (20th) (8th wk), $11,000.

Denham (Cockrill) (1,750; 60-$1)—"Pardners" (Par) (2d wk). Good $9,000. Last week, $13,500.

Denver (Fox) (2,525; 60-$1) — "Rawhide Years" (U) and "Congo Crossing" (U). Fair $11,000. Last

(Continued on page 22)

Cincinnati, Aug. 28.

"Bus Stop" is a solid leader at Keith's and town topper this vacation-fadeout session. "Burning Hills," new bill at the Palace, shapes moderately. "High Society" continues boff in third week at the smaller Grand. Another holdover, "Pardners," maintains a pleasing swing at the Albee. "Seven Wonders of World" is hanging close to high figure set in 11th frame.

Estimates for This Week

Albee (RKO) (3,100; 84-$1.25)—"Pardners" (Par) (2d wk). Good $10.000 trailing $14,000 bow.

Capitol (Ohio Cinema Corp.) (1,376; $1.20-$2.65) — "Seven Wonders" (Indie) (12th wk). Hanging close to last week's $37.2000 or near-capacity pace, which set a high gross for run.

Grand (RKO) (1,400; 84-$1.50)—"High Society" (M-G) (3d wk). Still boff, $13,000, in wake of $16,000 second stanza. Opening week's $23,500 and new house record. Holds for fourth week.

Keith's (Shor) (1,500; 75-$1.25)—"Bus Stop" (20th). Socko $15,000, to pace city. Holds for at least one more week. Last week, "Away All Boats" (U) (2d wk), $8,400.

Palace (RKO) (2,600; 84-$1.25)—"Burning Hills" (WB). Moderate $8,500. Last week, "These Wilder Years" (M-G), $7,500.

'Night' Hot 18G, Hub; Duchin' 20G

Boston, Aug. 28.

Biz is holding nicely at the wickets again this frame and getting the weather nod. Exhibs looking forward to taking the tax off and announcing new price scales. "Seven Wonders of World" got its New England preem last night (Mon.). New arrivals sparse with big pix still holding. "Autumn Leaves" shapes okay at the Metropolitan while "Hold Back Night" is good at the Paramount and State. "Shadow of Fear" looks nice at the Pilgrim. "Eddy Duchin" leads the holdovers in second round at the Astor. "Bus Stop" is torrid in second frame at the Memorial. "High Society," holding for third sessions at State and Orpheum, is rated big.

Estimates for This Week

Astor (B&Q) (1,500; $1-$1.50)—"Duchin Story" (Col) (2d wk). Sock $20,000. Last week, $23,000.

Beacon Hill (Beacon Hill) (678; 90-$1.25) — "One Summer Happiness" (Times) (8th wk). Oke $4,000. Last week, ditto.

Cinerama (Cinerama Productions) (1,354; $1.20-$2.65)—"Seven Wonders of World" (Indie). After trade preem Sunday and New England preem last night, opens today (Tues.). Last week, "Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (52d wk), sock $23,000.

Exeter (Indie) (1,200; 60-$1)—"Wages of Fear" (DCA) and "Animal Farm" (DCA) (2d wk). Oke $3,500. Last week, $5,000.

Fenway (NET) (1,373; 60-$1)—"Hold Back Night" (AA) and "Trial for Jamie Dawn" (AA). Oke $5,500. Last week, "Hot Rod Girls" (Indie) and "Girls in Prison" (Indie), $7,000.

Kenmore (Indie) (700; 85-$1.25)—"Madame Butterfly" (IFE). Slick $12,000. Last week, "Gaby" (M-G) (8th wk), $3,000.

Memorial (RKO) (3,000; 75-$1.25)—"Bus Stop" (20th) and "Gunslinger" (AR) (2d wk). Wow $17,000. Last week, $21,000.

Metropolitan (NET) (4,357; 75-$1.25) — "Autumn Leaves" (Col) and "Magic Fire" (Rep). Oke $14,000. Last week, "Proud and Profane" (Par) (3d wk), $7,500.

Pilgrim (ATC) (2,100; 65-95)—"Shadow of Fear" (UA) and "Run for Sun" (UA). Nice $10,000. Last week, "Naked City" (DCA) and "Brute Force" (DCA) (reissues), $5,300.

Paramount (NET) (1,700; 60-$1)—"Hold Back Night" (AA) and "Trial for Jamie Dawn" (AA). Oke $12,500. Last week, "Hot Rod Girls" (Indie) and "Girls in Prison" (Indie), $19,000.

Orpheum (Loew) (3,000; 65-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (3d wk). Great $16,500. Last week, $23,000, above hopes.

State (Loew) (3,000; 65-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (3d wk). Neat $9,000. Last week, $12,000.

Cool Weather Hypoes Chi; 'Likes Me' Smash $40,000, 'Texan' Torrid 25G, 'Lived' 7G, 'Boats' Bright 32G, 3d

Chicago, Aug. 28.

Cooler weather has hypoed the Loop boxoffice, with a couple of strong new entries and several holdovers showing up and even topping previous week's totals.

Among the first weekers, "Somebody Up There Likes Me" is due for a huge $40,000 at United Artists. Also hefty at $25,000 in first week is "First Texan" and "Screaming Eagles" duo at the Roosevelt. Combo of "I've Lived Before" and "Edge of Hell" is fine $7,000 at the Monroe.

"Walk Proud Land" and "Raw Edge" are modest at the Grand in second week. "Certain Feeling" is holding up well in same frame at the Chicago. "Away All Boats" is in its third potent week at State-Lake.

Showing surprising strength are "Rififi" in fourth round at the Ziegfeld, "Ambassador's Daughter" at the Esquire and "Fantasia" at the Loop. Latter two are in fifth weeks.

"Duchin Story" is still packing 'em in at the Woods in eighth week. "King and I" is socko at Oriental. The greybeards are rolling along at a healthy pace—"Oklahoma" in its 35th week at the McVickers, and "Cinerama Holiday" at the Palace, in its 63d session.

Estimates for This Week

Carnegie (Telem't) (480; 95)—"Lovers and Lollipops" (Indie) (3d wk). Okay $4,500. Last week, $5,300.

Chicago (B&K) (3,900; 98-$1.25)—"Certain Feeling" (Par) (2d wk). Nice $27,000. Last week, $38,500.

Esquire (H&E Balaban) (1,400; $1.25)—"Ambassador's Daughter" (UA) (5th wk). Smash $12,000. Last week, $11,000.

Grand (Indie) (1,200; 98-$1.25)—"Walk Proud Land" (U) and "Raw Edge" (U) (2d wk). Off to $10,000. Last week, $20,000.

Loop (Telem't) (606; 90-$1.25)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue) (5th wk). Holding big at $10,500. Last week, $11,000.

McVickers (JL&S) (1,580; $1.25-$3)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (35th wk). Sock $26,000. Last week, $24,000.

Monroe (Indie) (1,000; 67-87)—"I've Lived Before" (U) and "Edge of Hell" (U). Fine $7,000. Last week, "Glory" (RKO) and "Postmark for Danger" (RKO), $4,500 in second week.

Oriental (Indie) (3,400; 98-$1.25)—"King and I" (20th) (9th wk). Still terrific at $34,000. Last week, $29,500.

Palace (Indie) (1,484; $1.25-$3.40)—"Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (63d wk). Smash $29,800. Last week, $25,000.

Roosevelt (B&K) (1,400; 65-98)—

(Continued on page 22)

'Oklahoma' Rousing 17G, L'ville; 'Profane' Loud $8,000, 'Society' 11G, 2d

Louisville, Aug. 28.

"Oklahoma" preemed at the Brown (21), after special showing Monday (20) for invited press, radio and trade guests, and talks by Gale Sullivan and D. Irving Long, Fourth Ave. Amus. Co. prez, all putting cuffo customers wise to the merits of the Todd-AO process. Great $17,000 looms on first week. "Proud and Profane" shapes big at the Kentucky. Second week of "High Society" at the State is holding up well.

Estimates for This Week

Brown (Fourth Avenue) (United Artists (1,000; $1.25-$2)—"Oklahoma" (Magna). Opened Aug. 21 after strong press approval, indicating sock $17,000 for three matinees and seven nights. Last week, house closed to prep for pic.

Kentucky (Switow) (1,000; 50-85)—"Proud and Profane" (Par). Big $8,000. Last week, "Francis in Haunted House" (U) and "Leather Saint" (Par), same.

Mary Anderson (People's) (1,000; 50-85)—"Autumn Leaves" (Col) and "He Laughed Last" (Col). Good $6,500. Last week, "Naked Hills" (AA) and "Screaming Eagles" (AA), $5,500.

Rialto (Fourth Ave) (3,000; 50-85)—"Queen of Babylon" (20th) and "Abdullah's Dream" (20th). Nice $9,000. Last week, "Away All Boats" (U) (2d wk), same.

State (United Artists) (3,000; 75-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Sock $11,000 after first week's $18,000, above hopes.

'Seed' Smash $23,000 In D. C.; 'Society' Sockeroo 27G, 2d, 'Daughter' 11G

Washington, Aug. 28.

Standout at downtown houses is "High Society" which is drawing big at the Palace. "Bad Seed" is in two spots. "Duchin Story" continues strong at Trans-Lux. "Lovers and Lollipops" at Plaza and "House of Ricordi" at Dupont are disappointing. "Storm Over Nile" at Keith's looms so-so. Capitol is pulling "Ambassador's Daughter" after second week.

Estimates for This Week

Ambassador (SW) (1,480; 90-$1.25)—"Bad Seed" (WB). Big $8,500. Last week, "7 Men From Now" (WB), $4,700.

Capitol (Loew) (3,434; 90-$1.50)—"Ambassador's Daughter" (UA) (2d-final wk). Fair $11,000 after $17,000 last week.

Columbia (Loew) (1,174; 70-95)—"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G) (2d wk). Good $8,000 after $11,000 opener. May hold.

Dupont (Lopert) (372; 90-$1.15)—"House of Ricordi" (Indie). Poor $4,000. Last week, "Proud and Beautiful" (Indie) (3d wk), $4,000.

Keith's (RKO) (1,939; 75-$1)—"Storm Over Nile" (Col). So-so $7,000. Last week, "Pardners" (RKO) (3d wk), $6,500.

Metropolitan (SW) (1,200; 90-$1.25)—"Bad Seed" (WB). Sock $14,500. Last week, "7 Men From Now" (WB), $8,000.

Palace (Loew) (2,360; 85-$1.25)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Whopping $27,000 after near-record $35,000 opening week and way over expectations. Holds again.

Plaza (T-L) (290; 80-$1.25)—"Lovers and Lollipops" (Indie). Fair $3,000. Last week, "1984" (Col) (5th wk). Okay $2,500.

Playhouse (Lopert) (456; 75-$1.15)—"Rififi" (UMPO). Neat $7,000. Last week, "Storm Center" (Indie) (2d wk-9 days), $4,000.

Warner (SW) (1,300; $1.20-$2.40)—"Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (46th wk). Solid $15,200 after $14,800 last week.

Trans-Lux (T-L) (600; 90-$1.35)—"Duchin Story" (Col) (6th wk). Nice $9,000. Last week, ditto.

'DUCHIN' DANDY 12G, PROV.; 'GREAT DAY' 6G

Providence, Aug. 28.

"Eddy Duchin Story" in second week is standout here this week at the State. Other stands are just average, with "Great Day In Morning" at RKO Albee, "Satellite In Sky" at Majestic and "Screaming Eagles" at Strand not doing much. First looms best.

Estimates for This Week

Albee (RKO) (2,200; 50-85)—"Great Day In Morning" (RKO) and "Murder On Approval" (RKO). Fairish $6,000. Last week, "Girls In Prison" (Indie) and "Hot Rod Girl" (Indie), $11,500.

Majestic (Fay) (2,200; 50-85)—"Satellite In Sky" (WB) and "7 Men From Now" (WB). Mild $5,500. Last week, "Paces to Baker St." (20th), $6,000.

State (Loew) (3,200; 65-90)—"Duchin Story" (Col) (2d wk). Big $12,000. First was $17,500.

Strand (Silverman) (2,200; 50-85)—"Screaming Eagles" (AA) and "Come On" (AA). Lean $5,000. Last week, "Proud and Profane" (Par) (2d wk), $5,000.

'Bus' Bright $16,000, St. Louis; 'Land' 12G

St. Louis, Aug. 28.

Biz is still sturdy at mainstem houses here this week with prospects looming better once Muny Opera season winds up next Sunday. "Bus Stop" and second session of "Eddy Duchin Story" are running almost neck-'n'-neck for best gross in this frame. "Walk Proud Land" is nice at the Fox. Mercury climbed to 96 degrees over the weekend.

Estimates for This Week

Ambassador (Indie) (1,400; $1.20-$2.40)—"Seven Wonders Of World" (Indie) (18th wk). Swell $20,000. Last week, $25,300.

Fox (F&M) (5,000; 51-75)—"Burning Hills" (WB) and "Satellite In Sky" (WB). Opened today (Tues.). Last week, "Walk Proud

(Continued on page 22)

'Cinerama' Hot News In Seattle at $14,000

Seattle, Aug. 28.

"This Is Cinerama," after a big preem, is standout news here this round, with a sock session in prospect at the revamped Paramount. Though seating capacity was cut, the $1.75-$2.65 scale is spelling a big take initial week. "Rebel in Town" looms good at Coliseum but elsewhere, the only strong pix are those on holdover. Best of these is "High Society," terrific in second stanza at Music Hall.

Estimates for This Week

Blue Mouse (Hamrick) (800; 90-$1.25) — "The Witch" (Indie). Good $4,000. Last week, "Away All Boats" (U) and "Star in Dust" (U) (3d wk), $3,600 at $1 top.

Coliseum (Evergreen) (1,870; 90-$1.25)—"Rebel in Town" (UA) and "Emergency Hospital" (UA). Good $1,500. Last week, "Proud and Profane" (Par) and "Kiss Before Dying" (UA), $8,400.

Fifth Avenue (Evergreen) 2,500; $1-$1.25)—"Duchin Story" (Col) and "Laughed Last" (Col). (2d wk). Big $8,000. Last week, $12,300.

Music Box (Hamrick) (850; 90-$1.25) — "Moby Dick" (WB) (6th wk). Nice $3,500. Last week, $4,300.

Music Hall (Hamrick) (2,200; 90-$1.25)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Terrific $12,000. Last week, $15,200.

Orpheum (Hamrick) (2,700; 75-$1)—"Walk Proud Land" (U) and "Outside Law" (U). Slow $6,000. Last week, "Satellite in Sky" (WB) and "7 Men From Now" (WB), $6,000.

Paramount (S-W) (1,382; $1.75-$2.65) "This is Cinerama" (Indie). Sock $14,000. Last week, dark.

'Society' Record $31,000, Philly

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.

Biz appears to be marking time here currently awaiting the arrival of new product for the Labor Day week. However, "High Society" is soaring to a new house record at the Arcadia where a terrific week will topple the old mark of "I'll Cry Tomorrow." "Wilder Years" looms very dull at Mastbaum. "King and I" is tidy in seventh frame while "Somebody Up There Likes Me" is trim in first holdover session at Stanley, "Run For Sun" is sagging in second week at Viking.

Estimates for This Week

Arcadia (S&S) (526; 99-$1.80)—"High Society" (M-G). Terrific $31,000. Last week, "Bhowani Junction" (M-G) (7th wk), $4,500.

Boyd (SW) (1,430; $1.25-$2.60)—"7 Wonders of World" (Indie) (18th wk). Okay $16,000. Last week, $17,000.

Fox (20th) (2,250; 75-$1.45)—"King and I" (7th wk). Tidy $18,000. Last week, same.

Goldman (Goldman) (1,250; 65-$1.35)—"Pardners" (Par) (2d wk). Fair $9,500. Last week, $16,000.

Green Hill (Serena) (750; 75-$1.25) (closed Sundays)—"Kid for 2 Farthings" (Indie) (4th wk). Good $3,200. Last week, $4,500.

Mastbaum (SW) (4,370; 90-$1.49)—"Wilder Years" (M-G). Thin $11,000. Last week, "Walk Proud Land" (U), $9,000.

Randolph (Goldman) (2,250; 99-$1.49)—"Duchin Story" (Col) (9th wk). Good $8,000. Last week, $10,000.

Stanley (SW) (2,990; 99-$1.49)—"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G) (2d wk). Trim $16,000. Last week, $21,000.

Stanton (SW) (1,483; 99-$1.49)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) (8th wk). Nice $6,800. Last week, $7,000.

Trans-Lux (T-L) (500; 99-$1.80)—"Trapeze" (UA) (9th wk). Firm $8,500. Last week, $8,800.

Viking (Sley) (1,000; 75-$1.49)—"Run for Sun" (UA) (2d wk). Dim $7,000. Last week, $12,000.

World (Pathe) (499; 99-$1.49)—"Proud and Beautiful" (Indie). So-so $4,500. Last week, "Madam Butterfly" (IFE) (6th wk), $3,500.

Estimates Are Net

Film gross estimates as reported herewith from the various key cities, are net; i.e., without usual tax. Distributors share on net take, when playing percentage, hence the estimated figures are net income.

The parenthetic admission prices, however, as indicated, include the U. S. amusement tax.

B'way; 'Peace' It's Wonderful 115G, 'Society' Ritzy 190G, 3d, 'Hills' 18G, 'Johnny' Sans Frankie 29G, 'Sun' 22G

Cool weather most of this session is being reflected at the Broadway firstrun boxoffice currently despite the dearth of newcomers. Many spots will bring in new pix to cash in on Labor Day weekend next stanza. Warmer weather yesterday (Tues.) and Monday slowed up proceedings only slightly.

Ace newcomer, of course, is "War and Peace," which is soaring to a wow $115,000 or near opening session at the Capitol. Management admitted having trouble with turnover, and comparisons were made with "Gone With Wind" because of the three and a half hours running time on "Peace." "Wind" did $70,000 (rated not capacity) opening week at the Cap with $1.65 top and $23,000 at Astor, where reserved seat and $2.20 top, and where day-dated opening week.

"Run For Sun" with vaudeville, also new, looks like lively $22,000 at the Palace. "Burning Hills" shapes fine $18,000 opening stanza at the Victoria.

"High Society" with stageshow is holding with an amazing $190,000 in third session at the Music Hall or only $8,500 below initial week's take. This would give "Society" $583,000 for the first three stanzas, far ahead anything ever to play in first three weeks at the Hall. Such money in the till so far makes $1,000,000 gross at this huge house almost a certainty even it runs only three more rounds, and seven or eight are indicated.

"Away All Boats" is heading for a socko $23,000 in second stanza at the State. "Johnny Concho," playing without a stageshow, is down to $29,000 in first holdover week at the Paramount, with "Ambassador's Daughter" coming in today (Wed.).

"King and I" with stageshow, which looks to hold at good $60,000 in final (9th) stanza at the Roxy, topped the $1,000,000 gross mark there early this week. "Moby Dick" finished its eighth round at the Criterion with a fancy $18,000 and same week at the Sutton with a big $9,000. "Autumn Leaves" looks bright $20,000 in fourth round at the Astor.

"Pardners" was down to a fair $9,500 in fifth week at the Mayfair, with "Lisbon" replacing yesterday (Tues.). "Fastest Gun Alive" is headed for a good $7,500 in current (7th) session at the Globe.

"Seven Wonders of World" climbed to a terrific $52,900 in 19th week at the Warner. It is now in its 20th stanza. "Oklahoma" is holding with around $20,000 in 46th week at the Rivoli.

Estimates for This Week

Astor (City Inv.) (1,300; 75-$2)—"Autumn Leaves" (Col) (5th wk). Fourth week concluded last night (Tues.) was bright $20,000. Third was $26,000, over hopes.

Baronet (Reade) (430; $1.25-$1.80)—"Secrets of Reef" (Indie) (6th wk). Fifth stanza ended Monday (27) was big $7,200. Fourth week was $7,800.

Capitol (Loew) (4,820; $1-$2.50)—"War and Peace" (Par) (2d wk). Initial session ended last night (Tues.) soared to mighty $115,000 or close. Pic opened with elaborate preem the night of Aug. 21. In ahead, "Trapeze" (UA) (11th wk), $12,500 but fine for this period of run. Turnover hurting actual gross total of "Peace," with only four shows daily excepting Friday-Saturday when five per day.

Criterion (Moss) (1,700; 75-$2.30)—"Moby Dick" (WB) (9th wk). Eighth round, finished last night (Tues.), was fancy $18,000. Seventh was $23,000.

Fine Arts (Davis) (468; 90-$1.80)—"Rififi" (UMPO) (13th wk). The 12th frame ended last night (Tues.) was great $11,000. The 11th was $10,700.

Globe (Brandt) (1,500; 70-$1.50)—"Fastest Gun Alive" (M-G) (7th wk). Present round ending today. (Wed.) is heading for good $7,500. Sixth week was $9,500. "Satelite in Sky" (WB) due in next but not until sometime in September.

Guild (Guild) (450; $1-$1.75)—"Private's Progress" (DCA) (6th wk). Fifth week ended Monday (27) was great $14,500. The fourth was $15,500.

Mayfair (Brandt) (1,736; 79-$1.80)—"Lisbon" (Rep). Opened yesterday (Tues.). In ahead, "Pardners" (Par) (5th wk), fair $9,500 after $12,000, below hopes, for fourth.

Palace (RKO) (1,700; 50-$1.60)—"Run For Sun" (UA) with vaudeville. Week ending tomorrow (Thurs.) looks to hit lively $22,000. Last week, "Wilder Years" (M-G) and vaude, $23,500.

Normandie (Trans-L) (592; 95-$1.80)—"Petrified Forest" (Indie). Opened yesterday (Tues.). Last week, "Story of Pasteur" (Indie) (reissue) (2d wk), dipped to mild $3,000 after $6,500 opening week.

Paramount (ABC - Paramount) (3,664; $1-$2) — "Ambassador's Daughter" (UA). Opens today (Wed.). In ahead, "Johnny Concho" (UA) (2d wk), dipped to mild $29,000 in initial holdover session, sans stageshow. First week was $147,000 with Frank Sinatra, star of pic, heading stageshow.

Paris (Pathe Cinema) (568; 90-$1.80)—"Papa, Mama, Maid and I" (Indie). Opened Monday (27). In ahead, "The Doctors" (King) (3d wk), mild $3,500. Second was $6,500.

Radio City Music Hall (Rockefellers) (6,200; 95-$2.85)—"High Society" (M-G) with stageshow (3d wk). Current stanza winding up today (Wed.) looks like mighty $190,000. Second was $195,000, biggest second week in history of Hall. Stays indef.

Rivoli (UAT) (1,545; $1.25-$3)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (46th wk). This frame ending today (Wed.) is heading for good $20,000. The 45th was $21,500.

Plaza (Brocher) (525; $1.25-$1.80)—"Tom and Jerry Film Festival" (M-G). Opened yesterday (Tues.). Last week, "Fruits of Summer" (Ellis) (6th wk), oke $4,000 after $6,000 for fifth.

Roxy (Nat'l. Th.) (5,717; 65-$2.40)—"King and I" (20th) and stageshow (9th-final wk). Current round finishing tomorrow (Thurs.) looks like good $60,000, okay for final week. Eighth was $74,000. "Bus Stop" (20th) and stagebill opens Friday (31).

State (Loew's) (3,450; 78-$1.75)—"Away All Boats" (U) (2d wk). This stanza winding up today (Wed.) looks to reach socko $23,000 or near. First week was $36,000, best here this year on opening week. Stays third, and likely longer.

Sutton (R&B) (561; $1-$2)—"Moby Dick" (WB) (9th wk). Eighth session ended yesterday (Tues.) was fancy $9,000. The seventh was $9,500.

Trans-Lux 52d St. (T-L) (540; $1-

(Continued on page 22)

'Pardners' Smooth 18G, Det.; 'Hills' Lush 16G, 'Wonders' Huge 41G, 3d

Detroit, Aug. 28.

By adding three matinees and a late Saturday night show, Music Hall has boosted the number of its weekly performances from 14 to 18 and is cashing in heavily with whooping totals for "Seven Wonders of World," heading for a record this (3d) week. Elsewhere downtown biz looks lively. "Pardners" shapes good at the Michigan. "Bigger Than Life" is only slim at the Fox. "Burning Hills" looks hot at the Palms. "High Society" stays smash at the Adams in second week. "Eddy Duchin Story" is big in third Madison round.

Estimates for This Week

Fox (Fox-Detroit) (5,000; $1-$1.25)—"Bigger Than Life" (20th) and "Massacre" (20th). Slim $17,000. Last week, "King and I" (20th) (7th wk), $16,000.

Michigan (United Detroit) (4,000; $1-$1.25)—"Pardners" (Par) and "Francis in Haunted House" (U). Good $18,000. Last week, "Moby Dick" (WB), $14,000 in 4th week.

Palms (UD) (2,961; $1-$1.25)—"Burning Hills" (WB) and "Rebellion of Hanged" (AA). Oke $16,000. Last week, "Away All Boats" (U) and "Star in Dust" (U) (2d wk), $10,000.

Madison (UD) (1,900; $1-$1.25)—"Eddy Duchin Story" (Col) (3d wk). Big $15,000. Last week, $20,000.

Broadway-Capitol (UD) (3,500; $1-$1.25)—"Black Sleep" (UA) and "Creeping Unknown" (UA) (2d wk). Fine $14,000. Last week, $17,500.

United Artists (UA) (1,667; $1.25-$2.75)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (28th wk). Steady $13,000. Last week, $12,794.

Adams (Balaban) (1,700; $1-$1.25) "High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Great $23,000. Last week, $30,000.

Music Hall (Cinerama Productions) (1,208; $1.40-$2.65)—"Seven Wonders" (Indie) (3d wk). Terrific $41,000. Last week, $40,500.

Krim (Krim) (1,000; $1.25)—"Affair" (M-G) (4th wk-4 days). Hep $3,500. Reverts to art policy next.

THE NEW YORK DAILY NEWS says:

"Not since 'Gone With The Wind' opened in 1939 has a picture created so much interest and held an audience so spellbound."

AUDREY HEPBURN
HENRY FONDA
MEL FERRER

PARAMOUNT PRESENTS
LEO TOLSTOY'S
War and Peace
A PONTI-DeLAURENTIIS

VITTORIO GASSMAN · HERBERT LOM · OSCAR HOMOLKA · ANITA EKBERG
HELMUT DANTINE · BARRY JONES · ANNA MARIA FERRERO · MARY VITALE · JEREMY BRETT AND JOHN MILLS
PRODUCED BY DINO DeLAURENTIIS
DIRECTED BY KING VIDOR
BASED ON THE NOVEL WAR AND PEACE BY LEO TOLSTOY

"Takes its place in motion picture history with 'The Birth of A Nation' and 'Gone With the Wind'." —Redbook

"A spectacular movie. Epic grandeur." —Life

"The successor to 'Gone With The Wind' ... has fired a tremendous blast at the threat of television." —N. Y. Mirror

"Impressive and exciting beyond words." —N. Y. Times

"A truly great picture. More than a movie, more than entertainment. It is an experience in living!" —L. A. Examiner

"Audrey Hepburn as Natasha is rare acting — certainly the best feminine performance of the year." —N. Y. Herald Tribune

"A notable motion picture which can take its place in the film hall of fame. Many of the scenes have a rare and exquisite beauty such as is seldom seen in a motion picture." —L. A. Mirror-News

"Formidable contender in the handful of the greatest motion pictures yet produced." —Motion Picture Herald

"Sure to chalk up dazzling grosses. It has something to please everybody — highbrow, lowbrow and middlebrow." —Film Daily

"A real blockbuster. Three and a half hours of cinematic magic ... big in the biggest sense." —Variety

ONLY TWO OPENINGS TO DATE—YET SPACE LIMITATIONS PREVENT OUR PRINTING THE DOZENS OF EQUALLY GREAT BOXOFFICE REVIEWS FROM BOTH COASTS, IN NATIONAL MAGAZINES AND IN THE TRADE PRESS. PARAMOUNT IS PLEASED TO HAVE MADE THIS IMPORTANT CONTRIBUTION TO THE 1956-1957 MOTION PICTURE SEASON!

Blowing Whistle on Lax Showmen

Urges a Survey on Why They're Not Going to Pix

Jackson Heights, N. Y.

Editor, VARIETY:

It is an almost hopeless task to raise a voice in protest against the inefficiency of present day movie theatre management. There are some theatres that have good management but they are so very few in number.

I hope that Paul Caster's letter will start a trend that will cause many unhappy moviegoers to register their complaints. A complaint to a theatre usher or to the manager almost always is brushed off. Here are just a few faults that little or nothing is done to correct.

1. Lack of ushers. Those on hand are usually too young and untrained to be of much use. They can generally be found at the rear of the theatre talking among themselves to add to the general discomfort of patrons.

2. The loud talking movie patron and noisy teenagers are allowed to disturb other patrons without interference. It is a rare occasion where I can go to a movie without changing seats several times, to escape noisy youngsters with feet draped all over the place or people who are inconsiderate enough to carry on a continuous conversation during the picture. The conversation is most always loud enough to disturb everyone in their immediate vicinity. I have never seen anyone connected with management of a movie house try to quiet down a noisy audience.

3. The complacency of movie management. Unless movie management does something soon, they might just as well turn their theatres over to the juvenile delinquents and loudmouths. They have lost most of the family trade and never will get it back until they improve conditions. People go to the theatre for relaxation and entertainment not for aggravation. An effort is required to meet present day competition for leisure time. It is up to theatre management to provide decent facilities for the comfort of their patrons. This includes a relaxing atmosphere where people can be sure of viewing a picture without annoyance.

4. Lack of improvements. Theatres have done little but complain about lack of business to meet tv competition. The wide-screen was forced on them by 20th Century-Fox. Certainly these managers who have been holding out against new techniques are not very progressive. It would be a good idea to partition off the rear of all theatres with doors leading to the aisles. The Loew chain's Capitol and State Theatres are equipped in this manner whereas the Lexington is not. There is a vast difference in sound reception as a result. Many of the older theatres have uncomfortable seats. How many years will it be before action is taken?

5. Lack of surveys. It is foolish to survey the people now going to movies. The movie industry should survey people who have stopped going to the movies in order to develop the reasons why.

I have listed only a few complaints. There are many others about which little is done. From what I have observed of present-day movie management, I would say that it would be difficult to find another branch of the U. S. economy in which the management group knew so little about their own industry's requirements. It seems that the customer is always wrong in this business.

Name Withheld by Request.

Jersey Projectionist Airs Some of Own Views

Strand, Theatre,
Wildwood, N. J.

Editor, VARIETY:

The collective observations regarding poor theatre projective and sloppy management are, to a degree, unfortunately correct. Existing however, are many unsung heroes of the wide-screen, both on the floor and in the projection room. Involved are unique individuals, mostly concealed (among the lax) in more obscure "off-Broadway" situations. They have not submitted to the absurdly complicated voicing rejecting logical exhibition of Hollywood's finest.

These remote creatures are essentially "aware" and completely conscious of Hollywood and the myriad recriminations. They know, naturally, what constitutes theatrical blunders and personally exhibit enough talent to circumvent the sloppiness which evidently persists generally.

An "unaware" projectionist knows, for instance, that with two possible exceptions ("Carousel" and "King and I," both CinemaScope 55 productions) regular CinemaScope is practically impossible to focus properly. This is not a disease of the projection room. He knows also of the distracting blemishing flickers indigenous to VistaVision.

An "aware" projectionist and his "aware" manager share incredulity over a trailer which is constantly fuzzy and runs at four different volume levels in its brief three and a half minute duration. ("Eddy Duchin Story" trailer, for example). Each bemoan off-centre printing on many CinemaScope features—but agree that criticism for laxity is just, especially when film exchanges "just don't have" enough stereophonic prints available, after newspaper ads have been submitted promoting the glories of same.

The "aware" ones know, too, that many senior projectionists—"old showmen who never completely fade out"—who cannot see properly, nor hear anything beyond a radius of six feet, who will not retire under any circumstances, cannot be put to pasture in favor of the younger, more "aware." This would be too logical.

Unquestionably, the "aware" element in the theatres overcome and/or tolerate a raft of inadequacies which originate beyond their immediate confines. What is mandatory now are "aware" fans and critics alike, possessed of a mature concept and judgment. Those who denounce en masse the present incompetent betray that they really don't know all the facts.

Jay Shelling,
(Projectionist, Hunts Theatres).

More On the 'Scopes

Washington.

Editor, VARIETY:

I have read, with much interest, the letters regarding poor movie theatre projection and would like to get my 2c worth off my chest.

I first must agree 100% sloppy projectionists killed off 3-D and are ruining CinemaScope. I noticed more than once that the downtown Warner house had the 3-D film out of synchronization—and that is what of synchronization—and that is what kills one's eyes, not the glasses. But on to the main problem: CinemaScope and projection. When I go to a theatre, I like to sit close to the screen (not in the first row, though), in about the fifth row, so that the CinemaScope picture can "surround" me as it is intended to do. For this reason, I prefer the Washington, D. C., downtown first-run houses with their huge screens.

Of these downtown theatres, I have found complaint with only one. The rest show the films on at least a 2.35:1 ratio, which is good enough for me, and have good flat screens. The one theatre is Loew's Columbia. The last film I saw there was Metro's "Tribute to a Bad Man," which was coupled with "Wedding in Monaco." The entire two hours the picture was completely out of focus! And there was no sound on the last 15 minutes of the "Monaco" short! I informed the (pardon the expression) manager of both, since he was returning from lunch as I was leaving. He was not astonished that the sound was off for 15 minutes, and attributed the poor focus to the Eastman Color! How ridiculous! I was angry! I wrote to Jack Foxe, local Loew head, but have had no reply! I never intend to attend the Columbia again, as this was not the first time that the picture had been out of focus at that house.

Other than this, the Washington first-run houses are very well run and have good ratio screens. Even the neighborhoods in Silver Spring have very good screens, at least three of which are one-piece screens. Roth's and the Silver, my regulars, have screens that are masked for the different size pictures, so that for CinemaScope, the top and bottom are moved up; and for regular pictures, the top and bottom are moved back down and the sides are moved in. The projection at both theatres is exceptionally good, though the Silver will occasionally be out of focus for a couple of minutes at a time. And both use Stereophonic prints whenever they can get them.

Others in this area, the Viers Mill and Allen, have partitioned screens whose lines detract from the viewing. The Allen has a screen at least as large as the largest downtown theatre, Loew's Capitol, and manages a fair focus. So you see, I am fortunate in living in an area that does have very good screens and projectionists, with a few exceptions.

But I am in agreement with others who say that projection and CinemaScope are being abused at some theatres. I have passed up several Cinema- and SuperScope features because they were shown at theatres which I knew did not have proper 'Scopic facilities, my most vivid example being when the nabe Flower showed RKO's SuperScope "Pearl of the South Pacific" on a regular flat screen, ratio about 1:40:1!! I haven't been there since, though I've heard that they've improved the ratio.

When I go to see a 'Scope film, I expect to see it shown at least at 2.35:1, since in the majority of instances, the only reason I want to see the film is because of the beauty of color and the super-wide screen. Oh, of course I'm interested in the story and acting, but in the case of some pictures, the wide-screen and color are the only things that save me from walking out in the middle.

Back on the 3-D side for a moment, besides the poor projectioning, I have a few ideas on some other things that killed the wonderful process. (1) Too many films were brought out at once. (2) The stories, with a few exceptions, were not top calibre. In the first case, everybody jumped on the bandwagon to cash in on the new craze, and eventually, everybody lost out. Why? Because the product was not of high enough quality to be of demand at the boxoffice.

And I don't think black-and-white 3-D helped any, either. 20th-Fox's "Inferno" was the best 3-D film, storywise, in my book, even before I realized that all of 20th's product was top-calibre (with a few exceptions, of course). And if Alfred Hitchcock had released "Dial M for Murder" in 3-D (I understand that he went to great expense to create some effects that would register well on the two-eye screen) it would have been the best story and maybe renewed interest in the process. Ditto George Pal's "Naked Jungle." That was an excellent film which showed the 3-D tricks even on the flat projection. The big surprise, of course, was U-I's "Revenge of the Creature" being shown in 3-D over a year after the last 3-D film (U-I's "Creature" from the Black Lagoon") of the craze had been exhibited to a limited extent in 3-D. I was most happy to see the film and hoped that there would be more than U-I on a limited basis. I believe that if there were two or three 3-D films produced and shown yearly, that there would be a waiting market for them, which wouldn't die of over-supply. And I'm waiting for some company to experiment with 3-D-CinemaScope and put out one or two good films a year in such a process. But they probably never will. Oh well, I can dream . . .

I think that pretty well presents my case. I'm for wider screens, for CinemaScope-touting theatres, and for better projection all over. I like movies and hope that they continue to improve each day. But, no matter how much the movies are improved, unless the exhibitors and projectionists get on the ball, there will be no noticeable improvement on the screens. Movies are better than ever and teevee can never replace them!

Fred von Bernewitz,
(12006 Remington Drive.)

Family, Detroit, Is Different

Detroit.

Editor, VARIETY:

Excellent are the letters in regard to inefficient cinema operations! I could show you most of our neighborhood houses and a few downtown houses that "just don't give a damn" anymore and when they finally close, they shout, "Television should die!"

Faulty projection, sloppy presentations, cut-off screens, no curtains, no footlights (in the downtown houses), no boxed-ins when CinemaScope isn't presented. So many little things matter!

One exception is the Family Theatre on Cadillac Square which is 76 years old! 76! And a jewel that presents third-run programs in an atmosphere of beauty and luxury. The manager there said that the board of health has closed most of the 90 houses here that are shuttered—not tv. Our houses are getting more like the Skid-Row slums than ever before. Even the first-run houses are "graduating" to such a status, whereas the Family manager contends, "A little elbow grease keeps the patrons coming!" Orchids to the few stalwarts who continue! Please continue exposing this. You'll be really doing your job! Put blame where it belongs, not to!

Kenneth Campbell,
1411 Spencer Avenue, Detroit 20

More on Projection

Hollis, L. I.

Editor, VARIETY:

This is a letter that I've been wanting to write for a long time, but today put on paper for the first time.

Recently, I saw "The King and I" at the Roxy. The CinemaScope '55 was continually out of focus and only audience "hooting" cleared it up. The "short" intermission ran for 20 minutes for no apparent reason, at the late feature, and the dear projectionists could be heard arguing throughout the orchestra. Of course, this was opening night, so why should anyone give a damn? I saw "Moby Dick" at the Criterion (for two bucks) and could hardly hear Orson Welles' sermon through the bad sound. This was in the print, as I again suffered at the next show.

Harry Brandt proudly proclaims his 42d St. houses as having nice clientele. Did he ever try to listen to a picture at his Apollo through the racket of the blowers?

Of course, these things go on and on. The point of it? As a hopeful exhibitor, I find myself agreeing with distribution — theatres are badly run. Mr. Skouras had the right idea when he introduced CinemaScope. The degradation this process has gone through can be blamed upon the theatre owners.

Now where's the solution? I find none. The Roxy continues its poor performance, the Rialto shows CinemaScope at a ratio of 1:9 to 1, and theatres get worse. Where are the young men who will operate these houses and circuits? They are fleeing to industries that pay living wages:

Have any of your reporters tried to get a job recently? With five years of theatre experience and a B.A. degree, Skouras Theatres couldn't see fit to start me at $60 a week and Brandt Theatres doesn't even grant interviews. Yes, it's quite a business. I only wish I were an independent competing with a circuit—would I have fun!

Bernard E. Goldberg,
(Island Theatre, Hollis 12, L. I.)

Indie Agents Now Trio

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Convinced that independent agency operation is inefficient in today's talent market, Milton Grossman, Sid Levee and Milton Garfield, who previously operated their own indie agencies, have joined together and formed one firm to be known as Grossman, Levee & Garfield.

According to the trio, move was made because of the great demand for talent

P.R. Footnote on 'Survival'

Some industry leaders view with alarm the sudden lack of interest in an organized public relations program for the fall, when—hold the more pessimistically inclined—the film biz will be put to a severe test.

At the moment, with business good, thanks to the drive-ins and the lack of quality television, the atmosphere of great concern that prevailed during the May slump has been dispelled. So far, the p.r. program worked out at that time has yet to be submitted to the company presidents.

"This is a hand-to-mouth business," commented one exec last week. "We live high when things are good, and we refuse to prepare for the lean days." Those "lean days" are assuredly going to come, he opined.

Prospects for the fall are viewed two ways. With misgivings by one group, which has its eye on the return of tv, and with considerable optimism by the other, which holds that the product lineup looks good, with a lot of the big pix due to reach the neighborhoods at that crucial time.

Exhibs looking to the fall months seem to expect some difficult days ahead. Some wax bitterly over the profusion of major company releases due to appear on tv. Others stress that an adjustment of rental terms will be necessary to assure survival should the "dog" days return and attendance once again drop.

H'wood-TV Bike

Continued from page 3

hibitors are trying to promote loans of up to $25,000 with the Small Business Administration. They admit they need capital to modernize and if this can't be achieved they'll be forced into darkening.

The big pictures make big money. That's for sure. But by the time they reach the sub-subsequent exhibs, who are feeling the monetary pinch, these kingsized productions have lost much of their b.o. stamina.

Stressing the convenience angles, the drive-ins are accounting for more and more picture revenue. It stands to reason that some of coin going to the ramp operators otherwise might have been collected by the hard-pressed hardtop-owners.

Exhibitors for the most part brand as specious the distributors' theory that backlog films on tv aren't hurting any more than programs which the telecasters could whip up. Theatremen insist that by providing tv with films the public is given for free the same type of material that the exhibs are trying to sell.

The producer-distributors, while romancing tv, are certainly not writing off theatrical exhibition; any suggestion of this would be an absurdity. So far this year six productions are headed for domestic rentals of substantially over $5,000,000 each. "King and I" could reach $10,000,000, which is half of the proceeds accruing to M-G from its leasing 725 back-number films to tv.

But of major importance is the fact that mostly all of the important coin collected theatrically comes from about 8,000 cinema outlets. Servicing of the bottom-of-the-barrel accounts in many cases means more distribution expense than the theatres yield.

This is behind the widely-felt need for streamlining distribution and the action already taken along these lines. Paramount closed its branches in Oklahoma City and New Haven. Allied Artists moved out of Portland, Ore. All companies are closely studying all exchange operations to determine which branch can be eliminated.

Talk of mergers has been going on, at the top levels, for some time. Such get-togethers, as they're now expected, will be limited to the domestic distribution facilities—that is, with two companies using the same field offices.

Out of all this, film trend-spotters feel, will come, on one hand, pix and tv acting as one and, theatrically, an industry reduced in physical scale but functioning on a stronger economical basis.

Gene Austin

Continued from page 1

track but the actor who will portray him has not been set.

Victor deal was inked in N. Y. by Steve Sholes, label's county & western exec and longtime friend of Austin.

Biopic title is taken from the Austin-composed tune which was also one of his great hit disks. He began recording in 1922, with "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," and in his seven-year career his hits included "My Blue Heaven," which sold 7,000,000 copies, "Ramona," "Sleepy Time Gal," "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby," and "Melancholy Baby."

Aussie Legit Biz So Big Exhibs Take Notice; Ponder High Prices

Sydney, Aug. 21.

The legiter field here is reported cutting into picture boxoffice take coast-to-coast in such a fashion as to leave the film moguls open-mouthed at the dough sweeping into the legit coffers. Such a reversal of public form is proving a greater wonder than the magic of tele to those of the various cinema camps.

All the more to be wondered at is the cold fact that the public is paying triple admissions to see flesh-blood shows stamped with the Broadway and West End hallmark possibly a diet-change from the lower-priced film houses.

Even in those plus last World War days this VARIETY reporter has never seen the legit stage more opulent. And it looks like staying tops for the next six months at least. Legit operators such as J. C. Williamson Ltd., Garnet Carroll and David N. Martin (apart from the latter's vaude-revue activities) are doing remarkable biz with such current shows as "Reluctant Debutante," "Can Can," Gilbert-Sullivan, "Sailor Beware," "Kismet," "Summer of 17th Doll," and "Witness for Prosecution."

The sudden drop in film trading can hardly be shrugged off with the alibis of mild product, the tight economic situation, high taxation, monetary control and growing unemployment. The cold hard fact appears to be that the average Aussie patron has been oversold on the cinema and is currently seeking his entertainment in the live theatre.

Apart from Columbia's "Picnic" and Metro's "Guys and Dolls," there is little trade coming presently for such pix as "Mister Roberts" (WB), "Man Who Never Was" (20th), "Out of the Clouds" (Rank), "Helen of Troy" (WB), "Touch and Go" (Rank), "Up to His Neck" (Rank), "Carousel" (20th), "Texas Lady" (RKO), "Carmen Jones" (20th) and "Wedding Breakfast" (M-G).

See Disgruntled Indie Exhib Complaints Back Of Arg. Admish Cuts

Buenos Aires, Aug. 21.

The 30% cut in admission prices, ordered by Commerce Minister Rodolfo Martinez effective last week, is now revealed to have been worked out as a result of mis-information regarding alleged profits on widescreen pix. And this faulty info apparently stems from a small disgruntled group of indie nabe exhibitors who many times in the past have ranted about alleged exhib monopolies.

Frankly, public opinion here was taken by surprise at so much importance being attached to the price of cinema admissions and its effect on family budgets. Those who never have complained about higher prices for firstrun entertainment at bigger houses apparently are rich enough to be willing to pay considerably more rather than less at the wickets. And the poorer classes who only attend nabe houses (where higher prices were not in force) now are asking "why don't they cut the prices of other articles more essential to us than film entertainment?"

The commerce minister, who is now regarded as having almost an unfriendly opinion about exhibs as a body, issued a warning that shuttering of cinemas, as threatened, would be tantamount to rebellion. Exhibs explained that they might be unable to continue showing widescreen subjects (C-Scope and VistaVision pix) at the new low admittance scale because U.S. distributors could not supply such fare excepting at the higher admission scale prevailing when deals were made.

The distrib position continues to be that they can't release the anamorphic subject at the low prices because their producers have leased them the pix and invested coin in prints on the high price basis. Distribs here, too, can't understand why Minister Martinez took action on admission prices without ever having admitted them to an interview.

CCC-Berlin's 10th Anni

Berlin, Aug. 21.

Berlin's Central Cinema Co. (CCC), one of West Germany's most active film producing outfits, is set to celebrate its 10th anni. Company's name is closely connected here with its founder and owner, Artur Brauner, who is one of the strongest forces in the German film industry.

Brauner, now 37, came to Berlin shortly after the war and in 1946 financed the first Berlin-made post-war film, "Tell the Truth," a comedy produced by Studio 45. In fall, 1946, he set up his CCC and went right ahead with his initial film, "Morituri," which dedicated itself to the victims of the Nazi regime His next films were "King of Hearts" and "Girls Behind Bars."

U.S. Exhibs in Velvet Compared With Problems Of Exhibition in Spain

Frankfurt, Aug. 21.

If any American theatre exhibitor thinks he has problems, he ought to hear about the conditions of the industry in Spain.

Eric Pleskow, general manager of United Artists in Germany, just returned from Spain—and he found out plenty.

Electric power in Spain is so haphazard that each exhibitor buys his own private electric generator, so that when the power supply cuts off, he can attach his own machine and go on with the screening. But, besides paying for his own generator, its purchase and operation whenever he uses it, he must pay the electric company 25% of what he would have used, had it been able to supply the current.

One particularly active small theatre town in southern Spain has three cinemas, each doing big business over every weekend since the populace rotates with Saturday eve at one house, Sunday matinee at the next and Sunday night at the third.

To prevent any other theatre owner from entering the business, the three cinema owners have bought the town's electric company. This assures any newcomer would have to have his own generator whenever it chose to cut the supply, and that he'd have to pay them 25% of the elecric costs in addition.

Govt. to Subsidize Next Year's Legit in Portugal

Lisbon, Aug. 21.

New Director for Information, Eduardo Brasao, has announced that the Portuguese government will subsidize legit repertory companies with about $200,000 next season. The money will go to impresario Giuseppe Basto who will present operettas at the Sa Bandeira Theatre in Oporto and producers Jose Gamboa, at the Avenida Theatre and Samuel Dinis at the Trindade Theatre, both Lisbon.

Companies will rotate between these three and some provincial theatres. Special subsidies are likely for an experimental theatre in Lisbon, for new authors and artists and to a couple of provincial companies.

ACTT Wins Point In Brit. Techni Layoffs

London, Aug. 28.

Though British Technicolor is to axe a proportion of its employees as an economy measure, the Assn. of Cine and Television Technicians, trade union representing lab workers, has stipulated that the company's economics should not be solved at the expense of union members.

The association has received "satisfactory assurances" from Technicolor that no last-minute transfers will be made between departments to vary the redundancy list, only emergency overtime will be worked while the situation exists and ACTT members will not work with any non-unionist who joins the firm. Redundant workers who are later reinstated will not lose their rights.

Wolff on 1st Bus Ride

London, Aug. 28.

After more than 13 years in London as managing director of RKO Radio, Robert S. Wolff last week took his first journey on an English bus.

After travelling by special train from London to the east coast to attend the first day's filming of "The Yangtse Incident," a party of British newsmen were taken by double decker bus from the railway station to the harbor. Wolff, who accompanied the party, revealed that he had not previously traveled on a bus in this country, and asked where was the best place in which to sit.

Eady Income Far From Expectancy

London, Aug. 28.

Income of the Eady Fund for its sixth year ended last July 28 was approximately $1,150,000 below expectations. Total payments into the pool amounted to $7,250,000, against the $8,400,000 calculated by the British Film Producers Assn. when the new scale of payment was agreed.

The Eady Fund, which was designed to bridge the gap between producers' expenditure and revenue, will continue on its present voluntary basis for another year. It will be replaced in the fall of 1957 by a statutory scheme, legislation for which will be introduced during the coming Parliamentary session.

It's known that the government intends to operate the scheme on the same basis as hitherto, namely, there will be a payment into the pool for each paid admission. The amount to be netted via the statutory scheme is still under consideration, however, although producers naturally will agitate for the contribution rate to be raised.

In its returns for the last financial year the British Film Production Fund, the company which operates the Eady scheme, reports a substantial decline, also in gross rentals earned by British pix. They fell from $20,925,700 in 1955 to $19,667,900 this year. Distribution of the Eady coin to British pix has fluctuated between 32% and 33% of their distribution gross.

BRITISH TOURIST BIZ STILL NEAR NEW HIGHS

London, Aug. 21.

Britain's tourist traffic continues to reach record-breaking highs. In June, 135,000 overseas visitors arrived in this country for an increase of 10% over the same month in 1955. Latest figures released by the British Travel and Holidays Assn. show that the number of U.S. visitors increased by 13% from 37,000 in June last year to nearly 42,000. Half of these came by plane.

In the first six months of this year, 454,000 visitors came to Britain, a 10% increase over the corresponding period last year. Of these, 109,000 against the 1955 total of 97,000, were American.

To Fight Odd Ban Vs. 'Rififi' in Mex

Mexico City, Aug. 21.

France is not taking the recent ban by the Ministry of the Interior on the exhibition of "Rififi" lying down. Pic had played a record of 31 weeks at the Cine Prado, intimate downtown foreign pix house. Ban, which covered all of Mexico, coincided with a rare crime for Mexico, perpetration of a daylight bank robbery by two law students, sons of old wealthy families here. Naturally "Rififi" was blamed.

Closely following the protest by the French Ministry of Commerce, Raoul Ploquin, prez of the French Syndicate of Cinematographic Producers, in a long letter to Mario Zacarias, head of Mexican Film Producers Assn., asked help of his organization in voiding the ban. Ploquin stressed that France "has always been very liberal in censoring Mexican pictures." He intimated that the ban could damage the recent Franco-Mexican pic co-production pact.

London Weather Bad, B.O. Big; 'Paces' Record $8,000, 'Petticoat' Big $11,000, 2d, 'Searchers' Great $12,600, 3d

London, Aug. 21.

Aided by the continuous inclement weather, West End firstruns are maintaining their above-average returns. "Iron Petticoat," which hit fancy $11,200 opening frame at the Plaza, is big $11,000 in second. "23 Paces to Baker St." is heading for record $8,000 opening session at the Rialto.

"The Searchers" looks to hit a great $12,600 in third Warner round. "Cinerama Holiday" topped the $20,000 mark in its 26th week at the Casino.

"Gold Rush," which clicked with a sock $10,200 in its initial session at the London Pavilion, was slightly down to about $8,000 in third frame. "Man in Gray Flannel Suit" continued hefty at the Carlton with around $6,600 for fourth week.

Estimates for Last Week

Carlton (20th) (1,128; 70-$1.70)—"Man in Gray Flannel Suit" (20th) (5th wk). Likely $7,000 this frame, slightly better than previous week which was $6,600. "D-Day, Sixth of June" (20th) preems Aug. 23.

Casino (Indie) (1,337; 70-$2.15)—"Cinerama Holiday" (Robin) (26th wk). Standout at big $20,000. Stays indef.

Empire (M-G) (3,099; 55--$1.70)—"Viva Las Vegas" (M-G) (3d wk). Neat $11,500, and slightly better than second frame. "Bwohani Junction" (M-G) follows.

Gaumont (CMA) (1,500; 50-$1.70)—"Ambassador's Daughter" (UA) (3d wk). Hep $6,000, and ahead of previous week. "Bandido" (UA) opens Aug. 23.

Leicester Square Theatre (CMA) (1,376; 50-$1.70) — "Pardners" (Par) (2d wk). Fair $5,000. "It's Wonderful World" (Renown) follows Aug. 30.

London Pavilion (UA) (1,217; 50-$1.70—"Gold Rush" (UA) (reissue) (3d wk). Sturdy $8,000 or more. Previous week hit $8,800 after smash $10,200 opening week.

Odeon, Marble Arch (CMA) (2,200; 50-$1.70)—"Child in House" (Eros) (2d wk) and "Passport to Treason" (Eros) (2d wk). Fair $4,500. First was $5,200. "Solid Gold Cadillac" (Col) bows Aug. 30.

Plaza (Par) (1,902; 70-$1.70)—"Iron Petticoat" (IFD) (2d wk). Solid $11,000 or more this round. Opening week, $11,200.

Rialto (20th) (592; 50-$1.30) — "23 Paces to Baker St." (20th). Heading for record $8,000 or near.

Ritz (M-G) (432; 50-$1.30)—"I'll Cry Tomorrow" (M-G) (8th wk). Solid $3,600.

Studio One (APT) (600 30-$1.20)—"Great Locomotive Chase" (Disney) and "Men Against Arctic" (Disney). Hotsy $4,700 looms.

Warner (WB) (1,785; 50-$1.70)—"The Searchers" (WB) (3d wk). Heading for great $12,600, slightly better than previous round. Opening week was $16,600. "Bad Seed" (WB) follows.

Watt Back With Balcon

London, Aug. 21.

Harry Watt, film director who left Ealing Films just over a year ago to enter commercial tv, has rejoined Sir Michael Balcon and is starting work on the early stages of preparation of a new feature film.

Among the pictures he directed are "Target for Tonight," "Nine Men," "The Overlanders," "Where No Vultures Fly" and "West of Zanzibar." First assignment under his new contract with Ealing is a crime thriller, "Nowhere to Go."

French Not Optimistic Over New Govt. Policy Outlined for Pix Biz

London, Aug. 21.

Nobody should be misled into believing that the production side of the British film industry is going to be happy or successful, if, after a period of years it is to continue to lose money. This was the reaction of the executive council of the British Film Producers Assn. last Wednesday (15) in noting the new policy for the future of the industry laid down by the Board of Trade. On the following day, Sir Henry L. French, director-general of BFPA, said he hoped producers would not be criticized for looking a gift horse in the mouth, but statements by the BOT prexy, Peter Thorneycroft, when he made his decision known in Parliament on Aug. 2 had given rise to great concern.

This was where in his original statement, he had described the new scheme as being "comparable in purpose" with the existing British Film Production Fund, but in reply to a supplementary question he used the words "comparable with the existing scheme." Under the "existing scheme," Eady coin which is in the care of BFPF falls considerably short of the target figure; that the new statutory arrangement is able to bridge the gap between production costs and b.o. receipts is regarded as a matter of premier importance.

Sir Henry went on: "I was very concerned immediately I saw those two words . . . we shall have to watch the matter with the utmost care." It was true that the announcement had given producers the green light to proceed with production planning and no objection was raised regarding proposed legislature, but it was untrue to say they were completely delighted with Thorneycroft's differing definitions of the future levy.

The BOT prexy's statement had in no way reduced the BFPA's interest in claiming a reduction in cinema entertainment duty or its desire to work with other associations to that end. He said: "I think it is right to say it is not purely a selfish attitude. We feel this industry will never really stand on its feet properly so long as the Chancellor of the Exchequer has this first charge—and a heavy one at that—on the revenues of the boxoffice."

When the vacation period is over, BFPA will consider in detail the three items of legislation: Quota, NFFC and BFPF.

Fewer Brit. Quota Defaults

London, Aug. 21.

In terms of British Quota fulfilment, figures given in the 14th annual report of the British Film Producers Assn. show that for the year ended last Sept. 30, there were 529 picture theatres, or 12.7% of the 4,161 submitting returns to the Board of Trade, failed to achieve their Quota obligations.

Out of a total of 315 long films registered betwen April 1, 1953, and June 30, 1955, 134 incurred a net loss despite assistance from the British Film Production Fund.

NEWSREELS' COMEBACK IN WEST GERMANY

Berlin, Aug. 21.

While newsreels in the United States are on the decline, accented recently by the foldo of Warner Pathe News, they are making a strong comeback in Germany. Early this month the UFA Wochenschau (newsreel) turned up for the first time in theatres in West Berlin and West Germany.

In Germany, where tv still hasn't made the dent that it has in the U. S., the return of the newsreel is looked upon as an optimistic attitude of the local film industry. The UFA newsreel is made by the producers of the Neue Deutsche Wochenschau and distributed by Herzog-Film. It's not known yet if UFA, once it is actually in operation for some time, will also produce the UFA newsreel itself. The start of the newsreel in Germany had several advantages from a news standpoint. The sinking of the Andrea Doria and the Suez Canal crisis rated top spots.

UFA has contracts and exchange agreements with 47 international newsreel corporations. Producers claim that they expect to drop sensationalism for actualities and quality as well as a higher plane of reporting.

3 SMASH HITS IN A ROW from 20th

The Long Run King!

8th and 9th weeks hitting
1st week grosses!

DARRYL F. ZANUCK presents
RODGERS & HAMMERSTEIN'S
The King and I

CINEMASCOPE 55
COLOR by DE LUXE

starring
DEBORAH KERR · YUL BRYNNER with RITA MORENO
Produced by CHARLES BRACKETT
Directed by WALTER LANG
Screenplay by ERNEST LEHMAN
Music by RICHARD RODGERS and Book and Lyrics by
OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN II

The New Champ!

Matching 'The King' in every situation!

MARILYN MONROE

in
BUS STOP
and introducing
DON MURRAY
Produced by
BUDDY ADLER
Directed by
JOSHUA LOGAN
Screenplay by
GEORGE AXELROD
COLOR by DE LUXE
CINEMASCOPE

For Columbus Day!

There's nothing better than The Best

The Best Things In Life Are Free

COLOR by DE LUXE
CINEMASCOPE

starring
GORDON MacRAE · DAN DAILEY
ERNEST BORGNINE · SHEREE NORTH with TOMMY NOONAN
Produced by HENRY EPHRON · MICHAEL CURTIZ
Directed by
Screenplay by
WILLIAM BOWERS and PHOEBE EPHRON

...and 20th supports THE BEST with THE BIGGEST promotion campaign of the year!

Amusement Stock Quotations

(N.Y. Stock Exchange)

For Week Ending Tuesday (28)

| 1956 High | 1956 Low | | Weekly Vol. in 100s | Weekly High | Weekly Low | Tues. Close | Net Change for week |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 32½ | 24⅝ | Am Br-Par Th | 145 | 30⅞ | 29½ | 29¾ | — ¾ |
| 31⅞ | 22⅞ | CBS "A" | 220 | 31⅜ | 29½ | 30½ | + ⅛ |
| 31¾ | 22¾ | CBS "B" | 59 | 31¼ | 29⅝ | 30 | + ⅛ |
| 26¾ | 18⅛ | Col Pix | 14 | 20½ | 20¼ | 20⅜ | — ¼ |
| 16⅜ | 14⅛ | Decca | 33 | 15⅛ | 14¾ | 14⅞ | + ⅛ |
| 100¾ | 75¾ | Eastman Kdk | 70 | 96 | 94 | 94⅝ | + ⅛ |
| 4⅞ | 3¼ | EMI | 141 | 3⅝ | 3¼ | 3½ | + ¼ |
| 12 | 8⅛ | List Ind | 46 | 8⅜ | 8⅛ | 8¼ | — ⅛ |
| 25⅛ | 18⅞ | Loew's | 417 | 22 | 20 | 21½ | +1½ |
| 9¼ | 7½ | Nat. Thea | 106 | 8¼ | 8 | 8 | — ⅛ |
| 36½ | 30¼ | Paramount | 101 | 33½ | 32⅝ | 33½ | + ½ |
| 36½ | 20⅛ | Philco | 99 | 21⅞ | 20⅞ | 21⅞ | +1⅛ |
| 50⅜ | 41⅛ | RCA | 215 | 43⅛ | 42⅜ | 42½ | — ⅛ |
| 8⅞ | 6¾ | Republic | 17 | 6⅞ | 6¾ | 6¾ | — |
| 15⅛ | 12¾ | Rep., pfd | 2 | 13¼ | 13 | 13 | — |
| 17¾ | 15 | Stanley War. | 39 | 15⅜ | 15 | 15¼ | — |
| 28⅛ | 22⅛ | Storer | 115 | 29½ | 27½ | 29 | +1¾ |
| 29¼ | 21⅛ | 20th-Fox | 146 | 25⅝ | 24¾ | 25 | + ¼ |
| 29¾ | 24½ | Univ. Pix | 5 | 25½ | 25⅛ | 25½ | + ¼ |
| 82½ | 75 | Univ., pfd | *20 | 76 | 76 | 76 | +1⅛ |
| 26¾ | 18½ | Warner Bros. | 100 | 27⅝ | 27½ | 27½ | + ⅛ |
| 141¼ | 101 | Zenith | 10 | 106½ | 105¾ | 105¾ | — ¼ |

American Stock Exchange

| | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 6⅛ | 3⅝ | Allied Artists | 63 | 4⅞ | 4¼ | 4⅞ | + ½ |
| 13¼ | 9¾ | All'd Art., pfd. | 16 | 10⅞ | 10¼ | 10½ | + ⅛ |
| 2⅛ | 1⅛ | C & C Super | 305 | 1¼ | 1⅛ | 1¼ | — ⅛ |
| 10 | 5¾ | Du Mont | 48 | 6⅛ | 5¾ | 5⅞ | — ⅛ |
| 3½ | 2¾ | Guild Films | 29 | 3½ | 3⅜ | 3⅜ | — ⅛ |
| 5⅜ | 3 | Nat'l Telefilm | 16 | 5 | 4¾ | 4⅞ | — ⅛ |
| 5¾ | 2¾ | Skiatron | 30 | 3⅝ | 3⅜ | 3⅜ | — ¼ |
| 13¼ | 9⅜ | Technicolor | 152 | 9¾ | 9⅜ | 9⅜ | — ⅜ |
| 4 | 3 | Trans-Lux | 47 | 3⅝ | 3⅜ | 3½ | — |

Over-the-Counter Securities

| | Bid | Ask | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Ampex | 37⅝ | 42¾ | —3 |
| Chesapeake Industries | 2½ | 3 | — |
| Cinerama Inc. | 1 | 1½ | — ⅛ |
| Cinerama Prod. | 3⅜ | 3⅞ | — ⅛ |
| DuMont Broadcasting | 7 | 7½ | — |
| Magna Theatres | 2¾ | 3⅜ | + ⅜ |
| Official Films | 1⅝ | 2⅛ | — |
| Polaroid | 82½ | 85½ | + ½ |
| U. A. Theatres | 6⅝ | 7⅜ | — ¼ |
| Walt Disney | †23 | 25 | + ½ |

* Actual Volume. † Stock Split.

(Quotations furnished by Dreyfus & Co.)

What Price Admission?

Twin Cities' Nabe Sub-Runs Not Aping Downtowners By Cutting Tariffs

Minneapolis, Aug. 28.

Twin Cities' neighborhood subsequent-run theatres are going to try the experiment, for the present at least, of not meeting downtown first-run houses' cut in prices and having a smaller spread in the admissions than ever before.

Instead of following the lead of the loop "A" theatres, which will slash from their present $1 to 90c after 5 p.m. this week when the new tax law becomes operative, the uptown houses will hold the price line, it's indicated.

Some of these neighborhood subsequent-runs charge 85c so that, in their cases, the spread from loop first-run tariffs will be only a nickel and the industry here will watch the boxoffice effect with special interest.

Some of the houses that cut to 50c when the previous admission tax reduction took place may even raise their admissions slightly at this time.

Downtown first-runs will not lower their present 75c or 85c matinee prices and the Twin Cities' subsequent-run exhibitors, along with those out-of-town who presently charge up to 75c, take the position they themselves need the tax relief.

Of course, it's pointed out, if it's found that the impending proximity of neighborhood prices with those downtown hurts the subsequents' boxoffice, there'll likely be revisions.

N.H.'s Big Ozoner

Manchester, N.H. Aug. 28.

The new Bedford Grove Drive-In with what the management describes as "the largest outdoor screen north of Boston," has been opened at the junction of routes 3 and 3-A, in Bedford, just south of this city.

The 1,000-car establishment has two entrances and a double exit, the latest in sound and projection equipment, and an all self-service, stainless steel refreshment stand, reputed to be the first of its kind in New England.

Leonard Abroad

Albert Leonard, foreign sales topper for Magna, distributors of "Oklahoma" in the Todd-AO process, has left on the first leg of a European tour. He'll meet with exhibitors all over the Continent on the showing of the musical.

Leonard plans to be in Cologne, Germany, Sept. 29 to attend the first European demonstration of the Todd-AO process at the Photokino exhibition there. He's also going to France, Germany, Italy and Britain.

K. C. Real Arty; Ready 3d House

Kansas City, Aug. 28.

Third art house is being readied for opening in September here in a midtown location. Rockhill Theatre has been acquired by lease by the Art Theatre Guild, Columbus, O., and currently is being extensively remodelled.

Rockhill formerly was operated by Fox Midwest Theatres as a subsequent run, but circuit gave up the house in the consent decree divorcements. It has been closed since April, 1954.

Operation here will be the fifth for the Art Theatre Guild. Although opening date is not set, the actual preem will be a benefit sponsored by the South Kansas City Business Club for Children's Mercy Hospital.

Formerly a 1,400-seater, the Rockhill is being revamped to house about half that many. Original art house here is the Kimo, 500-seater operated by the Dickinson circuit for several years on policy of $1 admission. Second art house is the Vogue, operated by Eddie Golden, this one a 550-seater. It also has a $1 policy.

Rowland Barber Preps Jack Dempsey Biopic

Tyler, Tex., Aug. 28.

A film version of the Jack Dempsey story will be produced by Sam Wiesenthal and released through RKO. Rowland Barber said here. Author Barber followed Dempsey to this city, where the ex-heavyweight champ is constructing a home.

Barber said a book based on Dempsey's life would be published in late 1957, following release of the film. He hoped the story will be serialized in the Saturday Evening Post.

Barber authored "Somebody Up There Likes Me" with former middleweight champ Rocky Graziano, made into a film by Metro. He has traveled extensively with Dempsey in recent months gathering background material for the biopic.

The ex-champ's home here, located on Henderson Highway, will be close to a 14,000-seat sports arena which is being constructed by local oilman Bobby Manziel, onetime sparring partner for Dempsey.

Yates Spurns $10 Bid for Rep Stock

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Herbert J. Yates has rejected an offer of $10 per share for the Republic stock he controls, but the offer will be resubmitted next week at the expiration of an option taken several weeks ago by Cantor, Fitzgerald & Co. Beverly Hills investment firm is winding up an audit of the Valley studio's books before deciding whether to exercise its option to purchase 800,000 shares at $12.50 per share.

The $10 offer, for up to 600,000 shares, was tendered by a syndicate fronted by Moe Ellis, accountant and business manager. In the group are Phil Harris, one of the owners of Hiram's Markets in Los Angeles, and his partner, Irving Moss. They are said to be interested in Republic as an investment rather than as a speculative buy.

Ellis said his group's offer to buy had only one condition: that the entire Republic board of directors resign and "all contracts of blood relatives would be declared null and void."

Meanwhile, it was reported that Cantor, Fitzgerald had made no cash outlay for its option, other than $25,000 spent for the audit, which will be turned over to Republic.

United Artists also was reported to have discussed a deal with Yates under which the distrib would house production of all UA films at the Valley lot and release Republic product as well.

Vet producer Harry C. Popkin and Mark C. Bloom, operator of a chain of service stations, made an offer to buy Yates' shares through broker Ken Hardy, who reported Yates said he wouldn't sell for $10 but would sell for $12 per share.

Ellis Arnall

Continued from page 3

mendation last week by a committee of the Motion Picture Assn. of America to the effect that the Code appeals board should include reps of both the indie producers and exhibitors. Latter have already indicated they aren't eager to serve.

"My quarrel isn't with Shurlock at all," Arnall said. "The complaint we have concerns the basic structure of the Code. Surely, if we are to go on the appeals board, we should also be represented in other phases of the Code operation."

(Informed of Arnall's comments, Shurlock said last week in N. Y. he couldn't see how some 80 independent producers could be effectively given a Code voice. "Who would be speaking for them all" he asked.)

Arnall conceded that the Code had been liberalized, and he called the appeals board recommendation "a step in the right direction. They just didn't go far enough." The Code, Arnall declared, should be "a living thing that keeps up with the mores of the nation. It should be flexible, like the Constitution."

IATSE to U.S.: Cancel Divorcement!

Claims It Hurt Whole Industry; Allied's Myers Enters a Dissent

By JOHN W. QUINN

Kansas City, Aug. 28.

In a resolution passed at the concluding session of its 43d biennial convention here Friday (24), the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees requested the Dept. of Justice to review the effects of the Government's divorcement action and "to enact measures" that would permit producers to hold interests in theatres.

The resolution stated that the industry has not been helped by the divorcement decree and that because of divorcement the film companies are showing greater interest in production for television. As a result, the IA noted, theatre-owners and members of the IA are handicapped in obtaining improvements in their jobs, wages and working conditions.

(In Washington, Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied States Assn., immediately blasted the IA resolution. He said that he did not believe the resolution was in the best interests of the IA or good for independent exhibitors. He declared that the IA move in effect called for alteration of the antitrust laws. He said he believed the IA action was motivated by the fact that unions traditionally find it easier "to have their way with big business than with smaller, scattered units.")

The divorcement resolution was among 70 introduced at the five-day conclave. Most of them received deferred action to await further study by the general office.

H'wood Lensers Rebuffed

Only one floor fight interrupted an otherwise harmonious meeting. This occurred on Wednesdaay (22) when the Hollywood Cameraman's Local 659 requested that film production crews be allowed to travel and work anywhere in the U. S. and that the IA's old jurisdictional laws be wiped off the books. This was voted down, however, by the delegates by a three-to-one margin after a two-and-one-half-hour floor fight. Under the present system, the Hollywood, Chicago, and New York cameraman's locals have jurisdiction in certain states only.

The convention went on record as supporting the complete elimination of the theatre admission tax. In this connection, the IA received assurance from Rep. Richard Bolling, D., Kans., who addressed the convention, that a bill to wipe out the tax completely would be introduced at the next session of Congress.

On the technical side, the delegates were told that "the so-called technical revolution that has set us on our ears has settled down to the point where we should have a pretty good idea what is going to be the big answer." Statement was made by Merle Chamberlin, chief projectionist for Metro, who added that standardization had just about arrived and that widescreen projection "is leveling off at 1:85 to 1."

(In Hollywood, George Stevens, a top cameraman turned producer, took issue with Chamberlin's stand that standardization had arrived at 1:85 to 1. He said the statement did not reflect the official opinion of the industry and that he personally took a strong dissenting opinion. He pointed out that he had geared "Giant" for 1:66 to 1 projection because it is his belief that films should capitalize on height and that he would continue to make films with the emphasis on large rather than wide screen.)

Delegates heard a number of speakers, including George Meany, AFL-CIO prexy, who urged members to engage in political activity to enable labor to hold its own in legislative halls, and Richard P. Brous, Fox Midwest Theatres topper, who asked for a realistic approach in combatting the shrinking attendance. A surprise speaker was former President Harry S. Truman, who received a seven-minute ovation. He spoke informally for several minutes about his Memorial Library in Independence, Mo.

Problems facing projectionists, including television, the product shortage, and shifts away from downtown districts, were outlined by IA prexy Richard F. Walsh. He noted, however, that boothmen had not actually encountered too much unemployment since an ever-increasing drive-in season is taking up the slack.

Walsh scored some locals for illegal traffic in membership cards; he cited the union's improved status in tv via agreements with 300 telefilm producers in Hollywood and 100 in N. Y., and called attention to the possible impact of magnetic tape on the industry and on the union's employment situation.

Walsh, prexy of the IA for 15 years, was reelected unanimously as was his "official family," including secretary-treasurer Harlan Holmden. In addition to Walsh and Holmden, also reelected to the General Executive Board, those renamed to that body were: James J. Brennan, Carl G. Copper, Harry J. Abbott, Orin M. Jacobson, Hugh J. Sedgwick, Albert S. Jonstone, William Donnelly, John A. Shuff and Louise Wright. Reelected to the board of trustees were: William C. Scanlon, R. E. Morris and George W. Brayfield. Named delegates to the AFL-CIO were Thomas V. Green and James McNabb.

Convention attendance of 1,300, representing 985 locals, was the largest in the IA's history.

Rank's $22,400,600 Operating Profit

London, Aug. 28.

J. Arthur Rank Organization today (Tues.) reported a trading profit of $22,400,600 for the year ended June 23, 1956, a drop of $2,035,000 from the same period in 1955. Outfit will pay its ordinary 12½% dividend on an increased share capital against 25% last year.

Trading results of Gaumont British were down from $12,250,000 to $11,169,000, with the dividend maintained at 15%. Profit decline was reflected also in the accounts of the Provincial Cinematograph Theatres, Odeon and other properties. Improved take, however, was reported for Cinema Television and British & Dominion Film Corp. Latter topped a net of $2,800,000, maintaining a divvy of 45%.

French Inflation

Continued from page 4

French films playing off in the U.S., the first-quarter 1956 income from that market rose 230% over 1955, the breakdown showed. Figure is more or less meaningless, however, since it didn't give total earnings last year, which may have been very low.

At the exhibition end, 1956 attendance is holding up very well and is estimated at 400,000,000 this year. Theatre gross in 1956 is expected to exceed 50,000,000,000 fr. ($143,300,000), a 25% increase over a four-year period. First quarter b.o. was about equal to that of 1955 (12,400,000,000 fr. or $35,500,000), but the second quarter showed a sharp improvement. While 60 theatres opened in France during the first quarter, the number of houses operating by July was nevertheless off 2% from 1955.

The statistical report, put out in connection with the French Aid Law, under which all sectors of the industry are subsidized (2,800,000,000 fr. in 1956), commented on the large number of pix made and stressed the need for continued overall industry guidance and observation. Reference presumably is to the Centre National de la Cinematografie (Jacques Flaud) which holds the purse strings on the Aid Fund and is generally concerned with industry welfare. The Centre has been under attack from some sections of French production which would prefer going their own way. It's considered unlikely that the Centre will be abolished, particularly since it has been a key factor in helping France expand her export markets. Latter, in view of rising costs, are becoming steadily more important.

THERE'S A FORTUNE IN IT FOR YOU...

M-G-M presents in CinemaScope and METROCOLOR "TEA AND SYMPATHY" starring DEBORAH KERR • JOHN KERR • with Leif Erickson Edward Andrews • Screen Play by Robert Anderson Based on the Play by Robert Anderson • Directed by Vincente Minnelli • Produced by Pandro S. Berman

★

(Available in Perspecta Stereophonic or 1-Channel Sound)

Where does a woman's sympathy end — and her indiscretion begin?

BETTING $500,000 ON THE FAVORITE!

Every day from every M-G-M Exchange come additional bookings for M-G-M's exciting picturization of "TEA AND SYMPATHY," starring Deborah Kerr and John Kerr in their original stage roles. The play that packed theatres from Coast-to-Coast and enjoyed a phenomenal run of 91 weeks on Broadway is being hailed by Preview audiences East and West as even better on the screen.

M-G-M's big $500,000 nationwide promotion covers the national magazines, with special attention to women's publications. Also a five-fold advance newspaper campaign in 90 cities: big Sunday amusement page ads two weeks ahead of and the Sunday prior to opening; mid-week ads in preferred spots on news pages; an advance ad on TV pages and a big co-operative campaign geared to playdates. The saturation TV and Radio campaign spans the nation from 50 top markets, starting 2 weeks ahead of opening, using popular personalities of News, Commentary and Women's programs who will see the picture and write their personal enthusiastic copy. A BIG CAMPAIGN BEHIND A BIG ATTRACTION, SYNCHRONIZED WITH SIMULTANEOUS NATIONWIDE PLAYDATES.

'Planned Improvisation'

Sanders Brothers Work Out Flexible Technique Based on 'Time Out of War' ($2,000)

Hollywood. Aug. 28.

Motion picture production, which started as an "off-the-cuff" process and gradually developed into an industry of tight, efficient preparation, will shortly see a new method of filmmaking—"planned improvisation."

Technique, which sounds like a contradiction in terms, is being evolved by Denis and Terry Sanders, the young producing-directing-writing-camera team that won an Academy Award and Venice and Edinburgh Film Festival honors with its initial production, "Time Out of War."

Brothers recently completed the first draft screenplay of "The Naked and the Dead" for Paul Gregory and are working on plans for their own independent production, "Bellingham," on which they have a tentative commitment with James Mason, contingent upon final story approval.

The "planned improvisation" technique is one which they used on "Time Out of War." In substance, it depends upon a thorough command of the script and a flexibility on the part of the director.

"What we are after," the brothers explain, "is to make the best possible use of the camera in telling our story. To achieve this, we set up a schedule that seems to be pretty rigid. But once we begin shooting we are ready to make changes at a moment's notice to take advantage of any given set of circumstances."

On the face of it, there doesn't appear to be much difference between this technique and that used by most directors in planning a day's shooting. The Sanders team, however, contends that the difference exists in the approach to the script. It is written with an eye toward being used as is, but with a certain amount of leeway to provide possibilities of change.

Admittedly, the short budget ($2,000) "Time Out of War" give the brothers more of an opportunity for experimentation than a regular feature production would do. They are convinced, however, that they can bring a feature in more economically and with better final results by developing a script so that a director can make variations as he goes along.

"If it works," the team says, "the method will be the basis for all our future productions. And the big advantage to it is that if it doesn't work as well as we think it will, we will not have harmed our basic property since we will be able to stay close enough to a rigidly planned schedule to bring a picture in along the more conventional production lines."

Jilt on Kilt

Continued from page 2

vise some suitable attire other than the kilt.

He said: "This tendency for girls to wear the kilt exists not only outside of Scotland. There are a number of girl pipe bands here, including groups at Inverness and Wick."

Quick retort came from William Adamson, of Iowa Girls' Pipe Band, who said he sees no foundation whatsoever for criticisms of the U. S. femme group by the Kilt Society.

"Girls in the kilt represent an established feature in Scotland," he said. "If Scot girls can wear the kilt, can there be any objection, on grounds that it's male attire, to girls outside Scotland wearing it?"

He compared increase in girls wearing the kilt with way in which women have aequired habit of smoking. "Like smoking, once you get used to it, you never notice it, and it's taken for granted."

Iowa Band is currently on three weeks tour of Scotland. Many of its members are of Scot descent. Outfit will sail home to U. S. on the Queen Mary Sept. 6.

Graham's Sky-Pilot Pix

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Production, distribution and exhibition of religioso films will be handled by World Wide Pictures, new firm founded by evangelist Billy Graham. Dick Ross will head the organization, which plans to establish its own exchanges around the country.

Firm was launched after Graham completed a successful one-week test run of his films, including his newest, "Fire on the Heather," in Oklahoma City.

'All or Nothing' As Current Credo Anent Exchanges

While some picture companies are said to be considering closing several exchanges, sales execs say they have no faith in such individual programs. Only effective method is for all distribs to act in a given territory.

Even though every company is at the moment studying ways of streamlining distribution with a view to reducing the overhead, no such concerted action is expected. The Motion Picture Assn. of America has allocated funds for a study, but hasn't moved on it.

Sales execs say that individual companies pulling out of an exchange are apt to find themselves losing more money than saving it. It's pointed out that, in the instance of thousands of the small theatres, shipping costs exceed the film rental they pay.

"Add only $5 to the little fellow's shipping bill, and you'll find that he'll take his product from the company that maintains the closer exchange," was one comment. "That's why it's got to be everybody, or none."

Paramount at one time ankled the Portland exchange, but quickly reopened it when its sales were absorbed by other distributors. While they conceede that individual action may not pay off, the sales people also realize that here is some overlapping in the market. It's maintained, for example, that there is little point in keeping up the Des Moines and Omaha exchanges together. New Haven also is considered superfluous by some who believe the job can be handled out of the Boston exchange.

Beecham Calls Fest Just 'A Lot of Bunk'

Edinburgh, Aug. 28.

Sir Thomas Beecham, noted British conduetor, threw a typical bombshell into the International Festival here by openly describing the event as "just a lot of bunk." Beecham is eurrently condueting the Royal Philharmonic Orch at the fest.

"Hang it all, all festivals are bunk," he said. "They are just for the purpose of attraeting trade to a town."

On music, the English musical knight declared: "Nowadays we have one good piece of music written a year; 100 years ago, a good piece was written every day."

Scot Fest

Continued from page 2

Scores of performances are staged on small stages of concert and church halls.

Success of the 1956 Festival is now assured. Since the tee-off in 1947, the Edinburgh junket has drawn to the city more than 800,000 people from places outside Scotland. This year some 250,000 people are expected to come to the city.

Of this number, more than 80,000 are bcing accommodated in the city's hotels, boarding houses or apartments. At this year's Fest, visitors to the city are spending between $6,000,000 and $9,000,000 during their stay.

Allied States Raps 4 Filmmakers Who 'Took It Out on Rembusch'

Allied States Assn. has rallied to the support of Trueman T. Rembusch, Allied leader and Indiana theatreowner, in charging that four film companies have deliberately harassed and perscouted Rembusch because of his testimony before the Senate Small Business Subcommittee. The companies charged with "punishing" Rembusch are Mctro, Paramount, Universal and Columbia.

In a resolution passed by the board of directors at its recent Louisville conclave, Allied said that the fact that the four companies "abruptly reversed business policies and terminated trade customs that had featured their business relations with him (Rembusch) for many years, and subjected him to humiliations and harassments implying erroneously and unfairly that he was a poor credit risk, convinced the board that the four companies were actuated by a common purpose to punish him for having dared to be a witness."

The Allied board termed the alleged campaign "an affront to the United States Senate" and a violation of a U.S. law relating to witnesses appearing before Senate committees. The Allied resolution is being submitted to the Senate committee "as a protest against the retaliatory actions." Allied is hopeful that the Senate will take action directly or refer the matter to the proper U.S. Attorney.

The board also directed that the matter be placed on the agenda of Allied's 1956 national convention to be held in Dallas in November "for such follow-up action as may be needed."

Stock Expert

Continued from page 3

the 40-hour week is a reality and has already been replaced by the 35-hour week in many places. Now, a 30-hour week is under serious discussion. Automation is becoming more of a reality daily.

"These factors," Loeb declared, "point the way for better bpsiness for motion pictures. People will have more and more leisure time. There will be more and more competition for the entertainmnt dollar. And good pictures with new talent, imaginatively developed by new people who are not afraid to break away from formula, will find a vast and ready market."

Loeb does not minimize the growth of television. But he sees no reason why there cannot be a peaceful co-existence, with each of the entertainment media sharing in a growing entertainment market.

Technological changes within the industry in the last few years, Loeb pointed out, have accounted for a resurgence of interest in films on the part of the public. This interest, coupled with fresh, new approaches to entertainment content, should continue to grow in an amusement-seeking society which has more and more leisure time.

Italo-MPEA Talks Aim at Stepping Up Co-Prod. Deals, Calling in Old Pix

Signature of the Italo-U.S. film pact was followed in N.Y. last week by confabs between the Motion Picture Export Assn. and Eitel Monaco of Italy's ANICA at which other outstanding issucs were resolved. ANICA is the MPAA counterpart in Italy.

Two points specifically stressed by Monaco were: 1. Coproduction. 2. The large number of old foreign films—mostly American—on the Italian market. He estimated them at 5,000, of which 3,000 are said to be from Hollywood. Monaco also repeated the Italian desire for more American color printing in Italy.

He stressed U.S.-Italian coproduction as being of vital importance to his industry, and cited some specific tax and other advantages accruing to companies willing to produce locally.

At a press confab earlier, both Giuseppe Brusasca, the Italian Undersecretary for Entertainment, Sports and Tourism, and Monaco denied that a "crisis" existed in the Italian industry. Brusasca stated that the Italo industry, as industries everywhere, had to undergo "reevaluation." Monaco noted that studio activity had been resumed in full.

Concerning the Italo complaint that their market was glutted with old American releases, MPEA agreed that "it would be in the best interests of all concerned to withdraw a substantial number of these old films from the market."

MPEA said it would launch an immediate examination of the old features still circulating "and to make arrangements to withdraw a substantial number of them as soon as their exhibition contracts and other factors will permit." Privately, U.S. execs questioned the Monaco figure of 3,000 pre-1950 features on the market.

Sympathetic consideration was given by the MPEA to the Italo request for more coproduction a la "War and Peace." However, it was pointed out to Monaco that the association as such wasn't in any position to push such projects; that it was up to the individual companies to coproduce.

Monaco is due to return to the U.S. in the fall, and at that time will renew his pitch for stepped-up American activity in Itay. U.S. company execs have been impressed by the quality achieved in "War and Peace." At the same time, some fear that it may lead the Italians, and other Europeans, too, to push for more of the type of "big" pix that inevitably are patterned after the Hollywood example and must, therefore, compete on the Hollywood level. This can either pay off, as likely it will with "War and Peace," or else it could work to a picture's detriment, as it has in the past in a number of instances.

2 Aspects on Ratios

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

IATSE's contention that standardization of widescreen at 1:85 to 1 has "arrived" was sharply assailed here by George Stevens, whose "Giant" was lensed in 1:66 to 1. Stevens, a leading cameraman before he became a producer-director, telegraphed his opposition to the IA eonvention in Kansas City last week expressing "alarm" at the belief that "nonanamorphic widescreen pictures" can be fixed at 1:85 to 1.

Stevens said the statement "does not reflect any official opinion" in the industry, either here or abroad, and said he and "many" other filmmakers would continue to make films with the emphasis on "large rather than wide screens."

Italo Pix Back To Click Format Of Postwar: Poe

Italian pictures now in production "revert to the principles of their original success," Seymour Poe, exec v.p. of IFE Releasing Organization, said in New York last week following his return from Rome.

Poe expressed the conviction that these new films would be better and said they'd resemble the crop that came from Rome in the immediate postwar period. "They're more intimate pictures, using fresh personalities," he held.

IFE, said Poe, had pruned its staff, but hadn't elosed any of its offices. "We still have first call on any picture made in Italy," he maintained. Outfit currently has a backlog of eight, but has been coasting along pending Poe's return.

It's been pointed out that, while IFE has passed up a number of Italo productions, none of those it has nixed has been an outstanding earner in the U. S.

Poe acknowledged that his proposed deal with the French—for IFE to handle the French pix in the U. S.—had fallen through, but said it was he who had called off negotiations due to Freneh inability to make up their minds.

New Italian film law, providing a 16% subsidy to producers, will be a "great incentive" to the local industry, Poe opined. He said that, under the old law, too many poor pix had been made just for the sake of someone collecting a producer's fee.

East's Show Biz Tie

Continued from page 1

come back to do a pic there and stayed on. Thcy are now receiving VARIETY in the mails.

Heads of news services asked for subscriptions to VARIETY but complained of dollar shortages, and so crowns were accepted on the spot. A Hungarian director, Lazlo Renody, came up and kissed the correspondent stating he felt he knew him via two photos of him that had appeared in a Magyar paper with the director of the Hungarian film that made a splash at Cannes, Zoltan Fabri. The pic was "Little Fairground Swing" and the VARIETY review had also been reprinted along with the picture.

The Russian rep, Igor Rachuk, asked about the possibility of getting subscriptions, but the ruble setup was different. Other satellites and Asian countries in the Soviet orbit, as well as Russia, were advised to go through U. S. consulates or embassies to facilitate matters.

So with the USSR and satellites sending various show troupes and pix west, and "Porgy and Bess," as well as Sol Hurok, Billy Rose and Mike Todd going east, plus the imminence of U. S. film sales there, it again points out that show biz is an international affair and one of the few existing spheres where east can really meet west.

Denies Berlin Fest Was 'Rigged'

Report by VARIETY staffer Harold Myers from this year's Berlin film fest, to the effect that the German public vote was "rigged" to catapult the German "Vor Sonnenuntergang" (Before Sundown) into lead position, is challenged by Dr. A. Bauer, the director of the festival. Writes Bauer:

"It is absolutely impossible to influence the public vote, whether this attempt be made by a producer or by any other interested person, since the festival theatres are only allowed to sell four tickets to each individual at the most. Even if a producer orders several people to buy this number of tickets, he will in no case get so many tickets as to succeed."

Bauer goes on to say that half of the 1,000 seats in the Gloria Palast Theatre in Berlin went to guests of honor and journalists who couldn't be influenced; and that, in any case, the poll was secret, so that a producer wouldn't very well count on his employees casting their votes for his picture. Fact that, in the last two years, there was a succession of German winners in the public vote is "purely coincidental," says Bauer.

Myers stressed VARIETY report that there had been far better pix at the fest than "Sonnenuntergang." "Patriotism alone by the German viewing public would hardly have been strong enough to decide the issue," he wrote. "I was told immediately after this year's screening of 'Vor Sonnenuntergang' that it would win the first public prize. That . . . turned out to be true, even though half the films had yet to be shown."

Public vote is operated via a point system, with each person in the audience given a card to fill out. Pix rated "excellent" get four points, and from there it goes down to one point for "poor." A "packed" house would, of course, account for a very high score. Berlin is the only festival where the public is invited to cast votes.

SIMPP Eyes Foreign Markets, Urging Non-Member Participation

With independent producers "more interested than ever" in foreign market returns, members of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers will meet in Hollywood Sept. 5 to discuss an expanded program for the distribution of their films abroad, Ellis Arnall, SIMPP prexy, reported in New York last week.

Arnell said non-members of the Society would be invited to attend the palaver in an attempt to get as many of the indies as possible to join the drive which is to be made via the Independent Producers Export Assn. Latter is repped abroad by Jack Lamont, who'll be on hand at the Coast to report.

Lamont has recently been in Spain where he wrapped up a deal for indie pix. Motion Picture Export Assn. is currently boycotting Spain. Lamont also has been talking to the Dancs, who aren't receiving films from MPEA member companies.

"We aren't going to be party to any boycott anywhere," commented Arnall. "For us, selling our pictures wherever we can is simply a matter of economics."

He said Lamont had contacted various Iron Curtain countries for possible sale of the indie product. "Selling there is no longer a political but largely an economic question," Arnall maintained. He said most of the indies felt it was all right to deal with the Reds under two conditions: 1. If there are no questions from the State Dept. 2. If deals are economically advantageous.

Arnall, SIMPP head for eight years, said it was his understanding that the State Dept. had no objections to American films going to the Soviet bloc, but that the Government felt selectivity in the choice of pictures was essential.

SIMPP topper didn't think it was practical to supervise the handling of American films behind the Iron Curtain once they had been sold for cash. "That's what I mean by an 'advantageous' deal," he said. "Once we sell a picture flat, we have to take our chances what they'll do with it." He added that he was somewhat concerned over sales to one satellite country or the other "because you never know where those prints may turn up next."

Regarding the indie export drive, Arnall explained he was aware that many of his members (SIMPP now has 38) were "tied down" via affiliation with the majors. "We are going to try to get our people to reserve certain territories for themselves when they make their release deals," Arnall stated. "There are places where our Export Assn. can do a better job selling the small film than the majors who have bigger fish to fry."

He explained that, in the quota territories, the indies often didn't stand much of a chance of getting in under the major outfit's allocation, and that SIMPP's export association was a valuable instrument in getting the indie releases into a country.

Arnall said he had reached an understanding with Italy's Eitel Monaco re a new three-year deal under essentially the same terms as the last one, which expires Aug. 31. That arrangement gave SIMPP members a $300,000 a year remittance (10% of the MPEA companies). Involved are the earnings of indie films being channeled via Italo distribs. Monaco is to draft a general agreement on his return to Rome. There'll be no serious limitation on the total of indie releases allowed in.

Arnall said he and Lamont would be in Washington Sept. 24 and 25 for negotiation of the new British films agreement. SIMPP will sit in on the talks with Eric Johnston of the MPEA. Arnall thought there wouldn't be any great obstacles in reaching an agreement with the British.

Re the Italian complaint that too many old American features were on the market, Arnall said he'd urge his members to withdraw some of the films that date prior to 1951.

'W&P' Breather

Size of the theatre can dictate the policy in playing a long film, as witness the current experience of the Hollywood Paramount with "War and Peace." The 1,700-seat house is programming a 12-minute intermission, which allows for the mid-production stretch, ankling to the concession stand and/or lounge.

Paramount and the exhibitor has found no problems with this approach and the film company is recommending same to be considered by other theatremen.

St. Paul Suburb's Censorship Bill

Minneapolis, Aug. 28.

As a result of agitation stirred by two foreign films, West. St. Paul, Twin Cities' suburb, will institute censorship.

At the City Council's direction, City Attorney E. C. Meisinger is preparing an ordinance providing for a police commission viewing of any film against which the city receives complaints.

Councilmen decided upon censorship at a public hearing involving the suburb's only theatre, the West Twins, owned by W. R. Frank, Hollywood producer and circuit owner. Frank had shuttered the theatre after receipt of an order by the suburb's mayor to discontinue the showing of the British "The Slasher" against which the mayor had received complaints.

At the public hearing Frank and S. D. Kane, North Central Allied executive counsel, contended that "The Slasher" was inoffensive and that the mayor had, in effect, closed the theatre because another suitable attraction wasn't immediately available for the house.

During the discussion it was brought out that most of the current "heat" had been stirred up by the Finnish "The Witch," which immediately preceded "The Slasher" and ran two weeks and which Frank refused to discontinue showing after being ordered to do so by the mayor.

Both pictures were advertised "for adults only," but Councilman James O'Hara and others claimed children were admitted. He demanded an ordinance with "teeth" to control any objectionable film. Another council member requested that the measure require the exhibitor to notify city officials of the names of films a week in advance of their showing.

Kazan

Continued from page 7

must do something that is frank and more honest, more daring in its material and its attack. This is an inviting prospect, it's not a drawback, it's something that's wonderful to look forward to."

Explaining his desire to work mainly on location and to film interiors in New York, Kazan said "there's a stimulation that you get from people of a small town when you live in it and work in it, and even a sort of obligation to be true to not only them and to the environment that you're living and working in, but the people generally. You don't feel that in a Hollywood studio; you're in sort of a vacuum there; you're in comfort, you're in a sort of a bland, blank, stimulus-less—if that's a word, I don't know if it makes any sense—but actually here (Piggett, Ark.) almost everything you see all day is redolent with life, with interest, with suggestions for business, for dialog, for characters, for costumes, everything is interesting.

"You live creatively on location and I think even more comfortably, more interestingly. You just love to get out in the morning and look around and make the picture."

James Dean Will Be 'Just Another Actor' In WB's Bally on 'Giant'

"Hopefully," said George Stevens, "the interest in James Dean will be in his art and acting ability." The producer-director's recently completed "Giant" has the late actor in one of the key roles, suggesting in some circles that Warners, as distributor of the film, might be faced with a delicate situation, because of the phenomenal Dean cult that has sprung up across the country.

Stevens made it clear that no effort will be made to draw particular attention to Dean. "He'll be simply presented as an actor," the filmmaker stated.

Stevens and "Giant" partner Henry Ginsberg were in Gotham last week for huddles with WB execs on sale of the film. It opens Oct. 11 at the Roxy, New York, and Oct. 18 at the Chinese on the Coast, both on a continuous performance basis.

Exhibition policy for the 195-minute production will be flexible, according to Ginsberg, playing grind in some situations and, perhaps, two-or-three-a-day in others.

WB SEZ IT'S NOT QUITTING SHORTS

Warner Bros. has no intention of disbanding its shorts subjects department and, as a matter of fact, plans to release 63 reelers during the 1956-57 season. Of the new shorts, 50% have already been completed and contracts for their distribution are now being handled by the WB sales force. Other shorts are currently lensing on the Burbank lot and on foreign locations.

WB statement came in connection with a report in VARIETY last week that shorts were being discontinued along with the Warner Pathe newsreel which bowed out of the picture Aug. 23. Report was printed after several attempts to reach Norman Moray, Warner News topper, were unsuccessful. Moray's precise status at the home office, now that Warner News is extinct (company will be officially disbanded Aug. 31), remains to be defined.

'Koepenick'

Continued from page 7

which is to decide how to divvy up the only three prizes which Venice will award this year (best pic, best male, best femme acting), will have a difficult task ahead of it. Previously, bulk of prizes allowed parceling out to almost a competing nations, usually on a proportionate basis.

This year's changes will also tend to once more accent the two acting awards, which in past years have been almost lost in the shuffle, sometimes even going unawarded. All pix entered in competition will receive diplomas of merit.

It's early for such things, and very few outside the festival officialdom have seen any of the pix. ("Koepenick" has just opened in Germany; ditto for "Gervaise"; "Bigger Than Life" has of course been seen in the U.S.; "Toro" was screened privately at the Cannes Fete to top reactions; at least one the the Jap pix, "Akasen Chitai," has opened in that country; remainder is said to be preeming here first time anywhere.) But the bookies are already quoting odds for favorites for the three top kudos.

Among the top quotations for the pic prize are "Attack," "Calle Mayor," "Traversee de Paris," "Ogre of Athens," "Torero," while femme acting honors, if one follows current sight-unseen estimates, would go to Anna Magnani (but her Oscar is against this) for "Sour Letizia," or Maria Schell, for "Gervaise." Male faves are Heinz Ruehmann for 'Koepenick'," Jean Gabin for "Traversee de Paris," James Mason for "Bigger Than Life."

But the 14 unseen pix, with their scores of unknown performers, male and female, constitute a formidable list of potential dark horses.

Wooing 'Merchant Money' to Help Smalltown Houses Hold the Fort

Concrete evidence of how vital theatres are to local businesscommunities is manifested by the growing number of merchants and business leaders who are banding together to make certain that smalltown and nabe cinemas remain lighted. The activity in this direction enhances the argument of exhibitor associations that film houses are a focal point of assembly and bring traffic to shopping areas. A darkened theatre, it is maintained, has an adverse effect on the business of merchants surrounding the theatre.

In many situations where a theatreman has been forced to shut down because of poor b.o. results, local businessmen and community leaders have stepped in to underwrite the houses. This has been the case particularly in one-theatre towns.

For example, in Herreid, S.D., a theatreless town, a group of 40 merchants and professional people joined forces to build a $40,000 film house. Similar activity has also taken place in other towns in the territory where the general picture is encouraging as reopenings of shuttered houses are outnumbering the closings.

In Gillespie, Ill., the Ganna Ambassador Corp., composed of local businessmen, has been organized to relight the Lyric Theatre, shuttered since May, 1953. When the Frisina Amusement Co. closed the house, it reverted to the estate of Mrs. Frances Peart. Her brother, Joseph Falletti, inexperienced in theatre operation, kept the house dark until the reopening move was launched by the business community.

'Bowery' Wins at Fest

Venice, Aug. 28.

Yank "On the Bowery," directed by Lionel Rogosin, captured the grand prize of the documentary film fest here last week.

Two American cartoons—"The Naked Eye" and UPA's "Jay Walker"—came away with special mentions. Winner in the short film division was "Modesta," by Banj Dangier of Puerto Rico.

'No Incentive' For U. S. Venice Rep

Spokesman for the U. S. Information Agency said this week that this country was "under no obligation" to send a representative to the Venice film festival... He added, obliquely, that, in any case the Government had a man on the spot (Joseph Beattie of the U. S. Veterans Administration) for the documentary fest, at which the USIA is competing, but that there was no industry representation at the actual Venice entertainment competish.

The impression left by various Government agencies contacted over the question of the absence of "official" U. S. representation at Venice was that they lacked an incentive to participate at the bash.

The American industry as a whole is steering clear of Venice this year in a disagreement over the rules applying to the selection of entries. However, 20th-Fox is sending "Bigger Than Life" and out of competition—"Bus Stop."

Mention is made in New York and Washington of the Venice choice of Robert Aldrich's "Attack" (formerly "The Fragile Fox") as the indie entry at the fest. Those who've seen the picture, or the play on which it's based, say it's a far less desirable entry for the event than last year's "Blackboard Jungle," which threw Clare Boothe Luce, the American Ambassador to Italy, into a tizzy. Question is asked whether this isn't a contributing factor to the cool Washington attitude.

Reps for overseas fests are picked by a Washington board on which various agencies are repped. Beattie, who last year attended the entertainment portion of the Venice fest as official State Dept. rep, this year has been told he can keep on his official hat only through the documentary sessions.

According to USIA, Giulio Brusasca, the Italian Undersecretary for Entertainment, contacted the State Dept. last week to voice official Italo unhappiness over the lack of American representation at Venice. He was assured that no slight was intended, and the situation was explained to him.

Still, as of Monday (27), the situation was status quo and no State Dept. representation at Venice was in sight. It was suggested that a Government man on the spot might yet be appointed to appease the Italians.

The Motion Picture Export Assn. said it had nothing to do with the controversy. However, ran a tongue-in-cheek comment at MPEA: "Since we aren't represented at Venice, you can't expect us to knock ourselves out to try and get a State Dept. man in there."

Hayden's $35,000 Suit Vs. RKO on 'Rock' Deal

Los Angeles, Aug. 28.

Breach of contract suit seeking $35,000 in damages was filed in Federal Court here by Sterling Hayden against RKO Teleradio Pictures Inc., over an alleged oral agreement that he star in "Tension at Table Rock." Suit contends that under the deal, Hayden was to work a total of six weeks for $40,000.

Studio, Hayden alleges, later repudiated the agreement and during the period in question he was only able to earn $5,000. He seeks payment for the difference.

'Curtain' Nations

Continued from page 7

Magyar delegation, which also includes Szilard Ujhelyi, general director of the Hungarian Film Industry; Abris Basilides, a director, and others. Poland is repped by a small group headed by Stefan Szathowski. Red China, which has some pix entered in the shorts festival, also has an official delegation here, the first since the war to rep that country at a Western film event. Though there was some doubt about this at first, the Red Chinese flag now flies above the fest palace with the rest (doubt stemmed from fact that Red China has no official diplomatic contact with Italy). Chinese reps are Tsai Chu Cheng, head of delegation; Waiman Seto, and Henry Hoang.

Satellite participation was noticeable from the first day of the Festival; Hungary has two large posters up, one outside, the other inside the film palace, while Poland has been leading the press handouts with large amounts of colorful material. Canada, France, Austria, Japan, Malaya, Norway, Portugal, Switzerland and Great Britain already have delegations (latter has Frank Hoare here), with more delegates to arrive after start of feature event.

Turnover

Continued from page 7

some producers will pad out their product just for the sake of length.

If there's any hesitancy about lensing big ones in the future, Dino DeLaurentiis, producer of "War and Peace," is not showing it. He revealed intentions this week of making Dante's "Divine Comedy" and promised it will set a new high for "size and scope." With the production to include all three major portions of the Dante classic—Hell, Purgatory and Paradise—DeLaurentiis said he'll have to spend two years on preparations alone, with the actual camera work to start in 1958.

Will the public hold still for the endurance contest in picture-making? Independent producer Sidney Harmon offers the view that certain directors, "on the basis of their track records, can and have the right to say, 'we believe we can hold your attention for three or four hours'." Asked to drop some names in this connection, Harmon cited DeMille, King Vidor, Stevens, John Huston, William Wyler, Billy Wilder and Elia Kazan.

OOH THAT EKBERG!

Millions are waiting for her first big picture

and here it is!

. . . The action-romance melodrama of nine people crash-landed in Amazon headhunter jungle . . . and of the five who came back!

Nationally Advertised to a total circulation of 27,668,843 . . . or 57,897,494 impressions! . . . including half pages in Sunday Newspaper Supplements in 40 cities; full pages in all fan magazines; double-spread half pages in TV Guide.

RKO Radio Pictures presents

ROBERT RYAN · ANITA EKBERG · ROD STEIGER

BACK FROM ETERNITY

Co-starring PHYLLIS KIRK · KEITH ANDES · GENE BARRY

with FRED CLARK · BEULAH BONDI · JESSE WHITE

Produced and Directed by JOHN FARROW · Screen Play by JONATHAN LATIMER · Music by FRANZ WAXMAN

RKO RADIO PICTURES

THE MOST TALKED ABOUT MOVIES ARE FROM THE NEW RKO

Strolling Down Svenska Line

Continued from page 2

to six hours weekly and program on Fridays. In southern Sweden, tele is nothing new. Malmoe can receive programs from the Danish video, while Goeteborg teed off its own tv programs last September. There, incidentally, the stateside "I Love Lucy" series has proved very popular. Biggest problem: The coin shortage. No commercials, of course. The Swedish Riksdag (Parliament) pointed out: There won't be any commercials in Swedish tv, unless it can't flourish (financially) without them. The future will decide that problem.

Prices for tv sets amount to 1,500-1,600 Swedish kronor (about $320) and that applies to the 17-inch sets. The fee is 25 kronor for three months. Film producers' stance is split two ways—some objecting to tv, others are helping it.

Radio is very much alive in Sweden, with at least 45 radio stations or transmitters. There's also coin shortage along the radio line, so the stations buy plenty of the more inexpensive tapes from other countries. Most popular program right now is the daily "Breakfast Club," from 7 to 8 a.m. Top local faves are Alice Babs, Bibi Johns, Ernie Englund, Simon Brehm, Thore Ehrling, Charlie Norman, Putte Wickman, Reinhold Svensson and Bengt Hallberg. Zarah Leander. No. 1 filmstar in Hitler Germany, is, (as a songstress) also apparently doing well.

Sweden, on the Continent, is often referred to as Europe's No. 1 jazz country. There's some big truth to that. Not only do international jazzmen keep coming here in large quantities, but quite a number of them remain here for longer than the intended spell.

Stan Getz stayed on here last year for several months and made music sans salary. Ernie Englund (an American) has become one of this country's top bandleaders. Many U.S. colored musicians have become sidemen with Swedish bands. Sweden's Lars Gullin is regarded by many as the world's best baritone player. Foremost jive-joint in town is the Nalen (an abbreviation from "National"). Topay Lindblom, ex-Olympic (1912) champ who owns this place, sees in jazz "a culture that attracts the juveniles and prevents them from doing nonsense in the street."

The recording industry deserves a special chapter as well. There are about a dozen diskeries in this country. The five biggest are Metronome, which has Mercury, Atlantic and Prestige; HMV is combined with British Columbia, MGM, Parlophone, Capitol and Odeon; RCA is tied up with Telefunken and Musica; Deutsche Grammophon has Choral, while Decca handles also British Decca, Brunswick and London Records.

As to Boerje Ekberg, export manager of Metronome, his company is also—under Deutsche Metronome—now going to exploit the German market and has set up an office in Hamburg. Ekberg says that Sweden has an annual output of about 4,000,000 records.

Best sellers now are "Mack the Knife" (Satchmo), which has already sold 150,000, and "Gelsomina" (from "La Strada"). Although a disk can't go higher than 200,000 platters here, biz is extremely good.

The 45 rpm disks, introed by Metronome in September, 1953, are climbing fast. Current split between the old shellac and the new vinylite disks is about 60/40 in favor of the new ones. Since the public is crazy for all novelties (called "Hi-Fi fever" here), it seems as though the 78 rpm's will be finished within a few years. Prices for the 45 and 78 rpm's are 5 kronor and 75 oere ($1,15); EP's cost 8 kronor and 50 oere ($1.70); while LP's amount up to 30 kronor ($6). There's one Swedish krona tax on every Swedish disk, and if latter runs for more than six minutes (e.g. EP's and LP's) it automatically has to face a tax of three kronor (60c). Most popular bandleader at present: Count Basie. Most popular vocalists, Louis Armstrong and Georgia Gibbs. Not too much rock 'n' roll so far.

Musicians are extremely well paid here and they just can't feel much like leaving the country taking into consideration that they have to play but four hours daily, five on Sundays. The union does not permit them to play longer than 29 hours weekly. aires. The Royal Opera may be of special mention. Founded during the Rococco period by King Gustaf III, it's one of the oldest opera institutions in the world and world-famous for its high artistic standard. Same goes for the Royal Dramatic Theatre. The China has international variety with performances twice daily and often with American headliners. There is also the unique Skansen Open-Air Theatre bedded in an eye-arresting beauty of the Swedish countryside.

There's not much what may be called night life in this city, since most of the restaurants close about midnight or shortly thereafter. Dancing obtains at many places, inside as well as outdoors. The Tivoli is the only big-scale amusement park of its kind in Stockholm, but it can't stand comparison with the same-named institution in Copenhagen. Still it proves a top attraction for all sorts of foreigners and the local younger set. Currently, Seymor Oesterwall's band is making the music with Towa Carson doing the vocals.

Also here you have to pay 35 oere (8c) for two dances and the type of dance (foxtrot, rhumba, etc.) is always flashed on a board to give couples an idea of what comes next.

Oh, yes, much has been said and rumored about the Svenska girls. Perhaps the best explanation was given by a Swede who knows the subject: enthusiastic amateurs. By all means, they are often (or even mostly) breathtakingly beautiful and extremely well dressed. Also that may explain the frequent visits of so many a foreigner.

London Erupts

Continued from page 1

feel that their acting standards have let them down." Subsequently, when the quotes had provoked irate replies over BBC and in London letters-to-the-editor, the actress sought to temper matters, without actually backing down from her original statements.

She told a phone caller that she thought the British theatre "cozier and more carefree," but prefers the "challenge of the New York stage." She added that in the U. S. we "have always looked to the English theatre as a sort of fountainhead," but that she was "startled and dismayed" by what she had recently seen of the English stage.

The British theatre is "not to be compared with the American theatre today," she asserted, but added that the state of the stage there may be "only a swing of the pendulum."

Sherek, in a radio interview, expressed outrage at the actress' statements, observing that he "could say some very unladylike remarks" about her. "There is absolutely no comparison in the standard of acting. They have in America one or two very fine actors like the Lunts and Henry Fonda. But after that they're a lot of rabbits.

"The last play I did in New York was T. S. Eliot's 'Confidential Clerk,' and I had to have at least 60% American actors under an Equity ruling. I found it almost impossible to cast with American actors. They are really quite frightful."

Gielgud, a playwright as well as producer, and brother of Sir John Gielgud, the actor-manager, wrote a letter to the London Sunday Times urging, in part, Miss Hayes to "think again" before describing London theatres as sloppy and slipshod, and suggesting that she must have been "remarkably unlucky in her English experience."

An angle of the situation, apparently lost on the excited Londoners, is that even mild criticism of the British theatre by returning Broadwayites is virtually unheard of. The almost invariable refrain is enthusiasm for West End acting, the small size and comfortable informality of the theatres, the relatively low boxoffice prices, the absence of scalping, the ease of getting tickets for the biggest hits, and the legitimindedness of the British public.

The harshest criticism of the London theatre and the most unfavorable comparisons of it with Broadway are normally heard from visiting Britishers. Some of this, of course, is probably the expression of typical English politeness, and some perhaps a normal grass-is-greener attitude.

Regardless of that, however, legit has brightened up a bit, thanks to Helen Hayes.

'The Killing'

Continued from page 1

tops, after it's initial Minneapolis showing on a twin bill for a split week at a downtown theatre, which ordinarily plays its shows for the full seven days and where the admission was lower than that charged for "A" attraction, it was grabbed up by Morrie Kotz, general manager of the Fisher circuit, of which the Campus is a part, and he bought it cheap.

Kotz made his decision when his attention was called to the film's merits and to the fact that its downtown stint had undoubtedly passed practically unnoticed and that few people probably were aware it had already played here (it hadn't even garnered a newspaper review). Although the Campus plays mostly foreign pictures first-run, he conceived the idea of dating it there with a special but inexpensive selling campaign.

Campaign consisted of a somewhat larger than usual Campus newspaper ad costing $51 on the picture's opening day, followed by smaller ads. Ad in question was addressed "to the theatregoers of Minneapolis" and described the attraction as what's known in film parlance as a "sleeper." It explained what that term means—"an unknown and unheralded picture which because of unexpected excellence catches the attention of the public and critics and becomes a smash hit."

Making clear it's a crime story, ad also lauded the picture and quoted from the Saturday Review praising it (the Campus is located adjacent to the U. of Minnesota campus). It wound up thusly: "It is seldom that this theatre personally recommends pictures to the public. However, in this case we feel justified in doing so. And to back our recommendation, we offer a double-your-money-back guarantee if you do not feel this is one of the most suspenseful and exciting picture you have ever seen."

Picture opened to one of the biggest Friday night's grosses the Campus has ever had and the initial clip is being maintained. By the end of the first week Kotz says there hadn't been a single refund request.

Ironical part is that efforts had been made to discourage Kotz from booking the picture with emphasis on the fact it isn't an "art" attraction. Currently, the booking and the film's experience are one of local film circle's main topics of conversation.

Pasternak

Continued from page 3

over while en route to Rome to launch the location shooting of "1,000 Bedrooms," which will star Dean Martin in his first Jerry Lewis-less role. Pasternak revealed that he had eight more months to go on his M-G contract before he launhesc his indie partnership with Sam Katz. He said that the indie unit had, as yet, made no deal with a major company, but that he and Katz had had numerous talks with Metro executives, and there was a possibility that the new unit would work in association with M-G. He said he would not seek any properties for his indie unit until he had completed his commitment with Metro.

He recently completed "The Opposite Sex" for the film company. Following the windup of "Bedrooms," he starts "Protection for a Tough Racket." Latter, he noted, will be a comedy with music despite its title, which will be changed.

Despite his upcoming assumption of an indie mantle, Pasternak feels that the trend to indie production will diminish. He noted, for example, that very few independent outfits made money except those which are tied up with a big motion picture studio. He stressed that despite the tendency to deprecate the influence of the veteran studio toppers "their advice and guidance are invaluable."

'New' RKO

Continued from page 5

young," he means nabbing rights to a legiter prior to its production, and negotiations are going on now for a few due this upcoming season. Moore said RKO is amenable to pre-production deals, including some backing of the plays, or straight purchases of the rights.

For his purposes, Moore looks upon a tv show as one or two acts of a three-act play. In the screen translation, it must lend itself to expansion and more depth. It's fine, too, when additional characters can be written in to give the property the new dimensions.

New RKO book purchases have included these: "Cash McCall," by Cameron Hawley; "Rachel Cade," Charles Mercer; "Naked and the Dead" (brought to the company by Paul Gregory), Norman Mailer; "God and My Country," MacKinlay Kantor; "Ten Days in August," Bernard Frizell; "Bitter Sage," Frank Gruber; "Underdog," W. R. Burnett; "The Bad Step," Mark Derby; "Misty of Chincoteague," Marguerite Henry; and "The Rough Rider," Robert Hardy Andrews.

From the mags have come "Brave Tomorrow," in Life, and Adela Rogers St. John's "O'Shaughnessy and the Old Maid," which is being retitled "Sex and Miss McAdoo."

Taken from tv: "Public Pigeon No. 1," by Larry Berns and Don Quinn; "Deal a Blow," Robert Dozier; "The Prowler," F. W. Durkee, and "Three Empty Rooms," Reginald Rose.

There are also a number of originals which the studio has acquired plus these properties on the remake list: "Stage Door," "Love Affair," "The Girl Most Likely" (from "Tom, Dick and Harry"), "Stage Struck" (from "Morning Glory") and "Bundle of Joy" (based on "Bachelor Mother").

RKO has been operating on the basis of delivery of 20 features a year, including the studio's own pictures and those from independents. Next step, according to Moore, will be the segue into production of epic-scale "blockbusters."

Campaign Songs

Continued from page 1

the past Chi and Frisco conclaves saw Ethel Merman doing "Eisenhower Parade," Berlin's parody of his own standard "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Other "theme" songs were "Stevenson, Stevenson," parody on "Pony Boy, Pony Boy," words by Mary Rodgers, daughter of Richard Rodgers; "All the Way With Adlai" (parody on "Ta-Ra-Ra-Boom-Dee-Aye"), written by Richard ("Pajama Game," "Damn Yankees"), Adler; "My Fair Lady" librettist Alan Jay Lerner's parody on his own "Get Me To the Church On Time" (from the show), titled "Stevenson Will Win This Time."

By and large, however, the state songs were still the standbys at the conventions, viz., "Missouri Waltz," "California, Here I Come," etc. and, if nothing else, the ASCAP performances must have counted up into beaucoup credits to the kiddies concerned.

Indies' Names

Continued from page 3

player we much provide strictly top-calibre writing. Either that, or the star goes to a major. In a sense the stars are directing the industry."

Security has a deal to deliver 10 features to United Artists, of which "Wild Party," the first, is complete and the second, "Men in War," is now editing. Next is to be an adaptation of Erskine Caldwell's "God's Little Acre," with Tony Mann to direct from a script by Yordan.

In Security's future is "Passenger to Bali," from the play by Ellis St. Joseph. The legiter, which was directed by John Huston and had the late Walter Huston as star, ran four performances on Broadway in 1940. Also on the schedule is a filmization of Caldwell's "Greta," with script by John McPartland, who wrote "Wild Party."

Harmon has a legit background, having produced "Men in White" and "Milky Way" and authored "Talk of the Town."

TAX EXEMPTION BLURS FEDS' ADMISH RECORD

New admissions tax law, exempting all tickets under 90c from the 10% tab, has one side effect that's going to be felt by the industry. It'll deprive the business of the sole "official" estimate of the ups and downs in theatre attendance.

While there've always been guesses aplenty — informed and otherwise—about that aspect of industry statistics, the most widely quoted figures in the past decade have some from the Bureau of Internal Revenue, which based them on admissions tax receipts. These figures haven't been wholly accurate inasmuch as the Bureau never provided an actual breakdown of who contributed what to the collections, but it was always assumed that the theatres constituted roughly 75% of the total.

Now, with collections reduced to a comparative handful of houses charging over 90c, the Government's quarterly figures are apt to lose their meaning, even though an attempt may be made to project from that limited total.

Spokesman for the Bureau of Internal Revenue acknowledged last week that the tax reduction, which goes into effect Sept. 1, "will substantially lessen the value of our figures as they relate to attendance."

On the other hand, the Office of Business Economics in the Department of Commerce will continue to attempt to gauge attendance in its annual estimate, and there's also the five-year biz census of the Census Bureau which will contain pertinent statistics. The last census was taken in 1954.

Industry execs, made aware of the pending loss of a statistical source, said this emphasized anew the need for an intelligent, coordinated effort to obtain facts and figures on the industry and its performance. The Motion Picture Assn. of America at one time maintained a statistical department under Robert Chambers, but gave it up.

Spokesman for the Office of Business Economics said the office hoped to project from the totals collected in the future from houses charging 91c or more. It was admitted, however, that this is a somewhat hazardous procedure, and also that much depends on how many theatres decide to drop their prices from $1 to 95c down to 90c to escape the tax bite.

Educ'l Program

Continued from page 5

getting our films distributed in the U. S." Other countries in the past have voiced the notion that the MPAA, if it put its mind to it, could certainly arrange for the distribution of pix in the domestic market.

Fact is, of course, that MPAA can literally not go beyond advising its members what policies to follow and, legally, is restrained from any point distribution action in the U. S. It operates as the distributors' agent abroad under the provisions of the Webb-Pomerene Act.

Apart from this, the association is haunted by the fear of setting precedents which might be held against it by any one country. For instance, the MPEA might have undertaken specific projects in connection with one country or the other were it not for an apprehension that others might demand similar treatment.

Some do feel that, as the p.r. arm of the industry abroad, MPEA has failed to show aggressiveness. It has Alfred Corwin doing publicity from the Coast, and some goes out from the N. Y. office, but the association has yet to make a more concrete contribution, even within its natural limits. It doesn't even have a screening program for foreign producers.

The MPEA defense is that, inevitably, it's stuck with the mediocre product. "When the producers abroad have good films, they don't come to us," noted an MPEA exec. Even so, even some within the MPEA agree that more could and should be done to dispel the foreign notion that imports suffer from widespread American prejudice, and that this is a job which could be carried out while making it plain that the authority and scope of the associations have its natural limits.

200%

A BOXOFFICE BLOCKBUSTER!

in BOSTON
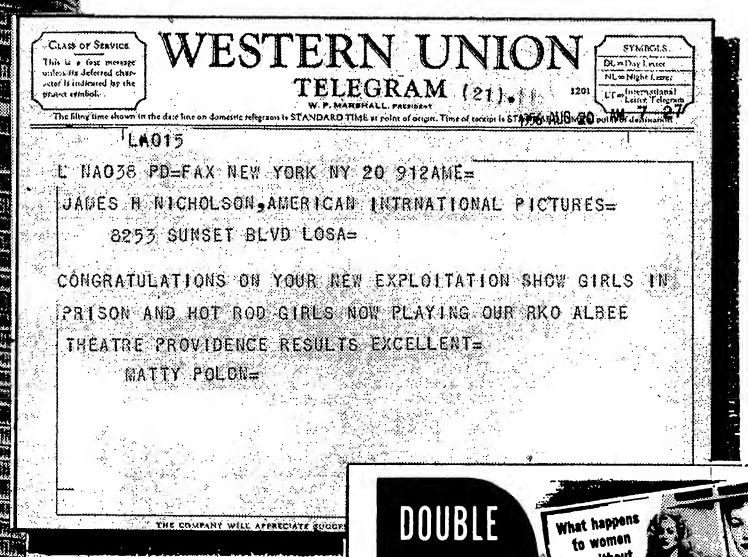
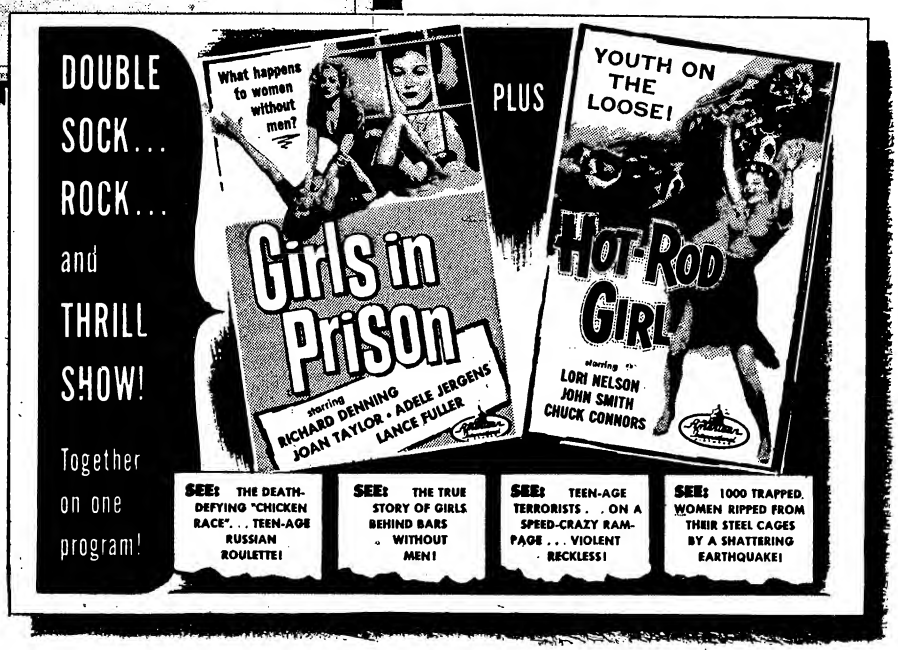
PROVIDENCE
MILWAUKEE
MANCHESTER
BALTIMORE
CALDWELL, Idaho
etc...etc...etc





from the GROWING infant of the industry!

SEE YOUR LOCAL American International EXCHANGE

President: JAMES H. NICHOLSON, Vice-President: SAMUEL Z. ARKOFF, Treasurer: JOSEPH MORITZ

Catholic Influence on Art Bookings Remains Status Quo, Check Reveals

Influence of the Catholic National Legion of Decency on operators of art houses in the U. S. is no greater today than it has been in the past several years.

This was the emphatic reaction of foreign film importers, distribs and exhibitors last week to a story in VARIETY which quoted Jack Ellis as saying that, among other spots, he couldn't get his film, "Three Forbidden Stories," played off in Washington and Baltimore because the picture had been "C" rated by the Legion.

Inference had been drawn that this extension of the Legion's influence might affect the future content of imports.

A telephone check of three cities in which Ellis claimed to have been "shut out" showed that, in each instance, there were plenty of houses that ordinarily play off the art product and that pay no attention whatever to the Legion ratings.

In Baltimore, where Ellis couldn't get a date for the "C" rater at Izzy Rappaport's Little Theatre, there are three other arties—operated by Howard Wagonheim—which book films without any reference to the Legion. They are the Playhouse, The Cinema and the Five West.

"This town has a large Catholic population, and I have no desire whatever to play any films that might offend these people on religious grounds," commented Wagonheim, "but that doesn't mean that our bookings are guided by what the Legion does or doesn't approve of. We play everything in our houses that we consider proper entertainment for our customers by normal standards."

Wagonheim said he had seen another Ellis release, "Fruits of Summer," which the Legion also has on its condemned list, and that he'd probably play it. Rappaport's reason for respecting a "C" rating is said to involve his ownership of downtown houses.

In Washington, another city cited by Ellis as being closed to "C" rated pix, the two houses owned by Ilya Lopert have pledged to the Legion that they'll stay away from condemned product. Promise was made to obtain Catholic cooperation in putting over a picture last year. Spokesman for Lopert said there were sound business reasons for the arrangement, but that there was also regret over having made the promise.

Plenty of Others

However, there are four other arties in Washington where Ellis might have booked his picture. The Plaza and Little theatres, owned by Trans-Lux, pay no heed whatever to Legion ratings. Nor do the McArthur and Ontario houses, run by K-B Theatres. Spokesman for Trans-Lux emphasized that no pressure group should or could dictate the booking policy of the T-L houses.

In Providence, R. I., Ellis claimed the condemned tag blocked showing of "Three Forbidden Stories." Yet the Avon, booked by Lockwood & Gordon in Boston, has played "The Bed," which drew a "C" from the Legion. It's a fact, however, that Providence has a local censor who rarely departs from the Legion listing.

Indie importers, discussing the Ellis statement, say he was right in some spots, such as St. Paul, Minn., which is a strongly Catholic community; also that in some cities, such as Chicago, the local censor was so strongly influenced by the Legion that it was almost impossible to get a "C" rated film booked. In strongly Catholic Boston, on the other hand, some films condemned by the Legion have played and done sock biz. Example would be the French "Game of Love."

Some of the indies opinion that, were Ellis correct in his assertions, this would then add up to out-and-out censorship by the Legion inasmuch as many towns have only a single art house. If that theatre refuses to play pix of which the Legion disapproves, this then deprives the non-Catholic element of the community—which may well represent the majority—of seeing certain films.

Distribs say the number of such situations can be counted on the fingers of one hand, however, and is by no means mushrooming into any significance. Comment was made that the fear of Legion reprisals was being spread by inaccurate reports of films being "shut out" because of "C" ratings and that the psychological effects of the threat of such (unsubstantiated) reprisal stories would, sooner or later, he felt.

Catholics Readying

Continued from page 3

attitude. The Legion at that time called for a "crusade" against what it conceived as a "tide" of objectionable pix being made.

(Msgr. Little said in N. Y. Monday (27), that he had no knowledge of another Legion attack vs. the Code.)

In various public statements since then, the latest during his European jaunt, Shurlock has discussed the problems of the Code with what many felt to be refreshing candor. At the same time, the impression has grown that, under the pressure of the times, the Code's application has been considerably liberalized, allowing the treatment of almost any theme. This has resulted in a continuing series of "B" ("objectionable in part for all") ratings by the Legion which, however, has been chary of handing out Condemned ratings to American films.

MPAA is now represented as feeling that, in the frank discussion of his problems, Shurlock may have provided fuel for the Legion argument that the Code is being inadequately enforced. "He is, after all, a censor, and as such there's no use trying to be on everyone's good side," was one comment.

This runs counter to a rather persistent MPAA line, i.e., that the Code doesn't equate with censorship but represents voluntary self-control on the part of an industry.

Shurlock said last week that one of the prime purposes of his trip to Europe was to explore the censorship situation there "to help our producers market their films as widely as possible." He had no comment on the recommendation, put forward by an MPAA committee, that the possibilities of a separate Code classification for non-English language films be explored.

However, Shurlock in the past has nixed the idea as being impractical. "Why should the French or the Italians expect us to give a seal to a picture which their own censorship has rated for adults only?" he asked.

Shurlock emphasized that, in France, Italy and Germany there existed a rating system under which pix could be tagged to exclude youngsters. "We don't have that here, so it represents a very different situation," he said. "We can't force an exhibitor to keep anyone from his boxoffice. So when we give a seal, it must be for a picture that is suitable to all." Violence in American films is still a big concern in Britain, Shurlock reported. He said the Code's campaign to cut down screen sadism was continuing. Arthur Watkins, the British censor, said recently that he hadn't noticed any evidence of the Code's efforts to weed out brutality.

British Scribes

Continued from page 2

cox's Everest Pictures, on a budget of around $750,000, is being directed by Michael Anderson from a screenplay by Eric Ambler. Anderson recently completed his directorial chore on Mike Todd's "Around the World in 80 Days." William Anderson has come from Hollywood to serve as dialog director.

DCA has launched out into British co-production with an investment in the neighborhood of $200,000. Wilcox, however, participates in U. S. profits. RKO is bankrolling a substantial part of the balance via the usual distribution guarantee.

Richard Todd stars as the Amethyst's commander, John S. Kerans, and the cast to date includes William Hartnell, Robert Urquhart and Richard Leech.

'Society' High $12,000, Port.; 'King' Big 9G, 9th

Portland, Ore., Aug. 28.

Bulk of strength this session is coming from holdovers and extended-run pix, with newcomers disappointing. Standout is "King and I" with a mighty take at the Fox in ninth stanza. "High Society" also is smash in second round at Liberty. "King" is still holding virtually unchanged on its record-breaking longrun. "Proud and Profane" is rated big in second Paramount week.

Estimates for This Week

Broadway (Parker) (1,875; 90-$1.25)—"Wilder Years" (M-G) and "Way Out" (RKO). Sad $3,000. Last week, "Walk Proud Land" (U) and "Edge Of Hell" (U), $5,800.

Fox (Evergreen) (1,536; $1-$1.50) —"King and I" (20th) (9th wk). Mighty $9,000. Last week, about same.

Guild (Indie) (400; $1.25)—"Diabolique" (Indie) (2d wk). Loud $4,000. Last week, $4,900.

Liberty (Hamrick) (1,890; 90-$1.25)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Great $12,000. Last week, $14,600.

Orpheum (Evergreen) (1,600; $1-$1.25)—"Storm Center" (Col) and "Storm Over Nile" (Col). Slim $6,000. Last week, "Mohawk" (20th) and "Massacre" (20th), $6,300.

Paramount (Port-Par) (3,400; 90-$1.25)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) and "Dynamiters" (Indie) (2d wk). Big $9,000. Last week, $10,700.

Checking Film Row

CHICAGO

"War and Peace" set for B&K State-Lake sometime in September.

"Somebody Up There Likes Me" follows "Trapeze" at United Artists.

Topper Jack Kirsch of Allied Theatres of Illinois organizing film industry participation in 1956 Community Fund drive.

Industry vet Frank Nardi, formerly of Republic exchange here, joins the Teitels' art film distrib setup here Sept. 1.

ALBANY

Alvin Kosoff, a 20th-Fox salesman here for 16 months, resigned to accept a position with a steel company in Philadelphia. He had been a student salesman there before promotion to full time salesman in Albany.

The Royal in Harrisville, closed since last fall, taken over by Tucker & Hubener. Mr. and Mrs. George Holtrey formerly operated it.

KANSAS CITY

John Scott named branch manager of Republic Pictures Midwest Film Distributors, Inc., filling vacancy created by recent death of Robert Withers, who was a vet of 35 years on film row.

William Rudolph, manager of Paramount here, moved to Tri-States (United Par) Capitol, Davenport, Ia. He goes in as manager at the Capitol. New house man at Paramount is Frank Dorcy, formerly with Fox Midwest at Orpheum here.

MINNEAPOLIS

In three-and-half seasons Gay drivein theatre, Worthing, Minn., has attracted 30,000 worshippers for its Sunday mornings' outdoor church services, 5,309 of them so far this season.

Paramount promoted Joe Rosen from booking manager to salesman and Bonnie Lynch from booker to replace him; Earl Fainblitt, formerly with Allied Artists, added to booking staff.

United Artists salesman Mort Eichenberg resigned to enter another field.

Approximately 230 of territory's theatres have consented to run trailer and make collections for Northwest Variety club's heart hospital fund.

If local cinemas advertise pictures "for adults only" and then are found to admit minors of 18 or under they run risk of having all future advertising refused by the two local dailies, the Star and Tribune, under their new adopted code that imposes the most drastic film theatre ad censorship in all local film history.

W. H. Frank, Hollywood producer and local circuit owner, sufficiently recovered from heart attack to be around.

Vera Nelson, newcomer to business, an addition to RKO sales staff.

Joe Hawks, formerly with Republic, an addition to Allied Artists' sales staff.

Picture Grosses

LOS ANGELES

(Continued from page 8)

$6,000. Last week, with Hillstreet, $16,200 plus $93,400 in three nabes, seven ozoners.

Warner Downtown, Wiltern (SW) (1,757; 2,344; 80-$1.50)—"Lisbon" (Rep) and "Dakota Incident" (Rep) (2d wk). Fair $11,000. Last week, with Hawaii, $21,800 plus $71,200 in three nabes and eight drive-ins.

Fox Wilshire (FWC) (2,296; $1-$1.75) — "Ambassador's Daughter" (UA) (3d wk). So-so $5,500 in 8 days. Last week, above hopes at $7,700.

Vogue (FWC) (885; 80-$1.25) — "Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G) with 2d run pix (3d wk). Hep $4,600. Last week, with State, good $12,600 plus $46,600 in two nabes, seven drive-ins.

Orpheum, Hollywood (Metropolitan-FWC) (2,213; 756; 80-$1.50) — "Trapeze" (UA) and "Emergency Hospital" (Indie) (3d wk) with hypnotist Arthur Ellen on stage at Orpheum. Okay $11,000. Last week, with Uptown, Loyola, $29,000.

Pantages (RKO) (2,812; $1-$1.75) —"High Society" (M-G) (4th wk). Sock $24,000. Last week, $25,200.

Chinese (FWC) (1,908; $1.25-$2.40)—"King and I" (20th) (9th wk-5 days). Fine $17,000. Last week, $21,600.

Four Star (UATC) (868; 90-$1.50) —"Proud and Profane" (Par) (11th wk). Sturdy $5,000. Last week, $5,000.

Fine Arts (FWC) (631; $1.25-$1.75) — "Fantasia" (BV) (reissue) (12th wk). Neat $3,500. Last week, $3,800.

Egyptian, United Artists (UATC) (1,242; $1.10-$2.75) — "Oklahoma" (Magna) (41st wk Egyptian, 35th wk UA). Loud $18,500. Last week, $19,200.

Warner Hollywood (SW) (1,364; $1.20-$2.65) — "Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (42d wk). Into current stanza Sunday (26) after sharp $32,800 last week.

CHICAGO

(Continued from page 9)

"First Texan" (AA) and "Screaming Eagles" (AA). Hotsy $25,000. Last week, "Earth Vs. Flying Saucers" (Col) and "Werewolf" (Col) (2d wk), $19,000.

State-Lake (B&K) (2,400; 98-$1.25)—"Away All Boats" (U) (3d wk). Lusty $32,000. Last week, $36,000. Stays on.

Surf (H&E Balaban) (685; $1.25) —"Ladykillers" (Cont) (10th wk). Hearty $7,200. Last week, $7,000.

United Artists (B&K) (1,700; 98-$1.25)—"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (M-G). Gigantic $40,000. Last week, "Trapeze" (UA) (10th wk), $15,000.

Woods (Essaness) (1,206; 98-1.50) —"Duchin Story" (Col) (8th wk). Rousing $23,000. Last week, $25,000. "High Society" (M-G) replaces today since pic is sold for outlying runs.

World (Indie) (430; 98)—"Last 10 Days" (Col) (5th wk). Oke $3,800. Last week, $4,200.

Ziegfeld (Davis) (430; 98)—"Rififi" (UMPO) (4th wk). Good $6,000. Last week, $8,000.

NEW YORK

(Continued from page 9)

$1.50)—"La Strada" (T-L) (7th wk). Sixth frame finished Sunday (26) was smash $12,000, same as fifth week.

Victoria (City Inv.) (1,060; 50-$2) —"Burning Hills" (WB). Initial stanza winding today (Wed.) looks like fine $18,000. Holds. In ahead, "Bigger Than Life" (20th) (3d wk), $12,000.

Warner (Cinerama Prod.) (1,600; $1.20-$3.50) — "7 Wonders of World" (Indie) (20th wk). The 19th session ended Saturday (25) soared to whopping $52,900. The 18th week was $48,900. Continues. Cool, rainy weather spelled difference between the two weeks.

55th St. Playhouse (B-F) (250; $1.25-$2.50) — "Bullfight" (Janus) (9th wk). Eighth stanza finished Monday (27) was okay $3,800 after $5,500 for seventh. Stays indef.

DENVER

(Continued from page 8)

week, "Safari" (Col) and "Inside Detroit" (Col), $10,000.

Esquire (Fox) (742; 75-$1) — "Lovers and Lollipops" (T-L). Okay $2,500. Last week, on reissues.

Orpheum (RKO) (2,600; 60-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Lofty $13,000 or over. Last week, $25,000.

Paramount (Wolfberg) (2,200; 60-$1) — "Burning Hills" (WB) and "Shadow of Fear" (UA). Good $11,000 or near. Last week, "Walk Proud Land" (U) and "Killing" (U), $13,000.

'Profane' Great $9,000, Indpls; 'Pardners' Same, Both 2d, 'Society' 8G

Indianapolis, Aug. 28.

Firstrun biz is moderate here this stanza, with grosses ranging from great to modest. Situation is dominated by three holdovers, "Pardners" at the Indiana is okay, "Proud and Profane" at Keith's looks great. "High Society," in third stanza at Loew's, is sturdy in third round. "Davy Crockett and River Pirates" at Circle is moderate.

Estimates for This Week

Circle (Cockrill-Dolle) (2,800; 50-85)—"Davy Crockett and River Pirates" (BV) and "Navy. Wife" (AA). Modest $7,000. Last week, "Queen of Babylon" (20th) and "Abdullah's Harem" (20th), $8,500.

Indiana (C-D) (3,200; 75-1,000)—"Pardners" (Par) (2d wk). Trim $9,000 after $13,000 opener.

Keith's (C-D) (1,200; 75-$1)—"Proud and Profane" (Par) (2d wk). Great $9,000 following $11,000 first stanza.

Loew's (Loew) (2,427; 75-95)—"High Society" (M-G) (3d wk). Sturdy $8,000, making it about $36,500 for run.

'BOATS' FAST $19,000, BUFF; 'SEED' WOW 20G

Buffalo, Aug. 28.

"The Bad Seed" shapes standout here currently with a terrific round at the Center. "Away All Boats" also is smash at Lafayette. "Oklahoma" is pushing up to a bright total at Century.

Estimates for This Week

Buffalo (Loew) (3,000; 70-$1)—"High Society" (M-G) (2d wk). Fancy $13,000. Last week, $25,000.

Paramount (Par) (3,000; 50-80)—"Bigger Than Life" (20th) and "Frontier Gambler" (Indie). Oke $10,000. Last week, "Proud and Profane" (Par) and "A Strange Adventure" (Indie) (2d wk), $11,000.

Center (Par) (2,000; 50-80)—"Bad Seed" (WB). Wow $20,000. Last week, "Moby Dick" (WB) (3d wk), $10,000 at $1 top.

Lafayette (Basil) (3,000; 50-80)—"Away All Boats" (U) and "Trial of Jamie Dawn" (AA). Smash $19,000 or close. Last week, "Duchin Story" (Col) and "Magnificent Roughnecks" (AA) (4th wk), $9,500.

Century (Buhawk) (2,000; $1.25-$2)—"Oklahoma" (Magna) (2d wk). Bright $22,000. Last week, $20,000.

Teck (Cinema Products) (1,200; $1.20-$2.40)—"Cinerama Holiday" (Indie) (30th wk). Huge $15,000. Last week, extra shows pushed this to $25,000.

KANSAS CITY

(Continued from page 8)

"This Is Cinerama" (Indie) (11th wk). Big $18,000. Last week, same.

Paramount (United Par) (1,900; 75-$1)—"Proud and Profane" (Par). Snappy $11,000; holds. Last week, "Pardners" (Par) (2d wk), $7,500.

Roxy (Durwood) (8 9; 75-$1) — "Duchin Story" (Col) (5th wk). Good $3,000. Last week $5,000.

Tower, Uptown, Fairway, Granada (Fox Midwest) (2,100; 2,043; 700; 1,217; 65-85)—"First Texan" (AA) and "Magnificent Roughnecks" (AA). Above average at $14,000. Last week, "Away All Boats" (U), $19,000.

Vogue (Golden) (550; 75-$1) — "Lovers and Lollipops" (T-L). Moderate $1,500. Last week, "Fan-Fan Tulip" (Indie) (reissue), $1,000.

ST. LOUIS

(Continued from page 9)

Land" (U) and "Kettles In Ozarks" (U), nice $12,000.

Loew's (Loew) (3,221; 60-90)—"Duchin Story" (Col) (2d wk). Solid $18,000 after $22,000 opening frame.

Missouri (F&M) (3,500; 51-75)—"Pardners" (Par) and "Chance Meeting" (Indie) (2d wk). NG $3,000 following $4,500 initial session.

Orpheum (Loew) (1,914; 50-85) —"Flying Saucers" (Col) and "Werewolf" (Col) (2d wk). Fine $8,000 after $13,000 first stanza.

Pageant (St. L. Amus.) (1,000; 90)—"Rififi" (Indie). Good $3,500. Last week, "Marty" (UA) and "Summertime" (UA), $2,000.

Richmond (St. L. Amus.) (400; $1.10)—"Rififi" (Indie). Fast $3,000. Last week, "The Bed" (Indie), same.

St. Louis (St. L. Amus.) (4,000; 51-75)—"Bus Stop" (20th). Hep $16,000. Last week, "Proud and Profane" (Par) (2d wk), $10,000.

Lawyers on Censorship in N.Y.: Need 'Big Test' for Overall Rule

Legal eagles concerned with the censorship situation in New York State say a drastic test is needed to avoid harassment from the censor in the years to come.

Admittedly, under the Supreme Court ruling, it is possible that the courts will continue to rule on the "narrow" issue of individual pix, which may be passed, but without any direct application of such decisions on the overall situation.

Case in point is the French "Lady Chatterley's Lover," which has been refused a seal by the N. Y. censor. The decision has been appealed to the Board of Regents, which will not rule until September.

There is considerable confidence among those pressing the case that the Board will reverse the censor rather than force a legal test. At the same time, however, it is quite possible that, should such a court test come about, it will favor the picture with a ruling that confines itself solely to "Lady Chatterley." This preserves the status quo as far as the overall censor situation is concerned.

Legalities specializing in film censorship issues say there are only two ways in which the Supreme Court can be forced to broaden its position.

1. Show an unobjectionable film without a license. 2. Pay the license fee and then sue for recovery.

Objective in both instances would be to force a test of the constitutionality of the N. Y. State censorship law per se.

At the moment, under the prevailing Court edict, the only basis left on which a picture can be effectively banned is "obscenity." However, and perhaps intentionally, the high court has outlined the need to define the meaning of the term. This, say the lawyers, is an almost impossible task, and the judges must have known it. Therefore, on individual pictures contested before the Supreme Court, chances are seen excellent for a reversal of state censor bans. Question is, how often can a distributor afford the time and money to fight his case to the highest tribunal?

Joseph Burstyn did it with "The Miracle," and his attorney, Ephraim London, stirred the Court into its precedent-setting decision re film censorship, in which the screen was finally equated with the press under several protective Constitutional guarantees. However, the Court also qualified its ruling by stating that each medium had to be judged on its own merit. Implication left was that some sort of pre-censorship might be justified in the case of certain pictures.

M-G Lays Off Three Sound Dept. Veterans

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

In line with the general streamlining of studio operations for more efficient management, Metro has laid off three veteran members of the sound department, each with 20 years or more of service on the lot.

They are O. O. Ceccarini, consulting engineer; Kenneth B. Lambert and Vic Peters. Ceccarini also was known as a mathematical and opticarl wizard who was reputed to have invented an anamorphic lens prior to the development of that device by the late Henri Chretien, who invented CinemaScope. However, Ceccarini's device operated in the printing machine, not in the camera.

Cinerama's Airline Deal

Seattle, Aug. 28.

Local Cinerama installation has made a deal with Alaskan Airlines to serve as a Cinerama ticket agent in Alaskan cities serviced by the airline.

Through these facilities, Alaskan residents may reserve tickets for any "This Is Cinerama" performance at the Paramount Theatre here. The Seattle installation, which opened Aug. 23, is the 19th in the U. S. and the 26th in the world. Cinerama opens in Caracas, Venezuela, next month.

Annual get-together of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio will be held in Columbus Nov. 13-14.

P. R. Serenade

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Bruce Odlum, producing "Flamenca" in Spain for Paramount, has signed Juanito Serrano and Pedro Vargas, Spanish guitarists, to a year's contract for a Coast-to-Coast tour and tv appearances to help plug the film. They appear in nightclub sequences.

It's the first time a producer has imported foreign talent for such exploitation purposes.

Disney Seeking $7,500,000 Via Debenture Sale

Washington, Aug. 28.

A public offering of $7,500,000 of subordinated debentures to be convertible into common stock was proposed in a registration statement filed last week with the Securities and Exchange Commission by Walt Disney Productions, Burbank, Calif. The underwriting group is headed by Kidder, Peabody & Co.

Company plans to apply $243,000 of the net proceeds to the redemption of its outstanding 4% debentures, series A, due July 1, 1960. The remainder will be applied towards retirement of an outstanding $9,000,000 secured demand note, issued to help finance motion picture production and for general corporate purposes.

According to the prospectus, company has outstanding 1,305,000 shares of common stock ($2.50 par) of which 54% is held by Walter E. Disney and Roy O. Disney as voting trustees. Walter E. and Lillian B. Disney are listed as beneficial owners of 24% of the stock and Atlas Corp. as holder of 17% of the shares.

Assets of the company, as of last June 30, are listed at $28,167,000. In the nine-month period ending June 30, company's business in theatrical motion pictures totaled $11,340,000 and in television motion pictures $4,747,000. Other business (character merchandising, publications, music and Disneyland) exceeded $4,000,000.

Disneyland, according to the prospectus, has already paid off its original investment and showed a profit of $188,000 as of July 29. In a six-week period in 1955, said prospectus, the park took in $1,568,000.

Wider Vistas for V'Scope In Lesser's Par Buyout

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Vistascope process will be made available to the entire industry immediately on a royalty basis, Sol Lesser reported after acquiring sole ownership of the Vistascope Corp. of America via a buyout of Paramount's 50% interest. Lesser has been prexy of the firm since 1952 when he acquired Western Hemisphere rights to the French photographic process which permits use, with live action, of photographs for motion picture foreground settings. Adaptable for either black-and-white or color, the process eliminates expensive matte shots or construction of massive foreground sets.

As the first step in making the process available, Lesser appointed optics expert Kemp Niver to head the Vistascope unit and work in an advisory and supervisory category with users of the process. Niver perfected the process for reclaiming historic paper film in the Library of Congress and transferring it to celluloid.

Vitascope process has thus far been used in the "Biff Baker U.S.A.," telefilm series. It can also be used for live tv shows.

Set Sept. 5 for Hearing On U-I's Right to Fire '5th Amendment' Tootler

Los Angeles, Aug. 28.

Hearing has been set for Sept. 5 in Municipal Court here on the first test of a studio's right to discharge a contract employee for invoking the Fifth Amendment in declining to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee. All previous litigation revolving around this thorny question has been won by studios but involved Hollywoodites who were not under contract and who claimed they had been "blacklisted" for their Red probe stand.

Plaintiff in the action is Manuel Compinsky, Universal-International musician who sued the studio for breach of contract and asked $2,249. Action, filed with the approval of the American Federation of Musicians, alleges he was not discharged for "good and sufficient cause," as provided for in the tune union's contract with the studio. Union takes the position that the issue of Communism is not involved and it approved the suit on the grounds that such a dismissal violates the basic contract.

In its reply to the action, U-I declared that Compinsky's refusal to testify created a public impression that he was a Communist. This, it added, injured the studio's reputation and Compinsky's right to invoke the Fifth Amendment does not include the right to injure an innocent third party.

'JEAN CHRISTOPHE' AS WALD'S FIRST FOR FOX

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Jerry Wald will launch his indie production at 20th-Fox with "Jean Christophe," a film version of the 1915 Nobel Prize novel by Romain Rolland.

"Christophe," a 2,000-page novel originally published in 10 volumes, has been hailed as one of the classics of 20th century literature. Wald plans to shoot it largely on location in Europe.

Industry Units Will Rise Or Fall as One—Gloroid

St. Louis, Aug. 28.

A vigorous plea for industry unity was the highlight of the two-day session of the 38th annual meeting of the Missouri-Illinois Theatre Owners here today in a speech tagged "Let's go Forward Together."

F. P. Gloroid, resident manager for Rodgers Theatres, told 400 exhibs and others that "one word described the greatest contributing factor to the problems that face our industry today and that is disunity. The fact is that distribution cannot survive without exhibition and in the same vein, exhibition cannot survive without production and distribution. If exhibition or production fails so does the supplier, accessories and even the firm hauler. Each of us has a definite stake in the plight of anyone in the industry."

The need for exhibitors to properly exploit and advertise the comfort and other advantages of their houses in meeting the competition of television and other entertainment media for the amusements dollar was also touched on.

COMPO won a tribute from William C. Gehring, 20th-Fox v.p., for its successful fight to win a reduction of the Federal amusement tax.

Trans-Lux Gets 'Ayoupa'

Greek film, "Ayoupa," has been acquired by Trans-Lux Distributing for U.S. distribution, according to T-L prexy Richard Brandt. Greg Tallas produced the pic which stars Anna Bratsou.

Film was acquired by Trans-Lux on a straight percentage basis. John G. McCarthy of International Affiliates, who is a part-owner of the film, negotiated the deal. "Ayoupa" is skedded for release in the late fall.

"Ayoupa" is in the country, but is having customs trouble over 18 feet of film which the inspectors consider too sexy to pass.

Aussie Exhibs Weigh TV's Effects; Studying U.S. Approach to 'Monster'

Australian exhibitors anticipate a 25% drop in business when television makes its full impact on the population Down Under, according to David Joel, general manager of the Snider & Dean circuit, a 21-house chain with headquarters in Sydney.

Most Australian circuits, Joel reported in N. Y. this week, have been gearing themselves to meet "the blow of tv" when it comes. A careful study is being made of all theatres with the aim to determine which ones can best meet the competition of video and what can be done to meet the challenge of the "monster" in the living-room. Joel's mission to the U. S. is to make a survey of the effect of tv on the b.o. receipts and how American theatremen have met the problem of tv competition.

Asked what specific steps could be taken to meet the impact of video, the Australian exhibitor noted, for example, that his circuit "might pull in expenses in many cities" and retain the savings to fight television. He pointed out that his chain planned spending money in renovating theatres in many towns and this program might have to be curtailed if tv posed a serious threat. In general, however, he indicated that most circuits had completed their renovation plans in anticipation of the tv battle.

In addition, Joel stated that Australians exhibs feel that they'll have to become part of tv rather than adopt an ostrich-like attitude toward the medium. In line with this thinking, the Snider & Dean circuit has applied for licenses to operate tv stations in some of the smaller Australian cities.

When Joel left Australia some five weeks ago, three stations were running test signals in Sydney—two commercial and one government controlled. Melbourne, too, will have three stations.

In Sydney, tv will begin fulltime operation at about the same as the city is ringed with new drive-ins. The twin events, Joel noted, will be observed with interest by local theatremen. Although drive-ins have made an impact in south and west Australia and in Victoria and Queensland, they are a new innovation as far as Sydney is concerned. Unlike the other areas where non-showmen moved into the ozoner field, the Sydney operation will be under the control of theatremen. Metro is erecting a giant twin drive-in which is expected to cost $1,000,000. Seven other drive-ins are being constructed by a syndicate consisting of Hoyts (20th-Fox), Greater Union Theatres (Odeon), and independent theatremen. Each group has a one-third investment in the seven ozoners.

There has been a general falloff in theatre attendance, Joel said, but the overall take has maintained a satisfactory level because of an increase in admission prices.

80,000,000 Weekly

Total theatre admissions for the first four weeks in August averaged over 80,000,000 per week, according to Sindlinger & Co., Ridley Park, Penna., research outfit.

According to Sindlinger's findings, these are the figures: week ending Aug. 25, 83,500,000; Aug. 18, 81,372,400; Aug. 11. 78,071,300; Aug. 4, 83,998,000. Included are free admissions (moppets at the drive-ins) of about 15,000,000 per week.

Sindlinger's interviewers have this note on the scoreboard: 24% of the week's time (Aug. 11) spent watching television was devoted to viewing feature pictures. Also, the public's time devoted to films on tv was just about equal to the time spent in theatres during the same week.

Heindorf Loses To SDG in Suit In Screen Credit

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

In a decision of far-reaching importance to the entire labor movement, Superior Court Judge Joseph W. Vickers on Friday (24) granted a defense motion for a judgment in a litigation on screen credits brought by Ray Heindorf against the Screen Directors Guild of America, simultaneously, a corollary action against Warner Bros. was dismissed.

Heindorf sued over SDG contract with majors which prevented Warners from continuing his credit as musical director. Guild contract restricts use of phrase "director" or "direction by" in screen or advertising credits. Judge Vickers declared SDG has the right, as a proper union objective, to seek to foreclose such credits for persons other than Guild members.

Milton A. Rudin of Gang, Kopp & Tyre, repping Heindorf, said the decision would be appealed immediately. Legal circles said the unprecedented decision had the effect of extending a ruling of some years ago in the Cecil B. DeMille case, when courts held that a union has the right to take action affecting its members. Vickers' ruling appears to extend that right to actions which affect non-members as well.

Internal Revenue OK's Use of Pre-Tax Cut Tix

The Internal Revenue Dept. in Washington has notified exhibitors that they will be able to use tickets on hand for a "reasonable time" after the admissions tax is lifted on Sept. 1. The Government agency has stipulated, however, that a boxoffice sign must indicate clearly that there is no Federal tax. Overstamping of the tickets will not be required.

The department's action was based on the realization that there would not be sufficient time for all theatres to obtain new tickets. Exhib associations are advising their members to notify the local Internal Revenue office of all tickets subject to tax until Sept. 1 that they have on hand on Aug. 31. "If you obtain new tickets," it is advised, "and have no intention of using the old ones, the department will give you permission to destroy them. Do not do so without permission, however, lest some day in the future you might be presented with a demand for the tax on these tickets."

Schussel's A-P Post

Seymour Schussel, eastern division manager for IFE Releasing Corp. for the past four years, has joined Artists-Producers Associates as general sales manager.

Schussel's background includes the post of district manager for Eagle Lion when A. W. Schwalberg, topped the distribution division of E-L.

SW Brass in Boston For '7 Wonders' Preem

Boston, Aug. 28.

Preem of "Seven Wonders of the World" at the Boston Theatre last night (Mon.) brought in top execs of the Stanley Warner Corp. These included Samuel Rosen, executive veep; Harry Kalmine and Bernard Kranze, veeps. Lester B. Isaac, national director of exhibition; Harry Goldberg, advertising director, and Everett C. Callow, national publicity director.

Boston Chamber of Commerce sponsored the N. E. preem with part of the proceeds earmarked to promote industrial development in the area. Previously, Sunday night (26) a showing for press and trades went on. Red King, Cinerama pressagent, handled arrangements and exploitation.

New York Theatre
RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL
Rockefeller Center
BING GRACE FRANK
CROSBY · KELLY · SINATRA
in "HIGH SOCIETY"
in VistaVision and Color
An M-G-M Picture
and SPECTACULAR STAGE PRESENTATION

TV Networks Agree Something's Gotta Be Done in '60 to Correct 'Century's Dullest Political Meet'

By BILL STEIG

San Francisco, Aug. 28.

Most execs of all three major tv nets agree "something must be done" to tighten up telcvising of the Republican and Democratic conventions.

Not even President Eisenhower's speech at the Cow Palace here last Thursday (23) saved the GOP powwow from the dubious accolade of "the century's dullest political convention"—that's what an ABC official called it.

But the big question was, "What can we do about it?"

No one seemed to know, for sure.

NBC president Robert Sarnoff tossed out half a dozen hints last week that coverage might be cut down somewhat, and estimated NBC would drop "about one to two million dollars on the two meetings."

But Sarnoff never let himself get caught in the position of being thoroughly quizzed on a coverage cut, and told at least one interviewer (telemistress Marjorie Trumbull) that:

"Telcvision, being the public medium it is, there was no question about our covering these conventions. It's our business and our duty to bring this type of event to the public."

The nets this year carried, from Chicago and Frisco, a total of 169 hours and 13 minutes of coverage, exclusive of special programs they programmed from both cities.

CBS vice president Sig Mickelson thought this was too much, said he was sure CBS would lose money.

'Getting Out of Hand'

"I don't know how much exactly," he said, "but it's pretty evident that we may have to cut back a little on the conventions in 1960. I don't know how much, but it seems to be getting out of hand a bit."

NBC vice president William R. McAndrew, who ran news coverage here, was more emphatic, declared:

"There's no doubt, preemptions have hurt and hurt us hard. I don't know the exact figures, but Wednesday (22) night, especially, ran 'way over."

(GOP had promised to wind up third day's convention session by 7 p.m., Coast time, ran until 9:30.)

(Continued on page 40)

Gottlieb's Int'l 1-Shots

CBS-TV program exec Lester Gottlieb is blueprinting a series of hour-long one-shots for the network based on his European talent hunt last summer.

Three shows, berthed in London, Paris and Rome, are on the Gottlieb agenda, designed to capture the feel and the flavor of the world capitals, with the overall tag "This Is My City."

'Forgotten' Radio Alive & Kicking At Frisco Meet

San Francisco, Aug. 28.

Republican convention's stepchild, radio, was live and kicking at Cow Palace here last week, despite reports to contrary.

Not only that, but close to 140 independent radio stations throughout U. S. took advantage of Ampex-Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing offer of free tape facilities.

Ampex recorder people say 132 stations used facilities to cut 416 tapes in Chicago for Democratic convention and say figure is slightly higher in Frisco.

Twelve Ampex recorders were used and enterprising broadcasters like Kay Hines, KBMY, Billings, Mont., shot three and four locally angled tapes daily to stations.

Mutual, of course, had several dozen people on scene, was only radio net doing gavel-to-gavel job. Operating here under Milt Berg, New York, and Tony LaFrano, Hollywood, were Fulton Lewis, Jr., Virgil Pinkley, Cliff Engle, Cedric Foster, Bill Hillman, Bill Cunningham, Ed Pettit, Doug Mitchell, Bob Segrist.

Constance Bennett came up from Hollywood to do color for harried housewives on 550-station net.

Also using direct-wire facilities were five Westinghouse outlets in Boston, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Ft. Wayne and Portland, BBC and CBC, WHO (Des Moines); WLW (Cincinnati); WCAU (Philadelphia) and little KHUM (Eureka, Calif.).

Big nets—ANC, NBC, CBS—did simulcasts, tended to relegate radio to secondary role. This delighted MBS officials, who figured they could "do a thorough job because we have nothing else to think about."

SAMMY KAYE

Swinging and Swaying on tour

Aug. 31-Sept. 1—Wernersville, Pa.
Sept. 3—Mahanoy City, Pa.
Sept. 4—Brockville, Ont.
Sept. 5-6—Chateau St. Rose, Quebec

Columbia Records - current release, "The Rich People of Brooklyn" b/w "Dreamy River"

New Album Release: "WHAT MAKES SAMMY SWING" The greatest of swing classics Featuring the Swing & Sway Strings

$3,800,000 Hypo For NBC Radio

NBC Radio racked up some $3,800,000 net in new and renewed business over the past week, with most of it concentrated in "Monitor" and in nighttime participations, the latter under the "Top 10 Plan."

On the "Monitor" lineup are newcomers Nash autos, Pontiac, Crowell-Collier publishing, 20th-Fox, Florida Citrus, North American Van Lines, Bonadettes, National Sporting Goods Assn. and Sunshine Art Studios. In the nighttime lineup are Anahist, Kemper Insurance, Crowell-Collier, Beltone, Good Housekeeping, Penick & Ford, Q-Tips and Morton Salt. Renewed business comprises Allis-Chalmers, Skelly Oil, DeSoto-Plymouth Dealers ("You Bet Your Life") and Miles Laboratories.

Dreier's New NBC Show

Chicago, Aug. 28.

Alex Dreier, probably NBC's busiest newscaster, gets a new five-minute network spot starting Saturday (1) for Morton Salt at 12:25 p.m. To accommodate the news squib, web's "Farm and Home" show is being cut back to 25 minutes.

Allis Chalmers, meanwhile, has renewed the farm show for the 12th year.

Conventions Still Haunt Webs

The television networks are crossing their collective fingers, hopeful that they won't be tripped up on the "equal time" bugaboo as result of the indiscriminate showcasing of major political candidates during both the Chi and Frisco conventions. If the "equal time" advocates whose opponents were treated to free time wanted to get rough about it, the tv webs frankly concede they could be in for a lot of trouble.

Obviously during the day-to-day turmoil of trying to translate both the GOP and Demo powwows into effective video, the network impresarios weren't in any position to take on-the-spot stock of the situation in determining who was and who wasn't a high office aspirant (gubernatorial, senatorial or otherwise). But a lot of them did get on the rostrum or were cornered on the floor of the conventions.

Under the "equal time" provisions of the Federal Communications Act their opponents are in a position to cry "foul" and demand similar exposure should they demand that the networks stick to the letter of the Act. The webs are hoping, now that the conventions are a thing of the past, everything will be forgotten.

New York State, Master Video In Closed-Circuit Educ'l TV Deal

Albany, Aug. 28.

Signing of a contract between the State Education Department and Master Video Systems, of New York City, for closed-circuit installations at the State Teachers Colleges in Albany and in Brockport, and at the Division Ave. High School and the Levittown Memorial High School in the Town of Hempstead, L. I., was revealed here Monday (27) by Commissioner James E. Allen, Jr.

Hailed as the first of its kind in the history of New York State for educational television, the leasing agreement provides for the payment of $12,000 monthly, commencing Oct. 1, and running through April 30, 1957; for the payment of $9,500 monthly, from May 1 to April 30, 1958. This includes services.

The contract, approved by the Attorney General and the State Comptroller, will be financed from a $200,000 appropriation to the Education Department approved by the Legislature and Gov. Harriman at the 1956 session. The Governor originally recommended a larger appropriation, including the purchase of an available station (then believed to be WTRI) for educational television in Albany.

The State Education Department's Television Unit, of which Francis E. Almstead, special consultant on educational video, is head, will provide consultative service on television production methods and teaching techniques. The State will also furnish a technician and an instructional televi-

(Continued on page 40)

Considine May Host 'Hellinger Theatre'

Las Vegas, Aug. 28.

Negotiations are under way for INS writer Bob Considine to host upcoming "Mark Hellinger Theater," tv series that will be produced independently by Jack Entratter and Charlie Weintraub. Entratter says he plans to start the series by next month and that four scripts have already been approved by he and Weintraub.

Entratter also owns three other video properties purchased this year, and has been huddling with NBC officials to produce four specs during the coming season.

Quinlan's Daytime 'Not for Kiddies' Program Revamp

Chicago, Aug. 28.

In one of his periodic revampings, veep Sterling (Red) Quinlan has rejuggled WBKB's daytime program lineup virtually from top to bottom. New lineup bowing Monday (3) will be angled for the adult audience although a couple of kiddie shows will be used with new formats.

The ABC-TV station is hitting the air an hour early weekdays, opening at 7 a.m. with a 60-minute "Breakfast Bandstand" hosted by Ronny Born. Next hour will be targeted at the moppets with Angle Casey and her "Play House" and Win Stracke filling individual segments of the "Morning Spectacular" with Art Hern as the overall majordomo.

Francois Pope's "Creative Cookery" moves up to the 9 to 10 slot from its present 11 to noon berth. Culinary display will be followed by Allen Funt's "Candid Camera" films. This segues into a 90-minute feature film with Norman Ross at the controls.

At noon Ernic Simon resumes his "Curbstone Cutup" routine with the sidewalk interviews coming from under the marquee of the Chicago Theatre. Former "Happy Pirates" kids' show is being dropped from the lunchhour slot with Dick (Two Ton) Baker switch-

(Continued on page 40)

PONTIAC'S TV COIN FOR ELECTION NIGHT

Pontiac, which at the end of last season pulled out of network television, is pouring some spot coin into election night coverage via cutin purchases on three CBS-TV o&o's and a fourth key affiliate. Automaker has purchased the five-minute local cutins on WCBS-TV, N. Y., KNXT, Los Angeles, WXIX, Milwaukee and WTOP-TV, Washington, with the local returns running every half-hour from 9 p.m. till signoff in each of the markets.

Buys were set via MacManus, John & Adams, Pontiac agency whose prez, Ernest Jones, found himself embroiled in controversy a couple of months ago when he claimed television can't sell cars.

CBS-TV's $500,000 For 'Bride' Reruns

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Sale of his residual and rerun interest in CBS-TV's "December Bride" has been finalized by Park Levy, who created and is producer and head writer on the situation comedy series. CBS is reported paying more than $500,000 for 100 issues of "Bride," the payment to be spread over 15 years.

In acquiring Levy's 50% interest, CBS now owns 75% with the remaining 25% belonging to Desilu Productions, which films the series. If the show goes into its fourth year, Levy figures to pocket nearly $700,000. Spring Byington, star of the piece, is also cut in for a small percentage of the profit.

William Morris agency negotiated the sale for Levy. Deal is now in the works for sale of British rights.

Victor Wolfson to CBS For TV 'Climax' Series

Novelist and playwright Victor Wolfson has joined CBS-TV as associate producer on the "Climax!" series. Wolfson's been represented of late on television (including "Climax!") as well as in the theatre ("Excursion," "Pride's Crossing") and as a novelist ("The Lonely Steeple," "Eagle on the Plains").

Wolfson's latest novel, incidentally, is due for publication this fall. Titled "Day and Age," it will be published by Simon & Schuster.

'Beat Clock' Sold To Hazel Bishop

"Beat the Clock," axed from its Saturday 7:30 berth on CBS-TV by Sylvania, which bought "The Buccaneer" for next season, is getting a reprieve, thanks to Hazel Bishop coin. Cosmetic outfit is splurging heavily on the quiz game, putting in an order for all available stations coast-to-coast for the Saturday at 7 segment.

Since this is station time, network is now in process of maneuvering all possible station clearances. As of the past weekend time had been cleared on more than 75 stations.

"Clock" debuts Sept. 22 for its new sponsor.

WINCHELL'S VEGAS ORIGINATION IN NOV.

Las Vegas, Aug. 28.

Walter Winchell's Nov. 7 variety show for NBC-TV will emanate from the Copa Room of the Sands hotel, and will star Lena Horne, who will be the headliner at the resort. Deal was set between WW and Sands producer Jack Entratter during Winchell's trip here last week to introduce Rober a Sherwood's Las Vegas debut at the New Frontier.

Winchell also disclosed that Perry Como and Cyd Charisse have been pacted for his Oct. 5 vidshow. Additionally, Winchell said he will introduce Judy Garland when the singer returns to the Palace theatre next month.

Frisco Post-Mortems

San Francisco, Aug. 28.

NBC's Dave Brinkley, explaining two complete roll calls of GOP convention delegates last week, remarked:

"There's been so much peace and harmony here, and so many banjo players and male quartets, that delegates have hardly appeared on tv at all."

* * *

Ex-President Hoover's speech at Cow Palace was scheduled for late Tuesday (21), but at last minute Republicans realized talk might conflict with televising Ike's arrival at Frisco Airport and Hoover was hastily moved forward.

* * *

Real news was so short at convention—and ballyhoo so long—that bored newsmen suggested NBC have its lipreader, Dolores Mona, do a job on another top-billed NBC performer, J. Fred Muggs.

* * *

Just in case Irving Berlin forgot words to his own song, "Four More Years," his nephew, Irving Kahn, who's president of Teleprompter, coached Berlin in gadget's use. When he appeared at convention, Berlin said "What little voice I had I've lost," then proceeded to belt out new tune in inimitable style.

* * *

ABC's Paul Harvey, lining up interviews near Cow Palace's Cabinet box, hollered to coworker, "Hey, what's that joker's name—the guy who took McKay's place?" Whereupon, from a seat two feet away, a man tapped Harvey on the back. "The name is Seaton," said the Secretary of the Interior.

* * *

One actor did a four-a-day for convention. He was Irving Fisher, who played Harry Truman in "Call Me Madam," strolled through Fairmont Hotel's lobby at 4:09, 5:09, 6:09 and 7.09 a.m. for NBC's "Today"— startled televiewers cross-country because he looks so much like HST.

* * *

Leo Carrillo came very near stealing show at California Governor Knight's ball in Civic Auditorium, where 10,000 Republicans drank champagne, ate crab newburg and watched Helen Traubel, Wiere Bros., Step Bros., and emcee Art Linkletter. Carrillo got big ovation, heavy yocks with im-

(Continued on page 40)

NETWORKS TO FEE-TV: 'COME IN'

Tues.: TV's 414G Giveaway Nite

As things shape up now, Tuesday night will go into the books as the night the networks gave away nearly half a million dollars. More specifically, a shuffle among the top quiz shows finds three of the big money shows all concentrated on Tuesday with a grand total giveaway that could reach $414,000 in one night. The breakdown: "Big Surprise," $100,000 at 8 p.m.; "$64,000 Question," that much at 10 and "Break the Bank," $250,000 at 10:30. (There's still another quizzer, also at 10:30, the Edgar Bergen "Do You Trust Your Wife," but the loot can't be pinned down to an absolute sum, since the top prize has been $100 a week for life.)

If the situation has as many angles as a porcupine, that's all part of a shuffle that sees the Norman, Craig & Kummel agency looking to avenge itself upon Revlon (which changed agencies shortly after NC&K hit the jackpot for the Revson brothers with 64G) by grabbing the NBC 8 p.m. slot for client Speidel and "Surprise," shifting that segment from Saturdays. Whether the slotting against Phil Silvers competition will pay off is another question, but NC&K figures that the 100G jackpot on "Surprise" could certainly take the edge off anything that happens 90 minutes later on "$64,000 Question."

As to the "Break the Bank" entry, there are some unanswered questions here as well, chiefly whether the program will even get on the air, what with Benrus playing it coy about whether it wants alternate weeks with Lanolin Plus or not. But assuming the sponsor problems are solved, the question arises as to where the saturation point sets in—can that $250,000 bundle attract quiz-weary viewers after they've been through the mill already? "Bank" has one thing in its favor—the only network competition is another quizzer. "Do You Trust Your Wife," and the "Bank" prize is bigger.

'Press Conference' Cues Breakup Of NBC-TV Music-News 7:30-8 Strip

First step in what may be the eventual breakup of NBC-TV's 7:30 to 8 music and news strips in favor of half-hour programming is set for Oct. 29, when "Press Conference" moves into the Monday 7:30 period as a 25-minute entry. Program will be followed with five minutes of news by John Cameron Swayze.

As of now, and at least until January and more likely till next fall, the Tuesday through Friday segments will remain the same, with Monday the only break in the quarter-hour continuity. But insiders see it only as a matter of time before the network goes the full week with half-hour programs for the period.

Reason for the selection of Monday is fairly obvious—the musical quarter-hour on that date still isn't set, neither with property or with sponsor, while the 7:45 to 8 "News Caravan" is blank sponsorwise after Oct. 29, when National Carbon's four-week pact runs out. There's still an option out to DuPont, but nothing's happened yet. Other four nights are reasonably well set, with Eddie Fisher and "Coke Time" going Wednesdays and Fridays, Dinah Shore for Chevy on Thursdays and no show yet but Lewis Howe Co. is set to sponsor the Wednesday musical segment. On the news side, Sperry Rand has Tuesdays, Miles Labs Fridays and alternate Wednesdays, and Time-Life the other Wednesday, leaving only Thursdays open. Chet Huntley will take on the four full news shows, with

(Continued on page 40)

MM&M Likes MM

Chicago, Aug. 28.

Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing has decided to stick with ABC-TV's "Mickey Mouse Club" for another year, thus eight of the 20 quarter-hour segments on the Walt Disney-produced daytimer are nailed down for the fall semester. MM&M is continuing with the final Monday 15 minutes on which it alternates with Miles Laboratory. Agency is BBD&O.

Westinghouse In Pre-Emption Bid On 'Studio One'

Whether or not Westinghouse considers it got a fair shake from its two-week saturation coverage of the GOP-Demo conventions, for which it plunked down $5,000,000, there's one postscript to the sponsorship that CBS-TV can't escape—Westinghouse would like to cut back on its "Studio One" bankrolling and has asked the network to oblige with some preemptions.

At least one preemption is in the cards for the fall and the network is now blueprinting a special one-hour show for the Monday night 10 to 11 hour which will be available for outside sponsorship. Since Shulton has put in an order for a 60-minute special geared to holiday season merchandising of its shaving lotion and allied products, it's possible that the one-shot will be turned over to the company.

Westinghouse continues to sponsor "Studio One" solo and is committed for the entire new season, but there had been talk on and off that the company would feel much happier if CBS would latch on to an alternate-week client.

Shirley Booth's 'Tree' To CBS-TV?

Although the projected Shirley Booth performance in George Kelly's "The Torchbearers" as one of the entries in the CBS-TV "Ford Star Jubilee" series has gone out the window. Miss Booth may still wind up doing one of the major Ford specs during the season.

CBS now wants Miss Booth to repeat her legit musical role in "A Tree Grows In Brooklyn," which would be adapted for the 90-minute tv showcase. It has a score by Arthur Schwartz, who is committed to three Ford specs next season.

"Tree," incidentally, marked CBS-TV's initial excursion into legit financing. Unlike the web's happy stake in "My Fair Lady," CBS lost a bundle of dough in financing the earlier show when it played the Alvin, N.Y. (Theatre, too, is owned by CBS.)

WESSON OIL BUYS SID CAESAR TV'ER

Wesson Oil, whose deal for a Vitapix filmed-network sponsorship of "Blondie" recently fell through, has returned to more orthodox sponsorship patterns with the purchase of one-third of the NBC-TV Sid Caesar show. Wesson will carry one-third 15 weeks during the winter (starting Sept. 22) and for five summer weeks.

Since the series had already been two-thirds sold, the Wesson buy puts the show into the SRO fold, except for 15 winter and five summer weeks still open to one-third sponsorship.

FATE MAY HANG ON SPEC RATINGS

By GEORGE ROSEN

Judging by the turnabout on the part of the tv networks, they're moving into a position where they're practically extending an open invitation to the toll-tv impresarios to move in and take over in the area of spectacular and special events programming.

This is a singular and peculiar state of affairs in video where, on the one hand, the networks make no bones over their hostility to the whole concept of pay-as-you see, yet by manipulating their own retreat into the old established pattern of half-hour and 60-minute programming are leaving the "big big showcase" field wide open for the toll-tv forces.

There is no question but that the television networks over the past two seasons have whet the appetites of the American viewing public for the spectacular and extended forms of programming. True, in most cases it's been a minority public, but since even a minority public where specs are concerned is measured in terms of 20,000,000 and even 30,000,000 people, translated into toll-tv reception that's a whopping success.

The signs are unmistakable. NBC-TV has already blueprinted a return to two half-hour formats for the Tuesday 8 to 9 spread—the hour in which comedy extravaganzas were inceptcd. And not generally known is that the Sunday night 9 to 10 Alcoa-Goodyear hour came within a hair's breadth of being converted into half-hour slots next season during the recent program overhaul. NBC's program braintrusters did some Nielsen-Trendex rating comparisons and liked what they saw on the 30-minute breakdowns vs. the full-hour show. And even though the 60-minute dramatic showcase gets another whirl during '56-'57 with the Alcoa-Goodyear properties to make like big one-shot entries, actually it's in the nature of a season's reprieve. A return to the half-hour form has not been written off for the following season, depending on how the new entries fare.

CBS, though still waving the 90-minute "Ford Star Jubilee" flag and introducing weekly 90-minute dramas next season via "Playhouse 90," has always championed the bread-and-butter 30-minute shows, which have given the web their most stunning Nielsen successes. While Ford is back for another spec whirl, it's not precisely a secret that the auto company would gladly have settled for a prize 30-minute time period if it were available on the network. Thus the fate of "Jubilee" beyond next season is highly speculative.

It's chiefly to the Monday night "Producers' Showcase" series on NBC-TV that the champions of the spec concept must look in perpetuating the trend. If the ratings are respectable, the network specs might be here to stay. If they fail to measure up on the cost-per-thousand yardstick (average cost per "Showcase" is $300,000), then it's generally conceded they will have had their day—leaving the field wide open for the toll-tv invasion on super-type programming.

Fabray's Freelance Way

Nanette Fabray has decided to freelance this year, after huddling with both NBC and CBS on offers of exclusive contracts. Her first major assignment as a freelancer will be the recreation of her stage lead in "High Button Shoes" for NBC in November.

Actress said her freelance status doesn't necessarily rule out the possibility of a situation comedy series for next year, one of the possibilities she discussed with the networks.

Booz, Allen's NBC Blueprint Calls For 'Big 7' Team; Board Acts Sept. 7

Sunday Scorecard

Kirk Douglas and the U. S. Navy combined on the Ed Sullivan show to beat out NBC's Steve Allen again on the weekend Trendex scoreboard, but Allen nonetheless moved up a couple of notches to get to within four points of the hospitalized columnist. The Sunday 8 to 9 Trendex gave the Sullivan show, with Kirk Douglas emceeing and Navy talent featured, a 20.8, while Allen, with Buddy Hackett, Gregory Ratoff and Jaye P. Morgan guesting, scored a 16.9.

ABC again ran last, with "Famous Film Festival" garnering a 3.7.

The Booz, Allen & Hamilton blueprint for the NBC administrative setup has been finalized and reposes on the desk of network prexy Robert W. Sarnoff. It is subject to approval of the board of directors when it meets on Sept. 7 and expectations are that it will be formalized at that time.

The B-A-H management study, which had been in progress for several months, provides for a "Big Seven" operational team, topped, of course, by prexy Sarnoff, under whom four executive vice-presidents will function. These include David S. Adams, staff veepee and generally regarded as the "NBC braintrust"; Tom McAvity, who heads up the television network; Charles Denny, head of the o & o operations and spot sales and J. M. Clifford, the personnel management veepee.

In addition Manie Sacks will operate within the same high level continuing as advisor to Sarnoff as veepee for both NBC and the parent RCA, along with Ken Bilby, v.p. in charge of public relations. All six will report to prexy Sarnoff.

Meanwhile there's speculation as to Denny's possible expanded status, for in addition to continuing with the o & o operation and spot sales, it's understood he may move into the NBC radio area. (Joe Culligan was named last week to succeed Charles Ayres as veepee in charge of the radio network.)

Interesting to note is that all the advancements involve key personalities from within the NBC organization whereas when Booz, Allen & Hamilton "surveyed" the company eight years ago, it resulted in bringing in practically a whole new top management team.

Susan Hayward's 100G Demand For TV Spec Gets Nix

The tv networks are characterizing as "real crazy" the kind of coin being asked by major film stars for one-shot appearances on specs. Latest illustration is that of Susan Hayward, who was sought by Showcase Productions, packagers of "Producers' Showcase," as the lead in the October presentation of Somerset Maugham's "The Letter," which William Wyler will produce-direct.

Miss Hayward asked for $100,000 for the one-time appearances. Negotiations stopped right there. Since Vivien Leigh had previously expressed interest in doing the show, efforts are being made to line her up. This will depend on the state of her health in view of her recent miscarriage. Also mentioned as possibilities for the lead role: Jennifer Jones adn Joan Fontaine.

"Showcase" season opens next month with an original musical, "The Lord Don't Play Favorites," starring Kay Starr and Louis Armstrong.

WTVN IN COLUMBUS SEVERS MUTUAL TIE

Columbus, Aug. 28.

WTVN Radio here ended its basic affiliation with the Mutual Broadcasting System last Friday (24). Both the network and the station said it was an amicable parting.

In announcing the action, acting manager Sam Johnston of WTVN said: "Under an independent type of operation, we feel that we can offer listeners of Columbus and throughout Ohio better programs, better service and more entertainment in the local public interest.

"Extensive sports and special event coverage are being planned for the coming fall, including high school football, basketball and live coverage of the City Council."

Johnston said that WTVN would pick up certain individual Mutual shows. Meanwhile, in New York, a spokesman for Mutual said that the network would like to line up another Columbus radio station to become a basic affiliate.

Allan Finn Exits CBS

Allan Finn has resigned as manager of the CBS Radio Press Information Dept. Finn moved into the department only a couple of months ago, having been brought over from CBS Television, where he was a senior staffer.

No future plans set.

TV 'Lysistrata' Runs Into Snags

Proposed production of "Lysistrata," scheduled as the February entry in the "Producers' Showcase" series of specs on NBC-TV, has run into a succession of snags, with result that it's being put on ice temporarily. However, efforts will be made to bring it in next May as the season's final offering.

John Huston, who has been signed to produce-direct the spec, now finds that he'll be tied up on the new Marlon Brando-Deborah Kerr pic, Charles Kaufman, pacted to do the tv adaptation, will be busy in London on a Joan Crawford film. And word from abroad is that Marilyn Monroe may not be free to play the lead.

As a possible substitute, a tv version of "Pal Joey" ay go in. John Hancock Insurance Co. is picking up the tab on the February entry.

Brit. Govt. Officially Dubs Com'l TV Success, Based on 'The People'

London, Aug. 28.

It's the official Government view that commercial tv in Britain has been a success. This was expressed by Reginald Maudlin, Minister of Supply, when he opened the Radio Show at Earl's Court, on Wednesday (22). He said: "The decision to embark on an alternative and competitive program has proved a great success as measured by the views of the people whose views really matter—the public."

The British radio industry, he continued, had become one of the major national industries with quite remarkable speed. Turnover now exceeded $560,000,000 a year; exports, which before the war were $5,600,000, now touched $112,000,000 and were still rising.

House Unit Releases Secret Documents On 'Web Domination' Charges Re FCC; Lee's Telephoned 'Advice' to Stanton

Washington, Aug. 28.

Confidential documents relating to charges of undue influence over the FCC by the major networks were made public today (Tues.) by the subcommittee of the House Small Business Committee, which had investigated the charges some months ago and held hearings early in July. The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Joe E. Evans (D., Tenn.), had held executive sessions at that time and had also subpoenaed some 12,000 documents from CBS and NBC, but inserted into the record which was made public today only eight CBS documents and the reply to a lengthy questionnaire submitted to the FCC.

Highlight of the transcript was the conversation between FCC Comr. Robert E. Lee and CBS prez Frank Stanton, of which reports had been circulating since the hearings. Conversation referred to CBS' channel swap with Zenith in Chicago and its impending purchase of WXIX in Milwaukee. Telephone talk which Lee made to Stanton, took place at 9:45 a.m. on Aug. 13, 1954 and ran as follows:

"I have given a little bit of thought and study to our problem. I would say on the Chicago thing —it's my impression that you have nothing to worry about. I don't think anything would be jeopardized by anything else you do.

"On Milwaukee, I am not in a good position to advise you. I am almost afraid to say anything that might influence you because I could be so wrong. No matter what you did there I am sure it would not reflect on the Chicago deal. As a matter of fact, you have got some time on the Milwaukee business. I doubt if that multiple ownership stuff will go through for a couple of months. The opinion seems to be that we would need a full commission to finalize it, and everybody seems to be going somewhere for the next couple of months. The only point I can really make is that I feel confident that on the Chicago deal it is all right. I could be wrong, you know, but I think that is pretty solid."

Other documents consisted mostly of memoranda among CBS execs on conversations they had held with FCC commissioners, apparently relating mainly to color

(Continued on page 38)

Stumping '56 Style

Boston, Aug. 28.

A new radio trend in politico barnstorming is being set up here by Lt. Gov. Sumner Whittier, running for Governor of Mass. on the Republican ticket. Instead of the old time rallies, in his stumping of the state, he will buy time on radio stations, set up a battery of phones and answer questions of the voters from the station.

Whittier, four years ago, appeared on Sherm Feller's WDVA disk jock show, talked and answered questions. Response was so big that he was immediately sold on radio and bought time on WDVA. For the upcoming gubernatorial campaign he is going all out on radio especially in eastern and western Mass.

Pearson Pharmacal Changes Mind, Pulls Out of 'Navy Log'

Pearson Pharmacal Co., which was to have sponsored "Navy Log" with Pall Mall on ABC-TV, has decided it can't afford the longterm commitment and has set off a hunt for a cosponsor for Pall Mall, with the combination of ABC, packager CBS Television Film Sales and Pall Mall agency SSC&B all joining in the search.

Reason for the agency's interest in grabbing off an alternate bankroller is the fact that since shooting is already underway on the new cycle, Pall Mall has agreed to every-week sponsorship on the show for 13 weeks or until a sponsor is found, whichever comes first. If a bankroller can't be found by then, the cigaret will look for a new property. Meanwhile, some interest is stirring at Royal Typewriter Co., considering its first try at network tv, but no deal yet.

BERLE TO EUROPE, PILOT ROLLS SEPT. 16

Milton Berle is swinging back into action, this time as star of a comedy-adventure series to be located in Paris and to be produced and directed by Sheldon Reynolds. Berle leaves for the Continent on Monday (3) to start filming of two pilot reels on Sept. 16 in the series, which is being made for NBC-TV.

Films will be screened before GI audiences overseas, both for reaction and for laughtrack dubbings. Reynolds left for preproduction chores in Paris yesterday (Tues.).

GORDON DUFF PACTS CBS-TV CONTRACT

Gordon Duff, vet director who's been associated primarily with NBC shows over the past few years, has signed an exclusive producer-director contract with CBS-TV. Duff's been primarily associated with "Philco Playhouse" and "Justice," along with other Talent Associates ventures.

In moving to Columbia, he joins other ex-"Philcoites" like Arthur Penn and Vincent Donehue. They've been assigned to the "Playhouse 90" series, but Duff hasn't been handed a specific show yet. Apart from his directorial stints on "Philco," he had produced the drama series for some months about a year ago.

WABD Firms Up New Season Sked; 55% SRO Status

WABD, N. Y., now firming up its fall programming schedule, has about 55% of its approaching programming sponsored, with the remainder of the time open for spot participations.

For the fall, the DuMont indie has a number of new live shows either set or on the drawing boards, in addition to recently acquired telefilm series and the 60 Warner Bros. features.

For Saturday night, WABD is planning a "live" rock 'n' roll one hour show, starting at 9, with talks going on with deejay Art Ford, of WNEW, for an emcee role. Its 60 Warners features will be telecast on Sundays, from 3 to 5 and 9 to 11, time slots for which the indie has raised its rates.

Station will utilize its large batch of cartoons, such as Looney Tunes, Little Lulu's and Bugs Bunny, for a series of children's shows, most of which will be stripped across the board either afternoon or early evening. Hosting one of the new kiddie shows will be Herb Sheldon, spotted for the "Speaking of Animals" Paramount shorts in a 15-minute strip program, beginning at 7:15 p.m.

Sheldon, who will continue his Saturday morning program on WRCA-TV, also is being considered by WABD for a daily women's show and host for another comedy cartoon show this fall, tentatively titled "Screen Souvenirs."

Among the new telefilm series for the station will be "Championship Bowling," "Frontier," Gene Autry episodes, "Waterfront," "Lili Palmer Theatre," Mickey Rooney skein and "The Great Gildersleeve."

The two "live" sports shows, boxing from St. Nicholas Arena Monday nights and wrestling from Washington Thursday nights will be continued. The two-hour boxing show is being sponsored by Gallo Wine and El Producto Cigars.

Who Owns TV Stations?

Washington, Aug. 28.

House Small Business subcommittee today (Tues.) released a breakdown of tv station ownership secured from the FCC during hearings some months ago over relations between the Commission and the networks. Breakdown is as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Daily newspapers (full or part ownership) | 139 |
| Magazines or weekly newspapers | 9 |
| Electronics manufacturers (other than RCA and CBS) | 15 |
| Theatre interests (other than AB-PT) | 42 |
| Educational institutions | 23 |
| | (4 comm'l) |

List of multiple ownership by interests other than the networks showed George B. Storer on top with seven stations, RKO Teleradio next with five, the Mormon Church, Crosley, Westinghouse and Meredith Publishing next with four and Time-Life, Cascade Broadcasting, Central Broadcasting and Triangle Publications with three each.

Jean Shepherd: Part III

Back for Umpteenth Time to WOR and for Soap Company He Ribbed

The Jean Shepherd-WOR (N.Y.) honeymoon isn't over after all. The on-again, off-again ad infinitum romance now sees Shepherd rehired by the station for umpteenth time, this time on the strength of a bid from the very advertiser for whom a gag on-the-air pitch got him cut off and fired the last time.

Sweetheart Soap, which Shepherd free-plugged as a gag a week ago Thursday (16) and got cut off the air and fired for his pains, has told the station it wants to sponsor Shepherd for a good part of a four-hour Sunday night stint, and so the station has done a turnabout again and asked Shepherd to return and do the show. He's agreed, though no contract has been signed yet. Because of this latter formality, WOR doesn't know how much Sweetheart will sponsor since it can't give the client a price on the show until it pins down Shepherd.

At any rate, he'll be back starting this Sunday (2), from 9:05 p.m. to 1 a.m., plugging Sweetheart for real. The WOR deal, as it's contemplated, would leave him free for radio and tv work elsewhere. He's currently dickering a late-night remote from Johnny Johnstone's Charcoal Room, station yet to be determined.

Maggi's WINS Show

Gabber Maggi McNellis who got her start on WINS, N. Y., in 1943, returns to the radio indie Monday (3) in a 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. slot.

Show, however, will be primarily music, with Miss McNellis spinning disks, doing some features and occasionally interviewing a personality cross-the-board.

WNEW's '5717' Series Evaluates Jewish Role In Society Enrichment

The Jewish mayor of Dublin, President Eisenhower, Sammy Davis Jr., Steve Allen and other show biz celebs will be featured in a series of broadcasts, commemorating the Jewish New Year, to be aired by WNEW, N.Y.

Titled "5717," the series will be broadcast from Sept. 4 thru Sept. 13, from 10:45 to 11 p.m., except Saturday, Sept. 8 over WNEW. It was produced in cooperation with the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, parent body of the Western Hemisphere's 534 reform temples.

One of the segments, "Folklore," will be aired by the Mutual net on Sept 6 from 7:15 to 7:30 p.m.

Programs, divided into nine 15-minute segments, consider the gifts which Judaism and the Jewish people have made to the enrichment of society. Different shows highlight a variety of fields: "Folklore," with Peter Donald and Sammy Davis, Jr.; "Humor" with Steve Allen and Morey Amsterdam; "Theatre," with Luther Adler and Joseph Schildkraut; "Music," with Dr. Sigmund Spaeth and Richard Tucker; "Law," with professor William Kunstler, N.Y. State Attorney General Jacob K. Javits and Cecil B. DeMille; and "Popular Music," with Dr. Spaeth and Richard Rodgers.

Arnold Moss will serve as host of the program "Homelands," which features messages from Mayor Briscoe of Dublin, Lord Samuel from London, David Ben-Gurion from Israel and Pierre Mendes-France from Paris.

KOVACS PERMANENT SUB ON 'TONIGHT'

Ernies Kovacs has been signed as permanent host-star of the Monday and Tuesday segments of NBC-TV's "Tonight," starting Oct. 1 under an exclusive deal that ties him to NBC for both tv and radio. Kovacs will do the show without his wife and partner, Edith Adams, since she's slated to join the Broadway musical, "Li'l Abner," which makes her avaliability for the show dubious. No staff or format has been worked out yet, but Kovacs, who had originally been eyed for a Sept. 17 start, will spend the additional two weeks working on material for the show.

Meanwhile, for the last few weeks, NBC has set Jack Paar for Sept. 4 and Morey Amsterdam for Sept. 10-11. Exec producer Dick Linkroum has signed Tony Randle, who handled Monday's (27) and last night's segments, to return for the last two weeks (17-18, 24-25).

Whitney's Major TV Station Stake

J. H. (Jock) Whitney & Co. invasion of station ownership field, which thus far had bought KOTV, Tulsa, and 90% of KGUL-TV, Galveston, rolled into high gear last week with the $10,000,000 purchase of the stock of Universal Broadcasting Co., which owns and operates WISH-TV (and AM) in Indianapolis and WINT-TV and WANE in Ft. Wayne. All the Whitney properties are CBS affiliates.

Deal, subject to FCC approval, calls for several of the Universal stockholders to join the board of Indiana Broadcasting Co., the new Whitney subsidiary which will operate the stations. C. Bruce McConnell, prez and a director of Universal, joins the Indiana board, as do Stokes Gresham Jr. and Frank E. McKinney. Robert B. McConnell, one of the selling stockholders, will continue as general manager of the Indianapolis stations.

C. Wrede Petersmeyer, a partner in the Whitney firm, becomes president and a director of Indiana Broadcasting. Whitney investment operation's other interests include oil and gas, electronics, frozen foods, power tools and the shipping and chemical fields. New York station broker Howard E. Stark repped the Whitney firm in the deal.

Food Fair Buys 'Popcorn Theatre'

"Popcorn Theatre," the hour-long Guild Films kiddie show, is set for New York exposure starting Sept. 8 on WABC-TV. Food Fair stores has bought the complete show for Saturday mornings from 10 to 11.

Al Paul Lefton agency of Philly repped Food Fair.

WBC Finalizes WIND Purchase

Chicago, Aug. 28.

Westinghouse Broadcasting Corp.'s purchase of WIND for the record-breaking price of $5,300,000 was formalized Friday (24) and now needs only FCC approval to be finalized. Under the terms of the transaction, present WIND ownership will receive 91,775 shares of Westinghouse Electric stock at Friday's price on the Big Board of $57.6.

Also included in the sale is the construction permit for a UHF television station on Chi's Channel 20 which was granted the WIND ownership in March, 1953, but hasn't been activated.

It's believed a WBC bid has gone out to prexy Ralph Atlass to remain at the helm of the 5,000-watter which in the past 25 years he has parlayed into one of the most successful indies in the business. A pioneer of the music-news-sports format, WIND emerged postwar as a serious challenger of CBS' WBBM for top Windy City honors in billings and ratings. Latter station is managed by veep H. Leslie Atlass, Ralph's brother.

Sale involves both branches of the Atlass family, with Ralph owning 11% and the CBS veep's three youngsters—Les Jr., Frank and Harriet—owning 29.7%. Members of the Wrigley family own 26.4% and the John S. Knight newspaper interests 27.7%. WIND commercial manager John Carey, who likely will stay on under the WBC banner, owns 5.5%.

Bolger Bounces 'Telescope' From Sun. Slot; NBC Opera Affected, Too

Fate of "Telescope," the series of filmed "telementaries" originally scheduled to alternate with "Wide Wide World" on NBC-TV this fall, is now up in the air as a result of the Helene Curtis deal putting the Ray Bolger "Washington Square" series into the Sunday afternoon slot. One thing's definite—"Telescope" won't run on Sunday afternoons; if at all, it may be used on a preemption one-shot basis weekday nights, same as "Project 20" has been scheduled on the network.

The Ben Park-helmed series, originally scheduled for 11 shows, is down to nine and may be reduced to just three or four which are already in the advanced stage. One of these would be the James Michener hosted "Assignment: Southeast Asia." Another, with most of the footage in the can, would be "Maurice Chevalier's Paris," filmed on location with the star by Ted Mills. A third would be the show on doctors.

"Telescope" isn't the only casualty of the Bolger deal, since the six NBC Opera offerings will be pushed into less favorable time. Opera will be aired at 2:30 to 4 (2 to 4 in the case of two-hour offerings) instead of the more favorable 4 to 5:30. Current plans call for "Wide Wide World" to occupy the 4 to 5:30 period on alternate weeks over a 40-week span. Bolger show starts Oct. 21 (later than WWW) in the alternate-week 4 to 5 period over a 28-week span, with "Outlook" as a probable entry for the alternate-week 5 to 5:30 period, though the web may place a new segment in there. But the shuffle leaves "Telescope" in the cold.

Curtis, incidentally, has upped the ante on the Bolger show from cosponsorship of 14 shows to cosponsorship of 17. The three additional shows will be run after the 14 Sunday segments are completed, and will be slotted one on a Tuesday night and the other two on Thursdays. One of the three will be aired in late spring, the other two next summer.

THE LAST MILLION'S HARDEST

Murrow, McBoing-Boing Going Steady

Television, like politics, makes for strange bedfellows, but none perhaps stranger than Edward R. Murrow and Gerald McBoing-Boing. The CBS-TV commentator and the UPA animated character are slated to alternate in the same time slot come winter.

Murrow, with his "See It Now," will telecast once monthly on Sundays at 5 to 6 p.m. starting in October. On the other three weeks, CBS-TV will fill with pro football during the fall, but come December and it will have to schedule regular programs. So a tentative decision has been reached to put "Mr. McBoing-Boing," the new UPA series which the cartoonery is creating for the network, into the Sunday 5:30 spot three weeks out of four, starting Dec. 23. No sponsorship yet on the cartoon series, nor on Murrow.

As to the three-weeks-out-of-four 5 to 5:30 spot, no decision has been reached, but the web will probably schedule a more orthodox entry out of the public affairs sector.

'Playhouse 90's' Got Spec-Size Sponsor Problem On Its Hands

CBS-TV has been unable thus far to establish an SRO sponsorship status on its forthcoming "Playhouse 90" series (there's still an alternate-week hour to be disposed of, which makes up the difference between a billing's success or failure for the high-budgeted 90-minute Thursday night showcase.)

All of which contributes an addenda to "this crazy television business." Reluctance of clients to move into "Playhouse 90" (which, incidentally, rates as the major new entry on all the networks) stems from a variety of factors. Firstly, the whole concept of "Playhouse 90" comes under the heading of "innovation," since it will not only be part of a solid two-and-a-half-hour dramatic slotting (back-to-back with "Climax") but represents a daring "first" in slotting a weekly 90-minute drama. Since a couple of million dollars is at stake for the alternate-week ride, to the average sponsor that represents an uppercase risk.

But perhaps even more of a factor is the competitive Thursday night setup which will find "Playhouse 90" opposite "Lux Video Theatre" on NBC. The latter has moved into serious Top 10 contention on the Nielsens.

What makes the whole thing real crazy is that CBS originally knocked Lux out of the Thursday night box on CBS (first as a full-hour showcase and later in half-hour form) which invited the Lux switchover to NBC. Now CBS is trying to hit back with a bigger-than-ever drama series.

Tootsie's 'Tales'

Tootsie Roll (Sweets Co. of America) is moving into the CBS-TV sponsorship roster with the purchase of alternate weeks on "Tales of the Texas Rangers," the Saturday morning Screen Gems entry on the web. It will share the tab with General Mills.

Sweets Co. replaces another candy outfit bowing out after less than a season, Curtiss Candy.

'Our Miss Brooks' Daytime Reruns; Ax Carson Show

Evidently impressed with the daytime track record of filmed reruns of situation comedies, CBS-TV is going the full route by installing one-a-week reruns of "Our Miss Brooks" into the weekday 2 to 2:30 slot starting Oct. 1. "Brooks" will replace Johnny Carson, who's been in the slot only a couple of months.

Stripping of ex-nighttime comedy series in the daytime has had a whopping success thus far. On a local level, it's been amazingly successful, as witness the SRO situation on WCBS-TV, N. Y., for its "My Little Margie" and "Amos 'n' Andy" back-to-back strips at 9 to 10 a.m. (see separate story). And if they laughed at NBC-TV when it decided to strip "I Married Joan" on a network basis, they aren't laughing anymore, what with the show running away with the No. 1 rating in its 5 to 5:30 p.m. time period.

CBS is trying to find a new time slot for Carson. Mentioned as a possibility is the 1:10 to 1:30 p.m. strip, currently occupied by the co-op "Stand Up and Be Counted."

Culligan Named NBC Radio Chief

Matthew J. (Joe) Culligan has been moved from the NBC television sales operation to head up NBC Radio as v.p. in charge of the network. Culligan, who has been the No. 2 man in television sales as v.p. and national sales manager, takes over his new post immediately, as successor to Charles Ayres, who resigned less than a month ago.

Culligan moves into the spot at a critical time, with a major selling job on his hands. The network went through a daytime programming revamp just a month ago which saw "Bandstand" installed as a two-hour morning feature and a string of soapers set for the afternoon, all in place of the shortlived "Weekday." Web is virtually blank sponsorwise during the daytime, and while the web is awaiting the first Nielsens on the new programming, Culligan still faces a major task in pinning down some business for the daytime.

Culligan's been a v.p. since last December, after only four years at the web. He was formerly with John Sutherland Productions as v.p., but started as a salesman for "Today," rising to the post of sales manager for the Participating Programs Dept. ("Today"-"Home"-"Tonight") as each of the other shows were added to the schedule. He was named national sales manager in 1954.

'Most Beautiful Girl' Pushed Back 7 Weeks; Still Needs an Emcee

"Most Beautiful Girl In the World," with which both NBC-TV and Revlon have had sporadic difficulties, first in finalizing a contract and then in finding an emcee, has run into another snag. There's still no emcee set, so the program's preem has been pushed back from Sept. 3 to Oct. 22, a full seven weeks.

Revlon will start sponsoring the Monday at 9 period at the original date, however, and will use reruns of "Medic" currently in the spot. Delay will occasion the use of five "Medic" reruns, with the other two dates being filled by "Producers' Showcase."

PEGGY, FOR 'BEANSTALK'

Peggy King, vocalist on the George Gobel show, has been set for a key role in "Jack and the Beanstalk," the Nov. 12 "Producers' Showcase" musical.

"Beanstalk" is authored by Helen Deutch with music by Jay Livingstone.

HOME STRETCH VEXING TO WEBS

This is the "irritating season" around the tv networks, particularly at NBC and CBS. Having established some weeks back that they can "live without a car" (some $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 in uncommitted automotive coin) in achieving a healthy sponsorship picture for next season, the webs are still having trouble getting over the hump in that last final stretch toward racking up an absolute SRO status.

True, it's nothing for NBC or CBS to get panicky or even worried about, even though by mid-August last year they had gone absolutely clean on selling out everything in sight, but nonetheless those vexing handful of unsold slots cumulatively add up to millions in revenue over a season's span. (At ABC the situation is somewhat more acute, with a flock of availabilities still on the '56-'57 schedule.)

Take CBS, for example, where they probably never had it so good, except for one real distressing sore spot—disposing of an alternate-week hour on the "Playhouse 90" drama series (see separate story) plus a Thursday news segment. Otherwise they're riding high, and yet inability to sell the skip-week hour on its biggest and newest showcase spells out a couple of million in revenue.

At NBC-TV, all the "crisis" areas have been hurdled in recent weeks, but those "little disturbances" or "fringe troubles" are still around. For instance "Break the Bank," slated for Tuesdays 10:30, is still up in the air with possibility that it may not pan out at all. The Monday evening (reduced to five minutes) and Thursday 15-minute news segments are open. Alternate weeks of "Big Story," except for five skip-weeks, are available. Half a season's one-third sponsorship on Sid Caesar and Steve Allen are still to be filled. And three segments of "Producers' Showcase" are open for co-sponsorship.

ABC has more of a man's-size problem to tackle. There are two John Daly news segments available, a half-hour Sunday plus half of "Omnibus." Also the Bishop Sheen segments Mondays, an hour on Thursdays plus half of the hour-long "Wire Service" and most of the Saturday night "Famous Film Festival." Taking a glance at daytime, the web's plans for an extension into morning programming will likely suffer a setback due to the fact that "Mickey Mouse Club," which a year ago this time was SRO, is now only at the two-thirds-sold level.

'Ballad of Baby Doe' Serialized by V. of A. For Broadcast O'seas

Washington, Aug. 28.

Voice of America started serial broadcasts yesterday (Mon.) of the American opera "The Ballad of Baby Doe" on its program "Panorama—USA." Voice presented Act One, Scene One in the first of 10 instaliments, utilizing the "soap opera" format. Remaining scenes will follow on a daily basis.

"Panorama—USA" is the Voice's daily one-hour English language program for European listeners and is heard behind the Iron Curtain. Tapes of the opera will also be sent to the U.S. Information Agency's 200 overseas posts for distribution to foreign radio stations.

"Ballad" had its world preem last month in Central City, Colo., and is scheduled for its Broadway debut in the fall. Music was written by Prof. Douglas Moore of Columbia U., and libretto by the late John LaTouche. Chief characters of the opera are drawn from actual figures in Colorado's fabulous mining era at the turn of the century.

It's TelePrompter-Telegram & Co.; Western Union Now 14% Partner

In a move probably motivated in part by the role played by TelePrompter in the staging of the Republican and Democratic National Conventions and as a "hidden asset" for the rostrum factotums, Western Union has effected a partnership deal with TelePrompter Corp. WU becomes a 14% owner of the company for which it has paid $750,000 (which puts an overall valuation of $5,000,000 on the company).

The prompting device, perhaps second only to Westinghouse's Betty Furness, grabbed off the lion's share of non-agenda convention attention, with TeleP emerging at both the Frisco and Demo conclaves as a "built-in" necessity in the national scheme of political rostrums.

Deal for the mating of the teleprompter and the telegram companies was finalized yesterday (Tues.) when TeleP board chairman Irving Kahn received a check for $750,000 from WU prexy Walter P. Marshall in return for 20,000 shares of stock.

Over and above TeleP's recognition in the "prompting field," however, are the new avenues now opened up by WU's minority ownership, for it now gives TeleP access to the engineering-research facilities of the Western Union laboratories for commercial exploitation through the sales-promotion techniques of the TeleP organization. Thus in the two-way collaboration the accent will be in the area of "group communication" (meetings, conventions, etc.) as opposed to mass communication, and injecting it with electronic showmanship.

Aside from the actual use of the TelePrompter device, the company over the past five years has been moving more and more into the "industrial showmanship" phase of activity, negotiating deals with General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, RCA, etc. for the staging of their respective conclaves. The Western Union partnership will permit for technical expansions in this area.

TelePrompter, incidentally racked up its 1,000,000th hour of performance during the political conventions.

Where's Charley?

Charles Andrews, who has been producing the Frankie Laine summer show, which has been subbing for the Wednesday night 8 to 9 Arthur Godfrey stanza, will stay put in the hour segment when Godfrey returns in the fall, continuing with status of producer.

Since it's generally recognized that Godfrey himself stays on top of the production chores, the question of where Andrews begins and AG leaves off is still in the "unfinished business" realm.

AFTRA in Test Showdown on TV Tape Rerun Issue

Portland, Ore., Aug. 28.

Gary Ellingsworth, AFTRA rep, is in town trying to organize announcers and newscasters at KPTV. He has been in session with general manager Frank Riordon for several days. The signing has reached the stalemate stage on the question of control of tape reruns.

Riordon asks to have complete control of reruns on the grounds that the announcer is getting a regular salary plus an additional fee for making the tape. AFTRA feels the reruns should be controlled by both sides and a graduated scale paid for each. Manager of George Storer's outlet here has definitely put his foot down on this point despite the threat of a possible strike.

None of these tapes has been made available in this area as yet and not one of the three now existing channels and even the fourth due on the air in a month or so, are affiliated with AFTRA. KPTV was selected as they ordered a tape for future delivery. The union got wind and hopped onto the station personnel.

KPTV was the first channel here and was the first UHF station in the country. Right now it is in the throes of transferring from UHF 27 to VHF 3. KPTV has been the NBC outlet here from the beginning.

In getting ready for the transfer to VHF, KPTV has also completed a reorganization program. Tom Meyers, program director; Ralph McGrew, production manager; Hal Childs, sports announcer, and Dick Althoff, news cameraman ankled the station. Phylis Ivers, formerly assistant promotion manager, has been upped to office manager and secretary to boss Riordon.

Robinson Minimizes Effect of Pix Oldies In Network's Scheme

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Major studios' unloading of their backlogs to tv "may cut into network shows some, but not enough to make any appreciable difference," opines CBS-TV program chief Hubbell Robinson, minimizing the effect the oldies will have on new shows once they flood the channels this fall.

Robinson expressed the opinion that most of the major pix made years ago are dated, and won't hold up in today's market, regardless of the fact they may have been hits years ago.

The exec also quashed reports of personnel changes in the web's "Climax" show, saying the only such changes would be additions to the staff of the dramatic show.

'Big Story' Still A Big Headache

"The Big Story," the Pyramid Productions Friday night entry on NBC-TV, continues to run into sponsorship difficulties and the network is selling its alternate weeks on a shortterm basis. American Tobacco (Pall Mall), its longtime alternate-week bankroller, is sticking with the show, but on the skip-week, the segment is sold for only five shows through Christmas.

It all started when Simoniz bowed out of its skip-week sponsorship and Toni moved in to replace it. Toni was no sooner in than it was out, with Revlon taking its place. Then Revlon wanted out, but agreed to go along with two alternate weeks, Sept. 14 and 28. Web went out and sold Benrus three alternate weeks, Nov. 16 and Dec. 7 and 21, obviously specials for the Christmas trade. But still open are Oct. 12 and 26 and Nov. 9 and 30. Show returns Sept. 7 with the "Bridey Murphy" story.

TvB Membership Hypo

Eighteen stations and five station reps have joined Television Bureau of Advertising during the summer months.

The new station rep organizations includes CBS Television Spot Sales, Avery-Knodel, Inc., John E. Pearson Television, Inc., and Weed Television Corp.

From WTVN Columbus, come the FIRST AVAILABLE RATINGS ON WARNER BROS. PICTURES!

MONDAY NIGHT AUDIENCE CLIMBS FROM

6.2 UP TO 12.1 with "THE PETRIFIED FOREST"

FRIDAY NIGHT AUDI

5.8 UP TO 18

Bought by Leading Sponsors!

AJAX · HELENE CURTIS · REVLON
ARRID · VASELINE
PROCTER AND GAMBLE
LANVIN · BAVARIAN BREWING!

...AND

First run on television exclusive in your market.
For complete details call...

55.3% AUDIENCE RISE

ON MON.-FRI. EARLY HOME SHOW

(9:30-11:00 P. M.—AUGUST ARB)

ENCE CLIMBS FROM .4 with "LADY WITH THE RED HAIR"

SATURDAY NIGHT AUDIENCE CLIMBS FROM 6.7 UP TO 12.6 with "ACTION IN THE NORTH ATLANTIC"

THIS SUCCESS STORY CAN BE YOURS!

One look at these first available ratings is all the proof you need that Warner Bros. pictures out-rate all competition!

And these are only the first reports! Just wait till the ratings get rolling..up..up..up! On second thought—don't wait! Act now and get the big sponsors and the big audiences.

a.a.p.

Associated Artists Productions, Inc.
345 Madison Avenue • New York 17, N. Y. telephone: MUrray Hill 6-2323

VARIETY - ARB City-By-City Syndicated and National Spot Film Chart

VARIETY'S weekly chart of city-by-city ratings of syndicated and national spot film covers 40 to 60 cities reported by American Research Bureau on a monthly basis. Cities will be rotated each week, with the 10 top-rated film shows listed in each case, and their competition shown opposite. All ratings are furnished by ARB, based on the latest reports.

This VARIETY chart represents a gathering of all pertinent information about film in each market, which can be used by distributors, agencies, stations and clients as an aid in determining the effectiveness of a filmed show in the specific market. Attention should be paid to time—day and time factors, since sets-in-use and audience composition vary according to time slot, i.e., a Saturday afternoon children's show, with a low rating, may have a large share and an audience composed largely of children, with corresponding results for the sponsor aiming at the children's market. Abbreviations and symbols are as follows: (Adv), adventure; (Ch), children's; (Co), comedy; (Dr), drama; (Doc), documentary; (Mus), musical; (Myst), mystery; (Q), quiz; (Sp), sports; (W), western; (Wom), women's. Numbered symbols next to station call letters represent the station's channel; all channels above 13 are UHF. Those ad agencies listed as distributors rep the national sponsor for whom the film is aired.

BOSTON — Approx. Set Count—1,395,000 — Stations—WBZ (4), WNAC (7)

| TOP 10 PROGRAMS AND TYPE | STATION | DISTRIB. | DAY AND TIME | JULY RATING | SHARE (%) | SETS IN USE | TOP COMPETING PROGRAM | STA. | RATING |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Man Behind the Badge (Myst) | WNAC | MCA | Sun. 10:30-11:00 | 29.0 | 80.3 | 36.1 | Liberace | WBZ | 6.4 |
| 2. I Led 3 Lives (Adv) | WNAC | Ziv | Tues. 8:30-9:00 | 26.3 | 61.3 | 42.9 | This Is Show Business | WBZ | 15.9 |
| 3. Man Called X (Myst) | WBZ | Ziv | Mon. 10:30-11:00 | 22.9 | 52.6 | 43.5 | Summer Theatre | WBZ | 17.4 |
| 4. Death Valley Days (W) | WNAC | McCann-Erickson | Fri. 10:30-11:00 | 21.4 | 57.2 | 37.4 | Cavalcade of Sports | WBZ | 18.7 |
| | | | | | | | Big Playback | WBZ | 10.7 |
| 5. Mr. District Attorney (Myst) | WNAC | Ziv | Tues. 10:30-11:00 | 21.3 | 54.8 | 38.9 | Studio 57 | WBZ | 16.9 |
| 6. Superman (Adv) | WNAC | Flamingo | Fri. 6:30-7:00 | 18.3 | 75.0 | 24.4 | TV News Reporter | WBZ | 5.7 |
| | | | | | | | Stage 7 | WBZ | 4.3 |
| 7. Studio 57 (Dr) | WBZ | MCA | Tues. 10:30-11:00 | 16.9 | 43.5 | 38.9 | Mr. District Attorney | WNAC | 21.3 |
| 8. Sherlock Holmes (Myst) | WNAC | UM&M | Thurs. 10:30-11:00 | 15.2 | 59.0 | 25.8 | Film Interlude | WBZ | 8.6 |
| 9. Jungle Jim (Adv) | WBZ | Screen Gems | Sun. 7:00-7:30 | 13.9 | 49.7 | 28.0 | Waterfront | WNAC | 13.9 |
| 9. Waterfront (Adv) | WNAC | MCA | Sun. 7:00-7:30 | 13.9 | 49.7 | 28.0 | Jungle Jim | WBZ | 13.9 |
| 10. Dr. Fu Manchu (Myst) | WNAC | H-TV | Thurs. 8:00-8:30 | 13.9 | 29.7 | 46.9 | Baseball | WBZ | 31.1 |

WASHINGTON — Approx. Set Count—754,000 — Stations—WRC (4), WTTG (5), WMAL (7), WTOP (9)

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Celebrity Playhouse (Dr) | WTOP | Screen Gems | Tues. 10:30-11:00 | 18.7 | 42.8 | 43.7 | Big Town | WRC | 11.4 |
| 2. Mr. District Attorney (Myst) | WRC | Ziv | Mon. 10:30-11:00 | 13.0 | 37.6 | 34.6 | Feature Boxing | WTTG | 12.2 |
| | | | | | | | Summer Theatre | WTOP | 9.4 |
| 3. Highway Patrol (Adv) | WTOP | Ziv | Fri. 7:30-8:00 | 10.4 | 42.1 | 24.7 | Rin Tin Tin | WMAL | 8.1 |
| 4. Life With Father (Co) | WTOP | CBS | Sun. 4:30-5:00 | 9.0 | 64.7 | 13.9 | American Forum | WRC | 2.2 |
| 5. Passport to Danger (Myst) | WMAL | ABC | Fri. 10:30-11:00 | 9.0 | 22.5 | 40.0 | Baseball | WTTG | 14.8 |
| 6. Ramar of the Jungle (Adv) | WTOP | TPA | Wed. 7:00-7:30 | 8.5 | 48.6 | 17.5 | Guy Lombardo | WRC | 5.1 |
| 7. Superman (Adv) | WRC | Flamingo | Tues. 7:00-7:30 | 7.9 | 27.8 | 28.4 | Do You Trust Your Wife? | WTOP | 15.7 |
| 8. Ellery Queen (Myst) | WRC | TPA | Mon. 7:00-7:30 | 7.8 | 37.0 | 21.1 | Turning Point | WTOP | 6.1 |
| 9. NOPD (Myst) | WTTG | UM&M | Wed. 9:30-10:00 | 7.8 | 14.2 | 54.9 | Kraft TV Theatre | WRC | 22.7 |
| 10. The Hunter (Adv) | WTTG | TAFON | Wed. 10:30-11:00 | 7.6 | 18.8 | 40.5 | 20th Cent.-Fox | WTOP | 15.7 |

DAYTON — Approx. Set Count—640,000 — Stations—WLW-D (2), WHIO (7), WCPO (9)

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Man Called X (Myst) | WHIO | Ziv | Fri. 9:30-10:00 | 27.2 | 64.1 | 42.2 | Cavalcade of Sports | WLW-D | 11.9 |
| | | | | | | | Red Barber's Corner | WLW-D | 9.3 |
| 2. Highway Patrol (Adv) | WHIO | Ziv | Tues. 8:00-8:30 | 25.5 | 68.1 | 37.4 | Sneak Preview | WLW-D | 8.9 |
| 3. Stories of the Century (W) | WHIO | H-TV | Sat. 9:30-10:00 | 21.2 | 69.0 | 30.5 | Adventure Theatre | WLW-D | 7.6 |
| 4. Little Rascals (Co) | WHIO | Interstate | M-Thurs. 6:00-6:30 | 18.8 | 78.6 | 23.4 | Meetin' Time at Moores | WLW-D | 2.8 |
| 5. Badge 714 (Myst) | WHIO | NBC | Sat. 10:30-11:00 | 18.5 | 54.6 | 33.9 | Midwestern Hayride | WLW-D | 11.5 |
| 6. Amos 'n' Andy (Co) | WHIO | CBS | Tues. 10:30-11:00 | 18.1 | 65.2 | 27.8 | This Is Show Business | WLW-D | 6.2 |
| 7. Roy Rogers Ranch (W) | WHIO | MCA | Sat. 5:00-5:30 | 17.2 | 75.0 | 23.0 | Ranger Station | WLW-D | 1.7 |
| | | | | | | | Wild Bill Hickok | WLW-D | 6.0 |
| 8. I Led 3 Lives (Adv) | WLW-D | Ziv | Fri. 8:30-9:00 | 15.4 | 37.3 | 41.4 | Playhouse of Stars | WHIO | 23.7 |
| 9. The Whistler (Myst) | WHIO | CBS | Sat. 10:00-10:30 | 15.4 | 36.5 | 33.1 | Midwestern Hayride | WLW-D | 13.4 |
| 10. Passport to Danger (Myst) | WLW-D | ABC | Sun. 9:30-10:00 | 14.9 | 32.7 | 48.7 | What's My Line | WHIO | 31.8 |

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL — Approx. Set Count—515,000 — Stations—WCCO (4), KSTP (5), KEYD (9), WTCN (11)

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Turning Point (Dr) | WCCO | MCA | Sun. 8:30-9:00 | 20.6 | 50.2 | 41.1 | Celebrity Playhouse | KSTP | 11.9 |
| 2. Search for Adventure (Adv) | WCCO | Bagnall | Tues. 8:30-9:00 | 19.1 | 47.4 | 40.3 | Big Town | KSTP | 11.3 |
| 3. I Led 3 Lives (Adv) | KSTP | Ziv | Wed. 8:30-9:00 | 15.4 | 34.9 | 44.1 | 20th Cent.-Fox | WCCO | 14.2 |
| 4. Man Behind the Badge (Myst) | KSTP | MCA | Fri. 9:30-10:00 | 15.2 | 36.6 | 41.5 | Our Miss Brooks | WCCO | 14.9 |
| 5. Highway Patrol (Adv) | WCCO | Ziv | Sat. 10:00-10:30 | 15.1 | 36.6 | 41.3 | Today's Headlines | KSTP | 26.2 |
| | | | | | | | Weather; Sports | KSTP | 17.4 |
| 6. Secret Journal (Dr) | WCCO | MCA | Thurs. 7:00-7:30 | 14.7 | 46.6 | 31.6 | People's Choice | KSTP | 12.6 |
| 7. Studio 57 (Dr) | KSTP | MCA | Wed. 9:30-10:00 | 13.8 | 30.8 | 44.8 | Arthur Godfrey | WCCO | 21.8 |
| 8. Life of Riley (Co) | KSTP | NBC | Mon. 8:30-9:00 | 13.5 | 37.8 | 35.7 | Summer Theatre | WCCO | 13.7 |
| 9. Celebrity Playhouse (Dr) | KSTP | Screen Gems | Sun. 8:30-9:00 | 11.9 | 29.0 | 41.1 | Turning Point | WCCO | 20.6 |
| 10. Badge 714 (Myst) | KSTP | NBC | Tues. 10:30-11:00 | 11.7 | 45.7 | 25.6 | Tomorrows News; Weather | WCCO | 7.8 |
| | | | | | | | Early Movie | WTCN | 7.1 |

SEATTLE-TACOMA — Approx. Set Count—500,000 — Stations—KOMO (4), KING (5), KTNT (11), KTVW (13)

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Death Valley Days (W) | KING | McCann-Erickson | Sun. 9:30-10:00 | 35.7 | 63.5 | 56.3 | Championship Bowling | KOMO | 14.6 |
| 2. Badge 714 (Myst) | KING | NBC | Fri. 9:30-10:00 | 31.5 | 62.1 | 50.7 | Bowling Time | KOMO | 9.9 |
| 3. Waterfront (Adv) | KOMO | MCA | Wed. 9:30-10:00 | 27.4 | 48.7 | 56.0 | Baseball | KTVW | 13.8 |
| 4. Turning Point (Dr) | KOMO | MCA | Mon. 9:30-10:00 | 27.1 | 54.5 | 49.7 | Dollar a Second | KING | 14.9 |
| 5. City Detective (Myst) | KING | MCA | Sun. 10:00-10:30 | 25.5 | 73.2 | 34.9 | Sunday News Special | KTNT | 8.2 |
| | | | | | | | The Way | KTNT | 2.4 |
| 6. Code 3 (Myst) | KING | ABC | Fri. 10:00-10:30 | 23.3 | 57.4 | 40.4 | Guy Lombardo | KTNT | 8.2 |
| 7. Mr. District Attorney (Myst) | KING | Ziv | Fri. 9:00-9:30 | 21.6 | 40.5 | 51.8 | Crunch & Des | KOMO | 18.7 |
| 8. Western Marshall (W) | KING | NBC | Wed. 7:00-7:30 | 21.0 | 54.2 | 38.8 | Baseball | KTVW | 9.2 |
| 9. Science Fiction Theatre (Adv) | KING | Ziv | Thurs. 9:30-10:00 | 20.4 | 42.4 | 48.1 | Lux Video Theatre | KOMO | 15.7 |
| 10. Man Behind the Badge (Myst) | KING | MCA | Mon. 10:00-10:30 | 18.8 | 53.0 | 34.8 | Famous Playhouse | KTNT | 6.5 |

WITH THE M-G FRINGE ON TOP

75% of TV Com'ls Now on Film

Television commercials on film now dominate the tv advertising field and account for 75% of all commercial messages, according to a survey conducted by Transfilm Inc., producers of tv commercial and industrial films.

Production cost of these commercials is estimated at $30,000,000, or 3% of the approximate one billion dollars spent in tv, Transfilm prez William Miesagaes states. He added that expenditures for commercial production are increasing and predicted that the eventual gross dollar volume of film producers will more than double.

Miesagaes maintains that an increasing number of advertising agencies are urging their clients to consider 10% of a program's total cost as a fair investment in tv commercial production, rather than the present average of 3%.

'Frontier' Into Syndication With 3 Major Clients; Mebbe 'Medic,' Too

NBC Television Films, the syndication subsidiary, has taken on its first rerun series in several years in the form of Tony Miner's "Frontier," which it began selling on a market-by-market and regional basis last week. Another possibility is a second Miner property, "Medic," on which the subsid hasn't yet made up its mind and which apparently is still up for grabs.

"Frontier" is fresh off the network, having had a one-season run on NBC-TV for Reynolds Metals (reruns are still being used, pending the preem of "Circus Boy" as its successor). There are only 30 films in the series, an odd number for syndication, due to the fact that the series ran only three weeks out of four due to the Sundays specs on NBC-TV, and for that matter there are only 60 "Medics" in the can due to "Producers' Showcase" preemptions in the same pattern.

The odd number of "Frontier" pix hasn't prevented NBC Films from getting off the ground quickly on the sales end, however, and the subsid has already corraled three major national sponsors to spot-book the show throughout the country. While the exact number of markets for each hasn't been determined yet, Lever Bros. will sponsor it throughout the country and Sunshine Biscuits and Carter Products in southern markets. On the station side, two major market deals are in via WABD, N. Y., and WNAC-TV, Boston.

Granik Files For N.Y.C. TV Series

New York TV Productions, the Theodore Granik - Screen Gems partnership which kicked off a political football some months back when it announced plans to use New York City files and personnel for a film series, last week went about filing for the same show under the city's new Code of Municipal Television & Radio Standards. It was the Granik project which resulted in the drafting of the code.

Aeting under provisions of the code, Granik has filed separate applications with all city departments and ageneies requesting their cooperation in the filming of the series of 39 half-hours to be based on their files. If the applications are approved, Granik would pay in amounts yet to be determined to the departments' welfare funds or similar setups if the show gets a sponsor, and would grant department heads right of script approval. Department personnel would rarely be used.

Series would be budgeted at $1,000,000, with the budget for the pilot, which presumably would be started as soon as enough departments are lined up, set at $40,000. Air date would be next fall, with Screen Gems and Granik aiming at a network slot for the show, tentatively titled "The New York Story."

Goldsmith Upped

Donald Goldsmith, account exec in the Chicago office of CBS Television Film Sales, has been upped to manager of the Chi office for the CBS syndication subsid. Goldsmith was with the Jam Handy industrial film operation before joining the CBS subsid.

He succeeds William Perkinson, recently named manager of the Los Angeles branch.

Columbus & Cincy Ratings on WB Pix Tip Off Backlogs

The rating strength of the major film libraries, now beginning to get their tv playoff, is reflected in the current ARB tallies for WKRC, Cincinnati, and WTVN, Columbus, both of which stations began programming the Warner Bros. features in August.

Cincinnati's WKRC, with its Monday through Saturday 11:20 p.m. "Home Theatre" and its 11:15 Saturday "Best of Hollywood," more than doubled its average for all seven nights with the WB features, going from 4.9 in July to 12.5 in August. Columbus' WTVN increased its Monday through Friday average for its "Early Home Theatre" more than 55%, going from 7.6 in July to 11.8 in August. WTVN, with its Saturday night "Summer Playhouse," also pro-

(Continued on page 38)

Leeds, NTA Huddles On Co-Production Deals

Martin Leeds, exec v.p. of Desilu Produetions, is in New York this week conferring with National Telefilm Assoeiates on coproduction ventures for the '57-'58 season. Leeds is huddling with NTA prez Ely Landau and exee v.p. Oliver Unger on a possible half-dozen pilot projects which would go into production in time for the March selling season.

Talks were set following the successful pattern of regional sales on the first NTA-Desilu coproduction, the "Sheriff of Coehise" series, which is set in well over 90 markets through a string of regional deals topped by the Socony Mobil Oil Co.'s 67-market splurge.

New 'Hudson' Deals

A growth of multi-regional sponsors for the second series of "Dr. Hudson's Secret Journal" has been corralled for the MCA-TV skein.

Wilson & Co., which purehased the first series for six markets, is now sponsoring the second group in upwards of 30 markets. Bowman Biscuit Co. has renewed in more than 17 markets in the southwest, with options for several additional cities. Gill Coffee Co. has signed for sponsorship in six markets.

Newest baeker is Union Bank of Commerce in Cleveland.

WHAT IF FEATURES TOP WEB SHOWS?

Launching of the Metro library in television may light a fuse under orthodox standards of programming, both on a network and local level. Arrival of other major studio backlogs has already wrought some dramatic changes in local operations—witness the all-grind success story of WOR-TV, N. Y., and the impending grind policy on WATV, another Gotham area indie.

But the Metro package, with such famous titles as "Mutiny on the Bounty," "David Copperfield," "A Night at the Opera," to mention three diversely fashioned films, may well light a fire under the seats of the networks as well as local operators. Put simply, the prospect is this: what do the networks do if the Metro films, in fringe time periods, garner ratings higher than most network entries?

Possible example is WCBS-TV, the CBS flagship in New York, which starts the Metro library on its film shows after Jan. 1. Station is planning to air the "biggies" from the M-G backlog on the "Late Show" on the best late-hour viewing night, Saturday. What if "Mutiny on the Bounty" on a Saturday night from 11:15 p.m. to 12:45 a.m., pulls down a 35 rating, as the station confidently expeets it will? That 35 would easily top most of the network programming for that or any other night.

Then, of course, comes the public reaction—why can't we see these films earlier? And the sponsor reaction—any show that gets that kind of audience at 11:15 at night, we want on a network basis

(Continued on page 40)

WGN-TV's $300,000 For 20th Backlog

Chicago, Aug. 28.

National Telefilms Associates has sold its packet of 52 20th-Fox features to WGN-TV in another move by the Chicago Tribune station to strengthen its No. 1 Windy City status in the feature film sweepstakes. Although not confirmed officially, it's understood the price tag for three Chi runs was in the neighborhood of $300,000.

WGN-TV also bought 52 issues of "China Smith" being syndicated by NTA. Package includes the fourth-run rights to the original 26 half hours and second runs on the new batch of the Dan Duryea starring vidpix.

It's also considered a good bet that the station will shortly sign on with NTA's film network thus providing the operation with its needed outlet in the No. 2 market.

NTA continues to roll up a steady sales pace on the 20th package, with the station list now up to 79 as a result of 22 additional sales over the past couple of weeks.

Key purchasers of the package, in addition to WGN-TV, Chicago, are KPIX, San Francisco; WAVE-TV, Louisville; WISN-TV, Milwaukee; KVOO-TV, Tulsa; WCKT, Miami; WMBR-TV, Jacksonville, and KDAL-TV, Duluth.

Cal Nat Still Expands

California National Productions last week filled two more key spots in the reorganization and expansion of the NBC subsidiary, with Francis X. O'Shea moving up to director of merchandising and Robert A. Anderson named director of business affairs. O'Shea has been chief accountant for NBC and for a time general manager of Kagran Corp. before the latter was renamed Cal Nat.

Anderson has been business manager for NBC Television Films (now one of Cal Nat's four operating divisions—O'Shea's merchandising division is another) since 1953.

Metro Now Eyes Additional Markets After Finalizing $20,000,000 Deals

With over $20,000,000 in deals under its belt for 12 markets, Metro is conducting a variety of talks for other markets, some of which are keyed to a guarantee against profit participation.

The new twist in contemplated library deals has occurred in the Salt Lake City and Denver markets, where Metro is working on a formula whereby a station plunks down a guarantee for the library with Metro sharing in the participations garnered in the programming of Metro product.

Among those holding talks with Metro for the remaining big markets are RKO Teleradio and Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., the latter negotiations still very much in the preliminary stages.

Earlier in the week, in a series of four transactions, including the KTTV, Los Angeles deal, Loew's placed the Metro library in 12 markets. The biggest of the four deals, estimated at over $12,000,000 was with CBS-TV o&o's, exclusive of L.A., while the remaining deals were with the four Triangle Publications stations and the King Broadcasting Co., of Seattle.

The transactions—all on a seven-year licensing arrangement—were completed Friday (24), representing the largest single day business for any feature film backlog to tv. The library price also dwarfs the prices procured by other pre-1948 film libraries sold to tv stations.

CBS o&o stations included in the deal are: WCBS-TV, New York, WBBM-TV, Chicago, and WXIX-TV, Milwaukee. Also inked for CBS-TV are St. Louis and Hartford where CBS has applications for tv channels. In the event that either of these applications are denied by the FCC, CBS will be permitted to sub-license its commitment in either of these markets.

The stations included in the Triangle deal are WFIL-TV, Philadelphia, WNHC-TV, New Haven, WNBF, Binghamton, N.Y., and WFBG, Altoona, Pa.

King Broadcasting will have the Metro library of 725 features in KING-TV, Seattle, and KGW-TV,

(Continued on page 40)

RIN TIN TIN GOES MUSICAL

Series To Capitalize on Co-Star Jim Brown's Vocalizing

Songs and music will be accented in the new "Adventures of Rin Tin Tin" series, slated to start its third season on the ABC-TV net Sept. 7.

Co-star James Brown also happens to be a vocalist, an asset which will be capitalized on by Screen Gems. "Forward Ho," a calvary song, will be the title tune of the opening show. Two other songs, "Yo Ho Rinty" and "Wagon Train" will be introed on tv after their premiere in the Madison Square Garden Rodeo Sept. 26, which is starring Rin Tin Tin troupe's act. Last season, "White Buffalo, recorded for MGM by James Brown, proved popular.

New WCBS Rate Hike Seen on Tap In Metro Pix Buy

A substantial rate hike is in prospect for WCBS-TV, the CBS-TV flagship in New York, as a result of the acquisition of the 749-film Metro library coupled with the fact that every one of the station's feature film shows and virtually all its syndicated shows have now hit the SRO list. With "The Early Show," "The Late Show," "The Late Late Show" and "Picture for a Sunday Afternoon" having been sold out as of last week, the station this week posted the SRO sign on its "Late Matinee" feature showcase, closing out the feature department, and also hit the jackpot on its 9 to 10 a.m. comedy strips, "My Little Margie" and "Amos 'n' Andy."

Station's execs won't comment on the possibility of a rate increase except to state that it's always under consideration, but the availability of the Metro library on Jan. 1, on top of what already rates as a topflight list from Warners, Columbia and Republic, makes such a hike, at least for the feature film segments, a virtual must. Station's feature film ratings, with all shows first in their time periods as of the July Nielsen, have shown a steady increase in the past few months

(Continued on page 40)

LESSER, FAIRBANKS TEAM ON 'GAUCHO'

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Sol Lesser and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., partnered in Odyssey Pictures, will launch their new telepix series, "The Gaucho," in South America in October. First three teleplays were completed over the weekend, including "The Troubadour," by Polly James; "The Stampede" and "The Matchmaker," Milton Raison and Arthur Brown Jr.

Series is based upon feature film of the same name in which Fairbanks Sr., starred years ago. Producers are seeking a player to take over title role for entire series.

Alex March to RKO

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Alex March, former producer of CBS-TV's "Studio One Summer Theatre," ehecks in at RKO next week to launch the film firm's plunge into television film production. Program will be separate from the studio's regular theatrical release schedule.

March will begin assembling material for the telefilm output with actual production slated to begin early next year. Product will include 30, 60 and 90 minute shows.

McLaglen Tour To Hypo Backlog Pix

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.

C & C Television, in cooperation with WFIL-TV and other Triangle stations, is kicking off some major ballyhoo here to launch the RKO film library, utilizing Victor McLaglen in personal appearances and other stints.

A three-city campaign, which also takes in Binghamton, N.Y., and Al-'oona, Pa., began Monday (27) and will continue throughout the week. Before departing for Binghamton and Altoona, WFIL-TV will cap McLaglen's Philadelphia stint with a one-hour "spectacular" on his life, utilizing clips featuring the star from the RKO library. McLaglen won an Academy Award for his role in "The Informer," a picture which accrues to C & C after June, 1957, the deadline for RKO Teleradio to make a national deal on that Academy Award winner and other selected pictures.

In the midst of WFIL-TV's preparations for launching the RKO library, Triangle made a four-station deal with Loew's for the Metro library, a deal estimated at $4,000,000.

C & C, which signed McLaglen, is using his tour here and elsewhere as an experiment as to whether features on tv can be exploited and promoted in the same fashion as employed for motion pictures in theatres. Expenses for the campaign, which will include newspaper advertisements, is estimated at $10,000, the costs to be shared between C & C and Triangle.

NOBODY'S LISTENING BUT PEOPLE

-ALL IN FAVOR OF GOOD LOOKS!

What a time to talk about cosmetics and toiletries...while 4,115,000 people a minute listen to weekday dramatic serials on CBS Radio starting at 12:00 Noon, CNYT.

They're mostly homemakers, and they listen attentively. And mostly they're too busy for any other advertising media.

Every week, these programs reach 20,548,000 different people.

this is the right time to buy...

CBS RADIO NETWORK

12:00 N. WENDY WARREN & THE NEWS
12:15 PM BACKSTAGE WIFE
12:30 PM ROMANCE OF HELEN TRENT
12:45 PM OUR GAL SUNDAY
1:00 PM ROAD OF LIFE
1:15 PM AUNT JENNY
1:30 PM YOUNG DR. MALONE
1:45 PM GUIDING LIGHT
2:05 PM RIGHT TO HAPPINESS
2:15 PM SECOND MRS. BURTON
2:30 PM THIS IS NORA DRAKE

From left to right:

RED GOOSE KIDDIE SPECTACULAR
With Johnny Olsen, Beverly Lunsford, Tommy Roemer, others
Exec Producer: John Hyatt
Producer: John Weber
Director: Mathew Harlib
Writer: John E. Evans
90 Mins.; Sat., 11 a.m.
INTERNATIONAL SHOE CO.
ABC-TV, from St. Louis
(D'Arcy)

The St. Louis Zoo, with its showmanship-like animal acts, is put on parade in the first of three kiddie spectaculars slated for the ABC-TV net by the makers of Red Goose childrens shoes. But for a variety of reasons the preem kiddie "spec" on Sat. (25) didn't have sufficient interesting and entertaining qualities to sustain 90 minutes of high level viewing.

Certainly, the cavorting and dancing elephants, the tricky, acrobatic chimpanzees, and other animals offered some socko moments. But other periods in the 90-minute span were left arid, with balky animals and unimaginative camera work dampening the show with a sameness and robbing it of the needed sense of participation.

The format had Johnny Olsen acting as emcee, escorting two 10-year-olds, Beverly Lunsford and Tommy Roemer, around the zoo. In addition to visiting many of the zoo's famous animal acts, they talked with the head of the zoo, George Vierheller, and various animal trainers.

Initially, Tommy overacted with a redundancy of "gee whiz's," but later came through o.k. Beverly, the girl, seemed more natural in the setting. Olsen could have added more spontaneity to a multiplicity of situations by not going overboard on his chatter.

Zoo director Vierheller came through as a warm personality, although at times he appeared overly conscious of the cameras. The trainers lent many interesting moments.

The chimp, lion and elephant acts, though, took up the bulk of the time, and it is in that phase that the camera work seemed wanting. There were too many long shots, with the tricks being performed in the distant. With children in the outdoor audience watching the acts, along with Olsen and his kiddie partners, it was a wonder why the camera virtually never took in closeups of the faces, instead of panning the stands.

Horo.

MIDDAY ROUNDUP
With Haydon Timmons, Jim Van Sickle, Red River Ramblers; Carl "Tiny" Thomale, m.c.
Producer-Director: Dick Sweeney
30 Mins., Mon. thru-Fri., 12 (noon)
Participating
WHAS-TV, Louisville

This 30-minute noontime show embraces items of interest to city listeners, but content is obviously pitched to the rural look-see trade, who are sure to find it entertaining and informative: Red River Ramblers, sparked by Sleepy Marlin, oldtime fiddler, who recently won for the fourth time the National Fiddlers' Contest in Canada, his title "International Champion Novelty Fiddler"; Bernie Smith, steel guitar; George Workman, bass and Shorty Chesser, guitar, with Thomale on accordion and piano. They all give out such tunes as "Texas Rag," "There's An Empty Cot In The Bunkhouse Tonight," played and sung by Smith, and incidentally this chap is par excellent on the electric guitar. Other numbers which the boys have down pat, and really give out with the melody and rhythm, are "As Long As I Live," a duet with Chesser and Marlin warbling; "Y'All Come," tonsilled by Chesser, and "Somebody Stole My Gal" in E Flat, an oldie, giving Tiny Thomale his inning at the ivories, all plenty good.

Jim Van Sickle's five-minute newscast shortly after show's opening highlighted national news, with a couple local items. Later in the show Haydon Timmons, Asst. Farm Director, reported the stockmarkets from Bourbon Stockyards, and later in the show reported the weather, locally and countrywide, aided by charts, and winding up with a five-day forecast.

M. C. "Tiny" Thomale, a robust chap, had one commersh. Swift Packing Co. the sponsor. Plugged their boneless veal roast and frozen food, to the point, and in okay fashion.

There's a lot of real down-to-earth entertainment squeezed into this show, and with news and weather reports breaking into the musical numbers, viewers get timely info and tunes in full measure. In fact there are no dull spots, and the pace is brisk and holds attention. Dick Sweeney rates a nod for a lively, homefolks noontime show. Wied.

LORETTA YOUNG SHOW
With Bruce Cowling, Ross Elliott, Addison Richards, James Anderson, others
Producer: John London
Director-Writer: William Bruckner
30 Mins., Sun., 10 p.m.
PROCTER & GAMBLE
NBC-TV (film)
(Benton & Bowles, Compton)

Lewislor Productions (Loretta Young and hubby Tom Lewis) preemed their fourth season on NBC-TV for Procter & Gamble with an offbeat melodrama that provided a welcome relief from their usual type of soaper-styled yarns. It's to be hoped they keep at it, for the past three years have been somewhat on the sticky side in terms of story material.

Miss Young surrounds herself with virile-type gents, with more of an accent on muscle than thesping ability, and it's this combination of the femme-appealing gents and the soapers that have made the show a successful entry at least as far as the ratings are concerned. In this new season, she retains the accent on virility but for the preem at least offered a more palatable type of story that should win her a more universal audience.

Yarn, scripted and directed by William Bruckner, has Miss Young playing a deaf attorney who gets involved in a murder. She helps solve the crime with some long-distance lipreading of the bench-side conferences of respected but crooked VIP. Story takes a twist when her lawyer-husband gets involved with the crooks, but it all comes out in the Tide wash.

There's some excellent footage in the segments which have Miss Young reading lips and missing noises. Also, some taut direction by Bruckner that keeps the story moving briskly and effectively. Miss Young does a convincing job, and evidently did some extensive research on speech patterns of deaf people. Bruce Cowling is somewhat less convincing but adequate as her husband. Addison Richards makes a menacing big-shot and Ross Elliott is crisply authoritative as a policeman. James Anderson's killer is a standard but nonetheless effective characterization.

No worldbeater, this opening yarn, but oh what a relief from the show's customary pap! There's some hope for the male viewer yet.

Chan.

'CAVALCADE' SHIFTS TO FICTION FORMAT

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

A fictional approach is planned next season for DuPont "Cavalcade Theatre" vidpix series, which in the past has used real-life material of contemporary and historical times. As a result, producer Warren Lewis is negotiating for original stories by Pearl Buck, MacKinlay Kantor and other name writers, has already bought a story by Laslo Gorog.

Series will make another departure in format in that it will use name stars in some of the episodes. While the emphasis will be on fiction in the new format, the series will continue to spotlight inspirational stories as well as biographical yarns.

TEDDY PHILLIPS SHOW
With Colleen & Charlotte Lovett, Little Daddy, Phillips orch
Producer: Bob Brown
Director: Cliff Braun
60 Mins.; Sat., 10 p.m.
PEOPLES PONTIAC
WBKB, Chicago

Latest in a lengthening parade of dance bands on the local tv circuit is this Saturday night hour featuring the Teddy Phillips orchestra. With each new musical entry, the question of how many variations on the same theme can survive the Nielsen evaluations takes on added import.

It was apparent from stanza seen (25) that real production planning had gone into Phillips' tv entrance so what emerged was more than a group of sidemen pumping out its ballroom book. Augmenting the straight instrumental offerings were Little Daddy, moppet singer-dancer-drummer, the Colleen & Charlotte Lovett singing duo, the "Join the Band" aud-participation sequence, and a choral group recruited from the band for a change of gait. While none of these ingredients were particularly standout, they do provide that needed added dimensions.

Phillips emcees in a somewhat cloying fashion but he wisely keeps his patter at a minimum. Group romped through 20 numbers, virtually all on the sweet side although Little Daddy rocked the joint a bit with "Blue Suede Shoes."

All in all, an adequate if not sensational Saturday night divertissement. Dave.

SENSE AND NONSENSE
With Russ Tilford, Sam Allgood, John Schrader, Jeanie
Producer: Moss Vance
30 Mins.; Sun., 3 p.m.
GATEWAY SUPERMARKETS
WHAS-TV, Louisville

Good will is dished out generously in this one, which doesn't dispense large amounts of money, but stresses the competitive angle between local groups of three each. At show caught, there were six contestants, three from Oklahoma Homemakers, and three from Junior Achievement, Inc., local young people's organization. Both teams were blindfolded, and asked to guess various articles by use of one of the five senses, sight, sound, taste, touch, etc. Articles were wheeled out on a small table, and contestants had a brief chance to smell, touch, etc. Members of both teams were plenty alert, and didn't have much trouble guessing the articles correctly. Audience was informed by an offstage voice what the article was, and participants were given 45 seconds to guess.

Show moves smoothly and is interspersed with commercials, one on film, of the sponsors product. Johnny Schrader, staff organist, plays the introes and musical bridges, and vocalist, Jeanie, sings pops and old standards, like "You Were Meant for Me," in okay style. Contestants have opportunity to open a lock in a gate. If one of five keys is the lucky one, they win $175, and may send a delegate to a meeting in Ohio. Props used on some of the quizzes are nose and plugs and blindfolds. At show caught, contestants on both teams impressed as plenty sharp, and their misses were few. Wied.

Tele Follow-Up Comment

Steve Allen Show

Steve Allen show on Sunday (26) did a remote from Atlantic City for a briefie pickup of the "Ice Capades" (prior to its New York Madison Square Garden engagement) with some of the most stunning camera work yet seen on these tv'd ice capers. Both on the solo performing (Ronnie Robertson, 18-year-old Olympic stalwart) and particularly in the ensemble work the effects achieved via camera angles made for pleasurable albeit too-brief viewing.

Mainly the hour show was geared for comedy, with Allen, Gregory Ratoff and Buddy Hackett parlaying their assorted talents for some good payoffs. Ratoff's Sovietized satirizing of the "Late Late Show" ("Latsky, Latsky Showsky") with its Kremlin Krispies jingled commercials, and the Allen-Ratoff-Hackett byplay on "Cholly Chin In Russia" provided a high laugh quotient. Jaye P. Morgan and Andy Williams took care of the vocalizing competently.

On inventiveness, production values and guest talent, the Allen show continues to move steadily ahead, portending a '56-'57 competitive semester with the Ed Sullivan stanza that may pull off some interesting surprises on the Trendex-Nielsen returns, particularly once that CBS habit forming bugaboo has been hurdled. Rose.

Ed Sullivan Show

Turnover of last Sunday's (26) Ed Sullivan show to winners of a naval talent tournament made for a pleasant entertainment session. It also indicated that there's plenty of talent around. The show put on by the uniformed performers was on a par with the average vaudeo layouts, the only difference being lack of names.

Kirk Douglas subbed for Sullivan, who was still out because of injuries sustained in a recent auto accident. The actor did an affable emceeing job. The performers on the show included singers, comics and instrumentalists. Practically all were good. In some instances, the showcasing was exceptionally brief, but, for the most part those appearing on the program were given enough time to demonstrate their winning form.

There were about 16 different stints offered, besides a slick wind-up delivery by the Navy Choir. The show, however, could have used a better division of the sexes. Only one of the participants was a female. That, however, doesn't include the show's regular commercial spieler Julia Meade, who handled various plugs efficiently.

Jess.

TV-Radio Production Centres

IN NEW YORK CITY . . .

John B. Sias, member of Peters, Griffin, Woodward's tv account exec staff in Chicago, will transfer to N.Y. in a similar capacity. Joining the tv account exec staff in Chicago will be Arthur Curtis, Jr. . . . "Report on Africa," BBC documentary radio series, will be presented Sundays by WNYC, beginning Sept. 2 . . . Ella Fitzgerald on Frankie Laine Show Sept. 12, CBS-TV . . . Bob Wolf will be at the "play-by-play" mike position for the Madison Square Garden events to be telecast by WPIX . . . Oliver S. Castle promoted from director of research to veepee of A. C. Nielsen Co. George A. Magnuson, associate research director, will fill the post vacated by Castle . . . Hal Cantor, American Research Bureau staffer, is leaving for the U.S. Army . . . Irv Zimbalist, tv's "musical magician," guests on CBS-TV's "Captain Kangaroo" Sat. (1). . . .

Three Westinghouse Broadcasting execs, engineering manager George Hagerty, auditor Irving C. Ruby and assistant advertising-sales promotion manager John J. (Chick) Kelly, received service pins at a luncheon Monday (27) in their honor, with WBC prez Don McGannon handing out the awards for 20, 15 and 10 years with the company, respectively . . . Al Lanisberg, director at WRCA, engaged to Sally Breit of the NBC guest relations staff, with a February wedding planned . . . Mike Horton, NBC director of information and former Paris correspondent, did a taped interview with Radiodiffusion Francaise, N.Y. correspondent Jacques Bablon on how television covered the conventions for airing by the French web . . . Comedian Al Bernie, current at the Copacabana, guests on the Ed Sullivan show Sunday (2) . . . Al Perlmutter, of the WRCA news & special events staff, recuperating from a bout of hepatitis at his Poughkeepsie home . . . Double visit from the stork last week at WNYC, with a son for the Alan Jays (announcer) and a daughter for Ben Linders (engineer) . . . Ray H. Kremer, formerly an account exec in the Chicago office of CBS Radio Spot Sales, upped to manager of sales development for the CBSubsid . . . Frank Sinatra, Kevin McCarthy and Rod Steiger did a series of six spots for the Arthritis & Rheumatism Foundation at Fiore Films . . . Shirley Eggleston into ABC Radio's "When a Girl Marries" . . . Dink Templeton and Bob Stillman, who will produce and direct the California National Productions "Civilian Soldier" series, already in German for a look at locations and studio facilities at Munich and Hamburg, then swing down to Leghorn for o.o. of the Harry Saltzman studio operation there . . . Bill Berns, director of news & special events for WRCA-WRCA-TV, vacationing on the Coast following convention coverage . . . Dorothy Lamour guests on "I've Got a Secret" tonight (Wed.) . . . Mario Alcade into CBS Radio's "Road of Life" . . . Kingman T. Moore, formerly with Young & Rubicam and Benton & Bowles, joined Ted Bates as a supervisor in the radio-tv department and will be assigned to the Coast after a temporary assignment in the Gotham office . . . Bob Readick stars in "FBI in Peace & War" this Sunday (2) . . . Bill Rogers signed for GE Lamps telecommercials through BBD&O . . . NBC newsman Bob Wilson set to do an interview series with Dr. Frank Gallup three nights weekly on "Election Trends," with the series sponsored by Kemper Insurance Co. . . . Lynn Dollar appears on CBS-TV's "Good Morning With Will Rogers" to discuss how "$64,000 Question" contestants are picked and then has a role in the Sept. 25 Phil Silvers show in a sketch on tv's big money giveaways . . . Tele actress Barbara Joyce joins the cast of the Broadway company "Fallen Angels," now touring the summer circuits . . . Sam Dana, with McCann-Erickson before joining NBC as supervisor of television promotion for NBC Spot Sales, named advertising chief for WRCA and WRCA-TV under Max Buck . . . Ronald Dawson into CBS Radio's "Indictment."

With return from Europe yesterday (Tues.) of John Aaron, Jesse Zousmer from Las Vegas and Ed Murrow from the politico-shindigs, the "Person to Person" staff is now intact, lining up with Frank Schaffner, Chuck Hill, Bob Sammon, David Moore, John Horn and Liz Scofield . . . Dick Kleiner, already tv and records ed of NEA, has added men's fashion to his chores, NEA's first in that sphere . . . Gore Vidal making a career-out of "Dark Possession," first given over CBS-TV's "Studio One" a couple years ago (his first original for the medium) and with Monday's (27) showing on "Matinee Theatre" its third presented by the NBC-TV crossboarder. Vidal has plans for expanding the work for a Broadway production . . . WMCA program veepee Leon Goldstein's daughter Sheila to wed Sidney William Shaw, of Brookline, Mass., at the Savoy-Plaza, N. Y., Sept. 9.

Dorothy B. Lohman, manager of the N.Y. office of William Schuller Agency, leaves today (Wed.) for Coast conferences with Schuller . . . Allen Swift will host the "Popeye" Monday thru Friday show which kicks off Sept. 8 over WPIX, N.Y. Station will also draw on his oil and crayon talents for the show. Another host will be chosen for the weekend "Popeye" shows . . . Buddy Piper will replace Jack Barry on "Winky Dink," CBS-TV, on Saturday (1) . . . Richard B. Groome appointed controller of Mutual, moving up from the assistant controller spot . . . Effective Sept. 1 WEHT-TV, the CBS affiliate in Evansville, Ind., will be represented by Young Television Corp. KOWH, Omaha, has appointed Adam Young, Inc., as national sales rep . . . Lilo guests on Joe Franklin show on WABC-TV tomorrow (Thurs.).

Fritz Jacobi upped to manager of publicity and Norman Ginsburg to manager of advertising and promotion for California National Productions. Both had the same posts in NBC Television Films, one of Cal Nat's four operating divisions . . . Johnny Olsen set as host-emcee of George Scheck's "Star Time Kids," returning to WABC-TV after a year's absence on Sept. 9 . . . Sy Newman's "House Detective" package moves to WRCA-TV starting Sept. 30 in the Sunday 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. slot, with Rockford Furniture Co. sponsoring . . . Claire Mann resumes her WABC-TV morning show on Sept. 24, after a trip to Europe on which she shot special footage for the program. New York chapter of the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences holding a moonlight boat-ride around Manhattan evening of Sept. 13, with dinner & entertainment scheduled. They're calling it "A Night to Remember."

IN HOLLYWOOD . . .

J. Walter Thompson's Cornwall Jackson would like to open the new "Schlitz Playhouse" season with Marilyn Monroe in "Brothers Karamazov" if she is ready for such heavy stuff or, more importantly, willing to do it. He's still trying . . . Gen. David Sarnoff passed a weekend here after attending every session of both conventions . . . Compton's Lewis Titterton and Proctor & Gamble's Bill Craig in town singing the praises of "Hey Jeannie," a new fall P & G entry . . . Albert McCreery, executive producer of NBC's "Matinee Theatre," completed his tour of duty with Signal Corps and put away his shoulder eagles . . . Ida Lupino kudosed by Radio and TV Women of So. Cal. for "her artistry and creative effort in the directorial field" . . . Timetable for new construction at CBS' Television City has completion date of late summer in '58. Howard Meighan, veepee, will "sidewalk superintend" erection of the two color studios, nine-story office building and eight rehearsal halls . . . Ted Wick over his hepatitis and assumes his new post as coast director of publicity for J. Walter Thompson. He will handle all shows except "Lux Video Theatre," which

(Continued on page 36)

BADGE

Just released, 39 exciting new episodes of Badge 714

Here's television's greatest syndicated mystery! New honors for BADGE 714 and Jack Webb — from Billboard's 1956 TV Program & Talent Awards: television's "best half-hour mystery series," "best mystery performer" and "best actor among all syndicated programs."

Viewers continue to vote BADGE 714 television's greatest mystery series, too! As DRAGNET, it is the highest-rated mystery show on network television today.* As BADGE 714, it's tops in market after market regardless of size or program competition (latest available ARB).

BADGE 714, award and audience winner, is your answer to quick sales action. Get all the facts first-hand . . . call NBC Television Films now for first-run syndication availabilities in your markets.

NBC Television Films

Programs for All Stations — All Sponsors

A DIVISION OF CALIFORNIA NATIONAL PRODUCTIONS, INC.

*Average Audience — NTI first report, June 1956

663 Fifth Avenue in New York; Merchandise Mart in Chicago; Taft Building in Hollywood. In Canada: RCA Victor, 225 Mutual St., Toronto

INSIDE ADVERTISING
With Joseph Kaselow
Producer: Bob Smith
Director: Frank Miller
Writer: Kaselow
5 Mins., Mon.-thru-Fri., 7:45 p.m.
EDWARD PETRY & CO.
WOR, New York

Joseph Kaselow in his five-minute across the board broadcasts takes up the cudgels for ad row, judging from the Monday (27) and previous shows. In Monday's broadcast, he defended Madison Avenue from onslaughts of the Demos, whose leaders see something insidious between the Madison Avenue tieup with the Republican Party.

The five-minute daily broadcasts by the New York Herald Tribune advertising columnist represents something unique on the air. It is the first time such a series, devoted to news of the ad fraternity, is being aired in New York, and it is believed to be the first show to garner a station rep as a sponsor.

Kaselow has an uphill fight to retain an interesting quality in his voice, but as time goes on, he should be able to learn the tricks of modulation and get rid of some of the heavy voice qualities. On the basis of Monday's show, though, he offers cogent observations which are of interest to the general public as well as to ad row.

The Tribune columnist pointed out that the Demos, too, use the talents of ad agencies for their campaign, namely Norman Craig & Kummel, the opposite to BBD&O for the Republicans. He went on to say that these agencies operate on the communications technical level rather than the policy-making one, and to challenge the "insidious charge" thrown out by the Demos. There were some comments though, relating to the Dems cry of being the "poor" party, which Stevenson supporters may take exception to in the heat of the current battle. But on the whole, the program kept an even keel, presenting the role of ad row in the campaign. Horo.

TALK TIME
With Jimmy Valentine, others
Producer: Brooks Henderson
Director: Valentine
30 Mins.: Mon. thru Fri., 11 a.m.
Participating
KSTP, Minneapolis

There's apparently no dearth of people, young and old, who are eager to express their opinions publicly on one or another controversial subject. At least such a conclusion must be drawn from the very heavy response so far to such an invitation which this new KSTP-TV "Talk Time" show extends.

Moderator Jimmy Valentine announces the discussion topic and asks listeners to telephone in their views which go directly on the air as they're being uttered.

The 30-minute supply of volunteer opinions has been exceeding the supply. Initial discussion topic was, "Is rock 'n' roll music harmful to teenagers?" Adults and youngsters fought to get the line to reach Valentine so that they could unbosom themselves on the subject.

Majority view seemed to be in the negative and that a comparatively few "troublemakers," seeking an excuse "to go off their rockers," have been responsible for the disorders that have attended some such jazz sessions. Elvis Presley also apparently is in favor, although there were some criticisms expressed regarding his sideburns and bodily gyrations.

Valentine handles the conversations nicely and inserts intelligent queries when he deems it necessary in order to clarify opinions. Participants aren't required to give their names and addresses or either, but may do so if they wish.

With timely subjects this show is calculated to hold interest and build an audience. Giving KSTP followers the opportunity to sound off thusly, it seems destined to prove popular in that regard, too, and to help the station's public relations. Akin to newspaper's published letters from readers, it's one of the new current KSTP programming schedule modelled locally along "Monitor" network lines. Rees.

Richards Quits Hub

Boston, Aug. 28.

C. L. (Lud) Richards, national account executive for radio stations WBZ-WBZA, Boston and Springfield, resigned this week to join the national sales staff of Radio Advertising Bureau. Richards joined Westinghouse New England outlet in July, 1952, as advertising and sales promotion manager.

His resignation is effective Sept. 15. Richards was promoted to national account exec in August, 1955, and has been coordinator of the radio station's sales in the N. E. market.

AIRCRAFT FLASH!
With Andy Fuller
Writer-Producer: Fuller
30 Mins., Wed. (8); 8 p.m.
Sustaining
WTAG, Worcester, Mass.

A public service program in every respect was "Aircraft Flash!," half-hour documentary beamed on Wednesday (8) via WTAG, Worcester, Mass. Written, produced and narrated by Andy Fuller, the station's director of community service, it was designed to whip up man-in-the-street interest in the nation's Ground Observer Corps.

The GOC needs volunteers, it was emphasized. And for those citizens who may have felt that spotting aircraft in peacetime is rather pointless, this hard-hitting airer ably demonstrated the value of their assistance in manning a post. For Fuller, with the aid of a portable mike and a tape recorder, made a "step-by-step" follow-through of what happens when a call from the public sends jets into the air.

In relating the story of how civilians and airmen team up, Fuller took dialers to a GOC post at Worcester airport, the Air Force Filter Center in Manchester, N.H., a radar center on Cape Cod and the 49th Fighter Interceptor Squadron Base near Boston. "Radar has its limitations," an Air Force officer explained, and that's why ground observer volunteers are "a step in the defense of the U.S."

Sandwiched in the documentary were interviews with jet pilots, GOC observers and C.O.'s. They all served to outline the importance of this basic arm of America's defense. As for technical aspects of the airer, the tapes were nicely edited to bring home a lucid story to the listener. Sound effects of jet planes taking to the air were particularly impressive. Fuller did a creditable job with his manifold chores.

Withal, this is a public service field that other stations may well enter to accent the local angle as did WTAG in its own bailiwick. Gilb.

Chi AFTRA Elects

Chicago, Aug. 28.

Incumbent slate of officers and exec secretary Ray Jones were re-elected at the annual membership meeting of the Chi local of the American Federation of Television-Radio Artists.

Eleanor Engle repeats as president; John Gannon, Arwin Schweig and Norman Gottschalk as veepees; Helen Malone, recording secretary, and William Cole, treasurer.

SUNDAY WITH SHEEHAN
With Ed Sheehan
210 Mins.; Sun., 10:30 a.m.
KGMB, Honolulu

Ed Sheehan, one of the town's top money disk jockeys as well as a fulltime advertising agency executive, has taken on a new stint with this weekly three and one-half hour session.

Sunday, accordingly, should become a profitable day for Sheehan and KGMB, which seems to be bending a more sensitive ear to listenership surveys and ratings these days.

Time slot couldn't be better. Major a.m. competition is KGU's three-hour (9 a.m. to noon) strictly longhair session. In addition to stay-at-homers, Sheehan's a cinch to draw thousands of beach-bound families via car radios and portables.

Sheehan's studied casualness comes across impressively. He's developed tons of confidence over the years, with his commercials emerging with all the freshness of glib ad libs.

Unlike his nightly "Pau Hana Concert" (the first two words mean "through work" in Hawaiian), Sunday opus isn't confined to instrumental recordings. Hence there's a welcome accent on original cast albums, plus semi-longhair and semi-pops.

Most surprising thing about this "right music at the right time" stanza is that it hasn't been done before on Sundays. First show (12) was fairly well loaded with commercials, with indications that "two-fers" were being handed out as a bonus to premier clients. Walt.

Better Signal for WPIX, Also Preps for Color

WPIX, N. Y., will kick off the new fall season with the near completion of a 12-month engineering program, designed to improve the indie's telecasting signal.

Upcoming soon is new and improved coaxial cable transmission equipment from WPIX studios to its transmitter at the Empire State Building. In the meantime, the New York Daily News station has modernized its film transmission equipment chain from cameras to transmitter. In preparation for possible color transmission, the station has installed a new video switcher which can handle either color or black and white in the station's master control.

Inside Stuff—Radio-TV

Gore Vidal, who's been a novelist and television writer, has turned anthologist with "Best Television Plays," a collection of eight top teleplays which Ballantine Books is publishing Sept. 14 in a 35 cent paperback and $2.75 hardbound edition. Lineup comprises Paddy Chayefsky's "The Mother" (Philco," '54), Reginald Rose's "Thunder on Sycamore Street" ("Studio One," '54), Tad Mosel's "My Lost Saints" ("Goodyear," '55), Robert Alan Aurthur's "Man on a Mountaintop" ("Philco," '54), Horton Foote's "A Young Lady of Property" ("Philco," '53), Rod Serling's "The Strike" ("Studio One," '54), J. P. Miller's "The Rabbit Trap" (Goodyear," '55) and Vidal's own "Visit to a Small Planet" ("Goodyear," '55).

Portions of three of the plays were excerpted in the "Treasure Chest" column of the New York Times Sunday Book Review a couple of weeks back, accompanying a "Speaking of Books" guest piece by Viday on the modern novel.

Both local and national spot radio billings for the last half of 1956 on the basis of present indications will top the record hit for the first half of the year, according to Sherril Taylor, v.p. and director of promotion of Radio Advertising Bureau. Taylor made his prediction at a meeting of the Los Angeles Advertising Club.

Taylor, commenting on RAB's "blitz" campaigns in Boston, Chicago and San Francisco, said they showed that the prospects for increased billings are very good. He also stressed the importance of the transistor development to radio.

Tom Knode, v.p. and general manager of Petry tv, has been named chairman of the newly-formed Edward Petry Co. plans board, composed of department heads and other execs.

Other members are: William Maillefert, v.p. in charge of radio; Martin Nierman, eastern sales manager for tv; Jim Eshleman, eastern sales manager for radio; Louis A. Smith, western manager for tv; John Ashenhurst, western manager of radio; Charles Philips, tv sales development manager; Bob Hutton, tv promotion manager; Bill Steese, radio promotion manager, Lee Redfield, special services director for tv; and Bill Cartwright, manager of the Detroit office.

Inflation has finally hit the monthly Program Guide of WQXR, N.Y., the "good listening" music station. As of Oct. 1, the Guide goes from $1 per year to $1.50.

Booklet, originally four pages when first published in 1936, is now 48 pages and has a paid circulation of 64,000 copies each month. An additional 4,000 copies are distributed free for teachers, schools, libraries and other institutions.

Joan Sinclaire, former tele producer and currently head of the radio-tv department at the Walter A. Lowen ad-merchandising placement office, teaching a radio-tv production course at the Ballard School of the YWCA starting Sept. 24.

Lineup of speakers includes Lou Florence of Lennen & Newell, Warren Kraetzer of New York U., film writer Joseph Kenas, telescripter Harvey Howells, Mari Yanofsky of ABC, Jim Gaylord of the Carl Byoir office, WPIX staffer Leonard Leff and Paul Belanger of BBD&O.

From the Production Centres

Continued from page 34

continues under Frances Scully's direction . . . Milburn McCarthy set up a publicity office here with Joe Leighton, onetime with the Thompson agency, in charge . . . There are now 2,511,895 tv sets in the L.A. area, with 3,525 tint types.

IN CHICAGO . . .

Dick Zimbert resigns Sept. 28 as assistant to AFTRA's exec secretary Ray Jones to join the Leo Burnett ad agency . . . Oliver Castle upped from his research director post at the A. C. Nielsen firm to veepee status. George Magnuson takes over the research job . . . With its new antenna atop the Prudential Bldg. checked out and in service, WGN-TV's stick on Tribune Tower is being dismantled to be replaced by a flag pole . . . Joe Pedott is shuttering his ad agency to join R. Jack Scott as an account exec . . . Bob Kelly subbing for Sun-Times columnist Irv Kupcinet who's vacationng for three weeks from his nightly "Chicago Story" on WBBM-TV . . . Jim Wagner new WGN producer-writer . . . Billings for Fred Niles tv film company were close to the $200,000 mark during July . . . James Henneberry has resigned as sales promotion manager at WICS, Springfield, to take a similar berth at KWK-TV, St. Louis . . . Deejay Jim Mills signed an exclusive radio-tv pact with WMAQ-WNBQ . . . John Buckstaff new supervisor of radio-tv at Illinois Tech filling the slot vacated by Kirk Lagie, now with NBC . . . Ron Terry starts a 145-minute morning disk session Monday (3) on WAAF . . . Burn-Smith named national sales rep for WHBL, Sheboygan.

IN BOSTON . . .

WBZZ inked Post drama critic Elliot Norton for upcoming 15 min. show in which he will expound on the theatre and give the critic angle on productions playing here. Program will be spotted on either Friday or Sunday nights from 9-10 seg and will start when WBZ drops NBC evening programming . . . Don Kent, WBZ-TV meterologist, back to school at M. I. T. for course on hurricanes and associated weather phenomena . . . Jack Chase, WBZ-TV newscaster, claims N. E. record for number of weekly tv shows with total of 30. He's on at 6:55, 7:25, 7:55, 8:25, 9:55 and 12 (noon) Monday through Friday . . . "Big Brother" Bob Emery, WBZ-TV personality, sportscaster Curt Gowdy and the Red Sox' Ted Williams made p.a.'s at seven ozoners in behalf of the Jimmy Fund Monday night (27) . . . WBZ-TV cowboy personality Rex Trailer and horse, "Goldrush," won a citation from the Wilmington, Mass. 4-H Mounties following a demonstration of riding and rope tricks . . . Community Auditions, Sundays on WBZ-TV at 12:30 p.m., celebrated its sixth birthday Sunday (26) as one of oldest live tv shows in Hub . . . Sylvia Syms is visiting the disk jocks this frame . . . Proctor & Gamble started a drive on New White Lava over WNAC-TV in a special promosh running through Oct.

IN PHILADELPHIA . . .

Red Benson slated to take over the Marvin Burak late night stint on WPEN . . . Murray Arnold, assistant station manager of WPEN and prominent in local broadcasting for past 25 years, appointed to the nominating and program committee of Radio Pioneers . . . Phil Sheridan, WCAU-TV weatherman, hosts new WFIL-TV half-hour film session's "Triangle Theatre" . . . Alan Scott's 10-year-old son, Jeff, made debut as cast member of WRCV-TV's "Let Scott Do It" (27) . . . Eagles' six road league games to be televised by WCAU-TV. Team's 12-league games will be broadcast by WCAU . . . John Franklin, WRCV newsman, returned from two weeks reserve duty at the Pentagon (24). . . . Shirley Forrest, who does the "Late Date with Shirley" on WPFH, ankles to Trinidad to make second fashion-travel short subject for Universal . . . Richard Greene ("Robin Hood") here (25) for the United Community Campaign.

IN SAN FRANCISCO . . .

KQED is uniting its studio and office, taking a two-year lease on a building near downtown Frisco, and will move in mid-September . . . New man in tv division of Edward Petry & Co. is Douglas Carruth, late of KVOA, Tucson . . . KRON won State Fair's "Top Story" award for its coverage of last winter's Yuba City flood; KCBS won the radio award for its reporting of the Marcus kidnaping . . . Dottie Hansen's resigned as secretary of the Northern California Academy of Television's board, has been replaced by KGO's Neva Nelson . . . KOVR will do 18 live telecasts from the State Fair in Sacramento during fair's 12-day run—it's most ever tried from the fair and is one more obvious step in the Stockton station's orientation toward Sacramento . . . KGO-TV's Don Sherwood landed in the soup first night of the GOP convention. Frisco Examiner's Dwight Newton commented: "Management says he was 'sick.' Dismayed viewers thought party time had been extended to television" . . . TV Cartoon Productions added Maurice Fagan, ex-Disney and ex-UPA, to staff . . . KQED's Jon Rice to Madison, Wis., to serve as a consultant for a seminar of the National Association of Education Broadcasters.

IN CLEVELAND . . .

Bill Mayer, KYW commentator, ordered by medico to take a couple weeks of non-talking vacation to cure inflamed vocal cords . . . Will Dougherty of WJW appointed secretary of local Variety Club tent . . . Bill Randle of WEWS to turn his entire first Sunday deejay show in October over to LeRoy Anderson's 70-piece orch as in-the-flesh attraction . . . WDOK's Candy Lee back from New York where she made another appearance with Vincent Lopez's orch at Hotel Taft . . . Blessed event cigars passed out by Tom Altenbernd, Bob Mears and Steve Derry, all of WEWS, who reported wives are doing well, too.

IN DETROIT . . .

WJKB-AM-TV dedicate new studios Thursday (30) . . . Frank Stieltenkamp moves up from the sales staff to become sales development manager for WWJ-AM-TV . . . For the 35th consecutive season WWJ will broadcast the U. of Michigan football games. Bill Flemming will do the play-by-play . . . "The Charles Ruggles Show" has been added by WWJ-TV in the 12:30 to 1 p.m. time slot . . . Sonny Eliot, WWJ-TV's seven-day-a-week weather forecaster, will add a weathercast on WWJ radio each weekday night.

IN MINNEAPOLIS

John Carl Schwarzwalder, HUHT-TV, Houston, nation's first noncommercial tv station's director, named to similar post with forthcoming new Twin Cities area educational non-profit channel on U. of Minnesota campus . . . While radio stations WPBC and WMIN have tabooed Elvis Presley records, WLOL disk jockey Steve Cannon has announced he'll continue to feature them. WCCO Radio was visited by 10 young girl members of Presley's local fan club in quest of items the singer "touched" on recent visit to station. They explained they wanted to make a "shrine" out of the items . . . KCJB, Minot, N. D., to build new 1,070 feet tower and increase its power from 30,000 to 96,000 watts . . . With Remington Rand Univax the sponsor, KSTP broadcast outdoor fight between Minneapolis Joe Schmolze and St. Paul Jim Hegerle which drew $20,000 gate at new local baseball stadium . .

Has Your Trendex ever collided with DYNAMITE?

Nobody . . . nowhere . . . has ever seen the kind of television Los Angeles is about to see. That's why you can throw away the book – all the books – about L. A.'s previous viewing habits!

What else would you watch, Mr. Advertiser—and what else will your millions of Los Angeles customers watch—when great MGM pictures like these are showing exclusively on KTTV.

TEST PILOT
Clark Gable, Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy, Lionel Barrymore

CAMILLE
Greta Garbo, Robert Taylor

THE THIN MAN
William Powell, Myrna Loy

THIRTY SECONDS OVER TOKYO
Spencer Tracy, Van Johnson, Robert Walker, Robert Mitchum

A NIGHT AT THE OPERA
The Marx Brothers

EASTER PARADE
Judy Garland, Fred Astaire

LASSIE COME HOME
Roddy McDowall, Donald Crisp, Elizabeth Taylor

GRAND HOTEL
Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery, Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone

GOODBYE, MR. CHIPS
Robert Donat, Greer Garson

ANCHORS AWEIGH
Frank Sinatra, Kathryn Grayson, Gene Kelly

DAVID COPPERFIELD
W. C. Fields, Lionel Barrymore, Freddie Bartholomew

NIGHT MUST FALL
Robert Montgomery, Rosalind Russell

NORTHWEST PASSAGE
Spencer Tracy, Robert Young, Walter Brennan, Ruth Hussey

NINOTCHKA
Greta Garbo, Melvyn Douglas

MEET ME IN ST. LOUIS
Judy Garland, Margaret O'Brien, Tom Drake

BOYS TOWN
Spencer Tracy, Mickey Rooney

THE CLOCK
Judy Garland, Robert Walker, Keenan Wynn

NATIONAL VELVET
Mickey Rooney, Donald Crisp, Elizabeth Taylor

RANDOM HARVEST
Ronald Colman, Greer Garson, Susan Peters

RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS
John Barrymore, Ethel Barrymore, Lionel Barrymore

HONKY TONK
Clark Gable, Lana Turner, Frank Morgan, Claire Trevor

MRS. MINIVER
Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon, Teresa Wright

SARATOGA
Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Lionel Barrymore

TREASURE ISLAND
Wallace Beery, Jackie Cooper, Lionel Barrymore

THE HARVEY GIRLS
Judy Garland, John Hodiak, Ray Bolger

DuBARRY WAS A LADY
Red Skelton, Lucille Ball, Gene Kelly

GASLIGHT
Charles Boyer, Ingrid Bergman, Joseph Cotten

THE GOOD EARTH
Paul Muni, Luise Rainer, Walter Connolly

DOCTOR JEKYLL & MR. HYDE
Spencer Tracy, Ingrid Bergman, Lana Turner, Donald Crisp

SAN FRANCISCO
Clark Gable, Jeannette MacDonald, Spencer Tracy

LIBELED LADY
Jean Harlow, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy

LOVE FINDS ANDY HARDY
Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, Lewis Stone, Ann Rutherford (And ALL the Andy Hardy Pictures!)

CALLING DR. KILDARE
Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore, Laraine Day, Lana Turner (And ALL the Dr. Kildare Pictures!)

CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS
Spencer Tracy, Lionel Barrymore, Freddie Bartholomew

BABES IN ARMS
Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, Guy Kibbee

THE BRIBE
Robert Taylor, Ava Gardner, Charles Laughton, Vincent Price, John Hodiak

TORTILLA FLAT
Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr, John Garfield, Frank Morgan

STRIKE UP THE BAND
Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, Paul Whiteman

TARZAN, THE APE MAN
Johnny Weissmuller, Maureen O'Sullivan, C. Aubrey Smith

A TALE OF TWO CITIES
Ronald Colman, Elizabeth Allan, Basil Rathbone

WATERLOO BRIDGE
Vivien Leigh, Robert Taylor

JOHNNY EAGER
Robert Taylor, Lana Turner, Edward Arnold, Van Heflin

MIN AND BILL
Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery

MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY
Clark Gable, Franchot Tone, Charles Laughton

STRANGE CARGO
Clark Gable, Joan Crawford

DINNER AT EIGHT
John Barrymore, Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Marie Dressler, Jean Harlow

COMMAND DECISION
Clark Gable, Walter Pidgeon, Van Johnson, Brian Donlevy, John Hodiak, Charles Bickford

THE GREAT ZIEGFELD
William Powell, Myrna Loy, Luise Rainer, Frank Morgan, Virginia Bruce

GIRL CRAZY
Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, June Allyson

IT'S A WONDERFUL WORLD
Claudette Colbert, James Stewart

Before the rating revolution starts . . . call your Blair-TV man now.

KTTV
LOS ANGELES

the TIMES-MGM Station
Represented by BLAIR-TV

Era of Specialization Pays Off For New York Indies WLIB, WWRL

In the highly competitive field of radio in New York, WLIB and WWRL, two stations pinpointing their appeal to specialized groups ranging from the large Negro population to the small Syrian minority, find their programming virtually sold out with the advent of the fall season.

WWRL, which celebrated its 30th anniversary last Sunday, broadcasts in eight foreign languages, in addition to having a large block of Negro programming running from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. The station, a 24-hour operation, has 75% of its total programming sponsored during the season, spanning mid-September to June, a percentage considered by management the maximum for the station.

WLIB, which has steadily been increasing its Negro block of programming, is a daytime operation, which also has Polish and Spanish programming, as well as a wide block of time devoted to the American Jewish community. Since Harry Novik and his brother Morris took over in 1948, when the station was a veritable Tower of Babel, there has been a heavy accent aimed at the Negro market, a programming concept which has paid off. Since that time, Morris Novik has bowed out of the WLIB picture with his takeover last year of WOV.

WLIB, starting in 1948 with a Negro programming block from 6:30 to 9 a.m. now has extended it to 1:30 p.m. Aimed at the estimated 1,000,000 Negros in the Metropolitan area, this block is virtually sold out. Programwise, the morning block consists of music, chatter and Negro community news, Gospel singing and other entertainment desired by the Negro community. WLIB also goes in heavily for coverage of Negro news developments both in and out of the city, covering such conventions as the recent conclave of the National Association of Advancement of Colored People, and rendering on-the-spot reports by WLIB correspondents on civil rights at the Democratic and Republican national conventions. For a station of its size, it goes in big for community and public affairs, an orientation which has attracted listeners and business, with current grosses running 17% higher than last year.

WWRL's orientation to its specialized audiences is similar. Over a period of 30 years, its has grown from a station of 100 watts power, broadcasting from the living room studio of its founder-president William H. Reuman's Queens home, to 5,000 watts. The station's studios and offices are still located at its original Queens site, but now occupy a modern two-story building. The current round-the-clock broadcasting is a far cry from the three hours daily which WWRL used to broadcast in 1926.

WWRL's first foreign language program, begun in 1928, was a one-hour German broadcast aired on Sundays. Today, WWRL broadcasts in eight foreign languages totaling over 107 hours weekly, 88 of which is devoted to New York's Spanish-Puerto Rican audience.

Both WLIB and WWRL report a heavier accent of national advertising versus local, with the ratio in both stations now running in favor of the national sponsors.

•

Major Hollywood motion picture studio wants top executive to represent TV commercial department in eastern area.

•

Must have film commercial and top level agency background.

•

All replies held confidental.

BOX 1245
VARIETY, 154 W. 46 St.
New York 36, N. Y.

Mutual Sets 15-Hour Labor Day Observance; Tibbett's Documentary

A 15-hour Labor Day broadcast schedule, to be climaxed by the radio acting debut of Lawrence Tibbett in an hour-long documentary, has been set by the Mutual net for Monday (3).

Top industrial and labor leaders will join with heads of five major engineering societies for the 17-segment Labor Day schedule. In the evening from 9 to 10 p.m., Tibbett in his first straight radio acting role, will play the lead in the "Freedom's Forge" documentary.

The broadcast segments, to be heard variously throughout Labor Day, will feature such industrial leaders as John E. McKeen, prez of Charles Pfizer & Co., and Dr. C. W. Humphreys, v.p. of Shell Oil Co. Representing labor will be David J. McDonald, United Steel Workers of America topper, who will be heard from 7:15 to 7:30. The theme of the broadcasts will be the unique American attributes that has made the U. S. the industrial leader in the world and has offered the highest standard of living.

The Labor Day commemoration follows the pattern set by MBS program director Brad Simpson for the July 4th and Memorial Day broadcasts.

Columbus, Cincy

Continued from page 31

gramming WB theatricals for the first time, jumped from a two-hour average of 6.7 in July to 12.6 in August.

WKRC's "Ladies Home Theatre," Monday thru Friday at 5 p.m., telecasts the same movie as the previous night's late evening program. Ratings for this program more than doubled over July, going from 2.8 to 6.0.

In relation to competitive programming, here are some examples:

On Friday night, WTVN, Columbus, 9:30 to 11 p.m., with "Lady with Red Hair," starring Miriam Hopkins and Claude Rains, jumped its average rating from 5.8 in July up to 18.5, against such competition as the fights, "Truth or Consequences" and "Life of Riley," on WLW-C, and "Dr. Hudson's Secret Journal" on WBNS.

On Saturday night, WTVN, with "Action in the North Atlantic," starring Humphrey Bogart and Raymond Massey, went from 6.7 up to 12.6, against "Midwestern Hayride" and "Alfred Hitchcock Presents."

Schwab Lands in Pokey For Toting Machine Gun For Use on 'Matinee'

Beverly Hills, Aug. 28.

Beverly Hills is a quiet, peaceful community and its gendarmes take a dim view of the practice of a machine gun on the rear seat of a car. Laurence Schwab, director of NBC-TV's "Matinee Theatre" found that out last week and spent a few unpleasant hours in the pokey until his lawyer showed up with a writ of habeas corpus.

Schwab said the machine gun had been borrowed for a tv series. He has tossed it into the car and was driving to work when he ran out of gas. While he hiked to a gas station to get fuel, a police car stopped on a routine check, found the gun and waited for Schwab to return.

TV director was released in $1,000 bail pending a hearing in Superior Court today (Tues.).

CEDRIC ADAMS OFF FOR TOUR OF SOVIET

Minneapolis, Aug. 28.

Cedric Adams, WCCO Radio's nationally-known newscaster and the Twin Cities' ace airlanes personality, departs Sept. 4 for a trip to Russia and will send back his personal impressions of life in the Soviet Union for broadcast on the air.

He'll spend from 10 days to two weeks behind the Iron Curtain, visiting Lemingrad, Moscow and the East Berlin Russian-controlled zone.

Adams will carry along a portable tape recorder on which he'll transcribe an eye-witness account of Russian conditions and life. The tapes will be rushed back to WCCO Radio by air and will be broadcast regularly during his absence on news programs.

It's also Adams' plan to gather material for a special program reviewing the entire trip and this program will be aired when he returns here, about Sept. 20.

Everybody's a Critic Next Sunday

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

In a mass reviewing project to learn public preferences both nationally and regionally in television, the National Audience Board will stage the first large-scale coverage of tv programs over a continuous 12-hour period on Labor Day, Sunday, Sept. 2.

Plan, to be participated in by some 600 members of the NAB reviewing committees nationally, will bring in opinions and comments from viewers in every walk of life. These will be passed on to ad agencies, advertisers and networks.

Format calls for each of the 600 committeemen to distribute from 20 to 100 questionnaires containing the list of standards by which NAB evaluates individual programs. With at least an anticipated 10% response, several thousand returns is expected.

BERT LAHR, DE MILLE SIGN FOR 'OMNIBUS'

Reinforcing its "cyclical" pattern, "Omnibus" this week signed Bert Lahr and Agnes De Mille for three appearances each during the coming season. They join Boston attorney Joseph Welch, down for three-part encore on the operation of the federal government, and Leonard Bernstein, slated for two more appearances on the orchestra.

Lahr will do comedy, drama and music in classical and modern roles which will be created or adapted by the Ford Foundation TV-Radio Workshop staff, with one original showcasing him in a variety of impersonations including his latest characterization in "Waiting for Godot." (Lahr did a picture spread for Collier's couple of weeks back on political candidates on tv.)

Miss De Mille, also in a return, will do three productions on the modern dance, emphasizing its story-telling potential. Also set for this season for a one-shot is thesp Christopher Plummer, currently doing "Henry V" at the Edinburgh Drama Festival and slated for the upcoming Broadway production, "Night of the Auk."

Crowell Collier Deal On Hawaii Station Off

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Purchase of KULA, Honolulu, AM-TVer by Crowell Collier, supposedly set last April, has fallen through by mutual consent, according to Jack A. Burnett, prexy of TV Corp. of America, the present owners.

Deal, under which 100,000 shares of C-C stock would be exchanged for a controlling 10,000 shares to TCA stock, broke down when KULA mortgage holders, mainly previous owners from whom TCA bought KULA last year, refused to approve.

Tom Lewis Joins Chet LaRoche Agcy.

Tom Lewis, vet agency exec and producer, has joined the C. J. LaRoche agency as v.p. in charge of radio and tv. Lewis, who with his wife Loretta Young heads up Lewislor Productions, packager of the "Loretta Young Show," has stepped out of active writing and production chores in the show itself (though retaining ownership), and joins LaRoche Sept. 1. He was formerly a v.p. of Young & Rubicam and a producer with Metro.

He'll headquarter on the Coast.

Evans

Continued from page 26

television and the adoption of the National Televisions System Committee-RCA compatible system. One such memo, from v.p. Richard Salant to Stanton, reported a conversation between then Washington v.p. Earl Gammon and FCC Comr. Robert Sterling, to the effect that Sterling stated "he had very little faith in the new WTSC-RCA (sic) system and didn't believe it would prove out. He stated, however, that because of the pressures he was sure that the Commission would hold hearings on any petition wihch RCA or anybody else filed for approval of the system."

Also released was the text of a letter from Zenith prez Eugene McDonald to Stanley Barnes, then head of the antitrust department at the Dept. of Justice in which McDonald, observing that Barnes was investigating possible network monopoly, called NBC and CBS the "ringmasters" and stated that through their o&o's and key affiliates, they dominated the NARTB and therefore any position taken by the NARTB was actually the position of the networks.

'Hometown U.S.A.' As 'Home' Insert Rates As Unique 1-Man Setup

"Hometown U.S.A.," the ambitious half-hour-weekly format within the NBC-TV "Home" show, is well under way with six filmed portraits of American cities already in the can for a Sept. 7 start. Filming operation on the "Hometown" segment, which examines a different city each week, is a unique one-man operation in which Jack Fuller acts in the capacities of producer, director, writer and unit manager.

Unlike other such integrated-film projects on the webs, NBC hasn't sent out a film crew for the segments, but instead Fuller uses affiliates to provide cameraman and other film technicians, with the affiliate helping to set up the filming and cashing in on local promotion as well. Already shot and recorded, with "Home" star Arlene Francis doing the narration, are picture portraits of Rochester, Minn., Portland, Me., Newport, R.I., Grand Rapids, Mich., Greenville, S.C. and Plattsburgh, N.Y.

Planned for shooting this month are Madison, Wisc., Sioux Falls, S.D. and Roanoke. Fuller is grinding 'em out at the rate of about one a week.

WHTN-TV
CHANNEL 13

IT'S A SELLER'S MARKET, but we can give you the BIGGEST BUY yet!

TIME: Now, while we're still new . . . with rates set to offer low cost per impression . . . choice availabilities are still open.

PLACE: Huntington — Ashland — Charleston and Portsmouth Markets. The rich, prosperous, tri-state area of more than 1,250,000 population conservatively measured from mail responses.

SCENE: WHTN-TV with the largest transmitting antenna in the world . . . 316,000 watts of power for maximum effective coverage . . . a built-in audience of more than 200,000 sets . . . popular basic ABC network programs, outstanding local live shows and top-notch films.

ACTION: Get on our "bandwagon" and g-r-o-w with us! After only one month of maximum power, Channel 13 showed 36.8% audience increase over the first audience report.

CALL US: Huntington, West Virginia, JAckson 5-7661, or our representatives: Edward Petry & Co., Inc.

TV's Channel 13 Basic ABC

CISCO KID 29.4* HOUSTON

High-rated among the top TV ten in 3-station Houston, Ziv's CISCO KID beats the big names . . . Lawrence Welk, Jackie Gleason, Disneyland, I Love Lucy and others. * (Telepulse, May '56)

Write, phone or wire for full facts on this fabulous audience producer!

ZIV TELEVISION

CINCINNATI, CHICAGO, NEW YORK, HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD on VINE

• FOR LEASE •

BROADCASTING & TV STUDIOS

Ample Modern Seating for Audience Participation

• AIR CONDITIONED •

Roy C. Seeley Co

Exclusive Agents
610 S. Main St. TRinity 1214
Los Angeles 14, Calif.

'Ranger' To Range Far on Regional TV Sales Pattern

Having apparently exhausted all network-level sponsor possibilities for the alternate week opening on "The Lone Ranger," ABC-TV is turning the skip-week loose in an unusual regional sales pattern. Under the plan, up to five regional sponsors—Pacific, West, West Central, East Central and North East—could share sponsorship on the skip-week. General Mills, of course, is full-network on its alternate week.

Network has broken down the regional costs of the show on two levels, one based on a sellout, the other on a partial sale. Under the pattern, the northeast sponsor would pay the highest tariff, scaled from $18,141 to $21,647 for time and talent per show. Lowest would be for the Pacific sponsor, with a $7,616 to $9,062 bite.

'SUPER CIRCUS' IN SHIFT TO SAT. SLOT

"Super Circus," for more than seven years a fixture in ABC-TV's Sunday afternoon 5 to 6 spot, will be shifted to the same hour on Saturdays starting Oct. 13. Show will continue to originate out of New York, with the same cast.

Move was prompted by the show's switch from a segmented-sold show to a participating pattern, under which the network will sell minutes instead of half-hours. Thus far, the network has had some orders for the program under the new pattern, but is holding off on firming them up until it has most of the show sold. It was these initial participating bankrollers, however, who favored the move to Saturdays, and the web decided to go along with the idea.

Ken Banghart 'Pulse' In 80% SRO Status

Ken Banghart's switch from newscaster to disk jockey, via his "Noonday Pulse" on WRCA, N. Y., apparently is paying off nicely for both Banghart and the NBC flagship station. After only three weeks on the air, the hourlong show is 89% sold with 11 sponsors slated to start by Sept. 3.

Station also got off the ground on its schedule of eight Army football games by selling half sponsorship to Stewart-Warner Alemite Division, along with a 15-minute pregame segment to Reed Candy Co.

More Mutual Biz

On the heels of the Seaboard Drug Co. inking Walter Winchell's Sunday newscasts, Mutual has inked some new business.

Kraft Foods will sponsor three additional five-minute newscasts on Sundays at 1 p.m., 5 p.m. and 6:25 p.m. American Molasses Co., through Charles W. Hoyt, will pick up the tab for Gayelord Hauser at 12:10-12:15 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays starting Oct. 16. Five minutes preceding and following each of the Notre Dame football games, for which Pontiac is picking up the tab, will be sponsored by the J. B. Williams Co.

'FORBIDDEN AREA' CAST

CBS-TV has set an all-name cast for "Forbidden Area," the premiere play in its "Playhouse 90" series. Cast includes Charlton Heston, Diana Lynn, Tab Hunter, Vincent Price, Victor Jory, Charles Bickford and Walter Cronkite, the latter as narrator.

Preem, Oct. 4, is a Rod Serling adaptation of the Pat Frank novel. John Frankenheim will direct and Martin Manulis produce the Coast origination.

Omaha—KOWH, Todd Storz's outlet here tonight (28) tossed an "Appreciation Night" for its listeners at the new City Aud to help celebrate deejay Sandy Jackson's 15th year in radio. Talent included Russ Carlyle's Orch, the Diamonds, Jeri Southern, Georgie Shaw, Ray Orbison and the Teen Kings, Eileen Rogers, Bill Bennet, Sanford Clark, Bobby Charles, the Nilson Twins and Bill Shepard.

Flying High!

The critics in St. Louis soared, too, in their praise of Sandra Deel as "Peter Pan." And almost 100,000 spectators roared their approval in a single week!

"Sandra Deel has a buoyancy, a merry pertness, elan and vivacity which brings Peter Pan to joyous life." MYLES STANDISH, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"The very feminine Sandra Deel is agile, wistful and charming in the title role." HERBERT L. MONK, St. Louis Globe Democrat.

After a full season featured on Caesar's Hour, rehearsal and performance rigors this month and last, Sandra Deel now is enjoying a brief end-of-summer holiday with her own two and a half year old 'Peter Pan.'

Coming Up for TELEVISION
Leading Roles in MUSICAL and DRAMATIC PROGRAMS

• Personal Management:
BROADCAST MANAGEMENT, INC.
113 West 57th St., New York 19, N. Y.
PLaza 7-8618

• Public Relations:
ROSS ASSOCIATES
152 West 42nd St., New York 36, N. Y.
BRyant 9-5906

Politico Conventions

Continued from page 24

McAndrew ladled out some blame:

"The trouble is they (the Republicans) haven't been keeping their promises on time allotments . . . they've run a lot of loaded entertainment in on us."

He conceded other conventions —and cited FDR conclaves of 1936, 1940—have been dull, too, but pointed out not so much money had ever been at stake before. McAndrew suggested:

"We might work out some sort of deal to cut down first two days of conventions—both of 'em—and have equipment on spot in case something big broke. I can't say yet; after all, it's four years off."

As to the cost of preemptions, an "educated guess" from an ABC exec put the figure, conservatively, at $5,000,000. ABC suffered a typical wound the convention's third night when a scheduled Frisco prizefight was bumped off the air completely and an announcer, who'd flown out from Chicago solely to do commercials, flew back without ever having got on the air.

CBS news director John Day agreed some type of capsulization would be necessary in 1960, and CBS news producer Paul Levitan suggested closer liaison with the nets was needed, thought at least a week between conventions would benefit both drained tv staffs and jaded viewing public.

'TV's So Prosperous!' Weaver

On the other hand, ABC vice president Ernest Lee Jahncke, who was in Frisco helping his boss, Robert Kintner, saw no chance of a cutback in 1960, and NBC board chairman Sylvester (Pat) Weaver put it this way:

"There's no question that we'll lose a lot of money by covering the conventions this year. In 1952 the cost of the conventions was the difference between a profit and loss for NBC that year.

"But tv is so prosperous, there's no reason why we shouldn't cover the full conventions. I hope the day never comes when tv does decide to gloss over anything as important as these conventions."

A middle-echelon ABC exec felt both meetings ought to be tightened up somewhat, but added:

"What are you going to do? Don't forget that this is high-policy stuff politically and ties right in with the FCC. If the FCC gets pressure it can turn the pressure on us and we'll do four full days 'cause we're under their thumb.

"And, furthermore, this is a big story of the year, no matter which way you cut it, and deserves strong legitimate coverage."

Nevertheless, tv execs feel burned.

Indication of how deeply lies in the fact that reporters from both Time mag and Scripps-Howard papers are going to top tv officials now, asking, "What're you gonna do?"

One change, for the Republicans, at least, seems certain: elimination of much of the pro talent that used up tv time.

Because of lack of controversy, GOP apparently believed running in a whole raft of entertainment would make convention more palatable to home viewers.

Thus, between each official action, people like Ethel Merman, Jane Powell, Perry Botkin, Gene Archer, King's Men, Irene Dunne, Lucille Norman, Patrice Munsel, Nat (King) Cole, Brian Sullivan appeared.

Except for possibly Miss Merman singing the GOPed-up lyrics to "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and Irving Berlin doing "Four More Years," the Republican entertainment policy didn't work too well.

Reason: everyone was more interested in politics and there were plenty of celebs around from worlds other than that of show biz.

Thus, the show people never really caught anyone's attention in the Cow Palace and in many cases the tv nets simply switched to their own anchor men or to their Nob Hill headquarters.

The anchor men, CBS' Walter Cronkite, NBC's Chet Huntley and ABC's John Daly, showed much savvy, and the mobile teams of all three nets knocked themselves out doing reporting jobs.

NBC scored heavily with its telecast of the Eisenhower arrival in Frisco, and ABC's Martin Agronsky proved to be about the most incisive mobile-team reporter right on the convention floor.

All three nets got a break by being able to televise live the President's press conference from the St. Francis Hotel last Wednesday (22)—it was the first live telecast of a presidential press conference and had the Secret Service men worried silly.

Generally, however, there wasn't much anyone could do about the proceedings' essential lassitude.

Actor George Murphy, who with Robert Montgomery has been giving the GOP the word on its show biz policy, tried very hard to speed up things the first day or two, gesticulating vigorously sometimes and even cutting Dennis Morgan off the program the first day. But the Republicans were basking in a sun of wordy harmony, knew they had tv's attention and didn't want to shut up.

"After all," a GOP committeeman pointed out, "we won't have another chance like this until 1960."

N. Y. Educ'l TV

Continued from page 24

sion evaluator at each location.

Albany and Brockport were selected for teacher-college television pilot installations by Almstead and by Dr. Hermann Cooper, executive dean for teacher education of the State University of New York.

Dr. Floyd Hendrickson, who has done some telecasting via WRGB, Schenectady, will be in charge here; Dr. Sherwin Swartout, at Brockport. Dr. John Caddin will direct the project at Levittown.

Commissioner Allen stated a leasing agreement with Master Video was affected for two two reasons: 1) the project is experimental; 2) television equipment becomes rather rapidly obsolete and the State does not wish to buy.

Research and evaluation will be conducted in all phases of the operation "designed to help solve some of the critical problems facing education in New York State, problems of paramount importance, such as providing ways and means of meeting the expanding enrollment at all levels of education and maintaining proper standards; training teachers to serve the expanding enrollment; providing education and training for adults," to quote an Education Dept. release. In Albany and Brockport, kinescope recordings will be made for distribution to other schools.

The plan is to have twenty 24-inch receivers distributed among approximately 12 rooms in each school. There will be approximately 15 students viewers at each receiver.

Post-Mortems

Continued from page 24

promptu talk when Linkletter called on him, earlier rated more attention in receiving line than some GOP bigshots.

* * *

Grace and Frank Albertson, who did ABC's commercials, smiled through both conventions despite auto accident which killed their eight-year-old daughter and Grace's father shortly before Democratic mee ing. "We didn't know whether to go ahead with this tv job but the network and our friends convinced us it was the right thing to do." Frank said, "we're glad we did it now, it's been very therapeutic for us."

* * *

One nationally syndicated woman columnist was about to dispatch a serious dope story that boomlet for "Ike and Vanderhoof" ticket was developing until she was advised, at last moment, that good-lookers parading around Fairmont lobby with "I & V" sashes didn't indicate much of a political trend. Seems that Frisco radio station KYA had hired girls to puff their new deejay, Ernie Vanderhoof.

* * *

Terry Carpenter, the delegate who tried to nominate "Joe Smith" for the vice presidency, owns a drive-in theatre at Scottsbluff, Neb., may have been thinking of an old MGM film, "Joe Smith, American," when he pulled his character out of his sleeve.

* * *

George Murphy, the actor who "coached" the GOP team, predicted it wouldn't be long before political conventions are staged "in a proper big theatre," with seating only for VIPs. "The old day of the old-fashioned orator is gone," said Murphy, "With television, the audience is sitting right in your lap."

* * *

Irving Berlin's second convention appearance—after Ike's speech Thursday (23)—was strictly the President's idea: Mr. Eisenhower thought the meeting ought to close with "God Bless America," led by its composer.

* * *

Two NBC copyboys were Bob Foster, tv columnist for The San Mateo Times, and Ellis Walker, tv columnist for dailies in Palo Alto, Redwood City and Burlingame.

'Press Conference'

Continued from page 25

Swayze remaining with the Monday capsule.

Corn Products Refining Co., currently sponsors the Martha Rountree-Oliver Presbrey "Press Conference" segment on Wednesdays at 8:30. Corn Produts will hiatus with the show after Sept. 28 in the current spot, but is slated to return to sponsorship when the shift to Monday takes place. Nothing signed yet, however, and if Corn Products changes its mind, the entire project would probably be abandoned unless the web could find another bankroller.

ZIMMER TO C&W

John L. Zimmer has joined Cunningham & Walsh's radio-tv department as executive producer and assistant to Edward H. Mahoney, v.p. and director of radio and television.

He had previously been with Ted Bates.

Metro

Continued from page 31

now under construction, Portland, Ore. KGW-TV is slated to be completed in October.

Triangle Pays $4,000,000

Reportedly, Triangle is paying $4,000,000 for the library for its four stations, and King Broadcasting about $1,750,000 for its two stations.

The CBS five-market deal was worked out following a lapse in negotiations in the face of Metro's stock plus cash deal with KTTV, which put CBS' o&o station there out of the picture. It also came in the midst of Metro negotiations with RKO Teleradio for library deals for RKO's o&o stations, including WOR-TV, N.Y.

Excluded in the roster of pre-August 1948 pictures are "Gone With the Wind" and "Wizard of Oz," the latter sold to the CBS network, which has three options. If CBS fails to exercise all its options "Wizard" will accrue to the library and become a part of the four deals.

Charles (Bud) Barry, v.p. in charge of tv operations for Loew's, predicted that the CBS deal presages a closer liaison between CBS and Metro on developing tv programming.

He said Metro is working on a number of other possible deals similar to that one consummated with KTTV, which gave Metro a 25% stock interest in the indie Los Angeles outlet. Metro also is thinking in terms of a possible film network.

The over $20,000,000 series of deals in a short span of time validates Metro's decision last June to market the features itself rather than to accept the multi-million dollar offers from tv distributors, Barry stated.

A substantial down payment will be made in all the deals with additional equal payments accruing monthly to Loew's over a period of over five years. Each station has plans to kick off the Metro library with a full promotion campaign, utilizing the Leo the Lion label and Metro trailers extensively. Barry saw the Metro library earning a lot over $50,000,000 on tv, the highest offer made by would-be tv distributors last spring, an offer which embraced the lush "Gone With the Wind" property.

WCBS Rate Hike

Continued from page 31

with only less than half of the Columbia pictures being shown, so that the outlet is anticipating a real rating climb once it puts its 1,000-plus major stockpile on the air. Added to this is the fact that there are clients waiting to get into the feature segments, with no less than 18 sponsors on line for "The Late Show."

Meanwhile, the sellout on "Late Matinee" and the "Margie" and "A&A" strips gives the outlet another $50,000 a week to add to its $105,000 weekly return on the other feature shows. The 55-minute afternoon feature showcase has 40 spots per week, priced at $675 down to $540, and the rates on the 40 "Margie"-"A&A" strips are the same, so as of mid-September, station would be grossing a total of $155,000 a week on only seven film shows.

New rate card, when it is finalized, would be No. 17. Current card has a maximum Class AA hourly rate of $8,000, a maximum announcement rate (20-second) of $2,000 during evening network time and a top participating rate ("Late" and "Early" shows), of $1,000.

Quinlan

Continued from page 24

ing to an adult-slanted format pegged around the Laurel & Hardy comedies.

Two half-hour vidpix will be stripped back-to-back from 1 to 2 p.m. "Susie," formerly "Private Secretary," goes into the first 30 minutes, with the second series still to be picked.

Schedule remains the same the balance of the afternoon. Ulmer Turner's five-minute newscasts will be spotted throughout the day as before.

Walbridge Intercepts ABC Pass on Browns, Grabs Texas Exclusive

Houston, Aug. 28.

The Cleveland Browns will be seen here on KTRK-TV during the fall football season thanks to some quick work by top officials of the outlet. The station will be carrying 12 of the Browns top games on a special network arrangement.

Willard Walbridge, veepee of KTRK-TV, started negotiations to get the games shortly after ABC-TV decided against any football coverage this fall. Walbridge wrote a letter to Paul Brown, the Cleveland head man, and discovered that the team was tied up with a Sports Network Inc., organized to service Ohio and Chicago. But the letter spurred the new network to offer the telecasts to contact such cities as Little Rock, Memphis and Dallas. All were interested. The arrangement meant that KTRK-TV was able to buy the cable facilities for the games out of Dallas and will telecast the series exclusively in South Texas starting on Sept. 30.

M-G Fringe on Top

Continued from page 31

at 8 or 9 o'clock. And the network brass itself—"we're wasting this stuff on a local basis and in B time." The effect on the current rules of the network game could be devastating. Similarly, if key affiliates find themselves getting similar reactions from the public and the advertisers, the situation vis-a-vis networks and affiliates could be dramatically changed.

All this lies in the supposition that even in fringe time, the Metro biggies will draw huge audiences. But the stations that have paid out the tall coin for the library simply ask, "How can we miss?"

---

Columbus—Mrs. Kim Phillips has been named evontinuity director of WVKO radio here. She was formerly assistant continuity director.

Small Country Estate
65 Mi. from N.Y. and Phila.
FOR SALE

36 acres land includes 32 acres woodland, 3 acres pasture, 1 acre lawn. Located south side of mountain with magnificent view of Washington, N.J., and surrounding hills. 1 mile to center of town.

3 yr. old ranch home, 2 bed rooms, large living room with fireplace, kitchen-dinette, ceramic tile bath, front porch, rear screened-in patio, two car heated garage in house.

Small horse barn in pasture, hunters' cabin with fireplace in woodland.

Property has its own road, power line, and SOFT water well.

Owner must sell, going west. Sacrifice.

NOW $36,000.

Illustrated brochure on request.

ALVIN SLOAN
First National Bank Building
Washington, New Jersey
'Phone: MUrray 9-1134

TEXACO STAR THEATRE
SATURDAY NIGHT—N.B.C.
Mgt.: William Morris Agency

EVERY DAY ON EVERY CHANNEL TV
BROOKS COSTUMES
3 West 61st St., N.Y.C. • Tel. PL 7-5800

England's
TOP All Around STAR
(TV * RADIO * FILMS)
15-YEAR-OLD
DIANA DAY
Currently on TOUR
WEST INDIES
For 4 WEEKS
Available in the U.S.
JANUARY 1, 1957
Contact:
ROBERT I. BRODER
250 West 57th Street
New York 19, N. Y.

2,500 Sq. Ft.
Penthouse
Hotel Great Northern
118 WEST 57th STREET
- Ideal for TV rehearsals
- Ballet School
- Dance Instruction
- Photographic or Art Studio
- Or living quarters

24-hour elevator and switchboard service

ON CBS-TV 'BIG TOP' SHOW EVERY SATURDAY
Doug Anderson
"THE MASKED MAGICIAN"
Catch Him — He Will Amaze You!
Represented by CHARLES RYAN
35 W. 51 St., N.Y. 19 Phone CO 5-2051

HOTEL
Algonquin
59 West 44th Street
New York • MU 7-4400
Preferred by people of the Theatre . . .
100% Air Conditioned

WAX NAMES ALL OVER THE MAP

$197,200,000 U.S.-Made Disk Sales

While there are no precise statistics available on the annual sales of the disk industry, the most accurate data is supplied by the Music Performance Trust Fund of the Recording Industry, which collects on each disk manufactured domestically which uses American Federation of Musicians' members. According to the Fund's latest report, native-made disk sales during 1955 amounted to $197,200,000, a rise of about $20,000,000 over the previous year. That figure, of course, does not include any of the foreign-made sides sold in the U.S. nor some American-made disks which do not employ AFM members. The unofficial industry estimate of total sales last year is closer to the $250,000,000 marker, calculated on the retail price.

As of last June, there were some 2,049 disk companies which were licensed by the American Federation of Musicians. About half, however, did not report any sales.

Music Performance Trust Funds Near $4,000,000 in Allocations

The Music Performance Trust Funds will make a peak allocation of $3,900,000 for projects involving musicians during the coming year. That figure is a sharp rise over the $2,800,000 distribution made for the fiscal year ending June 30 last and compares with the less than $1,000,000 allocation made in 1950.

The Trust Funds, which are administered by trustee Samuel R. Rosenbaum for the disk, transcription and vidfilm industries, collect royalties from the sale of all disks and videopix using American Federation of Musicians members. While a nominal sum is used to finance projects involving non-union musicians, the bulk of the Funds' coin goes to AFM members for cuffo concerts in parks, hospitals, etc. Union scale is paid at all times.

Steady increase in the collections of the Trust Funds has been the key to the strategy of AFM prexy James C. Petrillo for over 10 years. Conceding the victory of canned music, the AFM strategy has now focussed on making the mechanical musical media pay for the promotion of live music.

Petrillo has run into some opposition on this policy, especially in the ranks of Coast Local 47 which fostered a fullscale revolt against Petrillo's leadership this year. Local 47 leaders contend that Petrillo' policy of taxing the vidpix producers with the Trust Fund bite has cut into job opportunities. It's contended that an increasing

(Continued on page 48)

Local 47 Temperature Back to Normal After Anti-Petrillo Revolt

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Only routine business occupied the attention of Local 47 AFM last night (Mon.) as the monthly membership meeting returned to union headquarters for the first time in seven months. It was the smallest and quietest session of the Coast local since members openly revolted against the present administration and against president James C. Petrillo last February, cueing a series of shifts in local officials and the expulsion of Cecil F. Read, head of the insurgent forces.

Meeting last night quietly confirmed the appointment of Max Herman, local veepee, as chief business agent and the addition of

(Continued on page 48)

Unique Gets Rights To 'Persuasion' Track

The RKO-Unique label has nabbed its first film soundtrack package. It's "Friendly Persuasion," which is set for release this fall. Deal was set via composer Dimitri Tiomkin and Allied Artists.

The Tiomkin score is being published by Feist, of Robbins, Feist & Miller. Single platters of the title song (lyrics by Paul Francis Webster) have already been cut by Pat Boone (Dot), Four Aces (Decca), Anthony Perkins (Epic), George Cates (Coral), Lou Busch (Capitol) and David Rose (MGM).

Henderson To Victor

Skitch Henderson, who has been active on the video circuit for the past couple of years, will now get billing on disks via a new deal with RCA Victor.

He's been signed to baton an orch in a minimum of two albums annually.

Pic Tune Cues New Round of Date-Jumping

"Friendly Persuasion," title tune from the Allied Artists pic, is causing a lot of animosity among the record companies. Published tune originally had a Sept. 1 release date but pressure from several diskeries forced Feist to push the release date ahead one week.

The disk companies, however, were in such a scramble to get to the deejay turntables first with the tune that they disregarded the Aug. 24 release date and got their records around to the deejays early last week. Only MGM Records, which is affiliated with Robbins, Feist & Miller via its parent company, Loew's, held to the original release date with its David Rose etching of the tune.

In the broken release date scramble were Pat Boone (Dot), who sings the song on the pic's soundtrack, George Cates (Coral), Lou Busch (Capitol), Anthony Perkins (Epic) and The Four Aces (Decca).

The tune was written by Dimitri Tiomkin and Ned Washington. Pic stars Gary Cooper and is set for a New York release at the Music Hall in November.

HAL STANLEY NBC SPEC GETS HEFTY DISK PLAY

"The Lord Don't Play Favorites," the NBC-TV spectacular produced by Hal Stanley, is getting a hefty wax spread by RCA Victor in advance of its September airing. Other labels, moreover, are also due to cover some of the tunes in the show.

In addition to an EP set framed around the score, Victor has already released platters by Kay Starr and Louis Armstrong, both of whom are starred in the show, and Mario Lanza. The RCA subsid label, Vik Records, is also planning to cover some of the tunes from the show which Stanley also wrote.

McCuen's New RCA Spot

Brad McCuen, former RCA Victor field man operating in the Chicago area, has been moved into the artists & repertoire staff to handle specialty disks.

He'll work under country & western chief Steve Sholes and help coordinate planning of talent auditions and recording schedules.

FILMS, VIDEO YEN DISKERS

The recording artist is in the show business catbird seat.

Demand for the diskers by other show biz media has been growing steadily and the pitch for their services is gaining momentum this year. Already proven hot night club draws, especially when there's a concurrent clicko disk, the films and tv are stepping up their intest in the wax artists. The wide-open wooing of the shellac singers has become so hectic that even the lesser names are cashing in on the rivalry.

The battle for the disk name looks to get especially hot in the tv field. With close to 10 tv variety shows slotted for bigtime exposure this fall, a frenzied scramble to line up guest shots for the topline platter performers has already begun. The tele producers are also putting a close eye to the disk bestseller charts to get an early start on any newcomer that could be coming up with a hit record.

Since the topliners, of course, can't guest on every show, they'll go to where the budget outlay is largest. And even the big-spending shows will have to satisfy themselves with second or third line diskers, at times, to avoid the repetition of having the same top names appear on different shows. The agencies already have begun to take advantage of their bullish position and have upped the price on their singing talent all the way down the line. A mid-hit singer can now get as much as $3,000 a

(Continued on page 48)

Up Burgess In RCA Custom Div.

In an upward shift of RCA Victor disk exees, Jack Burgess, manager of single records sales and merchandising, becomes manager of custom records administration starting next week. Burgess fills the spot formerly held by Emmett Dunn who was recently made boss of the custom records department after Jim Davis was promoted to administrative exec in the disk department.

Harry Jenkins, who headed up the sales planning operation in the Victor singles department, will go into Burgess' spot as sales manager. Tom Potter, also in the single sales operation, now moves up to coordinate of single record releases.

Dicker Ellington For British-U.S. Band Swap

London, Aug. 28.

Harold Davison, the British agent who leaves for the States in early September to look for future Anglo-American band reciprocals, will try to sign Duke Ellington's orch for a British visit.

Davison is also handling the Lionel Hampton reciprocal tour of this country due this fall. British side of the exchange, the Vic Lewis orch, will leave for the US tour opening Oct. 10 and is to be joined in the same package show by British tenor star Tommy Whittle, currently appearing with his own outfit at the Chameleon Club, Paris.

Welk Hits Road

Lawrence Welk and his orch, now among the top video-rated troupes, is hitting the road next week for a limited series of concert dates.

He opens at the Municipal Auditorium in St. Paul, Sept. 2 and will follow with dates in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Cedar Rapids, Omaha, Milwaukee, Des Moines and Memphis.

E. H. Morris Firm Backs Off-B'way Show to Build Musicomedy Cleffers

Sharp Monicker

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.

Pianist-organist Walt Kaufman, at Wildwood's Fairview Club, recently organized a rock 'n' roll group monickered the Flatters.

Ads and notices sent to bookers and club owners boasted: "We sing flatter and play flatter than any other house rockers. We don't rehearse. We practice on the job. We out-honk them all."

Victor Mapping Mass Release of Presley Singles

Elvis Presley is still such a hot commodity on wax these days that RCA Victor is planning a mass release of Presley singles next month. Most of the sides for the single platters will be taken from his album. Move was dictated by the fact that every Presley single that Victor has put out has had tremendous sales.

Presley has proved to be the biggest wax property of the past decade since breaking through earlier this year. His advance sales on singles, which are around the 500,000 mark, far outstrip that of any previous artist and his album for Victor has also become the company's alltime bestseller with a sale of over a 500,000.

Presley, who broke into the wax picture via the indie Sun Records, a country & western label, was picked up by Victor's artists & repertoire chief Steve Sholes. He paid Sun $30,000 for Presley's contract and gave Presley a $5,000 bonus. Since that time, Presley has been keeping the Victor factories working overtime.

RICHMOND INTO DISKS FOR TUNE SHOWCASING

Howie Richmond has set up his own disk label, Roulette Records, to showcase tunes published by his firm. If the Roulette sides kick up any noise, Richmond will sell out to any interested regular disk label. His first release with Bernie Knee, a coupling of "King of Nothing" and "Don't Set Me Free," may be picked up by Columbia Records.

The Roulette label will also be used to kick off foreign tunes. In this vein, Richmond is releasing "Hey Canastos," an Italian number which he acquired from the CGD label in that country. Larry Clinton also has cut a couple of sides for Roulette.

Sammy Kaye Grosses Nifty 4½G In 1-Niter

Sammy Kaye's orch, playing a one-nighter at Hershey, Pa., Park last Saturday night (25), racked up a nifty $4,500, playing to 2,750 customers and topping last year's attendance by 300.

Kaye resumes his one-night trek through Pennsylvania over the weekend.

Roach's New Combo

Max Roach has completed the formation of a new combo following the death of his partner, Clifford Brown, in an auto accident in June.

Group, which will be known as the Max Roach Quintet, will feature Roach on drums, Donald Byrd on trumpet, Barry Harris on piano, George Marrow on bass and Sonny Rollin on tenor. Roach will continue to record for the EmArcy label.

With a view towards building new musicomedy writers, E. H. Morris Music is turning Broadway angel this coming season. The publishing firm is set to finance Ben Bagley's "Shoestring '57," revues set for a mid-November preem.

According to Buddy Morris, pubbery's topper, there aren't enough producers around who want to gamble a $200,000 or $300,000 production on a new writing team. "The musical comedy theatre," he said, "needs more George Abbotts." (The reference to Ahbott stems from the producer-director's recent payoff gamble on Jerry Ross and Dick Adler for the score assignments on "The Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees.") The backing of "Shoestring '57" will cost the firm between $20,000 and $30,000. Morris, of course, will retain the publishing rights to all the material.

"It's become increasingly difficult to get a new writer a Broadway showcasing," Morris added. "In the 1920s and '30s a young writer could get a song or two spotted in a 'Follies' or a 'Vanities' but now that revues have virtually become passe, there's no place on Broadway for them to apprentice or get a hearing."

Among the cleffers set for a showcasing in "Shoestring' 57" are Mike Stewart, Bud McCreery, G. Wood, Phil Springer, Norman Gimbel, Carolyn Leigh and Mark Charlop. Miss Leigh and Charlop were repped on Broadway a few seasons ago with part of the score for "Peter Pan."

The revue will probably open at the off-Broadway Little Carnegie Playhouse, a 299-seater. On Bagley's credit list are "The Shoestring Revue" and last season's "The Littlest Revue."

Coast Indie to Tour Lili Kraus in Concert, Lecture, Pedagog Pkge.

Educo Records, Coast indie, plans to tour its keyboard ace, Lili Kraus, in a unique promotion stunt when the pianist returns here after tours of Europe and the Orient. A trial 20-date tour of Coast cities, the south and a few stops in the east convinced the Educo staffers that they have a good idea.

Miss Kraus did an all-day stint for her recording connection. Beginning in the morning, she talked on music, technique, styles, etc., illustrating her points at the Steinway. An afternoon session found her auditioning young hopefuls and giving master class pointers, followed by an evening concert that ranged from Bach and Mozart to the contemporary Bela Bartok. The tri-part package was sold for $5, the concert alone at $2. Special discounts were made for students.

Tieups with dealers and promotion in music stores marked the tour. Recording artists frequently make personal appearances in shops for autograph sessions as a courtesy to their wax sponsors, but Educo, in the case of Miss Kraus, has booked the entire tour and is utilizing the artist as a personalized trailer for her educational records, which are sold in a subscription package.

Miss Kraus sailed for Europe on the Queen Mary following her New York chore for Educo. After dates on the Continent, she goes to New Zealand, Australia and Japan. Her Educo deal is non-exclusive.

Jazz Festival Pic

Jack Goldberg, director of Studio Films, is prepping a "Jazz Festival" feature.

Already lined up are Count Basie, Lionel Hampton, Dinah Washington, Duke Ellington, Sarah Vaughan and Ruth Brown.

Jocks, Jukes and Disks

By MIKE GROSS

Four Aces: "Friendly Persuasion"-"You Can't Run Away From It" (Decca). "Friendly Persuasion" is a standout pic title song that's attracting lots of diskery attention. In the forefront of the initial batch is the Four Aces' etching. Combo takes the Dimitri Tiomkin-Paul Francis Webster tune for a warm and persuasive ride. It's a haunting theme and even the offbeat Quaker lingo of the lyric will help it rack up a big score. Anthony Perkins, who's featured in the film, gives it a quiet and simple reading on the Epic label. George Cates Orch will pick up spins for his Coral slice with those who like it strictly instrumental and Lou Busch's orch on Capitol takes it for ear-arresting ride with a socko choral group backing. On the Decca flip, the Aces skip through "You Can't Run Away From It" in a pleasing manner.

Gene Vincent: "Race With the Devil"-"Gonna Back Up My Baby" (Capitol). Gene Vincent has a shoo-in followup to his clicko "Be-Bop-a-Lulu" in "Race With the Devil." It's in the rockability idiom, fast, furious and at times unintelligible. Understanding the lyrics, however, doesn't seem to be a prerequisite for the teenage disk fan these days so Vincent should be riding high again with this one. He also gets a lot of vocal action into "Gonna Back Up My Baby" but "Devil" will take over.

Don Cherry: "Namely You"-"If I Had My Druthers" (Columbia). Coupling of tunes from the Johnny Mercer-Gene DePaul score for the upcoming legituner "Li'l Abner" shows off Don Cherry in a light-hearted mood, but it will be "Namely You" that'll grab the spins to pull into the top brackets. "If I Had My Druthers" is a cute piece of material that may get to mean more once the show gets going. "Namely You" is a slick ballad entry that packs lots of appeal and Cherry supplies a topgrade rhythmic reading. Julius LaRosa treats it a bit more seriously on the RCA Victor label.

Sunny Gale: "Two Hearts"-"One Kiss Led to Another" (Decca). Sunny Gale gets off to a hot start in her first Decca try after ankling the RCA Victor label. It's a big two-sided affair that'll give the jockeys a problem as to which side to go after. The nod, however, may go to "Two Hearts," a driving ballad that she puts across in fine style. "One Kiss Led to Another," is in the rockin' idiom and a cover of the Atco slice by The Coasters.

The McGuire Sisters: "Ev'ry Day of My Life"-"Endless" (Coral). "Ev'ry Day of My Life" has a strong chance to keep the McGuire girls busy on the jock and juke turntables. It's an above par ballad entry and they give it an ear-catching treatment. "Endless" is in the familiar rock 'n' roll idiom.

Jaye P. Morgan: "The Call of the Wild"-"Just Love Me" (RCA Victor). French melody by Eddy Barclay has been given an English lyric by Carolyn Leigh and titles "The Call of the Wild" for the U.S. market. Tune gives Jaye P. Morgan a chance to display the belting style that catches the teenagers' ears. The jocks will give it a good spinning ride. She switches to a slow and tender warbling mood on "Just Love Me" and it, too, will attract attention.

Kay Carson: "Are You Equal to the Task"-"This Man" (Capitol). Kay Carson is in a free-wheeling groove on "Are You Equal to the Task" and builds the tune into a hit-potential slicing. It's hard-hitting all the way and pegged just right for current jock and juke tastes. There's a lot of drive to "This Man" too.

The Stylers: "Confession of a Sinner"-"Gonna Tell 'Em" (Jubilee). "Confession" is a better-than-average sample of a slow rock 'n' roll ballad and The Stylers work it over with all the contemporary vocalizing tricks. Could be very big. Flip is the uptempo side with a routine number.

Chuck Payne: "Escape"-"I Hurt So Easy" (Atlas). "Escape" is an offbeat piece of material which Chuck Payne gives an excellent interpretation. Echo effects and out-of-the-world voices help establish the mood. Payne's fine baritone crooning pipes get another okay showcasing on the reverse side.

Bob Temple: "Vim Vam Vamoose"-"Come Back, Come Back" (King). The rockin' beat of "Vim Vam Vamoose" ought to win Bob Temple plenty of attention in the rock 'n' roll areas. He sustains the quick-tempoed rhythm for good results. He doesn't come off to well, however, on the slow ballad mood of "Come Back, Come Back."

Ray Martin Orch: "Street Symphony"-"Tambourine" (Capitol).

(Continued on page 48)

Best Bets

| | |
|---|---|
| FOUR ACES (Decca) | FRIENDLY PERSUASION You Can't Run Away From It |
| GENE VINCENT (Capitol) | RACE WITH THE DEVIL Gonna Back Up My Baby |
| DON CHERRY (Columbia) | NAMELY YOU If I Had My Druthers |
| SUNNY GALE (Decca) | TWO HEARTS One Kiss Led To Another |

LAWRENCE WELK
and his
CHAMPAGNE MUSIC
(Exclusively on Coral)
262d Consecutive Week
Aragon Ballroom—Ocean Park, Cal.
ABC-TV—Sat. 9-10 P. M. EDT
Sponsored by
Dodge Dealers of America

Longhair Reviews

Prokofiev: "The Love of Three Oranges". (Epic). The Russian composer's 1919 opera, on which the more popular ballet suite is based, in a complete, expert performance by soloists, choir and orchestra of the Slovenian National Opera under the baton of Bogo Leskovich.

Stravinsky: "The Fairy's Kiss" (Columbia). Stravinsky's brilliant ballet score in a colorful performance by the Cleveland Orchestra conducted by the composer.

Elgar: "Sea Pictures"; "In The Couth"; Overture (Capitol). Gladys Ripley, English contralto, gives a warm rendition of the five songs in Edward Elgar's "Sea Pictures." The descrptive orchestral works are performed by the London Symphony conducted by George Weldon.

Hindemith Sonata (1948); Barber Sonata, Op. 6 (RCA Victor). Cellist Gregor Piatigorsky performs with his usual excellence two interesting works from the modern repertory. Pianist Ralph Berkowitz gives attractive accompaniment.

Mendelssohn Violin Concerto in E Minor; Bruch Concerto in G Minor (Colosseum). The Russian virtuoso, David Oistrakh, in performances of two lyrcial violin works with the Russian National Philharmonic Orchestra on a label that was among the first to introduce Russian artists to the U.S. on disks. Greatly improved recording quality.

Barry Buys Ballroom 100%

Bridgeport, Aug. 28.

Joseph R. Barry, who with the late George S. McCormack founded the Ritz Ballroom, Southern New England's best-known one-night stand, more than 35 years ago, has bought out the interest of his partner's widow.

Album Reviews

Highlighting Decca's fall package program are the five LPs that make up "The Jolson Story." It's a solid compilation of Jolsoniana that will stir up memories among the oldsters and show the new disk fans what one of the show biz greats sounded like. Each album is separately labelled and displays the "mammy singer" in different vocal moods. On "You Made Me Love You," he's in the intimate, nostalgic groove; on "Rock-a-bye Your Baby," he rips through a flock of buoyant, rhythmic items; on "Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder," he works over a series of tunes from the 1920s in a happy and carefree manner; on "You Ain't Heard Nothin' Yet," he varies the mood and style to cover such different musical eras as demonstrated in "I Only Have Eyes For You" (1934) and "God's Country" (1950). In between are such nifties as "Anniversary Song" and "Some Enchanted Evening"; the final package in the series, "Memories," puts him in an inspirational setting with such tunes as "Kol Nidre," "Hatikvah" and "Massa's In The Cold, Cold Ground," among others. In all, a standout series and a fine tribute to Al Jolson.

Arthur Ferrante & Louis Teicher: "Soundproof" (Westminster). The duo piano team of Ferrante & Teicher are after the hi-fi bugs with this ear-catching package. The keyboarders seem more interested in sound than style as they tweeter and woofer their way through such standards as "What Is This Thing Called Love?" "Greensleeves," "Someone To Watch Over Me" and "Lover." The newies in the package are also subjected to the gimmicked piano only more so.

"Dance to the Bands" (Capitol). For the past few seasons Capitol has been piling up a catalog of shellac for dancing. This package is the label's most elaborate effort in that groove. It's a two pocket LP which includes the top orchesters on the Cap roster and they all beat out a hep dancing beat. In the set, for example, are Les Brown's "Tangerine," Woody Herman's "I Hadn't Anyone Till You," Stan Kenton's "I'm Glad There Is You," Billy May's "Fascinating Rhythm," Ray Anthony's "Cheek To Cheek" and Harry James' "April In Paris."

Steve Lawrence: "About That Girl" (Coral). Steve Lawrence has come to the musical foreground via his showcasing on Steve Allen's late-hour NBC-TV show (liner notes, incidentally, are by his boss) and although he hasn't made an important dent in the pop singles market, his tv following should help him get his initial album across. It's a potpourri of evergreens which he delivers with taste. There's lots of room for styling development but as it stands now his efforts are easy to take. Dick Jacobs helms the orch with a sure hand.

Frank Pourcel: "La Femme" (Capitol). A couple of Capitol henchmen, Les Baxter and David Dexter, have put together a woman in music that's ably described by Frank Pourcel and his French strings. Their melodic descriptions of "Les Bras," "Les Yeux," "Les Doigts," etc., are vivid, imaginative, colorful and in the modern musical groove. The nude photo cover should get the album off to a fast start.

Art Mooney: "The Happy Minstrels" (MGM). The revival of minstrelsy on wax was started a few months ago by Epic Records but MGM has come up with a socko

(Continued on page 48)

Songs With Largest Radio Audience

*The top 30 songs of week (more in case of ties), based on copyrighted Audience Coverage Index & Audience Trend Index. Published by Office of Research, Inc., Dr. John Gray Peatman, Director. Alphabetically listed. Legit musical. †Film. ††TV.

Survey Week of Aug. 17-23, 1956

| | |
|---|---|
| Allegheny Moon | Oxford |
| Big 'D'—*"Most Happy Fella" | Frank |
| Canadian Sunset | Meridian |
| Cool Tango | Ardmore |
| Don't Get Caught | Porgie |
| Happiness Street | Planetary |
| How Little We Know | Morris |
| I Could Have Danced All Night—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| If I'm Elected | Bourne |
| It Only Hurts for a Little While | Advanced |
| Make Me A Child Again | Remick |
| Mama, Teach Me To Dance | Roncom |
| Marie Elena | Peer |
| My Old Hammer | Three Keys |
| My Prayer | Shapiro-B |
| On the Street Where You Live—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| One Finger Piano | Marks |
| Portuguese Washerwoman | Remick |
| Sierra Madre | Melody Lane |
| Somebody Up There—"Somebody Up There" | Feist |
| Standing On the Corner—*"Most Happy Fella" | Frank |
| That's All There Is To That | Meridian |
| This Same Heart | Famous |
| True Love—†"High Society" | Buxton Hill |
| Wayward Wind | Warman |
| We Laughed At Love—†"Man Who Knew" | Kahn |
| Whatever Will Be, Will Be | Artists |
| When The White Lilacs Bloom Again | Harms |
| Your Place In The Sun | Pera |
| You're Sensational—†"High Society" | Buxton Hill |

Top 30 Songs on TV

(More In Case of Ties)

| | |
|---|---|
| A House With Love In It | Evans |
| Allegheny Moon | Oxford |
| Be-Bop-A-Lula | Lowery |
| Big 'D'—*"Most Happy Fella" | Frank |
| Can You Find It In Your Heart | Witmark |
| Canadian Sunset | Meridian |
| From The Candy Store On The Corner | Shapiro-B |
| Ghost Town | Cromwell |
| Happiness Street | Planetary |
| Heaven Only Knows | Skidmore |
| Hound Dog | P&L |
| I Almost Lost My Mind | St. Louis |
| I Could Have Danced All Night—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| I Was Telling Her About You | Planetary |
| If I'm Elected | Bourne |
| Ivory Tower | Melrose |
| Jacques D'Iraq—*"Mr. Wonderful" | Laurel |
| Love, Love, Love | Progressive |
| Moonglow—*"Picnic" | Mills |
| No, Not Much | Beaver |
| Old Philosopher | Merrick |
| On The Street Where You Live—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |
| Serious Business | Embassy |
| Since My Love Has Gone | Dartmouth |
| Standing On The Corner—*"Most Happy Fella" | Frank |
| That's All There Is To That | Meridian |
| Tonight You Belong To Me | BVC |
| Wayward Wind | Warman |
| Weary Blues | Melrose |
| With A Little Bit Of Luck—*"My Fair Lady" | Chappell |

VARIETY 10 Best Sellers on Coin-Machines

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. | MY PRAYER (6) | Platters | Mercury |
| 2. | WHATEVER WILL BE, WILL BE (6) | Doris Day | Columbia |
| 3. | ALLEGHENY MOON (9) | Patti Page | Mercury |
| 4. | CANADIAN SUNSET (3) | Hugo WinterhalterAndy Williams | VictorCadence |
| 5. | HOUND DOG (4) | Elvis Presley | Victor |
| 6. | DON'T BE CRUEL (2) | Elvis Presley | Victor |
| 7. | BE-BOP-A-LULA (1) | Gene Vincent | Capitol |
| 8. | THAT'S ALL THERE IS TO THAT (1) | Nat (King) Cole | Capitol |
| 9. | I WANT YOU, I NEED YOU, I LOVE YOU (4) | Elvis Presley | Victor |
| 10. | MORE (2) | Perry Como | Victor |

Second Group

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| FOOL | Sanford Clark | Dot |
| I ALMOST LOST MY MIND | Pat Boone | Dot |
| GLENDORA | Perry Como | Victor |
| WAYWARD WIND | Gogi Grant | Era |
| SONG FOR A SUMMER NIGHT | Mitch Miller | Columbia |
| ON THE STREET WHERE YOU LIVE | Vic Damone | Columbia |
| SO LONG | Fats Domino | Imperial |
| YOU DON'T KNOW ME | Jerry Vale | Columbia |
| TONIGHT YOU BELONG TO ME | Patience & Prudence | Liberty |
| GIVE US THIS DAY | Joni James | Mem |

[Figures in parentheses indicate number of weeks song has been in the Top 10]

Album Covers Get More Colorful But Bring Production Budget Blues

The concentration on album covers is becoming the record companies' big headache. It's also causing havoc with the economics of the business.

In the rush to turn out eye-catching packaged goods, the diskeries are discovering that in many instances the cost of producing a cover runs higher than the initial recording bite. This is especially true in the jazz album field, where a cool combo can record 12 to 16 sides for under $1,000 while the cost of the album cover runs between $1,200 and $1,300 for a run of 5,000 copies. This additional cost is making it tougher for the album project to work its way into the profit column.

Most of the disk companies are now going in for multi-colored jobs with lavish art and photography work. The artists and photographers are having a field day and since they're in steady demand, they've been hiking their prices.

The printers, too, are cashing in on the album splurge. There are about nine printing houses handling the album cover production for the diskeries but only five of them are reported to be able to service the companies with fast and effective service.

Karl King, Vet Big Top Maestro, Hangs Up His Baton; Era Has Ended

Des Moines, Aug. 28.

For the first time in 35 years, Karl L. King will not present his band at the Iowa State Fair this year. He said that like the circus "big top" of which he was a veteran, he feels his era has ended.

A few weeks ago King presented an "all-circus" band program in his home town of Fort Dodge, Iowa, as a farewell salute to the big top. The program was practically "all-King," presenting many numbers King had written. Among them was "In Old Portugal" he had written for the late Lillian Leitzel (which was playing during her performance in 1931 when she fell to her death in Copenhagen, Denmark) and also "The Big Cage" which was King's fast finish number for the climax of Clyde Beatty's animal act.

King started with circus bands in 1910 and was with the Yankee Robinson, Sells-Floto and Barnum & Bailey bands until 1919 when he retired to Ft. Dodge and started the Karl L. King Music Co. In addition to writing music he has published band music and Mrs. King operates a music shop that sells musical instruments.

Many of King's circus pieces have been used through the years —"Barnum and Baileys' Favorite," "The Golden Dragon Overture," "Broadway One Step" and "Enchanted Nights Waltz." In addition he has written for many colleges, including some of the Big 10's marching songs.

Jimmy Myers Expands Into Disk Retail Biz

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.

Jimmy Myers, head of Myers Music here, has entered the retail disk biz here in a merger with Vince Pale. Both will operate the disk store and one-stop service under the name of Richloy.

Myers, who has been clicking with several big rock 'n' roll numbers like "Rock Around The Clock" and others, is operating the store on the first floor of a building which he recently acquired to house his various publishing and management activities.

Ink Canada Thrush

Cadence Records has gone over the border for its latest pactee. Label last week nabbed Joyce Hahn, thrush on the "Trans-Canada Hit Parade" show, to a longterm pact.

Her previous waxing efforts have been on the Canadian Spartan label. The Cadence pact will give the thrush her first try at the U.S. market.

Bill Lawrence Exits Epic Label's Sales Spot

Bill Lawrence has exited his post as national sales director in charge of pop singles at Epic Records. He's going to start an indie distributorship in Pittsburgh.

Epic has not yet set a replacement for Lawrence. Before joining the Epic label, Lawrence was sales manager for United Distributors in Chicago.

RCA Victor Album Tied To Panassie's Jazz Book

Anne Ford, promotion manager for Houghton, Mifflin, has effected an album tieup with RCA Victor's Fred Reynolds to coincide with the November publication of Hugues Panassie's "Guide to Jazz." Book will have Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong doing the foreword. Panassie is the w.k. French exponent and guide of "Le Jazz Hot" cultists in his native country, Belgium and the Lowlands.

Columbia made a similar LP exploitation tieup for next month with Eddie Condon's soon-due book on jazz, with the author-musician waxing the musical tieup to his own volume.

Herbage Quits As A&R Mgr. of Brit. Heliodor

London, Aug. 21.

Alex Herbage, Heliodor diskery artists & repertoire manager, who recently signed Billy Daniels to cut a number of disks in this country on its subsidiary label, Polydor, and Monte Mitelman, press relations officer, have both quit the company after failing to see eye to eye with the management on policy matters.

Herbage, who started up Heliodor two-and-a-half years ago as British subsidiary of Deutsche Grammophon Gesellschaft Hannover, includes among his star signings Teddy Johnson, Steve Race and Geraldo. For the past six months he was general manager and also took charge of the Polydor catalog. Mitelman did news agency stints in South Africa and the middle East before joining Heliodor about four months ago.

The two intend to form a business partnership with a likely eye to public relations work and management in the entertainment field, but nothing definite has yet been arranged.

BECHET OPENS BRIT. STAND

Sidney Bechet, veteran U.S. jazz star residing in France, arrives in London on Saturday (1) following a nightclub season at Knocke in Belgium.

He will be accompanied by the Andre Reweliotty band, opening in Britain on Sunday (2) at the Royal Albert Hall, London. Humphrey Lyttelton band will be starred with Bechet during his 14-day tour here.

1st N. Y. Jazz Fete Gets Off Swinging At B.O.; Pace, Programming a Clinker

By LEONARD L. LEVINSON

New York Jazz Festival established itself as a going concern in its first time out by virtue of good names, good sound and acoustics and good weather. Attendance at the Randall's Island stadium ran over 25,000 payees for the two nights, running up a gross of around $85,000 to top the nut of $60,000. The producers contrasted that to the Newport fest's slightly red ink the first two years. However, the Rhode Island sessions offered more variety and more names with half the budget.

To most New Yorkers, Randall's Island has been a Never-Never Land vaguely located somewhere under the Triborough span and skeptics doubted whether a jazz bash could draw, but Don Friedman and Ken Joffe, two promoters in their 20s, have proven that the philes will get there, whether by bus, cab or car, to hear more names than they can visit in a night of Manhattan pub-crawling.

Program suffered from too many small combos, the Basie band being the only big one Friday night (24), to which was added the Dizzy Gillespie gang for the Saturday session. Otherwise the quartets, trios and quintets of Brubeck, Shank, Krupa, Shearing, Billy Taylor, Erroll Garner, Don Elliott, Hackett, Mulligan, Baker and the Modern Jazz Quartet and the Jazz Messengers were mighty miniature to watch for those in the stands a quarter of a mile and more from the stage. What saved the night was probably the best sound reproduction heard at an al fresco event of this type, plus a notable lack of echo, such as encountered at Newport or Lewisohn.

Lack of showmanship, due in part to other commitments the

(Continued on page 46)

Coral Names Kaye, Levy As Eastern Div. Heads

Howard Kaye and Len Levy have been named eastern division supervisors for Coral Records by Norm Wienstroer, the label's general sales manager. They replace Frank Holland, who moved to Boston to head the Coral division for Mutual Distributing Corp. there.

Kaye and Levy are both veterans of the Decca-Coral sales setup.

Capitol to Sell Album Pkge. to AM-TV Outlets

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

A popular album programming service for radio and television stations has been inaugurated by Capitol Records, which is selling the package at an annual rate of $60. Service includes a minimum of 70 Capitol LP's annually plus a programming information guide and a set of programming file cards for station libraries.

Capitol expects to furnish approximately 15 of its top long-play albums quarterly to subscribers.

Brochure advertising the new service was mailed over the weekend to some 7,000 radio and television station execs, deejays and music librarians.

Tiny Hill Sues Mercury, Agency for $1,893,000, Alleging a Squeezeout

Chicago, Aug. 28.

Bandleader Tiny Hill last week filed a three-count suit in Cook Superior Court for $1,893,327 against Mercury Records, Star Attractions, Irving Green, prez of Mercury, Art Talmadge, Mercury v.p., and bandleaders Ralph Marterie, Buddy Morrow, Jimmy Palmer and David Carroll.

Count one claims that under the terms of Hill's recently expired two-year Mercury contract, he was to have recorded 32 sides, but actually, only two sides were cut. Additionally, Hill claims Mercury failed in its agreement to exploit, promote and advertise these records. These failures on Mercury's part, Hill alleges, have cut his earning power by some $500,000 in recent years.

Second count cites Star Attractions with "contract interference," claiming that this personal management firm, allegedly organized by Green, Talmadge and Marterie in violation of American Federation of Musicians union rules, siphoned off the most likely tunes to Marterie, Morrow, Carroll and Palmer bands.

In the third count, Hill, who was the first bandleader signed by Mercury, is asking an audit and accounting for his record sales from 1945 to date, stating that he believes his royalties are $100,000 in arrears.

New Jazz Novel

"It's Always Four O'Clock" by James Updyke (Random House; $3.50), is a novel about an L. A. jazz trio (piano, guitar and bass), and a girl singer. Author is allegedly a w.k. novelist, described by his publishers as "working in another field," so the guessing game is on. Yarn, told in first person by the guitarist of the troupe, has plenty of savvy when it comes to depicting tough life faced by a musical combo attempting to eke out a living in the "downbeat" racket.

Authentic dialog and incisive characterization make this breezy short novel a natural for pix, with plenty of opportunities to introduce new tunes. Rono.

VARIETY Scoreboard OF TOP TALENT AND TUNES

Compiled from Statistical Reports of Distribution Encompassing the Three Major Outlets

Coin Machines  Retail Disks  Retail Sheet Music

as Published in the Current Issue

NOTE: The current comparative sales strength of the Artists and Tunes listed hereunder is arrived at under a statistical system comprising each of the three major sales outlets enumerated above. These findings are correlated with data from wider sources, which are exclusive with VARIETY. The positions resulting from these findings denote the OVERALL IMPACT developed from the ratio of points scored, two ways in the case of talent (coin machines, retail disks) and three ways in the case of tunes (coin machines, retail disks and retail sheet music).

TALENT

| POSITIONS This Week | POSITIONS Last Week | ARTIST AND LABEL | TUNE |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 1 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) | Hound Dog / Don't Be Cruel / I Want You, I Need You |
| 2 | 2 | PLATTERS (Mercury) | My Prayer / Heaven On Earth |
| 3 | 3 | DORIS DAY (Columbia) | Whatever Will Be, Will Be |
| 4 | 5 | HUGO WINTERHALTER (Victor) | Canadian Sunset |
| 5 | 4 | BUCHANAN & GOODMAN (Luniverse) | Flying Saucers |
| 6 | 6 | PATTI PAGE (Mercury) | Allegheny Moon |
| 7 | 8 | GENE VINCENT (Capitol) | Be-Bop-A-Lula |
| 8 | .. | MITCH MILLER (Columbia) | Song For A Summer Night |
| 9 | .. | PATIENCE & PRUDENCE (Liberty) | Tonight You Belong To Me |
| 10 | .. | SANFORD CLARK (Dot) | Fool |

TUNES

(*ASCAP. †BMI)

| POSITIONS This Week | POSITIONS Last Week | TUNE | PUBLISHER |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | *WHATEVER WILL BE, WILL BE | Artists |
| 2 | 1 | *MY PRAYER | Shapiro-B |
| 3 | 4 | †CANADIAN SUNSET | Meridian |
| 4 | 3 | *ALLEGHENY MOON | Oxford |
| 5 | 0 | †DON'T BE CRUEL | Shalimar-P |
| 6 | 5 | †HOUND DOG | Presley |
| 7 | 6 | †WAYWARD WIND | Warman |
| 8 | 7 | FLYING SAUCERS | Luniverse |
| 9 | 8 | *ON THE STREET WHERE YOU LIVE | Chappell |
| 10 | .. | *SONG FOR A SUMMER NIGHT | April |

Top Record Talent and Tunes

VARIETY DISK JOCKEY POLL

This compilation is designed to indicate those records rising in popularity as well as those on top. Ratings are computed on the basis of ten points for a No. 1 mention, nine for a No. 2, and so on down to one point. Wherever possible, only records with two or more mentions are listed, even though their total points are less in some cases than those which receive only one mention. Cities and jockeys will vary from week to week to present a comprehensive picture of all sectors of the country regionally.

* ASCAP † BMI

| Pos. this wk. | Pos. last wk. | No. weeks in log | Artist | Label | Song | EAST: Stan Burns—WINS—New York | Carl Loucks—WELI—New Haven | Jackson Lowe—WUST—Washington | John Ademy—WAYE—Baltimore | Truman Taylor—WBOS—Boston | Jim McLean—WFLM—Plymouth | Lee O'Hara—WESX—Salem | Alan Owen—WMID—Atlantic City | Larry Brownell—WKBW—Buffalo | Jerry Jerome—WSAY—Rochester | Lou Barile—WKAL—Rome-Utica | Bud Brees—WPEN—Philadelphia | Bill Brand—WJAS—Pittsburgh | Joe Hyder—WADK—Newport | Jack Bennett—WHWB—Rutland | SOUTH: Frank Tucker—WCOV—Montgomery | Bob N. Perry—WCKA—Miami | John Harris—WMGR—Bainbridge | Larry Wilson—WSMB—New Orleans | Jack Gale—WTMA—Charleston | Bill Dawson—WQOK—Greenville | Bob Larimer—WSIX—Nashville | Dave Walshak—KCTI—Gonzales | Chuck Blore—KTSA—San Antonio | Ray Schreiner—WRNL—Richmond | MIDWEST: Jim Lounsbury—WGN—Chicago | Bon Bell—KRNT—Des Moines | Marty McNeeley—WJR—Detroit | Carl Shook—WJIM—Lansing | Jack Thayer—WDGY—St. Paul-Mpls. | Bill Dawes—WCPO—Cincinnati | Bill Mertz—WVKO—Columbus | John Michaels—WOKY—Milwaukee | FAR WEST: Sterling Yale—KCNA—Tucson | Allin Slate—KIEV—Glendale | Frank Darien—KSJO—San Jose | John Fairchild—KTMS—Santa Barbara | Bruce Vanderhoof—KYA—San Francisco | Len Ross—KTOO—Las Vegas | Paul Coburn—KOL—Seattle | TOTAL POINTS |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | 10 | Platters | Mercury | *My Prayer | 6 | 2 | 1 | .. | 1 | .. | 4 | 5 | 1 | 6 | .. | 2 | 1 | 3 | 2 | 2 | .. | 6 | 10 | 7 | .. | 6 | .. | 1 | 4 | 7 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 10 | 1 | 5 | .. | .. | 6 | 3 | .. | .. | 3 | 209 |
| 2 | 1 | 10 | Doris Day | Columbia | *Whatever Will Be, Will Be | 10 | .. | 4 | 3 | .. | 2 | .. | 1 | 2 | .. | .. | 4 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 3 | 3 | .. | 5 | 1 | .. | 3 | 2 | .. | .. | 7 | 6 | 4 | 4 | 8 | 6 | 1 | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 160 |
| 3 | 7 | 5 | Elvis Presley | Victor | †Don't Be Cruel | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | 2 | 1 | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 8 | 1 | 1 | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 5 | 1 | 4 | 4 | 1 | 5 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | 2 | 145 |
| 4 | 3 | 13 | Patti Page | Mercury | *Allegheny Moon | 8 | .. | 3 | 2 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 3 | .. | 2 | 9 | 2 | .. | .. | 7 | 2 | 5 | .. | 4 | 3 | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | 3 | 135 |
| 5 | 4 | 9 | Hugo Winterhalter | Victor | †Canadian Sunset | .. | .. | 5 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 5 | 5 | .. | 1 | 4 | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | 1 | 2 | 10 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 2 | .. | .. | 8 | 8 | 4 | .. | 1 | 6 | .. | 123 |
| 6 | 8 | 5 | Elvis Presley | Victor | †Hound Dog | 2 | 10 | .. | 1 | 6 | .. | 2 | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 2 | 4 | 5 | 5 | 2 | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 113 |
| 7 | 20 | 5 | Patience & Prudence | Liberty | *Tonight You Belong to Me | 2 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 7 | 3 | .. | 2 | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 96 |
| 8 | 6 | 22 | Vic Damone | Columbia | *Street Where You Live | 5 | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 7 | 1 | .. | 4 | .. | 52 |
| 9 | 12 | 5 | Mitch Miller | Columbia | *Song for a Summer Night | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | 7 | 5 | 7 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | 8 | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 50 |
| 10 | 19 | 6 | Jerry Vale | Columbia | †You Don't Know Me | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 4 | 6 | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 47 |
| 11 | 10 | 5 | Andy Williams | Cadence | †Canadian Sunset | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 5 | 1 | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 46 |
| 12 | 16 | 8 | Joni James | MGM | *Give Us This Day | 4 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 41 |
| 13 | 5 | 5 | Buchanan & Goodman | Luniverse | Flying Saucers | 5 | 1 | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 40 |
| 14 | 11 | 20 | Gogi Grant | Era | †Wayward Wind | .. | .. | 6 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | 8 | .. | 37 |
| 15 | 34 | 2 | LeRoy Holmes | MGM | *White Lilacs Bloom Again | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 35 |
| 16A | 8 | 13 | Pat Boone | Dot | †I Almost Lost My Mind | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 34 |
| 16B | 27 | 3 | Sylvia Syms | Decca | *English Muffins and Stew | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 2 | 5 | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 34 |
| 18 | 13 | 9 | Eddie Heywood | Mercury | †Soft, Summer Breeze | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 9 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 33 |
| 19 | 15 | 13 | Teresa Brewer | Coral | *Sweet Old-Fashioned Girl | 9 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 32 |
| 20 | 33 | 2 | Bill Doggett | King | †Honky Tonk | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | 1 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 26 |
| 21A | 30 | 6 | Eydie Gorme | ABC-Par | *Mama, Teach Me to Dance | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 25 |
| 21B | 22 | 9 | Nat (King) Cole | Capitol | †All There Is to That | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 25 |
| 21C | .. | 10 | Gene Vincent | Capitol | †Be-Bop-a-Lula | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 4 | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 25 |
| 21D | .. | 1 | Four Lads | Columbia | *Bus Stop Song | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 25 |
| 25 | 25 | 3 | Al Hibbler | Decca | †After Lights Go Down Low | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 24 |
| 26A | .. | 6 | Don Cherry | Columbia | *Ghost Town | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 23 |
| 26B | 22 | 6 | Eileen Rodgers | Columbia | †Miracle of Love | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 23 |
| 28 | .. | 1 | Helmut Zacharias | Decca | *White Lilacs Bloom Again | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | 8 | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 22 |
| 29A | 18 | 15 | Chordettes | Cadence | *Born to Be With You | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 20 |
| 29B | 21 | 4 | Sanford Clark | Dot | †Fool | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 6 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 20 |
| 29C | 14 | 8 | Artie Wayne | Liberty | *Angel | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 3 | .. | 1 | 20 |
| 32A | .. | 1 | Tony Bennett | Columbia | *Candy Store on the Corner | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 17 |
| 32B | 40 | 3 | Frank Sinatra | Capitol | *You're Sensational | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 17 |
| 34A | .. | 1 | Vaughn Monroe | Victor | *In Middle of the House | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 16 |
| 34B | 43 | 5 | Perry Como | Victor | *Somebody Up There | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 16 |
| 36 | 25 | 8 | Four Aces | Decca | *I Only Know I Love You | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | 6 | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 15 |
| 37A | 17 | 13 | Perry Como | Victor | *More | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 14 |
| 37B | .. | 1 | Tony Martin | Victor | *Place in the Sun | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 5 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 14 |
| 37C | .. | 14 | Elvis Presley | Victor | †I Want You, I Need You | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | 3 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 14 |
| 37D | 40 | 5 | McGuire Sisters | Coral | *Weary Blues | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 14 |
| 41 | 29 | 3 | Georgia Gibbs | Mercury | *Happiness Street | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | .. | 12 |
| 42 | .. | 1 | Johnnie Ray | Columbia | *Walking in the Rain | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 11 |
| 43A | .. | 1 | Ames Bros | Victor | *Summer Sweetheart | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 10 | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 |
| 43B | .. | 21 | Morris Stoloff | Decca | *Moonglow-Picnic Theme | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 7 |
| 45 | 43 | 13 | Ames Bros | Victor | *Hurts for a Little While | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 |

(Copyright Variety, Inc. All Rights Reserved)

The Late John Treville Latouche

By VERNON DUKE

John Latouche, who died on Aug. 7 at the age of 38, belonged to that rare breed of lyric writers who are also poets—not lyric writers who are also millionaires, a far commoner variety.

He rightly belonged in the company of the late Larry (Lorenz) Hart, of Frank Loesser, Ogden Nash, Oscar Hammerstein 2d, Cole Porter, Howard Dietz, Alan Jay Lerner, Ira Gershwin and E. Y. Harburg, all very much alive. Latouche's lyrics had that unmistakable stamp of a poet's individuality that alone distinguishes such work from the glib wordslinging of Tin Pan Alley-cats.

True, Latouche wrote in spurts, could occasionally stoop to hackwork (last season's "The Vamp") and was exceedingly unreliable. "Why Latouche?" a producer would frown, when his name was suggested for a job. "He thrives on trouble—we have trouble enough without him." Calamity did hold a perverse fascination for Latouche. But somehow, no one took his tantrums seriously — and, typically, neither did he who knew how to disarm yesterday's adversary with warmth and genuine affection the very next day. He was a brilliant and torrential talker and his "mots" were repeatedly quoted at Broadwayites' gatherings. I suspect that he was also a frustrated musician, singer (he sang and played the piano atrociously, but with immense gusto) and actor—on one occasion I enraged him by asserting that his trouble lay in the fact that he wanted to be both Oscar Wilde and Orson Welles.

When a new project excited him, he was capable of magnificent work, executed with astonishing facility: "Ballads for Americans," "Ballet Ballads" and "The Golden Apple" being three good samples. "Lazy Afternoon" is about as perfect an "atmospheric" song as one can hear.

There is an odd story in connection with the recently expired "Happy Dollar," a happy little show; the only thing that prevented it from becoming a hit was the shopworn Faust gimmick energetically reworked these days in such offerings as "Damn Yankees" and "Rock Hunter." I was luxuriating in Cannes on New Year's Eve in 1947, when a transatlantic telephone call interrupted the revelry. Latouche was on the wire, selling me on the "Happy Dollar" and running out of ecstatic adjectives. I listened with interest and asked him to send on the book. This he did promptly—and, while liking it, I felt it was not for me. We already concocted a colored "Cabin in the Sky." I wrote Latouche "Why bother with a white one?" Nothing daunted, Latouche handed the book to young Bill Friml, Rudolph's gifted son, who wrote a charming score to a great set of lyrics. Dig that "Hero Hill" scene alone, Mr. Producer—it's well worth the trouble.

My last connection with Latouche was this past spring when we both contributed to "The Littlest Revue"; he and John Strauss collaborated on the witty opening while Charlotte Rae, a scintillating comedienne and Strauss' wife, revived our "Summer Is I-Comin' In," originally introduced by Martin & Blane and two girl singers in the shortlived "Lady Comes Across" (1943). Latouche was bursting with gigantic projects, as usual, some of which included me.

Now, that he is inexplicably dead, Broadway will no longer hear from one of its prodigal sons, it can ill afford to lose yet another of the small band of purveyors of true "show" fare as opposed to the hot-dog and cool-cat school, the Unholy (Rock-and-) Rollers and the perpetrators of pelvic phenomena.

big play.

It's The Same The Whole World Over; Copy Sales Drop Sharply In Britain

British music publishers are resigned to the steep decline in sheet sales. Main reasons governing their contention include a thriving market for pop disks and too many mediocre and inadequate songs flooding the music stores. Publishers recognize that the U.S. industry is experiencing the same thing.

Whereas 10 years ago a hit tune might easily have sold 300,000 at 14c per copy, the figure for "Memories Are Made of This" at 28c are expected to reach 100,000.

A representative of Francis, Day & Hunter said, "a song is in one week and out the next. Only very outstanding pops can last the pace." A 40% drop in sales over the last two years is not uncommon in the industry.

Even the Music Publishers Assn. is pessimistic about the future. One officer remarked: "I can't be prepared to say they will ever recover, except, perhaps, in remote parts of the country where people have far to travel for disk supplies."

Since radio, tv, the phonograph and jukebox consolidate their status as opposition to sheet sales, pubberies have thought about making an all-out effort to win back some of their customers. A few members of MPA tried to counter lowering sales by an extensive publicity campaign, but it was found that the cost of $1,400 was too much for the small membership.

Bill Phillips, heading Macmelodies, Ltd., an associate of Peter Maurice Music, believes that the cheapest but most effective measure would be a form of national sheet music week in which publishers and collecting houses could cooperate in a big publicity splash. He agreed there had been a steady drop-away in sales, partly because of the disk boom and the doubled cost of a music sheet.

GOP Will Likely Get Frisco Tooters' Vote

San Francisco, Aug. 28.

GOP convention hypoed business for musicians local 6 here, provided somewhere between 300 and 400 extra jobs. Best spot was in Manny Harmon's Cow Palace orch. Harmon hired 50 men on six-hour basis for all four days.

Lyle Bardo picked up 30 men for big Citizens for Ike bash at Civic Auditorium Sunday (19) night, and Ray Hackett hired 30 for Governor's ball Monday (20) night at same place. Ernie Heckscher employed 20 pros for Elizabeth Arden party at Mark Hopkins Hotel Tuesday (21) night and Wednesday (22) night John Affriendes' municipal band put 50 men to work for the mayor's ball at Civic Auditorium.

In addition to big bands, smaller novelty combos like Guckenheimer Sauerkraut Band and Turk Murphy's dixieland group have gotten

RETAIL DISK AND ALBUM BEST SELLERS

VARIETY

Survey of retail disk best sellers based on reports obtained from leading stores in 19 cities and showing comparative sales rating for this and last week.

| National Rating This wk. | Last wk. | Artist, Label, Title | New York—(R. H. Macy Co.) | Long Island—(Arcade Assoc.) | Washington—(Super Music) | Boston—(Mosher Music Co.) | Albany—(Van Curler Music Co.) | Philadelphia—(John Wanamaker) | Birmingham—(Loveman Music) | Miami—(Spec's Record Shops) | Louisville—(Variety Record Shop) | San Antonio—(Alamo Piano Co.) | Chicago—(Hudson-Ross Music) | Minneapolis—(Don Leary Music) | Kansas City—(Katz Record Ctrs.) | St. Louis—(Stix, Baer & Fuller) | Cleveland—(Record Mart) | Los Angeles—(Music City) | San Francisco—(Columbia Music) | Denver—(Denver Dry Goods) | Seattle—(Sherman-Clay Music) | TOTAL POINTS |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 1 | PLATTERS (Mercury) "My Prayer" | 2 | 5 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 5 | 5 | 4 | 2 | 1 | 4 | 4 | 5 | .. | .. | 2 | 1 | 5 | 3 | 135 |
| 2 | 2 | DORIS DAY (Columbia) "Whatever Will Be, Will Be" | 3 | 4 | 3 | 5 | 2 | 1 | 6 | 3 | 8 | 2 | 2 | .. | 3 | 4 | .. | 5 | 3 | 4 | 7 | 122 |
| 3 | 5 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) "Don't Be Cruel" | .. | 2 | .. | 1 | 5 | 6 | 3 | 1 | 1 | 5 | .. | .. | 1 | .. | 3 | .. | .. | 9 | 1 | 94 |
| 4 | 4 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) "Hound Dog" | 1 | .. | 2 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 3 | 7 | 2 | 1 | 5 | .. | 1 | 4 | 1 | .. | 93 |
| 5 | 3 | BUCHANAN & GOODMAN (Luniverse) "Flying Saucers" | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | 1 | 2 | 5 | 4 | 6 | 6 | 8 | 3 | .. | 7 | 5 | 2 | 8 | 85 |
| 6 | 6 | HUGO WINTERHALTER (Victor) "Canadian Sunset" | 5 | 6 | 4 | 8 | .. | 4 | .. | 6 | .. | 6 | 1 | .. | .. | .. | 5 | 8 | 9 | 3 | 6 | 72 |
| 7 | 8 | GENE VINCENT (Capitol) "Be-Bop-a-Lula" | 8 | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 7 | 7 | 9 | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | 2 | 6 | .. | 45 |
| 8 | 15 | MITCH MILLER (Columbia) "Song for a Summer Night" | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 5 | .. | 4 | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 2 | 37 |
| 9 | 16 | BILL DOGGETT (King) "Honky Tonk" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 2 | .. | 2 | 9 | .. | .. | 5 | 34 |
| 10A | 10 | PATTI PAGE (Mercury) "Allegheny Moon" | 6 | .. | .. | 4 | 8 | 3 | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 30 |
| 10B | 18 | PATIENCE & PRUDENCE (Liberty) "Tonight You Belong to Me" | 10 | 1 | 10 | .. | 9 | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 30 |
| 12 | 11 | SANFORD CLARK (Dot) "Fool" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | 9 | .. | 10 | .. | 1 | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 27 |
| 13 | 22 | JERRY VALE (Columbia) "You Don't Know Me" | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 19 |
| 14 | 20 | AL HIBBLER (Decca) "After the Lights Go Down Low" | .. | 3 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 18 |
| 15 | 9 | GOGI GRANT (Era) "Wayward Wind" | .. | .. | 5 | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 16 |
| 16 | 7 | ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) "I Want You, I Need You, I Love You" | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | 15 |
| 17 | 12 | PAT BOONE (Dot) "I Almost Lost My Mind" | 9 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | 14 |
| 18A | .. | FATS DOMINO (Imperial) "When My Dreamboat Comes Home" | .. | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 | .. | 10 |
| 18B | 19 | ANDY WILLIAMS (Cadence) "Canadian Sunset" | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | 2 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 |
| 18C | .. | JANE POWELL (Verve) "True Love" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 |
| 21A | .. | DIAMONDS (Mercury) "Ka Ding Dong" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4 | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 |
| 21B | .. | FOUR LADS (Columbia) "Bus Stop Song" | .. | .. | .. | 3 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 |
| 23 | .. | EDDIE HEYWOOD (Mercury) "Soft, Summer Breeze" | .. | 9 | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 8 |
| 24A | .. | BILL HALEY'S COMETS (Decca) "Rip It Up" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 |
| 24B | .. | SHIRLEY & LEE (Alladin) "Let the Good Times Roll" | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | .. | 6 |

| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| MY FAIR LADY | EDDY DUCHIN STORY | KING AND I | CALYPSO | HIGH SOCIETY | SONGS FOR SWINGING LOVERS | CAROUSEL | ELVIS PRESLEY | MOST HAPPY FELLA | OKLAHOMA! |
| Broadway Cast | Film Soundtrack | Film Soundtrack | Harry Belafonte | Film Soundtrack | Frank Sinatra | Film Soundtrack | Elvis Presley | Broadway Cast | Film Soundtrack |
| Columbia OL 5090 | Decca DL 8289 | Capitol W 740 EAP 740 | Victor LPM 1248 EPA 1248 | Capitol W 750 | Capitol W 653 EAP 653 | Capitol W 694 EDM 694 | Victor LPM 1254 EPB 1254 | Columbia OL 5118 | Capitol SAO 595 SDM 595 |

Col Gets NBC-TV 'Scrooge' for Wax

Columbia Records will again cross the tv web barriers for an album production. Label is set to put into the groove "The Happy Scrooge," musicalization of Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol" set to preem on NBC-TV Dec. 23.

Early this year, Col went over to NBC-TV for its album treatment of "Marco Polo," a Max Liebmann spec which starred Alfred Drake and Doretta Morrow.

The score for "Scrooge" was penned by Fred Spielman and Janice Torre. The Warner Bros. publishing houses will handle the score. The spec will star Vic Damone and The Four Lads, Columbia pactees, and Johnny Desmond, who's contracted to Coral. Desmond will get a special waiver from Coral to cut the Columbia package.

Brit. Rock 'n' Roll Pkge. Set for Six-Week Tour

London, Aug. 28.

Six weeks' bookings for Britain's first rock 'n' roll package show starring the Tony Crombie band have now been set. The tour of Moss Empires theatres kicks off at Shefficld on Sept. 10 and moves to Nottingham for the second week, to Birmingham Hippodrome Sept. 24 then to Liverpool on Oct. 1, Finsbury Park Empire on Oct. 8 and Glasgow Empire a week later.

The home-grown combo will consist of piano, bass, drums, electric guitar, tenor sax and vocal with Crombie fronting.

Tommy Rettig, 'Lassie' Juve, To Cut For Coral

Tommy Rettig, juvenile actor who stars in the "Lassie" video series, has been signed by Bob Thiele, Coral Records' artists & repertoire chief. His initial release comprises two narrations, "What Is a Mom?" and "What Is a Dad?"

He's due to make a cross-country disk jockey tour next month to plug the disk.

On The Upbeat

New York

Hal Kapplow joined Frances Kaye Assoc. . . . First song in the Larry Spier-Nat Cole firm, Princess Music. "Two Different Worlds," to hit the market with five different waxings . . . Bob Anthony playing his third return engagement at the Sherry Frontenac Hotel, Miami Beach . . . Don Elliott Quartet continues at Basin Street over Labor Day.

The new Neal Hefti-Frances Wayne group ankled Epic Records. No other diskery is set yet . . . Vet organist Jack Skelly begins his ninth year at the Madison Square Garden Ice Skating Club Sept. 8 . . . Roger Coleman set for a one-week stand at the Mayfair Club, Boston, beginning Sept. 10 . . . Lorraine Gillespie, wife of Dizzy Gillespie, signed crooner Austin Cramer to a personal management pact.

Buck Ram's "Happy Music Show" set for deejay Frank Ward's muscular dystrophy show on WWOL, Buffalo, Sept. 15 . . . Seena Hamilton (Mrs. Dave Reiss) gave birth to a daughter last month . . . Bobby Scott set for Steve Allen's tv show Sept. 11 . . . The Four Voices begin a week's stand at the Congress Hotel, St. Louis, Sept. 10 . . . The jazz concerts at Herb McCarthy's Bowden Square, Southampton (L.I.) wind up Sept. 4 with Stan Rubin & His Tigertown Five.

Jimmy De Priest Quintet, new jazz combo, opens at the Red Hill Inn, Philly, Friday (31) . . . Hal Graham and Emilio Reyes orchs share the podium at the Golden Slipper, Glen Cove (L.I.) nitery, for the fall and winter season . . . The Lecuona Boys inked a three-year pact to play the summer seasons at Laurels Country Club, Monticello . . . Paul Martell's orch cancelled European concert tour slated for late September and will remain at Roseland Ballroom through Dec. 24 . . . Mike Woolson ankling his platter spinning post at WNOR, Norfolk, Va., Sept. 1 for a crack at radio-tv work in New York.

Hollywood

Miklos Rozsa will teach a course in film scoring at USC from Sept. 24 to Jan. 30, one night per week . . . Sidney Pittman, head of Maze Records, purchased a Herb Jeffries master, "The Heart of a Woman," and "The Conqueror" . . . Bally Records' chief Jimmy Hilliard in from Chi to supervise etching of Janis Paige's first album for label. Disking will be Miss Paige's first waxing since "The Pajama Game" album in 1954 . . . Mike Conner, who recently exited Decca, in town . . . Ray Anthony pulled 10,129 paying customers into the Palladium for his final week to give him a total of 33,080 in three sessions.

Omaha

Jan Garber orch weekended at Joe Malec's Peony Park (24-26), with Skeets Mahoney one-nighting there today (Wed.) . . . Earl Graves combo, featuring Snarf Olson, at Copacabana, local nitery . . . Betty B holding forth at piano bar of Hill Hotel.

Dallas

Bob Cross, whose crew has been at the Statler-Hilton since its January opening, sold his San Antonio home and bought one here . . . Ben Arden takes his crew into the Statler, Detroit, next month . . . Ray McKinley's new Glenn Miller-style orch pacted for Sept. 21-22 at Riverlakes Country Club . . . Ligon Smith, who quit bandleading after 25 years and became sales manager of the Baker Hotel, elected first veep of southwestern hotel managers' assn.

5 BIG RECORDS
"WHEN THE WHITE LILACS BLOOM AGAIN"
HELMUT ZACHARIAS—Decca
FLORIAN ZABACH—Mercury
LEROY HOLMES—MGM
LAWRENCE WELK—Coral
BILLY VAUGHN—Dot
HARMS, INC

Defunct Firm Sues To Protect a Copyright

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Federal Judge Ben Harrison took under submission a $50,000 breach of confidence and contract suit brought by Hudson Music, a N. Y. firm dissolved in 1955, against Decca, RCA Victor, MGM and Mercury Records and Dandelion Music. Litigation is over "Looking Back to See," a hillbilly tune cleffed 1947 by L. E. Adams and Kermit Gold. Also charged with a breach of confidence are the brother - sister hillbilly singers, Maxine and James Brown.

Unusual legal question involved in the suit is whether a dissolved firm can sue to protect a copyright previously taken out in its name. Plaintiff contends that under N.Y. State law, the corporation can still conduct business under its name even after dissolution.

Richmond Nabs 'Arms,' Fast-Breaking Brit. Hit

"Lay Down Your Arms," a fast-breaking hit in England which made the top 10 after the first week via an Ann Shelton disk on the Philips label, has been picked by Howie Richmond's Ludlow Music firm in this country. Tune, published in England by Francis, Day & Hunter, has already got eight cover platters.

Columbia Records, which has a reciprocal deal with Philips, will handle the Miss Shelton platter in this country. Tune was written by Ake Gerhard, a Scandinavian, with English lyrics by Leon Land.

AD Nets 103G

Audio Devices, disk and tape manufacturer, had a net income of $103,952 on sales of $1,818,181 for the six months ended June 30 of this year. The sum, which is a net after provision of $95,500 for Federal income taxes from an operational profit of $199,452, is equal to 17c per share of capital stock. An interim cash dividend of 5c a share was paid last May.

William C. Speed, Audio Devices prexy, stated that this figure marked a 42% increase over 1955 sales.

MARTIN TO CUT IN BRIT.

London, Aug. 28.

Tony Martin, currently filming at Elstree Studios, will etch some of the songs from the film "Let's Be Happy." RCA Victor in U.S. asked him to cover the chief numbers at the London studios of EMI.

Songs were composed by Nicholas Brodszky and Paul Francis Webster.

Another BMI "Pin Up" Hit
THE OLD PHILOSOPHER
Recorded by
EDDIE LAWRENCE ..... Coral
Published by
MERRICK MUSIC CO.

RETAIL SHEET BEST SELLERS

VARIETY

Survey of retail sheet music best sellers based on reports obtained from leading stores in 13 cities and showing comparative sales rating for this and last week.

* ASCAP † BMI

| National Rating This wk. | Last wk. | Title and Publisher | New York—(MDS) | Boston—(Mosher Music Co.) | Philadelphia—(Charles Dumont) | San Antonio—(Alamo Piano Co.) | Chicago—(Lyon-Healy Music) | Detroit—(Grinnell Bros. Music) | Minneapolis—(Schmitt Music Co.) | Kansas City—(Jenkins Music Co.) | St. Louis—(St. L. Music Supply) | Cleveland—(Grossman Music Co.) | Los Angeles—(Freeman Music Co.) | San Francisco—(Pac. Coast Music) | Seattle—(Capitol Music Co.) | TOTAL POINTS |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 1 | *Whatever Will Be (Artists) | 1 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 1 | 3 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 1 | 122 |
| 2 | 2 | *Allegheny Moon (Oxford) | 2 | 8 | 3 | 2 | 2 | 5 | .. | 3 | 1 | 2 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 100 |
| 3A | 5 | *My Prayer (Shapiro-B) | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 8 | 6 | 4 | 3 | 3 | 6 | 5 | 84 |
| 3B | 6 | †Canadian Sunset (Meridian) | 3 | 1 | 1 | 5 | 6 | 2 | .. | 4 | 6 | 5 | 4 | 7 | 4 | 84 |
| 5 | 3 | †Wayward Wind (Warman) | 6 | .. | 6 | 3 | .. | 7 | 4 | 1 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 3 | 3 | 76 |
| 6 | 4 | *On Street You Live (Chappell) | 8 | 3 | 5 | 6 | .. | 1 | 10 | .. | 5 | .. | .. | 8 | 7 | 46 |
| 7 | 8 | *Old-Fashioned Girl (Valor) | .. | 6 | .. | 8 | .. | 8 | 5 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 10 | 24 |
| 8 | 7 | †Almost Lost My Mind (H&R) | .. | .. | .. | 7 | 9 | 6 | .. | 10 | 8 | 6 | 10 | .. | .. | 21 |
| 9 | 13 | †Soft, Summer Breeze (Regent) | 7 | 5 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | 7 | .. | .. | .. | 18 |
| 10 | 9 | *Moonglow (Mills) | .. | 10 | 9 | 10 | 8 | 10 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 4 | .. | 17 |
| 11 | .. | †Want You, Need You (Presley) | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | 7 | .. | 7 | 9 | .. | 12 |
| 12A | .. | *Song for Summer Night (April) | 5 | 9 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | .. | .. | 10 |
| 12B | .. | *True Love (Buxton Hill) | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 | 10 |
| 14 | .. | †Don't Be Cruel (Shalimar-P) | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 | .. | 8 | .. | .. | 9 | 9 |
| 15 | 10 | *More (Shapiro-B) | .. | .. | .. | 9 | .. | 9 | .. | 8 | .. | .. | .. | 10 | .. | 8 |

Miami Hotels

Continued from page 2

date during the conclave; have spoken with Liberace and his managers, and are seeking like big dough names to preem their lavish Nearly all bands tour the country in summertime which means a terrific profit for them. The predilection for pop music is obvious all over the country, it may be added.

Stockholm has a selection of not too many but certainly fine the-450-seat nitery. The Liberace asking price precludes much chance of his taking up their bid. Lawrence Welk is another hot tv property they're interested in; it's a foregone conclusion the Tisch group will go for big money in their search for a series of nationally knowns from all mediums who have a night club act, in order to set their newery off and winging in its first season.

The Indie Clubs

Only one independent night club has been spoken for—Lou Walters' Latin Quarter on Palm Island. Walters is currently in Europe lining up acts. What he will do about a headliner roster has not been announced. With status of the Beachcomber in doubt; no takers—at present— for Copa City, and Ciro's also waiting at the booking wire, the booking race looks to hit hottest pace within the next six weeks. Oddly enough, there has been no talk as yet, of where Sophie Tucker will play her annual date here; ditto Jimmy Durante or Sammy Davis Jr., among other big draws in this area.

For supporting acts, it looks like a field day with a carboning of last winter's datings when comics played several hotels through the winter span, either as topliners or in added-attraction slots.

There's a healthy route around for platter chicks and nitery thrushes. The Sans Souci has Myron Cohen, Jackie Miles, Jerry Lester, The Redcaps, Billy Gray; the Nautilus has Gene Baylos to peg it type of bookings; the Lucerne management is reported ready to take on the one-week datings of the middle-bracketeers, ditto the Seville.

The Saxony, which had an ice show for a long and unprofitable run last season, is still debating whether to try with one-framers, weekend lineups, or simply to join the long list of hostels featuring the "new show nightly" policy.

Added up, the payoffs by all should set a new record for the area, with good chance the sum total will equal Las Vegas figures—all without casinos to take care of any cafe losses. In the case of the Beach biggeries, they will stall depend on room revenue to absorb any in-the-red figures for their showcases, plus marking debits off to promotion.

New York Jazz Festival

Continued from page 43

same night by the jazzmen, on the part of the management was apparent in the long stage waits, the poor pacing and the almost exclusive accent on the modern idiom. Only Bobby Hackett's and Wild Bill Davison's All-Stars, opening the two "Twilight Jazz" concerts, toward 8 p.m. gave the traditional side of jazz and if you read any deeper meaning into "twilight," it was intended.

Sarah Vaughan Rocks

Sarah Vaughan was the Friday first-half closer and scatted with a verve which rocked the crowd, swinging with an ad lib ease that lit the place up. Erroll Garner also hit his best stride, especially embroidering the Val Burton-Will Jason "Penthouse Serenade" for top applause. It was largely piano night with Shearing, Billy Taylor and Claude Williamson of the Krupa Quartet also boffing the buffs with their finger work.

Saturday night, Brubeck opened and performed most of the numbers he did at Newport earlier in the season. He got the evening off to a hydramatic start and set the stage for the frantic, horserace style of the Jazz Messengers, who, with the Chet Baker group, went so far out that not many dug them deep enough.

In contrast, Don Shirley offered a Gershwin medley that pleased the crowd but bore no relation to jazz. Gillespie's new band blew loud enough and interestingly enough to evoke deserved applause, but the Diz lived up to his name by mugging to the distraction of his vocalist and chanting a nursery rhyme lyric which has no place in this type of concerto. If Gillespie only knew where to halt his hamboning or lost his delusions of being Spike Jones, his band would get more of the serious attention it deserves to have.

Basie Clicks

Little to be written about the Basie orchestra which hasn't already been said. It has the true sound and the audience loved every minute of it. Stayed on almost an hour each session and could have stayed all night. It is now at the top and time will tell if the revitalized Ellington band will give it a race or nudge it off its pinnacle. Al (Jazzbo) Collins was the main m.c. and by far the best.

Crowd handling left much to be desired. Police department was too busy playing "Cops and Photographers," interfering with the press cameramen, to handle the exhibitionists and chiselers who broke out of their seats into the higher-priced sections around the bandstand.

Program-wise, N.Y.J.F. was a Carnegie Hall jazz concert with air-conditioning. Awkward waits between sets, each group on too long, no "especially written" pieces, no effort to blend groups for new combos and interesting pairings, except for Al Cohn working in front of the Basie orch and some pick-up combos.

Scale was $2 to $4.40 with 10,000 chairs on the field and a like number of seats in the stands. New wrinkle here was a row of chairs placed in front of row A. This was for the backers and if they broke even they rated it.

MAURICE SEYMOUR

PHOTOGRAPHER TO THE STARS
1715 Broadway, N. Y. 19
(at 54 St.)
CO 5-3133

THE HIT OF THE WEEK
DAVID ROSE AND HIS ORCH
A KISS IS FOREVER | DANCE OF FURY
MGM 12305 K 12305
M-G-M Records

DENNY BRACKEN
WOLF

JIM COSGROVE
WNDR

RON CURTIS
WFBL

DEACON DOUBLEDAY
WSYR

BOB EHLE
WNDR

ELLIOTT GOVE
WSYR

DEAN HARRIS
WHEN

AL MELTZER
WHEN

ED MURPHY
WSYR

CHARLIE SHAW
WOLF

DENNY SULLIVAN
WFBL

BILL THORPE
WFBL

...they can help you sell more in this $475,635,000 retail market!*

These twelve men make a habit of charming the families in Syracuse's 111,171 radio homes. Their pleasant personalities, fine entertainment and exciting news about products make for easy, interesting listening...and faster sales. Why not let these popular deejays help you get a bigger slice of this important retail market!

*Sales Management, "Survey of Buying Power", 1955.

RCA VICTOR spotlights hometown broadcasting

Band Reviews

DUKE ELLINGTON ORCHESTRA (15)
With Jimmy Griffin
Blue Note, Chi

Bowing in Chi's senior jazzery, the Blue Note, Wednesday (22), for a two-week stay, the Duke Ellington band may be kicking off an Ellington revival. House was packed for the opener and fortuitous coupling of this engagement with national mag publicity may do much to keep it so for the remainder of the booking.

Playing a combination of Ellington originals and Ellington-arranged standards, the maestro masterfully leads the boys through their paces. Occasionally pounding out a few bars on the '83 himself, he shares the spotlight with his men, almost all of whom get their crack at solos.

Jimmy Hamilton takes the lead with a clarinet solo of "Time on My Hands." Bassist Jimmy Wood, sax-man Paul Gonzales, Harry Carney on the baritone and vet saxophonist Johnny Hodges also take their turns, Hodges taking it for that Ellington trademark, "Mood Indigo," with the ease born of long acquaintance. A virtuoso drumming exhibition by Sammy Woodyard clears the stand and gets rapt attention from the customers.

Band vocalist Jimmy Griffin does a pair of numbers, getting best returns for "Do Nothing Till You Hear From Me." Griffin is not impressive throughout, but occasionally hits a rhythmic or stylistic peak that underscores the need for more work.

Freely swinging through an Ellington version of "La Virgen de Macarena," a bullring paso doble, through the old faves like "Sophisticated Lady" and "Laura," the Ellington group impresses with great variety. Ending with Ellington's latest, "Newport Festival Suite," group displays up-to-date blending of the best of the old Ellington and the continuing creativity of the same. Gabe.

TEDDY WILSON TRIO
London House, Chicago

In for five weeks after a six-month absence, the Teddy Wilson Trio (with Jo Jones on drums and Al Lucas on bass) should repeat or better the business done here in February when the group set the London House high-water mark in attendance and receipts. Though the Wilson Trio benefitted from the "Goodman Story" film bally last time around, fact that the pic fared only mildly at the b.o., while the trio packed 'em in, augurs well for a repeat, with old fans bringing new.

Secret of Wilson's popularity is twofold: the thoroughly listenable book of standards interpreted in the swinging, still melodic style of the '30s, coupled with tried-and-true crowd-pleasing showmanship elements. The trio plays for the general public, not just for themselves or a small band of cultists; there is no fashionable aloofness here but a sincere attempt to bring in and please the patrons who are picking up the tab. And they come, in droves. It their lesson for the band biz buried here?

As to the book, played with smooth facility by ex-Goodmanite Wilson at the keyboard, backed by bass and drums in equally smooth combination, there are such old faves as "Avalon," "Tea for Two," "Just One of Those Things," "Charmaine," 'Sweet Georgia Brown," "It Had to Be You," etc. And for a showmanship plus, Jo Jones, rated one of the best in the U.S., drums slickly; his incomparable mugging and expressive skinbeating make his work tell stories while backstopping. When bassist Al Lucas takes the spotlight for a solo, the house is also treated to an example of expert musicianship. It's a begoff at the end of each set; the customers just won't let them go and the mitting is deafening. Gabe.

PROGRAM TO-DAY
YESTERDAY'S FLAPPERETTE
Music by
JESSE GREER
Published by MILLS MUSIC
799 7th Ave., New York 19

America's New Girlfriend
GLENDORA
PERRY COMO
RCA Victor
JACK LEWIS
Crest
AMERICAN MUSIC, INC.
9109 SUNSET BLVD HOLLYWOOD CALIF

FOR SALE
Small Inactive A.S.C.A.P. Firm about 10 years old. Reasonable.
Write Room 801,
149 Broadway, New York 6, N. Y.

Jocks, Jukes & Disks

Continued from page 42

British orch leader Ray Martin has captured the sounds of the street and put them together into a rollicking "symphony" that makes for a strong disk jockey programming bet. The colorful and fresh sound also makes it a fair commercial bet. Martin is in a more luxuriant mood on "Tambourine" and it comes over as an exotic mood entry.

Joe Reisman Orch: "21 Rue Pigalle"-"Italian Theme" (RCA Victor). There's a lighthearted Gallic beat to "21 Rue Pigalle" that's captured with full flavor by Joe Reisman's orch with help from a humming choral group. It's attractive fodder for the spinners. Reisman switches to an Italian melodic mood on the flip side, and it, too, makes for tiptop instrumental programming.

Lincoln Chase: "If I Were A Countryside"-"Watch My Smoke" (Dawn). "If I Were A Countryside" has a tender and lyrical theme and composer Lincoln Chase gives it the proper vocal tone. It's an effective mood piece that should draw lots of partisans. Flip side is a free-wheeling pace-changer that'll win some deejay attention.

Mabel King: "Symbol of Love"-"Second Hand Love" (Rama). Mabel King's "Symbol of Love" should start the major diskeries jumping to cover. Tune fits into the current vogue pegging lyric values on teenage familiarities and Miss King points it all up with a catchy vocal punch. "Second Hand Love" has a lot of the rock 'n' roll pounding background but it misses the mark.

Ann Lorraine: "Afraid"-"Take Me In Your Arms" (Arc). Newcomer Ann Lorraine has a pleasant shellac styling that moves well over a chile-style number like "Afraid" as well as the more orthodox ballad beat of "Take Me In Your Arms." Working with a neat orch backing supplied by Lou Terras, Miss Lorraine shows off nicely on both sides. "Afraid" will probably get to the deejays ears first.

Album Reviews

Continued from page 42

carbon with the Art Mooney outfit. Orch gets the slambang spirit into the well-remembered oldies and it all emerges as a topflight frolicking set.

In the jazz lineup: Buddy De Franco plays 'em sweet and pretty for Norgan's "In A Mellow Mood" . . . Despite the precious title of "Pithecanthropis Erectus," the Charlie Mingus Jazz Workshop shows off some pretty cool tootling on an Atlantic label package . . . A Norgran set tagged "Billy Bauer Plectrist," also aims for the obscure, but it does showcase some of Bauer's best guitar work . . . Meade Lux Lewis hits a hot boogie-woogie beat on "Yancey's Last Ride" on the Down Home label . . . Wilbur De Paris gets a solid New Orleans jazz sound into his Atlantic package of "Marchin' and Swingin'" . . . Joe Turner gets off some vivid Kansas City Jazz-styled vocals in Atlantic's "The Boss of the Blues."

Kapp's Song Book

Aimed at the moppet set but suitable for adults as well is "A Cat Came Fiddling," new song book by Paul Kapp which hit the stands Monday (27). In all the tome contains some 57 nursery rhymes that Kapp has set to music.

An added asset is the illustrations of Irene Haas. They make this Harcourt, Brace $3 publication a charming picture book along with the Kapp melodies. There's also an introduction by Burl Ives.

Publisher, incidentally, prepped a 45 rpm waxing of 11 of the book's ditties as a "sampler" in a promotional vein. Such tunes as the title number, "Six Little Mice," "One Misty Moisty Morning" and "Hector Protector" are sung by an unbilled vocalist who sounds much like Ives. Gilb.

Local 47

Continued from page 41

Ernie Wehl to the roster of business agents.

Shift of the meeting back to union headquarters instead of the much larger Palladium terpery indicated the quiet tenor of the session.

Meanwhile, the board of directors gave business agent Vincent Augustine his two weeks notice, a move anticipated since membership approval two months ago of a bylaw change permitting the board rather than the president to hire and fire such agents. Augustine, accused of bugging a caucus prior to the Feb. 27 meeting, had long been a target of the dissidents who blamed Read's expulsion on a secret tape recording of remarks at the caucus. Augustine will be replaced by Larry Binyon.

Members also learned that the Federation has selected a Beverly Hills site for its new west Coast offices which will open next week with Herman D. Kenin, executive board member, in charge. Kenin resigned as prexy of Portland, Ore., Local 99 to come here and take the job.

Wax Names

Continued from page 41

shot, while a newcomer can get as much as $1,000.

Hollywood's renewed title song kick has also been a boon to the disk artist. To assure disk coverage of the title tune and a personally directed song performance, the film producers are now contracting the diskers to sing in the picture or on the soundtrack over the credits. Perry Como, The Four Lads, The Four Aces, Tony Bennett, Nat (King) Cole, Joni James, Pat Boone and Dolores Hawkins are just a few who've already nabbed title song assignments from Hollywood.

In keeping with this trend Hal Wallis recently inked Frankie Laine to sing the Dimitri Tiomkin-Ned Washington title song, "Gunfight at O.K. Corral" and Paramount has nabbed Tennessee Ernie Ford for the Van Cleve-Jack Brooks title tune for "The Lonely Man."

Music Trust Fund

Continued from page 41

number of vidpix producers are turning to foreign-made soundtracks rather than pay a percentage of their gross to the Trust Fund, a basic condition of any agreement with Petrillo.

The AFM chief, however, has strengthened his hand in the union via the Fund allocations. Last year, some 180,000 jobs for musicians were provided by the allocations. That figure is sure to go up substantially during the coming 12 months. There will probably be around 30,000 different projects AFM locals around the country.

Of the coin collected by the Trust Funds last year, $2,091,000 was paid by the disk industry and $1,075,000 by the television industry.

Art Cook Forms New Orch for Cleve. Label

Art Cook, head of the Cleveland-based indie Donna Records, has formed a new orch to record exclusively for the label. Crew is made up of ex-name band sideman now living in Cleveland.

Al Knapp and The Kendall Sisters will handle the vocals for the orch. Orch's first sides are due in mid-September.

Inside Stuff—Music

Carlvi Music, classical publishing firm based in Los Angeles, has lined up a flock of longhair composers previously published by eastern music companies. In the lineup are Albert Hay Malotte, Hall Johnson, Ernest Charles, Clifford McCormick and George Frederick McKay. Firm now has a catalog listing more than 100 works including music by Benjamin Lees, Elliot Griffis, Ardella Schaub, Theodore Norman, Radie Britain and Gregory Stone. Carlvi also represents such progressive jazz cleffers as Shorty Rogers, Chet Baker, Bud Shank, Pete Jolly and Jack Montrose.

"We Are Americans Too," 15-year old tune by Andy Razaf, Eubie Blake and Charles L. Cooke, is getting new exposure this year. Recently, Detroit ordered several thousand copies to be featured in Powell Lindsay's "This Is Our America" presented by Panorama of Progress. Nat King Cole made 40 promotional records via the Capitol label for deejays to advertise the Panorama of Music.

For the new push, Razaf updated some of the lyrics. Tune is published by Handy Bros. Music.

Eighteen of Erich J. Wolff's concert songs have been recorded for the first time in Vienna for release in the U.S. The tapes were recently flown in from Europe. Basso Frederick Guthrie recorded eight songs while the other ten were etched by Patricia Brinton, soprano with the Ulm Opera Co. of Germany. Wolff's songs are published by Harmonia Publishing Co., a BMI affiliate.

Ted Weems' "Heartaches," a side which has sold over 2,000,000 copies since it clicked some 20 years ago, is being reissued by Decca Records on a 45 rpm disk for station libraries. Song has had several revivals since its first release, but the last time was before the stations made their switch from 78 rpm to 45 rpm disk libraries a couple of years ago.

The late Hank Wiliams, who was one of the most prolific writers of country song hits, will be impersonated on a Decca disk by folksinger Red Garrett. Latter does the impression on one of Williams' tunes, "May You Never Be Alone," with an original narration by Garrett and Jean Valli also included. Williams recorded on the MGM label.

Tieing in with the Jewish high holidays coming early next month, MGM Records has prepped for Aug. 29 release and album of Hebrew chants and prayers by Cantor Bela Herskovits. Album will get a network tv plug that day when a kinnie of Cantor Herskovitz's "This Is Your Life" stanza will be reshown on NBC-TV.

Mel Torme, now playing England, is getting an echo in the U.S. A tune, "Mountain Greenery," from his recent Coral album, "At The Crescendo," has zoomed to the bestselling lists of England. Coral, therefore, has taken the number from the set for a single release.

Jesse Greer's "Flapperette" is published by Mills Music. An ad in last week's VARIETY inadvertently listed Robbins as the publisher,

Theme Melody of the M-G-M Picture
SOMEBODY UP THERE LIKES ME
SOMEBODY UP THERE LIKES ME
LEO FEIST, INC.

STYNE & CAHN'S
"Saturday Night is the loneliest night of the week"
CAHN MUSIC CORP

A cute novelty with a lilting beat!
WAIT LITTLE DARLING
Recorded by KAY CEE JONES
on Decca
MILLS MUSIC, INC.

JOE BARONE QUARTET
Currently
GUILDWOOD INN, Point Edward, Ontario
Aug. 14—2 Weeks—Paddock Lounge, Rock Island, Ill.
Aug. 28—2 Weeks—Playdium, E. St. Louis, Ill.
Sept. 17—2 Weeks—Tropics, Dayton, Ohio
★ ★ ★ ★
ASSOCIATED BOOKING CORPORATION
JOE GLASER, Pres.
New York 745 5th Ave PL 9-4600 | Chicago 203 No. Wabash | Hollywood 8619 Sunset Blvd.

DECCA RECORDS
America's Fastest Selling Records!

Jersey Burleycues Strip for Action As New Take-It-Off Season Takes Off

By GEORGE GILBERT

End of August may mean the end of the season to resort operators but to burlesque fans in the New York metropolitan area it marks resumption of entertainment in two of northern New Jersey's three burley theatres. For the Hudson in Union City reopened Saturday (25) and the Empire, Newark, relighted the previous evening. Open all summer was Minsky's at Newark's airconditioned Adams Theatre.

Now in its 20th year as a "Bagdad-of-the-bump," the Empire was taken over by the late Izzy Hirst in 1936 and is still owned by the Hirst estate. Manager Jess Myers, who came to the theatre in 1938, recalls that the house was built by Tom Miner (of Miner's Bowery fame) sometime around the turn of the century.

Legit and vaude once graced the small theatre but the Empire has been more profitable as a "palace-of-peel." Business was good last season, Myers said, and it looks favorable for the coming months. "But our trade," he emphasized, "obviously depends upon healthy economic conditions in this area and if a slump materializes we would feel it."

City fathers have been liberally inclined toward burley in the past, but last winter a stripper at the Empire was arrested on charges of giving an indescent performance. She later was acquitted. Following this incident municipal authorities attempted a policy of rigid censorship designed to apply not only to burlesque but all forms of entertainment.

Relaxed Censorship

Fortunately for burley fans the censorship move was ruled unconstitutional by a Superior Court justice. Meantime, however, the situation is status quo as the show goes on and the city appeals.

Empire's opening bill which stars Peaches ("Queen of Syncopation") and Sabrina ("Toast of the Coast"), adheres to the time honored format of plenty of sex with little left to the imagination. Peaches' routine is an improved version of Carrie Finnell's classic movements. Sabrina, a willowy blonde, is more than fair in her derriere muscle control. Oddly enough, top applause of the evening went to the ballroom team of Ellis & Winters (New Acts) who are spotted in a couple production numbers.

Comedians cast in this Hirst wheel show are Harry Savoy, Earl Van and Harry White. Their scenes are adequate as stage waits between the "specialties" of Peaches, Sabrina, Barbara Sheridan and Josephine Day. The Bob Hale Dancers, comprising eight ponies, were considerably ragged at show caught Friday (24). There are only three showgirls, one of

(Continued on page 50)

HUB NITERIES SQUAWK VS. TRAFFIC SQUEEZE

Boston, Aug. 28.

A committee of Boston nitery and restaurant owners called this week for repeal of the tow law, which they claim has cut their night biz from 15% to 50%. Atty. Alfred A. Albert, counsel for the Committee to Abolish the Auto Towing Law, said the situation not only has hurt business by discouraging people from coming into the city, but is also a "serious problem of constitutionality."

Niteries reported that patrons are loathe to run the risk of having their cars towed away and paying a $7.50 fee for reclaiming. Seven clubs and two attorneys attended the committee's first session at the Parker House. Cars have been towed away to garages since early spring when Mayor John B. Hynes said cars in "no parking" areas would be towed away without warning.

Hub's downtown parking problem has been a thorn in the side of night spots. Much biz has been lost to clubs out of town and on highways which have parking facilities and where patrons are in no danger of having their cars towed away while they are celebrating.

Outdoor Show Goes On Despite Thunderstorms

Ottawa, Aug. 28.

Although three heavy downpours of rain, one of them a thunderstorm, belted the open-air, uncovered stage on which it was produced, not a single show nor a single act was skipped by the GAC-Hamid "International Follies" at the Central Canada Exhibition grandstand. The show went on every night of its six-night schedule. On the wet nights, some performers got soaked, others wore raincoats.

They got ovations from the capacity crowds and kudos from the fair management who called them "the greatest bunch of troupers we've ever had."

'Miss America' As Big Blowoff To A. C. Season

Atlantic City, Aug. 28.

The annual Miss America Pageant will again climax the season here as it gets underway with an illuminated boardwalk parade next Tuesday (4). "Ice Capades" vacates big Convention Hall Sunday night (2) to make room for the big attraction of the season, expected to draw crowds of from 6,000 to 8,000 during eliminations Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, with 15,000 on hand for the finals Saturday.

The Saturday night finals again will be televised over the ABC web. Miss America of 1947, Barbara Jo Walker Hummel of Memphis, and Peter Donald will share the commentary. Philco, for the third time, will be the sponsor.

Bert Parks, who scored here for the initial time last year, will again emcee the big event. Added attraction is the 60-voice Naval Aviation Cadet Choir, of Pensacola, Fla.

Girls have sights on $30,800 in Miss America scholarships, each one to get some part of this purse. Miss America elect gets $5,000, her first runner-up $3,000; second runner-up $2,500, and the next two finalists $2,000. There are $1,000 prizes for the next five semi-finalists. Six $1,000 scholarships go to non-finalists exhibiting the most outstanding talents in other fields. The 33 non-finalists will get $100 cash, all money coming from the Miss America Scholarship Foundation.

New in in the panel of judges this year is Dave Garroway of the NBC web, and Ted Mack, of ABC. Showtune writers Hugh Martin and Ralph Blaine are also on the panel with Raoul Walsh, film director, and others.

CONNIE MOORE'S 5TH RETURN TO ST. REGIS

Connie Moore will open the new season at New York's St. Regis Maisonette Sept. 6. This will mark her fifth engagement at the room.

Opening night dinner tab has been set at $12 per person. Thereafter the dinner minimum will be $5.50. Cover charge for the room will be $1.50 during the week and $2.50 on Saturdays. The Milt Shaw and Ray Bari orchs, who played the St. Regis Roof during the summer, move back into the Maisonette for the fall and winter season.

Dave King to London

Blackpool, Eng., Aug. 21.

"The Dave King Show," currently playing to vacationers at the Winter Gardens, Pavilion, will transfer to the Hippodrome, London, in late October. Show is presented by George & Alfred Black, who have two other holiday revues here.

Star is Dave King, recording artist and comedian, who has had recent boom via tv and disks.

Miami's Coconut Grove Shaping Name Policy

Miami, Aug. 28.

Coconut Grove Playhouse, which is currently getting a completely new facelift with enlarged stage, tropical trees, etc., is shaping up a name entertainment policy which will bow Nov. 12. George S. Engle, spot's head, is going to New York later this week to line up the talent. Spot is planning to operate the year around.

The Playhouse has a dining room and cocktail lounge and a supper club, with a 300-customer capacity, is being added on the second floor.

Boston Putting Bite on Cafe Biz

Boston, Aug. 28.

Mayor John B. Hynes has requested a new license fee sked for entertainment that will bring an additional $230,000 in city revenue. Night spots face big increases, under which the city could net another $70,000.

Under the new proposal, which has to be passed by the City Council, every licensed establishment in the city using a radio, tv set or jukebox for the entertainment of customers, would have to pay $50 for a license. A license for any other type of entertainment would cost $100. An entertainment license now costs only $5 and hotels and restaurants are exempt from paying the $5 fee.

The current charge for a food license is $15. The proposed increase would add an additional $15 fee. Hardest hit would be the city's larger niteries. Blinstrub's, with a seating capacity of 1,700, would have to pay $525 for the same food license now costing only $15.

On top of these hikes the licensing board is also planning to jump 1,200 liquor licensces $100 each.

Dominicans May Extend World's Fair Beyond 31st

Ottawa, Aug. 28.

Bernard (Bucky) Allen, concession manager of World of Mirth midway which closed Sal. (25) its annual week at the Central Canada Exhibition, and who is also g.m. of the "Fun Zone" at the World's Fair for Peace & Progress in the Dominican Republic, believes there's a chance that Dominican fair may extend its closing date beyond the scheduled Aug. 31. Allen also expects the fair's "Fun Zone" may become a permanent fixture in the city of Ciudad Trujillo, site of the fair.

World of Mirth went to the Dominican Republic last November at the close of its season, shipping from Savannah, Ga., to Ciudad Trujillo, probably the farthest afield any railroad carny has gone. Bergin took 10 shows and 35 rides to the island and before returning for its North American seasonal opening in mid-way, sold 10 of the rides to the fair through a Dominican official, Generalissimo Rafael J. Trujillo, a former president of the republic. Allen, who is still the "Fun Zone" g.m. and has been back to oversee operations several times this year, said the fair was organized to draw world attention to the little nation and attract tourist trade. Key midway men from World of Mirth remained there to supervise the show. World of Mirth replaced the equipment when it returned to the U. S., and sent back equipment to replace the rides it removed from the Dominican Republic when it left.

World of Mirth became known there as "Coney Island" because those were the only English words connected with carny the natives knew.

MARTINO EXTENDS TOUR

London, Aug. 28.

Al Martino's variety tour of Britain has been extended for a further two weeks at Edinburgh and Leeds.

Last week he played Finsbury Park Empire—his only scheduled London date, and will also be appearing in Newcastle, Glasgow, Liverpool and Manchester.

State Fair Season Opening In High With Disk & TV Names, Icers, Rodeos

Cops Not Depraved So Judge Okays Stripper

Montreal, Aug. 28.

Morality cops' testimony is unacceptable as evidence of a performance's "indecency," ruled Judge Pascal Lachapelle here. He acquitted Jane Harris, a Detroiter doing exotic dances at Vic's Cafe, of an "indecency" charge at the Plaza Hotel. Both cops who arrested her had admitted they hadn't been "depraved" by her performance, one adding that he was used to it in his work.

"I can't be broad-minded or narrow-minded," said the judge, who had taken a month to study previous cases, notably that of Lili St. Cyr. Latter was acquitted of a similar charge here a few years ago, after both cops and women from the audience testified in her favor.

Miss Harris admitted she had danced in a "sexy and alluring" way and had done shakes, but denied doing bumps or grinds. She also maintained she had ended her act clad in waist-length hose, two pairs of pantics and two bras, one diamond-studded.

Pa. Liquor Board Hits Strip Spots In Philly Sweep

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.

A flock of Liquor Control Board agents were brought in to pass upon "girlie" shows in the local spots, and a total of 32 cafes were cited in the renewal of the crackdown. It is an open secret by now that the LCB frowns upon the flesh acts now being put on in more than a score of Philly spots. For most of these places it marked the second and third time within the last two years that the board has left calling cards.

Drive was spearheaded by Walter Wilson, Philadelphia area enforcement officer. Strips, exotics and "fabulous femmes" are the main entertainment course locally at the moment. Most of the citations were handed out for indecent shows and mixing.

Attempts by the cafes to get some ruling from the board as to just how far they can go and what and what is not prohibited have met repeated failures. The Board replies that it is not a censoring body; but this evasion leaves the cafes at the mercy of the individual agent.

Strips are headache to the rank-and-file entrepreneur; but unless everyone is forced to scuttle flesh entertainment an operator is signing his closing notice by attempting to operate without femme talent. The assignment of keeping dancers away from the bar in between stage turns is not an operator's duty, the saloon men feel.

Cafes are getting a break from the local gendarmes who have announced a plan to prosecute minors who make a practice of deliberately misrepresenting their age and using false age credentials. Cops and agents also agreed in future to take into account the reputation of a licensee before taking action on sales to minors. This is being done to avoid harmful raids on places that are generally law-abiding, but have been victimized by unscrupulous minors.

'Riverboat Follies' Hits Omaha Clinker

Omaha, Aug. 28.

"Riverboat Follies," a unit framed chiefly for Louisiana bookings, failed to score in a one-night stand at Playland Park here last Tuesday (21). Turnout of not quite 400 produced a gross of $250, much short of playland owner Abe Slusky's guarantee.

Revue included Johnny (Crazy Otto) Maddox, Candy Candido, Gillette & Richards, the Denvers, Phil Maraquin, Miriam Sage Dancers and Buddy Moreno's orch.

Louisville, Aug. 28.

Gene Autry and Annie Oakley, starred in "World Championship Rodeo," the "Ice Capades International," and "Big Top" circus are among the top attractions to appear at the Kentucky State Fair, Sept. 7-15. "Icecapades" will have three matinees and three nights, at $3 top; Autry rodeo will show Sept. 13-14, afternoon and night, at prices scaled $2 down. "Big Top" circus will play Sept. 7-8, at $1.50 and $1 scale, children under 12 in general admish section 50c. In addition to these, Barnes & Carruthers State Fair Revue is set for Sept. 10-12 at $1.60 and $1 scale, and Cochran's Majorettes and fireworks, Sept. 9 at 50c admish.

Horse Show is set for Sept 10-15, with afternoon and night performances. Pro football game between Philadelphia Eagles-Baltimore Colts, is skedded Sept. 9 afternoon, scale $3 and $2.50. Trans-World Auto Thrill Show is set for Sept. 15, matinees and night, scale $1.50 and $1. Touted as Kentucky's biggest show, in the new Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center, built at a cost of some $1,000,000, and as yet not completely finished, upcoming State Fair is expected to break attendance records.

'Buffalo Bill Jr.' Clicks In St. Loo

St. Louis, Aug. 28.

Dick Jones, star of the Buffalo Bill Jr. tv series, and his company are moving to the Fair Grounds, in Detroit, for the Michigan State Fair, which gets underway Friday (31). While here at the Oakland Stadium with the six-day Tom Packs-Tommy Steiner RCA rodeo, which closed Sunday (26), Jones and his troupe broke in a new act. It features some fast riding and shooting, interwoven with Western vocalizing.

On Friday (24), the 14,000-seat stadium was jammed to capacity, with standecs around the fences and in the aisles. The show started off with a big advance sale. The Oakland Stadium will be torn down around Oct. 1 to make way for the new Falstaff Brewery Building.

Michigan Fair

Detroit, Aug. 28.

Jaye P. Morgan, Julius LaRosa, Don Cherry and the McGuire Sisters will star in the Coliseum show at the 107th annual Michigan State Fair beginning Friday (31) and running through Sept. 9.

Miss Morgan, Cherry, The Gaylords, The Platters, The Blockbusters, The Krackerjacks, The Four Step Brothers, Bud and Cece Robinson and Roy Tracey, emcee, will appear Friday through Sept. 3.

Admission price to the 6,400-seat Coliseum will be the same as last year: $1.50 for adults and 50c

(Continued on page 51)

AGVA HASSLE FORCES ACT KO IN ST. LOO HT.

St. Louis, Aug. 28.

A hassel between Harold Koplar manager of the Chase Hotel Club, and American Guild of Variety Artists over the contribution from the hotel to the union's welfare fund last week resulted in the cancellation of entertainment in the club's Star Light Roof and Zodiac Room.

Koplar said the row halted the appearance of Enzo Stuarti, a singer, and George Hopkins, a comic. Koplar said the Chase Hotel has contracts with these performers which do not call for the payment of welfare benefits. Hopkins said he did not perform because he was informed the dispute has resulted in the spot being put on the union's "unfair list."

As the row did not affect musicians, Alfredito and his orch were brought in as well as Vernon, a mindreader.

Tony Martin Sets 4th London Palladium Date

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Tony Martin, now in London co-starring in "Jeannie" with Vera-Ellen for Allied Artists, is set for his fourth London Palladium date, starting in March.

Film finishes November and he'll return home for holidays to prep act.

Vaude, Cafe Dates

New York

Somethin' Smith & The Redheads, now at Desert Inn, Las Vegas, for two weeks, follow with two stanzas at Safari Club in New Orleans . . . Lillian Roth opens at the Statler Hotel, L. A., for three weeks starting tomorrow (Thurs.) . . . Dolores Hawkins does the Food Fair at Troy, O., Sept. 14-16 and opens at the Metropole, Windsor, Ont., Sept. 17 for one week . . . Johnny Desmond into the Thunderbird, Las Vegas, for two weeks, his third stand there . . . The Treniers, currently at Lake Tahoe, into the New Frontier for four weeks . . . Helen O'Connell at the Casino Royal, Washington, D.C., Sept. 3 . . . Tana Velia into the 500 Club, Atlantic City, Sept. 3.

Hollywood

Charley Bollar, operator of the Castle Restaurant, in Las Vegas scouting talent . . . George Shearing opens at Sardi's Nov. 27 . . . Morty Jacobs trio signed by Hans Orton for a four week stand at Villa Frascati . . . Patti Moore and Ben Lessy opened 10-day stand at the Crescendo Friday (24) . . . Dinah Washington headlines with Little Richard at the 12th Cavalcade of Jazz to be staged at Wrigley Field, Sept. 2 . . . Tony Vincent opened a Latin dance studio at the California Racquet Club.

San Francisco

Dagmar stepped into breach when Abbott & Costello and The Village, Frisco, parted company a week early "by mutual consent." Also billed was Guy Cherney, who is new nightspot's entertainment co-ordinator . . . Nightclubs not helped much by GOP convention in Frisco, except possibly Bimbo's 365 Club, which played to nearly full houses consistently . . . Max Weiss, half-owner of Fantasy Records, has purchased the Tin Angel club from Peggy Tolk-Watkins, operating with Turk Murphy's band and singer Barbara Dane . . . Enrico Banducci's hungry i has signed singer Julie Tait, who'll move over from Purple Onion next month.

Atlanta

Gypsy Room debuted a new show last week headed up by exotic dancer Cookie Cooper, who shares top billing with Jimmy Farrell.

Millie Mingo, exoticker, joins Darlyn, another terper, at the Clovis Club . . . Singer Larry Martin, who works in plenty of audience participation stuff, headlines new show at Henry Grady Hotel's Paradise Room. Margo Wade, dance stylist, and Jimmy Garner & Yvone, trampolinists, round out the bill, Erv Hinkle band plays for show and dancing while Jim Scott duo plays in Dogwood Lounge . . . Freddie Martel is heard nightly at the Biltmore Hotel's Starlit Terrace, with Wade Creager band . . . Pianist Bob Bellows is current at the Howell House's Zebra Lounge . . . Paco Isla mambo combo continue at El Morocco . . . Organist Adrienne featured at Piedmont Hotel's Terrace Lounge.

Omaha

Jim McGowan, comic, continues at the Westward-Ho, Jr. . . . Gene Autry and Annie Oakley heading up talent for Ak-Sar-Ben's World Championship Rodeo here Sept. 21-30. . . . Paul Moorhead orch remains at Paxton Hotel.

Saranac Lake

By Happy Benway

Alonzo Fisk, whose wife is connected with the N.Y. office of the Warner Bros., registered in for the general o.o. and rest period.

Amelia McDonough, cashier at Amherst Theatre, Mass., left for home after a year of Will Rogers hospital care.

Ernie Stautner, star member of the Pittsburgh Steelers football team for the past seven years, is a member of our downtown actors colony and also co-owner of the Sara-Placid Drive-In theatre.

Among those who were recently upped for their meals in our main messhall are Ann Morsch, Marion McLaughlin, George Wellstead and John Siems. All rate top O.K.'s on the good side of the good health ledger.

R. P. Huntington, secretary-treasurer of the Resort Cable T.V. Co., got permission from the Saranac Lake Village Board to set up cables from an antenna site that will give the local set owners five new channels of reception. At the present time only clear channels here are from Montreal, Syracuse and Plattsburg.

Jessie Destin, of Flushing, N.Y. was handed a get-well birthday party on her 79th. She is the mother of Jessie Nedsor, staffer in the N.Y. office of United Artists.

Write to those who are ill.

Wrong Chandu?

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 20.

Editor, VARIETY:

It was with great distress that I read the news item on page 58 in your Aug. 15 issue re "Chandu's Toledo Rap."

For the past 40 years I have enjoyed name and title of "Chandu the Magician," as has my father before me.

Naturally I am deeply concerned with the possibility that my past and present and the future friends whom I have enjoyed and am enjoying may confuse your news item with me.

Please rectify this most distressing situation in the best manner that you can.

Karol Y. Michalski, (Chandu the Magician).

Here's How 'Variety' Appraised Peaches' Act; a Freak But B.O.

Memories of the "flapper" era, bathtub gin and raccoon coats were stirred last week when Frances Heenan (Peaches) Browning died Thursday (23) after a fall in the bathroom of her New York apartment. For Peaches, whose roaring Twenties romance with realty tycoon Edward W. (Daddy) Browning was crackling copy for tabloid readers of yesteryear, more or less epitomized a bygone "flaming youth" decade.

Peaches, then a 15-year-old schoolgirl, wed Browning, 36 years her senior, on April 10, 1926, in Cold Spring, N. Y., after a colorful courtship marked with lurid publicity and intervention of the Children's Society. It was a shortlived union for the child bride won a separation six months later in a spirited courtroom case that was well covered by the press.

Almost a household word, Peaches turned to show biz to launch a career as a "freak" attraction in vaude, burlesque and ballrooms. Critics called her "the most gagged about woman in the world; most discussed woman in the last decade. More than Eve, more than Cleopatra, even more than Aimee MacPherson. The butt of every professional and amateur wisecracker at one time . . . That's why she's in show business for a limited period."

In appraising her values at Chicago's Rainbo Garden in April, 1927, VARIETY's Loop flatly declared that Peaches is nil as a performer. But warming to his subject the reviewer added "she's pretty of face—not too pretty, just pretty enough. However, there are many in choruses who can trim her high, low jack and the game on that, too."

"Peaches probably can't sing, for she doesn't try. She doesn't tell jokes, of course. She dances. Twice nightly she does a waltz with a partner. Peaches is only 16, just out of school, so they say. She no doubt danced with her schoolmates." It is also certain that, as a professional dancer, she dances not an iota differently than she did before she ever heard of Browning. To again bring in comparison, nine out of 10 women who witnessed her opening performance could waltz her under the sink.

"A preceding speech by a member of the show was foolish. He attempted to eulogize Peaches to the extreme. The patrons razzed it and plenty. She's a freak and a 'natural' at one time. She is a freak because she can't perform and a natural because she is Peaches Browning.

"Her salary at the Rainbo Gardens is $2,000 of which she gets $1,750. She packed a place that had not seen a profitable evening all season until she arrived, and a neighborhood place at that. Peaches should grab all available dates fast for the curiosity to see her in the flesh will soon cool."

While public interest eventually did cool, Peaches flourished both financially and romantically. Following Browning's death in 1934 she received a reported $170,000 settlement from his estate. Her second husband was theatre manager Bernard J. Hynes whom she wed in 1935. Later there were two other unions but all ended in divorce. She was 46 at the time of her death and was known as Mrs. Ralph Willson. An autopsy report listed her death as due to brain hemorrhage, cerebral compression and liver failure.

Inside Stuff—Vaudeville

The Stage, weekly British tradesheet, gives improved service in its latest Year Book, a 264-page tome published by Carson & Comerford Ltd. at $1.28. Among the innovations are forms of contract laying down conditions of work between management and personnel in the theatre, vaude and tv; agents and other execs are listed in a comprehensive directory.

Standing features include production and cast lists, names and professional organizations and data on opera-ballet.

Nevada May Limit Vegas Sports

Continued from page 1

Hacienda Hotel. The Hacienda was again turned down by a 2 to 1 vote. Cahill and Board Member Bill Sinott argued that the Hacienda application was founded on a "too hasty" plan blueprinted since the board last month denied gambler Jake Kozloff's entrance into the resort's proposed operation.

Auditor member Newell Hancock unsuccessfully sought approval for the Hacienda license, provided the board decided that gambler Carl Myer, whom the Hacienda intends to hire as casino manager, satisfactory. Myer is a veteran of the scene and recently vacated as a greenfelt officer of the Fremont Hotel to undertake the Hacienda stake.

In its impromptu, but nevertheless long overdue verbal exploration of the Las Vegas economic structure, the board took in various facets of the industry that couples gambling and show business.

Cahill described the Hacienda application—and those expected from at least two other hotels currently under construction on the Vegas Strip—as the springboard to "a much bigger problem and it's time we face it." Cahill declared "we (the board) must decide whether we are going to face the (economic) consideration and apply it in our judgment in granting (future) licenses."

Cahill said he doesn't believe Las Vegas is "in an economic crisis or near a crash point. But when there are too many grocery stores, competition takes care of itself. When there are too many gambling houses a lot of things detrimental to the public can develop."

Sinott questioned whether the withholding of a license would help the matter, although he added "Las Vegas is either already in trouble or heading for it." Sinott declared that "if the present licensees wish to continue their jungle warfare without making adjustments for new people coming in, that's their problem and a lot of them will fall before it is straightened out."

Sinott explained that by "jungle warfare" he meant the competition which sees several Vegas hostelries outbidding each other for entertainers, resulting in each of the major spas spending $2,000,000 or more per annum. Hancock said there is no question that Las Vegas has reached a leveling off period, but added that the opening of one or more new highpowered operations might breed an ill effect.

The Tropicanna and the Stardust are those partially completed. The Tropicanna application came up Thursday but the board deferred it because its probe of the resort's partners is not complete. The Stardust is bogged down in litigation growing out of a wrangle among its stockholders.

Burleycues

Continued from page 49

whom (Diane Reynolds) doubles amateurishly as a stripper. Jack Bruno is okay as the production singer while Joseph Lafferty's small pit crew backs the show nicely.

Competition around the corner at Harold Minsky's "stock" bailiwick is headed by "Sequin," alias "(Miss Bikini of 1955" and "Beauty to the Fourth Dimension" (whatever that is). Reportedly it's her last strip in burley for next month she's slated to break in a nitery routine at Chicago's Black Orchid under her true name of Geraldine Garner. Minsky, incidentally, is starting his fourth year at the Adams.

Considerably longer in the field is the Hudson in Union City which has been a showcase of traveling shows for years. Currently on view is Ann ("Bang Bang") Arbor. House, just across the river from midtown New York, has somewhat of a geographic competitive advantage over the Empire and Minsky's. All three theatres advertise in New York papers and "assume" a good percentage of their biz stems from Gotham.

•

"ICE SHOW PRODUCERS"

INDOOR ICE RINK TIME AVAILABLE

•

OXFORD ICE RINK
Bronx, New York
Call CY 2-0770

COMEDY MATERIAL
For All Branches of Theatricals
FUN-MASTER
THE ORIGINAL SHOW-BIZ GAG FILE
(The Service of the STARS)
First 13 Files $7.00—All 35 issues $25
Singly; $1.05 per script.
• 3 Bks. PARODIES, per book $10 •
• MINSTREL BUDGET $25 •
• 4 BLACKOUT BKS., ea. bk. $25 •
• BLUE BOOK (Gags for Stags) $50 •
HOW TO MASTER THE CEREMONIES $3.00
GIANT CLASSIFIED ENCYCLOPEDIA OF GAGS, $300. Worth over a thousand
No C.O.D.'s
BILLY GLASON
200 W. 54th St., New York 19—Dept. V
Circle 7-1130
We Teach EMCEEING and COMEDY

RAY ROMAINE and CLAIRE
"Delightfully Different"
Now Appearing
DORCHESTER HOTEL
London, England
Paris, Stockholm, Oslo and Belgium to Follow
Direction
LEW AND LESLIE GRADE

I take this occasion to express my gratitude for the continuing confidence placed in me by my customers and friends in show business.

JESSE BLOCK
Registered Representative
IRA HAUPT & CO.
Investment Brokers
501 7th Ave., New York 18, N. Y.
LOongacre 5-6262

Latest ABC-PAR Record
Chigger Chigger Wa Wa b/w Remember When
CAB CALLOWAY
Currently
FACK'S II
San Francisco, Calif.
Mgt. BILL MITTLER, 1619 Broadway, New York

"THE COMEDIAN"
The Only Real Monthly PROFESSIONAL GAG SERVICE
THE LATEST! THE GREATEST! THE MOST-UP-TO-DATEST!
Now in its 73rd Issue, containing stories, one-liners, poemettes, song titles, hecklers, audience stuff, monologs, parodies, double gags, bits, ideas, intros, impressions and impersonations, political, interruptions, Thoughts of the Day, Humorous Views of the News, etc. Start with current issue, $15 yearly — 2 years $28 — 3 years $40 — NO C.O.D.'s.
BILLY GLASON
200 W. 54 St., New York 19

NICK LUCAS
Opening
Aug. 31 thru Sept. 13
PARK LANE HOTEL
DENVER, COLO.

"GAY NINETIES TROUBADOUR"
The Life Story of
JOE HOWARD
"I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now"
POCKET EDITION
$1.00
Write: JOE HOWARD
1685 Lenox Ave.,
Miami Beach, Fla.

HARBERS
HELD OVER
VILLA ROSA
MADRID, SPAIN and DALE

WHEN IN BOSTON
It's the
HOTEL AVERY
The Home of Show Folk
Avery & Washington Sts.
Radio in Every Room

WANTED
Top material sketches and comedy songs for late fall Broadway production of "Love Is King," a new musical revue. Reply to:—ROSS
POST OFFICE BOX 321
NEW YORK 19, N. Y.

FLAGPOLE SITTER
for two weeks in north Jersey.
Must have own equipment.
Call or write:
MR. GOLD
663 Maywood Ave., Maywood, N. J.
HUbbard 7-5020

Unit Reviews

Canadiana, '56
(Canadian National Exhibition)
Toronto, Aug. 24.

Jack Arthur production, with (Mr. Pastry) Hearne, Jean Wetzel, Nirska, Stuart Morgan Dancers, Three Deuces, Alan & Blanche Lund, Fred Barber, Bobby Winters, Three Merkys, Gaudsmith Bros., The Canadettes (78), choral ensemble (30), orchestra (60) under direction of Howard Cable; settings, John C. Ray; costumes, Stuart MacKay; choreography, Midge Arthur, Alan & Blanche Lund; music and lyrics, Howard Cable, Stanley Daniels, Richard Nethercott, Raleigh Borell; staging, John Maddison; lighting, William Dale. At the Canadian National Exhibition Grandstand, Toronto; opened Aug. 24, '56; $3.50 top.

Saturday (25) saw the 24,000-seater grandstand at the Canadian National Exhibition sold out—with every chair available installed for an extra 2,000 people (at $3.50 top) for the biggest day's cash business in the 78 years' history of the annual Expo. It was five years ago that Jack Arthur took over the entertainment angle of this gigantic stage with its over 500 performers and a $400,000 budget for the fortnight's production. (Last year, the C.N.E. grandstand show grossed some $560,000 for the two weeks.)

The dress rehearsal, confined to some 600 invitations, was rained out and had to be cancelled and hence the opening performance (24) ran an hour overboard, commencing at 8:00 p.m. and through to an 11:30 finale. Obviously, this will require ruthless pruning on Arthur's part to cut an hour on running time.

Only commendable fault is that, with his talent lineup and his big production numbers, he has too much of a good thing. The fact that he has to work in precision drills of Canada's armed services is a time-waster but it seems that the patriotic flag-waving, is what the tax-paying citizens want to see.

The revived musical ride of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police incorporated in the grandstand show, is a throat-tightening spectacle that American visitors are coming from miles to see. This is co-ordination of horse and man for intricate convolutions brought to the utmost degree of training perfection and precision and something which cannot conceivably be cut.

Though he was handed $400,000 to play with, which is important money for a musical that can only be allowed to run here for a fortnight (no Sunday performances) and then be dismantled, Arthur believed that the possible name-draws of the past had been seen too often in their own television shows or as guestars. This time, he went after comparative unknowns to video—and it has paid off. The possible exception might by Dick (Mr. Pastry) Hearne.

Arthur's forte is his manipulation of some 500 performers on seven stage levels with 500-foot frontage to a depth of 150 feet, with 60-foot high set backdrops. The visual effect, complete with movement, is secured in three big production numbers, all using the 60 precision Canadettes and, in alternate dance ensembles, their male dancing partners and the 30-voice mixed chorus.

This goes for the opening musical comedy farm scene, complete with International Harvester tractors doing a square dance; the big Indian number — in which much of the budget has been sunk — for its spectacular costuming, a stair number of the precision line (choreography by Midge Arthur), the flanking cascades and an 80-foot waterfall across the stage, and the "burning" of tepees and totem poles.

On a huge, eight-foot diameter drum, Nirska is outstanding for her Thunderbird dance in a swirling, 24-foot wand spread and 350 yards of multi-colored silk. This is an eye-filling spectacle, matched only by the adagio dramatics in this same number by the Stuart Morgan Dancers. For the finale, the 60 Canadettes go up and down the ramps in costumes of feathered Balmorals, yellow tunics, the Buchanan kilt and sporran; the girls backed by the massed pipe bands, in full regimentals and busbies, for the skirling and the broadsword dances, to roaring grandstand applause.

Dickie (Mr. Pastry) Hearne is, standout in his turn. Also clicking are Jean Wetzell, harmonic virtuoso; Alan & Blanche Lund in a waltz number, this leading into "Ballad of the Bubbles," with its mechanical effects; the Three Deuces, vocal group, in a three-number song set; Fred Barber in impressions; Bobby Winters in comedy juggling; the Three Merkys for their contortions and the Gaudsmith Bros. and their performing poodles.

This Arthur production has a terrific theatrical wallop and it looks like there won't be enough seats for the people who want to see it, despite that 24,000-seater grandstand. McStay.

International Follies
(CENTRAL CANADA EXHIBITION)
Ottawa, Aug. 21.

GAC-Hamid production with Joan Fairfax, Will Mahoney, Mariners (4), James Farrar, Margarette Chisholm, Milton Blakely, Flying Marilees (3), Sharkey the Seal, Four Angels, Tokayers (5), Elsa & Waldo, Dancing Darlings (20), Governor General's Foot Guards Band (34), with Alex McCurdy conducting; GAC-Hamid production; Lee Barton Evans, g.m.; Al Youngman, music director; Glen J. Childers, lighting; Gertrude Elliott, wardrobe. At Central Canada Exhibition, Landsdowne Park, Ottawa, Aug. 20 to 25. $2 top.

George Hamid (now in with GAC) has been producing grandstand spectacles for the Central Canada Exhibition for nearly a score of years, and this is the best piece of showmanship he's come up with. The evening spectacle may not be as big, but the show is clicko in quality, production, routining and settings. Canadian television name Joan Fairfax is given top billing, one of CCE's efforts to counterattack the television draw that dropped attendance in recent years, but the pert blond chirper is given comparatively weak handling. On tv, she's okay, but nearly 100 feet from the front row, all that's visible is a blond head and blue gown. Piping is pleasant, too, as she does "Wayward Wind," "Dear Old Donegal," "Never Walk Alone," others, but against a roaring cast that includes Will Mahoney, Mariners and others as strong, Miss Fairfax needs much more than just an audio presentation.

Mahoney is big. He works his stint with the verve of a youngster, tapping on the xylophone, engaging his eyecatching assistant, Margee in a musical boxing bout and spouting gags that have the customers guffawing without letup.

Show's theme has a pair of honeymooners being helped by a travel agent to decide on where to go. Margarette Chisholm and James Farrar, socko-piped pair, are the honeymooners and Milton Blakely, who also emcees, sings and talks the agent role. The three have top-quality voices and use them capably to big impact.

Also in the song slot are the Mariners working in expert harmony. The Mariners get solid customer support with "Street Where You Live," "How Deep Is the Ocean," and a duo of novelties.

Spanish comic terpers, Elsa & Waldo, offer a stanza of yock-making panto that gets them begoffs, femme and male exhibiting top acro and terp ability.

Tokayers have a thrill item in their teeterboard routine. Four Angels, two males and two femmes, add to thrills in an acro-balance session. Flying Marilees, femme and two males, work on high trapeze over a net to the side of the stage for nice mitting.

Sharkey the Seal gives a fine stint under direction of trainer Billy Roe. Dancing Darlings, captained by Arger Lekas, have four standout production numbers, talented line doing a great deal more than just terping and looking pretty. They play xylophones, do acro and tap, following spectacular routines without a hitch.

Show is backed by 25 men of the Governor General's Foot Guards band of Ottawa plus Al Youngman and 10 of Hamid's own tooters. Show closes with 20 minutes of fireworks produced by W. Hand Co.

Opener (20) got capacity, the first time the CCE grandstand show has had turnaways on opening night.

GAC-Hamid-produced afternoon show is slanted to the moppets and also drew more than capacity on first day. Using a circus atmosphere, the daylight performance has Lassie, the tv and picture dog; Superman of video (George Reeves); Angelito, foot juggler; Rudynoff's ballerina horses (on the track on front of the stage); George Wong Troupe, a Chinese novelty act; Pat Anthony's lions and tiger; Joe Phillips and his horse Smokey; Chas. Young and Slim Collins, clowns, and Wild Bill Cody & Co., whip and knife artists. GGFG band under Alex McCurdy also is in the pit for the afternoon stint. Gorm.

Frisco Cops Switch Policy, Raid Burley

Oakland, Calif., Aug. 28.

Oakland police raided the El Rey Burlesque Theatre last week for the first time in nine years and arrested top-billed stripper Evelyn West, 12 other strippers, three comedians and seven other employees.

Specific police charges, variously, were overexposure and participation in an immoral exhibition, and the bail was $800 apiece for the strippers, $300 apiece for the lesser cast members.

Philly's Latin Casino To Shutter For Winter Due To Shortage of Acts

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.

Innovation at the Latin Casino this year will be a midseason layoff that will shutter the club from Dec. 22 until March 15. The flagship of the Philly niterics intends to operate on the principle that there are only two seasons—fall and spring. It has always closed for the summer.

Surprise part of the maneuver is that the 600-seat showplace will be closed New Year's Eve. "One night doesn't make a week's business," Dave Dushoff, Latin Casino's boss, said. He expected the plan would be followed by other clubs throughout the country because of the scarcity of top acts and the Lenten seasonal lull.

"By eliminating both summer and winter we can operate 25 to 30 weeks a year," Dushoff said. "We can book a schedule that will enable us to get rid of acts that don't mean anything in the way of business." The winter shutdown also means freedom from the southern pressure, both in trade and availability of name talent.

The Latin's fall season opens Sept. 20, with Martha Raye as the headliner, and runs continuously through for 13 weeks, with a similar 13-week run skedded to start in mid-March.

Other attractions booked for the fall season include the Four Aces, Oct. 1; Nat (King) Cole, Oct. 19; Harry Belafonte, tentatively set for Nov. 1; Tony Bennett, Nov. 19; Louis Armstrong, Nov. 26; Roberta Sherwood, Dec. 3, and Edye Gorme, Dec. 17.

Bands for Reading Fair

Reading, Pa., Aug. 28.

The Wernersville Firemen's Fair, operating tonight (28) through Monday (3), is picking up name-bands after trying local combos success last year.

Sammy Kaye with his "So You Want to Lead a Band" contest will appear over the weekend. The Glenn Miller orch, directed by Ray McKinley, opens Thursday (30). The Kaye program is tabbed at $1 and the Miller show at 75 cents.

Filling in yesterday (28) was Stony Cooper, Wilma Lee and the Clinch Mountain Gang. Tonight (29), Sally Starr, Philadelphia tv cornball, and Ranger Joe with the Saddle Buddies will hold the stage.

Hawkshaw Hawkins and Jean Shepard of the "Grand Ole Opry" are scheduled for closing night. Miss Idaho of 1955, champion woman yoleler, and Pat Kelly are also listed.

More Disk Names To Play U.K. Vaude

London, Aug. 28.

Guy Mitchell, Vic Damone and the Ames Bros. are due to appear in the forthcoming Prince of Wales vaude season in London. Billy Daniels will headline there for two weeks opening Oct. 8 and will probably be followed by Britain's Dickie Valentine for two weeks from Oct. 22.

Impresario Bernard Delfont is expecting to finalize negotiations for visits by Damone and Mitchell in November and December, while the Ames Bros. have to decide on dates, including a six-week provincial tour. Mel Torme launches the season for two weeks beginning Sept. 10.

Ill. Nitery Wins Round To Get Liquor License

St. Louis, Aug. 28.

Club Prevue, nitery near the Fairmount race track in Illinois, 10 miles from here, last week won another round in its fight to exercise its liquor license, but the squabble will not be concluded until the State Supreme Court issues the final answer. Last week Acting Circuit Judge F. D. Meyer of Madison County ruled that the club to keep its liquor license until the high tribunal makes the final decision. At the hearing before Judge Meyer, Jack Langer, operator of the club, said he would lose $250 a week if the licenses were taken away pending the appeal.

The licenses were ordered revoked after three Granite City, Ill., ministers beefed that Langer "is not a person of good character in this community."

State Fairs

Continued from page 49

for children. Buffalo Bill Jr., with the Texas All State Rodeo will play the Grandstand Friday through Sept. 9.

CCE Attendance Falls

Ottawa, Aug. 28.

A drop of 8,600 in total attendance at this year's Central Canada Exhibition, which closed its annual seven-day run here at midnight last night (28), was blamed on a consistent mid-week rainfall. The 1956 exhibition attracted a total of 423,164 people. Last year the total was 431,797.

For the last three years, CCE has tried its best to reach the 500,000 mark and when this year's fair opened with record-breaking first-day mobs, officials were hopeful that this was the year. Then came the steady rains, Wednesday and Thursday. A big (nearly 80,000) closing day (25) wasn't enough to bring the total up to the 1955 figure.

World of Mirth midway moved on Sun. (26) to the Burlington, Vt., fair, to open there Mon. GAC-Hamid's "International Follies" grandstand show plays Sherbrooke, Que., next after a boffo week in Ottawa. Gate and attendance figures for the stage show were not available, but the grandstand, seating nearly 10,000, was practically capacity every night and nicely filled for the afternoon sessions.

JERRY BERGMAN and MIMI

International Comedy Pantomimists
Currently
VERSAILLES
New York
Thanks, NICK and ARNOLD

VARIETY
Versailles, N. Y.

Bergman & Mimi get the show rolling, with the former demonstrating slick styling in his sleight of hand trickstering. His running bit of dropping colored ping pong balls from his mouth is good for laughs, while his overall performance is personable and pleasing. Jess.

Exclusive Management: GENERAL ARTISTS CORP., Hans Lederer

Recently Concluded
23 WEEKS
at the
CONRAD HILTON
Chicago

Thanks, MERRIEL ABBOTT, for a wonderful engagement

VARIETY BILLS

WEEK OF AUGUST 29

Numerals in connection with bills below indicate opening day of show whether full or split week

Letter in parentheses indicates circuit: (I) Independent; (L) Loew; (M) Moss; (P) Paramount; (R) RKO; (S) Stoll; (T) Tivoli; (W) Warner

NEW YORK CITY

Music Hall (R) 30
Kirby's Ballet
Tamara Manooklan
Kathryn Kelly
Frank Lester
Ted Monson
Angelo Nicelli
Corps de Ballet
Rockettes
Glee Club
George Sawtelle
Elliott Reid
Albert Sturm
Palace (P) 1
H & H King
Cook & Brown
Senor Cortez
Helen Halpin
Rigoletto Bros.
Revelers
Frank Marlowe
Sutton's Bombshells
BROOKLYN
Paramount (P) 29
Alan Freed Co.
Fats Domino Orc
Frankie Lyman Co.
Joe Turner
Cleftones
Penguins
Harp-Tones
Jimmie Carvello Orc
Mable King
Jean Chapel
Al Sears
Jimmy Wright
Fred Mitchell
Panama Francis

AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE
Princess (T) 3
Katherine Dunham Co.
SYDNEY
Tivoli (T) 3
Rayes & Faye
Jack Powell
Billy Banks & Ptnr
Barbour Bros. & Jean
Rih-Aruso
Bill Finch
Lawman & Joy
Barry Ruggss
Robert O'Donnell
Alwyn Leckie
Adele Inge
Lamb & Rahlen
Barbara Howe
Reg Park
Joe Whitehouse
Wim de Jong
Geoff Thorne
Dorothy Rickey
NEWTON
Elizabethan (T) 3
Philip Stainton
Percy Marmont
Noel Howlett
Richard Beynon
Nicolette Bernard
Edward Hepple
Barbara Wyndon
Harvey Adams
Frank Taylor
Mayne Lynton
Osmund Wenban
Victor Lloyd
Nancye Stewart
Stewart Finch
Carole Taylor
NEW ZEALAND
INVERCARGILL
Regent (T) 3
Hite & Stanley
Howell & Radcliffe
Ross & La Pierre
3 Gipsys
Sally's Puppets
Neal & Newton
Laycock & Maureen
Stuffy Bryant
Jenny Howard
Alain Diagora
Leon Cortez
Frank Ward
J McCormack
Daniel Davey

BRITAIN

LONDON
Granada East Ham (I) 27
Ronnie Harris with Denny Wright
Terry Scanlon
King & Day
Susie & Friends
Fred Sloan
Metropolitan (I) 27
Dorothy Squine
Earle & Vaughan
Two Columbus
Peter Raynor
Shan Western Stars
Bill Giles
Martin & Gaye
CHELSEA
Palace (I) 27
Davy Kaye
Dennis Hale
Goulding & Stewart
Geoffrey Lenner
Eddie Ash
Cynthia & Gladys
Joan & Kay Ross
BRIXTON
Empress (M) 27
Jean Raymond
Regoldi Bros.
Tommy Godfrey
Billy Livingstone
Pietro & Giovanni
Ross & Ramaya
Coral Gaye
Lyndons
Terry James
BRISTOL
Hippodrome (M) 27
Mel Torme
Four Grads
Bamberger & Pani
Dernos
Mereaux & Lilliane
Armand Andrieu
De Vel & Partner
McAndrews & Mills
CHISWICK
Empire (M) 27
David Hughes
Maxine Daniels
Joe "Mr. Piano" Henderson
Marie Benson
Bobby Limb
The Delicados
Johnny Dallas
Ron Scott
MANCHESTER
Hippodrome (M) 27
The Hilltoppers
Alan Clive
Len Young
Australian Air Ace
George Durac
The Corvals
Two Boris
McAndrews & Mills
Palace (M) 27
Jimmy Young
Stan Vincent
Jon Pertwee
Joan Turner
Schaller Bros.
Valerie Tandy
Devine & King
Darnora Ballet
George Mitchell
20 Dancing Stars
ASTON
Hippodrome (I) 27
Johnnie Lockwood
Long Sister
Les Kalevs
Dennis Lawes
Jean Campbell
Madrigal & Assist't
Parisienne Debutantes
10 Larry Gordon Folies Girls
Williams & Moore
NORTHAMPTON
New (I) 27
Frank Handle
Billy Rhodes
NORWICH
Hippodrome (I) 27
Roy Lester
Cingalee
Paula Lee
Ron Delta
Heather Jeans
Silvestri
Dick Marta
Chateau Madrid
Helen Aimee
Porcho
Ralph Font
Copacabana
Al Bernie
Four Lads
Bob Voye
Bob Travis
Dorothy Malone
Douglas Clarke
Michael Durso Orc
Frank Stuart Orc
Duplex
McCormick & Huff
Bob Dorough
Ada Moore
No. 1 Fifth Ave
Cedrone & Mitchell
Fla Karin
Ann Jewett
Bob Downey
Harold Fonville
Hot'l H'nry Hudson
Joan Bishop
Hotel Roosevelt
Eddie Lane Orc
Hotel Taft
Vincent Lopez Orc
Hotel St. Regis
Milt Shaw Orc
Ray Bari Orc
Latin Quarter
Betty George
Harmonica Rascals
Szony & Pattl
Trio Bassi
Elleen O'Dare
Jo Lombardi Orc
B Harlowe Orc
Park Sheraton
Alan Logan
Eddie Layton
Versailles
Lou Nelson Voye
Nancy Donovan
Bergman & Mimi
Salvatore Gioe Orc
Panchito Orc
Viennese Lantern
Margarita Sierra
Luc Poret
Ernest Schoen Orc
Harold Sandler
Paul Mann
Village Barn
Frank Matthews
Johnny Gilbert
Vivian Swanson
Larry McMahon
Piute Pete
Harry Ferdel Orc
Irving Harris
Waldorf-Astoria
Los Chavales
Trinl Reyes
Emil Coleman Orc
Mischa Borr Orc
Village Vanguard
C Williams Trio
Maxine Sullivan
Joey Carter

CHICAGO

Black Orchid
Fran Warren
Dave Gardner
Fred McKenzie
Blue Angel
"Calypso Latina"
Zoila D'San
Rafael Ery
Mighty Panther
Betty Lewis
Al D'Lacy Orc
Blue Note
Duke Ellington
Chez Paree
Spike Jones
Helen Grayco
Chez Paree Ad'r'bls
Ted Fio Rito Orc
Cloister Inn
Lurlean Hunter
Pat Moran 4
Dick Marx
Johnny Frigo
Conrad Hilton
"Wonderful Time"
Shirley Linde
Michael Meehan
Neff & Voss
Jan Tors
The Torianis
D Arnold & Marti
Virginia Sellers
John Keston
Boulevar-Dears & Boulevar-Dons
F. Masters Orc
London House
Teddy Wilson 3
Mister Kelly's
Connie Milano 3
Beverly Kenny
Audrey Morris
Palmer House
Harry Belafonte
Charlie Fisk Orc

LOS ANGELES

Ambassador Hotel
Hildegarde
Blackburn Twins
F. Martin Orc
Bar of Music
Elsa Oria
Dick Curtis
Carlos Noble
Ruben Moreno Orc
Biltmore Hotel
Dave Barry
Albins (2)
Alcettys (2)
Kay Cee Jones
Hal Derwin Orc
Ciro-ette Room
Nejla Ates
Skeets Minton
Felix Martinique
Geri Galian Orc
Crescendo
Moore & Lessy
Tony Martinez Orc
Mocambo
Arthur Ellen
Carmen D'Antonio
Carl Carelli Trio
Paul Hebert Orc
Moulin Rouge
Johnny Ray
Slate Bros. (3)
Ffolliott Charlton
Eddie O'Neal Orc
Statler Hotel
Aileen Stanley Jr.
Chop Chop & Charlene
Frederick & Tanya
Eddy Bergman Orc

LAS VEGAS

Desert Inn
Gordon MacRae
Jackie Miles
Sheila Stephens
Donn Arden Dncrs
Carlton Hayes Orc
Dunes
Jazz At Philharmonic
Buddy Rich
Oscar Peterson
Ray Brown
Herb Ellis
Roy Eldridge
Illinois Jacquet
Flip Phillips
El Cortez
Mary Beth Hughes
Bobby Pinkus
Jimmy Brown
Taffy O'Neill
Cirquettes
Sterling Young Orc
El Rancho Vegas
Joe E Lewis
Lili St. Cyr
Rence Molnar Dncrs
Flamingo
Ritz Bros.
Estelita
Hall Bros.
Don Kirk
Mary Menzies
Flamingoettes
Lou Bell Orc
Golden Nugget
Harry Ranch Orc
Poly Possum
Joe Wolverton
Eddie Gomez
New Frontier
Mickey Rooney
Roberta Sherwood
Joey Forman
Dick Winslow
Wilder Bros.
Venus Dancers
Garwood Van Orc
Riviera
Blackouts of '56
Ken Murray
Marie Wilson
Royal Guardsmen
Anthony & Allyn
Martin Bros.
The Shyrettos
Little Buck
Nancy Wynne
Gene Pellicci
Barry Gordon
Riviera Dancers
Ray Sinatra Orc
Sahara
Ames Bros.
Billy DeWolfe
Allan & Ashton
SaHarem Dncrs
Cee Davidson Orc
Sands
Peggy Lee
Sue Carson
Clark Bros.
Copa Girls
Antonio Morelli Orc
Showboat
Joaquin Garay
Marlene
Garr Nelson
Showboat Girls
Mike Werner Orc
Silver Slipper
Fawzia Amir
Haller
Hank Henry
Sparky Kaye
Mac Dennison
Cliff Ferre
J. Cavanaugh
Slippettes
G. Redman Orc
"Haller Girl"
Thunderbird
The Gaylords
Landre & Verna
Ruwe, Louie & Sunshine
Barney Rawlings
Thunderbird Dncrs
Al Jahns Orc

MIAMI-MIAMI BEACH

Bar of Music
Bill Jordan
Gina Valente
Hal Fisher
Beth Challis
Harvey Bell
Fred Thompson
Ciro's
Eden Roc
Joni James
Joyce & Ginger
Mal Malkin Orc
Chuey Reyes Orc
Fontainebleau
June Valli
Henny Youngman
Tun Tun
Sacasas Orc
Isle de Capri
Frankie Scott
Holly Warren
Buddy Lewis Orc
Leon & Eddie's
Can-Can Girls
Flash O'Farrell
Marian Wilkens
Denise
Atoma
Lucerne Hotel
Maxie Rosenbloom
Lucerne Lovelies 6
Elaine Deming
Mel Green
Jacques Donnet Orc
Malayan
Rivero Quintet
Bimini Mama
Pierre Duval
Murray Franklin's
Don Rickles
Bobby Sherwood
Luke Soleen
Peggy Lloyd
Murray Franklin
Cookie Norwood
Nautilus
Johnny Morgan
Nancy Ford
Antone & Ina
Syd Stanley Orc
San Souci Hotel
Pat Henry
Peter Brady
Sammy Walsh
Freddy Cali Orc
Seville
Herkie Styles
Tommy Ryan
Johnny Silvers Orc
Rey Bolero Orc
5 O'Clock
Sharon Knight
Al Golden
Tommy Raft
Parisian Rev
Vagabonds Club
Four Aces
Frank Fontaine
Peterson Dancers
Frank Linale Orc
Woody Woodbury

HAVANA

Sans Souci
Carmen Torres
D'Aida Q
Bergaza & Tarraza
Sonia Calero
Victor Alvarez
Ortega Orc
Nacional
Chiquita & Johnson
Betty Reilly
W. Reyes Orc
Tropicana
Gloria & Rolando
S Suares Orq
A Romeu Orq
Pepe Blondi
Tito Hernandez
Armanda Roblan
Carlos Faxa
Lago Sisters
Rafi Munoz
Montmartre
Lola Beltram
C Playa Orc
Fajarda Orc

RENO

Mardi Gras Lounge
Four Knights
Billy Duke
Mapes Skyroom
Billy Eckstine
Lou Wills Jr.
Skylets
Ed Fitzpatrick Orc
Riverside
Helen Traubel
Starlets
Bill Clifford Orc

LAKE TAHOE

Harrahs Club
Louis Armstrong
Myron Cohen
Bal Tabarin
Mary Kaye 3
Woody Herman
Cal Neva
Mildred Bailey
Cal-Nevettes
Will Osborne Orc

Binford

Continued from page 4

showings on Memphis screens of such Negro stars as Lena Horne and Rochester (Eddie Anderson). He also ruled out all Charlie Chaplin films and those of Ingrid Bergman because he didn't approve of "their personal life and character."

The veteran bluenoser often commented that he didn't personally ban pictures but "just voted along with the board." However, members of the board never made a move in denying exhibition of a film without first getting the nod from Binford. Plays and ballet came under his scrutiny from time to time but his scissorial forte was motion pictures.

Following Binford's withdrawal from the board, Memphis authorities have been much more conciliatory toward Hollywood. Panel has even gone so far as to permit screenings of such once-banned features as David O. Selznick's "Duel in the Sun" and Columbia's "The Wild Ones."

A native of Duckhill, Miss., Binford was the son of Confederate Army Col. James R. Binford. He came to Memphis more than a quarter century ago to head the Columbian Mutual Life Insurance Co. and retired from the business in 1934 after reputedly hitting the $1,000,000 mark. Binford often boasted that he had a card index covering some 137 boys and four girls who are named for him. He also was proud of a Negro school named for him at Duckhill.

Binford, whose first wife died, is survived by his second wife to whom he had been wed for 18 years. Also surviving are three daughters and a son by his first wife.

Festival Catering

Continued from page 7

ing documentaries, of which there are 153) at the festival. There is also a new reading room with papers and magazines from all over for consultation by press. Visiting scriveners also have several beach cabins at their disposal during fete, in between deadlines.

Over 350 accredited correspondents are expected here before the end of the festival, with an additionals large number of "participant" newsmen, mostly from Italian provincial papers, being given a chance to see pix without clogging other news facilities and privileges. Discrimination was made necessary by army of freeloaders which have plagued fest in recent years.

An important innovation of special interest to pic buyers and sellers is availability of two pic houses on the Lido for special outside - festival public or private showings. Two showcasers, the Astra and the Ariston, are reserved for this use from Aug. 26 on, day and night. Use of this facility, including project on fees, etc., is free, with festival footing the bill.

Purpose of this setup is to facilitate tradeshows and/or private inspection of product by potential buyers and importers, previously handicapped (here as at other festivals) by lack of sufficient time and theatres in which to operate. It also leaves the Festival Palace free exclusively for pix in competition, thus separating the "film fair" or business aspects from those of the festival proper. (Showing of out-of-competition pix in Festival Palace in past years had been criticized repeatedly.)

House Reviews

Palace, N. Y.

Antar & Fatima, Carl & Faith Simpson, Derby Wilson, Gene Jimae & Co. (3), Mr. Ballantine, Charmonaires (3), Artie Dann, Elimar, Kal Kirby Orch; "Run for the Sun" (UA), reviewed in VARIETY July 25, '56.

Lotsa familiar faces are on the Palace bill this stanza, virtually all the acts having played the house before and some of them, like Artie Dann, Mr. Ballantine and Derby Wilson, pretty much regulars who make it a few times a year. There's only one New Act, the openers, Antar & Fatima, in the layout.

It's a fast-moving and well balanced bill, with Carl & Faith Simpson, in the deuce, displaying some oke puppeteering, particularly good with the phosphorescent jitterbug team but less so with the earlier skeleton bit. Derby Wilson's in the trey with his pat dance routine, and it's always a crowd pleaser, what with his fine tap work, soft-shoe and Bojangles impression, along with some humorous touches. A real pro, with a real mastery of his art that makes it look easy.

Gene Jimae, the young harmonica artist (he's about 13 now), appears solo and with his father and his mother. Youngster handles the instrument with virtuosity and feeling and does a solid job on "Rhapsody in Blue." Trio work on "Australian Reel" and "Peg O' My Heart" is topflight.

Mr. Ballantine is in one of his less disciplined cycles, but perhaps he's funnier because of departing some more from his traditional routine. The basic elements are still there, and his tricks-that-don't come off are still big crowd-pleasers.

Charmonaires, a femme trio who dress nicely, are trying hard, and have good voices, but they need some good arrangements. They're okay on "Danced All Night" and a boogie-woogie version of "Carmen," but the arrangements don't give them any particular distinction as a trio.

Comic Artie Dann, in next-to-closing, manages to inject enough fresh material into a string of stale jokes and routines to keep 'em laughing, but there's little question that his material needs some overhauling. He works hard, though, and by sheer dint of personality pushes even the old stuff over fairly nicely.

Elimar, in closing, hit something of a case of fumblitis in his slack-wire juggling stint during show caught, but it's still a flashy turn that's effective even when he misses and tops when he's right. Chan.

Empire, Glasgow

Glasgow, Aug. 23.

Jerry Colonna, Bob Bromley's Puppets, Trio Warren, Harry Jacobson, Jean Kennedy, Frank Cook, Ron Scott, Kay & Kimberley, Bobby Dowds Orch.

Another U.S. name, Jerry Colonna, is the draw of a pleasant, lightweight layout. He raises solid yocks from outfronters with his crazy foghorn style and comicking. He's assisted by his 14-year-old son Robert in one bit of cross-talk, in which junior plays up as joke-starved performer learning from dad's experience.

Before exiting at curtain fall to strong palming, Colonna does a ham recital of "Hot Diggity," poking fun at the words, scores with a trombone item "I'd Rather Play Chicago Style," and has the fans with his "Caroline." Also gathers in much applause for comedy rendition of "Let Me Go, Lover."

Comedian's repertoire also features "Ebb Tide," and he invites amusing audience participation with "Sweet Adeline," then winds with "Road to Mandalay." Sam Harding takes a bow at the Ivories in orch pit.

Frank Cook, another U.S. entertainer, links harmonica and guitar in lively rhythmic act, finishing with "12th Street Rag." Harry Jacobson is a polished pianist with new and old tunes, and gets nice reaction with "Tea for Two."

Bob Bromley winds the first part of bill with his puppets, including operatic doll, a Negro hoofer, a concert pianist and a trapezist. This is an entertaining act.

Jean Kennedy, comedienne with broad Glasgow accent, amuses local fans with earthy and rough comedy. Kay & Kimberley are mixed terping openers with routine offering that's overlong.

Ron Scott, a new young singer-comedian, and Trio Warren, with acro comedy, are in New Acts. Gord.

New Acts

PETER BRADY
Songs
25 Mins.
Sans Souci, Miami Beach

Peter Brady is a tall, young and personable songster who just finished serving an apprenticeship at Murray Franklin's late spot, a fave aftershow retreat for show bizites in the area.

The lad handles himself smoothly, albeit there are still some rough spots in overall delivery which should be polished by more work in more conservative cafe surroundings. As is, he shows intelligent handling in the varied assortment of pops and standards he purveys. Vocally, his bary-tenorings are delivered in well rounded tones with a trace of the Billy Daniels school cropping up in change-of-pace growly numbers injected. In due time he'll be a bet for musicomedy and the smarter spots. Lary.

ELLIS & WINTERS
Dancing
11 Mins.
Empire, Newark

Youthful couple specializing in lifts and spins, Ellis & Winters are a promising terp duo who click solidly in a brace of production numbers at this burlesque house.

Most striking feat is a bit in which the femme is rapidly spun about atop her mate's head and shoulders sans use of his hands. Twosome are an attractive pair visually, and with further experience should widen their horizons in vaude and video. Gilb.

RON SCOTT
Comedy
7 Mins.
Empire, Glasgow

Fresh and smiling young Scot, garbed smartly in black-and-white Auld Lang Syne kilt, offers a friendly and appealing songs-and-comedy act.

He doesn't aim at sophistication, but at happy carefree contact with stubholders via tunes and jokes. Gagging is not of any standout character, but stories are delivered in easy style without intensity. Somehow, this clicks with customers attuned to staccato and slicker pace. Strikes standard hoot-mon not in routine style with a lively opening number like "Blue Bells of Broadway," and jokes in song and gag about what a Scot really wears under that kilt, the time-honored crack. Winds by donning bonnet and singing Harry Lauder songs, "Roamin' in Glaamin'" and "End of the Road." Gord.

ANTAR & FATIMA
Acrobatic Dance
4 Mins.
Palace, N. Y.

Antar & Fatima are billed as acrobatic dancers, so why don't they do their acrobatics during more of the act?

Kicked things off with an inaudible soft shoe semi-precision job, then went into a tap number in which they moved their feet around but didn't tap. Midway through this, they started the acro work, the man doing some fine somersaults and cartwheels and the girl dittoing, with the pair winding up with a precisioner. Windup was enough to get them off with a good salvo, but most of the turn was wasted. They've got to throw out or revamp the other stuff and concentrate on integrating their acro ability into their dances throughout the stint. Chan.

TRIO WARREN
Acro Comedy
7 Mins.
Empire, Glasgow

Here is good clean knockabout fun combined with agile acro chores.

Trio comprises two males and one distaffer, latter a looker with vivacity. Males engage in hearty knockabout with legs and arms, and indulge in seesaw jumps, acro leaps and standard tumbling to accompaniment of suitable nautical music, both being garbed sailor-fashion. Gal establishes herself as nifty with tumbling and handturns. Gord.

Cabaret Bills

NEW YORK CITY

Chardas
Anny Kapitanny
Lili
Bela Babai Orc
Tibor Rakossy
Bill Yedla

New Frontier, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Aug. 20.

Mickey Rooney, Roberta Sherwood, The Wilder Bros. (3), Joey Foreman, Dick Winslow, Venus Starlets (17), Garwood Van Orch (14); $2 minimum.

With the names of Mickey Rooney and Roberta Sherwood looming large on the marquee, the New Frontier should have little trouble getting a large share of the getaway that will keep Vegas lively during the current four frames of the waning summer season.

Rooney takes roost again with the sock act he introed last year, whereby he established himself as one of this rialto's regulars. His springboard patter, song and impreshes of w.k. actors gets him off to a swift start and deftly cues the entrance of partners Joey Foreman and Dick Winslow. Alone, Foreman registers solidly with his gambling monolog, offbeat stories and impressions. Together, the Rooney and Foreman hookup evokes howls with Foreman deadpanning the straight lines for Rooney's characterizations.

Strongest of these routines is the tv sequence which points up Rooney's skill in situation comedy. Wrapup finds Rooney, Foreman and Winslow triple-playing for yocks during the diminutive buffoon's "Senator Hawkins" satire on politicos, most certainly a timely enough piece right now. Notably, Rooney more than holds his own amid the press hoopla that underscores Miss Sherwood's Vegas bow.

There's no denying, however, that Miss Sherwood — billed as "extra-added" — packs the weight of the notices that have accompanied her on her meteoric sprint to the upper strata of the saloon firmament. She has captured the Vegas sophisticates and tourists alike. Startling showmanship, to those catching her for the first time, is her entrance—a comedy, bespectacled woman rising from the audience to belt, sans mike, "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing," which, by the way, is the only pop she sings.

Onstage, she lends simple, unaffected dramatics to standard torchants, weaving a nostalgic pattern with "You Don't Have To Be A Baby To Cry," "Gee, But I Hate To Go Home Alone," "Cry Me A River," "It's All Over Now," "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey?" and "You're Nobody 'Til Somebody Loves You." The earthy quality to her voice feeds realism to her lyrics. She uses no vocal gimmicks — just stands up and belts. The tumultous salvos are justifiable. Miss Sherwood's engagement here no doubt will evolve into an important footnote to her success story. Opening night (20), Walter Winchell—one of the authors to the Sherwood story (WW kudoed VARIETY's Lary Solloway as among the earliest "discoverers" of the singer, "the only difference was, I had a radio network") — was on hand to intro Miss Sherwood to the firstnighters. He also brought on Rooney, and in his spiels dramatically retraced the careers of both. To most, Winchell offered keen insight into the role he'll play as host of a tv variety bill this fall.

The Wilder Bros.' very good act has proven successful here in the past. But, unfortunately, they become somewhat lost on this bill which is already time-heavy. Show, since initial pruning, reportedly still runs over usual hour alloted a Vegas dining room by its patron casino. If scissored, the Wilders will suffer greatly, as the act in its present form is tightly knitted and response depends on the zippy pace that mounts as the trio flits through vocal routines to effect solid harmony and comedies.

Venus Starlets revive the torrid pageantry of "Heat Wave" and the aesthetic colorations of Dorothy Dorbin's "Undersea Ballet." Garwood Van Orch tempoes the show superbly throughout. Winslow batons capably for Rooney when not working in the act. Ernest DeLorenzo at the 88s and Red Newmark on guitar mold firm musical footing for Miss Sherwood. Alan.

Mapes Skyroom, Reno

Reno, Aug. 23.

Billy Eckstine, Lou Wills, Jr., Skylets, Eddie Fitzpatrick Orch; $2 minimum.

Billy Eckstine has been working on his act. The debut of this new Eckstine is gradual and not before he's knocked over his usual quota of swooners with "On the Street Where You Live," or a rocking "Poor People of Paris."

Smooth and casual, there can be no argument with the Eckstine approach to his trade. But when he begins to joke with himself and loosen up for a soft shoe, he comes across as a performer to sit back and really enjoy.

The "soft shoe" routine is not really outstanding—it just breaks through that unmoving exterior to reveal a guy enjoying himself.

But the unexpectedly good impressions he comes up with should tip him he can expand a lot further in this direction. Vaughn Monroe and Perry Como are true, but his Satchmo bit is great, and a pretty good trumpet to go with.

Eckstine has filled in the gap which many nitery singers still don't believe is important. It's just not enough anymore to deliver a batch of disclicks and pop tunes.

Lou Wills, Jr. takes his rest periods between strenous dance numbers, making jokes. His Yiddish "Square Dance" still gets appreciation, but his forte is dancing. His acro appears more sensational perhaps because he's dressed only for dancing in his suit, but there's no doubt his "full-twisting butterfly" is a masterpiece of coordination.

The Skylets and Joe Kirtchen lend the production to the show with two routines which mostly keep Kirtchen croning and mingling with the octet.

Eddie Fitzpatrick makes Eckstine's arrangements big. Mark.

Bradford Roof, Boston

Boston, Aug. 22.

Sylvia Syms, Ken Barry, Vincents, Harry DeAngelis Orch (5), Versitones (3); $2.50 minimum.

Sylvia Syms emerges as a solid pop personality in her opening here winning plaudits with her current "English Muffins and Irish Stew" and her other big pop disk, "I Could Have Danced All Night."

She unveils a style that is completely unaffected. She opens with "Who Wants to Fall in Love," does "Taking a Chance on Love" and "Love for Sale" in a jazz vein. She belts for boff returns in the ballads, mixes in some cute patter, ribbing her ample upholstering, and sets the scene nostalgic for "September Song." Miss Syms has a great feel for lyrics and sings words as if they are important to her. She gets boff results.

Ken Barry, comic with a Will Rogerish air, fills the air with double-barreled gags ranging from mother-in-laws to girls, bringing out a table for a comedy magic turn and wraps up with tableful of hat, which he switches on and off in drama using various voices.

The Vincents get off some sultry cha cha cha dances and young dance team brings on customer participants for dance turns. Femme takes the male dancers for jitterbug routines while lad takes femme volunteers for mambo volunteers for mambo stints. Pair do a neat soft shoe, segue into the varsity drag and wrap it up with a hot charleston.

Harry DeAngelis cuts the show with a crisp beat and the Versitones please in the dance interludes. Guy.

Eden Roc, Miami Beach

Miami Beach, Aug. 25.

Joni James, Bobby Joyce & Ginger, Mal Malkin Orch; $3.50-$4.50 minimum.

Joni James was handed the big load to carry in this week's installment of the one-weeker summer series in the Cafe Pompeii. The elimination of the usual comic to help build patron reaction tossed the job into the recording click's lap with result a slow start that, however, wound into a strong second-half segment.

Terpsters Bobby Joyce and Ginger are the teeoffers and churn up a breezy 10 minutes of boy-girl heel - and - toe interchanges and teaming, too brief a warmer upper.

The smartly gowned and coiffed Miss James' tendency to slow tempos in the initial stages of her pops-standards rundown is reflected in tabler's spotty attention. When she hits her platter-plateau however, with the familiars artfully sounded out, she gets them to palming for more. This is her first appearance in a top cafe in this area in several years and at show caught, was obviously tensed up so much so that she almost lost them completely when she interrupted an intro, early in her act, to quiet a ringside group with strongly worded dressing down.

Once she got back to the job at hand, however, Miss James glossed over the incident via hand-mike, round - the - stage routine then launched into the stronger facets of her mixture of ballads and upbeat tempos. End result: several callbacks by the packed room at opening show.

Mal Malkin batons adeptly, per usual, and fills the emcee slot direct style. Lary.

500 Club, A. C.

Atlantic City, Aug. 24.

Frank Sinatra, Joey Bishop, Joan Walker, Boots McKenna Dancers (8), Jack Curtis, Joe Frasetto Orch (12); $6 minimum, $2 admission.

In the resort for four days and 14 shows, Frank Sinatra is doing a land office business for Paul (Skinny) D'Amato's plush 500 Club, the crowds queueing from the club entrance before each show and blocking the wide pavement for half a block as they fight their way through, this despite a weekday minimum and admission of $8 per (plus) U. S. and city taxes, 23% more.

Despite his bad throat, Sinatra puts on a bangup show, singing 14 tunes. In with him is a group of six musicians to back up the Frasetto orch. They include a pianist, cellist, guitarist, and three violinists. Most of his numbers are longtime favorites, some selected from his albums and picked to give him a chance to give the vocal cords the least strain.

Songs like "I Got a Kick Out of You," "I Bought You Violets for Your Furs," "Just One of Those Things," "Funny Valentine," "One More for the Road," "I've Got a Crush On You," "Foggy Day in London Town," "I've Got You Under My Skin," and others are delivered in Sinatra's easy manner, with the punch put in when needed, just to show that he still has it.

It's a program of songs only. No where in his stint does he give his pictures the expected plug.

The crowds which pack this club are not the bobbysox group which gang up wherever Sinatra appears; the price tag bars this.

With Sinatra is Joey Bishop, no stranger here and a guy who makes them sit up and take notice. This comic has scored well before and has lost none of his ability in the year since last season.

Dancer Joan Walker is held over from last week's show. McKenna Girls offer two brightly done production bits with Danny Carroll featured. Walk.

Bal Tabarin, Lake Tahoe

Lake Tahoe, Aug. 24.

Mary Kaye Trio, Woody Herman Orch; $2 minimum.

The Bal, which changed its entertainment policy completely from last season, now has continuous entertainment on a stage bar, which can be viewed from the cocktail lounge, the bar, the fountain and lunch counter, and the dining room. Everything looks on the small stage and several different crowds are taken care of at the same time.

Until now, however, the Bal has been doing only fair business with little known units. In the last month, it has brought in names and its policy is beginning to pay well.

Spelled by a musical group, the Mary Kaye Trio and the Woody Herman combo trade off all night. The intermission between the two assures that at least after viewing both, the room will turnover completely with a new crowd.

Mary Kaye, just finished with a successful stand at the southend of the Lake, upsets precedent around here by doing the same big business at the northend. Brother Norman and Frank Ross supplement her, join her, accent her, and take off on their own in a continuos moving show. Hardly ever quiet, the trio shakes the room with its modern arrangements, striking vocal effects in harmony and blend which always end with a crash. But Mary Kaye and Norman Kaye take a breather occasionally and get just the same enthusiastic response when they croon softly on solo things like her "Tenderly" or his "Ebb Tide." Running through it all, of course, are Ross' maniacal adlibs. Their single and combined effect is always exciting.

Woody Herman, with only eight men including himself, sounds like a rhythm section blow strong, sure going on "Jumpin' At the Woodside," or "Woodchoppers Ball." Four Brass, Woody's clarinet, and a rhythm section blow strang, sure and disciplined, with highly individualistic showing by each man on the team. Herman takes over nostalgically to sing some of his "tired lovers" music, running together "I'll Get By," "World on a String," and the like. Mark.

Chaudiere, Ottawa

Ottawa, Aug. 22.

Cathy Carr, Tun Tun, Zeena Cheevers, Dora Adorables (6), Harry Pozy Orch (8); $1 admission.

Run-through of disclicks by chirper Cathy Carr provides a pleasant session in the Rose Room at the Chaudiere Club. Petite blonde canary looks nice as she warbles her disk tunes including "Ivory Tower," "Heart Hideaway," "Boy On Page 35," others. Her piping has a cute quality that fits her appearance as she does a slow rock-'n'-roll with "Oh Baby", heavy bounce "Sing You Sinners" and up-dated arrangement of "Shimmy Like My Sister Kate," for good returns.

On the menu with Miss Carr is the diminutive Mexican, Tun Tun, in a fast stanza of chant, terps, comedy and antics. Little guy sells the stint on sight novelly but shows quality pipes and collects plenty mitting. Weakest items are his impressions of Sullivan, Eckstine, Sammy Davis Jr., Vaughn Monroe, Nat Cole, others, which need plenty more work for potential impact.

High-stepping Zeena Cheevers offers an acro-terp item with scatterings of okay balance and bend bits, closing with a baton-twirling chore with some acro. The Dora Adorables, best-looking line the Rose Room has booked to date, hold over three flashy routines. Harry Pozy band showbacks capably and plays for dancing. Gorm.

Dunes, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Aug. 23.

Lionel Hampton Band (18), with Curley Hamner, Robert Mosley, The Four Hamptones (4), Maymie Watts; $2 minimum.

Bill Miller's search for a product that might reduce this circuit's overpowering entertainments costs has directed the Dunes impresario to the music biz. The result is that big bands have proven to be surefire enticement to spenders and show shoppers alike. This trend offbeat will maintain its steady course during the current fortnight which has Lionel Hampton commandeering the Arabian Room.

Hampton stresses entertainment via acts as much as he does through a straight band beat, which gives his layout a showy appearance not common to most big bands. This facet alone may well see him become one of Miller's most important steadies. Hampton is a product of the swing era of jazz, a fact which is clearly audible when the maestro downbeats such faves as "Midnight Sun" and "Flying Home" and the now standard "Wine Song" (latter inspired by his several Israel sojourns and subsequent benefits for the UJA).

He does, however, pepper his fleet program with modern idioms, i.e. rock 'n' roll—the staples of chirper Maymie Watts, who gets okay response, and the Four Hamptones who churn up a frenctic r&r bash. Four lads cap their sortie by passing the rhythm around to one another in a comedy try. Robert Mosley tacks ballads and blues to a deep vocal tremor, scoring best with "Cumsi Cumsa" and "Brand New Baby." Curley Hamner fires up his eccentric terping, then joins Hampton for a battle of the skins. This percussion bout never fails to break up the show.

During the band numbers, Hampton is spotted either on drums or vibes. Even after all of these years, he reflects that verve which has brought him recognition as one of the foremost soloists in the business. Windup is Hampton's traditional march through the audience, which on opening night (23) earned him an elongated ovation. Alan.

Gatineau, Ottawa

Ottawa, Aug. 25.

Lou Seiler, Phyllis Marshall, Three Rhythm Kings, Jack Marley, Lindsay-Day Dancers (6), Champ Champagne Orch (8); $1 admission.

Lou Seiler, back in the Gatineau Club for the first time since 1949, has a standout session of comedy. Seiler's routine has an effervescence that the customers buy big. He gives well-produced apings of Pat Rooney, George M. Cohan, Eddie Leonard, with remarkably good terp ability. He sells with a smoothness and dramatic touch that gets big returns.

Three Rhythm Kings do too much singing, which is okay but not solid enough, and too little boofing, their best item. They would have much stronger impact by whittling the song bits and building the stepping to fill more of the stanza.

Hold over is Phyllis Marshall, click Canadian canary, with a pleasant session of chirping for big attention. Also held over are the Lindsay-Day Dancers and singer Jack Morley who emcees and sings with the line.

Champ Champagne band showbacks and plays for dancing. Gorm.

Top's, San Diego

Roberta Linn, Dick Curtis, Bill Green Orch (5); $1 cover.

A refurbished turn plotted by Charles O'Curran may be the ticket to launch Roberta Linn into the upper ranks. The onetime Lawrence Welk "Champagne Lady," a brunette looker, has a nice set of pipes and a lilting personality.

It's now a more sophisticated act than formerly. She starts out wearing a form-fitting pink gown; later, in a modified, discreet striptease bit, she peels to a more gam-revealing costume for "Lullaby of Broadway" and a heart-tug Jolsonish curtain.

Choice of songalog is generally good, with emphasis on an Al Dubin—he's her uncle—medley, including "For You," "Dancing With Tears In My Eyes," "42d Street," "I Only Have Eyes for You," "Shuffle Off to Buffalo"—all sung with infectious verve. Her "Everything Happens to Me," sung a shade too quickly, is a nifty production. Acts include a bit of rock 'n' roll, gently spoofed, and a nicely rendered "Melancholy Baby" with a restraint that wins a hefty palming. Miss Linn has the poise and style to make a big dent in the nitery field.

Comic Dick Curtis has an amusing catchall of topics and an easy manner with a punch line. Some of his best bits concern American courting habits, all recognizable. On debit side, comic should give his material a sharp editing and resolve never to be on too long. Don.

Harrah's, Lake Tahoe

Lake Tahoe, Aug. 24.

Louis Armstrong & All Stars with Velma Middleton, Myron Cohen; $2 minimum.

This fantastic operation, which keeps expanding and bursting at the seams, has the most unique entertainment policy hereabouts. One complete show with two acts before one a.m. which runs three times, and one continuous and completely different show after one.

The entertainment seems almost too big for the size of the room, and the club is already thinking of a bigger room, probably by next season. But the 250 who can get in are treated to some real entertainment like this current bill.

One is the country's leading ambassadors, Louis Armstrong, going through as many handkerchiefs as numbers, charms the crowd immediately with his most imitated rasp and his sharp, rapped-out trumpet notes. Satchmo, does "Mack the Knife" and "Blueberry Hill." Later Velma Middleton, a heavyweight blues singer, rocks (literally) the room with her shouting delivery and Armstrong going her for "Ko Ko Mo."

Myron Cohen opens this show, right from the first second. No orchestra, no line, no nothing—he's just suddenly there and breaking up the place with his quiet delivery of one story after another. Maybe a hand on the hip or an off kilter eye accents a joke, but otherwise it's his stories that could go on all night without getting tired. Mark.

Riverside, Reno

Reno, Aug. 23.

Dorothy Shay, Rowan & Martin, Les Marcellis, Starlets, Bill Clifford Orch; $2 minimum.

Still dealing in the same wares, like "Mr. Sears and Roebuck," "Agnes Cling," and "Feudin', Fussin' and Fightin'," its the rows Dorothy Shay hoes between these corn belts that threads everything together so delightfully.

Beyond the hillbilly hit parade she's been selling for a number of years is a tune of different color called "Back Row Girls." In a sequence of "what I might have been" she tries "Carmen," then some blues singing and a pop singer in broad burlesque, and ends up with some hillbilly tunes.

There's never more than a ripple of laughter through the act in its entirety. It's just relaxed humor that is missed immediately when she leaves.

Rowan & Martin have essentially the same act they've been working at all the time but it has been polished and refined. Dick Martin, a kind of wide-eyed cluck, gives straight man Dan Rowan a continuous bad time in one guise or another. Still the most successful laugh baiter is the Laurence Olivier bit which has Rowan delivering Hamlet while Martin, is the drunk heckler.

The acro-duo, Les Marcellis, combines some elfin cutups with some rather standout tumbling.

The Starlets bring forth their oriental baubles, bangles and barefoot dancing to open the show and do their precision Highland fling before Miss Shay. Mark.

How Not to Run a Showtent

Milwaukee Canvastop Folds After Disastrous 8 Weeks, An Epic of Mismanagement

By GLENDON ALLVINE

Although 20 tent musicals prospered this summer from California to Cape Cod, and three or four others broke even, one canvastop folded last week 20 miles north of Milwaukee. It may be a case history for students of this yeasty new manifestation of legit.

Misfortunes swarmed down on the Melody Circus Theatre in Ozaukee County during June and July. They also inundated Milton S. Padway and his associated afficionados of the living theatre, many of them sponsors of the 346-seat Fred Miller Theatre-in-the-round, which is on a paved street in central Milwaukee and has a roof that doesn't leak.

Despite professional performances of high quality, this Wisconsin enterprise was short-circuited by six basic factors. These were inadequate financing, insufficient time to complete the theatre before opening, poor location, wrong tent (twice), mismanagement and bad weather.

An alfalfa field on a dairy farm 20 miles north of Wisconsin Ave., Milwaukee's main street west from the lake, was the site selected by the promoters for a 2000-seat steel and nylon tent. Let St. John Terrell, the Lambertville (N.J.) founding father of the booming tent industry, carry on with his old canvastops. Wisconsin would show the way to progress and prosperity with "the newest and largest tent theatre in the nation, with the longest steel pipe span ever built, 216 feet without supporting columns."

Cotter As G.M.

Cornelius P. Cotter, for several summers general manager for Terrell, and a winter doctor of philosophy at Stanford U., was installed a week ahead of opening as general manager to bring operating order out of semi-amateur chaos. One word from Cotter, however, and he was overruled by Padway, a bachelor of laws and the greatest pole vaulter the U. of Wisconsin ever had, before he became a lawyer and tent impresario.

On the announced opening night, June 15, the theatre was still a hole in a dusty alfalfa field, with three welded pipe arches tied together with dangling cables, and some turquoise blue vinyl-coated nylon yardage spread over the forage. But since the show was ready and the actors were being paid, the management decided that it would open the following night, a Saturday, with a captive audience in the large dining room of the Milwaukee County Insane Asylum. One sweet old lady in the front row, enthusiastically copied every gesture of conductor Simon Asen as he directed his pianoplayer and the singers in this enchanted evening of "South Pacific."

After this musical therapy, Sunday night was a let-down in the next stand, the sedate dining room of the Protestant Home For the Aged. By Tuesday night nylon hung tentatively from the steel spars and at nine o'clock workmen were placing lights above the arena stage.

Tent Finally Opens

"Tent show is victor in tenth-inning rally," reported the Milwaukee Journal, and added: "It was, in fact, a grand potpourri of musical comedy, Barnum & Bailey and a night when Fred Haney's boys are beating Brooklyn 14 to 0, with a few reminiscences of old Pearl White serials thrown in . . . the grounds were in desperate condition . . . nobody was ready except the actual players."

Opened Tuesday, closed Sunday, and the gallant "South Pacific" troupe was only a memory. "Kiss Me Kate" opened Tuesday, cancelled out Wednesday, as a 50-mile gale ripped the gay new turquoise nylon tent to shreds, and played the week out under the stars and spars to a net take of $4,143.

With the incentive of double pay on Sunday, workmen with acetylene torches cut down all of the steel framing and the poured concrete bases to make room for a rented tent, 80 by 100 feet, too small for enough seats at capacity to meet the weekly nut of around $14,000. In this conventional tent, supported by 31 interior poles, "Annie Get Your Gun," with Buffalo Bill in the rotund flesh of Will Scholz, took in $4,431.

By now professor-on-leave Cotter had been liquidated, and attorney Padway was making all the decisions, while also practicing law. There was no company manager, and only a part-time business manager, who was a soldier from 8 to 5, in Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Oshkosh, or somewhere.

Despite mud and rain and a cancelled performance, business picked up to the season's high of $7,275 with "Student Prince," which was gemuetlichkeit, Milwaukee style. On Wednesday night, according to the Milwaukee Journal, "women in open-toed sandals slipped and slithered on the gooey mud floor. One woman fell in the mud. Members of the cast had to make repeated entrances and exits down the quagmire aisles. Women performers wearing long gowns hiked them up knee high to avoid getting splattered. The dancers found the stage footing slippery before long; the management found it necessary to push the mud off the stage with a broom."

Muddy Water Floods Orch

Every boy scout, when he pitches his tent, digs a drainage ditch around it, but at the Melody Circus Theatre boy scout training was forgotten, despite recurring mud. Thursday came the deluge, filling the orchestra pit with mud, ruining the Hammond organ and piano, as a foot-high stream of muddy water cut a channel over the stage. Another cancelled performance, the ninth, but by Saturday night the Heidelburg chorus was serenading the Milwaukee Braves, who helped dress up the audience after a thrilling victory over Brooklyn.

"Call Mc Madam," played to the pearl-studded hilt by Metropolitan Opera star Brenda Lewis, fresh from a four-month conquest of Vienna's Volkopera, hit the season's low of around $4,000. By now it was established that the Melody Circus Theatre was averaging losses of more than a thousand dollars a day.

Director David Brooks reached his peak of artistry with "Carousel," acclaimed as "an absolute triumph" by Richard S. Davis, the local Brooks Atkinson. "You must see it," he directed, but even though the Braves were in Brooklyn, the 350,000 subscribers to the Milwaukee Journal declined the safari to Ozaukee County.

Sunday in Chicago, "Silk Stockings" was played in the air-conditioned Shubert Theatre. Business was bad there, too, and the closing notice was up for a show that had seemed set through the Democratic Convention and into September. The next day the promoter-producer-treasurer-counsel of the Melody Circus Theatre was told that Feuer & Martin and the Shuberts were closing the show rather than take a $5,000 loss on the week.

"You must have lost $7,000 last week on 'Carousel'," it was suggested.

"No, only $6,000."

"When Feuer & Martin can't afford to lose $5,000 a week, how can you afford to lose $6,000?"

"We can't afford to close," he explained.

'Be An Angel'

That week he launched a $50,000 "Be An Angel" campaign to sell 500 certificates, suitable for framing, signed by a brewer's wife, attesting her ever-lasting gratitude for keeping musical comedy in Wisconsin. In addition to tickets for all future shows, she promised that $100 would buy admission "to the most exclusive first night in Milwaukee's history—the premiere of 'Guys and Dolls,' featuring Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom, for angels only."

"Dress will be informal," the hostess decreed in her invitation to angels to meet the actors after the show, "but you may wear your halo."

About 100 angels showed up, contributing not quite enough to pay the operating deficit on "Carousel." That night the producer notified the owner to take back the rented tent, and decided to make a last desperate move to Washington Park in central Milwaukee, with "Show Boat" playing under the stars. Bad luck was consistent. It rained and the August nights were cold. The losses for eight shows from June 19 to Aug. 19 are in excess of $200,000. Nobody knows exactly how much until the part-time business manager returns from his Army assignment in Oshkosh.

Oh Partner!

When Abe Newborn, of the Baum-Newborn talent agency, returned last week from vacation, he was the proverbial picture of health.

"You look great," enthused Marty Baum. "How do you feel?"

"Like a newborn Abe," replied his partner.

JANICE RULE PLAYING PRINCETON 'CONCUBINE'

"Secret Concubine," a new play by Aldyth Morris, will be presented Sept. 10 at the Murray Theatre on the Princeton U. campus. Producer-actress Terese Hayden and actor Karl Light will be partnered in the presentation with Richard Green, who operates the theatre. They're also associated with him in the current production of "Richard II," which opened at the spot last Monday (27) for a fortnight's run.

Light plays the title role in "Richard," while Janice Rule will have the lead in "Concubine," slated for a week's run. Morris, incidentally, is the author of "The Carefree Tree," which preemed last season at the Phoenix Theatre, N. Y.

'Pajama' Nets $1,274,105; No Losing Weeks in N.Y.

Road company losses and the seasonal drop in Broadway business has slowed the two-company "Pajama Game" profit pile-up this summer. Nevertheless, the net on the Frederick Brisson-Robert E. Griffith-Harold S. Prince production was $1,274,105 as of a July 28 accounting.

The touring version dropped $24,036 on a seven-week losing streak from May 28 through July 14. That included $6,663 on the final frame of a six-week Detroit run, $1,463 on a single Buffalo stanza and $15,910 on a five-week Boston stand. The tuner, starring Larry Douglas, Buster West and Betty O'Neil, came out of the slump with its Washington opening July 16.

The New York company, starring John Raitt, Eddie Foy Jr. and Julie Wilson, has been faring better, having maintained a profit-making pace as of the audit, except for three weeks of break even business in July. The Broadway production is currently in its 121st week at the St. James Theatre, while the national company has been out 18 months.

The profit divvy on the musical totals $1,200,000 thus far. On the basis of the regular 50-50 split between the management and the backers, that gives the latter $600,000 profit on a $250,000 investment.

Dianne Barton Rescues Tent's 'Plain and Fancy'

The Westbury (L. I.) Music Fair was pulled out of a jam last Friday (24) night by actress-singer Dianne Barton. The tent operation called her in a few hours before curtain time to pinchhit for Barbara Ruick in "Plain and Fancy." Miss Ruick, starring in the role of Hilda, had been taken to Mt. Sinai Hospital with a high fever.

Miss Barton, who understudied the Hilda part in the road company version of the musical, has been rehearsing for an upcoming Studebaker industrial show and didn't get the Westbury call until after she returned to her Manhattan home about 5:30 p.m. Friday. She got out to the tent in time for that night's performance and is continuing in the role this week, the second of a fortnight's stand. Miss Ruick is still hospitalized.

Besides playing legit, Miss Barton works nitery dates with her husband, Robert Cosden, who's been appearing this summer in the St. Louis Municipal Opera productions. They work the clubs as a singing team.

Shows Abroad

Under Milk Wood

Edinburgh, Aug. 25.

H. M. Tennent Ltd. (by arrangement with Henry Sherek) presentation of drama in two acts, by Dylan Thomas. Staged by Douglas Cleverdon and Edward Burnham; setting, Michael Trangmar; songs composed by Daniel Jones. Features Donald Houston, William Squire, Diana Maddox. At Lyceum Theatre, Edinburgh, Aug. 21, '56; $2 top.

Cast: Donald Houston, William Squire, Peter Halliday, Raymond Llewellyn, Catherine Dolan, Richard Curnock, Cliff Gordon, David Rees, Gwyneth Owen, Aubrey Richards, Gareth Jones, Betty Lloyd Davies, Diana Maddox, Joan Newell, Bugug-Mair Powell, Cludine Morgan, Peter Murphy, Daphne Shaven, T. H. Evans, Dorothea Phillips, John Gill, Patricia Mort, Barbara Alleyn, Angela Crow, Margo Jenkins, Denys Graham, Judy Manning, Virginia Graham.

The late Dylan Thomas' play for voices, a standout when broadcast by the London BBC, has been brilliantly adapted to the stage. As staged expressively by Douglas Cleverdon (who directed the radio version) and Edward Burnham, it shapes as the hit of the current Edinburgh International Festival.

Two-acter, warmly acclaimed at the opening, is set in the Welsh seaside town of Llareggub, and is filled with an assortment of fishermen, wives, children, grocers, drapers, postmen, etc., and the action covers the conglomerate events a typical spring day. The huge cast calls for precise timing by stage manager and the stagers. Donald Houston plays the narrator or onlooker, commenting on the village life and people, and his introductions lead naturally into quotes from the characters themselves. He projects calm confidence and a smile to the marathon part, assisted solidly by William Squire as the retired old salt, Capt. Cat, who keeps an all-seeing eye on the community doings, and by Diana Maddox as the flirtatious distaffer who admits having loved Tom, Dick and Harry.

The author, who died an alcoholic in New York last year, has drawn the weaknesses and virtues, customs and conversations of his fellow Welshmen, with point, wit, and sharp observation. He links the lyrical and the earthy with a strange compelling touch that keeps phrases and sentences, even movements, evergreen.

The Michael Trangmar scenery portrays, in one all-embracing set, the little Welsh community with its doors, shop fronts, bedrooms; street. A boat in the orchestra pit sets the waterfront atmosphere. Songs composed by Daniel Jones are attractive.

Entire result is a triumph, looming not only as the hit of the Edinburgh Festival, but also with a potential for both London and N.Y.

Gord.

No Time For Sergeants

London, Aug. 24.

Prince Littler & Louis Dreyfus presentation of Maurice Evans & Emmett Rogers production of comedy in two acts by Ira Levin, adapted from the novel by Mac Hyman. Stars Barry Nelson; features Leslie Dwyer, Timothy Bateson, Macdonald Parke, Anthony Sharp, John Turner, Noel Carey, John McLaren. Staged by Rogers; decor by Peter Larkin. At Her Majesty's Theatre, London, Aug. 23, '56; $2.80 top.

Preacher ..... Alexander Dore
Will Stockdale ..... Barry Nelson
Pa Stockdale ..... Philip Holles
Draft Man ..... Hugh Stewart
Bus Driver ..... Terence Owen
Irvin Blanchard ..... John Turner
Rosabelle ..... Annette Gibson
Inductees ..... Anthony Booth, Ray Brown, Michael Browning, John Hollis, Robert Jackson, James Douglas, Charles Rea, Glenn Williams.
Ben Whitledge ..... Timothy Bateson
Sgt. King ..... Leslie Dwyer
Captain ..... John McLaren
Nurse ..... Annette Gibson
Classification Corporal ..... Charles Rea
Corp., Manual Dexterity ..... Alexander Dore
Lieutenant ..... Lucky Todd
Psychiatrist ..... Anthony Sharp
Cigaret Girl ..... Annette Gibson
Infantryman ..... Dugald Bruxwell
Air Force Policeman ..... Michael Browning
Colonel ..... Michael Segal
Lt. Bridges ..... Ray Browne
Lt. Carella ..... John Hollis
Lt. Kendall ..... James Douglas
Lt. Cover ..... Jimmy Carroll
Gen. Bush ..... Macdonald Parke
Gen. Pollard ..... Noel Carey
Sergeant ..... Hugh Stewart
Aide to Gen. Pollard ..... Charles Rea
Lt. Abel ..... Michael Segal
Lt. Baker ..... Anthony Booth
Capt. Charles ..... Terence Owen

"No Time For Sergeants" has all the appearance of a smash boxoffice hit, and Emmett Rogers' superlative staging ranks it even higher. In other words, it's in for a long run and is a very worthy successor to "Teahouse of the August Moon," which kept this theatre humming more than two years.

The story is one of universal appeal and the humor has an international quality. This is a modern-day "Good Soldier Schweik," with updated comedy and the characters. The rookie, too naive to be true, has been characterized in several postwar plays, but rarely with such unerring skill, with such a regular laugh flow and with such an uncanny sense of timing.

As on Broadway, the London production is an outstanding star vehicle. Barry Nelson, a new name in legit here, makes a personal impact which can hardly be measured in terms of applause. The part is an outsize natural, but never too big for the star's talent. He's the master of every scene, whether broad comedy, simple slapstick humor or natural guile.

Although the star deserves the fullest credit, especial praise is due to Rogers' slick staging. Presumably this is modelled on the Broadway original, but the effective scene changes within full audience view and, more particularly, the scenes of a plane hurtling through the air, are near perfection. The comedy is given the sort of treatment normally reserved for motion pictures.

"Sergeants" is not a play rich in parts, other than the starring role. Aside from one or two principal characters, it demands little more than cameos, but these require equal quality of presentation and performance. Leslie Dwyer, as the long-suffering sergeant, has the main featured part and fills it admirably. His interpretation avoids the pitfalls of overplaying his hand.

Timothy Bateson strikes the right note as the draftee who wants to maintain the family tradition of serving in the infantry. The scene in which he's invested with a decoration by a reluctant general is among the best in the production.

The general is played in vigorous style by Macdonald Parke, with Noel Carey more than adequate as the infantry brass. Anthony Sharp has a standout scene as the psychiatrist confounded by the eagerly innocent draftee, and John McLaren and John Turner do very nicely as a captain and a recruit. Smaller parts have been filled with obvious care.

In New York "Sergeants" ranked in comedy values with "Mister Roberts." The latter was a failure in London, despite the marquee appeal in Tyrone Power as star. The Ira Levin comedy has every prospect of making good where the Thomas Heggen-Joshua Logan play flopped.

Myro.

Strange Occurrence On Ireland's Eye

Dublin, Aug. 21.

Abbey Theatre Co. production of melodrama in three acts, by Denis Johnston. Stars Ray MacAnally, Philip Flynn, Maire O'Donnell, Eileen Crowe. Staged by Ria Mooney; settings, Thomas MacAnna. Abbey Theatre, Dublin, Aug. 20, '56.

Chief Brownrigg ..... Ray MacAnally
Mrs. Campbell ..... Maire Kean
Patrick Nangle ..... Liam Foley
William Kenmis ..... Philip Flynn
Brendan Brew ..... Vincent Dowling
Dr. Kenny ..... Maire O'Donnell
Mrs. Crowe ..... Eileen Crowe
John Smyly ..... T. P. McKenna
Justice Crampton ..... Harry Brogan
Isaac Butt ..... Eddie Golden
William Kirwan ..... Geoffrey Golden
George Hatchell ..... Michael Hennessy

A program note says the story of "Strange Occurrence on Ireland's Eye" is basically true, but the action is now set in the 1930's, while incidents reconstructed took place over 100 years ago. Ireland's Eye, incidentally, is a small resort island near Dublin.

The meller involves the mysterious death of a woman while alone on the island with her painter-husband. Circumstantial evidence and a jury verdict have blamed the husband, and what happened afterwards is told in a two-scene last act, when the police chief learns the truth, teaches humanity to the prosecutor and commonsense to priggish pathologist. But the play then tapers off to a weak final curtain. The piece was originally presented as a radio play by the same author. Character sketches Abbey audiences have enjoyed in a lot of playgoing.

Ray MacAnally portrays an earnest policeman dogged by a gabby boarding-house keeper, played by Maire Kean. Philip Flynn enacts the prosecutor as a lively character who wants the case placed neatly on the table for him, and let any mistakes be burier rather than upset the system, and the trial lawyers are played by T. P. McKenna and Eddie Golden, with Harry Brogan as the judge.

As the young pathologist who has made up his mind, with or without scientific evidence, Michael Hennessy draws the character as an opinionated prig, and one of the smaller but nicely-shaped roles is played by Eileen Crowe as a woman who has been living in the past. Ria Mooney's direction is sound, Thomas MacAnna's setting for the police office is properly formal, and his court setting has been imaginatively devised to break the traditional style of courtroom scenes. The play itself is a break from the usual rural comedy-dramas done here and, despite its unsatisfactory final curtain, is a better bet than most recent Abbey presentations.

Mac.

Coast Grossed $5,411,200 in '55-'56; L.A. Topped S.F. in B.O., Playing Time

Coast legit was responsible for practically 25% of the total 1955-56 out-of-town gross. The combined Los Angeles-San Francisco tally was $5,411,200 for the 52-week semester ending last May 26. A major factor was the subscription setup of Edwin Lester's Civic Light Opera in both L.A. and S. F. The total gross for the entire road last season was $22,853,500, according to VARIETY's boxoffice reports.

L. A. nosed out Frisco with a $2,735,500 on gross 108 playing weeks. The latter town nabbed $2,675,700 on 106 playing weeks. Hollywood's 2,670-seat Philharmonic Auditorium was the town's big grosser, pulling $1,260,100 on four musicals covering a 21-week span.. Similarly Frisco's top tuner house, the 1,752-seat Curran, provided the bulk of that city's take with eight shows piling up $1,558,700 in 37 weeks.

Besides the Philharmonic, L.A. had five other theatres in action during the season. They included the 1,519-seat Carthay Circle, which grossed $439,600 for nine stock offerings presented over a 28-week period. The 1,636-seat Biltmore presented seven touring entries during a 22-week stretch for a total $556,800 take. The huge 4,400-seat Greek Theatre put in only one week with "Three for Tonight," which grossed $85,400.

The 1,032-seat Huntington Hartford put in the longest L.A. run, with 31 weeks. The bulk of that time, 19 stanzas, was taken by "Joy Ride," which subsequently moved to Chicago, where it folded. The total Hartford gross was $345,100. The 800-seat Music Box showcased a lone entry, "Hellzapoppin" for three frames, with the total take hitting $38,500.

Frisco had only two other the-

(Continued on page 58)

Det. Grossed $922,200 For 36 Playing Weeks During 1955-56 Season

Detroit, Aug. 28.

Local legit piled up a $922,200 gross for the 1955-56 season. That represents the take on 36 weeks of playing time for 16 shows at the 2,050-seat Shubert Theatre and the 1,482-seat Cass Theatre during the 52-week semester ended last June 26.

Of the two houses, the Shubert did the bigger business,. The theatre showcased 10 entries for a total $661,300 over a 24-week span. The Cass, running 12 weeks, offered six productions for a $260,900 total.

The Shubert lineup included six musicals. Of those, "Can-Can" played the Cass earlier in the season. The smaller house had only one other tuner.

"Pajama Game" was the town's top grosser in five weeks at the Shubert. The musical continued into the opening week of the current semester, the only losing stanza of its six-frame run. That week, however, isn't included in the '55-'56 tabulation. Following is a breakdown of the season, covering shows, grosses and playing time:

SHUBERT

King and I (tour), $149,400, five weeks.
Vamp (pre-Bway), $62,700, two weeks.
Little Hut (tour), $13,000, two weeks.
Ruth Draper (tour), $4,500, one week.
Tea and Sympathy (tour), $28,500, two weeks.
Bad Seed (tour), $46,900, two weeks.
Can-Can (tour), $33,500, one week.
Boy Friend (tour), $88,700, three weeks.
Sing Man, Sing (tour), $36,000, one week.
Pajama Game (tour, continued), $198,100, five weeks).

CASS

Can-Can (tour), $90,200, three weeks.
Anniversary Waltz (tour) $37,600, two weeks.
Anastasia (tour) $30,500, two weeks.
Kismet (tour), $24,000, one week.
Bus Stop (tour) $52,100, two weeks.
Lovers (pre-Broadway), $26,500, two weeks.

McGauley at 46th St.

Hugh McGauley, formerly assistant treasurer at the Coronet Theatre, N. Y., has switched to the 46th Street as house manager. Both theatres are owned by City Playhouses, Inc., the Coronet under lease to Producers Theatre.

George Kent, previous manager of the 46th Street, recently underwent optical surgery at the N. Y. Eye & Ear Infirmary. He had been planning to move to the west with his invalid wife.

'Friend' Is Vacating L.A., Will Open Chi Earlier

"Boy Friend," currently at the Philharmonic Auditorium, Los Angeles, on Civic Light Opera subscription, is shortening its engagement there. It's now slated to exit Sept. 15 and go directly to Chicago, opening Sept. 19 at the Blackstone for an indefinite run. The idea is apparently to get a headstart for the fall, in advance of the Chicago opening of the touring "Damn Yankees."

Producers Cy Feuer & Ernest H. Martin had previously figured on continuing the Los Angeles engagement several more weeks, then sending the musical comedy back to San Francisco for a repeat stand, with other bookings in the northwest and midwest to follow.

The Sandy Wilson tuner, originally done in London, was produced on Broadway during the 1954-55 season.

'Cat' Has Earned $425,000 Profit

"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," currently in its 76th Broadway week, has netted approximately $425,000 thus far. That's based on the take as of July 28 accounting, plus estimated profit for the ensuing four weeks.

The adjusted profit on the Playwrights Co. production for the fiscal year, ended last June 30, was $387,402, while the prior net on the show was $21,902. An additional $9,050 was picked up during the four weeks preceding the audit, bringing the total as of that date to $418,354.

Despite a summer gross slide to a $19,300 low for the week ending July 24, the Tennessee Williams drama hasn't had a losing stanza. The profit for that frame was $1,606. The profit divvy thus far on the Thomas Gomez-Marjorie Steele-Alex Nicol starrer totals $376,000. Of the remaining coin, $14,250 represent Actors Equity bonds and $15,000 the sinking fund reserve. Another $1,500 reflects costs thus far of the show's scheduled tour.

On the basis of the regular 50-50 split of the profits between the management and backers, the latter have thus far netted $188,000 on their $102,000 investment.

PAGE JOE ANTHONY TO PILOT 'MAIDEN VOYAGE'

Joseph Anthony, who directed "Most Happy Fella" and "The Lark" for Kermit Bloomgarden, is being sought by the same producer to stage "Maiden Voyage." He flew in from the Coast about a week ago to discuss the proposition, but reportedly has reached an agreement on it.

When the Paul Osborn play was held by Billy Rose last season, screen writer-director Joseph Mankiewicz was to have staged it and Claire Bloom was to have been imported from England to star. However, a theatre was unavailable at that time, and the projected setup fell through. Bloomgarden recently acquired the script, and Susan Strasberg, costar of his production of "Diary of Anne Frank," has been mentioned for the femme lead.

Dan Blum May Produce Chas. Nolte 'Departure'

Charles Nolte, whose Broadway appearances have ncluded "Billy Budd" and "Caine Mutiny Court Martial," has authored a drama, "Departure." It's being considered for production by Daniel Blum, editor of "Theatre World," the annual series of volumes about New York legit. The show would represent Blum's managerial bow.

Nolte and Blum sailed for England last Thursday (23) on the Liberte, with the idea of perhaps arranging for an initial presentation of "Departure" in London, in partnership with an established West End management.

Sneak Legit Bow

Eddie Fisher broke into Broadway legit last Saturday (25) afternoon. The singer did a gag walkon at the matinee performance of "Mr. Wonderful."

Most of the audience was unaware of recording-television star's presence until featured performer Jack Carter ad-libbed, "Was that really Eddie Fisher?"

$742,800 Touring Gross in Canada During 1955-56

Touring shows grossed over $742,800 in Canada during the 1955-56 season . That's based on the take in Montreal and Toronto, the country's major legit outlets. The two-city lineup included 13 entries for a total of 31 playing weeks for the 52-week period ended last June 26. The Stratford (Ont.) Shakespeare Festival is not a touring venture so it is not included in this tabulation.

Toronto provided the bulk of the business, grossing $534,100 on a 13-show spread. That covered 21 stanzas, including two split-weeks. Montreal, presenting eight of the shows that played Toronto, grossed over $208,700 on 10 weeks of playing time. The Montreal bookings included a two-week pre-Broadway run of Comedy Francaise at the St. Dennis Theatre, with the gross undisclosed.

The other Montreal offerings played the 1,700-seat Her Majesty's

(Continued on page 59)

Actors Aren't Gypsies Anymore, Sez Carradine; He Figgers That's Bad

Detroit, Aug. 28.

"Actors have become too respectable," says John Carradine. "They act just like other people. They own their own homes and have children. They dabble in real estate and stocks and join civic improvement associations."

The legit-film actor, here for a starring appearance in "Dracula" at the Northland Playhouse, a tenter, lamented that "there are no vagabonds in the profession any more." He elaborated, "Actors are no longer high priests in the temple of the arts.

"They are just necessary nuisances. Films and stage productions, with their many behind-the-scenes disclosures, have made the once sacred province an open book. Much of the glamour has disappeared.

"Nowadays you see actors wheeling grocery carts through supermarkets, scratching their heads over prices and, if cornered, apologizing for being there. Actors should never appear anywhere but on the stage."

DYLAN THOMAS DRAMA SKEDDED FOR LONDON

London, Aug. 28.

Dylan Thomas' "Under Milk Wood," which opened at the Edinburgh Festival last week, is scheduled for Oct. 3 in the West End, after a short provincial tour. It's being presented by Henry Sherek, in association with Tennent Productions.

The drama is expected to go into the New Theatre, replacing "Gigi." The latter is due to fold at the expiration of Leslie Caron's contract.

Originally written as a radio work, "Under Milk Wood" was produced for the BBC by Douglas Cleverdon, who has teamed with Edward Burnham on directing the stage production.

Stratford (Conn.) Poll

Stratford, Conn., Aug. 28.

American Shakespeare Festival Theatre is polling late season audiences on preferences of plays to be done next summer.

Playgoers are asked to check three from "Twelfth Night," "Othello," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Much Ado," "Merchant of Venice" and "Romeo and Juliet."

Offer 'Bells' Backers an Out On 'Recent Developments'; Few Takers

Honolulu Theatre Group Netted $853 on Season

Honolulu, Aug. 28.

Despite a total gross of $72,125, the Honolulu Community Theatre wound up its season with net profit of only $853, the board of directors learned at annual meeting. Production expense was $41,893 and overhead totaled $33,641. There would have been a deficit year, if it hadn't been for $4,262 in membership dues and miscellaneous income.

Under the direction of Arthur Sircom, the Honolulu thespians just concluded "Pajama Game," which had an eight-week run. "Janus" is in rehearsal and "Damn Yankees" will open the 1957 season in mid-October.

'Cat' Tour Ducks Boston's Censor

"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," slated to go on tour early in December, will skip Boston entirely. That has been decided on the Playwrights Co., with the concurrence of author Tennessee Williams and stager Elia Kazan. It is based on the assumption that the official Hub censor, Walter R. Milliken, would object to the play.

No attempt has been made by the management to sound out the Boston official on the acceptability of "Cat," for his condemnation of the Pulitzer and Critics Circle Award-winner is figured certain, on the basis of his past record. Moreover, it's doubted that, the drama could be modified to meet probable objections without spoiling its effectiveness.

Therefore, contrary to previous reports that "Cat" had been penciled into the Hub this fall, that city is being omitted from the tour. For practical bookings reasons, so are New Haven and other New England towns.

Because of the controversial nature of the show, plus its attention-getting title and widespread reputation, the Playwrights Co. will use an unusual exploitation setup for the tour. "Cat" will have two advance pressagents, Walter Alford and Allen Lester. Also, a heavy billposting campaign, probably the biggest for any touring legit in the last 20 years, will be used.

The show will play single-week stands almost entirely the exceptions being fortnight engagements in Los Angeles and San Francisco, an extended run in Chicago, and a few split-week bookings in secondary theatrical cities such as Columbus-Dayton, Indianapolis-Louisville and probably Denver, the latter as a stop-over between Kansas City and the Coast.

The tour will open, probably Dec. 3 at the National Theatre, Washington, subsequently including Baltimore, Philadelphia (where it originally tried out), Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, the two Coast cities, Minneapolis and into New York next May.

"Cat" is currently in its 76th week at the Morosco Theatre, N.Y., with Thomas Gomez, Marjorie Steele and Alex Nicol costarred. They continue on tour in the roles originated respectively by Burl Ives, Barbara Bel Geddes and Ben Gazzara. Company manager Ben Rosenberg will not tour with the production. His successor isn't set.

Viveca as Miss Julie At S.F. Actor Workshop

San Francisco, Aug. 28.

"Miss Julie," with Viveca Lindfors in the title role, will launch the Actor's Workshop season at the Mariens Memorial Theatre next Tuesday (4). The actress' husband playwright George Tabori, will direct the production. The couple are dittoing assignments previously handled at the Phoenix Theatre, N.Y., and more recently at the La Jolla (Cal.) Playhouse.

The Workshop will offer four other plays, including "Plough and the Stars" and "Flowering Peach."

Although "Bells Are Ringing" stacks up as one of the promising musicals of the upcoming Broadway season, the Theatre Guild has been offering investors an "opportunity to get out from under." One or two thus approached have withdrawn, but almost all are going along with the project.

According to Warren Caro, a Guild official and one of those who have been contacting backers on the matter, Guild executives felt that they had an "obligation to inform our investors of certain recent developments that might affect the production. We believe they have the right to full knowledge of all factors relating to the undertaking."

Caro confirmed reports that backers were told that they might bow out because the production had been over-subscribed $150,000, that the show will not share in the album rights, that Judy Holliday's contract as star calls for steep sharing terms, and that there is a plagiarism claim against the musical, possibly involving legal action.

Commenting on the Guild's reasons for offering him a chance to withdraw, one backer noted that he is not involved in possible oversubscription of the production, since he's in under a letter-of-assignment agreement that clearly covers the amount of his investment. As for the non-sharing on the album rights, he figures that is a minor matter, as any show's slice of record royalties is relatively small.

He regards Miss Holliday's contract, reportedly calling for 10% of the gross, plus 4% of the profits,

(Continued on page 58)

Backers of 1950 Flop May Be Hit for Debts Over 'Limited' Liability

Backers of a six-year-old musical flop have been tagged as defendants in a liability suit involving the production. They're being sued by accountant Evart F. Griggs individually and as copartners of the "Lady From Paris" presentation, which he claims owes his $2,950 for auditing services rendered from November, 1949, to November, 1952.

The tuner, which folded in 1950 during a tryout tour, was produced by Franz Steininger, who adapted the offering's Tchaikowsky melodies and also conducted the orchestra. It's understood Griggs is going after the backers on the grounds that the limited partnership was not properly formulated in that all the necessary legal steps were not taken.

Normally, the backers (limited partners) are responsible for only their stipulated investment, while the producers (general partners) are liable for any over-capitalization debts incurred by a show. If Griggs' suit, filed in New York Municipal Court, is eventually upheld, steps would presumably have to be taken to eliminate whatever legal loopholes exist in the present partnership setup.

Showless Santa Barbara Gets 2 Tourers at Once

Santa Barbara, Aug. 29.

Santa Barbara, which gets only occasional touring shows, is soon due for two the same week. The entries are booked for two and three days each, but overlap on one day.

The shows are "Teahouse of the August Moon," starring Larry Parks, slated for next Wednesday-Thursday (5-6) at the Granada, and "Chalk Garden," costarring Judith Anderson and Gladys Cooper, set for a Thursday-Saturday (6-8) run at the Lobero.

Gazzo Getting Hatful Of Production Credits

Michael V. Gazzo is getting two-way legit showcasing this week. Besides being represented on Broadway as author of "Hatful of Rain," he's also getting stock credit as director of "Tobacco Road" at the Gateway Theatre, Bellport, L. I.

He was originally an actor.

Camden Tent Producer (and D.A.) Looks Toward All-Year Operation

By ARTHUR B. WATERS

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.

The Camden County Music Circus, first summer tent show across the Delaware River in the south Jerscy area, has shown that this densely-populated territory has a potential audience for cultural things. That's the interpretation of Mitchell Cohen, now in his third term as county Public Prosecutor and, more to the point, the guiding spirit in the creation of this tent as well as being its co-producer, with St. John Terrell.

The Camden Music Circus's first season, which ends Sept. 15, has shown a small margin of profit to date and will. Cohen believes, prove to be a satisfactory start for his venture, regardless of what happens the remaining weeks. In 1957, he plans to lengthen the season two weeks or more, opening perhaps as early as June 1.

Cohen is also talking of changing the tent into a permanent structure within the next two or three years so that entertainment could be presented all year around. Playhouse in the Park management in Philly has also been seriously considering this, but Cohen believes his location is better suited to such a switcheroo because it is not as close to the usual winter competition of downtown Philly legit, music, ballet and the rest.

Camden has had no live entertainment, except for night spots, since the old Temple Theatre was torn down in 1920, and that house hadn't had vaude or cheap legit for quite a few years before that date. This despite the fact that the 11 counties constituting this south Jersey area have a population of 5,000,000, a gain of 2,000,000 in the Camden area alone in the last decade.

Cohen believed, when he set the wheels in motion for the formation of the Camden County Music Circus venture, that this summer tent theatre, offering musicals, would be a good starter, but he has no idea of stopping there. He envisions winter legit and concert and ballet bookings, not in the heart of Camden, which would entail many of the same parking troubles that Philly, Boston, Chi and other big cities get, but in a spot like the one he's in now, easily accessible by bus or car, but also with plenty of parking space.

Cohen declares he would not figure on much support from across the river in Philly or other Pennsy towns because a license checkup this summer has shown the Camden Music Circus management that the percentage of Jersey cars parking in the tent theatre lot has been very high. This came as a surprise to Cohen and his associates, as did the relatively poor attendance Sunday nights.

Since Philly can't have Sunday live entertainment, Cohen figured on getting a play for his tent but it hasn't work out that way. Best biz done by the Camden Music Circus has been Mondays-through-Thursdays, with weekends spotty.

Cohen has other ideas for next and future seasons. He'd like to come up with an occasional novelty or even a tryout. But at the moment the rotation system of bookings with other tent theatres controlled by co-producer, St. John Terrell, at Lambertville and Neptune, is economically better all around.

The Camden County Music Circus has 21 stockholders, including Cohen and Terrell, all of them representative business and profcssional men of Camden and vicinity. The tent called for a $150,000 investment.

Doctor 'Summer's Day'

Saratoga, Aug. 28.

Robert Saffron's comedy, "All On a Summer's Day," recently given a tryout at John Huntington's Spa Summer Theatre here, will be rewritten in preparation for its proposed production on Broadway. Elliott Nugent is being sought to assist in the doctoring.

French-born former dancer Roxanne Berard made her dramatic debut in the tryout.

Edith Sommer, whose "Roomful of Roses" was done on Broadway last season, has nearly completed a new script.

'Tempest' Ends Group 20 Season of OK Weather

Wellesley, Mass., Aug. 28.

Group 20 Players finales its strawhat season with Shakespeare's "Tempest," current at outdoor Theatre-on-the-Green on Wellesley College campus and holding through Sept. 3.

The 1,000-seat ozoner got out of the red this year after a disastrous start last summer during which polio epidemic, abnormal heat, hurricanes and floods cut its grosscs more than 50%. This season, however, good weather pulled the Players back. Only one rain storm came down on the outdoor thespians this season. It was during "Androcles and the Lion," which closed last night (Mon.), and the performance was shifted to an indoor theatre in 10 minutes.

PINZA' BOW-OUT SEEN HITTING 'BABY' PARTIES

Theatre party bookings for the forthcoming Broadway production of "A Very Special Baby" may be affected because of Ezio Pinza's withdrawal from his scheduled co-starring assignment with Sylvia Sidney. The 64-year-old actor-singer was forced to bow out of the offering because of a paralytic stroke suffered last Friday (24) at his summer home in Cervia, Italy.

Pinza's name was figured a principal factor behind heavy party demand for the Robert Alan Arthur play. Now that he's no longer associated with the venture, it remains to be seen what the reaction will be from those who've purchased party tix. It's also expected that any decision made by them will also be dependent on the name-value of Pinza's replacement.

David Susskind, who is producing the play in association with Michael Abbott, plans to go ahead with the production as scheduled. Rehearsals are slated to start Sept. 17, with the Broadway opening set for Nov. 14, after an out-of-town tryout. Pinza's wife attributed her husband's fatigue to his long run in the Broadway production of "Fanny." He had been out of that show because of illness for a lengthy period prior to exiting the production early this summer.

There's also a possibility the show's booking at the Belasco Theatre, N. Y., may be affected by Pinza's withdrawal.

Jessel Plans 'Brutus' As Musical Legiter

"Dear Brutus," which George Jessel plans to revive on Broadway as a play with music, may be financed by NBC. Active interest in such a deal has been indicated by Alan Livingston, who's in charge of the network's legit investments. As yet, though, there's been no adaptation made of the James M. Barrie play.

NBC already has hefty stakes in two entries on this season's sked. They're the upcoming Broadway production of "Happy Hunting," a musical, and the delayed tour of "Great Sebastians," which had a click run in New York last season and laid off for the summer.

Jessel will be making his Broadway managerial debut with the Barrie property, which he acquired last week.

Elliot Norton Starting Radio Stint in Boston

Boston, Aug. 28.

Elliot Norton, Post drama critic, center of a recent controversy involving the Boston Post and Shubert theatrical interests, takes to the Boston airways over WBZ in a 15-min. drama criticking program, first of its kind in the Hub. The radio station is dropping its NBC programming, which it had retained on evening time after dropping afternoon network earlier. Norton will go on the air either Friday or Saturday night somewhere in the 9-10 slot.

The aisle-sitter, who also lectures at Boston U., Boston College and Emerson College, says he will tape the shows, giving critical reactions to various productions playing in the Boston area.

Classified!

Detroit, Aug. 28.

As a publicity dodge for last week's presentation of John Carradine in the old melodrama-chiller, "Dracula," at the Northland Playhouse here, pressagent Joseph Heidt put a want-ad in the Detroit News for "33 live bats," the number 33 being chosen at random.

There was some delay in acceptance of the copy, as sheet's ad staff couldn't decide on the "classification" of the insertion. After considerable palaver, the matter was clarified, however, and the ad appeared under the heading, "Poultry and Pets."

Shows Out of Town

A Wake for Finley

Baltimore, Aug. 24.

Baltimore Civic Theatre presentation of drama in two acts and an epilogue written and staged by Peter Stewart. At Baltimore Civic Theatre, Baltimore, Md., Aug. 23-26, '56.

| | |
|---|---|
| Mom | Doloris Owings |
| Millie | Phyllis Simmons |
| Harry | Ralph Piersanti |
| George | Donald Casey |
| Joe | George Spelvin |
| Pop | Peter Stewart |
| Skinner | G. B. Holmes |
| Quinton | Alexander Glass |
| Hartley | David Faegler |
| Detectives | John Bruce Johnson, Edgar Simmons |

Peter Stewart, a hometowner, has written a first play of some merit, has staged it with skill, has designed an imaginative set for it, and, to top it all, stepped into a principal role on short notice opening night to score as actor. While technically in the non-pro ranks, Stewart and his cast approach their project with the understanding and thoroughness of professionals.

Though far from big league in its current shape, "A Wake for Finley" has a surprisingly high number of assets for a first play. Primary among these is the author's flair for natural dialog. The plot deals with an Irish-American family in an unidentified industrial town.

The late father was a union leader who seemed a paragon to his family and fellow-workers. But while one son accepts the popular conception, the other, as a union officer, is in position to see how the father craftily played both ends against the middle with management and the workers.

It is the mother's gradual realization of the truth about her husband that binds the play together, and Doloris Owings, in this part, has the warmth and authority to make an audience care. As the brothers, Ralph Piersanti and Donald Casey are persuasive.

The author plays the father with a nice balance between comedy and drama, while G. B. Holmes is effective as his nefarious sidekick, and Alexander Glass, as an inhibited company official, disguises the fact that he appears in some of the weaker portions of the play. Phyllis Simmons is capable as the wife of a neighbor killed in the labor dispute.

David Feagler offers some comic relief as a management official with a thirst. Even two detective bits are written away from the stereotypes, and are nicely handled by Edgar Simmons and John Bruce Johnson.

Stewart's staging is another plus, despite a tendency to leisurely pacing. His skeleton kitchen set provides a realistic background without distracting from the basic drama of his characters. Burm.

The Preacher

Beverly Hills, Aug. 24.

Beverly Hills Playhouse production of drama in three acts (seven scenes), by Douglas Bank. Directed by Laurence Stewart; setting, Michael Nash. At Beverly Hills Playhouse, Aug. 24, '56; $1.25 top.

| | |
|---|---|
| Preacher | Stanley Adams |
| Dorothy Allison | Lettie Lovell |
| Frank Tatum | Eddy Ryder |
| Vince Elkind | John Reach |
| Joe Keist | Douglas Bank |
| Julie Edwards | Dawn Richard |
| Ted Reed | Paul Harbor |
| Patient | Al Freeman |
| Nurse | Norma Michaels |
| Deaf Man | Martin Wallis |
| Mother | Susan Riskin |
| Boy | Richard Freeman |
| Congregation: | |

Joan Carter, Norma Michaels, Fred Russell, Jean Lenard, Winifred Nissen, Roy Boerstler, Bob Honieult.

Since Los Angeles is the home of a number of weird cults and a profitable evangelistic stamping ground, "The Preacher" should be of considerable local interest, but its prospects elsewhere appears to be limited. It could possibly be the basis for an off-beat film entry, however.

Douglas Bank, who authored the play but gets no program billing,

(Continued on page 59)

Inside Stuff—Legit

Richard Aldrich, currently with the U.S. Embassy in Madrid, denies a report that he has retired from the theatre for keeps. He has written his attorney, David Marshall Holtzmann, that whenever his Government assignment is finished he intends to resume his former activities as a legit producer on Broadway and possibly as a strawhat manager. He plans to make his permanent residences at East Dennis, on Cape Cod, and in New York City.

The on-leave producer was recently quoted in an interview with Marjorie Adams, in the Boston Globe, as saying he was out of the theatre permanently, "I have a new wife, a new home and a new job and a new career," he was supposed to have said. The gist of the piece was reported in VARIETY and read by Aldrich in Madrid.

Stock Reviews

I Knock at the Door

Westport, Conn., Aug. 19.

Lucille Lortel presentation of drama by Arnold Perl, based on Sean O'Casey's autobiography of same title. Staged by David Pressman; setting, David Hays; lighting, Hays and William A. Warfel; costumes, Minerva Parrell and Nancy Reals; music, Sol Kaplan. At White Barn Theatre, Westport, Aug. 19, '56.

Cast: Curt Conway, Carson Woods, Anne Revere, Jean Barker, Jacques Andre, James Neylin, Leonardo Cimino, Sue Funk, James Patterson, Minerva Farrell, Lloyd Gough, Dennis Mahoney, Haig Chobanlan, Stephen Press, Roy Bacon, Gil Green, Eileen Ryan, John Wherton, Matthew Hays, Sy Travers, Richard Hill, Bruce Wiggans, Pat De Simone.

This drama about the early boyhood of playwright O'Casey is absorbing enough to warrant expansion. It gives an insight into the roots that nurtured the ultimate pungency of the O'Casey pen as the lad passes through a period of near blindness, the death of his father, rough treatment by the neighborhood bully, "being a Protestant boy in a Roman land," misguided "discipline" in an abortive attempt at schooling, and through it all the constant strain of poverty.

Done with offstage narration and background music, the production offers competent staging, interesting progression and a number of excellent performances. Topping the last mentioned are the efforts of Anne Revere as the struggling widow who was determined her boy would have education, and an exceptional moppet, Carson Woods, who gives adult interpretation as the lad. Lloyd Gough as a medic, Gil Green as a parson, Eileen Ryan as the boy's sister, Sy Travers as crusty schoolmaster, Dennis Mahoney as the bully and Pat De Simone as his nemesis all contribute effectively.

Physical production is commendable. Bone.

(A concert reading version of the autobiographical volume, adapted by Paul Shyre, was presented last spring at the Kaufman Concert Hall, N. Y., with a cast including Staats Cotsworth, George Brenlin, Rae Allen, Shyre, Robert Geiringer and Aline MacMahon. Ed.) Bone.

Love Is a Two Way Street

Sharon, Conn., Aug. 21.

Judson Phillips presentation of comedy in three acts (four scenes), by A. E. Eckland. Stars Edith Atwater, Albert Dekker. Staged Albert Lipton; settings, Leon Munier. At Sharon (Conn.) Playhouse, Aug. 21-25, '56.

| | |
|---|---|
| Charlotte | Doris Belack |
| Mary Winter | Edith Atwater |
| Kenneth Morton III | Albert Dekker |
| Ernest Johnson | William Harahan |
| Fredericka Morton | Helen Kingstead |
| Dr. Zimmler | Leonard Hicks |
| Gerald Morton | Lee Henry |
| Mr. Forsythe | Atwood Cavanaler |
| Mabel | Marie Andrews |
| Tom | Richard Cuyler |
| Mr. Waters | Judson Phillips |

"Love Is A Two Way Street" is unevenly paved. At times it's so rough that it almost stalls traffic and at others the going is smooth.

The faults are more than the usual tryout difficulties of pacc, performance, etc. The show is spotty in acting, direction and scripting. First two acts are acceptable, but the third act bogs down.

Comedy role of the dipso factory owner and spendthrift under the thumb of his mother is well played by Albert Dekker. As the commercial artist in love with the drunkard, Edith Atwater gives a commendable performance, abetted in the comedy effort by William Harahan. As the smug, career minded mother, Helen Kingstead does well.

"Love" could be made into an adequate vehicle for the team of Dekker and Atwater, who with director Albert Lipton, have secured the rights to the show for possible production on Broadway or the road. The hotel apartment setting by Leon Munier and the acting of the supporting cast are acceptible. Eck.

Bernard Sniderworth, w.k. in the trade as the longtime theatrical routing agent for the N. Y. Central Lines in Chicago, has joined the Chicago White Sox baseball team as advance agent on rail, plane and hotel accommodations.

Smile Of The Moon Man

Litchfield, Conn., Aug. 23.

Leonard Altobell presentation of drama in three acts (three scenes), by Lawrence Slade. Stars Barry Martin, Ellen Lowe, Ray Newcomer. Directed by Altobell; settings, Ruiseart Rath-dorcha. At Litchfield (Conn.) Summer Theatre, August 22-27, '56.

| | |
|---|---|
| Eli Brush | Barry Martin |
| Hannah Brush | Ellen Lowe |
| Lee Bob Brush | Howard Dayton |
| Tessy Smith | Evelyn Boggs |
| Emmy Wagers | Elaine Alterman |
| Aaron Brush | Ray Newcomer |
| Parson Smith | Lee Moore |
| Jervis White | Tony Pellegrino |
| Sheriff's Deputies | Carmen Filpi, Charles Remington |

"Smile of the Moon Man" is another play about a battle between ignorance and knowledge, with knowledge winning out. If the chaff can be removed, it could be good theatre, but is now overboard on dialogue and plot. It contains two major plots that confuse and stifle each other. By minimizing one and strengthening other, play would be enhanced.

Kentucky is the locale of the yarn about a mountain youth who falls in love with a schoolteacher from city. He is torn between the girl who has taught him to read and thus opened new horizons to him, and the possessive foster-mother who joins with the other hillbillies in trying to drive the girl away on the ground that she's hexed them.

Direction of Leonard Altobell is hearty and moving. Barry Martin as the father, Ellen Lowe as the mother, Howard Dayton, as the nit wit son, Elaine Alterman as the schoolteacher and Ray Newcomer as the foster-son turn in stirring performances. The Ruiseart Rathdorcha setting of a hillbilly house is impressive. Eck.

Stock Tryouts

(Aug. 27-Sept. 9)

Affair of Murder, by Mignon G. Eberhart—Westchester Playhouse, Mt. Kisco, N. Y. (28-1).

Beasop's Fables (Beatrice Lillie), revue—Somerset (Mass.) Playhouse (27-1); Ogunquit (Me.) Playhouse (3-8).

Career, by James Lee—Alley Theatre, Houston, Tex. (28-8).

Is Your Honeymoon Really Necessary, by E. V. Tidmarsh — Flat Rock (N. C.) (28-1).

Mr. Gadeedus, by Sidney A. Elsenberg—Litchfield (Conn.) Summer Theatre (29-3).

Old Boy, by Maura Laverty — Olney (Md.) Theatre (27-2). (Prior U. S. production of this Irish original was reviewed in VARIETY, Feb. 15, '56, under title, "Tolka Row").

Roll 'Em revue—Groton (Conn.) Playhouse (28-2).

Saint Joan (Siobhan McKenna)—Sanders Theatre, Cambridge, Mass. (27-1); Playhouse in the Park, Philadelphia (3-8).

Spa (Gloria Vanderbilt, Turhan Bey, Violet Heming), adapt10-28 by Edward Chodorov from Ferenc Molnar's "Olympia"—Paper Mill Playhouse, Milburn, N. J. (28-2); Pocono Playhouse, Mountainhome, Pa. (3-8).

Sticks and Stones (Hermione Gingold), revue—Northland Playhouse, Det. (28-2).

Sudden Spring (Celeste Holm), Elihu Winer's adaptation of Halstead Welles' play—South Shore Music Circus, Cohasset, Mass. (27-1); Westport (Conn.) Country Playhouse (3-8).

Voice of Strangers (Ethel Waters), by Roy Bailey—Ivy Tower Playhouse, Spring Lake, N. J. (28-1).

Welcome Darlings (Tallulah Bankhead), revue — Cape Playhouse, Dennis, Mass. (27-1).

What's the Rush (Robert Q. Lewis, revue—Melody Circle, Allentown, Pa. (27-1).

SCHEDULED N. Y. OPENINGS

(Theatres indicated if set)

Loud Red Patrick, Ambassador (10-3).
Harbor Lights, Playhouse (10-4).
Sixth Finger, Longacre (10-8).
Reluctant Debutante, Miller (10-10).
Too Late Phalarope, Belasco (10-11).
Double in Hearts, Golden (10-16).
Apple Cart, Plymouth (10-18).
Old Vic, Winter Garden (10-23).
Separate Tables, Music Box (10-25).
Happiest Millionaire, Coronet (11-1).
Major Barbara, Beck (10-30).
Auntie Mame, Broadhurst (10-31).
Sleeping Prince, Coronet (11-1).
City Center Drama Season (11-7).
Long Day's Journey, Hayes (11-7).
Best House in Naples, Lyceum (11-8).
Child of Fortune, Royale (11-12).
Very Special Baby, Belasco (11-14).
Li'l Abner, St. James (11-15).
Girls of Summer, Longacre (11-19).
Candide, Beck (11-22).
Build With One Hand (11-28).
Bells Are Ringing, Shubert (11-29).
Uncle Willie (12-3).
Happy Hunting, Majestic (12-6).
Hole in Head (12-12).
Visit Small Planet, Booth (1-9).
Waltz of Toreadors (1-17).
13 Daughters, Wint. Gard. (Wk. 2-18).

OFF-BROADWAY

Nobody's Child, Open Stage (8-22).
Saint Joan, Phoenix (9-11).
Rendezvous Vienna, Barbizon P. (9-13).
Camille, Cherry Lane (9-18).
Arms & Man, Downtown (9-25).
Take a Giant Step, Jan Hus (9-25).
Absalom, Fischer Hall (9-27).
Sea Gull, 4th St. (10-9).
Hamlet, St. Ignatius (10-17).

Show Finances

MOST HAPPY FELLA
(As of June 2, 1956)
(5th Week)

| | |
|---|---|
| Original investment | $375.000 |
| Production cost | 268.806 |
| Preliminary tryout expense | 3.491 |
| Loss, seven-week tryout | 32.246 |
| Pre-opening expense | 19.577 |
| Total cost to open on B'way | 324.120 |
| Operating profit, first five weeks on B'way | 60.314 |
| Other income | 3.900 |
| Unrecouped costs | 259.405 |
| Balance available | 115.595 |
| Repaid to backers | 48.000 |

Weekly Operating Budget

| | |
|---|---|
| Theatre share . . . 30% of first $20,000 gross, 25% of the balance. | |
| Payroll for principals (approx.) | $ 5.000 |
| Children salaries | 270 |
| Chorus payroll (approx.) | 2.500 |
| Dancers | 1.160 |
| Musicians | 3.724 |
| Conductor | 500 |
| Crew | 1.035 |
| Stage managers | 640 |
| Producer fee (Kermit Bloomgarden) | 250 |
| Company & general managers | 400 |
| Pressagents | 250 |
| Promotion assistant | 60 |
| Wardrobe & dressers | 625 |
| Extra stagehands (approx.) | 550 |
| Authors and music royalty (approx.) | 10% |
| Director royalty | 10% |
| Choreographer | 150 |
| Designer | 195 |
| Ad-publicity (approx.) | 1 800 |
| Departmental & rentals (approx.) | 1,200 |
| Office charge | 250 |
| Gross necessary to break even (approx.) | 36.000 |

(Note: The Kermit Bloomgarten-Lynn Loesser production opened May 3, at the Imperial Theatre, N.Y.).

'S.P.' Record $22,500 at Sacandaga; Lillie's $12,000 Peak For Fayetteville

Sacandaga Park, N.Y., Aug. 28.

"South Pacific," starring Martha Wright and featuring Juanita Hall, grossed a record $22,500 last week at the 975-seat Sacandaga Summer Theatre, at $3 top. It was the first week Anthony Brady Farrell's new strawhat had registered capacity.

All tickets were sold by the end of the previous week, with the exception of 30 seats for the Wednesday matinee. Ads for the performance week were therefore switched to plug the current show, "Anastasia," with Dolores Del Rio as star.

The local production of "South Pacific" was creditable, although Miss Wright seemingly suffered from lack of amplifieation. Also featured were Gene Hollman, Jerry Lazarre and Gabriel Dell. The show was staged by John Larson and Jerry Lieder, with Paul Godkin directing the musieal numbers and Sylvan Levin conducting the seven-piece orchestra.

Bea 12G, Fayetteville

Fayetteville, N.Y., Aug. 28.

Beatrice Lillie in her capsule revue, "Beasop's Fables," set a new boxoffiee record last week for the Famous Artists Country Playhouse here. The gross was just under $12,000.

It was the season-eloser for the strawhat.

'Cadillac' $5,175, Corning

Corning, N.Y., Aug. 28.

"Solid Gold Cadillac," at a new top price of $2.75, broke the box-office record last week at the 600-seat Corning Summer Theatre. Gross was $5,175. However, the show's 2,704 attendance failed to reach the 3,005 mark set two weeks previously by "Bus Stop."

Co-produeers Dorbthy Chernuck and Omar K. Lerman reveal that for this season, their fourth at the spot, the first eight weeks' gross and attendanee marks have bettered all previous years. Last year's figures were 18,700 total attendance and $32,000 gross. Thus far this season the respeetive figures are 21,865 and $39,541.

Gingold $12,000, Ciney

Cincinnati, Aug. 28.

Hermione Gingold in "Sticks and Stones," an intimate revue, grossed a fine $12,000 last week at the Cincinnati Summer Playhouse. It was the first musical to play Richard L. Rosenfeld's arena spot, getting rave notices but crimped by cold, rainy weather.

Carleton Carpenter is current in "Where's Charley?" and the season has been extended an extra stanza for next week's touring package of "Plain and Fancy."

'Roberts' 23½G, Wallingford

Wallingford, Conn., Aug. 28.

Oakdale Musical Theatre's first straight play offering went over with a wallop last week when "Mister Roberts" clocked a solid $23,500 on its seven-performance stand. Spot cancelled the usual Saturday mat in favor of a Sunday night show. Move meant added biz.

"Teahouse of the August Moon" package is current for a fortnight, with substantial advance. Next booking is "Streetcar Named Desire," Sept. 10-16.

Tallulah 16G, Ivoryton

Ivoryton, Conn., Aug. 28.

"Welcome Darlings," Tallulah Bankhead revue, hit a smash $16,000 at Milton Stiefel's Ivoryton Playhouse last week. That was about all the house could hold. Top was a hefty $4.20.

Current week, the season final, is Art Carney in "Seven Year Itch," also headed for the SRO bracket.

Robert Q.'s 'Rush' 10½G, Philly

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.

The Playhouse in the Park eased off considerably with its second week of the new revue, "What's the Rush," starring Robert Q. Lewis, only the second holdover in the spot's five-year history. "Rush" got good notices and did a neat $13,100 in its seven-performance first week, but got only about $10,500 for the repeat stanza.

Current offering is "Tender Trap," starring Eddie Bracken, and the season finales next week with Siobhan McKenna in "Saint Joan."

'Dilemma' $1,400, Green Hills

Reading, Pa., Aug. 28.

Five performances of "Doctor's

(Continued on page 59)

British Shows

(Figures denote opening dates)

LONDON

Boy Friend, Wyndham's (12-1-53).
Caine Mutiny, Lon. Hipp. (6-13-56).
Chalk Garden, Haymarket (4-11-56).
Doctor In Hoiuse, Vic Pal. (7-30-56).
Dry Rot, Whitehall (8-31-54).
Family Reunion, Phoenix (6-7-56).
For Amusement Only, Apollo (6-5-56).
Gigi, New (5-23-56).
Hotel Paradiso, Wint. Gard. (5-2-56).
House by Lake, York's (5-9-56).
Kismet, Stoll (4-20-55).
Likely Tale, Globe (3-22-56).
Long Echo, St. James's (8-1-56).
Mousetrap, Ambassadors (11-25-52).
Night of 4th, Westminster (6-29-56).
No Time Sgts., Her Maj. (8-23-56).
Pajama Game, Coliseum (10-13-55).
Paris by Night, Prince Wales (4-9-55).
Plain & Fancy, Drury Lane (1-25-56).
Plume de ma Tante, Garrick (11-3-55).
Quare Fellow, Comedy (7-24-56).
Rainmaker, St. Mart. (5-31-56).
Reluctant Deb, Cambridge (5-24-55).
Repertory, Old Vic (9-7-55).
Romanoff & Juliet, Piccadilly (5-17-56).
Sailor Beware, Strand (2-16-55).
Salad Days, Vaudeville (8-5-54).
Seagull, Saville (8-2-56).
South Sea Bubble, Lyric (4-25-56).
Spider's Web, Savoy (12-14-54).
Such Is Life, Adelphi (12-14-55).
Waltz of Toreadors, Criterion (3-27-56).
Young & Beautiful, Arts (8-15-56).

SCHEDULED OPENINGS

Mr. Bolfry, Aldwych (8-30-56).
Towards Zero, St. James's (9-4-56).
River Breeze, Phoenix (9-5-56).
Children's Hour, Arts (9-19-56).

CLOSED LAST WEEK

To My Love, Fortune (6-6-56).
Man Alive, Aldwych (6-14-56).

Stratford (Conn.) Booms; $29,600 Gross Best Yet

Stratford, Conn., Aug. 28.

Business at the American Shakespeare Festival Theatre has been so clicko that the sponsors are wishing the season were longer instead of winding up Sept. 9.

Last week's gross was $29,600, the best yet, with both "Measure for Measure" and "Taming of the Shrew" drawing near capacity Wednesday through Saturday nights. Even "King John" did fairly well on the Saturday matinee.

'Boy' Big $56,600, 'Inherit' $27,100, 'Desk' 22G, L.A.

Los Angeles, Aug. 28.

Departure of two shows over the weekend reduced local legit lineup to only two entries. Things will perk up Sept. 10 with the rekindling of the Biltmore Theatre with "Teahouse of the August Moon."

One of last week's closers was the al fresco Greek Theatre, which had an all-time record gross for a nine-week season, hitting $549,000 with a pair of operettas, each in for two weeks, plus two concert bills and the ballet.

Estimates for Last Week

Boy Friend, Philharmonic Aud (MC) (1st wk) ($4.95; 2,670; 64,000). Fine $56,600 (including tax) for the first week of the final offering on the non-profit Civic Light Opera season.

Desk Set, Carthay Circle (C) (6th wk) ($4.20; 1.518; $34,800) (Shirley Booth). Down to $22,000 (including tax) on the finale; previous week $22,500.

Inherit the Wind, Huntington Hartford (D) (6th wk) ($5.20-$4.95; 1,024; $31,000) (Melvyn Douglas). Back to $27,100 but still great; previous week $27,600; exiting town this week.

Red Mill, Greek Theatre (OP) (2d wk) ($4, 4,470; $83,800). Nifty $53,500 on the windup for a $105,000 tally for two weeks.

'GAME' $28,600, WASH.; RENOVATING THEATRE

Washington, Aug. 28.

Sixth and final stanza of "Pajama Game" drew a passable $28,600 at the National Theatre last week and brought the run for the musical to $204,744. Show closed the house's summer season as the best in its history.

Advance is lively for "Li'l Abner," with which the National reopens Sept. 17 after time out for redecoration.

'Show Boat' Okay $52,400, First Week in Dallas

Dallas, Aug. 28.

"Show Boat" continued the healthy b.o. pace of State Fair Musicals 15th season, showing a lusty $52,400 for the first seven performances through last Sunday (26) matinee. Revival, season's sixth and closing production, stars Shirley Jones, with William Tabbert, Betty Colby, Margaret Hamilton and Lawrenee Winters featured.

Big b.o. was the fattest first-week of the six fortnightly productions this season. Jerome Kern revival, produced by managing director Charles R. Meeker Jr., winds the current season with a Sunday (2) matinee.

Touring Shows

(Aug. 27-Sept. 9)

Boy Friend—Philharmonic Aud., L. A. (27-8).

Chalk Garden (Judith Anderson, Gladys Cooper)—Lobero, Santa Barbara (6-8).

Damn Yankees (2d Co.) (Bobby Clark) —Curran, S. F. (27-8).

Inherit the Wind (2d Co.) (Melvyn Douglas) — Huntington Hartford, L. A. (27-1); Aud., Portland (5-8).

Lark (Julie Harris)—Opera House, Central City, Col. (27-1); Geary, S. F. (5-6).

Pajama Game (2d Co.) (Larry Douglas, Buster West, Betty O'Neil)—Royal Alexandra, Toronto (27-8).

Teahouse of the August Moon (Larry Parks) — Geary, S. F. (27-1); Civic, San Jose (3-4); Granada, Santa Barbara (5-6); Harvey, Bakersfield, L. A. (7-8).

Witness for the Prosecution — Alcazar, S. F. (27-8).

Colleen Dewhurst, currently appearing in "Taming of the Shrew" at the East River Amphitheatre, N.Y., has been set for the lead role in Henriette Metcalf's adaptation of "Camille," being produced by Wayne Richardson for a Sept. 18 opening at the Cherry Lane Theatre, N.Y.

B'way Climbs; 'Wonderful' $50,600, 'Yankees' $47,800, 'Success' $16,400, 'Cat' $23,100, 'Match' 17½G, 'Rain' 15G

'Teahouse' $17,000 in 7 In Tent at Allentown, Pa.

Allentown, Pa., Aug. 28.

Robert Rapport's touring tent production of "Teahouse of the August Moon" grossed an okay $17,000 last week in six evening performances and a matinee at the Melody Circle.

The comedy is current at the Oakdale Musical Theatre, Wallingford, Conn., where it ends a fortnight's run Sept. 8. An extra performance has been set for next Sunday (2). The show moves from Oakdale to the Music Circus, Lambertville, N. J., where an originally scheduled fortnight's run has ben extended to three weeks, through Sept. 30.

Parks $17,400, 'Yanks' 44G, S.F.

San Francisco, Aug. 28.

GOP convention depressed legit business here last week by providing too much diversion in the form of free entertainment, free drink and free food. The opening week of "Damn Yankees" at the Curran, though praised extravagantly in press, was only so-so.

"Witness for the Prosecution" at the Alcazar and "Teahouse of the August Moon" at the Geary also suffered.

Estimates for Last Week

Witness for the Prosecution, Alcazar (3d wk) ($4.95; 1,147; $32,929) (Francis L. Sullivan, Patricia Jessel). Fair enough $21,300; previous week, $28,300.

Damn Yankees, Curran (1st wk) ($5.40; 1,752; $52,000) (Bobby Clark). Only moderate $44,000 for the breakin stanza.

Teahouse of the August Moon, Geary (5th wk) ($4.40; 1,550; $37,000) (Larry Parks). Limp $17,400; previous week, $24,500; exits town next Saturday (1).

JULIE'S 'LARK' $62,100, 2 WKS., CENTRAL CITY

Central City, Col., Aug. 28.

"The Lark," starring Julie Harris, grossed a good $31,600 at the Opera House last week. The show winds up its four-week stand here next Saturday (1), moving to the Geary, San Francisco, where its opens next Wednesday (5).

The Kermit Bloomgarden production grossed $30,500 here the previous week.

'King' Good (Not Great) 55G in 1st Week in K.C.

Kansas City, Aug. 28.

Starlight Theatre goes into its 11th and final week of the al fresco season of musicals in Swope Park with the holdover of "King and I" starting last night (Mon.). The Rodgers-Hammerstein musical has the benefit of the Jeanette MacDonald name, and is giving a good account of itself, although not up to the pace of the closing supers of the past couple of years.

Last week, "King" rang bell to tune of $55,000, but under expectations of the years past finale productions, which have topped $70,000 figure. "King" looks to gather in a similar amount in its second week. Weather has turned to cool nights, no help to the outdoor theatre.

Closing in this fashion may leave the Starlight somewhat in the red for the season. A take of around $150,000 was hoped on "King," and it looks more likely to be around $110,000, which will bring in the season somewhat short of the approximate $550,000 budget.

'Kismet' Hefty $50,500 On First Week in St. L.

St. Louis, Aug. 28.

The first stanza of its fortnight stand, "Kismet" grossed a lush $50,500 last week in the Municipal Opera's alfresco theatre in Forest Park. It's the final show of the season.

Cast includes Margot Moser, Norwood Smith, Jacqueline James, Joseph Cusanelli, Harry Weber, Roy Urhausen and William Olvis.

Broadway stuck to form last week. The summer slump has ended, with the usual August b.o. bounce hiking receipts substantially for virtually all shows.

"My Fair Lady" was back in the capacity lineup along with "Most Happy Fella" and "No Time for Sergeants." After a summer layoff, "Middle of the Night" resumed its run last Monday (27), while "Inherit the Wind" reopens Sept. 14.

Estimates for Last Week

Keys: C (Comedy), D (Drama), CD (Comedy-Drama), R (Revue), MC (Musical-Comedy), MD (Musical-Drama), O (Opera), OP (Operetta).

Other parenthetic designations refer, respectively, to weeks played, number of performances through last Saturday, top prices, number of seats, capacity gross and stars. Price includes 10% Federal and 5% City tax, but grosses are net; i.e., exclusive of tax.

Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, Morosco (D) (75th wk; 596; $6.90; 946; $31,000) (Thomas Gomez, Marjorie Steele, Alex Nicol). Previous week, $20,500; last week, over $23,100.

Damn Yankees, 46th St. (MC) (69th wk; 548; $8.05; 1,297; $50,573) (Gwen Verdon). Previous week, $45,400; last week, nearly $47,800.

Diary of Anne Frank, Cort (D) (47th wk; 373; $5.75; 1,036; $28,854) (Joseph Schildkraut). Previous week, $19,700; last week, nearly $22,100; Susan Strasberg resumes her costarring assignment next week after a month's vacation.

Fanny, Majestic (MD) (95th wk; 756; $7.50; 1,625; $62,968) (Lawrence Tibbett, Billy Gilbert). Previous week, $25,100 on twofers; last week, almost $29,300 on twofers.

Hatful of Rain, Lyecum (D) (42d wk; 333; $5.75-$4.60; 995; $23,339) (Vivian Blaine). Previous week, $11,700 on twofers; last week, over $15,000 on twofers.

Matchmaker, Royale (C) (38th wk; 304; $5.75; 1.050; $31,000) (Ruth Gordon, Eileen Herlie, Loring Smith). Previous week, $12,500; last week, almost $17,500.

Mr. Wonderful, Broadway (MC) (23d wk; 180; $7.50-$6.90; 1,900; $71,000). Previous week, $46.700; last week, almost $50,600.

Most Happy Fella, Imperial (MD) (17th wk; 132; $7.50; 1,427; $57,875). Previous week, $58,000; last week, nearly $58,400.

My Fair Lady, Hellinger (MC) (24th wk; 188; $7.50; 1.551; $64.240) (Rex Harrison, Julie Andrews) Previous week, $56,100; last week, almost $65,200; Tom Helmore subbed last week for Harrison, who returned to the cast last Monday (27) after missing 11 performances because of a throat infection.

New Faces of 1956, Barrymore (R) (11th wk; 84; $7.50-$6.90; 999; $38.577). Previous week, $20,600; last week, over $24,700.

No Time for Sergeants, Alvin (C) (45th wk; 356; $5.75-$4 60; 1,331; $38,500). Previous week, $38,600; last week, nearly $38,700.

Pajama Game, St. James (MC) (120th wk; 956 ;$6.90; 1,615; $52,118) (John Raitt, Eddie Foy Jr., Julie Wilson). Previous week, $28,000; last week, almost $33,900; Jack Goode succeeds Foy Sept. 10 and G. D. Wallace takes over Raitt's role early in October.

Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter, Shubert (C) (46th wk; 364; $5.75; 1,453; $41,668) (Jayne Mansfield, Walter Matthau, Martin Gabel). Previous week, $13.300; last week, nearly $16,400.

Reopening This Week

Middle of the Night, ANTA Theatre (D) ($5.75; 1.185; $39.116) (Edward G. Robinson). Resumed Monday night (27) for its 22d week.

OFF-BROADWAY

Dorian Gray, Bleecker St. (8-16-56).

Iceman Cometh, Circle in Square (5-8-56).

Man of Destiny, Downtown (5-21-56); closes Sept. 16.

No Exit, Theatre East (8-14).

Nobody's Child, Open Stage (8-22).

Threepenny Opera, de Lys (9-20-55).

Uncle Vanya, 4th St. (1-31-56).

World's My Oyster, Actor's Playhouse (7-31-56).

The Broadway run of the London Old Vic at the Winter Garden has been extended from eight to 12 weeks, beginning Oct. 23.

B'way Legit Never Had It So Good

Continued from page 1

ances include Ethel Merman, Fredric March-Florence Eldridge, Walter Pidgeon, Rosalind Russell, Judy Holliday, Michael Redgrave, Charles Laughton, Bert Lahr, Martha Raye, Cornelia Otis Skinner, Maurice Evans, Barbara Bel Geddes, Burgess Meredith and Fernando Lamas.

Also Paul Douglas, Linda Darnell, Miriam Hopkins, Edna Best, Claire Bloom, Wilfrid Hyde White, Jean-Louis Barrault and Madeleine Renaud, Anna Magnani, Signe Hasso, Richard Ney, Wendell Corey, Edmund Purdom, John Neville, Paul Rogers, Shelley Winters, Elliott Nugent, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Menasha Skulnik, Arlene Francis, David Wayne, Arthur Kennedy and Nancy Walker.

They will join an array of holdover stars including Paul Muni, Edward G. Robinson, Rex Harrison, Julie Andrews, Ruth Gordon, Eileen Herlie, Gwen Verdon, Lawrence Tibbett, Vivian Blaine, Billy Gilbert, Julie Wilson, Eddie Foy Jr., Sammy Davis Jr., Loring Smith; Joseph Schildkraut, Susan Strasberg and Jayne Mansfield.

According to present indications, on the other hand, some of the top author and/or composer names will not be represented during the season. They include Richard Rodgers-Oscar Hammerstein 2d, Cole Porter, Frank Loesser, Alan Jay Lerner-Frederick Loewe, Abe Burrows, Harold Rome, Arthur Schwartz, Harold Arlen, Arthur Miller, Moss Hart, Thornton Wilder and (except for the books of musicals) George S. Kaufman and Lillian Hellman.

Also Missing

Stars likely to be among the missing include Helen Hayes, Katharine Cornell, Shirley Booth, Tallulah Bankhead, Beatrice Lillie, Ray Bolger, Mary Martin, Jose Ferrer, Jessica Tandy-Hume Cronyn, Henry Fonda and Margaret Sullavan. Reportedly being sought for shows but not set are Ina Claire, Alfred Drake and various others.

Various names, including Alfred Lunt-Lynn Fontanne, Bobby Clark, Julie Harris, Judith Anderson and Melvyn Douglas are or will be on tour and thus not available for Broadway. Although most of the ranking managements have productions scheduled, the thus-far non-entries include Leland Hayward, Rodgers & Hammerstein, Lindsay & Crouse, Irene Mayer Selznick, Herman Shumlin, Joseph M. Hyman & Bernard Hart, Maurice Evans, George Abbott, Paul Gregory, Joshua Logan, Elaine Perry, Feuer & Martin and Billy Rose.

The listing below isn't intended to be complete, since some announced projects are apparently too remote for serious consideration. Others, while possibilities for this season, probably won't be ready before the 1957-58 stanza. A few announced entries may also have been overlooked.

In the following lineup, the respective managements are indicated parenthetically, and the list is divided into Probable (in numerous cases these are definitely scheduled, with theatres booked) and Possible (some may be done next season, others never).

PROBABLE MUSICALS

Ballad of Baby Doe, by Douglas Moore and John Latouche (Michael Myerberg).

Bells Are Ringing, by Betty Comden, Adolph Green, Jule Styne (Theatre Guild), starring Judy Holliday.

Candide, by Lillian Hellman, Leonard Bernstein and Richard Wilbur, based on Voltaire (Ethel Linder Reiner).

Copper and Brass, by Ellen Violett, David Craig and David Baker (Lyn Austin & Thomas Noyes), starring Nancy Walker.

Grand Hotel, by Luther Davis, Robert Wright and George Forrest, from Vicki Baum novel (Playwrights Co.), starring Bert Lahr.

Happy Hunting, by Howard Lindsay, Russel Crouse, Harold Karr and Matt Dubey (Jo Mielziner), starring Ethel Merman, with Fernando Lamas.

Li'l Abner, by Norman Panama, Melvin Frank, Johnny Mercer and Gene de Paul, based on Al Capp cartoon series (Panama, Frank & Kidd).

Pay the Piper, by George Abbott and Bob Merrill, based on "Anna Christie," by Eugene O'Neill (Frederick Brisson, Robert Griffith & Harold S. Prince).

Serena, by June Carroll and Arthur Siegel, based on "Serena Blandish," by S. N. Behrman (Leonard Sillmon).

West Side Story, by Leonard Bernstein and Arthur Laurents (Cheryl Crawford & Roger L. Stevens).

PROBABLE PLAYS

A for Adult, by Robert Soderberg (Guthrie McClintic, Stanley Gilkey, Richard Horner & Justin Sturm).

Apple Cart, by Bernard Shaw (Charles Adams & John Neebe), starring Maurice Evans, Signe Hasso.

Auntie Mame, by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, based on story by Patrick Dennis (Robert Fryer & Lawrence Carr), starring Rosalind Russell.

Barrault-Renaud repertory company of Paris (Sol Hurok), starring Jean-Louis Barrault and Madeleine Renaud.

Best House in Naples, by F. Hugh Herbert, from Italian original by Eduardo de Filippo (Nick Mayo).

Blind Man's Buff, by Alfred Bester (Bruce Becker & Robert Ellis Miller).

Bon Voyage, by Ronald Alexander (Shepard Traube).

Brass Section, by Max Wilk (Wendell Corey & Richard Charlton), starring Corey.

Build With One Hand, by Joseph Kramm (Playwrights Co.), starring Elliott Nugent, Geraldine Fitzgerald.

Casual Miracle, by Howard Teichmann, based on "Miss Lonelyhearts," by Nathaniel West (Walter Fried).

Child of Fortune, by Guy Bolton, from "Wings of the Dove," by Henry James (Jed Harris), starring Edmund Purdom.

Clearing in the Woods, by Arthur Laurents (Playwrights Co. & Oliver Smith).

Double in Hearts, by Paul Nathan (Paul Vroom, Barnard Straus & Adna Karns).

Girls of Summer, by N. Richard Nash (Cheryl Crawford), starring Shelley Winters.

Gordy, by Mannie Manheim and Arthur Marx (Max Gordon).

Happiest Millionaire, by Kyle Crichton, based on the Cordelia Drexel Biddle-Crichton biography, "My Philadelphia Father" (Howard Erskine & Joseph Hayes), starring Walter Pidgeon.

Harbor Lights, by Norman Vane (Anthony Parella) Linda Darnell.

Hidden River, by Ruth and Augustus Goetz, from novel by Storm Jameston (Martin Gabel & Henry M. Margolis), starring Arlene Francis.

Hole in the Head, by Arnold Shulman (Producers Theatre), starring Paul Douglas.

Hotel Paradiso, adapted by Peter Glenville from French farce by George Feydeau and Maurice Devalieres (Producers Theatre).

Interlock, by Ira Levin (Kermit Bloomgarden).

Joker, by Arthur Sheekman (George Kondolf).

Long Day's Journey Into Night, by Eugene O'Neill (Leigh Connell Theodore Mann & Jose Quintero), starring Fredric March, Florence Eldridge.

Loud Red Patrick, by John Boruff, based on book by Ruth McKenney (David Wayne & Robert Douglas), starring Wayne, Arthur Kennedy.

Maiden Voyage, by Paul Osborn (Kermit Bloomgarden).

Major Barbara, by Bernard Shaw (Robert L. Joseph & Roger L. Stevens), starring Charles Laughton, Cornelia Otis Skinner, Burgess Meredith, Glynis Johns, Eli Wallach.

Minotaur, by Robert Thom (Michael Myerberg).

Moon for the Misbegotten, by Eugene O'Neill (Carmen Capalbo & Stanley Chase).

Night of the Auk, by Arch Obolor (Kermit Bloomgarden) starring Christopher Plummer.

Old Vic repertory of Shakespeare dramas (S. Hurok), starring John Neville, Claire Bloom, Paul Rogers.

Once More, with Feeling, by Harry Kurnitz (Martin Gabel & Hemry M. Margolis).

Once There Was a Russian, by Samuel Spewack (Herman Levin).

Ordeal by Fire, by Elmer Rice (Playwrights Co.).

Orpheus Descending, by Tennessee Williams, revised from his "Battle of the Angels" (Williams & Audrey Wood), starring Anna Magnani.

Palm Tree in a Rose Garden, by Meade Roberts (Robert Lavin & Hope Abelson), starring Miriam Hopkins.

Pictures in the Hallway, reading of excerpts from Sean O'Casey's autobiographical volume, adapted by Paul Shyre (Harry Fromkes).

Protective Custody, by William Richardson and Howard Berney (Anderson Lawler & Lillian Emerson), starring Faye Emerson.

Reluctant Debutante, by Douglas Home (Gilbert Miller & M-G-M), starring Edna Best, Wilfred Hyde White.

Romanoff and Juliet, by Peter Ustinov (David Merrick), starring Ustinov.

Separate Tables, by Terence Rattigan (Producers Theatre-Hecht & Lancaster), starring Eric Portman, Margaret Leighton.

Sixth Finger in a Five-Finger Glove, by Scott Michel (Gertrude Caplan & Thelma Finger).

Sleeping Prince, by Terence Rattigan (Gilbert Miller), starring Michael Redgrave, Barbara Bel Geddes.

Small War on Manhattan, by Robert E. Sherwood (Playwrights Co.).

Speaking of Murder, by Audrey and William Roos (Courtney Burr & Burgess Meredith).

Too Late the Phalarope, by Robert Yale Libott from Alan Paton novel (Mary K. Frank).

Tunnel of Love, by Peter de Vries and Joseph Fields, from the former's novel (Theatre Guild).

Uncle Willie, by Julie Berns (Albert Lewis), starring Menasha Skulnik.

Very Special Baby, by Robert Alan Arthur (David Susskind & Michael Abbott), starring Sylvia Sidney.

Visit to a Small Planet, by Gore Vidal (George Axelrod).

Waltz of the Toreadors, adapted by Lucienne Hill from French of Jean Anouilh (Producers Theatre).

Young Strangers, by Irene Kamp (Bertram Block & Edythe Latham, in association with Robert Fryer & Lawrence Carr).

POSSIBLE MUSICALS

Ah, Wilderness, based on the Eugene O'Neill comedy (Jo Mielziner & David Merrick).

Angelina, by Burton Lane, E. Y. Harburg, Fred Saidy (David Merrick).

Boffola, revue by Ronny Graham, Nat Hiken, Hugh Martin, Ralph Blane, Jimmy McHugh and Harold Adamson (Harry Rigby & Herbert Jacoby), starring Martha Raye.

Captain's Paradise, by Bob Merrill and Alec Coppel, from the Alec Guinness film (Howard Merrill & Theatre Corp. of America).

Dear Brutus, to be adapted from the James M. Barrie play (George Jessel).

Fabulous Mizeners, by Irving Berlin and S. N. Berman, from the late Alva Johnson's biographical sketches in Satevepost (originally announced by Max Gordon but Feuer & Martin also mentioned).

Frisky, by Ulpio Minucci and Leo Robin, based on the Italian films, "Bread, Love and Dreams," and "Frisky" (Larry Spier & Don Coleman, with Jule Styne).

Ghost Goes West, by Richard Adler, based on the film; (Robert L. Joseph).

Girl from Sardi's, by Charles Robinson, J. J. Stein and Joseph Dooley (Courtney Burr & Burgess Meredith).

Girl of the Golden West, by Puccini, with new book by Robert Lawrence (Jule Styne & Lester Osterman Jr.).

Go Fight City Hall, by Jack Lawrence, Ira Wallach, Don Walker (Charles Bowden, Richard Barr & H. Ridgley Bullock Jr.).

Goldilocks, by Walter and Jean Kerr (David Merrick & Jo Mielziner).

Heavenly Bodies, by Harry Rigby, Theodore Barbara and Harold Lee Stevens (Adna Karns).

High Heels, by Charles K. Peck Jr., Jimmy McHugh, Harold Adamson and Sol Meyer (Howard Hoyt & Harold Patterson).

Last Resorts, by Jean Kerr and Leroy Anderson, based on Cleveland Amory book (Frederick Brisson, Robert Griffith & Harold S. Prince).

Lipstick War, by George S. Kaufman, Alan Campbell and Bob Merrill (Max Gordon).

My Royal Past, by Cecil Beaton and Sandy Wilson (Gant Gaither).

Shinbone Alley, by George Kleinsinger and Joe Darion, based on the "archy and mehitabel" stories of Don Marquis (Peter Lawrence).

Shop Around the Corner, by Cole Porter, based on play by Miklos Laszlo (Cy Feuer & Ernest H. Martin).

Thirteen Daughters, by Eaton McGoon Jr. (Michael Myerberg).

This Planet Earth, by Sidney Michaels, Hayward Morris and Stone Widney (Stephen W. Sharmat, Laurence H. Buck & Bill D. Ross).

Three Tigers for Tessie, by Jack Sher, Cy Gomberg, Hugh Martin, Ralph Blane (Richard Kollmar & James W. Gardiner).

Too Little Time for Love, by Richard Ney and Louis Bellson (Ney).

Top Ten, by Abe Burrows (Cy Feuer & Ernest H. Martin).

POSSIBLE PLAYS

All's Fair, by Bryn Morgan (Doria Avila & Al Gallagher).

Are You Sure, by Jeanette Kamins (Robert Gordon).

Best of Steinbeck, readings from the novelist-playwright (Stephen Rose).

Class Reunion, by Mary and L. Bush Fekete, based on novel by Franz Werfel (Robert Bassler).

Dash of Bitters, by Reginald Denham and Conrad Sutton Smith, based on story by Margaret St. Claire (John S. Cobb).

Farewell, Farewell, Eugene, by John Vari (John C. Wilson).

Feathered Fauna, by Charles Robinson and Jean Dalrymple (John C. Wilson).

Five Fathers of Pepi, by Ira Avery, from his own novel (Jay Julien).

French We Are, by Henri Caubisons (Joseph Harris).

Garden in the Sea, by Michael Dyne, from "The Aspern Papers," by Henry James (Theatre Guild).

Golden Egg, by Gioia Cook, based on Philip King's British farce, "On Monday Next" (Alexander S. Ince & Noel Schenker).

Immaculate Adventure, by Robert L. Joseph (Shirley Ayers).

In Good King Charles' Golden Days), by Bernard Shaw (Theatre Guild).

Indoor Sport, by Jack Perry (Viola Rubber).

Infernal Machine, adapted by Robert Thom from original by Jean Cocteau (Michael Myerberg).

Klop ("The Bedbug"), from Russian of Vladimir Mayakovski (Robert W. Dowling & Peter Brook).

Larger Than Life, by Don Ettlinger (Courtney Burr & Burgess Meredith).

Laughter of Giants), by Paul Crabtree (Charles Bowden, Richard Barr & H. Ridgley Bullock Jr.).

Lolita, by Mary Chase (Producers Theatre).

Long Echo, by Lesley Storm (Alfred de Liagre Jr.).

Madonna and Child, by Maxwell Anderson (Playwrights Co.).

Maybe Tuesday, by Mel Tolkin and Lucille Kallen (Walter Fried).

Me Papoose Sitter, by Gordon Langley Hall and James J. Cronin, adapted from the former's novel (Oscar S. Lerman & Leo Greenland).

Old Lady, by George Gordon (George Gordon).

Orchids to Murder, by Lou Lawrence (Jack Born).

Pattern for Murder, by Raymond Bowers (Ray V. Johnson).

Pour Lucrece, by Jean Giraudoux (Playwrights Co.).

Quare Fellow, by Brendan Behan (David Rose).

Square Root of Wonderful, by Carson McCullers (Saint Subber).

Time Remembered, adapted by Christopher Fry from Jean Anouilh (Playwrights Co.).

Too Many Doctors, by Claude Binyon and Max Edwards, (Albert Lewis).

Touch of the Poet, by Eugene O'Neill (Producers Theatre).

White Bird, by Perl Buck (Tad Danielewski).

Winkleberg, by Ben Hecht (Lee Falk).

You Are My Sister, by John O'Hara (Richard Myers & Julius Fleischmann).

Coast Grossed $5,411,200 in '55-'56

Continued from page 55

atres functioning besides the Curran. They were the 1,477-seat Alcazar and the 1,500-seat Geary. The former, which alternated on most of its offerings with the Carthay Circle, L.A., grossed $591,800 on a 41-week span. Included in the playing time was 28 weeks of "Anniversary Waltz," which continued into the current season for a total run of 38 weeks, the local record. Five other shows were also presented at the house.

The Geary, mixing touring and stock entries, was open 28 weeks, offering 10 shows for a total $525,200 gross Following is a breakdown of the L.A. season covering theatres played grosses and playing time:

Biltmore

Solid Gold Cadillac (tour), $49,700, three weeks.
Tea and Sympathy (tour), $100,100, three weeks.
Teahouse of the August Moon (tour), $147,500, five weeks.
D'Oyly Carte (tour), $64,000, three weeks.
Marcel Marceau (tour), $37,500, two weeks.
Can-Can (tour), $99,500, three weeks.
Bad Seed (tour), $68,500, three weeks.

Carthay Circle

Oh Men, Oh Women (stock, holdover from 1954-55), $21,600, one week.
Shrike (stock), $54,200, four weeks.
Fifth Season (stock), $107,100, six weeks.
Lunatics and Lovers (stock), $62,000, four weeks.
Tender Trap (stock), $71,000, four weeks.
Desperate Hours (stock), $48,500, three weeks.
King of Hearts (stock), $33,000, three weeks.
White Sheep of the Family (stock), $21,000, two weeks.
Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter (stock, continued), $20,500, one week.

Greek

Three For Tonight (special post-B'way booking), $85,400, one week.

Hartford

Day By the Sea (tryout), $32,500, three weeks.
Bus Stop (tour) $62,200, four weeks.
Man (stock), $10,000, two weeks.
Rainmaker (stock), $16,000, three weeks.
Joy Ride (tryout, continued), $224,400, 19 weeks.

Music Box

Hellzapoppin (local), $38,500, five weeks.

Philharmonic Auditorium

Pajama Game (tour), $451,700, seven weeks.
Kismet (tour), $257,500, four weeks.
Plain and Fancy (tour), $307,600, six weeks.
Rosalinda (stock), $243,300, four weeks.

Following is a breakdown of the San Francisco season, covering the theatres played, grosses and playing time:

Alcazar

Dear Charles (tour, holdover from previous season), $33,400, two weeks.
Fifth Season (stock), $31,800, three weeks.
Desperate Hours (stock), $53,500, four weeks.
Lunatics and Lovers (stock), $28,500, two weeks.
Tender Trap (stock), $30,000, two weeks.
Anniversary Waltz (stock, continued), $414,600, 28 weeks.

Curran

Kiss, Me Kate (stock), $165,500, four weeks.
Kismet (tour), $193,500, four weeks.
Pajama Game (tour), $487,600, 10 weeks.
Plain and Fancy (tour), $234,300, six weeks.
Can-Can (tour), $157,500, four weeks.
Marcel Marceau (tour), $23,000, one week.
Bad Seed (tour), $67,000, three weeks.
Silk Stockings (tour), $230,300, five weeks.

Geary

Tea and Sympathy (tour, holdover from previous season), $64,100, three weeks.
Solid Gold Cadillac (tour), $107,500, six weeks.
D'Oyly Carte (pre-B'way), $100,000 three weeks.
Day By the Sea (tryout), $34,000, two weeks.
Don Juan in Hell (tour), $12,500, one week.
Bus Stop (tour), $69,600, four weeks.
Marcel Marceau (tour), $48,000, two weeks.
Jenny Kissed Me (stock), $15,000, two weeks.
Reclining Figure (stock), $18,000, two weeks.
Anastasia (tour), $56,500, three weeks.

Offer 'Bells' Out

Continued from page 55

as more or less standard for a major star, and certainly not unreasonable. In fact, he points out, her presence as star was one of the factors that persuaded him to invest in the venture, and he'd rather have her at the stated terms than some lesser name at a lower percentage.

As for the possibility of a plagiarism claim, the backer shrugs it off with the quip that such a charge merely indicates that "Bells" must look like a surefire smash.

The production is capitalized at $300,000, with provision for 20% overcall. An unusual wrinkle of the venture is that there are only a handful of limited partners, who have in turn farmed out their sizable respective investments on "assignment" to individuals (the latter in some cases reepresenting syndicates). Under the terms of the letters-of-assignment, assignees will get pro-rata shares of all income received by the limited partners, and full information on the show, including regular accountants' reports.

"Bells," with book and lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolph Green and music by Jule Styne, will be staged by Jerome Robbins. It's due Nov. 29 at the Shubert, N. Y., after a tryout tour.

Producer Herman Shumlin, who withdrew from the League of N.Y. Theatres last winter, has resumed his membership.

Off-Broadway Shows

No Exit

Easton Productions revival of drama in one act, by Jean-Paul Sartre. Staged by Patricia Newhall; settings, Kent Bedient, assisted by Joy Bergman; costumes, Caramounte. At Theatre East, N. Y., Aug. 25, '56; $3.30 top.

Cast: Dermot McNamara, Robert F. Mandan, Tani Seitz, Helen Seamon.

Jean-Paul Sartre's existentialism mayn't be much in the news these days, but his long one-act play, "No Exit," well-mounted, still provides piquant theatre. That, at least, is the evidence of Easton Productions revival at Theatre East, the town's comparatively new under-an-apartment house theatre. Easton Productions is the partnership name of Patricia Newhall and Hans Weigert. "No Exit" is their local production bow, with Miss Newhall providing the staging.

Perhaps the revival's freshness is due to Miss Newhall's evidently knowing what she wanted. The casting is good, the setting has a crisp opulence, while the staging reflects and often clarifies the Sartre convolutions. Although the occasional panic of the three people condemned to share for eternity a room in hell gets some unintended laughs, the performances are generally in focus and knowingly impassioned.

Getting past the barrier of "No Exit" being primarily a discussion play is the chief problem and this has been accomplished by accentuating the raw emotions of the three misfits who cannot get along together, yet must, this being their hell.

There's some torrid lovemaking afoot, and by the time Helen Seamon, as the central figure of the triangle, gets through the 7:30 and 10:15 performances Saturday nights, she must feel slightly rumpled. Her now-petulant, now-intense performance, however, of the narcissistic butterfly who murdered her child is equal to Sartre and to the occasion.

Tani Seitz has good concentration and fire as the woman whose desire for the other girl is both her weapon and her torture. The man of the strange trio, the coward and collaborationist, is played with brooding conviction by Robert F. Mandan, while Dermot McNamara appears briefly as the soft-spoken, unblinking valet.

This revival is less concerned with the ramifications of Sartre's philosophy than with the elemental passions unleashed in his people. While there's nothing wrong with intellectualizing in the theatre, this contrapuntal accent has been to the good, enabling Easton Productions to bring verve to early season off-Broadway.

Geor.

Nobody's Child

Ricdard Castle, in association with The Open Stage, production of drama in three acts (10 scenes) by Richard Davidson. Staged by Castle; settings, Don McGovern. At Open Stage, N.Y., Aug. 22, '56.

Cast: Tom Gilson, Don McGovern, George O'Hallohan, Vern Ackian, Peter Berry, Richard Laurier, Durwood Everett, Ronald Maccone, Ernest Macias, Maurice McEndree, Llewelyn Pepper, Bob Berger, Al Abouf, Richard Davidson, Jonathan Evans.

It's pretty hard to find anything of value in "Nobody's Child," except possibly scripter Richard Davidson's good intention. He's apparently trying to say that juvenile misfits deserve intelligently sympathetic consideration. As a theme, this is valid, but on stage it is soporific.

Events transpire in a home for problem children, but the juves are frequently less troublesome than the social workers who run the place. That a lad attacks and nearly kills his housemaster seems to be just a belated event rather than an integral part of the play's development. The gory item is saved until the presumably climactic second act (7th scene) curtain, but it serves primarily to arouse drowsy customers in time for the intermission rather than impel their interest to the denouement.

Richard Castle, co-producer, has also staged. He has induced his actors to mumble rather than speak and often to jumble lines and cues in ad lib fashion until it's sometimes uncertain whether lines have been learned. This may be in the direction of naturalism but it can't be tabbed good theatre.

The play is liberally peppered with vulgarisms, perhaps to lend a realistic touch, but even the most vivid expletive gets to be a bore after repetition.

Geor.

Canadian Groses

Continued from page 55

Theatre. Except for a fortnight's run of the Larry Parks edition of "Teahouse of the August Moon," all the enries there were in for single-week stands. "Teahouse" was the top straight play grosser, while "Boy Friend"led the musical field.

The Toronto offerings were confined to the 1,525-seat Royal Alexandra Theatre, with "Boy Friend" again the top tuner draw. "Tamburlain the Great" was the strongest of the straight play entries on the basis of its 13-performance take. Following is a breakdown of the season in both cities, covering shows, grosses and playing time:

TORONTO

King and I (tour), $111,500, four weeks.
Solid Gold Cadillac (tour), $17,700, one week.
Comedie Francaise (pre-B'way), $24,900, five performances.
Tea and Sympathy (tour), $12,700, one week.
Anastasia (tour), $11,000, one week.
Ruth Draper (tour), $10,800, one week.
Seven Year Itch (tour), $17,100, one week.
D'Oyly Carte Opera Co. (tour), $65,900, two weeks.
Teahouse of the August Moon (tour), $69,700, three weeks.
Tamburlaine the Great (pre-B'way), $54,700, 13 performances.
Boy Friend (tour), $79,000, two weeks.
Can-Can (tour), $46,800, two weeks.
Bus Stop (tour), $12,300, one week.

MONTREAL

Tea and Sympathy (tour), $20,000, one week.
Seven Year Itch (tour), $15,000, one week.
D'Oyly Carte (tour), $35,000, one week.
Teahouse of the August Moon (tour), $37,100, two weeks.
Boy Friend (tour), $35,300, one week.
Can-Can (tour), $31,900, one week.
Bus Stop (tour), $14,400, one week.

Shows Out of Town

Continued from page 56

The Preacher

has a sound dramatic premise in his story of the revival racket as practiced by an unsavory group. The combine begins to fall apart at the seams when the sermon-writer is bitten by love and gets real religion. The windup promises of a better future for him and his girl, although it indicates the racket will continue under different management.

Unlike most local little theatre presentations, this one has the stamp of professionalism about it. It has been skillfully and tautly directed, by Laurence Stewart and there are some notable performances, particularly Stanley Adams with a frightening portrayal as the mountebank who preys on faith and by the author, doubling convincingly as the sermon-writer.

Others who impress are John Reach, Eddy Ryder, Lettie Lovel and Paul Harbor as other members of the combine. Dawn Richard seems too naive in the role of the girl who serves as the catalyst for the writer's conscience.

Set design by Michael Nash is in keeping with the professional tone of the production.

Kap.

Stark Hesseltine, assistant to Phoenix Theatre producers T. Edward Hambleton & Norris Houghton, succeeds James Gelb as stage manager of the Siobhan McKenna revival of "Saint Joan." He takes over the assignment during the Philly engagement, prior to the show's opening Sept. 11 at the Phoenix, N. Y., with Gelb shifting to the stage manager spot with the upcoming Broadway production of "Sleeping Prince."

THEATRICAL COSTUMER

Seeks services of experienced MAN, WOMAN, or BOTH who can improve present successful business. Excellent opportunity with partner or ownership possibilities.

Write in detail: BOX 202, VARIETY 154 West 46th St., New York 36, N. Y.

DIRECTOR

Seeking a director to start rehearsals at once in New York of a new comedy. We are planning to open in one of the Off-Broadway theatres.

WRITE TO P.O. BOX 48, BOSTON 1, MASS.

Barn Grosses

Continued from page 57

Dilemma" grossed $1,400 at Green Hills Theatre near here last week.

The barn, directed by Mesrop Kesdekian, shutters its fifth season with this week's "Little Hut."

Mgt. Shift at Ephrata, Pa.
Ephrata, Pa., Aug. 28.

Change of ownership and the adding of an extra week because of "good business," has been announced by Jonathan Dwight, director of the Ephrata Star Playhouse.

Dwight, co-partner of the Gateway Playhouse, Somers Point, N. J., says he has bought the share of the strawhat owned by Jane Barry Haynes, of Durham, N. C. The combine of Haynes and Dwight took over the theatre this season and operated it on a star basis.

The remaining partner also reported he has signed a five-year lease on the house, where he plans improvements, including enlargement.

Dwight said Sylvia Sydney will star in "Picnic" next week as an additional play on the 10-week schedule. The house is now operating Monday - through - Saturday, instead of opening Sundays in this strict Lancaster County area.

The house is tabbed at $1.50 to $2.50. Chico Marx in "Fifth Season" is current.

Chico Marx $6,600, Spa
Saratoga, N.Y., Aug. 28.

Chico Marx in "Fifth Season" grossed a not-too-impressive $6,600 last week in the 587-seat Spa Summer Theatre here, at $3.30 top. It was the second time within three weeks that a male star had failed to draw $7,000 during what should be the strawhat's biggest grossing period — the August horse race season. Only Beatrice Lillie in "Beason's Fables" showed pull, with a record-setting $12,250 gross at $4 top.

"Chalk Garden," starring Lillian and Dorothy Gish, is the current week's closer in John Huntington's 10th season as producer.

Duggan 21G in 2, Drury Lane
Chicago, Aug. 28.

Television's Tom Duggan, starring in "Tender Trap," established a new gross record at the Drury Lane summer theatre, fetching in $21,000 for the two-week run. Duggan's personal take on the percentage deal was $5,600.

Gertrude Berg, starring in "Solid Gold Cadillac," is current at the suburban tent.

Albany Barn Extends
Albany, Aug. 28.

The Shelley Players, of New Scotland, the Albany area's newest strawhat, has extended its season for a ninth week, with the presentation of "See How They Run" from Aug. 29 through Sept. 2.

Shirley Poskanzer Kaye, who operates a day camp on the same site, is producer.

'Kismet' $18,400, Detroit
Detroit, Aug. 28.

"Kismet" grossed a good $18,400 last week in the first stanza of a fortnight stay at Melody Circus. The area's other tent theatre, Northland Playhouse, did a poor $7,000 with "Dracula," starring John Carradine.

The breakevens are $12,000 at the 1,500-seat Melody Circus, scaled at a $4 top, less 25% discounts, and $8,000 at Northland Playhouse, a 1,400-seater with a top of $3.60, less 25% discounts. Potential capacities are $41,982 at Melody and $25,678 at Northland.

Current productions are a holdover of "Kismet" at Melody Circus and the touring revue, "Sticks and Stones," starring Hermione Gingold, at Northland Playhouse.

'Old Boy' $3,000, Olney
Olney, Md., Aug. 28.

Despite favorable reviews in the Washington dailies, the first stanza of "The Old Boy," at the Olney Playhouse drew a disappointing $3,000 last week.

Players, Inc. production of the Irish comedy, with Marjorie Gateson and Edward Cullen, ends the Olney season next Monday night (3).

Joan Mann Carter, wife of Jack Carter, featured in "Mr. Wonderful," has joined the cast of "Harbor Lights."

Legit Bits

Arthur Spaeth, drama critic of the Cleveland News, will be in town Sept. 4-12 to catch the Broadway shows. His schedule has been arranged by pressagent Bill Fields.

Motley will design the costumes for "Long Day's Journey into Night."

Peggy Cass, Polly Rowles, Barry Thomson, Marian Winters, James Kirkwood, Joyce Lear and Susan Steele are set for roles in "Aunti Mame," starring Rosalind Russell.

Harry Essex has succeeded Jim Miller as company manager of the touring "Damn Yankees."

According to word from New Hope, Pa., where Michael Ellis operates the Bucks County Playhouse, the producer goes to Cape Cod this week to confab with Patricia Joudrey and her husband, John Steele, about a possible try-out of her new play at the strawhat early this fall.

Phyllis Anderson, script agent with Music Corp. of America and wife of playwright Robert Anderson, seriously ill in N. Y. Hospital, but is permitted phonecalls.

Ruth Altman has withdrawn from her original featured role in the touring "Boy Friend" and has returned to New York. She's been succeeded by Gabrielle.

Joseph Shea left yesterday (Tues.) for Chicago to do the advance for "Boy Friend," which opens there Sept. 19.

David Kind, treasurer of the Blackstone Theatre, Chicago, leaves tomorrow (Thurs.) after catching the Broadway shows and powwowing with Shubert Alley cronies.

Al Goldin will be general manager for "Very Special Baby," succeeding Monty Shaff, who is ill on the Coast.

Diana van der Vlis, who recently arrived in New York from Toronto, has been set for a major role in "Happiest Millionaire."

"Three for All," starring Paul Draper, ends its limited run at the Carnegie Recital Hall, N.Y., tomorrow (Thurs.).

English character actor Charles Carson has been set for a part in "Apple Cart."

Martin Ashe has been added to the cast of "Happiest Millionaire."

David Clarke has exited "Too Late the Phalarope" because of "difficulties" over billing. He's been replaced by George Tyne.

Maureen Stapleton will play the femme lead in "Light a Penny Candle."

Donald Cook will costar with Joan Bennett in the touring "Janus."

Mark J. Appleman's "Widow's Walk," previously titled "Widow Seed," has been optioned by Charles Fass for his initial Broadway production venture. Percy S. Montague will direct.

Christopher Plummer will have the lead in "Night of the Auk."

Basil Rathbone will recreate his original Broadway assignment in "The Heiress" for two weeks beginning Sept. 11 at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Milburn, N.J.

Ruth Gillette and Marguerite Shaw, who play the same roles respectively in the Broadway and touring companies of "Pajama Game" will swap assignments next Monday (3).

Producer Leonard Sillman left last week for Europe.

Perry Watkins will design the scenery for "Harbor Lights," while Albie Gaye and Ronn Cummins have been added to the cast.

Paula Trueman has withdrawn from the cast of "Loud Red Patrick."

William Lanteau will play Available Jones in "Li'l Abner."

Bob Burland is touring the barns in "Knickerbocker Holiday."

Beatrice Lillie's revue, "Beasop's Fables," set for a return stand the week of Sept. 10 at the Boston (Mass.) Summer Theatre.

Sheridan Gibney's "A House in the Country," cancelled as a Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, Pa., tryout, earlier this season, will be tested at the Pocono Playhouse, Mountainhome, Pa., during September.

Robert Gardett played the Hildy Johnson role in "Front Page" last week at the Lakewood Playhouse, Barnesville, Pa.

Jim Campbell, who was slated to play the sheriff in Jules Pfeiffer's proposed touring production of "Bus Stop" (it was cancelled when 20th-Fox made a deal to advance the release date of the film version), has the role in a presentation of the William Inge comedy this week at the Capri Theatre, Atlantic Beach, N. Y. He'll have the lead in a new Ford industrial show, starting next Monday (4).

Scene designer Watson Barratt, back from vacation in Highlands, N.C., goes to St. Louis shortly for a lecture date.

Jimmy Oster, last seen on Broadway in "Once Upon a Tailor," is in the incoming revival of "Saint Joan," starring Siobhan McKenna.

Realtor-producer-theatre operator Roger L. Stevens, who was chief pre-convention fund-raiser for Adlai Stevenson, was named last week to head the financing drive for the Democratic party during the Presidential campaign.

Emmett R. Callahan will be company manager for "Loud Red Patrick," for which Herman Bernstein is g.m.

Mae Desmond, who was the glamor girl star about 35 years ago of a stock company at the Orpheum Theatre, Germantown, Philadelphia (where the late Guy Kibbee and Hugh O'Connell previously were respective juvenile and heavy in a resident troupe), is now operating the Mae Desmond Children's Theatre, Willow Grove, Pa. The company plays touring dates, with Miss Desmond doing character roles.

Roy Jones, currently winding up the season as manager of the Wedge Summer Theatre, Atlantic City, will be company manager of "Sixth Finger in a Five-Finger Glove."

Brecht's Berlin Group Opens West End Stand

London, Aug. 28.

The Berliner Ensemble of Bertolt Brecht opened on schedule here last night (Mon.), despite the recent death of the noted German playwright. His widow, Helene Weigel, who has been running the East Berlin company personally, heads the company of 110, which has arrived in London for a three-week engagement at the Palace Theatre, under Peter Daubeny's management.

Tomorrow night (Wed.) Miss Weigel will appear in a BBC-TV discussion with playwright Benn W. Levy and John Fernald, principal of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. The trio will discuss the work of the Ensemble and of Bertolt Brecht.

Opening production of the season was "Mother Courage," which was originally staged by Theatre Workshop for last year's Devon festival. The two other plays in the repertory are "Trumpets and Drums," based on George Farquhar's comedy, "The Recruiting Officer," and "Caucasian Chalk Circle," written and staged by Brecht. Miss Weigel will appear in "Chalk Circle" and play the title role in "Mother Courage."

ALLAN JONES

Opening August 30
SHAMROCK HOTEL
Houston, Texas
Management
LOU IRWIN, Hollywood, Calif.

LOOKING FOR A SUCCESSFUL MUSICAL TENT THEATRE?

Well established musical tent theatre ninety miles from New York City. Draw nine hundred thousand radius forty miles. Have other interests. Will sacrifice. See for yourself. Now open through Sept. 9.

WIRE OR WRITE BROKER: PO BOX 1190, ALLENTOWN, PA.

WHY IS SANDRA DEEL UP IN THE AIR?

See Page 39

Phila. Orch's Season Shaping As Menu of Roast Beef & Champagne

Philadelphia Orchestra, with Eugene Ormandy conducting, will do the first American performances of Vaughan Williams' new 8th Symphony at the start of the new season. The vet English composer wrote the symph for Sir John Barbirolli (ex-N. Y. Philharmonic maestro) and the Halle Orchestra. Philadelphians will give U. S. preem at Academy of Music on home grounds Oct. 5, and follow with New York Carnegie Hall showcasing Oct. 9.

Philly orch, long noted for its presentations of the standard fare which Dame Myra Hess termed the "roast beef of music," will also do N. Y. pemiere of Carl Orff's "Trionoffo di Aphrodite." Met soprano Hilde Gueden is signed for this work, along with Rudolf Petrak and Kenneth Smith, with Temple U. Choir engaged for choral stint. Philadelphia audience will hear it Dec. 7 with N. Y. following Dec. 11. These will be the first performances in the east, but Leopold Stokowski introduced the work with his Houston symph last season.

Most of other programs will be standard menu, but two guest soloists, Brazilian keyboarder Guiomar Novaes and cellist Gregor Piatigorsky, will give touch of novelty. It's more than a decade since Mme. Novaes guested with the Ormandy crew and Piatigorsky's symphonic dates are a rarity (though this season he's also booked with the Philharmonic). Novaes, who switched to Herbert Barrett management when vet agent Siegfried Hearst left NCAC operation, is skedded for Carnegie date as well as Philly, same applying to Piatigorsky. Pianists Solomon and Alexander Brailowsky and Isaac Stern, fiddle virtuoso recently returned from tour of Soviet Union, also will do solo chores with Ormandy.

Another feature of N. Y. sked is the Verdi Requiem with Negro soprano Leontyne Price, who's been starred on NBC-TV opera, in one of her most important assignments to date. Miss Price played Bess in revival of Gershwin opus, opposite William Warfield, whom she later married. She's since catapulted into prestige longhair brackets. Nan Merriman will do other feminine part, Richard Tucker of the Met draws the tenor spot and Giorgio Tozzi the basso. Tozzi's regarded as a comer. For him, like Miss Price, this is a prime date. He's soon to make his RCA Victor wax debut in forthcoming release of "La Boheme," which Sir Thomas Beecham directed while in the States last spring.

Pierre Monteux, the octogenarian maestro, will guest-baton the Jan. 15 Carnegie concert, and Ernest Ansermet will be on the podium when the Philadelphians do Honegger's Third Symphony for the first time.

John Hershberger handling press for Gotham season for sixth year. Season biz is reported up. From standpoint of novelties intermixed with the standard fare, it shapes up as one of most newsworthy programs ever carded by the Philly ensemble. Manager Donald Engle will be in command for second season.

Schwieger Hustles Back From Europe to Lead S.F.

Kansas City, Aug. 28.

Hans Schwieger, conductor of the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra, has cut short a series of European engagements to take up the baton for the San Francisco Opera Co. in September and October. He will lead the Frisco outfit in "Cosi Fan Tutte" and "Die Walkuere."

Dates for the radio orchestras of Geneva and Zurich were cancelled and Schwieger and his wife cut short a Bavarian vacation to return to Kansas City and head for Frisco by Sept. 1. The Frisco company traditionally imports its guest conductors from Europe, and this assignment is considered a plum for Schwieger, his first on the Coast.

Announcement of the arrangement was made last weekend by C. Y. Thomas, president of the K. C. orch, who described the appointment as an honor for Kansas City and its orch.

Dr. Rennert Quitting Hamburg State Opera

Edinburgh, Aug. 28.

Dr. Gunther Rennert, artistic director of the Hamburg State Opera and producer of three Edinburgh Festival productions, said here he plans to sever his 10-year connection with the company after its stint here. He will work on the European continent as an independent producer, though festival authorities plan to bring Dr. Rennert back from time to time.

Hamburg Opera company planed in from Germany. It gave opening performance of Mozart's "The Magic Flute," before Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Salzburg Fest Mostly Mozart

Salzburg, Aug. 21.

As was to be expected in this Mozart anniversary year, the Salzburg Festival is top-heavy with works by the favorite son. Also present is the ubiquitous "guy named Joe" represented in this case by Johann Wolfgang von Goethe.

Premieres are all over. Tallying the results, this year's fest shapes up as a successful one, with high quality prevailing (despite some beefs) and no big surprises. By sticking close to Mozart, the fest seems to have gained favor since that's what most people come to see. No one has been heard bemoaning the absence of a new opera on the schedule.

Two announcements made news this year: the appointment of Herbert von Karajan as artistic director, and the approval of a sweeping plan for building a new festival area, including a big new theatre. Karajan's appointment has raised much speculation. Questions are being asked include what's he going to do, what heads may roll and whose feelings may be hurt. The dust hasn't settled yet, but no revolutionary changes can be expected.

Future festivals will include a couple of Mozart operas, and also a preem of a new opera as often as a good one can be found. Next year it will be Rolf Liebermann's "School for Wives." Foreign orchs will probably be invited to participate. Up to now, the Vienna Philharmonic has been the only orchestra heard here. They will continue to do most of the work.

As for the new Festival House, designed by Clemens Holzmeister, it is expected to be ready about 1960.

'Figaro' As Tee-off

The tee-off work on this year's calendar was Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," staged by the team of Schuh-Neher-Boehm. Director was Oscar Fritz Schuh, Karl Boehm was conductor. The plus factor was the all-star cast, including Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, Erich Kunz, Elizabeth Schwarzkopf and Irmgard Seefried.

"Jedermann" (Everyman) the traditional play done in the open air in front of the Cathedral, is still a Fest mainstay, thanks to Max Reinhardt's staging and Will Quadflieg's title-rolling.

A moving event was Bruno Walter's reading of the Mozart Requiem, with the Vienna Philharmonic, Vienna State Opera Chorus, and superlative soloists Cesare Siepi, Lisa della Casa, Anton Dermota and Ira Malaniuk.

Boffo Bolshoi Ballet

London, Aug. 28.

The British go in for ballet in a big way. So much so, that a line formed three days prior to the sale of tickets for the Convent Garden's engagement of Russia's Bolshoi Ballet Co. Ducats for the Bolshoi troupe, which makes its first appearance outside the Soviet Union here Oct. 3, went on sale last Monday (27), while the line formed the previous Friday (24).

The three-day pre-ticket sale queue broke Convent Gardens' prior two-day record established when Italy's Milan Opera Co. played the house.

ROYAL DANISH BALLET'S SHIPLOAD OF SCENERY

The Royal Danish Ballet, the oldest company on the Continent which makes it debut in this country Sept. 16 at the Metropolitan Opera House, N. Y., is licking a circus-type transportation problem. The ballet company has brought over 30 tons of scenery and stage effects on a freighter last week which was equipped with a special boom to swing the big pieces from ship to dock. The load is said to be about three times the size of the biggest foreign theatre offering in the U. S. to date.

The Danish company is booked for 17 performances in 10 cities in the U. S. and then ships the whole works back at the end of September.

Atlanta Starts Fund For Permanent Opera

Atlanta, Aug. 28.

A fundraising campaign to help establish a permanent opera and music center for Atlanta was launched last week during a meeting called by Edgar J. Forio, Coca-Cola Co. official and president of the Atlanta Opera Arts Assn. The drive is being sponsored by the Atlanta Women's Chamber of Commerce.

Contributors to the drive will be invited to an opening concert at the Tower Theatre (ex-Erlanger) Oct. 18, featuring a Metropolitan Opera star and an artist from the OAA and to four subsequent performances during the year.

Campaign got off to a good start via initial contribution of $500 by the Atlanta Opera Guild.

Boston Symph Leaves For Tour of Continent

Boston, Aug. 28.

Final contingent, 59 tooters, wives and staff members, of the Boston Symphony orch left Logan Airport (22) for its second European tour, which includes concerts in Russia.

The assembled 120-piece orch makes its debut in Cork, Ireland. Former Fire Commissioner Michael T. Kelleher, orch trustee, will make the opening address. The orch then treks to Dublin, Edinburgh, Copenhagen, Oslo, Stockholm, Helsinki, Leningrad, Moscow, Prague, Vienna, Stuttgart, Munich, Zurick, Berne, Paris and Chartres. The group will recross the English Channel to Leeds and London, returning to Boston Oct. 5.

Bucci to England

Composer Mark Bucci planed to England over the weekend to join his wife, playwrlght Peggy Phillips, currently story editor for Sapphire Films. They will attend the Edinburgh Festival, where Bucci's opera, "Sweet Bessie from Pike," will be produced.

Couple expect the birth of a child in December.

Inside Stuff—Concerts

Newcomer to the New York musical scene is Mario J. Petti, a 33-year-old insurance agent who's "always had the bug" and now is turning impresario. Petti's to specialize in vocal recitals and plans to operate in Hartford, Philadelphia and Baltimore in addition to New York. Impresario activities in New York are a rarity. Usually, the artist presents his own recital, paying all the expenses and gambling on the receipts. Joseph Conlin made a dent in this field a couple of years ago, but he ran into difficulties and faded from the scene. He had two sold-out houses with Renata Tebaldi and Mario Del Monaco at the Metopera, causing tradesters to sit up and take notice of him, but his success was only temporary. Later plans to tour a Spanish ballet troupe and present other recitals were cancelled.

Trouping Culture Into South America

Promising-to-Vague Is the Story on Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Paraguay, Bolivia

By PAUL PIMSLEUR

There's a definite link between politics and concerts. It's the middle-class of a country that bankrolls music, so the bigger the middle-class, the more dynamic a nation's musical life figures to be. Concert halls are more likely to be fiuued with "haves" than with "have-nots."

As their social conditions stand at present, the basis for the concert business is not very broad in the six countries dealt with here. A large part of the population must be ruled out from the start: the Indians are largely unintegrated and the poor people are not even potential customers. That leaves the relatively small middle and upper classes to support concerts. Most of the six countries, by the way, are governed by cliques combining wealth and military power.

These generalizations cover too much ground to be absolutely true. But they provide a backdrop to help view and understand the concert picture. Individual differences will come out ln casing the countries one by one.

In Venezuela, the boom is on. Money is gushing in from the oil fields. Earning and spending is freer in Caracas than in any other city ln South America. The amount of construction is incredible, changing the face of the city from year to year. The Venezuelan money, called bolivares, is the best in South America, with one bolivar worth about 30c.

The population of Caracas, center of the boom, hit the million mark not long ago. There's a frenzied spirit there, with many transients, lots of new European immigrants, and everybody racing full-speed in pursuit of the fast buck. In this mood, classical music is not a major preoccupation, and has thus far lagged behind the general upsurge. The music business should have a good future once the newcomers settle down, make a real home, and start taking it a little easier. Venezuela is moving toward the development of a U.S.-type economy, where the large middle class has the income and the leisure to go ln for pleasures like serious music.

In Caracas, the important manager is Enrique de Quesada, son of the Havana booking king previously described in this series. Quesada's Pro Arte Musical presents a full roster of events each season, including top names. Booking is done through papa Quesada in Havana. There is no series in Caracas and each event is sold separately.

Boom conditions permit high ticket prices. When scaled for a top attraction, the Teatro Municipal (cap. 1300) can gross 15,000 bolivares, or almost $4,500.

The small city (pop. 70,000) of Maraca iys Venezuela5s second-ranking concert town, despite its diminutive size. Located about 100 miles fro mthe capital, it has a very well organized Pro Arte series, solidly supported by the Townspeople, and aided by the Center of Agricultural Investigation. The series has 400 members, each paying 10 bolivares per month, which amount to a hefty $35 yearly. The series includes about 12 events per season, and is booked from among the attractions that come to Caracas. The director is Dr. Carlos Zozaya. The college auditorium seats 600.

Maracaibo is a big city, but the climate and general apathy weaken it concert-wise. A good promotional job could work wonders.

In the west of Venezuela, the remote town of San Cristobal had a fine little series which has been presenting about six artists yearly since 1946. The hall is the Salon de Lectura, which can seat 500 if they put ln plenty of extra chairs.

Red Tape Like Mad

San Cristobal is very near the Colombian border, making it seem inviting to cross into Colombia by car. But the border troubles are unbelievable. It takes half a day to go through the formalities for leaving Venezuela, and another half a day to wangle yourself into Colombia. It's exhausting and nerve-wracking. Border formalitles are made comparatively quick and easy when you fly.

Colombia's most important city is the capital, Bogota (pop. 750,000). There, Ismael Arensburg, agent for Quesada, is the leading impresario. He presents eight or 10 artists per season, mostly name attractions, in the governmental Teatro Colon (cap. slightly over 1,000). Arensburg also sells artists to series in other parts of Colombia..

The Colombia peso is subject to fluctuation. One peso is currently worth about 23 cents.

The hotel situation is quite rough in Bogota. The Continental is excellent and will make a good deal.

The best concert setup in the provlnces is ln Cali (pop. 380,000), which is enjoying prosperity as the center of a rich agricultural area. Cali presents virtually every well-known artist who comes to Bogota. The impresario there is Pedro Pablo Morcillo. The Teatro Municipal holds 1,000.

Medellin, about the same size as Cali, also has a series, but doesn't take as many artists.

Culture's Lady Friend

A couple of hours from Bogota by air ls Quito, capital of Ecuador. It is a city of 250,000, mainly Indians who are unfamiliar with Western culture. The potential concert audience is very limited in Quito, yet the Sociedad Philharmonica succeeds in bringing six or seven events per season. They get a strong assist from the private pockets of their 100 members, and Quesada sends artists as cheaply as possible. The lady mainly responsible is Senora Maria Uribe de Reyes. Though independently booked, most of the artists come from Quesada.

The Teatro Sucre in Qulto seats 1,000. The currency of the country is the sucre, worth about a nickel.

Most South American capitals have their own state-supported symphony orchestra. Those in Caracas, Bogota and Lima are going strong, bolstered talent-wise by recruits from Europe. Many musicians, especially from Italy, Germany and Austria, sign on for two years in return for their passage to the new world and a good salary. An orchestra is being organized in Qulto now, under the direction of Ernesto Xanco.

Lima, Peru, is a city of a million people, but its musical life is quite feeble. The impresario there is Alfonso Vargas y Vargas, who has been presenting Quesada's artists in Lima for 23 years. Vargas presents from four to eight attractions yearly, on a strictly single-sale basis (no series, no subscribers). Most attractions do two performances. Though Peru is a big country, opportunities for bookings in the provinces are almost nil.

The Teatro Municipal ln Lima seats 1,600. The Peruvian money is called soles, one sol being worth about 5 cents. The Hotel Bolivar is excellent, the Country Club plush.

The poorest countries in South America are land-bound Paraguay and Bolivia. Although some artists do perform in each, the audience potential is small and bookings irregular. Most of the booking for Asuncion (Paraguay) is handled through the Buenos Aires managements.

A brief statistical note will tie up the six countries we've lumped together, perhaps not entirely fairly. The rate of illiteracy in the six ranges from 45% in Paraguay to 80% in Bolivia. The rate is around 50 to 60% in the other four countries.

Dame Myra's Dates

Dame Myra Hess will do about 30 concerts in Europe between now and the first of the year, when she returns to the U. S. for her annual tour. The English pianist's American trek also takes her to the Coast. She's been sold out since last January.

In New York, Dame Myra will donate her services for the N. Y. Philharmonic-Symphony pension fund concert, which Bruno Walter will conduct. She's also to do her annual Carnegie Hall date, plus a repeat at the Metropolitan Museum of Art's new auditorium.

Literati

'Playboy' Sues 'Playgirl'

Playboy magazine has filed suit in San Francisco federal court against Playgirl magazine, charging trademark infringement.

The HMH Publishing Co., which puts out Playboy (and claims to sell 1,000,000 a month), asked that Walter Hale, Frisco publisher of Playgirl, be prevented from using that title.

Capote's Russo Whimsy

The New Yorker will publish the end of September and the first issue in October a two-part excerpt of Truman Capote's "The Muses Are Heard," dealing with his close-up on the "Porgy and Bess" tour in the Iron Curtain countries. Random House will publish the book version a month later. The mag segment is about 60% of the book's length.

Title stems from the whimsical Russian guide-interpreter assigned him who would preface much of his discourse on Russo-American relations with a pet phrase, "When the cannons are silent, the muses are heard."

It is said that "direct quotes" on two people who also made the "Porgy" tour—non-cast members—will be very unflattering to both.

Pub's Bid For Senate

Bernard G. O'Shea, 35-year-old publisher of the weekly Swanton (Vt.) Courier, has thrown his hat into the political ring as Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate.

His first bid for elective office in the November elections will pit him against the veteran U. S. Sen. George D. Aiken.

Jack Train's Autobiog

Jack Train, British comedian and character actor who made his name in the wartime radio show, "ITMA" starring the late Tommy Handley, has penned a 256-page autobiography entitled "Up and Down the Line" (Oklahoma; $2.15). Now 54 years of age, Train shunts between radio deejay stints and participating in tv panel games.

The book is notable for its sincere and modest approach to life and its author is as frank about his failures as his successes. Written in a breezy style, it serves both as a record of a varied career and as an authentic looksee into show biz through a performer's eyes.

Von Beroldingen Upped

Linton von Beroldingen, assistant managing editor of Hearst's (morning) San Francisco Examiner, has been named managing editor, succeeding the late William Wren. Von Beroldingen was brought up from L.A. Examiner about a year and a half ago, groomed for a job he now assumes.

Joshua Eppinger Jr., longtime executive city editor, appointed assistant managing editor.

Meridian Splits From Noonday

Meridian Books Inc. is continuing as publisher of Meridian, Living Age Books, and The Meridian Library. All original and reprint publications are issued in paper covers with sewn-bound binding for durability. Selected titles are also issued with hard covers.

Arthur A. Cohen, director of Meridian, states that his firm separated early this year from The Noonday Press Inc.

Ned Pines' Kudo

The Boys Clubs of America award to Ned L. Pines, prez of Pines Publications, for publishing "exceptional fine and wholesome comic magazines" was inserted in the Congressional Record by Representative Lester Holtzman of New York. Commented Holtzman: "This honor is most significant because of the considerable criticism that has been heaped upon this segment of the publishing industry in recent years."

Among comics Pines publishes are Dennis the Menace, CBS-Television's Terrytoon and Mighty Mouse comics.

'20th Century Drama'

"Trends in 20th Century Drama," by Frederick Lumley (Essential Books; $7), is an import written by former film and art critic for Edinburgh Dispatch. Tome surveys U.S. and European dramatists since Ibsen and Shaw. Author cites Sartre, Anouilh, Williams and Miller as writers on "the approaches of despair." He sees "Godot" as culmination of negativistic tradition. Lorca, Cocteau and O'Neill are lumped as writers "in search of expression." "Grace" sits upon Claudel and Eliot, in Lumley's opinion.

Writer finds the late Berthold Brecht "frigid" with "terrifying inhumanity." Rice, Sherwood, Odets, Maxwell Anderson, Barry, Wilder and Saroyan are treated briefly. Hellman, Kaufman & Hart, Kingsley, Sidney Howard and Inge get capsule attention. Lindsay & Crouse and Robert Anderson are among many contemporary American playwrights overlooked in the survey.

Price of book is high in view of quality of manufacture (done in England), and questionable permanent value of contents.

Down.

Boston Post Resumes

The Boston Post, after an eight-day suspension, resumed publishing Friday morning (24) with an eight-column banner in red on its front page, "A Happy Good Morning to All—The Boston Post."

Revived by three court appointed trustees after they were successful in obtaining a $500,000 loan from an unidentified "big New York band," the 125-year-old morning newspaper ran 28 pages, but had lost its comics to the Boston Herald.

Newspapermen's Books

Newspapermen are scripting three books to be published this fall by Holt.

Frank A Clarvoe, whose novel "The Wonderful Way" will be published Sept. 6, is associate editor of the Santa Barbara (Calif.) News-Press and has long been with Scripps-Howard.

Arthur T. Hadley and Jim Berryman are author and illustrator, respectively, of "Do I Make Myself Clear?", an expose of what politicians really mean by the things they say. Hadley is a former White House correspondent of Newsweek, and Berryman is the Pulitzer Prizewinning cartoonist for the Washington Star.

Bascom Timmons, whose biography of "Jesse H. Jones: The Man and the Statesman, will be published Sept. 17, is Washington correspondent for a more-a score of newspapers, including the Houston Chronicle, which had been owned by the Jesse Jones.

Brooklyn Daily's New Stock

The Brooklyn Daily which publishes five days a week, Monday through Friday, last week began sale of stock in the publication to its readers and the general public. Proceeds of the issue are to be used for "improvement and expansion" of the paper. Initial offering comprises 450,000 shares of capital stock at $1 per share.

Paper, according to the prospectus, expects to raise a net of $405,000 after deduction of $45,000 in salesmen's commissions. In addition other expenses such as legal fees, printing, etc., are estimated as no more than $30,000. Some 550,000 shares of the corporation were outstanding as of Aug. 9 out of 1,000,000 authorized.

Sale of the securities, in blocks of 25 or more, is limited to residents of N. Y. State. Firm's consolidated balance sheet as of April 30, 1956, listed assets of $215,860, liabilities of $75,252 or a net worth of $140,607 with no stock issued.

Following the fold of the Brooklyn Eagle last year, the Brooklyn Daily hired some of the Eagle's personnel and attempted to fill the void. Publisher Sidney Klass, who founded the BD in 1939 as a weekly, said the decision to expand operations came after a sixmonth experimental period just ended.

Vic Rosen's Many Biogs

Victor Rosen, when he completes the (actor) Charles Coburn and (financier) Otto H. Kahn bios, plans to take on another subject, the bio of Homer Davenport, the Hearst and Munsey cartoonist (1893-1912). Davenport's caricature of Mark Hanna—the bloated plutocrat in a silk hat with dollar-signs on his vest—became a popular symbol of ruthless greed and power.

Cartoonist daughter and only surviving child, Mrs. Gloria Davenport Shannon, has commissioned Rosen to do the job. The Hearst organization has also offered to assist in furnishing source material.

Another On Opera By Lawrence

Robert Lawrence's latest "World of Opera" will be published on Sept. 24 by Nelson. The book offers a tour of the entire opera world, spotlighting traditions, repertoire, singers, conductors, producers, managers, etc.

The veteran conductor has co-authored two previous books, "Metropolitan Opera Guide" and "The Victor Book of Ballets and Ballet Music."

TV To Blame—Again!

Relics of the old Scots Club, a now-defunct association of Scot scribes in London, are being handed over to the Edinburgh Press Club for safekeeping. They include a number of letters from the late Sir James Barrie and Sir Harry Lauder.

John Gordon, London Sunday Express topper, and himself a Scot, is one of the oldest active members of the London group. Lack of support caused its demise. New trend of Fleet Street journalists going home after working hours to watch tv is partially blamed for club's disappearance.

'Buffalo Bill' Into Braille

On the heels of Hamish Hamilton publishing the British edition of their "Buffalo Bill and the Wild West," Victor Weybright and Henry B. Sell are in negotiation with French and Danish publishers. A Swiss publisher also wants to put out a German edition.

The American authors' biggest kick, however, is the request from the British National Library For The Blind for permission to transcribe their book into Braille.

New Little Theatre Mag

Latest entry in the resident theatre publication field is Curtain Call, a monthly magazine devoted to Little Theatre news of local, regional and national interest, published in Harlingen, Texas. George S. McGregor is editor.

Others on staff include Angie Palomino, assistant editor; Alicia Perry, research editor; Jane Gautreaux, Michael J. Carmody and Maurice Cohen, associate editors: Luther Bookout, art editor.

Another TV Novel

Robin Moore, ex-flyer, foreign correspondent, now p.r. exec for the Sheraton Hotels and chain before that in tv, has authored a novel about the video industry. "Pitchman," which Coward-McCann will publish in November.

Glorifying Manhattan

An anthology of life in New York, "As I Pass, O Manhattan," edited by Esther Morgan McCullough, will be published by Coley Taylor in November. The giant anthology of 1,216 pages collects the work of most of America's noted writers of fiction and poetry on the New York theme.

The book also will draw heavily on eye-witness reports, letters, diaries, newspaper and magazine articles by people who lived the city's history.

CHATTER

The Banshees' 10th annual "All-Sports Tribute" to champions and near champions, past and present, will be held Sept. 27 at a luncheon meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria, N. Y. Bill Corum will present the champions, who will receive the Banshee award for sportsmanship. Chief Banshee Arthur (Bugs) Baer will introduce the Broadway headliners in the entertainment portion of the show.

Frank P. Lualdi, v.p. and circulation director of Pines Publications Inc., upped to exec v.p. Prior to joining Pines in 1951, he was with Look mag and Macfadden Publications.

Vet Cleveland Press editor Louis B. Seltzer has authored his memoirs, "The Years Were Good," which World will publish this fall, introduction by Bruce Catton.

Philip Wittenberg, w.k. in show biz as a copyright expert (he is trustee of the Copyright Society of the U.S.A., and also lectures at Columbia and NYU) has written "The Law of Literary Property," which World will publish in November.

United Business Publications, Inc. chartered to conduct a publishing business in N. Y., with capital stock of 200 shares, no par value. Saul E. Rogers, 580 5th Ave., N. Y., filing attorney.

Warner Bros.' eastern publicity director Charles S. Steinberg, who earned a doctorate at NYU for a paper on educational tv, employed some of the material for an article in the N. Y. Herald Tribune's Radio-TV Magazine.

Rube Dorin reviving his thrice weekly entertainment column in the N. Y. Morning Telegraph, with emphasis on legit news and interviews.

Amster Spiro, 63, died of cancer at his Levitton (Pa.) home after a long illness. Wellknown newspaperman was city editor of the N. Y. Journal-American from 1927-33.

"The Doctor's Secret"
By D. L. Dern
All Book Shops — $2.50
Pageant Press, 130 W. 42 St., N. Y.

SCULLY'S SCRAPBOOK

By Frank Scully

Hollywood, Aug. 28.

Diana Dors, England's answer to Marilyn Monroe, and George Gobel, Chicago's answer to Stan Laurel are perfectly matched in "I Married A Woman." They're both 5 ft. 5: He may be a few pounds heavier than she but he has slenderer hips. In fact after appraising the pair on Stage 7 of the revived and animated RKO Radio lot I'd guess his figures are about 32-32-32 and hers about 36-23-36.

At luncheon I asked Gobel if he had read any book I had written. Most liars would have said "Yes" and then rushed on to another subject before being asked, "What, for instance?" But he is a simple, uncomplicated, honest person and he said "No." Then I told him an old story of Jim Cruze, director of "The Covered Wagon," and H. L. Mencken, director of H. L. Mencken.

What? No Mooses?

"You know Menck," said Cruze, "I never read one of your books in my life."

"Well," said Menck. "I never saw one of your pictures in my life. That makes us both Elks."

This gave me a chance to explain that I had never seen or heard Gobel in a nitery, on radio, tv or in pix. So we too were a couple of Elks—except that I had read a great deal about him and talked to many who knew him well.

I explained in Palm Springs that in addition to the mortgage payments on your bungalow you have to have about $750 in spare cash and $30 a month for service charge to get tv piped in to your living room. Hence no Saturday night Gobel.

This brought the first expression of incredible bewilderment into the comic's otherwise serene pan. He naturally thought, except for the commercials, tv was free in America.

"If some social-minded character would put a reflector on top of San Jacinto Mountains, this Palm Springs monopoly would get competition," I said. "Then I could see you and what made your frustrating jokes and your guitar such a riot in the Air Force."

"I like Palm Springs," was all he said.

For a guy who has become a household word in the last few years, that was hardly an original contribution to the lively arts. Sam Honigberg, his p.a. for the last six years; Edward Patrick Aloysius O'Malley, his manager and partner; Hal Kanter, his tv writer, producer and now his picture director; Jim Allardice, Harry Winkler and Jack Douglas are certainly livelier people vis-a-vis than little George. It is quite possible that his wife Alice is too.

The Little King Among The Giants

But they all know their skyrocketing little star like a book. It is a simple book like the ABCs. George has applied it with country-boy wonder to the most complicated problems and has made the juggernauts of big biz look as foolish as Goliath ducking David's simple little slingshot. Everybody likes him. What's not to like? He isn't morbid. He isn't bubbling. He is just a nice well-mannered inoffensive boy.

Boy? He's 36 years old! But one would never remember it, he is so small, neat and uncluttered. In addition, for a lefthander, he has amazingly good control. He takes interviewers, autograph hounds and other props of notoriety with ulcerating calm. He does not seem to be impressed with the fact that he is now a star of pictures and television.

The men around him can rely on him and he in turn has every faith that they can be trusted not to ruin him. This is a unique analgesique. Most of them came from Chicago and stay close to him. They shop around looking for scripts for him and he will go to any lot that has the right one. Par didn't quite have it with "The Birds and The Bees." RKO Radio seems to have it in "I Married A Woman" and if it isn't there, Columbia next door or UI in the Valley or Metro in Culver City probably has it.

They move like a team of free-lancers, and in the present state of flux in the picture biz that's better than playing your loyalty like a boy on a burning deck. They're not wedded to any one lot. They're wedded to the guy who lost his bowling ball and had his hub caps stolen and is always a dollar short. He in turn is wedded to Alice, his childhood sweetheart and their three children.

Nothing Too Good For 'Em

Even around Helsing's Bar and Grill in Chicago he must have been the cleanest comedian in show biz. Though he had been a boy soprano on WLS and certainly had amused his Air Force confreres, there was no place for him in show biz when he was discharged. He belonged to the group which Bert Leston Taylor once described as the soldier boys who were told when they were discharged that nothing would be too good for them. And nothing was.

Only one agent would give him a tumble. That was Pat O'Malley. A giant next to Gobel, O'Malley is handsome, gregarious and made for his catalytic role. O'Malley asked Gobel if the kid had a car. Gobel had some sort of jallopy, so O'Malley book him with some acts that didn't have transportation. That way Gobel became a client.

But George was still the dollar-short kid to be pushed on stage at a benefit to keep an audience quiet till they brought on the girls—if they could find them. It would only take five minutes. He told his old army jokes, one from the Peloponnesian War, ran out of material and began stumbling and starting all over again. He was scrapping the bottom of the barrel. (Young man, I'll have you know I'm the colonel around here," "Well, you gotta good job, so don't get drunk and louse it up.") He stayed on for an hour. He was a panic. The girls never did show up and it didn't matter, for even the best legs couldn't have topped him by then.

An Orchid For A Veepee

O'Malley decided to drop his agency biz and concentrate on this bewildered imp. That was 10 years ago and there they are. It was thought with the demise of Bob Benchley, Will Rogers, Harry Langdon, Charlie Butterworth and the like that you couldn't hardly get comedians like that any more. Obviously Gobel was proof that they will keep coming from somewhere.

The unsung hero of this saga of the success of a sweet pea has to be the veepee at NBC who yanked Hal Kanter from Hollywood and gave him the task of writing a weekly tv show around ungorgeous Georges. Kanter, who is over six feet tall, towers over Gobel, much as O'Malley does.

Kanter has been around Hollywood since he was 18. In fact he supplied jokes to Jack Haley around the RKO lot years ago. The war reduced him to the Armed Forces Radio service and combat correspondent for Yank.

His release from service found him landing in the net of Goodman Ace on the Danny Kaye shows. Later he was on Der Bingle's team. From there he swung to scripting at RKO and Par. One of his earliest was the Hope-Crosby "Road to Bali." After that he had his hand in ten pix at Par before switching to NBC and Gobel.

As for Miss Dors, she has revived an old Hollywood custom of getting in the headlines. I had understood she was married to a salesman. Possibly of swimming pools, with wall-to-wall water for dunking news photographers.

I guess Sunday scuffles of this sort still sell papers and may even sell pictures, though I am of the old right wing school that believes what's in the cans does this best.

Broadway

Sugar Ray Robinson opening his newly decorated Cafe in Harlem Friday (31).

George Seaton, Mervyn LeRoy, Michael Redgrave and Wilfred H. White in from Europe yesterday (Tues.) on the Queen Elizabeth.

The Waldorf's silver anniversary Sept. 28 being celebrated with a $100-per-person dinner dance, proceeds to the UN Children's Fund.

The boys around the Lambs are wondering if that Nebraskan Terry Carpenter's pitch for "Joe Smith" wasn't a new kind of shillaber for Charlie Dale's partner.

Aileen Brenon planed Monday (27) to the Venice Film Festival where she'll help bally "Attack," which Robert Aldrich produced for United Artists release.

Death, as result of a fall, of Mrs. Frances Willson, better known as "Peaches" Browning, revived much of the Jazz Age memorabilia when Daddy Browning, Owney Madden, Larry Fay, "Big Frenchy" De Mange, NTG, Helen Morgan, Texas Guinan, scofflaws, speaks, Bernarr Macfadden, the unlamented N.Y. Graphic etc. were part of the daily scene of that mad era.

Restaurateur Al B. White, ex-nitery boniface and emcee, hosting a farewell for Paul Hartman, Hal LeRoy, Gloria Hamilton and other "Show Boat" (Jones Beach) cast members, at his (White's) Freeport (L.I.) roadhouse. This marks the 30th anni of the first time White gave (the late) Grace & Paul Hartman their first job, at $85, at the old Delmonico's, which he managed.

This is the time of the year that N. Y. banks by State law, must advertise delinquently claimed or long inactive accounts, in order to find their owners, and Connie Boswell, listed at her then 275 Central Park West address, apparently has "over $25" due her at the First National City Bank of N. Y., 55 Wall St. Last week Manufacturers Trust similarly SOS'd Olsen and Johnson.

With the new heir (named Paul Arthur for his late brother), the Arthur Schwartzes (Mary Grey) have sublet Louis Jourdan's large Central Park West duplex to accommodate the entire brood. Miss Grey has a 7-year-old daughter by a previous marriage and the composer-producer has a son, Jonathan, 18, slated to enter Boston U. this fall, with an eye to being a sportscaster and news commentator.

Since the Wanamaker disaster, Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. is very strict, hence the razed Lincoln, which Webb & Knapp (William Zeckendorf) has renamed the Manhattan Hotel, is having its renovation job very strictly enforced. Fire Dept. inspectors didn't like the debris, mattresses and other potential inflammables being strewn around on every floor of the 1,300-room hostelry while it is being facelifted.

Minneapolis

By Les Rees

Prom Ballroom had Stan Kenton for two nights.

Old Log strawhatter presenting "Glad Tidings."

Local Fox quartet remaining at Hotel Radisson Flame Room for fourth week.

Minnesota U Theatre closed summer season with "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Sim Heller, Northwest Variety Club Chief Barker, and wife back from European vacation.

Unless other shows are obtained later, legit Lyceum will open season Oct. 22 with "The Lark."

Tv's "Grand Ole Opry," playing first open air adte here, drew crowd of 12,000 at new baseball stadium.

Three of Theatre Guild's forthcoming season's five subscription offerings will be "The Lark," "Janus' and "Hatful of Rain."

Ending with Skitch Henderson's guest soloist appearance last week, series of five Minneapolis Symphony orchestra concerts "under the stars" at new baseball stadium was so successful it will be repeated next summer.

Buenos Aires

French Mary Santpere sensation of year at Maipo Theatre.

"Cat on Hot Tin Roof" reached 150th performance at Odeon Theatre.

Lucnica Ballet from Czechoslovakia opened Aug. 24 at Casino Theatre.

Impresario Juan Migliorini of Avenida Theatre celebrated 50 years in show business.

Faith Domergue (Mrs. Hugo Fregonese) offered contract to make important picture in Buenos Aires.

Jose Marrone celebrating 800th performance of "Christopher Columbus at Faculty of Medicine" at Comico Theatre.

Director Enrique Cahen Salaberry invited to direct film in Spain for producer Benito Perojo, with Alberto Closas as male lead.

Xenia Monty, who came here with Folies Bergere company of Paris, now abandoning Argentine burlesque and returning to France for film work.

SODRE, official State theatre in Montevideo, to sue Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini for non-fulfillment of contract to produce "Joan at the Stake." Claim is for $3,000.

Las Vegas

By Alan Jarlson

Hank Greenspun, Las Vegas publisher, to Israel and a speech-making tour.

Beldon Katleman back from a Gotham talent quest.

George Jessel bows tonight (28) at the Sahara as an extra-added to bill currently starring the Ames Bros.

Pat Weaver, Gen. David Sarnoff and Manie Sacks at the Sands following on-the-spot observation of GOP confab in San Francisco.

Will Cowan in to huddle with Roberta Sherwood anent a U-I short either during or shortly before her Mocambo, Hollywood, engagement.

Ken Murray, presently with Marie Wilson in "Blackouts of '56" at the Riviera, huddling with writers anent forthcoming NBC assignments.

INS newswire has officially established headquarters at the Dunes—with teletype senders and receivers and a facsimile photomachine on public display in the hotel's casino.

Dewey Martin in to visit with Sands topliner Peggy Lee prior to overseas hop to Rome and location of "10,000 Bedrooms." Joe Pasternak also casing Miss Lee for title role in "The Helen Morgan Story."

Lionel Hampton has a busy benefit schedule on deck during his fortnight stand at the Dunes. Tonight (28) he stars on a four-hour vid show over KLRJ-TV, Vegas, to raise coin to support a local concert band; next Tuesday he plays a special pre-Rosh Hoshana dinner show for the Las Vegas Jewish Community Center.

Berlin

By Hans Hoehn
(76 02 64)

20th-Fox preemed "Carmen Jones" here at Filmbuehne Wien.

Nearly every local paper gave some space to Cecil B. DeMille's 75th birthday.

German Film Producers Assn. addressed a letter to the distributors protesting against high star salaries.

There are currently five films in production at West Berlin studios, while a couple of others are shooting exteriors outside Berlin.

Swedish actress Maj-Britt Nilsson doing femme lead in Berolina's "Immortal Love" at the local Tempelhof studios. Geza von Bolvary is directing.

Pix playing the local G.I. circuit (five cinemas) recently included "Toy Tiger" (U), "Man Who Knew Too Much" (Par), "Day of Fury" (U), "Steel Jungle" (WB) and "Bold and Brave" (RKO).

Edward Winterstein, German vet actor who once belonged to Max Reinhardt's Deutsche Theater ensemble, observed his 85th birthday here last week. Winterstein's commitments are now entirely with East Berlin legit theatres and DEFA, East German pic producing outfit.

Philadelphia

By Jerry Gaghan

Former Police Inspector Franklin P. Luckman, to take over as manager of the Latin Casino.

Wild Bill Davis Trio breaking up. Drummer Chris Columbus and guitarist Floyd Smith to start own combo.

Joseph Helprin, general manager of Willow Grove Park, brings in Carnival on Ice (27), first such booking in an amusement park.

Lorne Munroe, first 'cellist with the Philadelphia Orchestra, guest soloist with Clarence Fuhrman Orch, Sunday (26) at Ocean City, N. J.

Chico Hamilton Quintet split up at end of week at the Blue Note. Outfit composed of film studio musicians, touring since May, return to jobs on Coast.

London

(Temple Bar 5041/9952)

Agent Harry Lowe sailed for N.Y. on the Ile de France for a five-week stay to negotiate talent deals.

Evening Standard drama critic Milton Shulman joined the BBC-TV Brains Trust last Sunday (26).

Skip Homeier in town to take up his role in Steven Pallos production, "No Road Back," for RKO release.

Norman Wisdom is to star in "Aladdin," Val Parnell's Christmas pantomime at the London Palladium.

Violet Farebrother celebrated her 86th birthday and her 50th year as an actress with a backstage party at the Globe.

Boston Symphony under Charles Munch and Pierre Monteux will give two gala concerts at the Royal Festival Hall Sept. 24-25.

Herman Levy, TOA general counsel, sailed for home on the Nieuw Amsterdam last weekend, after his Scandinavian tour.

Gracie Fields to appear in a commercial tele production of Sir James Barrie's "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" in November.

Assn. of Cine Technicians changed its name to Assn. of Cinematograph, Television and Allied Technicians and will henceforth be known by the initials ACTT.

June Allyson guest of honor at a Universal-International reception. She came in from Munich where she had been filming "Interlude," with Rossano Brazzi.

Barbara Bates replaced Ella Raines in Maxwell Setton's Columbia pic, "Town on Trial." Miss Raines was suddenly recalled to New York to be with her mother, who is seriously ill.

Joe Pasternak due this week en-route to Italy where he'll film a sequence of his Metro picture, "Ten Thousand Bedrooms," starring Dean Martin, Eva Bartok and Anna Maria Alberghetti.

Big show biz continent which sailed on the Queen Elizabeth last Thursday (23) included George Seaton, president of the Motion Picture Academy; British actor Wilfrid Hyde White, Michael Redgrave and Radie Harris. Mervyn LeRoy and John Aaron boarded the liner at Cherbourg.

Omaha

By Glenn Trump

Gene Pursell Trio held over at Hawaiian Room of Town House.

Dave Alexander's Combo playing at Happy Hour, downtown nitery.

Abe Slusky, majordomo of Playland Park, hosted press & TV at a party.

Bennett & Pattersen, comics, closed at Domino's Italian Village in Lincoln.

Lawrence Welk Orch slated for concert at City Aud Sept. 9 with seats scaled to $5 top.

Two Knights and a Miss (Larry Hinds, Buddy Graves, Corinne Ray) opened at the Gaytime Bar.

Clyde Bros. Circus slated for indoor performance in October at City Aud under Sertoma auspices.

Georgie Shaw opened at Seven Seas nitery Friday (24) for one week, with Nino Nanni following.

Harry Weiss, RKO division manager, convalescing in a Council Bluffs hospital following an auto accident which left him with several fractured ribs.

Frank P. Fogarty, veepee and general manager of Meredith-WOW, named to head service committees for Omaha's United Red Feather-Red Cross fund campaign.

Frankfurt

By Hazel Guild
(24 Rheinstrasse; 776751)

Lilli Palmer in Majorca to film "Between Time and Eternity," for Europa, with Willy Birgel playing opposite her.

Authoress Duchess of Windsor and her husband, the D. of W., guests of Prince Wolfgang of Hesse at famed Kronberg Castle nearby.

Erika Mann, daughter of the late novelist Thomas Mann, working on script with Robert Thoeren for Europa's "The Confession of Swindler Felix Krull," based on Mann's book.

About 80 U.S. infantrymen are playing themselves in the HD-Europa color film, "Mein Bruder Josua" (My Brother Josua), now filming in Germany. It's due for release Sept. 20.

French actress Odile Versois set for the lead opposite O. W. Fischer in "Herrscher ohne Krone" (Rulers without Crowns), to start soon at Bavaria Studios, with Struensee Films producing.

Cornell Borchers to do another German film before returning to the U.S. under her Universal contract. It's "Rot ist die Liebe" (Love is Red), now filming at Bavaria Studios, with Karl Haite directing and Dieter Borsche co-starring.

The new theatre season opens in Frankfurt Sept. 1, with three theatres, closed for the summer, reopening. The Kleines Haus has as its first fall production Arthur Miller's "A View From the Bridge," with Dietrich Haugk producing and Ekkehard Gruebler making sets and costumes. Elisabeth Wiedemann and Hans-Ernst Jaeger play the leads.

Miami Beach

By Lary Solloway

Helen O'Connell set for date in La Ronde of Fountainebleu week of Sept. 11, her first Miami area nitery date.

Ritz Bros. set by Fontainebleu for date in the La Ronda, next January.

Lucerne Hotel dropped revue policy in favor of one-nighters until winter season.

Betty Reilly, currently in Havana, into Jimmy Fazio's, Ft. Lauderdale, this week.

Murray Franklin's, busiest all-nitery on Beach, to be enlarged for season-time in December.

The Redcaps & Damita added to Sans Souci roster of acts for season. Jerry Lester another starter.

Vagabonds Club shuttering after Labor Day until quartet's return late in December from road trip.

Desi Arnaz and Lucille Ball due here in November when two of their filmed tv'ers with Beach locales will be telecast.

Sammy Walsh, spring-summer emcee for Blue Sails Room of Sans Souci, heads for date at Village Barn in N.Y. via winter season long-termer return pact.

Madrid

By Ramsay Ames

(Castellana Hilton; 372200)

"Mogambo" (M-G) is back at the Actualidades and the Beatriz.

Italy's Antonella Lualdi in Paris for George Lacombe's "Time of Love."

Gregory Ratoff working on a screenplay of Ian Fleming's "Royal Casino," here.

Darryl Zanuck's "The Sun Also Rises" crew halted further shooting until fall.

Mexico's Maria Felix arrived to begin Jose Luis Saenz de Heredia's "Si Fausto Fuera Faustina."

Ace matador Antonio Bienvenida gravely wounded in bullring at Ciudad Real last Friday, right in the midst of what had been, until that day, a triumphant season for him.

Gary Cooper in Mallorca for few weeks' vacation. All seems set but final signatures for him to play title role in "Don Quixote" here next spring under direction of Hugo Fregonese.

Ruben Rojo, who played in "Alexander the Great," and Jorge Mistral, who appeared in Spain's first venture into Cinemascope, "La Gata," are in Rome to star in "Slaves of Carthage."

Harold Flender, scripter of NBC's "Hollywood Story" for tele, turned down a big fee for writing new Sid Caesar show in favor of a few quiet months in Spain, where he plans to work on a new novel.

Life's Mary Leatherby interviewed Carmen Sevilla on set of Paramount's "Flamenco" (previously called "Adventure for Two") and watched "Pride and the Passion" company blow up a bridge in Toledo.

Abbe Lane, who has already shown her histrionic talents in two films she recently made in Italy, signed a contract with Spanish producer Benito Perojo to star in his "Susana y Yo" (Susana and I), which will roll here in September. Film will be shot in Cinemascope and Technicolor and distributed by C.E.A. Films.

"Pride and Passion's" actors Carlos Larranaga and Julian Ugarte chosen for lead roles in Julian Green's "South," a play about the American Civil War, which goes into rehearsal soon. "South" will open this fall at Louis Escobar's Teatro Goya, one of three cinema houses now being remodeled into legit theatres.

Chicago

Jerry Markbreit joining his dad Harry's Where mag.

Agent Dick Hoffman in Evanston Hospital for surgery.

Thrush Beverly Kenney heads bill for reopening of Mister Kelly's.

Sun-Times columnist Irv Kupcinet vacationing from his pillar for three weeks with a trip to the Coast on agenda.

Harry Knudson Jr., son of American's nightlife editor Charlie Dawn, copped a Ford Foundation grant for graduate study at Harvard.

Hollywood

Kirk Douglas planed in from N.Y.

Smiley Burnette off on midwest p.a. tour.

Spyros Skouras in town for meetings at 20th-Fox.

Abe Schiller named to advisory board of L.A. chapters of WAIFS.

Motion Picture Relief Fund received $9,650 from Ford Foundation.

Dick Contino here to launch first projected series of music schools.

Liberace and brother George back from their concert engagement in Havana.

Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong considering a tour of Russia after his South American trek.

Gene Kelly in town with a print of "Happy Journey" which he made abroad for Metro release.

Paul Marr, who operated a booking agency in Chicago for 30 years, opening a Hollywood office.

Dino De Laurentiis an honored guest at the Screen Producers Guild's second roundtable luncheon.

Leo Fuchs planed to Israel for three month tour with some of Yiddish-American legiters he's played here.

Sixteen foreign students were guests at four major studios under auspices of the International Committee of the AMPP.

Rome

By Robert F. Hawkins
(Archimede 145; tel 800211)

Stuart Hart now singing at Bricktop's Via Veneto night spot.

Lee Kamerns to U.S. on two-month leave. He's Metro's local rep.

Gino Cervi signed by Kaufman-Lerner agency, local Wm. Morris reps. Actor, wk in Europe, plans to widen sphere of activity.

Ezio Pinza looking for Italian play property during his extended vacation on the Adriatic coast. Wants it as vehicle for Broadway this fall.

Mike and Estelle Stern tossed birthday party for Louis Sobol at their suburban villa. David Niven, Henry Henigson, Kerima and other showbiz names present.

Francoise Arnoul and Georges Cravenne honeymooning in Rome, then Ischia. He's a top Paris publicity man; she just finished stint in "Paris, Palace Hotel."

Joe DeSantis is latest thesp to join the trek to Leghorn's Pisorno Studios for role in the Salzman "Captain Gallant" tv series. His last stint was in "Full of Life" for Columbia.

Vince Barbi goes to U.S. for vacation soon after over two years busy activity in Italo pic and tv circles, in which he's specialized as a heavy. Will be back soon to meet winter commitments.

Boston

By Guy Livingston

Elliot Norton, Post drama critic, inked by WBZ for radio program.

Eileen Rodgers closed week's stand at the Hi Way Casino, Fall River, Sunday (26).

First play of legit season here will be "Harbor Lights" at the Wilbur, opening Sept. 17.

The Vagabonds opened at Salisbury Beach Frolics Sunday (26) for a week ending the 10-week season of name singers.

Opening date for "Oklahoma" at rebuilt Saxon, formerly Majestic legiter, set ahead to Sept. 13 following a New England preem the night before.

Russel Crouse presented the Cape Ann Festival cup to Gene O'Donnell for his play, "Free the Bird," at Gloucester High School. Award was for best about Cape Ann.

Billie Burke opens in "Solid Gold Cadillac" Monday (3) at Lee Falk's Boston Summer Theatre for week. Bea Lillie will wind season in return date of "Beasop's Fables" Sept. 10.

Ireland

By Maxwell Sweeney
(22 Farney Pk., Dublin 684506)

Boston Symphony due here for concerts in Cork and Dublin.

Eddie Byrne pacted for role in Copa's production, "Seven Waves Away."

Abe Elliman, general manager of Odeon (Ireland), back in Dublin after biz trip to London.

Brendan Behan, who authored "The Quare Fella," currently finishing new play of prison life, "The Hostage."

Series of 5-minute Irish-language documentaries to be tagged on Universal newsreel distributed here by Rank Organization.

Our Lady's Choral Society's 250 songsters to sing two performances of Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius" with Berlin Philharmonic at Berlin Fest next month.

OBITUARIES

LLOYD T. BINFORD

Lloyd T. Binford, 89, retired chief of the Memphis board of censors, died August. 27 in that city.

Details in film section.

ART WANER

Art Waner, 42, orch leader, died of a heart attack Aug. 23 in Detroit. He was playing an engagement at the London Chop House in that city.

The maestro headed up the band at the New York Latin Quarter for 10 years and prior to that was at Leon & Eddie's, N. Y. He left the LQ post about a year ago to concentrate on his recording and managerial activities. He was partnered with George Albert in Gala Enterprises, which included music publishing, management and band booking. He recorded under the MGM Records banner.

His wife survives.

JAMES A. BRENNAN

James A. Brennan, 70, whose "Rose of No Man's Land" was a song hit in 1918, died Aug. 24 in Middleboro, Mass. A native of Boston, he began his songwriting career in 1910 after operating a commercial art studio in Boston. Among his other tunes were "Down at the Old Swimmin Hole," 1922: "In the Little Red Schoolhouse" and "When Will I Know," both in 1928.

A member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, Brennan was a pioneer in radio. His first commercial program was the "Imperial Imps," featuring Billy Jones and Ernie Hare.

In Memory of a TRUE FRIEND

ART WANER

Mickey Addy

MITCHELL LEWIS

Mitchell Lewis, 68, actor, died Aug. 24 in Hollywood after a lingering illness. In his earlier years he toured with such stars as William Collier Sr., William Faversham and Nazimova before signing with Metro as a screen player.

He served on the original board of trustees of the Motion Picture Relief Fund in 1925 and for the past few years as first vice president of the Fund.

Survivors include a brother and a stepson.

GENE ROUSE

Gene Rouse, 64, longtime newspaper and radio and announcer, died Aug. 26 in Visalia, Calif., after a long illness.

He launched his radio career as manager and announcer at station WOW in Omaha. He later was chief announcer for the Chicago Hearst stations and an announcer for NBC. Rouse had also served as news and program director for ABC.

Wife and daughter survive.

In Loving Memory of

JIM POWELL BUYS
MONTE MEACHAM
CURTIS PAUL

August 24, 1955
A Friend

JUST SCHEU

Just Scheu, 53, German actor, composer and playwright, died Aug. 9 of appendicitis in Bad Mergentheim (West Germany). In recent years, he had become popular via his radio lottery called "Wer hoert, gewinnt" (Who Listens, Wins).

Scheu created the program for radio station NWDR (now NDR) and it made him one of West Germany's top radio personalities. In former years, he had also appeared in German pix.

PHIL MURTAGH

Phil Murtagh, 55, veteran bandleader, died Aug. 18 at Butlin's Mosney Holiday Camp, Ireland, where his orch was playing for the season. A saxophonist, he formed his own combo in 1928 and moved into the Metropole, top Dublin terpery, some 25 years ago. Since then he was a fixture there every winter season. Last year his outfit topped the Dance Band Popularity Poll in Ireland.

His wife survives.

MARIAN MacDOWELL

Mrs. Marian MacDowell, 98, widow of one of America's great composers and founders of the MacDowell Musical Colony, died Aug. 23 in Los Angeles.

The Colony, in Peterborough, N.H., was founded as a memorial to her husband, Edward MacDowell, who died in 1908 after composing "To a Wild Rose," "To a Water Lily" and other noted songs.

WILLIAM H. CLAUSSEN

William H. "Bill" Claussen, guard at Hal Roach Studios and a former bodyguard for top pic names of the silent era, died of a stroke on his 70th birthday, Aug. 22, in Culver City, Cal. He also had worked as a guard on several other film lots.

Surviving are his wife, son and stepson.

DR. EDDISON von OTTENFELD

Dr. Eddison Alfred von Ottenfeld, 50, president of Vonna Productions, recording company, died Aug. 20 in Hollywood following a heart attack. He was widely known as composer and producer of documentary musicals and religious plays.

He leaves his wife, daughter, mother and brother.

WILLIAM J. HEWITT

William J. Hewitt, 60, district manager of the American Guild of Variety Artists, died Aug. 27 while driving to New Orleans from Bay St. Louis, Miss. A native of England, he once toured the U.S. in vaude with his wife in a Chinese magic act known as Ching-Ling & Soo.

Surviving are his wife, daughter, son and a sister.

KATHRYN O. ROSENTHAL

Kathryn Osterman Rosenthal, musicomedy actress and mother of the late comic and VARIETY contributor Jackie Osterman, died Aug. 25 in New York after a long illness. She was around 70.

She was the widow of Jake Rosenthal, w.k. theatrical manager and advance man. Among the shows in which she appeared in the pre-1920s was "In A Persian Garden."

SOL FOX

Sol Fox, about 50, died suddenly of a heart attack recently in his native Chicago.

He was the brother of Mrs. Nate J. (Vera Fox) Blumberg, wife of the board chairman of Universal Pictures, and also brother of Matty Fox, w.k. in the picture business. Two sons and a wife survive.

WILLIAM K. GIBBS

William K. Gibbs, 70, retired film publicist and fan mag editor, died Aug. 23 in Los Angeles, following a heart attack. As a publicist he worked for a number of years at RKO and Paramount. Later he became coast editor of one of the Fawcett publications.

Wife and son survive.

SAMUEL F. SACKHEIM

Samuel F. Sackheim, 63, for years a member of the Friars, died Aug. 22 in Hollywood after a cerebral hemorrhage. In addition to his wife he left two sons: William, Screen Gems producer, and Ray, former casting director at NBC.

BILL WALLACE

William Lally, actor known professionally as Bill Wallace, 48, died in Hollywood Aug. 20 following a heart attack. He was a film editor at Warners before turning to acting.

Father, three brothers and two children survive.

EDWARD H. WOLK

Edward H. Wolk, 63, owner of a theatre equipment firm, and board member of the Theatre Equipment & Supply Manufacturers Assn., died Aug. 23 in Chicago.

Wife, two sons and a daughter survive.

Robert Kass, 37, film-legit-ballet critic for Fordham University's radio station WFUV, died July 29 in N.Y. In addition to his radio work, he also reviewed films and tv shows for Catholic World and The Grail.

William John Bottell, 82, who toured in vaudeville during the early part of the century as Datas the Memory Man, died Aug. 23 in Croydon, Eng.

Gabriel Peyre, 77, for 53 years a viola player in the Metropolitan Opera orchestra, died Aug. 26 in Woodstock, N.Y., after a long illness.

Larry Layos, 46, president of Color Reproduction Co., died in Hollywood Aug. 19 after a lengthy illness. Wife, mother, brother and sister survive.

William T. Chavalas, 69, former chief of the Fox West Coast chain's decorating department, died Aug. 17 in Hollywood. His wife and son survive.

Mother, 75, of Marvin (Mike) Rosen, director of industrial relations for Loew's Inc., died Aug. 21 in New York.

Erwin W. Polkoske, 69, former media director of United States Advertising, died Aug. 21 in Chicago. Wife and daughter survive.

Stanley Jones, 54, Zenith Radio research engineer, died July 20 in Downers Grove, Ill. Survived by wife.

Wife, of Boston Symphony conductor Charles Munch, died Aug. 22 in Paris, after a long illness.

Wife, of Metropolitan Opera basso Louis D'Angelo died Aug. 26 in Jersey City, after a long illness.

Father, 76, of actress Sheila Manahan, died recently in Dublin.

MARRIAGES

Eleanor Orrey to Arthur Alsberg, Hollywood, July 23. He's a radio-tv writer.

Faith G. Kelley to Vincent G. Trotta, Bourne, Mass., Aug. 29. He's the son of art director Vincent Trotta.

Tammy Lee Grimes to Christopher Plummer, Denver, Aug. 19. Both are legit players.

Cornell Borchers to Dr. Toni Schelkopf, Murnau, West Germany, July 14. Bride is a film actress; he's a producer with Bavaria Filmkunst.

Dionne Van Hessen to Richard M. Rust, Bermuda, Aug. 27. Bride is a film actress; he's a stage and tv actor.

Merrie Therese Smith to A. Joynes Beane Jr., New York, Aug. 24. Bride was exec assistant to Eric Johnston, Motion Picture Assn. of America president.

Gloria Vanderbilt to Sidney Lumet, New York, Aug. 27. Bride is the actress-heiress; he's an actor and tv and film director.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dehaven, son, Hollywood, Aug. 17. Mother is singer Connie Haines.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sattinger, daughter, Hollywood, Aug. 19. Father is on Allied Artists' legal staff. Child is the granddaughter of Steve Broidy.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Debney, son, Burbank, Cal., Aug. 18. Father is production coordinator on "Mickey Mouse Club" for Walt Disney.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Feldman, son, New York, Aug. 18. Father is lighting director for the Perry Como show.

Mr. and Mrs. William O'Connell, daughter, Bronxville, N. Y., Aug. 22. Father, known professionally as Bill Edwards, is a script writer for NBC's Monitor and a former Boston deejay.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fadal, son, Waco, Tex., recently. Father is owner and operator of the Texas Theatre in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Potter, son, London, Aug. 23. Mother runs a marriage bureau; father's an author.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Schneider, son, New York, Aug. 17. Father is operations manager of WMGM.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black, son, New York, Aug. 22. Father is co-author of the CBS Radio "My Son, Jeep" series.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Simms, daughter, Atlantic City, Aug. 21. Father is a CBS Radio announcer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Katzel, daughter, New York, Aug. 16. Father handles disk jockey promotion for Decca Records.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Barrett, daughter, Aug. 24, New York. Mother is the former Mary Ellin Berlin, daughter of Ellin and Irving Berlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Spook Beckman, son, Columbus, Aug. 9. Father and mother (Marilyn Daye) both are WTVN-TV air personalities.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Lendacki, daughter, Columbus, Aug. 17. Father is WTVN-TV transmitter supervisor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Gigli, son, New York, July 7. Mother is film and tv actress, Sue Ellen Blake; father is photographer.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold B. Horwitt, daughter, New York, August. 28. Father is musicomedy lyricist and sketch writer.

Pix As USSR-U.S. Envoy

Continued from page 1

would say it will be a difficult thing to do altogether."

Not only would the Soviets like to see an exchange of films, but they're ready to initiate a broad interchange of technicians, actors, directors and others, according to Surin. "We see no reason why we cannot have an American film week in Moscow and, in return, a Soviet film week in the United United States," he said. "That would be the first step towards closer relations."

He emphasized that, in connection with such film weeks, large delegations from each country could visit the other and explore for themselves the facts of life in the respective countries. "I can see no reason why American performers and creative talent could not come to Russia and work in our films, while their Soviet counterparts go to Hollywood to work there," noted Surin.

"What we need is a turning point in the relations between our countries. Step-by-step, we can give one-another a different idea of what we are like."

Talks With Todd

As first Vice Minister of Culture, Surin is in complete charge of all motion picture matters in Russia While in the U. S. (he left Sunday), he conferred with Mike Todd on the Coast on the first Todd coproduction with the Russians which is entitled "The Grand Concert" and which is aimed at acquainting Americans with cultural achievements in the USSR.

Surin also had dinner with 20th-Fox prexy Spyros P. Skouras in New York and he sought to meet Motion Picture Export Assn. prexy Eric Johnston. Latter was out of town, so Surin talked with MPEA p.r. topper and v.p. Ken Clark. There are indications that Surin and Skouras discussed the possibility of coproduction.

"There is no reason why a company like 20th-Fox cannot send a writer to Moscow who might stay three or four months and work on a story," Surin said. "We want to coproduce, but at the moment I have no specific story in mind."

Skouras is planning to visit Russia in the fall. Johnston, too, is skedded to go to Moscow in the fall to discuss the sale of American films. The MPEA member companies last week decided to re-establish trading relations with the Soviet bloc, starting with Poland and Czechoslovakia. Surin said he was unaware of this.

Asked how much the Soviets would be willing to pay for a good American film, Surin replied that this depended entirely on how much the U. S. was willing to pay for a good Soviet feature.

The Russian, although aware of divorcement in the U. S., kept talking of an exchange of pictures very much in terms of conditions existing in the Soviet Union. Frequently, he referred to "the American industry" taking on a block of Soviet films. When it was pointed out to him that it was impossible to force American exhibitors to show pix, Surin replied:

"As long as Mr. Johnston comes to Moscow representing all the American companies and their films, I assume he'll think about our wish that the U. S. industry take on our films." Surin admitted that this was a problem that remained to be worked out.

'Eager' for H'wood

Under the Russian deal with Todd, on which a preliminary memo of understanding was drawn up Saturday (25), Todd agreed to take on two Soviet features in the U. S. ("Othello" and "Stage Door"). Surin said Soviet audiences were "very eager" for Hollywood pictures, and he talked very much in terms of the American public's readiness—even eagerness—to see the Soviet fare.

Actually, some Russian films have played in the U. S., and they are continually being imported via Artkino, the agent of Sovexport, the Russian export monopoly. The Soviet "Romeo and Juliet" recently had a run at the Paris artie in N. Y. Surin said he was aware of this, but that a much wider distribution would be assured by the American distribs agreeing to take on a quota of Russian features. The implication was that this assured wide circuit bookings.

Surin agreed that there were certain Hollywood films which the Soviets probably couldn't get. "We would choose from pictures on any list submitted to us," he said. "Of course, if there is a film that we want particularly, and that is not on the list, we would expect to make a separate deal," he declared.

No Hollywood pix have been sold to the Soviets since the war. In 1948, Johnston went to Moscow and closed a $1,000,000 deal, but it fizzled when the Kremlin backed down in the selection of films.

Asked whether Soviet authorities weren't concerned over showing Russian audiences the high standards of living prevailing in the U. S., Surin replied: "We are not afraid. After all, we are going in the same direction. Do you realize what our government has achieved, and how much more it would have achieved if it had not been for the war?" American observers believe, however, that Soviet authorities do keep this aspect in mind and that, in picking U. S. films, they would stick to musicals, fantasy and costumers for that very reason.

'Propaganda? Not Us'

Surin stated flatly that the Soviets today don't produce propaganda pictures particularly not those aimed at alienating the U.S. "Our pictures do everything possible to create an aura of international friendship," he maintained. "We are seeking a better feeling among people. Ideologicially, of course, we have not changed. But we are carrying on a policy of mutual friendship. We do not wage an anti-U. S. poicy at all." He added the U. S. public could convince itself first-hand of the validity of his claims.

In years past, quite apart from strong diatribes vs. the U. S. in the Soviet press, the Russians did produce a number of films satirizing American institutions, with particular emphasis on aspects of the capitalistic system.

The Soviet official said his country required 150 films a year from its home studios and noted that this goal should be reached "soon." In 1956, Russian studios will turn out 80 features, 350 documentaries and 400 scientific and research reelers. Of the features, between 75% and 80% will be tinters. Next year, the feature output should rise to 100 for the country's 5,000 commercial houses, which are supplemented by many cinema clubs and a host of 16m installations on the collectives.

In addition to the 80 homegrown films, the Soviets also expect to import this year between 100 and 120 features from the west. In addition, they're coproducing with India and Bulgaria and will do one together with Red China. Coproduction documentary with a West Germas outfit is lensing and another documentary, to be done with France, is in the offing.

Said Surin: "We would like to coproduce documentaries with the United States. Through such films, our people can get to know one another's mode of living."

Pic financing in the USSR is a ridiculously simple affair. The Ministry plots the number of films in the various categories that are to be made, and it assigns these pictures to the various studios which work out the budgets. Then, the State Bank provides the money. The following year's sked is again plotted, but without the slightest reference to whether or not the previous batch of films made money or lost it. "That's not of any concern," observed Surin. He left the impression that Soviet film production generally was profitable, but refused to state how much money the bank made available each year for films.

Fingerprinting Hurting Soviet-U.S. Relations?

The Soviet Union wants to see a broad cultural interchange with the U.S., ranging from the theatre, films and the ballet, to concert artists, painters and sculptors, says Vladimir Surin, first Vice Minister of Culture in the USSR. But that question of the American fingerprinting requirements remains a thorn in the Soviet side.

"Just because we want to establish this cultural contact, it doesn't mean we aren't confused," declared Surin. The fingerprinting procedure makes things difficult. We think it is a very unpleasant procedure."

"One of the funniest acts seen in years---" *

THE NOVELITES

*"One of the funniest acts seen in years is a wacky trio called the Novelites now playing at the Las Vegas Riviera."
James Bacon, Associated Press
Servicing 1211 Newspapers (AUG. 5).

Sept. 4th Concluding 17 Weeks

RIVIERA HOTEL, LAS VEGAS

A miniature musical combining comedy, special songs and great instrumentals—colorful, vastly entertaining material. Guested on TV with Ed Sullivan, Kate Smith, Martha Raye, Arthur Godfrey and Steve Allen.

Personal Management
NORMAN SCHUYLER and NICK CONDOS

Direction: ASSOCIATED BOOKING CORPORATION JOE GLASER, Pres.

NEW YORK 745 5th Ave. PL. 9-4600
CHICAGO 203 No. Wabash
HOLLYWOOD 8619 Sunset Blvd.